SPORTSMANSHIP

By VERN SMITH

Fairness and generosity in sports and cames is the definition the dictionary gives of sportsmanship. In a larger sense fine opertomanship is the greatest benefit to be gained from the playing of games, a quality of character most necessary in the greatest game of all, that of living.

The big game between Win-Sly and Lose-Right is over and the umpire's decision has been rendered Players and spectators depart for their respective homes carrying with them the knowledge of the winning or losing of their team. Win-Sly has won but yet lost The Win-Sly team played a fine game but a blot was put on them when the umpires carelessly rendered decisions favorable toward them. The the Fair board that there was no umpires violated the letter of the law, or the spirit of sportsmanship, commission and that he had initithus Win-Siy carry with them sham banner whose sight will bring at the request of the board. up unity memories long after the game and its players have been forgotten. Gone but not forgotten will be the unpires. After the game all that they could say to the Loze-Right coach was "we are curry. Ten million "we are carry's" still does not change the outcome of the game. Right to right and wrong is wrong. There is no half way point between right and wrong. If it is not right, it must be wrong, "We are sorry" is just on excused and a mighty poor one of that.

A coach teaches fair play and integrity to his boys. What can a coach say to his boys after losing due to the shortcomings of the umpiret Of course, he could say "We are sorry." Actually, he should may it is too bad that the boys have to play with officials who can't see beyond their nexes.

Architect Draws Plans For New State Fair Plant

All home games are at 1:30 p.m.

Albuquerquo - Albuquerque Architect William E. Durk has prosented a carefully dotalled plan will be built in the future.

The new plant, Burk estimated, fream. would cost between $10 and $15 boyst million dollars. He pointed out to obligation on the part of the fair ated the proposal himself and not

Burk, noting that the present HONDO WINE OFENER fair plant is almost in the population center of Albuquerque, said it Its actually better to have the plant lin a remote area easily accessible rather than in the city lively.

Eurk's model was laid out on a cortion of land. He said the basic requirements of the fair swere based on the fact that it was primarily agricultural with natural extensions into industry and cultural aspects.

The plan called for perimeter parking on three sides and if the unused portion of the section were used, he said, it could accommodate $3,000 cars—for beyond the foresecable needs of the fair.
