Sprite introduced by Coca-Cola

Sprite, a brand new soft drink, is being introduced to the people of Alamogordo this week by the Alamogordo Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

"The introduction of Sprite, in king-size bottles, is the second phase of our expansion plan, which began last year with the purchase of our new production equipment and the subsequent introduction of Fanta flavors," said Jimmie Soules, manager of the Alamogordo Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

"We have high hopes that Sprite will be welcomed by everyone," said Jimmie Soules. "It is the first drink I know of that was designed to be what people expect in a soft drink. It's name and advertising were designed to reflect the spirit of the drink, and the bottle, with its bright green color and distinctive shape was designed for the same reason."

"We at the plant have tasted it and know that it is exceptionally good. We hope that everyone agrees with us."

"The success of Sprite in Houston has been exceptional. Spurred by the testimonials of customers in Houston and the test markets, more than 125 bottlers of Coca-Cola have commenced or are planning to commence bottling and selling Sprite — sold only by bottlers of Coca-Cola."

At this date Sprite is available throughout Alamogordo and Tularosa. Distribution has begun in Lincoln County and will be completed next Monday.

Harkey-Gioanini vows exchanged

The Ancho Sanctuary was the setting for the marriage of Mr. Larry Gioanini and Miss Marilyn Harkey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Harkey of Ancho, last week. It was a double ring ceremony, beautiful and impressive.

Parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. John Gioanini of Farmington, Ill., attended the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. William P. Lytle of Corona. Mrs. Lytle was the pianist. The altar was beautifully decorated with baskets of carnations and glads.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a formed gown of white, trimmed with lace, and her veil was short with the same lace insets. She carried a bouquet of orchids and carnations on a white ribbon. She wore the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue. She wore pearls, a gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Howard Harkey, matron of honor, who wore a pink gown.

A reception was held in the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Harkey and a large number of guests were present. Mrs. Kenneth Means of Carrizozo was in charge of the guest book.

THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA

By C. L. KAY

Memorial Day

On May 30th, we celebrated Memorial Day. To some it was just another legal holiday; to others it provided an opportunity to take the family on a picnic or to relax at home. Some enjoyed the 500 mile race at Indianapolis. But when we watched the 500 mile race, went boating, relaxed on the picnic ground, or just did the odd jobs around the house, it is well that we realize the importance of the occasion.

Memorial Day is not new. The first Memorial Day was held April 26, 1865. It was called "Confederate Memorial Day."

Memorial Day is also known as Decoration Day and is observed by the States of the North on May 30. The first set date for the celebration by the North was 1868. On May 5, Commander-in-Chief John A. Logan of the "Grand Army of the Republic" issued an order which designated May 30, 1868, "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion."

Later on, the name Decoration Day was officially changed to Memorial Day. Although most states observe Memorial Day on the 30th, there are a few states who have set aside special days for the observance of the "Confederate Memorial Day."

Whether you believe in the Confederate Memorial Day or Memorial Day as designated as a legal holiday for most states in 1910, it would be well to recall the purpose of the occasion—a day of commemorating those who made conscious of those who gave their lives for their country. We are their lives in the Civil War, World War I, World War 2 and the Korean War. It would behoove all of us to read the immortal words of Abraham Lincoln.

"Forefathers and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave their last full measure of devotion—that we here dedicate to that cause."

Know Your Law

(Published as a public service by the State Bar of New Mexico)

You try to drive carefully and respect the speed laws and don't take chances—but you can remember taking some little chances like slipping through on a yellow light, jay walking when you were in a hurry, or cutting a few corners such as falling to come to a full stop at a stop street.

You may get away with something like little white lies on your own conscience some of the time, and if you are lucky these little risks will only bring an occasional traffic ticket or two. But what happens if you are involved on a serious collision?

People who take small chances may be guilty of "contributory negligence." This old legal doctrine is followed by New Mexico courts. Since the days of the common law, the English and most American courts have held that in order to place liability on a person who has been negligent, the injured party must be free from fault.

In other words, your negligence or carelessness must not contribute to the accident. Even though the other fellow may have been more at fault, if you went through that yellow light or failed to come to a complete stop or were jay walking, it may cost you money. The courts won't compare degrees of fault. The law will not attempt to adjust loss between wrongdoers.

So, watch out when you travel the highways and byways. Keep your eyes open, head up, drive carefully, obey the traffic laws. If it is really the other fellow's fault, you don't want your contributory negligence to deprive you or your loved ones of financial aid which may be needed for medical bills or property damage; and more importantly, "The life you save may be your own."

CORONA—

Old-timer returns to the homestead

Mrs. Ollie M. Davis from California has been visiting in Corona, and staying at the home of Mayor of Mrs. Alex Jenkins, Mrs. Davis, a former resident of Corona, and her husband, the late J. A. (Jim) Davis, came to Corona from Texas in 1910. They brought with them their small daughter, Lorena, and in 1920 they homesteaded 15 miles due east of Corona. Four other children, Bernice, Lawrence, Milton and Hiloy, were born on the old homestead place, and later all five children attended school at Corona.

Mrs. Davis left Corona in 1941, and later sold her home in Corona to the late Mateo Lucero, and the house is now owned and occupied by Mrs. Lucero and her son Sammy.

Mrs. Davis made a trip to Roswell this week to see after some property which she owns there. She plans to make her home again in Corona.

Mrs. Davis has written a number of poems, and has had a book published entitled, "Poems From the Heart." Besides being a writer, Mrs. Davis has a broad knowledge of people, an excellent memory, and many other unusual qualities. Her many friends are happy to have her come back to Corona.

Here is one of her poems, written in 1941, and titled, "Corona":

A quiet, quiet little town
With hills and mountains all around,
That's what we call Corona,
Where clouds hang low, on mountain top,
Where breezes blow, and never stop,
Where children never fear the Cop,
That's what we call Corona,
Out where the boisterous west winds blow,
Out where the giant cactus grows,
That's what we call Corona,
Out where the folks you meet are fine,
And each one is a friend of mine.
Oh, Blessed thought, it is divine
To live here in Corona,
Where children never have to work,
Because there is no job to shirk.
Oh, don't we love Corona!
Where birds sing, and children play,
And folks are happy all the day.
Oh, don't I wish that you could stay
With me, here in Corona!
