

Defense Department Urged to Keep Red Canyon on Operational Basis

The continued operation of Red Canyon as a defense installation was discussed Wednesday at a meeting at Holloman Air Force Base.

The permanency and usefulness of many installations at Red Canyon were again brought to the attention of the Department of Defense, as well as Carrizozo's facilities for accommodating both civilian and Service personnel stationed there.

U. S. Senator Dennis Chavez and Congressman Joseph M. Montoya attended the meeting, called for the specific purpose of further briefing the Department of Defense on the close tie-in of Red Canyon to Carrizozo.

Congressmen, Senators Confer with Army on Red Canyon Disposition

An official of the Defense Department, who flew to Holloman to attend the meeting, made numerous notes, as both Senator Chavez and Repr. Montoya reviewed the history of Red Canyon, the cost of the installations there and the important part Carrizozo has played in the successful operation of this missile base, by providing housing and other services.

Attending the meeting from Carrizozo were Vernon Potts, C. of C. president Marvin H. Roberts, Sheriff S. M. Ortiz and town clerk J. S. Stearns.

Stepping in Carrizozo following the meeting, Repr. Montoya said its purpose was to "ascertain the possibility of adapting Red Canyon as a facility of the White Sands Installation."

He said a full report of the meeting would be made in Washington to General Hugh Milton and Secretary Brucker.

Repr. Montoya added that New Mexico's entire congressional delegation would continue its efforts to maintain Red Canyon on an operational basis and that it was their hope there would be little time lapse between the departure of Fort Bliss troops and the arrival of a new "package" of Service personnel.

Senate Bill Would Assist Local Governments

A bill has been introduced in the U. S. Senate to require the government to make limited cash payments to local governments in lieu of taxes on property taken for government use.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson has been joined by Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and a number of other senators in the introduction of S. 910.

Explaining the purpose of the bill, Senator Anderson states that "through the years the government has withdrawn for military and other uses vast areas of land in New Mexico and other states. Prior to withdrawal, some of this land has been the source of tax revenues for the counties in which they are located."

Portrait of a Governor

Portrait of Governor George Curry, painted by Sam Smith in 1947. Now hangs in Old Lincoln County Courthouse.

Of special interest to Lincoln County is the new autobiography, "George Curry, 1863-1947," just published by the University of New Mexico Press. Manuscript of the memoirs was written by Governor Curry at the Old Lincoln County Courthouse in Lincoln, N. M., while he was State Historian in residence there.

Curry came to Lincoln County in 1879, a penniless boy of 18 years. He arrived directly after the violent episode of the Lincoln County War had taken place. Though he avoided being a participant in the notorious conflict, he knew about the causes and results, and writes about it in this book.

The gift for public service is all his life, from the office of sheriff of Lincoln County, all the way to the governorship of territorial New Mexico, and to the office of first representative to Congress from the new State of New Mexico. The fortune of his friend, with Teddy Roosevelt was a prime factor in New Mexico's admission to the Union as the 47th state.

Though he saw service in far away places with Roosevelt's Rough Riders, and even as governor of three provinces of the Philippines, he held a deep affection for New Mexico, and in particular, Lincoln County. When, as an old man, the legislature created for him the office of State Historian, he was happy to return to Lincoln and to arrange his quarters at the Old Courthouse.

New Water Well For Gran Quivira

A water well has recently been completed at Gran Quivira National Monument by Perry Brothers Drilling Company of Tularosa. This is one of the first Mission 66 projects to be completed at the monument, as a plentiful supply of water is essential before other major improvements can be scheduled.

Mission 66 is a ten-year National Park Service program, designed to preserve the Nation's heritage in scenic and historical features, for the enjoyment and inspiration of Americans. The program includes plans for development, management and protection of each area of the System by 1966—the Golden Anniversary of the establishment of the National Park Service.

A dependable supply of water has long been needed at Gran Quivira, as the original well, still in use, goes dry when only 300 gallons have been pumped.

The new well was drilled to a depth of 698 feet; pumping tests were conducted for a period of 33 hours at the rate of 50 gallons per minute without lowering the water level.

Other Mission 66 projects which are programmed for 1960 fiscal year include completion of the water system, consisting of one and one-half miles of pipeline, a storage reservoir and distribution system.

Also programmed for 1960 are employee residences and utilities, and service roads. Proposed for later years are plans to improve the entrance road and the ruins trail; construction of a visitor center building, which will contain space for museum displays and offices; enlarge and improve the picnic grounds, and excavate and stabilize additional Indian ruins.

The 50th anniversary of the establishment of Gran Quivira National Monument will be celebrated this year. The monument is open all year, free to the public, and is located on State 10, between Carrizozo and Mountainair.

Lions Club Favors General Paving Plan for Town

At their dinner meeting last Thursday evening at the Village Inn Cafe the Carrizozo Lions Club adopted a resolution asking the town board to "proceed with the formation of a comprehensive paving plan for the town of Carrizozo." Several members expressed the opinion that while the paving crew is in town, streets over the town generally should be paved, rather than limiting the paving to only one section of town.

Bryan Hendricks, guest speaker, was introduced by program chairman Homer Reid. Mr. Hendricks is one of three recognized cryptographers in New Mexico. His code name is "Skeezix."

Cryptographers have rendered valuable service to this country in time of war, deciphering the enemy's coded messages. Mathematical and other formulas are used by cryptographers, Mr. Hendricks explained.

The club voted to have a community breakfast this spring to raise funds for local projects. Jete Voss will be program chairman for the meeting on Thursday, March 5.

Officers Named for New Rotary Club

The newly formed Carrizozo Rotary Club met again this Thursday noon at the Village Inn Cafe.

A delegation of Rotarians from the Alamogordo club, which is sponsoring the new service club in Carrizozo, assisted last week in its formal organization. Visiting Rotarians were Andrew Hendricks, H. H. Stevenson, Ford Abbey, Jack Baxley and Marlon Bell.

Named to head the new Carrizozo Rotary was Ralph Petty. Other officers include Joe Sargent, vice president, and Mervin Siroot, Clifton B. Zurnwalt and Fred English, board of directors.

Final phases of organization were to be completed at the meeting today, after which the club will enter the provisional status.

A new Rotary club has also been organized at Tularosa with twenty charter members. The Tularosa club will also meet Thursday noon.

Returned to Face Charge of Larceny

Truman Rustin was returned to Carrizozo Monday by Sheriff S. M. Ortiz, to face the charge of larceny of a saddle, spurs, bridle and blanket from the Roy Stewart riding stables in Ruidoso.

Rustin was at the Treat Ranch, 18 miles south of Hopo. Following a preliminary hearing before Justice of the peace Harold Graham, Rustin was bound over to district court and placed under $1000 bond.

Two Vehicles Collide; Both From Miller Dairy

When Sheriff S. M. Ortiz checked out two vehicles that collided near Luna last week, he got the same answers from both drivers—both vehicles were from the Price Miller dairy.

The passenger car was driven by Mrs. Miller and the stake truck by Melchor Dominguez, also from the Miller Dairy.

The two cars met on a curve 12 miles east of the railway crossing at Luna. Both were damaged and had to be towed in. Neither driver was injured.

School Officials At U of NM Workshop

Clarence E. Shaw, newly elected member of the board of education of the Carrizozo municipal schools, and J. T. Clegg, superintendent, attended the New Mexico School Board Association's workshop for newly-elected school board members.

The workshop was held in Hodgkin Hall, University of New Mexico, February 22 and 23.

There were some 53 people in attendance including a small number of superintendents and a large number of newly elected board of education members. An attempt was made to cover as many of the responsibilities of boards of education as possible during the two day session.

The Carrizozo Board of Education will have its organization meeting next Monday night, March 2, at 7:50 p.m. At this time Mr. Shaw will take the oath of office. Regular routine of business will follow the re-organization of the Board of Education.

'Bonito Lake Bill' Passes First Test

House Bill 44, a measure which would enable the State Game and Fish Department to stock Bonito Lake free of charge passed the New Mexico House of Representatives last Friday.

Repr. W. G. Bradley, co-sponsor of the bill, said that although it was drawn with Bonito Lake in mind, the measure could have far-reaching effects that would benefit sportsmen throughout the state.

H. B. 144 would allow the Game Department to stock private lakes and streams if the property was thrown open to public fishing. A "reasonable" service fee could be charged by the owners, but the fishing could not be a commercial venture.

Repr. Bradley said the city of Alamogordo spent about $3,500 last year policing the lake, keeping it clean and sanitary.

"But Alamogordo didn't feel like it should pay for Lincoln county's protection," Bradley said.

Capitan's Cub Bear Likes to Cuddle Up and be Burped

By DOROTHY GUCK

"Oh dear, I thought she would be bigger," Mrs. Bird said when her husband, the Capitan Game Warden, handed her the tiny brown fuzzy cub. Not many of us have ever stopped to think how very small a new born bear is—about a half of a pound.

"Mrs. Owen had the hard part," says Doty Bird. "She had to find a formula that was right for the cub's bottle and could only do it by experimenting. I fed her every two hours a mixture of two teaspoons of sugar to one pint of homogenized milk."

Like all new born babies, the tiny orphan cub cries when she is hungry, frets when the milk doesn't come fast enough, has to be burped after each feeding, cuddles trustingly in the arms of strangers, and suggests the need of diaper service. Her eyes are wide open and she strives to hold her equilibrium on four wobbly legs without much success. Her claws seem as long as the soft pads of her feet.

Charlie Bird says his wife can only tell by investigating which baby needs attention, his own young son or the bear cub. She has a twenty-four hour job which is not only raising a happy healthy bear, but being hostess to the cub's many, many visitors.

Mayor Joe Rench is busy with plans for building the best home possible for the bear, but I'm sure he need not be in a hurry. It will take a heap of growing before the cub is ready to move to other quarters.

Ceremonies in National Capital to Honor 4-H Club Week

Tribute will be paid to twenty million men and women in Washington, D. C., ceremonies during National 4-H Club Week, February 20 to March 7. They are former 4-H Club members who helped build the program from its humble rural beginnings in the early 1900's to its unprecedented national scope and membership of more than two million farm and urban youth.

"Improving Family and Community Living" is the Club Week theme, and this year a special salute to 4-H alumni will be given. The week will not only evaluate benefits gained by adults through 4-H experience, but will present an opportunity for 4-H boys and girls to review their past achievements and plan future activities.

In the capital, the alumni will be represented by a man and a woman, 1939 recipients of national key awards presented annually to eight former 4-H'ers for good citizenship and outstanding service. They will join six national 4-H delegates who will call on President Eisenhower to present him with the 4-H report to the nation on behalf of all club members.

New Mexico will have an important role in the week-long program. Its own 4-H champion, Dwight Walker of Clayton, is one of the six delegates.

For young Walker, who was recently acclaimed one of two national 4-H Citizenship winners and awarded the Thos. E. Wilson $400 college scholarship, this will be his second official visit to Washington, D. C. In June of last year he was chosen to attend the National 4-H Club Conference in the capital, one of the high honors in club work.

The achievements of this 19-year-old sophomore at New Mexico State University have also sent him to the United Nations in New York as an observer and to the Chicago Club Congress twice.

While in Washington for Club Week, Walker will deliver the invocation at the get-acquainted dinner in the Statler hotel, and will preside over the luncheon in the Congressional hotel, at which New Mexico's senators and representatives will be guests of honor. Walker will meet the President in the White House, visit the office of Secretary of Agriculture Benson and various agricultural organizations.

One of the highlights will be a dinner for the delegates, alumni, and special guests given by Mr. R. F. Quinn, general manager of the Conrad Hilton hotel, Chicago, for many years "home" to delegates attending the National 4-H Club Congress. The Conrad Hilton hotel annually sponsors the Club Week trips to Washington for the six delegates.

By far the greatest cause of "that tired feeling" is working. People should avoid work whenever possible — in some cases, oftener than that.

Teensters
Union No. 1

By THE REED

Hill
Received an interesting letter that represents an attitude that certainly deserves some real thought on the part of the Teenster's Union. It's from Corona and since it is signed, I'm sure there will be no objection if I quote the name. Here it is:

Pam: Here is a tract which you will find interesting. I hope you will read it and give it some honest thought. Perhaps you could push some activities of a more wholesome nature in your column. You have a very nice column and a chance to really influence a lot of kids over the county for the cause of Christ. Sincerely, Don Baker.

The "tract" that Mr. Baker enclosed is entitled "Teen Talk About Dancing," and it is very interesting. The tract is published by "The Christian Life Commission," 307 Baptist Bldg., Dallas 1, Texas. I suggest that you Teensters who are interested in this question about dancing write to this organization and request one of these tracts. The contention of this tract is that a Christian should not dance. There are some very good arguments against dancing and every one of them is assuming that dancing as such makes it hard to be a Christian and that if one would really think it through they would realize that they could not be a true Christian and continue to dance.

"Naturally I took this letter to my father who, as you probably know, is the Methodist minister here in Carrizozo. Of course he has influenced my thinking about dancing, but he told me to answer this letter in as honest and straightforward way as Mr. Baker has written. He told me that most Baptists do not believe in dancing of any sort—which surprised me, because I'd say that a large percentage of the members of the square dance groups around town and the Teenage recreation program are Baptists. Anyhow, I'd like to answer this and let you Teenagers express yourselves, too, on this subject:

Dear Don Baker: Thank you for sending me the tract. Believe me, I read it and can appreciate your attitude toward dancing and I must agree with you that if dancing is done in a crude and lewd manner it is no longer beautiful and then the whole art of dancing is under-criticism. But, done in an intelligent, expressive and beautiful manner, I think it is one of the finest means of self-expression there is. Psychologists tell us that the best way to get over nervousness, inferiority complexes and other mental quirks is to do something with others—and they specifically recommend dancing.

When one dances with some know-how—interpreting a tango or a samba or a smooth flowing fox trot—there is a wonderful sense of expression—of creative self-expression. It seems to me that it is an expression of beauty and something fundamental. It's hard to put in words, but to me this is just another way of expressing life and the beautiful side of life, too.

A person can make something indecent out of it if they want to, but teenagers, with the right instruction, the right supervision and the right attitude toward this art of the dance need never become ashamed of themselves for dancing.

An article in the El Paso Sunday paper (Times) states that swimming is the top sports activity in the nation, and I suppose there are lots of people who think swimming indecent—because of the state of undress—and I must confess that some people do make it something other than a "sport"—more of a strip-tease—but that doesn't make swimming itself immoral.

Dancing, incidentally, is the second most popular item—and in spite of the people who use dancing for immoral purposes and use it for an excuse to drink and embrace some one, I'm sure dancing itself is not going to be considered immoral by those who understand the dance and have spent much time and practice perfecting it.

I noticed on the front page of the Monday El Paso Times a squib about an English major being tried by the stark naked committee in shop windows. He demands that the dummies be covered. How far-fetched can you get? If you're looking for something immoral, I suppose you can find it anywhere! Perhaps we should send a letter to the Italian government asking that they put clothes on all the nude statues in the museum! They

BOOK REVIEW

"YUCCA LAND"

Reviewed by
RAYMOND F. WATERS
In the Hobbs (N. M.)
Daily Sun

An interesting collection of New Mexico folklore is contained in a new book, "Yucca Land," edited by Anne Laurie Snort and Hazel Vineyard, and published by American Guild Press of Dallas.

The book looks at three eras of New Mexico history: the Indian, subtitled "Home of Montezuma"; Spanish, called "The Land of Mahana"; and the American or Anglo period, titled, "State of Apple Blossom."

"Yucca Land" has more than passing interest to this reviewer because one of the editors, Miss Hazel Vineyard, a long-time teacher in Roswell Public Schools, hammered a few rudiments of grammar in his head many years ago. I'm sure she never knew it, in view of his strong disinclination to learn; but now it honestly can be revealed at this late date that she really was one of his favorite teachers.

But over and above any personal feeling—for the editor, "Yucca Land" is a top-notch book about the Southwest. Its compilation of prose and poetry is as New Mexico as tortillas, chili verde, boiled coffee and the faint, sweet wood smoke from burning juniper logs.

The poems in the book are selected from a wide list of southwestern poets. Listen to this delicate "Supplication" of Dorothy A. Linney:

Thunderbird
Of the mountains of Sangre de Cristo
Silhouetted there against those mountains
That flood at sunset with crimson
As if from the wounds of Him
Who called men brothers.

For those who like stronger meat in their poetry, there's New Mexico's own S. Omar Barker's "Just Plain Old Cowboy":

Ho wears a sblgun, cusses cows,
Gits drunk an' raises Hades—
But in a crowded bus he bows
An' gives his seat to ladies.

The prose passages introducing many of the poems occasionally are excerpts from Southwestern writers, and at other times are words of the editors. They are informative and give the book continuity.

"Yucca Land" is a book that Southwestern collectors will want to cut-out, lasso, brand and car-crop for their own.—R. F. W.

No, Mr. Baker, I think a healthy Christian attitude is one that sees the best in all the many activities there are in this world. I agree with you, though, that everything should be considered in the light of Christian belief and teaching, but after reading the tract over very carefully, I just can't agree that it is against the real Christian life.

Thank you for your letter and I hope that you will personally look-in on the teenage dance and judge accordingly. Come on, members, let's get your comments.—Pam.

Successful Brush Clearing

By Boone & Grimes Contracting Company

Successful Brush Clearing means the right kind of equipment and plenty of "Know-how"

Ralph Boone and Happy Grimes Contracting Co. HAVE THE ANSWERS to both the above requirements. They were the first ones to venture into a project of this kind in 1952. Boones and Grimes contracted their first brush clearing on this date and they have been at it ever since.

They have just finished 2,500 acres on the Hindi & Sons ranch, Duran, and are starting on the E. T. Bond ranch, near Corona, where they have about 5,200 acres to clear.

If you have never seen any of this work, it would be well worth your time to drive out to the Bond ranch and see Boones and Grimes in action. Their method of doing this work is both interesting and effective.

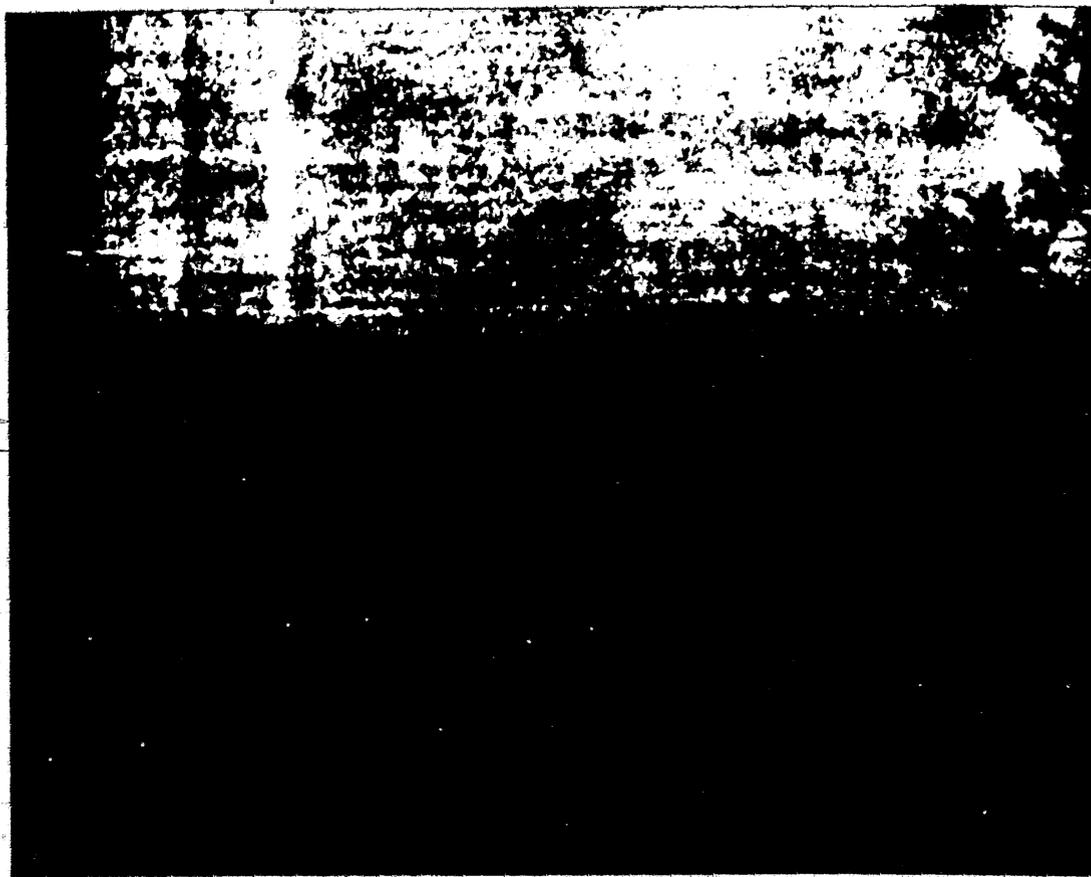

They are using Caterpillar tractors and the chain exceeds 200 feet. They have 'pulled' brush on the Mike Nalda Ranch and on the Corbin Hester Ranch.

Ranchers if you wish to participate in this Range Restoration Program, get in touch with either Boones or Grimes, or contact your local Conservation Agent or County Agent. They will be glad to give you any information that you wish about clearing your land.

We will print a complete list of the ranchers who have participated in this program in next week's paper.

Saturday night Hondo traveled to Magdalena, where the Magdalena Steers climbed above the 100 mark and won by a walloping 110 to 58. High point man for the Eagles was James Sanchez with 24 points, and Johnny Gomez was next with 10.

This week the Eagles, along with ten other teams in the 5-B District, wind up the basketball season at the tournament in Roswell. Hondo meets Dexter Wednesday night at 9, following the game between Captain and Carrizozo. The tournament will be at the Roswell High gym. Good-luck, Eagles!

New prospective members of the Honor Society will also be tagged this Wednesday. The installation date has been set for March 4. The students selected for the Society are John Bles, Ben Sanchez, Orziel Chavez, Della Jean Fresquez and Olympia Herrera.

Approximately 25 students will go to Santa Fe Monday, March 2, to watch the State legislative body at work. Students who completed and passed an exam on a unit of American Government will spend Monday night in Santa Fe and return to Hondo Tuesday. Only juniors and seniors took the test.

Those planning to go are Juanita Torres, Josephine Salcido, Bud McCrady, Vangie Montes, Annie Nunez, Fredda Perry, Beatrice Sanchez, Nellie Sanchez, Beatrice Pacheco, Orlando Montes, Johnny Gomez, Danny Chavez, Patsy Joiner, Olympia Herrera, Martha McKnight, Ursula Montoya, Richard Sanchez, Hondo Silva, Lydia Torres, Genoveva Chavez, Rita Salcido, Esceldo Chavez, Ernestina Lopez, Margie Sedillo and Cornelia Salcido. So long, I'll see you next week.

Letter to Editor

Editor, News:

May I take this opportunity of commending you for the excellent article and editorial "Range Camp or Ghost Town" which appeared in the Lincoln County News of February 6, both with respect to Red Canyon and Oscura.

I have taken the liberty of bringing these to the attention of the Department of the Army and I want to thank you for contributing such a descriptive picture of the fire affects which will be suffered if the situation is not alleviated. Please be assured that I shall continue in my efforts to be of real assistance and any suggestions you or others have will be appreciated.

With my kindest personal regards, I remain, Sincerely yours,
Joseph M. Montoya.

ALIBIS

By REV. HOMER REID
Trinity Methodist Church

One of the alibis given for neglecting the church and the work of the church is that one about "working on Sunday." That's a pretty good alibi when you stop and think of it. I used to sell books and one of my best days for selling them was Sunday—in fact I'd sell more books on that one day than I would the other six days per week. It would have been very difficult to convince me that I should go to church on Sunday and spend the day of the Lord in honor of Him.

Fortunately my attitude has changed. Let us come to practical grips with this matter. Get a new way of looking at money, said Jesus. "Take heed, and keep yourselves from all covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." "The life is more than the food, and the body than the raiment"; "Ye cannot serve God and mammon"; all of which is as much as to say, that money may be valuable as a means, but beware of its tendency to become an end. Nobody in his senses would be little money as a means. It is indispensable. Jesus himself worked in a carpenter's shop for years; he was no sentimentalist far away from the necessary practicalities of ordinary life. But no man can fall to see the tremendous push of money toward the throne, as though it were not means, but end.

It is a good thing for us in America now to listen occasionally

Peacock children. He was informed the wire was still in the tree (on the Bonito). From here he went to visit the Bonito and I'm sure he went to see about the wire swing.

Billy Greer missed school Monday due to a cold.

to what people on the outside say about us. Gandhi, for example, was a great soul. Once he told a group of his fellow Indians that they would understand us Western friends much better if they would remember that no matter what we say in creed or in church, money is our real God.

That is distinctly unpleasant. You may even protest that it is not true. But it is partly true. For wherever money piles up, it is so powerful that it tends to drop the garments of servitude which are proper to it, and to crowd up into the throne, not as servant, but as tyrant. That is what the Master meant when he said it was hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. Wherever riches abound in an individual's or society's possession, it is difficult business keeping them in their place. As Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "It is hard to carry a full cup."

The personal climax of all this comes in our training of children. We talk much about religious education. We try to do our best at it in family and church. But no matter what we teach the children consciously and deliberately about religion, their lives are shaped, mastered and controlled by the ways of looking at things, which they catch from the contagion of the family.

Beneath this thin shell of formal religious training how often a material way of looking at things prevails in our homes—that what fundamentally matters is money and what money buys. That we must keep the pace in our possessions and our social distinctions, that, no matter what it costs, to shine in the light of what we own is basic.

How subtle it all is! How penetratingly it works! How gradually a family gets over into it without quite recognizing where they are going until over and again you see a household wake up, perhaps too late. The children are hard, selfish, worldly; the finer simplicities that alone make family life worth while have been sacrificed; and from old a voice is saying: "What doth it profit?"

Children take the cue from their parents. If Dad thinks it's more important to work on Sunday for that extra "buck" than to go to church it means one thing to that

Copper rides the iron horse

Copper's transportation problems in the Santa Rita Mining District in Southwestern New Mexico ended with the coming of the Atchafon, Topoka and Santa Fe Railroad. In 1883 the line reached Silver City, and in 1891 was extended to Hanover a few miles from Santa Rita.

This was a great milestone in the development of what later became Kennecott's Chino Mines Division. For nearly 100 years mining men had battled the costs and risks of shipping their copper by mule pack and wagon train to distant markets.

Another problem — Indian warfare — eased with changing times, and at the turn of the century mining could be carried on in relative peace.

But success still eluded the mine operators. Richer veins of copper began to play out into masses of low grade ore. The mill could not profitably handle ore with less than 10 per cent copper. Santa Rita seemed doomed to be a ghost town.

It was not until 1904 that John M. Sully, a mining engineer, determined the size of the ore body would lend itself to mass processing of the low grade copper ore. He converted the shallow underground workings to an open pit and brought about the first successful operation at Santa Rita.

This success has continued since 1909, and brings the Chino Mines Division to its 50th anniversary — 50 years of serving all New Mexicans through continued payrolls, tax payments and supply purchases.

Another Smokey Dance Saturday

A Smokey dance will be held on Saturday, Feb. 28 at the American Legion hall, with good music by the White Mountain Ramblers. Join us for a good time.

Mrs. Henry Peebles donated $5 and an anonymous donor gave $2 for the Smokey Bear Museum. Thanks to both of you.

There was an error for the donors of sandwiches last time, which I wish to correct. Cecil Annarotone, Ann Earling, Irene Forbus, Dorothy Guck, Holmes, Margaret Ranch, Pearl Soderback and Mary Zamora Trujillo. Then Mrs. Boney Zamora gave doughnuts. Thanks to each of you.

Our little bear cub is doing just fine and Mr. and Mrs. Bird are enjoying taking care of her. They are doing a grand job, as she is gaining weight. Last Sunday a photographer took several pictures of her and he will continue to do so from time to time.

Those who have been trimming trees of late are Roy Provins, Wally Ferguson and Jare Griego. Mr. Garcia tore down an old garage at his home and the old built-on rooms that were badly turned on the old Ben Chavez house have been taken down. All these things do a good deal to improve the looks of our town. Let's all follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins spent last week end in Albuquerque with Geraldine and her family (Mr. and Mrs. Donald McClung).

Mr. and Mrs. Lamarr Bailey have purchased the Elizabeth Titworth Wilson property across the street south of the Cummins store. They and their family moved in some time ago.

Fletcher Hall was a Roswell visitor last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hall purchased a 1959 four-door Ford, in light green, last Thursday.

Melvin Romero is home from Ft. Benning, Ga., on furlough. He will soon go on foreign duty.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cheney spent last week end in Las Cruces with their son and children (Mr. and Mrs. J. Bert Cheney). Kathy Gay returned home with them, which is always a joyful event.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugenio Petree enjoyed a house warming, given by their many friends last Saturday, Feb. 21. The Petrees received many lovely gifts. They have purchased the Belle Norton home, just west of the Buena Vista hotel, on Occend street.

Dixie Sparks was a Carrizozo business visitor on Monday.

"Rosebud" Valentines At Round Table Club

The Round Table Club met at the home of Mrs. Ethel Howard last Thursday, the 19th, with ten members and two guests present. Guests were Judy Provins and Beale Cummins.

Members present were Lorene Ferguson, Pauline Britton, Marie Edgar, Ruby Merchant, Grace Murphy, Angelina Provins, Corrine Provins, Frances Shaw, Lavonne Hall and Ethel Howard.

Fried chicken was the main course for the dinner. Since Lorene Ferguson couldn't stay, Angelina Provins was secretary and treasurer for the business meeting and Mrs. Hall was program chairman.

Bingo was the game and all won prizes, which were sewing necessities.

Members unable to attend were Kitty Black and Eltha Merrill. All members were remembered by their "Rosebuds" with a Valentine.

Wind Erosion Outlook For New Mexico

The wind erosion season in New Mexico is just around the corner. Past experiences show that March and April are the months when strong winds are apt to occur, although storms are not improbable during the winter months of January and February.

According to the Soil Conservation Service estimates as of January 1, approximately 108,000 acres of land in New Mexico's Great Plains area are subject to erosion during the 1959 blow season.

Approximately 73% of the soil in condition to blow is found on cropland and 27% is on rangeland.

The total amount of land that will actually be damaged during the blow season will depend on such factors as the type, velocity, and duration of wind storms; the amounts and frequency of precipitation; the timeliness of emergency tillage of cropland; and the intensity of grazing of rangeland which is susceptible to blowing, says Robert L. Gulce, extension soil conservationist at New Mexico State University.

Soil scientists have found that the degree of cloddiness, mechanical stability of clods, presence or absence and stability of the surface crust, and bulk density and size of erodible soil particles are some of the primary soil factors that influence erodibility of soil by wind.

Changes in the structural factors, and consequently in erodibility, are brought about by various field practices and environmental conditions, Gulce says.

Clods just large enough not to be moved by wind are most effective in preventing erosion. Large clods are less effective, because in proportion to their weight they have a smaller surface with which to protect erodible particles.

The county agricultural agent can furnish bulletins, research results and guidance to landowners and operators whose lands are subject to wind erosion. Help is also available through your local Soil Conservation District and technicians of the Soil Conservation Service can furnish technical assistance in preparing a complete conservation plan for the farm or ranch.

PONTIAC NAMED CAR OF THE YEAR

"Pontiac with wide-track wheels is the best combination of ride... handling... performance and styling of any '59 car"

—The Editors of Motor Trend Magazine

THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS

Which are five inches farther apart. This widens the wheel base and the car. Pontiac takes a longer grip on the road, hugs tighter on curves and corner. Steer and lean sharper, side is smoother, balanced, steadier. Handling is easier. You drive with a new confidence, a comforting security. Pontiac gives you the feeling of a "wider gauge" car all over.

In making its annual automotive award, the staff of Motor Trend Magazine, leading automotive publication, tests and evaluates all new cars. Here are quotations from the April 1959 issue:

"The stability of the 1959 Pontiac is the outstanding automotive advance of the year. Everyone, considering a new car should expectence it."

"It's the best balanced passenger car in America. We firmly believe that in moving the wheels farther apart, to develop the widest stance of any American car, Pontiac has created an entirely new sense of balance and handling security."

"Pontiac's lines are clean, simple and beautiful. It has a fleet look, a trim appearance. The wide wheel design contributes greatly to its over-all integrated styling. Any comparison with narrower track cars readily shows the difference."

"For the economy-minded, an efficient new engine. The new 400X Tempest economy engine offers remarkable performance along with exceptionally high mileage while operating on regular grade gasoline."

"Pontiac is again tops in performance, based on our extensive road testing. Acceleration is outstanding, yet the engine is unusually quiet and smooth."

Your nearest Pontiac dealer will be glad to let you read-test this award-winning automobile on your own. You'll see why it's the year's most talked-about car!

1959 Legislators Battling at 500

Santa Fe, Feb. 25 — The 1959 legislature has turned into the homestretch with not much accomplished, not many hurt, and with prospects for a March 14 adjournment on the same mediocre note.

As legislatures go that's good. They are generally feared by business, industry, politicians and cultural groups for the harm they might do.

Outside of maintaining the status quo and a little effort in behalf of improving business conditions, the 1959 legislature does not have a program.

The first three quarters of the session produced no leadership, and indeed, the administration was defeated in a couple of flurries. The senate confirmation of Gov. John Burroughs's nominee, Albert Shubert for the public service commission was no administration victory.

Shubert had been asked to throw in the towel by the governor's man, Dick Valdez, but stayed in and made it with the help of Sen. Tibbo Chavez of Belen who didn't like to see "a little guy being kicked around by big fellows."

Biggest Figures of the Session

The biggest figures in the 1959 legislature:

House—Rep. Jack Campbell of Roswell. The forty-something lawyer doesn't talk much but has convincing authority when he does. He's a Demo prospect for governor.

Rep. Morgan Nelson of Roswell, the chairman of the appropriations committee, who seems to have the confidence of the members on money matters.

Senate—Sen. Gene Lusk of Carlsbad, the majority floor leader. He uses popularly plus political intelligence to get what he wants.

Sen. Gordon Melody, chairman of the appropriations group, who by the record has won the confidence of his colleagues.

The senators have been together for two sessions or longer and the chamber is something like an intimate club of 32.

Carter, Osborne Lose the Most

The costs of the 1959 legislature: Rep. Anderson Carter of Portales, former chairman of the house appropriations committee and retiring chairman of the year-around finance committee.

Governor Burroughs of Portales has gone a long way toward smashing him. He's out as head of the appropriations committee, out as chairman of the finance committee and also replaced on the sheep sanitary board. Carter influence in the legislature is reduced but still considerable. He is the biggest individual opponent of the administration in the legislature.

Sen. Bill Osborne of Roswell, a promising senator in 1957 and a prospect for a run for governor or senator when he entered the legislature. He is under fire at home for changing his vote on the "right to work" issue, and for sponsoring such proposals as reducing the age of consent for girls. He'll be hard pressed for re-election.

Politics Strengthen Burroughs for 1960

The one-term records of Democratic Gov. John Simms and Republican Ed Mechem since 1954 have led to a lot of talk about Demo Governor Burroughs being for only two years.

The Burroughs criticism is based mostly on his recruiting of political figures of 20 years ago for his statehouse operation. They include John Miles, Jess Mitchell, Bob Valdez, Filo Sedillo, and a lot of others who were prominent figures in the collapse of the Democrats in 1960.

Also there are a dozen Demo county chairmen in the statehouse and a considerable number of political figures, such as Albert Shubert, the unemployed Albuquerque bread operator who was chosen to grade with two others over the public utility business of New Mexico, who are not widely admired.

These characters don't stand to contribute much to public service but they are influential in the Democratic party which has better than two thirds of the voting registration in the state.

It was the lack of such political figures in the Simms and Mechem administrations that made the runs for re-election difficult for them in the opinion of practical observers.

At this point Burroughs stands stronger for a second term than either of the two preceding governors, largely because of his recruitment of generally unpopular but politically effective politicians.

District Court

In juvenile court February 20, Judge W. T. Scoggin processed a juvenile, charged with failure to keep his vehicle under control. A plea of guilty was entered. The youth was given a deferred sentence of six months and put on probation for six months. Driver's license for pleasure driving suspended 90 days. Assessed $50 probation costs.

Grizzlies Win from Tularosa; Defeat Lake Arthur

By winning two ball games over the week end the Carrizozo Grizzlies completed the most successful season play in five years, with their season record standing at 14 wins, 7 losses.

Winning over Lake Arthur Friday night by the score of 41 to 39 the Grizzlies upset the Tularosa Wildcats 46 to 39, Saturday night.

In the Lake Arthur contest the Grizzlies grabbed an early first quarter lead of 14 to 8 and then had to fight off a rally in the closing minutes of play for the victory.

Pacing the Grizzlies was Vega and Herrera with 13 and 12 points respectively, while Aranjio had 18 for the losers.

In Saturday night's contest with Tularosa, the Grizzlies had to fight an up-hill battle from the start of the game as they trailed 14 to 8 at the end of the first quarter.

The Grizzlies and Wildcats fought to even terms during the third quarter, with the Zozo quintet catching fire in the last quarter of play and scoring 14 points, while holding the Wildcats to three.

Athletes Could Excel on Moon

The moon's gravity is less than that of the earth, thus a visitor to the moon would weigh only one-sixth as much as he does normally. An athlete who on earth high jumps over a six-foot bar elevates his body's center of gravity an average of about three feet. On the moon he could leap 21 feet with similar effort, the National Geographic Magazine says.

Woman's Club Has Musical Program

Mrs. R. M. Shaler, program chairman, had as her guests, Miss Marilyn Harkey and Rev. Homer Reid. Miss Harkey playing on the piano "Clair De Lune" by De Bussy, a "Scotch Poem" by Mac Dowell, and "Romance" by Sibelius. The Rev. Homer Reid sang "Canta Mia Bien," "Nina," and "Love Has Eyes," which was enjoyed by everyone.

Mrs. E. T. Fletcher presided at the business meeting. The women voted to send aprons or material for aprons and sox to the Las Vegas Hospital.

The refreshment table was lovely. Carrying out the George Washington theme, the centerpiece was a lovely bouquet of red carnations, Cherry tarts with whipped cream, red, white and blue mints, mixed nuts, coffee and tea were served. The fire place was decorated with small American flags.

The hostesses were Mrs. Kelley Stephenson, T. E. Kelley, W. S. Ball and W. R. McGwiler.

Guests were Mrs. Lovelace, Mrs. Roy Richards and Mrs. E. I. Harkey.

Skating Ancient Mode of Travel

Skating is an ancient mode of travel, the National Geographic Magazine says. Scientists in Norway and Sweden have found skis dating from 8,000 to 5,000 years ago. As early as A.D. 1200, Swedish soldiers were using skis in winter campaigns. Skating became a popular sport in the 19th century.

PAPER EXPLAINS

date R&D firings and at the same time provide adequate range space and time for all NIKE firings required during annual service practice of air defense missile units. Furthermore, safety requirements for a large volume of NIKE HERCULES training firings could not be met at WSMR due to a U. S. Highway, White Sands National Monument and some inhabited complexes being included in the possible impact area. Thus, the practicable rate of training firings could not permit the volume of fire required for the training program involved.

(b) Training firing can be scheduled at McGregor Range without coordination being required with R&D firings and the required volume of HERCULES firing may be handled safely.

(c) Impracticability of firing only NIKE AJAX at Red Canyon and all HERCULES at McGregor.

(a) The first HERCULES units will fire their annual service practice this calendar year and will fire both AJAX and HERCULES missiles. The firing of only AJAX at Red Canyon and all HERCULES at McGregor is considered impracticable from the standpoint of:

1. Additional travel required.
2. Time required to set up and check out equipment at both ranges.
3. Prohibitive cost of duplicate ground equipment at both ranges.

(b) McGregor Range can accommodate the training firings for

Both AJAX and HERCULES Missiles

(3) Considerations of Economy and Efficiency

(a) The support of the Red Canyon Range Camp by Fort Bliss from a distance of 160 miles, develops many large administrative and logistical requirements, requiring thousands of man hours and vehicle miles, with associated maintenance problems. USABAD-COM and USAREUR firing packets are airlifted from on site locations to El Paso, thence journey to Red Canyon by bus. The ground trip to Red Canyon involves loss of valuable training time.

(b) The centralization of training firing activities and support requirements at McGregor Range (only 30 miles from Fort Bliss) will result in greater efficiency of operation, thus greater economy. In addition, because McGregor Range is more accessible to Fort Bliss, significant savings will be effected in support requirements and in training time.

(3) Future Utilization of Red Canyon. Under present plans no other units will conduct training firing at Red Canyon. The area will revert to and be treated as a normal portion of the White Sands Missile Range. No decision has been made regarding future occupancy of the camp site.
