Citizens State Bank is new name changed from Lincoln County Agency

T. A. Bonnell, President, and Johnson S. Stearns, Manager of the bank in Carrizozo, New Mexico have released today the Board of Directors' decision to change the name of the bank in Carrizozo.

The name presently used in Lincoln County Agency of The Citizens State Bank of Vaughn, The new name, effective immediately, is Lincoln County Branch, Citizens State Bank, Carrizozo, New Mexico.

The Stockholders and Board of Directors approved this change several months ago and have now received all approvals from Federal and State agencies.

The decision was made in order to further the Board's desire to make the Carrizozo bank independently operated, giving fast, complete service to the people of Lincoln County.

Holsum introduces new baking process

Holsum Baking Co. is the first bakery in the state of New Mexico to place a white bread that is totally uniform from slice to slice...

The new Blended Holsum bread is the result of years of research and testing designed to create a new and better way to make bread.

Because this entire process is continuous and because preservatives and high temperatures blend ingredients so thoroughly, the resulting bread has a tenderness and a velvet smooth texture impossible to achieve with other methods.

The public is not only getting a better middle loaf of bread, but also a loaf totally uniform in size, weight and character.

Steven M. Spencer "made the grade"

ROSWELL, N. M. — The Dean's list for the first six weeks of the second semester at the New Mexico Military Institute has just been released, and among the cadets who "made the grade" is another young man from Carrizozo.

He is Steven M. Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman A. Spencer Jr., who resides near Carrizozo. A total of 63 cadets out of the present enrollment of 725 at the Institute came through the six-week examinations with grades high enough to be included. It requires a "B" average to be designated.

Steven is a Fourth Classman or high school junior this year at the Institute, and this is his second year here. In the Cadet Regiment, he presently has the rank of Private First Class.

Last May, at the end of his first school year, Steven was named as one of the "two best new cadets" in his company, which was Company "A."

Another Carrizozo cadet who is again qualified for the present Dean's List is Waverly A. Duggar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Duggar. Young Duggar also was on the list last semester.

Theatre in Orbit

Nike orbits 3 nights A-4 and Go all the way

Carrizozans and many citizens from other Lincoln County areas launched the Nike Drive-In into its '62 season this weekend. Judging from the smile on Doug and Betty's faces it was a successful start and is in orbit for the season. Doug stated that although there were still parking places, the crowd was very encouraging and seemed to enjoy the evenings out.

The Williams plan to operate just Friday, Saturday and Sunday for one more weekend and then open full time on April 10th with a big Free celebration. Everyone will be admitted free on Thursday the 10th of April. The picture will be "Wonderful Childhood" starring Robert Mitchum. A motion picture as proud and violent as Tom Lea's bold and powerful novel. Lets all plan to attend the grand opening celebration at the Nike Drive-In Theatre and let it be known that all new businesses are appreciated. They all make Carrizozo a more attractive place in which to live. You will find the current schedule of pictures elsewhere in today's NEWS.

Local effort and fortunate timing brings going industry to Mountainair

MOUNTAINAIR, NEW MEXICO

Industry has come to this small New Mexico town stretched out along busy Route 66 just south of Albuquerque and the 2,000 citizens who settled down to savoring coffee to passing motorists since the drought struck 14 years ago and killed the bean crops, are not only delighted but filled with hope for a future.

The industry is small but the story behind its location in the community is one of civic pride and hard work on the part of local businessmen who dug into their own pockets for money to entice the Mountainair Manufacturing Company, Inc. into town.

The company, a dress making firm of small girls' clothing, opened its doors February 10 in a new 35 x 100 feet building. The first two shipments of locally styled dresses were sent to Sears Roebuck and Company by a March 15 deadline. Eighty per cent of the clothing produced by the present 13 seamstresses employed in the factory is delivered to Sears with salesmen introducing the New Mexico line of dresses to twenty per cent independent retail outlets in New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Texas and Missouri.

"We are already getting re-orders on the shipments," said Jonah Funk, top salesman and husband of Designer Lucy Funk, president of the firm, who supervises factory production. The manufacturing firm has space for 30 machines in the building and additional expansion room when sales warrant. Applications for more employees in the factory have been accepted and soon, 25 of the 61 persons who passed the aptitude tests, will begin training for work at the dress company under a special training program.

Leader of the businessmen to get industry into Mountainair was Elzio C. Brown, local restaurant owner, and former sheriff, Torrance County chairman and member of the Chamber of Commerce. Brown said, "We have been in a depressed condition in Torrance County for 15 years. Mountainair was once the Bean Capital of the World but the drought struck the area and has continued since then. We desperately needed something to boost the economy of the valley and the only recourse was to actively seek some type of industry."

The Mountainair businessmen contacted the New Mexico Department of Development Industrial Division. Through a coincidence, the industrial consultants a week before had received a letter from Mrs. Funk, a 63-year-old children's dress designer with 25 years experience in turning out "Lucy Jane" frocks, from Herrington, Kansas seeking relocation possibilities in New Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Funk and the Mountainair businessmen met a year ago and work was started on the factory.

The New Mexico businessmen worked hard to obtain advice and money to open the manufacturing firm. Brown, a vice president of the company, obtained a $20,000 loan from the Small Business Administration, and headed a group that took up a city collection of $2,500 to get the factory doors open.

From this bootstrap operation, Mountainair got an industry that is expected to mean approximately $30,000 to the community by the end of its first year. Serving on the board of directors of the firm are Mountainair residents, who, besides Brown, include Mayor Delbert Redfern, Mrs. Bertha Jackson, John Tabet and Fred Hall.

Mrs. Funk is now preparing designs for her fall line of clothing that range in the modest-reasonable price range in sizes from 1 to 6X. The Funks have become confirmed New Mexico tourists and have only one complaint. "We don't have enough weekends off to tour all of this magnificent country. You have so much to see. The community industry arrangement in the manufacturing company has been a happy one for both sides. One of the businessmen said lately, "Since the city of Mountainair raised the money and is represented on the board of directors, we want to see it become a successful industry -- and in the future a big one."

the economy affects the entire economy of the state.

He called for an action program which would (1) secure facts, (2) unite leading agriculture groups in a study of their problems, including land lease fees and sales, (3) bring cooperation among all interested parties in studying the problems, (4) joint sponsorship of research, and (5) study of facts acceptable to all parties to produce an equitable program.

Corbett talks on state grazing fees

Albuquerque, N.M. — New Mexico's public land controversy can be solved under a concerted action program, the annual meeting of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association was told.

Dr. Roger B. Corbett, president of N. M. State University, told the association neither of the opposing points of view in the controversy is correct.

There is no doubt that some lease-grazing fees are too low," Dr. Corbett said. "Many ranchers agree on this and are voluntarily offering that adjustments in lease fees be made."

"But," he added, "economic studies leave no doubt that some of the recent higher priced leases and sales are higher than can be justified by present livestock production costs, production rates, and prices."

Lonely trek to an Indian cave

By Ray Morgan

POJOAQUE, N. M. — There was a thundershower falling down through Los Frijoles canyon and two large black ravens flapped noisily along as my three older children and I sat in the Indian ceremonial cave several hundred feet above the canyon floor.

It was an afternoon that both they and I will long remember as the brief rain shower fell among the ruins occupied by the Indians more than 700 years ago here in Bandelier national monument, a living remnant of a civilization long gone.

The sun had been shining when the four of us started out along the trail lined with pine trees and running along the bed of the tumbling Los Frijoles creek. We were on our way to visit the ceremonial cave still preserved as it was when the Indian priests used it centuries ago.

By the time Steve, Susan, Sally and I were two-thirds of the way to our destination, clouds had begun to roll in over the canyon edge and the rumble of distant thunder could be heard.

I reached the point in the trail where the ascent up the cliff face to the old ceremonial cave in use in the 1200's begins.

High above us in the canyon wall, consisting largely of tuff, a form of consolidated volcanic ash, was the half-moon entrance to the cave. For a time, the trail led up over the basaltic lava boulders ejected thousands of years ago from the great volcanic crater — perhaps the largest in the world — whose rim today forms the Jemez mountains.

From there on, a series of large timber ladders, whose rails are as large as telephone poles, have been installed by the National Park service. We started up the ladders with Steve first, followed by the two girls and myself.

We inched our way up the ladders until we reached the cave entrance. Then we stepped inside onto the dusty floor. The ceiling and walls were blackened with the smoke of numerous ceremonial fires. Indian pictographs were etched into the walls.

In the floor of the cave, there was a large circular hole marking the entrance to the kiva, the chamber used as a ceremonial council room by the elders of the community. The view across the canyon with its tall pines and the plateau stretching on beyond was magnificent.

No sooner had we become situated than the rain began to fall. There was talk about being trapped up here for days. Thoughtfully, we sat in the cave entrance and munched on chocolate bars.

Bandelier is a place where time stands still. An area on the upper Rio Grande river valley of New Mexico 46 miles west of Santa Fe, it consists of the Frijoles and Otowi sections and is mostly a wilderness crossed only by trails.

The monument is named in honor of Adolph F. A. Bandelier, Swiss-American scholar who carried on an extensive survey of prehistoric ruins in the region.

Cliff ruins of talus villages extend along the base of the northern wall of the canyon for approximately two miles. These houses of masonry were irregularly terraced, from 1 to 3 stories in height, and had many cave rooms gouged out of the cold cliff.

In front of the caves in the ruined pueblo of Tyuonyi on the floor of Frijoles canyon, it is a large structure of nearly circular plan with three kivas in an enclosed plaza. The structure contained more than 400 rooms and rose to 4-story height in places.

This large community house was excavated in 1906, 1909 and 1910 by the Museum of New Mexico and the School of American Research. Mary, I and the children had delighted in walking among its ruins.

Tree ring chronology and correlations of pottery types indicate that most of Bandelier's ruins belong to the late preconquest period, although a few small ruins date back to the 12th century. The large pueblos of Tyuonyi, Tsankawi and Otowi evidently were occupied until about 1550 A. D. although their decline had probably set in by the time Coronado visited the region in 1540.

With the passing years, drought, soil-eroding, flash floods, soil depletion, raiding Indians, famine, disease — any of these things singly or in combination might have caused the beautiful area, a veritable oasis in the dry country in New Mexico, to be abandoned.

As we sat in the cave, the thunder peals resembled the throbs of the drums we had heard the night before as we sat around a huge campfire on the canyon floor. National Park rangers had brought Indians in from a nearby Pueblo to chant and drum as the women did the corn grinding ritual.

Dark as happens in these mountains, the rain passed on and the sun came out as the last drops were falling. A rainbow arched its way across the canyon. The display of color made it easy to understand why some Indian sachem of a bygone era had picked this spot as something sacred.

With the spell broken, we took one last look around the cave and began our descent. Once again on the canyon floor, the scent of the pines hung heavily and sweetly in the air, brought out more strongly by the rain. Rio de Los Frijoles, the canyon creek, cascaded and boomed more strongly, swollen by the water from the newly-fallen downpour.

Molly, my wife, and Cindy and Scott, the two younger children, were waiting anxiously for us as we came back to the campsite from our adventure. Bandelier, a spectacular gorge of beauty, would remain etched in our memory for years to come.

CANT VOTES here last week. The Supreme Court's 6-2 decision to hear cases involving reapportionment of state legislative districts could have far-reaching political effects. In 1955, New Mexico voted to increase the size of its House of Representatives. Bernalillo County being assigned the largest bloc of seats. According to the National Municipal League, the "ideal" Senate district in our state would have 29,719 residents. At present, we have one district of 1,874 persons and it has one Senator. We also have a district with 262,199 persons; it has one Senator. Fourteen percent of our people can elect a majority of the State Senators. And 27 percent of our people can elect a majority of the House. Bernalillo County, with 28 percent of the state's population, has 31 percent of the representation in the Senate. In the light of the Supreme Court's action, these figures are worth keeping in mind. The decision may require more equitable legislative districts.

THE VOICE

NEW MEXICO TAXPAYER
The favorite argument for bigger and bigger government, at all levels, Federal, State and local, is that government must keep up with the rapid growth in population. This argument, that government must spend more and more, has become louder in recent months.

However, the converse of this is true: the fact is that government has grown faster than population. In all honesty, there have been good and valid reasons for some of this growth, but that doesn't change the fact which is proven by per capita tax take by all the governments which regularly is reported by the U. S. Census Bureau.

As tabulated by this reliable bureau, the total per capita tax levy by all levels of government in 1962 was $17.34 (cost of Federal, State and local governments divided by the number of people in the country). By 1932, governments had picked up in the race and grown so much faster than the population that the per capita take was up to $64.40, nearly four times higher than 1902. This, however, was just the beginning. In 1959, the per capita take was $564.94, almost 33 times what each man, woman and child contributed in 1902.

Of course, we know that today is not 1902. The cost of defense, for example, has grown tremendously as a result of hot and cold wars and the necessity of preparedness. But if we eliminated all our major security costs entirely (including foreign aid) the per capita tax levy would still be more than 18 times what it was in 1902. This obviously isn't desirable; but the comparison is worth remembering when we hear it said that government has been "lagging" in its spending, and the Voice of the Taxpayer reiterates that per capita spending has grown faster than population growth.

WE GIVE S & H GREEN STAMPS

A card advises us that Mrs. Lewis Cummins has arrived safely to her destination in Calif. and is enjoying a happy vacation with her children and their families. We wish her a delightful and restful two weeks with them.

We are so pleased to be advised that Heavy Stewart who is still in the Carrizozo Hospital is holding his own. Keep fighting and get back soon with us.

We enjoyed a little moisture here in Capitan from a wet snow last Friday. It has been cold and windy but has the feel of Spring.

Those from Capitan who attended the consecration of the New Methodist Church in Carrizozo Sunday afternoon were Rev. and Mrs. Knowlton, Mr. Champ Ferguson and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw and Diane.

Mrs. Lewis H. Merrell left April 3 for a visit with her son Capt. Eugene A. Merrell and family of Sandia Base in Albuquerque. Capt. Merrell will leave April 12 for the Ascension Islands in the South Pacific on two months temporary duty.

Mrs. E. L. Rains left last Wednesday to visit her mother who was ill in the Las Cruces hospital. She returned last Friday evening. Her mother is much better and had been in the hospital for over a week before she knew. She is much better now.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lee Miller of Alamogordo and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berelmann and son Richard of Las Cruces were this last weekend guests at their home here.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Kingston Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Jess Harris and Miss Lou Harris of Ruidoso Downs, and Mr. and Mrs. Halleck Kingston of Tularosa. Halleck will go by plane to Ill. Monday morning to attend two schools starting at 8 A.M., Tuesday for two weeks.

Olan and Roy Boeber and Robert Griego enjoyed camping out over this weekend at Nagal Lake and fishing. Though they did not catch so many, they did have a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlo Boeber left last Wednesday at 4 P.M. for Downey, Calif., where they will spend two weeks with her parents the Clarence McCarty's. Her mother is ill.

April is Cancer Crusade Month. If you wish to contribute, do so to Mrs. Champ Ferguson and Mrs. LeRoy McLaughlin. There will be cancer jars in the stores.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bishop of Horns Valley were Capitan business visitors last Monday morning. Mrs. Bishop is going to T. or C. to stay for health for a while.

Melvin Sanchez is home from college in Las Vegas. He will not return this last quarter but hopes to return this Fall.

Leo Galloway was home this past weekend from Las Vegas college.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlo Kisselburg of Halo Center, Texas spent the weekend with their daughter Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Boeber at Ft. Stanton enroute to Los Angeles, Calif., where they will stay three months for his health.

It was reported 600 pounds were put in the Ruidoso stream and some nice ones, too; 8 to 14 inches. So maybe we will be next. A load is supposed to come to Bonito Dam this month. Mr. Harvey Talley reported.

We know Spring is here when Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Cazier from Tucumcari spend a few days at their Summer home. Also Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Trullitt; the two couples met here Friday for a few days rest and will be back in a few weeks for the summer.

Our Tanbark Canyon neighbor, Alice Wright, is glad to see warm weather and all the signs of Spring even though she has been marooned lots of times this winter. She greets you with a pretty smile. Robert K. Runnels took her to Capitan last week to get her mail and groceries and is trying to get her pickup in shape before the Bonito Creek gets too big to cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Hutchinson from his Marine Base in San Diego, California, Rudy's mother and his wife's mother were here last week on a sight seeing tour. They also visited the Sierra Blanca Ski Run and thought the world up there was beautiful. Rudy will be in the service one more year.

The Sierra Blanca Ski Run closed last Sunday evening for the season. Construction can continue on the Gondola which will have 100 chair lifts, and a huge restaurant, and more buildings, one home for Kingsbury Fletcher, President of the Corp.

Saturday, Mr. Ralph Forsythe, and Mr. Tommy Gill Zumwalt took Ralph's school bus from Nogal to the White Mt. Park with 12 school children. They were, Roylene Sanchez, Rita Linda Sanchez, Leon May, Louis Dunlap, Wayne Dunlap, Tommy Snell, Everett Greer, Billy Murfin, Benny Murfin, Robert Baker, Bill Baker, and Debra Stortz. Ralph and J. T. Clegg, Superintendent of Carrizozo Schools plan to take a bus load of students to the Ski Run next winter once a week. Students will be given instructions at a low rate with skis, ski shoes and use of the T-bar lifts.

Gladys Peebles is knitting Ski Sweaters for Fern and Jimmie Dunn of Nogal. This couple have skied often this season at the Sierra Blanca Ski Run. They have taken skiing lessons and both are beautiful skiers and think the sport great.

Visiting the Ski Area on Ernest's Birthday, April Fools Day, were Ernest and brother Robert McDaniel from the Lower Ruidoso Valley.

Abo Sanchez, Democratic candidate for Sheriff of Lincoln County visited in Bonito Canyon a few days ago.

Friday, Eudro Morris drove up from Roswell in his new 1962 Chevy pickup to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Morris. They drove over to Ruidoso on business and stayed by Bonito City.

Orlando Mexico and family had lunch at Sierra Blanca Ski Run last week. They enjoyed the drive over the mountain road and watched the skiers while lunching.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Allen and Tex as friends also visited the Ski Run a couple weeks ago and were thrilled with everything.

It was wonderful to have a short visit with Elmo Traylor at the Ski Run lately. He said he had 6 more years away from "home" and then he would be back here to live. He remembered camping at the White Mt. Park in 1923 and climbing the now "Capitan Slope", barefooted.

From Carrizozo for their first trip to the Ski Area lately, were Herman McKibben, Earlena Tubba, Garvis Tubba, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Tubba.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins Walker who have a farm at Deming, N. M. are at their farm at Angus for a few days. Collins has been under the Drs. care for several months, but is improving fast.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kelley from Brownfield, Texas are spending a few days in their cabin at Angus.

Spending the weekend at Sperriman's Cabin were former Governor Burgess's two sisters and husbands, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Allen from Lovington, and Mr. and Mrs.

Erney Bell from Lubbock, Texas. From Lovington, on Saturday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Charles Corder and make a trip to the Ski Run were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dye, Bonale Chambers, and Gary Owens. Little Dannie Coe, age 6, has had 4 operations on his eyes recently in Roswell and Dr. Morrison believes they are getting better.

Herbert Smith, owner of the Valley View Heights Sub-Division at Angus is doing more improving on his roads and will soon start on the electricity and water supply for the lot owners.

BUY NEW LICENSE NOW

April 1 opens the new license year, and vendors are ready with the 1962-63 licenses. April 1 is also the date when certain changes in the fishing regulations become effective. The new regulation is also available from license vendors.

Fishing season opens April 1 on Jackson-Lake near Farmington; McAllister Lake near Las Vegas; Chilcoza Lake near Roy; and Clayton Lake (northwest of Clayton) except for the waterfowl area. Some year-round fishing is also available north of US Highway 66. Below that line all waters are open to year-round fishing except Bonito Lake, which opens June 1.

Trout fishermen should do even better this spring than they did last spring, according to the number of catchables planted so far this year.

In January and February the hatcheries of the Game Department distributed 134,469 trout measuring 6 to 9 inches. During the same two months last year the planting in that size range came to 101,319.

Fisheries Chief Roy Baker reports that the hatcheries now have a larger supply of catchables and small fish on hand than they had at this time last year.

BONITO BITS

BY Louise Runnels

Snow this Winter measured by Mrs. A. N. Runnels to date is 62 inches. Bonito Lake has been running over the spill way for two months. Spring is here, and I called the State Game Warden, Fred Thompson and asked him if we couldn't have some fish in these nice streams. Water is roaring down the Bonito, and Eagle Creek block and asked to participate in a study being conducted by the Department. The study is to determine growth and survival of the creek. Fin-clipped or tagged fish that were planted last year. Information on this subject will be gathered only throughout opening day. About 7,500 catchables and 79,000 fingerlings were planted during the last year, a representative number of each being fin-clipped or tagged for later study. Fingerlings planted before the study lots were released, about 100,000, should be of catchable size now.

The April 1 opening date on McAllister was set by the State Game Commission in order to determine whether the fish will bite better at this early date than they did last year on the opening day, which was May 1. Although there were plenty of fish last year, anglers didn't have much luck.

Day and night boating will be permitted on McAllister, with or without motors, but not until May 5.

Creel checks are to be held on opening day, April 1, on Jackson and Clayton lakes as well as on McAllister.

LUNKERS IN McALLISTER LAKE

There is a large population of trout measuring 12 to 20 inches in McAllister Lake revealed in a recent sampling by fisheries biologists of the Department of Game and Fish. Anglers in good numbers are expected to be on hand to take these beauties when season opens at 12:01 on the morning of April 1. The lake is 10 miles south of Las Vegas.

TOWN OF CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO
ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS FOR PARK SPRINKLER SYSTEM
The Town of Carrizozo, New Mexico, will receive sealed bids for the installation of a Sprinkler System in the Carrizozo Municipal Park, Town of Carrizozo, N. Mex., until 5:00 P.M., MDT, April 10, 1962, at the office of the Town Clerk, Carrizozo, New Mexico, at which time they will be publicly opened, read and considered.
The project will include the following items of construction:
It is the intent that this system be constructed to provide a complete water distribution system to irrigate the community park of approximately three acres located at Carrizozo, New Mexico.
The system shall consist of piping, automatic control box (heated) mounted on pedestal, remote control valves, gear driven sprinklers, bubble heads, drain valves, installed according to the plan and specifications designated herein.
Contractor shall install all plumbing work in strict accordance with all state, county and municipal ordinances and regulations. Obtain and pay for all permits and inspections covering this class of work as required by any applicable laws and ordinances and post such permits and inspection certificates in a prominent place adjacent to the work so they may be made available to duly constituted authority.
Header to be manufactured and tested to 150 psi for leaks. Piping shall be commercial standard ABS pipe as manufactured by Southwestern Plastic Pipe Company or equal. Pipe and fittings shall be laid to grade below frost line and in a manner that the system can be drained. Trench excavating shall be open cut from the surface. Backfill setting shall be done with water. Contractor shall make a field inspection of the locations along the system and note all obstructions, trees, bushes, which may affect his method of operation in construction. Such obstructions shall be protected by the contractors during construction.

I take a deep breath, and then say a prayer.
When my feet go straight up, and I'm left in the air.
My bottom hit first and I want you to know.
That a sidewalk is soft compared to that snow.
I managed to struggle back up on my feet.
Brushing the snow from my legs and my seat.
One ski pointing north and the other one west.
I could hardly stand up, but was doing my best.
I looked down the hill that I planned to descend.
Sliding so graceful and going like the wind.
The hill looked much longer and steeper to me.
My courage starts ebbing, that's just plain to see.
But I finally got started, going down through the snow.
I'm picking up speed, but I want to go slow.
I have no control, I can't stop or can't turn.
I thought to myself, this is no way to learn.
Then I lost my balance, the skis left the ground.
And I started spinning around and around.
They looked like a windmill cut loose from its mast.
As I rolled down the hill, and the aspens whizzed past.
I finally got stopped in a monstrous snowbank.
I hit it so hard I resembled a tank.
I went in head first, all the way to my knees.
With my skis and my feet waving there in the breeze.

Publisher, author raise doubt about final resting spot of Billy the Kid
LAS VEGAS, N. M. — A Las Vegas publisher and a Denver author have resurrected the controversy over Billy the Kid with a claim that he is not buried in the Fort Sumner cemetery where his grave is marked.
L. R. Finch, publisher of the Las Vegas Daily Optic, and Milton W. Callon of Denver both challenged De Baca county residents to prove that the Kid, William Bonney, actually is buried in Fort Sumner.
The basis of their dispute was on an article in an old Optic claiming a "fearlessologist" dug up the Kid shortly after he was buried in 1881, removed the body to Las Vegas and preserved the skull.
Only last week a court ruling knocked down a claim by Lincoln County that the Kid's grave had been neglected and commercialized, and should be moved to Lincoln County.
District Judge E. T. Hensley Jr. ruled in Fort Sumner that to move the grave might disturb the resting place of others in the crowded old cemetery.
But a joint statement from Finch and Callon said:
"Let's dig him up. Let's see who it is. Let's not be defrauding the public. If it can be proven that his bones are where they attest to be, then you have a legitimate claim. Are you afraid of our historical challenge?"
Callon, author of the book, "Las Vegas, New Mexico — The Town That Wouldn't Gamble," said the Kid's skull would be easily identifiable because of "two prominent front teeth slightly protruding like squirrel's teeth," cited in an historical description of Bonney.
The old Optic account of the robbery of the Kid's grave said:

A Greenhorn on skis
By Lee Robinson
(Mr. Robinson is now a Park Ranger at Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming)
I left Carlsbad Caverns in 56. And headed for Yellowstone, way out in the sticks. Where the elk and the coyote and buffalo roam.
And the Tower Falls Station to be our new home.
One thing that I noticed as I looked around.
Was acres of white stuff all over the ground.
I asked the chief ranger, I wanted to know.
He said "You dern southerner, it's nothing but snow."
It felt cold as the dickens, as it naturally would.
Made that long handled underwear feel mighty good.
I asked him again, of what use could it be.
And he said it was useful if you wanted to ski.
He told about sliding, said it's so much fun.
To go to the top, and take a long run.
He stirred up my interest, I said, "That's for me.
I'm going right now and learn how to ski."
I returned to the station, and up in the barn.
I found those old skis that weren't worth a darn.
Turned up on the ends like an old worn out shoe.
They don't look too good, but I'm sure they'll do.
I put on the bindings, and fastened them tight.
In this business of sliding it's got to be right.
Found two old broom handles to serve as a pole.
And headed for the mountain, with sliding my goal.
I got to the bottom and started to climb.
I keep sliding back and can't make any time.
I climb about six feet, and slide back about nine.
My wife yelled, "Keep going, you're doing just fine."
Well, I finally made it right up to the top.
I'm panting and puffing and ready to drop.
I rested a while and got ready to go.
My wives down there watching, so I'll give her a show.
