Miss Alice Mavis

Student teacher in for home ec classes

The home economics department of the Carrizozo High School was selected this year as a training center for one of the student teachers from New Mexico State University at Las Cruces. Student teachers are sent to selected high schools in the state where the present home economics teacher is qualified to induct them into actual teaching.

Miss Alice Mavis, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, arrived in Carrizozo March 10, to begin her six-week period of student teaching in home economics. Miss Mavis is a senior student at New Mexico State University. She is completing her requirements for the B. S. degree in Education this spring. One of her final requirements is the five-semester-hour course in student teaching.

The first week of Miss Mavis' induction into teaching is being spent principally observing the home economics classes in action, learning students' names and much conferring concerning her future work as a student teacher. Units have been arranged so that she will have experience in the eight areas which home economics encompasses during the time that she is here. Her college supervisor, Mrs. Opal Beatty, will spend two and perhaps three days working with her and Mrs. Lawton at the Carrizozo school during the time she is student teaching.

Major Mendheim awarded citation

Major Billy Joe Mendheim of the Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas is awarded Citation, THE ARMY COMMENDATION MEDAL, (Oak Leaf Cluster)

Major Billy Joe Mendheim, Artillery, United States Army distinguished himself by meritorious service in the Electronic Systems Test Division, U. S. Army Air Defense Board, Fort Ellis, Alaska, from 1 July, 1950 to 1 February, 1951. Demonstrating leadership, initiative, and aggressiveness, he worked intelligently with design engineers to develop techniques for correcting circuit deficiencies, and evaluated modifications to reduce vulnerability to electronic countermeasures of the Nike Hercules Air Defense Missile System and the Defense Radar. Devoting many off-duty hours to investigating the limits of basic circuit function and devising units of measure as applied to performance capability, he established practical operational objectives which provide design engineers with guide lines for correction of problem areas. Through determination and dedication, he inspired technical service representatives and contractor design engineers to extend their efforts beyond that normally expected. His contributions in correcting and evaluating deficiencies in modifications resulted in prompt distribution of operational equipment to the field, and contributed materially in the initial, prior to scheduled date, of an Air Defense Electronic Counter-Counter-measures Production Program. Major Mendheim's devotion to duty and commendable achievements reflect great credit upon himself and the military service.

Major Mendheim his wife Nancy (former Nancy Jo King of Carrizozo) and 18 month old daughter Jennifer Lynne are now living in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Livestock Report

By Steve Treadway - Lewis, Kans.
RANGE CONDITIONS — February brought about a complete change from the mild January weather. Temperatures were unseasonably high over most of the plains and southwestern states. Wheat fields began to show new life and reports of growth up to one inch per day have been noted in the panhandle country. Cattlemen welcomed this change and have taken a "new lease on life" concerning cattle they have wintered. Many growers are looking for cattle to graze their fields. While not spectacular, there will be quite a number of cattle put on wheat at this late date. Silage feeding has seen a new high here in the plains areas and enabled ranchers to keep cattle that otherwise would have "gone to town" weeks ago. There is also a lot of hay left in "first" bunches that would have been used during the winter without silage to fall back on. Protein supplies appear to be plentiful and prices remain steady to slightly lower. Grain supplies appeared to be tight about the first of the year, but have loosened up with the selling of government stocks out of storage. Many feeders are expecting grain prices to remain steady on into summer months. Good moisture prospects would indicate an early turn out date on spring pastures. A good "snow pack" in the mountains promises better irrigation water supplies than the past two years.

at about any country point with the 350-400 lbs. kinds at 30-32c. Southeastern origin calves in the good bracket at 28-30c depending on the weight. Calves at border points from Mexico are moving freely at 30-32c on better quality calves. It looks like the calf market will be strong until summer ranges are stocked.

COWS — Cow prices remain very good. Better stock cows in short supply. Demand very good. Pairs are selling at $225.00-$250.00 for good cows. Some choice young cows with calves up to $300.00. Springer heifers from 185.00-$225.00 for better kinds.

FATS — Prices on slaughter cattle steady to $1 cwt. higher at western points. Choice grade cattle hard to find and prices ranges have widened between the good and choice kinds. It looks like a good buyer demand and steady prices for butcher cattle well into the spring months.

Meal and Salt Feeding Saves Labor — Self-feeding meal-and-salt mixtures saves labor, encourages uniform consumption of supplement, and may aid even distribution of grazing. In experiment station tests, gains have been normal; steers have fattened well in the feedlot following use of the practice; breeding efficiency has been good; and no injury resulted from these rates of salt consumption. Hand-feeding may produce slightly higher winter gains, but this may be offset by labor saved from salt-controlled feeding and better distribution of grazing from planned location of feeders in lightly grazed areas. Abundant water is essential and should be located nearby.

The production of salt used determines daily meal consumption, according to size of cattle and amount of grazing available. Start with 1 part of salt to 4 or 5 parts of meal, gradually increasing salt until daily meal intake is limited to desired amount. Average steers usually consume 2 pounds of meal daily for a mixture of 3 parts of meal and with 1 part of salt; and 1 pound of meal for a 2 to 1 meal-and-salt mixture. When range forage is scarce, more than 1 pound of salt, per head daily, may be required to control self-fed intake of meal by mature cows.

In experiment station tests, cattle on a mature winter range eat 2 pounds of meal daily when the following amounts of salt were fed with meal: 3/4 of a pound for 700-pound steers; 5/8 of a pound for 450-pound steers; and 1/2 of a pound for 300-pound calves. Less salt is consumed when feeders are located some distance from water or if mineral content of water is high. The self-fed mixture may contain alfalfa-meal-for-vitamin-A and ground grain for supplemental carbohydrates when these are needed in addition to the nutrient supplied by cottonseed meal.

 Fifty years ago in Carrizozo the following item was printed for local people: How To Kill Your Town! Buy from peddlers as much and as often as possible.

Denounce your merchant because they make a profit on their goods. Glory in the downfall of a man who has done much to build up your town.

Make your town out a bad place and stab it every chance you get. Refuse to unite in any scheme for the betterment of the material interests of the people. Tell your merchants that you can buy goods a great deal cheaper in some other town and charge them with extortion. If a stranger comes to your town tell him everything to overdone and predict a general crash in the near future. Patronize outside newspapers to the exclusion of your own and then denounce yours for not being as large and as cheap as the city paper.

If you are a merchant don't advertise in the home paper, but compel the editor to go elsewhere for advertisements and how like a sore head because he does so. Buy a rubber stamp and use it. It may save you a few dimes and make your letter heads and wrappers look as though you were doing business in a better town.

If you are a farmer, curse the place where you trade on the moment on earth. Talk this over to your neighbors and tell them the truth and robbers and thieves. It will make your property much less; but you don't care.

 On behalf of National 4-H week, the Ancho Jr. Ranchers would like to express their sincere thanks to all persons who have helped to make their club a success. Parents, friends, ranchers, and our local merchants have supported our club in every way that they could, such as displaying our projects, buying our livestock at the fair and in general giving us encouragement when we needed it most. A lot of credit for our success goes to Nancy Knight, our most capable leader. We are indeed grateful to her. We are just the 4-H kids today, but with the help we have received, we hope to be leaders or boosters for future 4-Hers and good citizens for this great country of ours.

 The Ancho 4-H Jr. Ranchers met February 28 at the home of Nancy Knight. The meeting was called to order by President Becky Bacham. The 4-H pledge was said, and a roll was called with each member answering with abreed name of a horse. Old business and new business discussed. A treasurer report was given by Scott Shafer. Randy Kirkpatrick of White Oaks was received into the club as a new member. Eric Lynch gave a five minute talk on the care of young rabbits. A further study was held on horses. At the close of the study a quiz on different parts of the animal was held with all members participating. The next regular meeting will be March 14 at the Knight ranch.
