

Along the Way..

By PAUL BAKER

Noel Martinez, Clovis jail escapee, owes his life to cool heads that prevailed when he was surrounded and captured in brushy country near Capitan.

There were a good many drowsy-looking citizens in Carrizozo and elsewhere Saturday, following a manhunt that lasted all day Friday, Friday night, and part of the next morning.

Balloons are sometimes as hard to locate as the two-year chili who toddles out the back gate and disappears.

Copies of "Tales of the Tularosa" by Mrs. Tom Charles are again available after the first edition of the popular book were sold out.

Mrs. Charles authorized a reprint of the book and has copies of the book, which she will autograph for those desiring them.

A review of "Tales of the Tularosa" when it was first published stated: "It is a rich Southwestern item, a collection of fact and folklore about the people and the land in that section of New Mexico known as the Tularosa Basin."

Senator Clinton P. Anderson predicts a bright day for sportsmen in New Mexico when the lakes fill behind Glen Canyon and Navajo dams.

"The National Park Service has drawn up a tentative recreation plan for the lake to be created when Navajo dam is completed. The plan calls for the development of two administrative, boat-launching, picnic and camping areas near the dam on opposite sides of the lake, and a third area just across the border in Colorado at the upper end of the lake to offer similar facilities in that area.

Editor, News:

We are now receiving the Lincoln County News weekly and enjoying it very much. It's fun to know all the goings-on while I am away... Captain Mendheim and myself will be in Carrizozo around June 7 for a few days on the way to our new assignment at Fort Bliss.

WE SPOOFED

The News wishes to correct an error made last week. Miss Gail Peebles is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Means, not Henry Means.

The effect of last year's recession on the prices and output of copper in New Mexico is revealed in a letter to stockholders of Kennecott Copper Corp., from Charles R. Cox, president, which appears in the company's 1958 annual report and states in part: "During the first half of 1958, the U. S. economy was in a period of recession, and by May of the year operations at Kennecott's domestic mines had been reduced to four days a week, which was approximately 67% of the 1957 rate."

Three Captured Jail Escapees Given Stiff Sentences for Armed Robberies

It was reported Wednesday from Clovis that three young men, arrested in Lincoln County last week end, were given sentences ranging from 25 to 50 years for armed robberies.

They were Noel Martinez, Marcos Baez and Joseph Points. Their girl companion, Ann Willets, pleaded guilty to forgery, the report stated.

The foursome, driving a stolen '58 Plymouth, got only half way through Lincoln County last Friday morning on their flight to Mexico, when their car skidded off the road on Dead Man's curve west of Capitan, hotly pursued by State Police.

Road blocks had been set up on all county main roads.

Baez was captured in the car and Points and the Willets girl were taken into custody after a short flight. Officers A. J. Mahoney, James Clayton and Sheriff S. M. Ortiz making the arrests. Martinez fled south onto the Robinson ranch and was the subject of an intensive search by an armed posse that at times numbered 75 men.

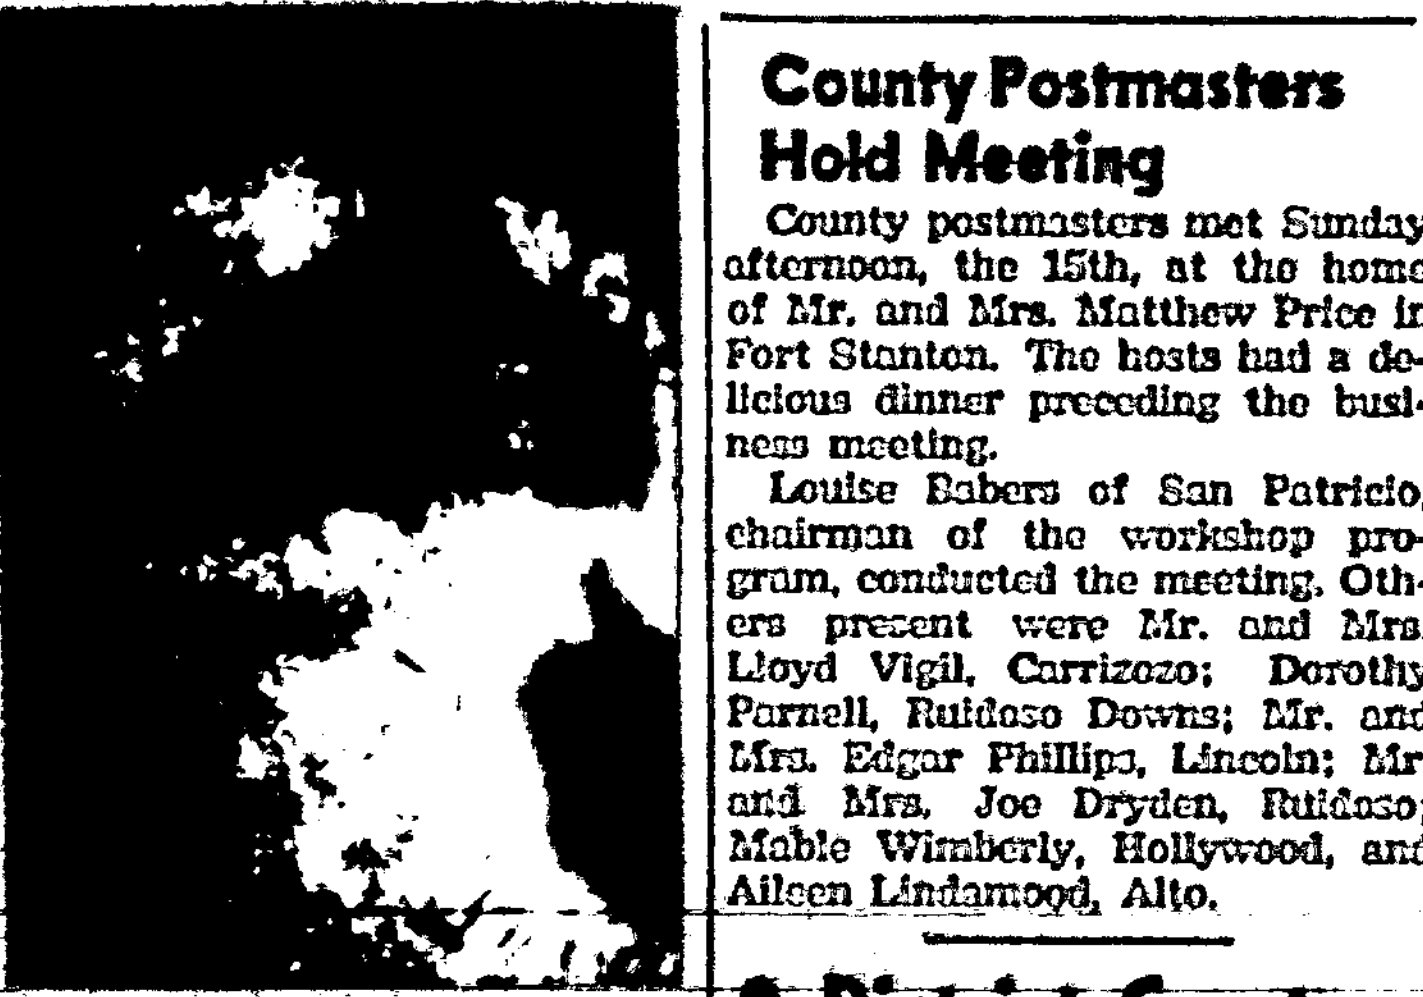

He surrendered Saturday morning shortly after 8 o'clock to deputies Friday Sherrill and Grady Eldridge.

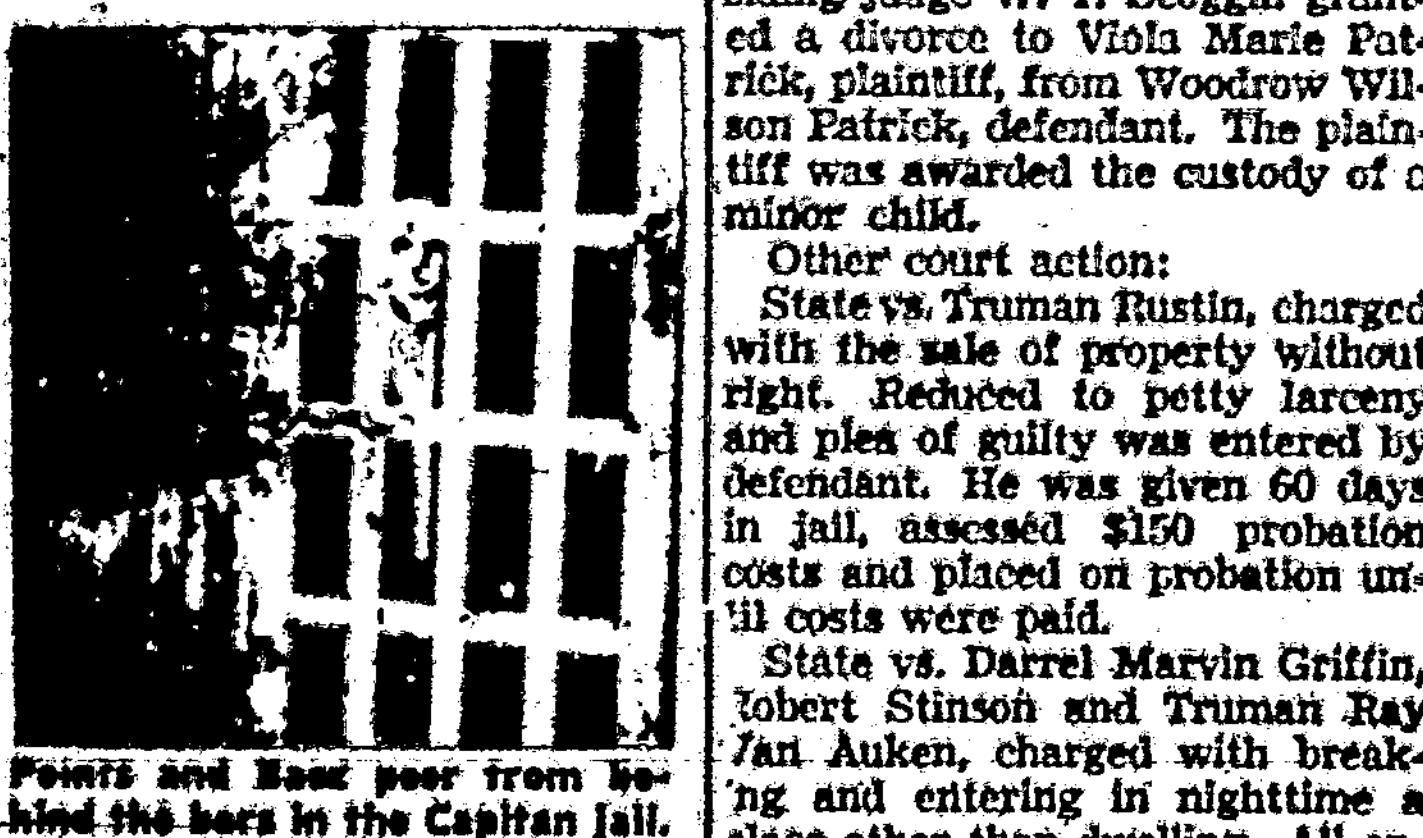

Grady Eldridge, left, Martinez, and Friday Sherrill in the Capitan City Jail shortly after the capture of Martinez. He surrendered in brushy country on the Robinson ranch, a mile and a half off Highway 300.

The year under review opened with world copper prices at sharply depressed levels. The average price received by Kennecott in 1958 was only 25.4 cents a pound, whereas the average for 1957 was 29.0 cents. Today, our price is 30 cents, domestic and foreign. "Your company's net income after taxes for 1958 was $60,120,573, as compared with $79,251,667 in 1957. Per share earnings in 1958 amounted to $6.44, as compared with $7.17 in the previous year. The decline in earnings was due to price. Stockholders received $5 a share in 1958, compared with $6 in the previous year."

The command has 130 "birds," ranging from F-101s, F-102s and F-105s to fighter interceptors, squadrons of F-86s providing air defense of Morocco, plus a team of F-100s currently working out at Wheelus, year-round Weapons Center.

Roundup Time Near For Stray Dogs

Chief of Police Orin J. Sears announces there will be a spring roundup in Carrizozo starting April 1. It will be a roundup of stray dogs running loose in violation of the town ordinance requiring both a 1959 vaccination and dog license tag.

"We held a vaccination clinic at the fire hall last Saturday and I doubt if one-fifth of the dog owners in town showed up with their animals," Chief Sears declared. "Eighty-two dogs were vaccinated during the day-long clinic."

Continuing on the subject of the spring roundup, Chief Sears informed the News: "Dog owners will be given until April 1 to get their pets vaccinated and licensed, and to provide some means of confining them to the owner's own yard. Pets running loose and without tags after that time will be taken up and impounded and kept only for 72 hours."

He calls attention to the town ordinance that prohibits any interference with or hindering any police officer in the performance of any duty of such police officer.

Los Alamos to Send up "Skyhook" Balloon

Los Alamos, N. M., March 13.—Weather permitting, a giant "skyhook" balloon was launched at the Los Alamos Airport about 6:30 a.m. Monday, March 16. The balloon is being used in connection with a study of cosmic rays by a group of Los Alamos scientists, partially assisted by the Guggenheim Foundation.

It was hoped that the balloon, with its freight of emulsion plates, will attain an altitude of 110,000 feet, remaining aloft for about eight hours. Emulsion plates are used to record the invisible flying particles that are known to be a part of the complex phenomenon covered by the general term "cosmic rays."

The balloon experiment is being conducted by the following scientists, among others: Frederick Reines, Glen Frye, Leslie Hale, Thomas Carroll, Alice Armstrong, William Sayer, and O. W. Stopinski. Visitors were not permitted on the airstrip, but nearby vantage points afforded a good view.

House Bill Liberalizes Vets' Tax Exemptions

The New Mexico Veterans Service Commission in Santa Fe announces that Governor Burroughs has signed House Bill No. 60. The bill passed the House and Senate without a dissenting vote and because it had an emergency clause, it immediately became a law when the governor signed it.

House Bill No. 60 is the extension of tax exemption to those New Mexico veterans who served any part of their 90 days service during a wartime period.

There is a rider clause which provides that veterans found eligible under this bill will be permitted to receive their exemption this year even though the deadline for tax assessment has passed. Of course, the tax assessor will be able to accept the exemption only up until the time when he has to turn his records over to the treasurer (probably May or June).

Therefore, the Veterans Service Commission urges that all veterans who were previously denied the exemption because of the 90 day clause, to reapply immediately for their certificate in order that they may receive it in time for this year.

Such veterans are urged to make their application.

Jimmy Lucero, Jr., was home for the week end visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Lucero Sr. Jimmy is working on a ranch near Capitan.

WILL HARRISON'S Inside the Capital

TRIVIA FEATURES 1959 LEGISLATURE

Santa Fe, March 18—The New Mexico legislature of 1959 legalized the use of peyote in Indian rituals which had been banned by the Indians themselves, denied the people at large the right to buy melon, an ice cream type food, established a state park honoring the Mexican bandit Pancho Villa.

The law-makers refused to outlaw pay toilets in beer joints which had been attacked as a means of entrapment, raised the pay of judges $2500 a year but refused a 10-cent advance for people working at 65 cents an hour, approved special license plates for radio station operators, such as Gov. John Burroughs, and all their employees, authorized spanking of school children but saw it vetoed by the governor, and heard Senator Curtis, the only person in New Mexico engaged in selling "lake salt" appeal that lake salt sales be exempt from the sales tax.

LOBBYING, LIQUOR WERE HIGH LIGHTS

Legislative faces were reddened in the public disclosure that the liquor lobby was providing the legislative liquor; there was stammering and explaining when one of the state's major public utility officers was noted lobbying for a salary increase for John Miles and others on the public service commission who control the rates and operations of public utilities; aidliners and people in the gallery found first class entertainment in the bitter personal feuding between Democrats Anderson Carter, Portales representative, and Governor Burroughs of Portales.

A last hour act of the legislature set up $49,000 for a civil defense program in the state which was commonly regarded as an act to create a job for Adair Gossett of Carlsbad, a jeweler and Democratic chairman of the big Carlsbad precinct.

MUNICIPAL TACTICS SEEN IN SESSION

The legislature experienced strong-arm tactics such as not seen here in recent decades.

A measure calling for a ton-mile tax on trucks which would have raised some $5 million and which would have taxed the big commercial carriers and the little ones in relation to their use of the roads was killed by a device in which the truck bill was lumped with three unpopular tax-increase proposals and the package placed before the legislators for action.

A DOUBLE PLAY ON HOSS RACES

A group from Dona Ana county stormed up to the capitol in the late days of the session demanding fulfillment of a campaign promise to give local people the right to reject the installation of pari-mutual betting race tracks.

The governor responded by sending a special measure to the house calling for such local control. The house passed the measure and the Dona Ana people went home happy.

When the bill hit the senate Tom Montoya who works for the governor as director of the ports of entry, Johnny Walker who works for the governor as commissioner of revenue, and J. O. Gallegos, a Socorro county political leader, went among the senators and killed the bill. Thus, the governor won credit for trying, the senate was blamed for turning down the proposal.

$49,000 PROVIDES A JOB FOR GOSSETT

The biggest muscle effort of all was the final night when Governor Burroughs took a chair in the house and was accused of directing the action in which the civil defense measure creating a job for the Carlsbad precinct chairman was called back and passed after having been irrevocably killed according to the rules of the legislature since 1912.

Carter accused the governor of threatening to veto post measures of house members unless they supported the civil defense appropriation. As it finally came off, $49,000 was set up for the project. The original request of the governor was $240,000.

LEGISLATURE AIDS QUAY AND COLFAX

It was the trivia, the fighting, and the strong-arm stuff that will be remembered as featuring the 1959 session of the legislature.

The legislature approved a water bill which promises to reactivate the coal mining industry in Colfax and approved expenditure of $5 million for a dam on the Canadian river in Quay county, action which should help both of those hard hit areas. Farmington's growth was given a go-ahead signal by laws broadening the range of the municipally owned Farmington electric utility.

And city governing bodies were given the right to levy a one percent sales tax which should relieve the cities of their short money situation.

HONDO CORNER

By FREDDA PERRY

Last Friday, March 13, 28 students from the physics and senior science classes traveled to the White Sands Missile Range, where they were driven to various stations and watched one guided missile shot off.

The Hawk was a successful shot. Another missile, the Nike-Hercules, was forced to remain on the ground, due to adverse weather conditions.

The students and sponsors enjoyed lunch in the Navy Enlisted Men's Club and then made their tour, which included the Sea Station and a radar station.

Transportation around the range was provided by an Army bus, Sgt. Miltman, director. Two captains at the Hawk and Nike stations explained the shoots and various functions of the missiles.

Sponsoring the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCrady and J. A. Hamilton. Pete Salcido furnished the bus for the trip.

Students who went were James Sanchez, Josephine Salcido, Nellie Sanchez, Cornelia Salcido, Johnny Gomez, Lydia Chavez, Pauline Herrera, Placido Chavez, Danny Chavez, Bud McCrady, Martha McKnight, Patsy Joiner, Rita Salcido, Hope Silva, Lydia Torres, Ursula Montoya, Reyno Montes, Beatrice Pacheco, Beatrice Sanchez, Genevieve Chavez, Juanita Torres, Ruben Romero, Richard Sanchez, Tony Fresquez, Victor Pineda, Alfredo Montes, Monroy Montoya and Fredda Perry.

Prescilla Sanchez and Leroy Gomez, two freshmen, were selected as Hondo High's top citizens last week. Prescilla is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sofio Sanchez, and Leroy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gomez. Both students have been on the scholastic and citizenship honor rolls throughout the entire school year and both take part in many activities.

There will be no school this Friday, March 20, as the teachers are to attend the Southeastern District teachers' convention in Carlsbad.

Also this week end, five members of the Hondo High Student Council will travel to Farmington to the state convention. Mr. Hamilton will sponsor the trip and students going are Danny Chavez, Beatrice Sanchez, Placido Chavez, Annie Nunez and Victor Pineda. They will leave Thursday, travel via Albuquerque and arrive back home Sunday.

The 1953 Boys' State delegates were chosen last week. Douglas McKnight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jud McKnight, was selected, and his alternate is Anthony Fresquez, son of Porfirio Fresquez. Boys' State will be at the New Mexico Military Institute from June 2 through June 9.

Bye, bye—see you next week!

JEST IN FUN

"Well, Willie, your sister and I are going to be married," beamed the young man. "How's that for news?"

"Shucks!" retorted Willie, "You just finding that out?"

An old gent was passing a busy intersection when a large St. Bernard ran by and knocked him down. An instant later, a foreign sports car skidded around the corner and inflicted more damage. A bystander helped the old man up and asked if the dog had hurt him.

"Well," he answered, "the dog didn't hurt so much, but that god-darned tin can tied to his tail nearly killed me!"

An off-beat psychiatrist we heard about advertises: "Satisfaction guaranteed or your mania back."

MEXICO TODAY

By KARL GUTHMANN

(Former publisher of the Rey, N. M. "Record")

Building activity, construction of new homes, apartments and motels, was going in high in Guadalajara a year ago when my visit lasted for more than five months. Prediction was then made that soon there would be ample quarters to care for the swelling tide of tourists, but now—18 months later—there is increased building activity and the hunt for suitable living quarters by incoming Americans is still in frenzied action.

Although the American firm of Woolworth overcame local objection in retaining its trade name here without added Mexican name connection by going to higherups in the national capitol they were not so fortunate when it came to dispensing with the siesta hour, the period from two to four o'clock each afternoon when all reputable places of business close for the rest hour.

The American chain store outfit was told that it must comply with the custom and close shop for the two-hour period when employees would tie themselves to the soft drink shops and sandwich cafes to lull in conversation. This in place of the coffee break in vogue in Estados Unidos where the time tab is charged to the boss.

Those close to the new president—Adolfo Lopez Mateos—tell of his plan to induce foreign capital to establish manufacturing plants of mass production on this side of the border and thus give employment to the unemployed mass of workers who now eke out meagre livelihood by made-labor. An instance of this is the practice in any sort of building, of the laborer carrying a bucket of mortar, a pile of bricks or other building material atop his head and climbing a ladder to the top of a two or three-story building. Hoists and wheelbarrows are extremely out of place.

While the government realizes a goodly sum every year from duties on imports from foreign countries, that affords no employment for the job-hungry commoner. Hence the effort to induce manufacturing plants to locate here and give employment to the laborer whose wage, far below that of the American worker, will enable this country to export at a profit. In recent years imports into Mexico have far exceeded the exports and this has caused grave alarm among leading economists.

Coming of Jose Cardinal Garibi Rivera to his home city of Guadalajara after a Papal conference in Rome called for elaborate reception a few weeks ago and the throngs which lined the route of travel of the first cardinal in Mexico's history numbered into scores of thousands. Artistic floral displays and welcoming banners floated from every vantage point as orchestras and Mirachi bands played pieces dear to Mexican hearts.

The land of two extremes with no middle class (you're either on top or at the bottom of the ladder) is apparent to the observing tourist. While the commoner eats on tortillas and frijoles with an occasional delicacy of an egg, those at the top dwell in veritable mansions, drive the best of cars—including monstrous Cadillacs, New Yorkers and Lincolns—and live on the best of fare.

Teensters Union No. 1
By FAN REID

Hi Teensters! Let's get back to normal again, OK? Let's just start off with a letter.

Dear Pam: Can't you take a hint that we teenagers don't like this deal about dancing? We are going to dance whether anyone likes it or not and even some that are not supposed to do it anyway, so let's face it, dancing is here to stay and if done in the right way, it is a wonderful thing—???

Dear ???—I think you have expressed the opinion of teenagers. I completely agree with you that we have talked enough about dancing—it's like the weather, everybody talks about it but the weather just keeps right on going—! Besides, in case any of you have noticed almost all of the letters have been from adults. I have a very good adult friend who told me the doctors told him to dance and he said wouldn't take his wife along if he thought it was wrong. Well, thanks loads for the letter ???—Pam.

I'm very sorry if I didn't publish your letter about dancing but I am sure most viewpoints have been expressed—so I would like to write you a letter.

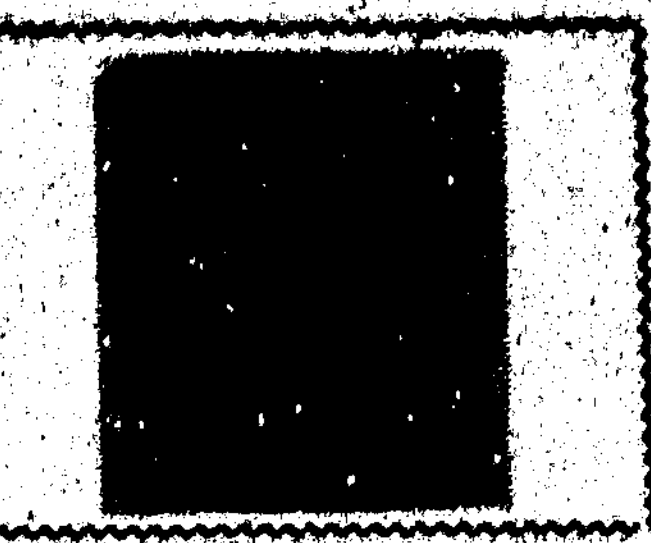

Dear Lovelorn: I would love to hear from you very much. All about your problems, broken hearts and your newest "steadies," or any other problem. We of the Teensters Union would welcome them all and give you the benefit of our "experience"—well, at least, our opinions. So please write me a letter; but please make them readable—and read over what you write.

Some of them I receive don't even make a bit of sense and I know they must have a problem because of the way it sounds and the little bit of sense I can make out of them. So please write me an "old-fashioned" lovelorn letter. Thanks loads—Pam.

P.S. This letter isn't only for lovelorn; but I would like to hear from the rest of you too.

I received five letters this morning—just before "deadline," one of them was a letter to the "Editor of Teensters' Union No. 1" and was not about dancing—in fact it was just the type of letter that I've been looking for. The other four letters were about dancing. I appreciate these letters but, if you do not mind, I'll leave them out of the column this time because most of the kids have asked for a "change"—and since this column is really intended for "Teenagers" (not that we don't welcome any and all letters from adults too—so do) but these letters were pretty much the same thing—quoting from the Bible both for and against dancing and so forth. May I take the liberty of writing to you personally—the three of them that included their real name and address? In the meantime I'd like to publish the other letter that I think will interest the teensters.

Dear Editor of Teensters' Union: I'm 19 years old—about to depart from the "vale" of teendom and I want to say goodbye with this letter. I want to say goodbye to a period of life that, I think, could well have been dispensed with. During this six-year period we are neither men or women, neither boy nor girl—but we, of course, think we are grown men and women—until the going gets a little rough and then we revert to being babies! Yes, I mean babies! We cry all over the place about how everyone is mistreating us and what a tough time we're having and so forth.

We're not loyal to anyone or anything—not even to each other. We seem to think our teachers are there in class as our special tormentors because they are trying to make us think—and therefore uncomfortable. We have nothing constructive to offer the world—so we make up for it by being as destructive as possible. The music we go for is cheap, noisy and disgusting. The food we eat usually has no food-value whatsoever, the things we talk about are inconsequential—and we expect everyone to stop and "hang" on our every word.

We make no attempt to learn anything in school—which would not be so bad except if there happens to be one "mature" person about our age (which is very rare, I assure you) we make it impossible for that person to study or to have a serious thought! You are probably wondering why I'm writing this way and I'll tell you.

One year at college has done it! Here they don't put up with teen-agers. Here, we're expected to act like adults. Here we're supposed to contribute something to class, to school and to our community. The ones that remain in college have grown up enough to know that they have an awful lot of "growing to do!"

We begin to realize just what it means to have an education. We respect our teachers—and admire them for the job they have chosen—one of the hardest! I look back on these teenage years with horror! Oh, I thought I was having a good time. I made life miserable for a lot of people, my parents, my teachers and even my friends; and now, all I can say is thank! Thanks to those people in my life that were able to endure me—and tried to pound some sense in my head! The only regret is that you didn't start pounding sooner and you didn't pound a little harder—"Still a Teenager and not proud of it!"—Jack Adams.

P.S. Just one last word, about dancing—if you don't know how to dance well (not rock 'n roll) you're going to miss a lot of wonderful opportunities. All the fraternities and sororities have real balls where knowing how to dance well is an asset; but it costs you a minimum of five dollars an hour to learn to dance in the studio. I'd give my "yo-tooth" to know how to do a decent fox trot or waltz!—As b/4, Jack Adams.

Dear Jack: Your letter was startling to say the least! I'd be tempted to call you a "traitor" to teen-agers; but perhaps you have something to say that will help us—what say, teensters?—Pam.

Remember this, the reason a dog has so many friends is because his tail wags instead of his tongue. See you next week—Pam.

P.S. Thanks, Lela for the wonderful letter—I'm sorry I can't publish it; but I'll respect your wishes. Thanks too, for the birthday present. I'll write you. Love—Pam.

CAPITAN

By MARGARET RENCH

Mrs. Pauline Britton, sponsor of the Woman's Club Style Show, April 9, which will be held at the Capitan school lunch room in the cafeteria, requests that all desiring to enter, give their names and description of the garment they are going to wear to Mrs. W. W. Hall, president of the Woman's Club, not later than April 2.

Grandmother Maryfield came home from the Medical Center in Roswell where she had been ill for several days. She underwent surgery but at this time she is recuperating and enjoying the visits of her many friends, though she is in bed. Her daughter Cynthia, of Arizona, will stay with her until she is able to be about again.

Mrs. Sarah Fisher of El Paso has been a guest of Mrs. Mayne Grelson for the last three weeks and expects to be here for two weeks more. Sarah's home was in Capitan for many years, therefore she has many friends here. Since she does not have a car, Ethel Howard took her over town to show her Capitan. All are glad to see her again.

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce met at the City Hall at 7:30 p.m. for a potluck dinner. It was a very successful meeting, with many plans discussed for the future of our village.

The Capitan women played basketball with the high school girls last Friday here at the school for the benefit of the PTA funds. It was a tremendous success and everyone enjoyed it. They are going to play again soon. The two men "cheerleaders" made a big hit with their antics.

Capitan Frosh Repeat Over 7th and 8th Team

By C. JONES AND LOCKHART

The Capitan Freshman tangled with the 7th and 8th grade team Friday, Feb 6, at Capitan in an intramural basketball game. The Freshmen had an advantage in height and used it to full advantage earning a victory, 52 to 33.

The Freshmen jumped to an early lead in the first quarter and were never pressed throughout the game. The 7th and 8th had cold second and third quarters scoring only 6 and 9 points respectively.

Tillman and Zamora were the big guns for the Freshmen, scoring 13 and 11 points respectively. Griego and Silva led the 7th and 8th with 12 and 11 points.

The Freshmen victory was the third out of four contests between the two teams, with the 7th and 8th winning one previous contest by a close score.

Lumber Co. Donates Roof Materials for Smokey Museum

The Pecos Valley Lumber Co. of Roswell donated all of the shakes for the roof of the Smokey Museum. This represents a considerable sum of money, about $400.

Thank you most sincerely. We assure you we appreciate this far more than words can express. An anonymous donor in Lincoln gave $5. Thanks so very much.

Many Prizes Awarded At Smokey Dances

The last Smokey dance was a success, thanks to each of you who made it so. Those who donated sandwiches were, Jenkins of the Jenkins General Store, Dorothy Guck, Add Holmes, Pearl Soderback and Margaret Rensch. Rensch gave coffee as usual.

Our next dance will be March 28 at the American Legion Hall, with music by the White Mountain Ramblers.

They gave a lovely prize to the best waltzing couple, won by Mr. and Mrs. James Bonnell. Second were Mr. and Mrs. Vance-Benton and third Mr. and Mrs. Morris Proctor of Pecos.

Then, three nice door prizes were given as usual. Everyone had a good time. Be sure to attend our next dance and bring your friends.

Capitan Seniors Visit New Mexico Legislature

By SALLY CLOUD

The Capitan Senior Class journeyed to Santa Fe, Friday, March 6, to visit the New Mexico Legislature, now in session. The group left Capitan at 8 o'clock Friday morning and returned about 7 o'clock that same evening.

The Seniors visited the Senate during the morning session and heard the debate on the track option bill. The class's interest was captured and held by the senators' orations in favor of and against the bill. The Seniors also listened in on the House of Representatives. They noted the strict parliamentary procedure followed by both houses of the legislature.

A tour of the capitol building from basement to top was made. The students were shown the modern equipment used to operate the government's business and they had a demonstration of its work. They visited several of the public offices and saw the office staffs in operation.

During their lunch hour the Seniors spent some time sightseeing.

The trip was made by car and the sponsors were Bill Hall, C. A. Botsford, Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Jones, and Mrs. Pauline Britton.

Capitan Woman's Club Nominates Officers

What did the first telephone look like? This display traces the history of telephone instruments. It is one of many displays to be seen in Phonorama, Mountain States Telephone's mobile exhibit.

Word has been received in Carrizozo by Russ Eddings, local manager for Mountain States Telephone Company that Phonorama, a mobile display of historical and educational value, has been scheduled for Carrizozo about April 1.

Consisting of 12 displays and a historical exhibit of the evolution of the telephone, Phonorama was conceived by Mountain States as being the most practical way of letting people in New Mexico witness some of the scientific marvels of the last century.

Phonorama is a 42-foot trailer specially built and equipped with everything from the early models of the telephone up to and including stereophonic sound which was an invention of the Bell Telephone Company.

Ordinarily Phonorama is opened for groups of school children in the morning and to the adult public and to high school groups in the afternoon and early evening. Telephone employees from here and nearby communities will act as guides and conduct small groups through the various exhibits, explaining what each is about.

This paper will carry complete details on exactly when the trailer will be here and where it will be parked during its stay so that organizations desiring to be conducted through as a group may make arrangements with Eddings, the local telephone manager.

Couples Celebrate Joint Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McDaniel had as their guests last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith and children Darla and Dennis of Las Cruces and Mr. and Mrs. Dee McDaniel and Deanna of Deming.

Mrs. Smith is the daughter of Clifton B. Zumwalt of Carrizozo and Mrs. McDaniel is the former Henrietta Degner of Carrizozo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McDaniel and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith were married in a double ceremony twenty years ago, March 12. Mr. and Mrs. Dee McDaniel were married on the same date five years later.

The three couples plan to make the anniversary celebration a yearly event, each taking turns as host and hostess.

They and their children enjoyed dinner together and spent the day visiting. In all, 11 were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Sears have returned to Corbin, Ky., after ten days' visit in Carrizozo at the home of their son, Police Chief Orin Sears, and family. Mr. Sears Sr. came to Carrizozo in 1917 and was with the Southern Pacific until 1941 when he transferred to the Union-Pacific System. He retired in 1943. During his stay in Carrizozo he visited with many old-time railroad friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Roberts made a trip to Pueblo, Colo., last week. They attended the initiation ceremony for Mr. Roberts' daughter, Nelda Gaye, into the Order of Rainbow for Girls in Pueblo. Mrs. Roberts visited her father, L. E. Bays, of the same city.

BRUSH ERADICATION ON THE GEO. STRALEY RANCH AT ANCHO

Pictured are Howard Harkey, work unit conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service and Stanley Crowder of Crowder Brothers Construction Company. About 5,000 acres of pinon-juniper were in this eradication program, completed in February of this year.

Above photo, also taken on the Straley Ranch, shows before and after brush clearing. The pinon-juniper growth in this area has a density of around 200 trees per acre (density on ranches varies from 75 to 1200 trees per acre). Percentage of kill on the Straley Ranch was estimated at close to 95 per cent of the growth. (Photos by Dave Allinger, Denver.)

The brush in left on the ground where it will continue to protect against wind and water erosion and provide a ground cover to hasten establishment of new grass seedlings.

Some ranchers claim brush eradication increases carrying capacity of the land as much as 50% without overgrazing. The growth of the chain ranges from 300 to 600 feet. Crowder Bros. clear an average of 400 acres a day.

A grass planting program coincides with the brush eradication. Where needed, blue grama and western wheat planting follows closely.

This work falls under the Great Plains conservation program — a complete conservation program contracted between the ranch owner and Department of Agriculture.

Other practices in the program include re-seeding, water development and erosion control. Contractors presently working on brush eradication in this area are Boone and Grimes of Vaughn and Crowder Bros. of Albuquerque.

USDA Sets 1959-Crop Dry Bean Support

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that the national average support price for 1959-crop dry beans will be $3.33 per hundredweight.

Price support for 1958-crop dry beans was at a national average price of $4.18 per hundredweight, reflecting 63% of the February 1958 parity price. The $3.33 per hundredweight support for 1959 reflects approximately 69% of the February 1953 parity of $4.83 per hundredweight.

The supported classes of beans produced in 1959 will be: Pica and medium white, great northern, small white, flat small white, pink, small red, pinto, red kidney, large lima and baby lima.

Support rates by classes and by area where necessary will be announced later.

Beans will be supported through loans and purchase agreements, which will be available from harvest through January 31, 1960. The maturity date for loans and agreements will be February 29, 1960, in Michigan, Pennsylvania, and New York and April 30, 1960 in all other states.

Beans produced in violation of loans restricting production of surplus crops on federally-leased lands will not be eligible for price support in 1959.

Stockman Returns from Visit to Washington

A. D. Brownfield, prominent Dunning, N. M., stockman, has just returned from a visit to the Nation's Capital where he was attending the annual meeting of the National Advisory Board Council for Grazing.

The Council meets at least once each year to advise the Bureau of Land Management in the Department of the Interior on current problems affecting the use of the Federally owned range land in the Western States.

The Council adopted a number of resolutions, among which were the favoring of Federal legislation to affirm Western water rights, the deferring of action upon wilderness legislation until the recently appointed Outdoor Recreation Resources Commission has had an opportunity to issue a report, and urging legislation to amend the desert homestead law in order to preclude entries involving the use of ground water for irrigation until a reliable determination has been made of the available supply.

Supplementary Feeds Tested in Lamb Lots

Morex, a molasses-urea-alcohol mixture sometimes used as a protein supplement, was found by Minnesota researchers not to produce the gains in lambs that some other supplements do. Trial I involved two lots of lambs, all full-fed shelled corn and broms hay. Lot No. 1 gained 51 pounds daily on a supplement of molasses free-choice and 3 pounds soybean oil meal, while lot No. 2, supplemented Morex free-choice, gained only 44 pounds daily.

Trial II involved three lots, all full-fed shelled corn and alfalfa. Lambs in lot No. 1 gained 52 pounds daily on a .1 pound daily soybean oil meal supplement. Lot No. 2 lambs gained 43 pounds daily on a supplement of .1 pound soybean oil meal plus 1/4 pound molasses. Lambs in lot No. 3 fed 1/4 pound Morex daily, gained 4 pounds a day.

Costs of gains were not included in the report.

1958 Wool Production Under Previous Year

New Mexico wool growers produced 10,477,000 pounds of wool, grease basis in 1958, according to the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. This is slightly smaller than the 10,660,000 pounds produced in 1957. Number of sheep shorn was up 2.5%, but the pounds produced per head were less due to the lighter shrinking and cleaner fleeces shorn in 1958. Pounds per head averaged 9.0 pounds in 1957, number of sheep shorn and pounds per head include feed-lot shearing as well as farm and ranch.

Price-wise, New Mexico wools averaged 35 cents per pound in 1958, compared to 45 cents in '57. This decrease in average price was due to the poor market and similar drops in price were felt by all wool producing states. In 1958, the 11 western states averaged 38.6 cents per pound and the United States average was 36.9 cents per pound. New Mexico ranked seventh in the eleven western states in total clip value, which was $3,847,000 for '58.

The wool market has so far been fairly steady for fine wools, with some downward fluctuations in the 1/4 blood and 1/2 blood classes of wool, says Jack L. Ruttle, sheep and wool marketing specialist of the New Mexico State University Extension Service. With shearing starting, some changes will probably occur in the wool market, he adds.

Early sales do not indicate any rise in prices and several good lots of wool in Arizona and New Mexico have sold for 34-36 cents. The possibility of South American tops being brought in has caused great concern among the growers and wool traders, and the wool trade is being very cautious, the wool marketing specialist states.

Then there's the fellow whose car is so old he wrote the state vehicle department requesting both upper and lower plates.

Check for Aphids on New, Tender Growth

Have you looked closely at the new growth on your roses, or at the leaves on your nurnas, shasta daisies, and evergreen shrubs? If you haven't, you'd better take a look pretty soon. Many small six-legged animals, commonly called aphids or plant lice, have been enjoying the warm spells we've been having the past few weeks. And they haven't wasted any time in taking advantage of ideal conditions for starting a new family for the coming season.

When it's warm enough for plants to start growing, it's warm enough for aphids to take advantage of the plant juices in the young, tender, new growth. And some aphids, even like the old leaves and twigs.

Aphids are quite small. The largest one will hardly cover a pinhead and the young ones are almost microscopic. They like cool warm weather during the day and don't mind a little frost at night. Some kinds, like the rose aphid, feed right out in the open; others like the aphids that feed on shasta daisies, chrysanthemums, and arborvitae like a protected spot to feed.

Plant lice, as some people call aphids, are pretty sneaky. First, they show up in large numbers when most self-respecting animals are hibernating. Second, they are small and their color often blends right in with the part of the plant they are feeding on. Third, many kinds are hard to find. They feed on the undersides of the leaves or down in clumps and clusters of leaves or they even cause the leaves to curl around them to hide them.

But a watchful gardener with a sprayer or checker and a supply of malathion, Diazinon, or lindane insecticide can cope with any aphid infestation. If you use a sprayer, apply the spray as a very fine mist. The finer the spray—the better the insect control.

Use emulsifiable concentrates of malathion, Diazinon, and lindane at the rate of two teaspoonfuls per gallon of water. Use 1 to 2 table-spoons of the wettable powder form per gallon of water.

Apply insecticides on a warm still day. The temperature should be above 60 degrees.

The county extension office can supply you with a copy of Circular 271, "Control Your Garden Pests," for more information on insects and their control.

Increase in Cattle Inventories Forecasts Possible Price Decline

The number of cattle and calves on farms and ranches in New Mexico increased 2 1/2 times as fast during 1958 as did the number for the nation as a whole, according to W. Y. Fowler, extension farm management specialist at New Mexico State University.

The state's cattle and calves totaled 1,162,000 head, valued at $176,624,000 on January 1, 1959.

The 1959 U. S. inventory of cattle and calves on the nation's farms and ranches totaled 96.9 million head for a new record. But the 1959 national figure is but 40,000 head greater than the old 1956 peak.

The new cattle count ended the shortest downturn of any cattle cycle. The upturn can be expected to last 5 or 6 years.

Most of the increase in cattle numbers resulted from the large holdback and reduced slaughter in 1958. Slaughter was down 5,000,000 head from 1957 and the least since 1952. Larger imports of live cattle during 1958 added to the January count and partly offset the smaller 1958 calf crop.

A little larger 1959 calf crop is expected from the larger inventory of breeding cattle meaning more stockers-feeders available next fall.

A relatively large supply of fed cattle is likely due to favorable feed-price ratios. About 10 million cattle and calves are finished in feedlots each year. This is about 50% of the total beef supply.

1959 may see an increase in cow slaughter. Old cows from 1957 and 1958 holdbacks "may just have to go." This will mean more hamburger and sausage; other processed meats also may be more available.

Beef output could readily stay fairly high through the next several years of herd expansion. Slaughter will remain far above the 1951 low. Consumption is expected to be about 80 pounds per person again in 1959.

CATTLE NUMBERS RISING

The stage also seems set for further and bigger increases in 1960 and '61. Present indications are for more than 100 million cattle by 1960. This puts the wheels in motion for a future price decline, probably starting some time in the early '60s. An expansionary boom such as 1950-52 would very likely lead to another market collapse as in 1953.

STEADY PRICES NOW, LOWER LATER

Cattle prices in 1959 may average about the same as in 1958, and the seasonal pattern may be about the same. Heavy volume of feeding and a larger per capita meat supply should prevent beef prices from showing much change in 1959.

Strong demand for young cattle for both herd expansion and feeding may keep prices of feed and breeding cattle at, or near, present levels relative to slaughter cattle.

Cow prices a year from now versus present price isn't much of a gamble, but cows probably will be worth more in 1959 than later. For the industry as a whole, prices are going to remain high for a longer time if the prospective herd expansion can be slowed down.

MEXICO

Quite fortunate is the youth in the 20-30 year old class who can boast a coche (automobile) all his own, while the city streets and main rural thoroughfares are lined with hordes of bicycle riders. Some of this number, however, have made a stride in progress by rigging up the cycles with foreign built motor unit attachments.

Last Sunday's visit to El Progreso Plaza de Toros (bull fight ring) revealed that the huge structure had been entirely rebuilt during the year, and now having seating facilities, ramps, stairways and every item constructed of cement reinforced with steel. Seating capacity of the new ring has also been increased to upwards of 12,000 and every space is generally occupied at cinco pesos (40 cents) a ticket.

Shopping in Mexico is quite an art, accomplished with more profit and satisfaction if one knows enough of the Spanish language to get along. The average American tourist is generally taken for a "talking" as he, when finding an item to his liking, pays the first price asked. The experienced shopper uses his best Mexican vocabulary, obtains the price asked, then cuts it in half, the while showing an attitude of "I don't care for it anyway."

Satisfying a curiosity in trying the experiment, many times I have had to buy something of which I did not especially care, but had to take after my suggested price had been agreed to by the seller. The worst mistake ever made was the offer of 10 pesos (50 cents) for a stack of some fifty tortillas for which the street merchant asked twice that amount. Although the native here relishes this hand made "delicacy" all the use I have ever found for them is to throw at the birds. Among other allurements, Mexico is a good shopping place — provided one knows what he's doing.

Churches under construction last year and still unfinished aroused no little curiosity, especially since one was found that had been 15 years in building, and still was unfinished, although mass is held there regularly.

"Yes, Lopez Mateos has some trying days ahead, some difficult problems to solve," said Juan Jose Aguilar, presidente el Banco de Comercio Guadalupe, to this writer, "but we have great confidence that he will meet all challenges." The banker was discussing the recent meeting at Acapulco between Pres. Eisenhower and Mexico's new president who took office December 1.

In his campaign, Lopez Mateos promised a higher wage and a better living standard for the lower class in Mexico; during the last few years the cost of living has mounted and now the new president is seeking ways to stem the rising tide and afford more employment at a better wage.

Take a "Lucky Cut" at The Corona Trading Co.

How would you like to win a beautiful 15 foot fiberglass boat, powered by a new 40 H.P. electric starting Scott outboard motor and a lightweight trailer to take the whole works wherever you want to go? Well, you can. It's the grand prize in the "Lucky Cut" contest, now being sponsored by Corona Trading Co., local dealer for McCulloch chain saws.

On top of it, local contestants can also win weekly prizes consisting of a pair of famous Red Wing "Irish Setter" boots and a "Handi-Light" lantern that emits a powerful white beam and a flashing red warning light—perfect for general use and also in roadside emergencies.

According to John Lenhart, manager of the chain saw shop located at Corona, any person over 15 years of age can get in on both the weekly and the grand prize drawings. There are no puzzles to solve, rhymes to finish or essays to write.

"All you have to do is stop in, register, and take a 'lucky cut' with our newest quality guaranteed McCulloch chain saws, fresh from the factory," John says.

A drawing will be held once each week for 6 weeks with the grand prize drawings held at the close of the contest. Contestants may register only once per weekly drawing, but can register again for each succeeding week's drawing if they wish. Everyone who registers is eligible for all prizes.

The "Lucky Cut" contest opens this week end and closes April 25. John urges everyone to stop by and register during this time.

INSIDE THE CAPITAL

On the credit side of the legislature were a couple of negative actions in refusing action on a censorship proposal which had heavy church backing, and another bill proposed by Governor Burroughs which probably would have restricted newspaper reporting on subjects uncomplimentary to candidates.

A measure put in by Sen. Gene Lusk of Carlsbad restricting union picketing of business establishments unless there is a real dispute between employes and management will perhaps stand out as the major achievement of the 1959 session.

once said: "unwilling to take an hour of fuss to escape a century of slavery."

In a day when so many of our social groupings drag us down by the pull of their mob-mindedness, who does not need a social grouping that levels him up, where once in a while at least he meets with his fellows on the basis of our noblest faiths and our finest aspirations?

In the summertime you never seen a twig snap out of a bonfire and burn alone? For awhile it turns in reminiscence of the fire it came from; and then goes out, for fire comes from fellowship.

When a man therefore in a community like this, says he is living without the church, it is not impressive. I will tell you what it would mean to live without the church. Let the church die. Let generation after generation rise that never know it. Let Jesus become a myth, the message of the Bible forgotten, faith in God nebulous, worship finished, no more sacred music now, only secular, no more religious education of the children now, only secular, a literature from which have been deleted the ideas and ideals that have their roots in religious heritage—then you could live without the church. Do you wish to try?

If you must confess that in that real sense you do not desire to live without the church, may I not invite some of you to come into closer co-operation with the Christian fellowship? For, mark it, my friends, a full Christianity involves fellowship. There are great musical compositions which no artist can play alone, no matter how fine he may be.

No matter how well that first violin can play, he cannot interpret them alone. It takes an orchestra—the oboe, and violas and violins, the flutes and drums and horns—to interpret such great compositions. And Christianity is great. No socialist can render it alone. Ah, you solitary piccolo trying to render the Overture to Tannhauser! It cannot be done. But you might help. Even if nobody noticed you, you might help—in the orchestra.

What people believe about certain social activities such as dancing, skiing, going to movies, watching TV, playing cards or even taking an occasional drink should have nothing to do with church membership. After all the church and its members are human beings—a cross section of humanity. Church membership does not imply superiority nor "perfection" in fact church membership implies a sense of "need" and an "awareness" of shortcomings—but also a desire to do something about it, individually and socially—and the belief that the church is one of the most effective means of bettering the individual and the world in general.

Non-membership, to me, implies a sense of feeling of self-sufficiency—that there is no need for church, that the spiritual values are not important, that man can live by bread alone. This attitude is the cause of most of our troubles—both individual and social. Unless we have a higher devotion than our job, our community or even our country, we are lost.

Church people recognize this and in their own imperfect way attempt to do something about it. Non church members or members "in absentia" are either ignorant of this fact or, as Chateaubriand
