

Critically injured in Highway 54 wreck

Mrs. Susan Hindi of Duran is reported to be in critical condition in the Bataan Memorial Hospital in Albuquerque as a result of a traffic accident near midnight Saturday on Highway 54, 8 1/2 miles south of Carrizozo.

When the car she was driving struck a guard rail and turned over one time, Mrs. Hindi was thrown out. She sustained a compound fracture of her left lower arm and internal injuries.

The four children riding with Mrs. Hindi were only slightly injured. The accident is believed to have been caused by a blowout of the left rear tire.

Mr. and Mrs. Hindi and family were returning to Duran from Anthony. Driving a pickup and pulling a horse trailer, Mr. Hindi was ahead of his wife about a half mile. When he realized she was no longer following, he stopped his pickup, turned around and went back to discover the accident.

The ambulance was called to take Mrs. Hindi and the children to the Carrizozo hospital.

State Patrolman James Clayton, investigated the accident.

SAFETY BELTS ARE PROTECTION FOR MOTORISTS
The serious injury to several motorists recently, and one fatality might have been prevented had the drivers of vehicles involved been wearing safety belts, in the opinion of Patrolman Clayton.

"A safety belt gives the motorist a certain amount of protection," he says. "Because people are frequently badly hurt or killed when thrown out of cars on impact."

With the Fourth of July week and coming along, Patrolman Clayton urges motorists to observe the speed laws and drive with courtesy so that Lincoln County can have an accident-free holiday.

Another accident on Highway 54 this one 4.5 miles north of Carrizozo last Friday resulted in no injuries to Mrs. Gretchen Smallen-hoff and small daughter of Denver.

Mrs. Smallenhoff failed to see a State Highway gravel truck in the highway ahead of her and did not get out of her car in time to avoid the rear end of the truck, driven by Albert Hernandez, State Highway employe.

Mr. Dingwall came to Roswell at the age of 17 and went to work for the Scott Grocery Company, driving the delivery wagon around Roswell. In the Fall he went to Tulare, then to Alamogordo and Tulare looking for work.

CHS Alumni have eventful reunion

Carrizozo High School alumni from New Mexico and eight other states were returning to their homes this week after a school reunion, classes 1914 to 1935, described by all who attended as a "grand success."

At a meeting June 25, the alumni voted to form a permanent association and to hold another general reunion in 1953 and each five years thereafter, including all graduating classes up to the present time and each succeeding class as they graduate. Dates were set at $1 a year.

The Alumni Association decided that any single classes may have their own reunion annually, or when they desire, but it is the general purpose of this association to include all graduates from 1914 through the present, and all dues paid will be used for the reunion each five years, with the exception of nominal expenses for single class reunions.

The Association will issue membership cards to all alumni upon payment of annual dues. Alumni began arriving in Carrizozo last Thursday for the 1960 reunion and continued to arrive until Saturday.

Friday was registration day at the Woman's Clubhouse. Coffee and doughnuts were served and group pictures were made.

Saturday morning was again registration at the grade school building. Coffee and cake were served and the alumni visited during the morning and looked over the school grounds and buildings.

The first program was arranged for Saturday afternoon at 1:30 at which Lin Brannum, class of 1920, was master of ceremonies. The program was as follows:

"Star Spangled Banner" and "Pledge of Allegiance" by all. Welcome, J. T. Clegg, superintendent of schools.

Song, "Trees," by Raymond Lackland, accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Kelley. (Raymond received an education, as this was the song he sang at the State music meet in 1922 in Las Vegas and for which he was awarded first place.) His encore number was "Desert Song."

Lin Brannum sang "Without a Song" and "Old Man River" as an encore number.

"Memories" and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" were sung by the group and Lin Brannum and Bess Boone White sang a duet "Oh, Fair New Mexico."

Over a hundred attended the banquet at the Carrizozo Country Club Saturday night and enjoyed a fine smorgasbord dinner prepared by ladies of the Country Club Auxiliary. Rufus Brannum was master of ceremonies. There was no program, but in a brief talk he highly praised the Alumni committees for their work in making the reunion a memorable one.

Later the dance was well attended and guests enjoyed a square dance exhibition, with George Cooper calling.

Smokey the Bear Museum at Capitan to be open to visitors starting Saturday

By DOROTHY GUCK

The newly completed Smokey Bear Museum in Capitan will be open daily from July 2, 1949, through the tourist season, with no admission charged.

The building is a replica of the type of ranger stations and homes of early pioneers first constructed in the West. A proposed home for the ten-year-old Smokey in the Washington Zoo will use the same log cabin design with quarters for a possible family.

The Museum at Lincoln portrays the historical significance of fires and events in Lincoln County, with Billy the Kid highlighted. The museum at Capitan displays the natural resources of Lincoln County, including wildlife, timber, soil, water, minerals and information pertaining to them.

Smokey the Bear is highlighted as the protector of these resources. The U. S. Forest Service, the SCS and the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish have cooperated to create interesting educational and informative exhibits well worth stopping to see.

Smokey's story is told in 20-inch by 40-inch pictures on the north wall. Outstanding wildlife photographs cover the west wall. Three antique copper colonial light fixtures hang from the ceiling and copper accents focus on the wall exhibits. Table exhibits complete the conservation story.

The Smokey Oscar has a niche in the native rock fireplace; a place is made for the Smokey soap and such special items as the original Smokey art, the ring-dated cross section of a Capitan Mountain pine tree, and a large colored map.

Smokey commercial items will be available from members of the Woman's Club who will act as hostesses.

MUSEUM PLANNING BEGUN TWO YEARS AGO
Two years ago a small group of Capitan citizens met with Forest Service people, heads of county agencies and a few interested neighbors to decide if anything could be done to put Capitan on the map as the birthplace of Smokey the Bear.

Forest Supervisor Everett Doman wondered if a museum could be built to attract tourists to Capitan and also further Smokey's campaign to prevent forest fires.

The late Don Murphy, who had headed the action to dedicate the portals presented in 1935 by the Woman's Club, said he was sure we could build a log cabin museum, but the immensity of the project seemed overwhelming to some.

Hollis Cummins started things off by offering land between the Gulf station and the City Hall on Highway 530. Ground breaking ceremonies were held in May of 1953, with Mrs. Ross Flatley wielding the shovel. Reverend Sparta, Bill Holmer and Joe Rench making the speeches. Pearl Soderback arranged for the Club to serve an SCS dinner which earned the first $200.

Lloyd Rench was appointed construction supervisor and Charles Pepper building foreman. Ranger Ed Guck marked the trees that

WHERE TO GO FOURTH OF JULY

Rockets and flares to illuminate sky over Carrizozo
The Carrizozo Fire Department invites one and all to attend the free fireworks display the evening of Monday July 4, at the town ball park.

This is the third year the Fire Department has presented an aerial display to celebrate the Fourth and each year the display has grown in size and beauty.

The show this year will last over an hour, starting around 8 o'clock in the evening.

At intermission time the winner will be announced of the $100 merchandise prize or Polaroid camera to be given away. This has been the means used by the Fire Department to help defray the expense of the fireworks.

Ropers Club Rodeo at White Oaks

A large crowd is expected in White Oaks Monday, July 4, for the White Oaks Ropers Club Rodeo and Dance.

Events for children, juniors and adults are to take place during the day. The children's events are open to all boys and girls, 12 and under, and junior events are for boys and girls, 12 through 15.

Many will stay until evening to attend the dance at the schoolhouse, where a good western band will play and a good time is assured.

Steer riding, roping and barrel racing are a few activities for the children and juniors.

Included in the adult competition will be calf roping, wild cow milking and bull riding. Open barrel racing will be an event for everyone who can ride.

Admission to the dance is $1.25; to the rodeo 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children 11 years and under.

Cold drinks, hot dogs and sandwiches will be available for those not bringing their own lunches.

Three-day Rodeo at Fairgrounds starts July 2nd

The Second Annual Smokey Stampede at Capitan is a holiday week and attraction that is sure to draw a large crowd.

LAWMAN'S SIX SHOOTER

Pictured above is William Brent with an heirloom which he presented recently to the Old Lincoln County Courthouse Museum in Lincoln, N. M. The revolver, a Colt .44 Frontier Six Shooter, had belonged to his father, Jim Brent, who had received it as a gift from the citizens of White Oaks in 1863. The gun was one of a pair presented at the same time, the other one being given to Pat Garrett.

Jim Brent had migrated to New Mexico from Virginia in the 1870's and settled in Lincoln. He served as chief deputy to Sheriff Pat Garrett during the era of Billy the Kid. Later he was elected sheriff of Lincoln County, appointing Pat Garrett his chief deputy. Much later Brent again became chief deputy to Garrett in Dona Ana County.

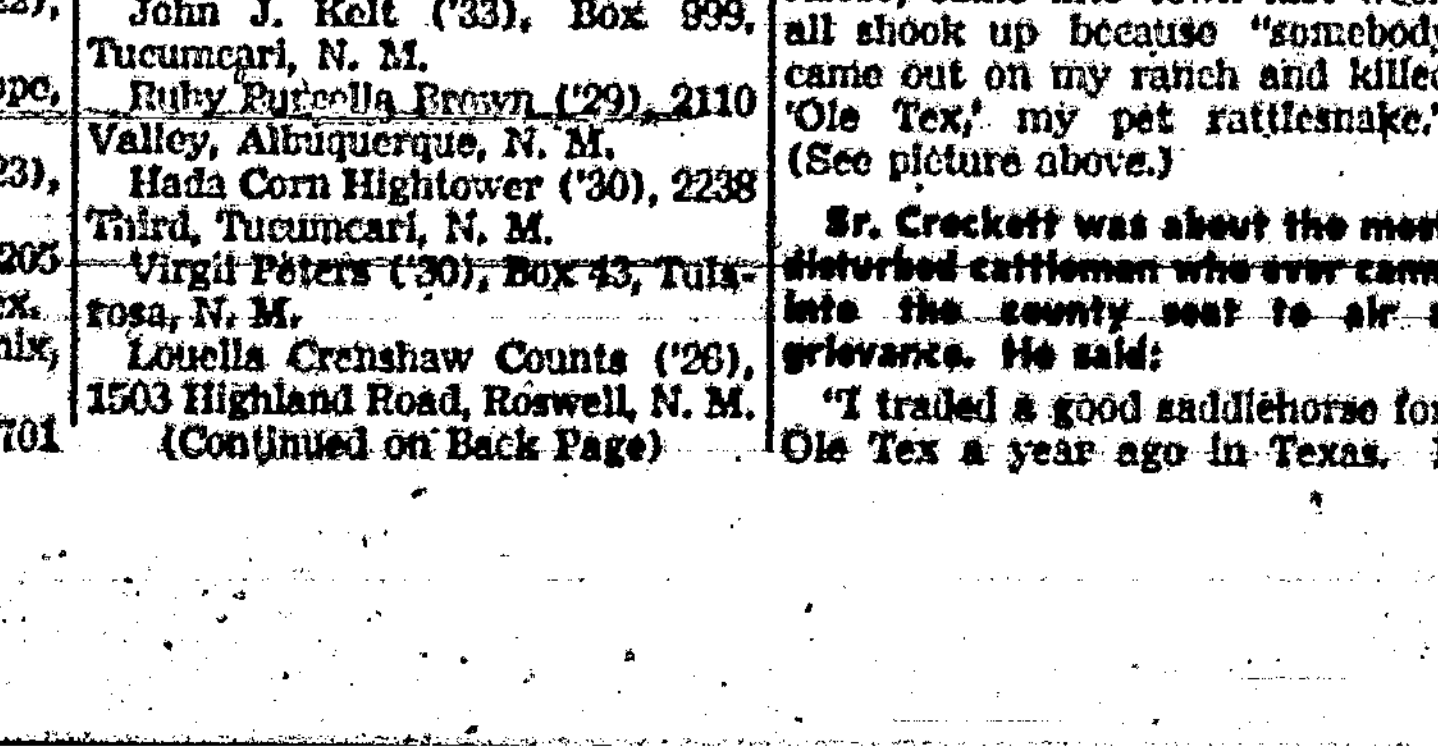

In the interim and afterward Jim Brent served as Deputy U. S. Marshal, and detective for the Cattlemen's Association, rounding out 35 years as a law man in Silver

SIXTY-NINE NAMES ON REGISTRATION BOOK

The alumni registration book had 69 names. The class of 1918 was the only one that had 100% attendance. Its members being Bess White Boone of Ingleswood, Calif., Rufus Brannum of Los Angeles and Rachel West of Carrizozo.

Mrs. Johnnie Townsend Hamner of Mississippi traveled the greatest distance and the class of 1930 had the most represented, with 11 graduates present.

'Tex' ... the friendly rattler

The bells are tolling on the Crockett Ranch near Carrizozo for "Ole Tex" the 18-ft. rattlesnake skinned over recently by two prospectors. "Gentle as a kitten, that's what he was" says the ranch owner, "and I had 'im eatin' out of my hand. That 'Mexican' story is only a fancy tale."

Ervin F. Crockett, whose ranch borders the Mal Pais west of Carrizozo, came into town last week all shook up because "somebody came out on my ranch and killed 'Ole Tex', my pet rattlesnake." (See picture above.)

Mr. Crockett was about the most disturbed cattlemen who ever came into the county seat to air a grievance. He said: "I trailed a good saddlehorse for Ole Tex a year ago in Texas. I been feedin' him a goat every other day and I had 'im halter broke and branded with my Hall-D brand."

"This summer, I was goin' to saddle break Ole Tex so's I could ride him to chase goats in the Mal Pais. You should see how easy those big rattlers slide over the rocks and crevices."

"Now I want it strictly understood," he said, "nobody comes out to my ranch and shoots those big snakes. I don't care if they kill the little ones even or eight feet long, but those 18-footers I got fed for as I say."

"I was goin' to take Ole Tex down to Dallas this winter and hire him out to throw for battlin' practice. You should see him wind up and throw one of his baseballs across the plate."

Keep down those garden insects
If you expect your garden to produce the most for you, keep the insects down. If you let them build up, the plant is already hurt.

New strain of sheep for the Southwest
New strains of sheep—hardy enough to withstand the rigorous environment of southwestern ranges, able to produce good feeder lambs and grow good-quality fleeces for hand weaving—have been developed by USDA.
These strains came out of a continuing sheep-breeding study conducted by the New Mexico Agricultural Experiment Station at Ft. Wingate, the Bureau of Indian Affairs of the U. S. Department of Interior, and ARS.
During 20 years of breeding and selection, fleeces were doubled, wool quality was improved, and objectionable hollow and brittle fibers—often 70% of the original fleeces—were eliminated.
Foundation flock for this work consisted of about 800 Navajo ewes and about 20 Navajo rams. These sheep were selected because of their hardiness and adaptability to southwestern ranges, qualities that were largely retained in the new strains. Foundation stock produced small quantities of carpet-type wool and inferior lambs, but breeding improved these two characteristics.

BOTTOM—This can be called either a settling or thickening tank at Kennecott's Chino Mines Division. The low grade copper ore is milled and the copper removed. The waste materials are then washed into this tank. The waste settles to the bottom and is sent to the dump; the water is drawn off the top and reused for the same process. This re-claiming of water is an example of Chino's interest in the conservation of natural resources. Another example is the copper ore itself. Through efficient operations, it is possible for Kennecott to conserve and actually lengthen the life of the mine, thus providing continued benefits, including tax payment, that aid in the development of New Mexico.

THE CIVIL WAR IN NEW MEXICO

PART VIII

"Of course he was soon overpowered, and after coming into camp that night was tried by a field court martial. The sentence was read out, the column formed a hollow square; at the open end a chair was placed, the prisoner with eyes bandaged, sat thereon, and a squad of Mounted Riflemen, after the command fire, sent him into eternity for his rash act. He died without a struggle, pierced by six bullets.

"Nothing further occurred worth mentioning until Canby and his men reached Los Bariles, the southern suburb of Albuquerque. The scouts reported a large force of Texans in the town. Pickets were thrown out, rifle pits dug and everybody slept on his arms awaiting to dance to the music of the cannons the next day, the tenth of April. The day opened nicely and bright and soon thereafter the two 24-pounders were placed in position and thus commenced the bombardment of Albuquerque.

"The Texas batteries soon responded from near the mill at Rancho Seco. Several of the six pound round shot threw the sand into the eyes of the support of the batteries, then bounced over the pieces and made the cavalymen behind take refuge behind some buildings.

"Major Duncan, Mounted Rifles, trying to dodge one of these missiles, lost his balance in the saddle and fell headlong to the ground, hurting him somewhat. Report said it was a scalp wound on the side of his head. After the cannon duel had lasted for a while, some of the Union citizens of Albuquerque came to report that the Texans would not allow either women or children to seek refuge, and it was ordered to 'cease firing.'

"The command went back into camp, and soon thereafter a council of war was held. The results of this were that, at sundown, large campfires were built but soon after dark the wagons were packed and nearly the whole force, except buglers, drummers and fifers took the road towards Tijeras Canon. The musicians, at about 8 o'clock played tattoo, then jumped on horses, and under a small escort soon caught up to the silently retreating column.

"The march up the canon was continued as far up as San Antonio. There after lying over one day, an express reached the command from Las Vegas, and the next morning Canby ordered a march about, back towards the Rio Grande.

"On the 15th of April, 1862, after having made supper near the mouth of the canon, at Tijeras, the wagons were loaded again and on went the column silently without the cracking of a whip, or the lighting of a pipe, during most of the night, marching to Perote.

"Coming within range of that town, the wagons were corralled, and everybody slept or rather watched, in the ranks, for daylight to appear."

Wood Windows Help Make USAF Academy Homier

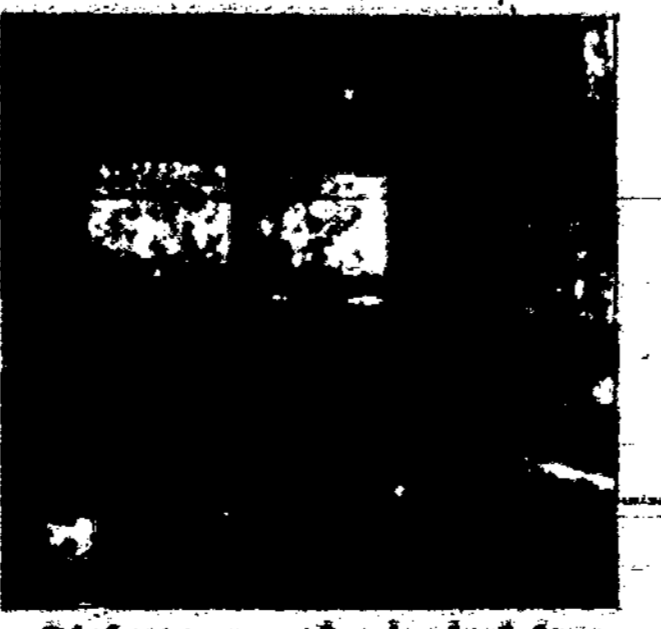

The nation's most future-minded organization—the U.S. Air Force—turned to one of nature's oldest building materials recently in the construction of housing at the new Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Wood windows—factory-constructed units of ponderosa pine—were chosen for the academy's 1,200 family housing units. More than 10,000 window units were installed on the project.

These window units of ponderosa pine consist not only of the complete window itself—sash, frame, and hardware—but the entire portion of the wall, floor to ceiling, in which the unit is installed.

This permitted workmen on the project to merely tilt the wall and window section into place and nail it to backing wall studs. The builders, Del E. Webb and Hubertstein Construction Co., said this speed of installation kept work on schedule.

These and similar window units of ponderosa pine also are ideal for home construction and remodeling. They reduce time on the job, resulting in a savings on labor costs, and provide the warmth and beauty of wood on the exterior as well as the interior of a house. Wood window units in all sizes to harmonize with most modes of architecture are available from building material dealers.

Horsemen make 2nd annual 4-day jaunt over White Mountain trails

By LOUISE RUNNELS

This is the second year for the "Trail Ride," just concluded, a four-day trek by horseback through the White Mountain country. Riders took their horses to Montjeau Peak in trailers, where they mounted to begin a ride which ended at the Bonnell Ranch at Glencoe.

The riders were "Skipper" Floyd Rigdon, editor of the Carlsbad Current-Argus daily newspaper; Karl Johnson, Ruidoso; Dick Bradley, mayor of Carlsbad; Pete Calvinis, a former Aggie from A&M, now of Amarillo; Red Austin, wealthy Texan from Lubbock; Johnny Williams, president of the Barber Food Mart in Albuquerque; A. C. Spots, general manager; Barber Food Mart, Albuquerque; Jim Cool, engineer for Bob Anderson, of San Ysidro, Calif.; and Baja, Calif.; Homer Glover, president, Glover's Packing Company, Roswell; Bill Wingfield, secretary and treasurer of the Glover Packing Co., Roswell; A. J. Armstrong, sales manager, for Glover's; Patsy (Bronc Buster) Allen, former Buick dealer of Roswell; "B. H." Scranton, dealer for Phillips 66 Petroleum Co.; M. H. McClelland, of Douglas Aircraft at White Sands, and Santa Monica, Calif.

These boys started their first day last week with Bill Wingfield, trail boss, leading off to the day's destination, to Montjeau to the old A. B. Fall Rock House at Three Rivers where a Glover Packing Company refrigerated truck was to meet them from the West side and set up camp, with Maj. (ret.) N. M. M. I.) Albert Hudson, head cook.

It was a wonderful meal, even if the Major was three hours late. After a night's rest the riders headed for Argentine at the mouth of Bonito Creek. On this trip Bill Wingfield saw two bear and one Patsy got piled. Yes, piled five times and he said his mother told him if he couldn't ride anything after three tries to quit!

So, Bill Wingfield crawled the bronco and—better luck—stayed in the saddle.

Again that evening in Argentine Canyon, Mayor Albert Hudson, his helpers Wayland Smith, Juan Babiliste and Kenneth Eschlinger, tho a little late, prepared a real mess of victuals.

All night there and then the boys came down the canyon to Bonito City and Red Austin "set 'em up," including all the little Bonito youngsters who stood around looking at the "cowboys"—hats, spurs, chaps, whiskers and pretty horses.

Their next stop was at the "Old Brewery" down Bonito Creek. The next day they rode to near the Bonnell Ranch where their wives met them to join in a last check wagon feed. Kenneth Nosker and Ralph Bonnell had met the boys at their camp at the "Old Brewery."

The last evening of the ride ended at the Bonnell Ranch where they had a cowboy dance with music by the Coes, and Coes and Coes; then saying good-bye until next year's "trail ride."

News Notes from Along the Bonito

By LOUISE RUNNELS

I shan't start my news notes without paying tribute to our Uncle George Dingwall. Lawrence Peebles came by to tell us of his passing away about 5 o'clock Monday morning in the Carrizozo hospital. Uncle George's wit and humor made him a jolly person to be around. I'd like to know I'd leave this world having led as fine a life as did George.

Ray and Eunice Hubbard will have their 40-year wedding anniversary at Portales July 3 in the home of their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kolt. They will have a dinner and reception and have asked many relatives and friends to attend.

At the Roy LaMay Ranch this week end for a visit were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Phillips from Lincoln and some Roswell folks, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Frank and their three children.

Scarretto LaMay spent a week recently with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Stewart in Alamogordo.

For a week's stay at the Ghost Ranch north of Santa Fe will be Jeanette LaMay, Alma Walker and Glenneth LaMay. It is a Presbyterian youth camp. Mrs. Alma Walker took the girls up there.

Mrs. Prior Kirk and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Koeth from Hollywood, N. M., were on the Bonito Monday evening on business. They say Mr. and Mrs. Jay Koeth and family from Tucson may spend the Fourth of July hereabouts. A card from Mr. and Mrs. Pat Jones tells us they have a brand new baby girl. Mrs. Jones was the former Laura Leo Koeth.

From Artesia this week to fish (no-luck)—were Don Horroew and Don Adams and friend. Makes the fishermen plenty disgusted to come that far and no luck. (Also makes the wives suspicious?)

Milo Gaydos and Mr. and Mrs. Glover from Organ, N. M., fished and camped one night on the Bonito past week. Mrs. Glover remembered going to some good dances at Fred Swett's homestead at Ancho years ago.

Mayor and Mrs. Fletcher Hall from Capitán came to Bonito last Thursday evening to get a horse and paid us a visit. They went on a trip to Port Arthur and Galveston, Texas, recently—fished, saw the Gulf and visited relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Taylor are the new caretakers at Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Carter's farm on the Bonito. Hugh and Nina Trullit are still here too to help the Taylors get started. The Taylors will have two boys in school—one age 12 and the other 16.

Jake Fuller and Johnnie Wright from Carrizozo were on the Bonito on business Friday. Johnnie plans to go to California soon to make his home permanently.

Shorty Jones and Penny McKnight went to Eastern Arizona Junior College last year. Shorty works for Charlie Jones this summer and Penny is helping his folks at their ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalton West and little son from Sierra Blanca, Tex. are here for a while helping Mr. West build his house in Ponderosa Heights.

Charlie Haley and daughter Shirley from Capitán stopped by Bonito Sunday on their way to Turkey Canyon.

Tom and James Taylor from Lincoln visited at Donito City Sunday. From Nogal out driving Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Zumbalt.

Miss Martha McKnight (above) became the bride of Mr. William Dee Proctor in a ceremony Friday, June 17, at the First Presbyterian Church in Ruidoso.

Brown bear's liking for ewe's milk leads to downfall of predator

By DOROTHY GUCK

At 10 p.m. Thursday, June 16, Marvin Jones received a phone call from Leon Erramouso of Corona.

"I hear that you have some bear dogs," he said. "We've got a killer bear on our ranch that's sure slaying our sheep."

Marvin agreed to bring his hounds, and arrived at the Corona ranch at 6:30 the next morning. He was shown two ewes that had been killed 36 hours before. The bear hadn't returned Thursday night, probably because the all-night vigil of the ranchmen scared him off.

Horses were saddled, and the dogs took the old trail about 9 a.m. The hot, dry day was not good for tracking an old scent and the dogs had to give up, but not before they found two more old kills.

Marvin took the hounds back to his home on Nogal Mesa and told John Erramouso to call him as soon as he saw fresh sign of a new kill.

The next morning, Saturday, at 7:45 he got the call and by the time he arrived at the new kill which was close to the Claunch road, it was too hot to work out the trail.

Marvin decided to stay at the ranch and he and George Hansen drove out to a tank during the evening, near the last kill, searching for sign of the bear. They learned that the bear watered at that tank every day and spent the heat of the day in the nearby Gallinas Mountain, prowling the sheep range at night.

"There's one thing different about this bear," Marvin said. "Usually they will return to the scene of their kill until they have devoured all the carcass, but this bear is killing wet ewes and only eats the bags for the milk."

"And he's sure making lots of dogle lams," Mr. Erramouso replied. "Coyotes and cats have killed too many of our sheep already this year. We got to get this bear."

Neighboring ranchers and friends were all as interested in the hunt. Saturday morning at 3 the men started preparing for the hunt, intending to give the dogs a chance at fresh scent before the heat of the day. Fortunately, it was a little cloudy and cooler.

The two lead dogs, Buck and Music, were ready for work, although Music was heavy with the pups she expects July 6th. Red, half bloodhound, was better with litters, Spot, Rock and Rustler, were as restless as the lead dogs, as they got on the trail.

The men unloaded the horses and dogs about four miles from the Erramouso Ranch and started riding west, paralleling the Claunch highway. Three pickups of neighboring ranchers and El Paso Gas line men were driving the Claunch road ahead of the riders and just as they reached the tank previously checked by Jones and Hansen as the bear's drinking place, a blare-of-horns signaled the riders that the bear was in sight.

The dogs eagerly followed the hot trail and the men told the riders the direction the bear was heading. It was only 5:45 a.m. when the dogs took the fresh trail. Music was slow enough by her condition to give the hunters the sound of her howling to lead them.

About five or six miles from the road the dogs treed the bear and held it there almost an hour until the hunters arrived and John Erramouso shot the killer.

The bear was not too large, less than 200 pounds, dark brown, with a large head. George Hansen examined the animal and said, "This is the original that was found as a cub four years ago. The Game Department turned it loose in the Gallinas Mountains and it has lived here ever since without molesting livestock."

"It's killing sheep was kinda short," John Book said, "thanks to Marvin and his hounds. It has been killing for only three nights—eight or ten ewes."

A month before the same bear had cleared the ranges east of Corona, passing by several bands of sheep without touching any. A wild animal that suddenly went on a crime spree and paid for it with his life.

CLAUNCH

The bridal shower given in honor of Margie Wade on Friday night was well attended. She received many nice and useful gifts, including a living room set. Those from out of Claunch were Edith Smith from Alamogordo, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Maples and Mr. and Mrs. Cozzen, daughter Sharon and son Jerry from Tularosa.

The Ray Lovelace family, John Smith and wife and daughter Edith and John Couch and wife attended the Torrance County singing at Moriarty Sunday. They reported some wonderful singing. The next singing convention will be at Encino on Sunday, August 4.

Robbie Jane Welland from Albuquerque has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Welland; also Mr. Welland's sister, Mrs. O. D. Lovelace from Albuquerque.

Mrs. Jim Montgomery's brother from California is visiting here. They made a trip to Roswell and visited Mr. Montgomery's children over the week end.

Mrs. Lewis Wells and daughter, Mrs. Jackie Stewart were in Claunch recently to visit Mother Stewart, but she had gone to Fort Taylor to be with her daughter.

Mrs. Dotty Maples is spending the week with her mother, Mrs. Charley Wade.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lovelace are expecting their son, Willis Ray. Mrs. He has been discharged from the Service and was in Deamont, Texas over the week end.

We have been having some hot days for this part of the country. Mr. and Mrs. Surratt have gone back to Texas.

Mrs. Louisa Jobe has been visiting her children in Kilgore, Texas. The folks gave Mother Stewart a nice supper and handkerchief shower going-away party. She is in Portales with her daughter, Mrs. Marion Florigo from Carrizozo.

The supper and party were meant for Mrs. Jobe, too, but she left two days before it was given. Stella Smith has been real sick with strep throat for ten days, but she was able to go with her husband and the Ray Lovelace family to Alamogordo for the Sunday singing. Mrs. Welda Dussey and two sons went also. They report good singing, but a very hot day.

John Couch and Charlie Wade had about finished planting beans last week.

Nell Fetters and wife have been visiting his sister, Mrs. Alton Taylor. Nell is in the service of Uncle Sam and expects to return over- seas soon.

Dreck Sloan seems to be doing fine.

It's too bad that the two men who killed that monster snake let such a fortune slip by, for if they had captured it alive they probably could have got $1,000 or more from any zoo.

Jim and Mattie Montgomery visited recently in the home of John Couch.

NEEDS HELP

Dramatic proof of the need for aid for Chilton earthquake victims is evidenced by this Puerto Rican orphan—his only belongings hooped in a string bag—shown waiting a merry plane trip to a refugee reception center in Santiago.

Millions throughout the world are responding in appeals for help. President Eisenhower appointed American Red Cross President General Alfred M. Gruentzer, as coordinator of U. S. voluntary relief efforts. Numerous religious and welfare organizations are engaged in the massive relief project. The Red Cross which is conducting a nationwide fund appeal, made an initial allotment of $175,000 and provided 100,000 yards of donated medical and other supplies.

hurling the American system. "More than half think most people are incapable of deciding what is best for themselves and therefore government should make the decisions for them. "How long can we have a free enterprise system when our high school students do not understand the system under which they live? "Robert W. Jackson, western regional public relations director for General Electric Company, observed in a recent speech that totalitarianism never had and never will need a majority of the population behind it. Only 85% of the Russian people belong to the Communist Party. All we need to do is to destroy democracy and private enterprise in this country is just a reasonable nucleus of people who don't understand and don't want these things—say, about a quarter of the boys and a third of the girls.

"Most high school seniors said that business is bad for the country. Fifty-six percent contended that government should eliminate economic problems by taking from the rich and giving to the poor. 68% favored government control of the press, radio and television. "In another questionnaire answered by 6,000 high school students, 23% of the boys and 33% of the girls said that government should operate and control banks, electric utilities, railroads and the steel industry. And these surveys reveal that over 60% of these students believe that the profit motive can be eliminated without

Indian carvings say: "Good Hunting"

Mr. and Mrs. Wally Hesse who are camped in Kraut Canyon doing some mining in their "Hopeful" mine, were prospecting in the Capitan Mountains over the week end and found an interesting type of carving on a rock which appeared to be of ancient Indian origin. Wally spent some time with a small axe, cutting out the carving and they brought it into camp from rugged country.

He and his wife Louise took it to an Indian about 80 years old at the Apache Summit in Mesquero to ask his opinion.

The Indian, Eugene Chawawa, said the markings were definitely Indian signs and had a meaning. One, an arrow, and the other which looked like a turtle, the Indian said meant "Treasuro—Good Hunting, Prospectors!"

New Mexico Game Warden Ray Bell and U. S. "Man, those crazy rattles!"

Carrizozo Defenses Fame in El Paso Times.

A letter defending the fame of Carrizozo was printed last week in the El Paso Times. It follows:

"In view of the skepticism, arched eyebrows and 'doubting Thomases' whenever mention is made of the 18-foot rattlesnake found in the badlands north of Carrizozo, a group of the citizenry in Carrizozo, determined that we should not lose forever our one chance for glory, dispatched two of the most able-bodied badlands experts, Desert Dan and Jonnie Cockleburr, into the treacherous country to prove that the giant snake had existed.

"Armed with sub-machine guns, machetes, no-doze pills and a plentiful supply of snake-bite medicine, these two fearless men of distinction made their tortuous way to the spot where the boys got the snakes, correction, killed the snakes. Hearing a noise like Ma used to make when she pounded the bottom of her sliplan to call the men-folks to dinner, they discovered the Mama-snake-rattling her rattles—man, those crazy rattles—any one of which would have made a neck-piece for Strangler Lewis. Her head was larger than a truck wheel and from her six foot fangs dropped venom which set small prairie fires.

"Having just swallowed a large eye, she was in a tranquil state and with very little trouble, using about 300 rounds of ammunition, Dan and Jonnie made short work of the mama snake.

"The temperature being 135 in the shade, she was skinned and a large tee-pee erected and, of course, the skeleton rapidly disintegrated from being so burned hot. But just as soon as time permits this hide will be brought in to prove that these big Lincoln County snakes are no illusion."

"Have any of you folks ever drunk any homo-made red-eye, aged in a small keg attached to the necker rod of a windmill? Try it and any doubts you have about big snakes will be forever erased from your mind."

The Lincoln Forest donated and J. G. Otero and sons cut and hauled them.

Abel Pino peeled the logs and Mr. Pepper started putting them in place as soon as the concrete floor was poured. This work took two weeks to accomplish as most of it had to be done on Saturdays and Sundays.

Motorists often stopped during the summer to watch the laying of the logs, an unusual sight nowadays. Other members worked at raising money. Charles Jones put $50 on account at the hardware store; Roswell, Ruidoso and Carrizozo merchants bought advertisements in a Capitán brochure; there were numerous individual donations of money and the Pecos Valley Lumber Company donated the shingles. People were very generous.

In May, 1953, President Eisenhower presented Capitán with the first Smokey Ozcar, which was an incentive to work harder for this conservation project. The Extension Service of New Mexico named Capitán the Conservation Town of 1953, and in November, Rudy Wendelin, the nationally famous Smokey artist, came to help dedicate the half-finished museum.

The dedication in Capitán was a big day, as national and state officials gathered to present an outstanding program. The Pageant "Smokey's Rescue," by Troop 53 of Capitán was printed for national distribution by the Forest Service.

Progress was slow in 1950, but the walls and roof were completed and more funds raised by dances at the Legion Hall, and with a Mexican women Smokey serape donated by Bill Holmes.

As the money came in, Joe Rench purchased windows, burners, floor and fabrics for the fireplace and rope chinking for the walls. The building had been knocked crooked by a truck and had to be straightened.

As soon as the weather warmed this spring, work began again and now the colorful structure, with the rich slanting logs and chain roof, the heavy wooden door and wide stone fireplace is completed. Landscaping and finishing details will be carried on throughout the summer and opening ceremonies will take place later, when a tin box containing the story and names of contributors will be sealed in a cornerstone of the fireplace.

With all the contributed labor and materials, the building has required an outlay of about $3,000, all raised by small community projects and by donations.

Janice McKnight of Capitán first to enter 'Make it With Wool Contest'

The first contestant in District 9, and also first in New Mexico to register in the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest was Janice McKnight of Capitán. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy McKnight.

Janice will compete with approximately 1300 other girls in 21 states, for a designer's tour of Europe, college scholarships and other glamorous awards. She will model her own garment in the district contest in Roswell on November 5.

This year's first contest is 14 years old and a student in Capitán High School. She believes every girl should learn to sew "because clothes really add to a girl's happiness and success in life." She heard about the contest through Mrs. Charles Fuller and was the first girl to enroll in the 1950 contest in Lincoln County.

Mrs. Ivan Watson, district director of the contest in Lincoln and Chaves counties, stated that enrollment in the contest is open to all girls between the ages of 13 and 22, with a separate "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest for adults. Mrs. Phelps White is the Chaves County chairman and Mrs. Charles A. Jones the Lincoln county chairman.

According to Mrs. Watson there are two special requirements that must be met by all contestants. First, only American-made 100% wool fabric may be used in making the contest garment; second, the garment must be entirely the work of the contestant, who must model her own suit, dress, or ensemble at the district contest and in any subsequent level.

This year, Mrs. Watson stated, the sports outfit which last year was limited to the district competition may go all the way to national. It must be a complete outfit of an active sports type, not spectator sports apparel. Spectator's clothes will be included in regular suits or dresses categories.

Another change in the contest this year, Mrs. Watson points out, is that a wool blouse is not required with a suit. Many contestants reside in warm climates where the wool blouse would be impractical for year-around wear. Blouses, therefore, may be ready made, or made from any fabric.

Light-weight wool suits with short sleeves, for summer wear, or feather-weight wool prints in pastel shades, are recommended for the June-July traveler's wardrobe.

The Carrizozo Alumni Association this week asked the News to express its "sincere thanks and appreciation for the wonderful cooperation and assistance of many people in making the reunion a grand success and helping to make the visiting Alumni and their families happy in their return to the Carrizozo school grounds."

(A list of those mentioned will be published in next week's News.)

TO THE CARRIZOZO HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI COMMITTEE:

At the end of our first high school reunion I find it difficult to find the right words to express my appreciation to all of you. I feel, and I know that the others who came to this wonderful get-together, feel that everyone here did a marvelous job. Not only on the planning and carrying out of the activities held, but in contacting people who had not been heard from in so long.

After many years of living away from Carrizozo, I feel very privileged to have been able to renew so many old friendships and to make so many new ones.

I think the expression most often heard the past few days was "Do you remember?" It is surprising how many memories are recalled when old friends get together.

I am sorry so many of my former classmates and members of other classes were unable to attend. I hope they will become members of our newly-formed Alumni Association and will be able to attend future reunions.

Again, I would like to express thanks to the committee and to everyone who made my stay in Carrizozo so pleasant.
