By J. S. C.
The small swimming pond behind Dr. Jernigan's home, has been cleaned and the Kiddies enjoyed their first cool dip last Sunday. Elmer Vatow was seen there as lifeguard as some of the kids are still quite small and can meet with an accident without a grown-up to watch over them.

Mr. Pfingsten has been assisting Mr. Ham with the work of sprinkling and mowing the big lawn and digging out frozen hedges. Only a few minor showers have visited us and we are in desperate need of a good soaking rain. It never falls on the 4th of July, when people are enjoying themselves at the different rodeos.

Geneva Walker is the new assistant with Mrs. Proving in the Home-maker's department at the O. T. Several women ambulatory patients attend the classes Monday through Wednesday. Cobbler Juan Archuleta can be seen daily in the Shoe Shop repairing patients' and workmen's footwear. Other patients occupy themselves in leathercraft and ceramics, under the supervision of Patricia Flatley.

Quite A Novelty
Say a novelty one day last week in Fort Stanton proper in the way of a man on horseback. Epifanio Aldaz of Rancho de Torrez, who rides fence on the Fort Stanton range. We see cowboy garb of every description from boots to ten-gallon hats and loud shirts, especially among our Navajo brethren, but nary a horse nor even a pair of bow legs. Horses and cows have been extinct in Fort Stanton for many years, but we can sure boast of a number of drugstore type cowboys.

Charles McCorkle and Reno Griego attended the Firmen's Convention in Tucuman recently. Jose Morales and Eulalia Montoya went home for school graduation exercises, Josie to Albuquerque.

The Kitchen Supervisors and help treated the patients to a buffet supper last Sunday evening. It was something different and everyone enjoyed it. Floyd Burdick took pictures of the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Escobedo and children have moved from the creek to a residence on the heights. "The climb is too much for an old man," said Joe.

Teacher Hattie Lacy is holding summer classes for the children of No. 12, and also for those adults who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity to learn a little more. Never too late!

Joanna Todd has been dismissed, but had to report on June 14 for an appointment with Dentist Tate. She resides at Hobbs.

Charles Dennis of No. 3 was taken to Roswell for treatment of a throat ailment. Also Mr. Vocum.

Rev. Wm. Brown continues to conduct the Bingo games on Friday evenings. He holds services every Sunday in the Chapel of Our Redeemer and Father Luis Jaramillo comes from Carrizozo to conduct services in the Catholic Church. Rev. Kerr of Capitán makes his Sunday afternoon visits to bedside patients.

Stanley Abbott was discharged and left for his home in Albuquerque on June 10.

With the passing of Jim Lee, one of the old miners and baseball players of old White Oaks and Carrizozo, we recall the 4th of July Celebration in Carrizozo in 1906, when Jim and his partner drilled on a large rock for a prize against the team of Candy Sandoval and Joe Sanchez. They were all miners of the Old Abe. Sandoval and Sanchez won the prize. The big rock still lays behind the bank building in Carrizozo. The big barbecue was held in the very beautiful grove of cottonwoods at the Bar W ranch. Galindo's band played for the occasion. In the baseball game between Carrizozo and a team from El Paso, a batter from El Paso hit a terrific line drive and broke Clay Van Schoyck's leg, who was on the pitcher's mound. The big horse race of the day was won by Walter Grumble's gray against Florencio Vega's Baldy. The big dance to wind up the event was held at Dutch Bell's dance hall, next to Phrens's Store.

Heading First Fourth of July Celebration in Carrizozo.

Orderly Walter Nowalk of Capitán is back on duty in No. 4 after a siege of illness of several weeks' duration.

Theodore Garcia is the new barber in Fort Stanton, taking the place of Henry Sanchez, who was discharged.

Doctors Jerigan, Rosenblatt and Logan, Chief Nurse McCreary, her Nurses and the Orderlies, Mrs. Smith and her Housekeepers Dept., and the Kitchen help, all cater diligently to the needs of the patients over the hospital. The Powerhouse crew under the supervision of Chief Engineer Jack Shaw, and the Maintenance crew under the supervision of Vasar Thompson, keep the cogs well oiled for efficiency in the heating, heating and water utilities of Fort Stanton.

Ruby Padilla and his laundry force are always on time with the clean lines and clothing for the different wards.

Wm. Zink of the Fort Stanton Store serves his customers in a friendly manner, and Frances Shaw meets you with a smile when you go to the delivery window in the postoffice. All in all, it's a very happy and contented family, and the patients seem well satisfied for the nice treatment and many courtesies extended to them. "No Complaints" the Nurses final entry in their Day Books, when everything goes well.

Remember to follow the crowd to the Smokey Bear Rodeo in Capitán on July 3 and 4, and "Sing Along With Mitch."

Mineral development brings changes

By Walter A. Hubbard

Mention has been made of the case history of early California and the great changes wrought by her mineral developments as an analogy for local developments. Let us examine the birth of her great civic and industrial growth which began with the discovery of gold, and which has continued from her other minerals and their utilizations in a multitude of new industries,—once the start had been given by the new wealth of gold mining,—and the population explosion which followed in its wake.

Before the discovery of gold in January, 1848, at Sutter's sawmill, the chief business was cattle-raising. Huge Spanish land-grants comprised the ranches which made up the territory. There was small trading in beef, rides and tallow taken in place with such ships that put in occasionally in the "harbors" scattered along her long coast-line,—with such activity centered at Monterey. California was under old Mexico which in turn was under a foreign power with the evil and attendant upon such remote control being placed too often in the hands of the local favorites of the time.

The high snow-capped Sierras formed a barrier on the east, in the north, and the burning deserts ruled against a crossing in the south. There was no Panama Canal. The ismuth held only fever-laden swamps; and the vast Pacific lay to the west. There were no railroads. Even crude steam lines of that day did not venture much further than St. Louis. In short California was isolated. She had no great population to consume, or to create a potential, or to demand manufactured goods. There was no industry. Only a few wealthy "francheros" could afford to buy from the ships that brought goods from distances around the "Horn". Yet her mineral wealth was very great, as we have come to learn today.

In February only a month after the discovery of gold, California became part of the United States. The news of the discovery of gold leaked out, but did not appear as headlines in the New York papers until a year later. Such was the rate of communications.

This brought the gold rush of '49. People came from everywhere. They came in any way they could, often selling everything to get there. It was a mad scramble to get there first. This gold-rush brought a population explosion such as the world had never seen before. Fortunes were made, and lost. The turn of a card, or perhaps in the wild frenzy of the gold fever . . . and a sober element came also . . . and took root.

The rich placers became worked out. The interest shifted to the hard-rock, or lode mining, the source material and the more permanent type of mining. California had her start. There were people now with their demands for a better society involving manufactured goods and a better way of life — now that these things could be afforded. An industrial civilization was being born, growing greater and greater each year through commerce. Railroads now crossed the high Sierras and the deserts. California was a part of a unified United States. Later came the Panama Canal as a short-cut water way from ocean to ocean. California was on her way.

The metamorphosis from an agricultural economy to an industrial economy was not the result of government spending to "make business", or from its "assistance". It came from the mining of gold as a new wealth, and when the wild element had to give way to the sober, business-like thinking and moral sense, a real progress followed and was helped by the establishment of basic industries financed by a real wealth to give a solid, free economy. This firm economy came from the union of business and mineral utilization which California began to develop to a superlative degree as Director Fitch has pointed out. California made the development of her natural resources finally into a business to make more business.

Today California is the fastest growing State in the Union, although only a little more than 100 years old as a state, her yearly income from products made from cheap, abundant raw materials like sand, limestone, gypsum, clays, salt and carbon surpasses all the wealth taken out in gold. On top of this are the petroleum and their host of products. Their synthetic, as well as those made from iron products and minerals add to this maze of multiplied wealth.

Fibers, fiber glass, glass cloth, synthetic rubber, acetates, and electronics have become magic words. This list grows and continues to expand into other fields even as one idea leads to another to awaken dormant thought to more new possibilities. These discoveries, improvements and contributions to progress come from individual untoldness and are as possible to one as to another — now and always. This is the real wealth of America.

The sky-scraper with its lighter metal alloys, fiber glass, light weight aggregates, manufactured products of ornamental stone crafts, beautiful wall and floor coverings, acoustical tiles, and "what nots" have been made possible from farm and mineral products, craftsmanship, superb engineering financed by corporate enterprise. This union of efforts has made possible the achievement — united we make a great nation — divided we fall.

Clearly the minerals have played a decisive part in the destiny of California, and of our country. Their effective utilization can always become a new wealth to any state or nation, and vice-versa, the lack becomes a lack, a product of wrong thinking. But Lincoln County is a vast treasure-vault of wealth in minerals and other natural resources lying undeveloped, unutilized . . . waiting. That waiting time is about over.

The case of early California has been cited because of many points in close similarity to New Mexico, particularly Lincoln County, under the signs of the present times. For years U. S. 54 was left unpaved in its worst stretch, yet it is a vital 60-mile link from Carrizozo to

Vaughn to connect the northern network. The paving of U. S. 390, when it came earlier, was a sordid bit of history. But even today the strategic significance of making State Highway 3 into a U. S. Highway from Duran (or Vaughn) to Las Vegas, and so having a paved route all the way through to Eaton Pass and Denver and the intercontinental central network as the shortest route to the border, seems to have been unappreciated. Yet marketing and commerce require good paved roads and short routes for cheap transportation, or else there is isolation and high prices to the consumer, as was the case of early California. In fact, California took the lead of all western states to develop good roads — and to see that funds went into good roads. Let New Mexico learn this for her own good.

Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Stoneman and Cassandra Lynn were weekend guests of his parents, the Clyde Stonemans. They also visited with Terry's parents the Monty Busseys, at Claunch on Sunday before returning to their home in Cottonwood, Arizona.

The J. A. Hightowers were El Paso visitors on Friday. They returned home by way of Las Cruces and visited with John Allen's sister and family, the I. V. Payne. Victor and Paul Payne returned home with them to spend several weeks here.

Mrs. L. S. Markham of Pasadena, California, was the honored guest at a luncheon last Thursday, given by Mrs. Vernelle Hightower, at her ranch home. Thirteen ladies enjoyed the delicious meal of chicken loaf, congealed avocado salad, and strawberry ice cream pie. Mrs. Markham formerly resided at Claunch during the time her husband, the late Rev. Markham, was pastor at Ancho. This was the first visit here in over five years.

The Rev. Lucy Simms was pleasantly surprised Sunday during church services, when the children's choir, composed of ten boys and girls, sang "Happy Birthday", the occasion being his seventy-sixth birthday. Later in the day, he was the guest-of-honor at a picnic held in Pine Canyon. About forty members of the Ancho community enjoyed the picnic lunch, topping off the meal with home-made ice cream and a beautifully decorated birthday cake. Everyone then participated in a game of soft ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimmick of Silver City were guests of the Larry Lynches last week. They report that they enjoyed the visit, and the trips to Jicarella, but didn't care for our water system. Ancho has been without water for the past three weeks due to machinery break-down. It's really surprising what a long way a little water will go when it has to be hauled in.

Mary Carol Lynch returned to Silver City with her grandparents, the Kimmicks, last Thursday for a visit with them and also a visit with her cousins in Tucson.

BONITO BITS

BY Louise Runnels

Our March Winds are here so maybe we'll get April Showers in June — however, the wind didn't stop fishermen and sight seers.

From Corona on Sunday to drive around Bonito Lake were: Mr. and Mrs. John Lynhart and family, who have the Corona Merchandise store in Corona. We are always glad to see Corona folks over in this part of Lincoln County.

The next weekend the Talley's at Bonito Lake had the following guests: Mrs. Talley's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith from Artesia, Mr. Talley's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Virden from Carrizozo, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Klisick and baby from Alamogordo, Joe Paxton from Alamogordo, and from Ruidoso, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Roach and baby and Curly Smith.

The Angus Community Building had a face lifting recently. Gil Peters, Bob Runnels, and Jack Robinson painted the building — made new steps, repaired one "house" at the end of the "path," and cleaned through the grave yard.

Mary LaMay took her daughter Jeanette to Carrizozo last week to go with Mrs. Jess Garrison and Mrs. Wayne Withers and a group of girls to Las Cruces to the Grand assembly of Rainbow.

Judy (LaMay) Stuart was around last week taking orders for Avon Products. She will work in Nogal and Bonito around the 1st of July for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schreiner from Carlsbad recuperated in their mountain cabin this weekend after returning from the World's Fair and a visit with their daughters and family in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sellers spent a few days in their cabin this week; their daughter Mrs. Elmerine Scott and children from Albuquerque were with them. They drove to the Reservation above Ruidoso and plan a trip to Juarez.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thomsons entertained friends in their cabins over the weekend.

From Lordsburg to Bonito and visiting friends and relatives round about were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jones. They had been on vacation to Oklahoma to see their daughter and family in Altus, Okla., close to Snyder, Texas, where Virgil was born. They visited in Snyder too. During their stay, they visited Carol Jones at Wichita Falls, Texas and took him to Okla. to see Loretta and family. Carol's is at Shepard Field in the Air Force. He is known as a "Red Rope" three "Green Rope" men and under him and there are 120 men under their command, Virgil said, "Carol is taller than I, weighs 180 pounds and stands 5 foot 9 1/2 inches." Jones also-visited children in Artesia.

Evie Gorder and Vera Sparkman flew to Corpus Christi for "Father's Day" with their father and also to help him celebrate his 80th Birthday.

Out driving and visiting at Bonito City Friday evening were Mrs. Dwight Bowden and children and Mrs. Darrell Austin and children.

Mr. Sonny Elant and family visited his parents Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Elant over the weekend.

Jimmie Payne, Maxine and Linda King from Carrizozo drove to Bonito Saturday and hiked up South Fork Bonito.

Bobby Pfingsten and friends, Jan Williams, John Thompson, and Kenny Huet from El Paso were on the Bonito Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Coe, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coe and children visited on the Bonito Sunday.

Lloyd Hobbs and son, and Sam Hayde from Ruidoso ventured into the Fort Stanton Cave Highway and then came on to Bonito City for a drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McWhorter from Roswell and who have a cabin at Ruidoso Downs drove over to Bonito Sunday. Raymond drove a N.M. Transportation Bus from Roswell to El Paso from 1930 to 1946 and remembers Ruidoso as a "small stop" at Ruidoso Junction run by Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Page at that time.

Earnest Key and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Collins were up to Parson's Mine on Sunday and stopped by Bonito City for a cold drink.

Uncle Bill Copeland celebrated Father's Day by coming to Bonito with Alpha Wallrich who is a roomer in his home. Uncle Bill is feeling good and enjoys his many friends who stop by to see him at Ruidoso Downs.

Others from Ruidoso Downs on Sunday were Charlie Lewis to fish at the lake. Also Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Roberts, and Elvan and Charlott Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fuller sent me a card from Washington, D. C. where they had gone on vacation to see their son Harrell Fuller graduate from American University and who is doing work with International Service, Harrell had a 4 year scholarship to attend this University. Fullers said they were having a wonderful time; they had seen and heard the Open Air Concert by the Air Force Band; they saw many boats pull up beside the Band Stand on the Potomac to listen to the Concert. This trip must have been a real thrill for Ken and Jean.

Life is not so dull, a young man in a hurry came in one store the other morning and said "Do you serve worms?" then later he asked, "Do you serve Salmon eggs. I mean 'Fire Balls'!" His face was red then - I sold him some worms and to make him feel better - I told him they were guaranteed to catch a fish or die trying.

Twister uproots shed north of Roswell

North of Roswell on the old Clovis by-pass, Mrs. Hiram V. Ortega reported a tornado on June 12. She and her children were preparing to gather a litter of baby pigs during the rainstorm when Mrs. Ortega spotted the funnel and rushed her family inside their line north for more than 200 yards. Mrs. Ortega is the aunt of Andy Lopez, shop foreman of the Lincoln County News.

FARM NEWS

By County Agent Ralph Dunlap
IS THIS A SCREWORM OR A MAGGOT?

The true screwworm is distinguished from common blow fly maggots by two dark parallel air tubes. These tubes are readily visible in full-grown maggots of the screwworm but are scarcely visible in the maggots of other blow flies. Screwworms have a pinkish tinge when they have completed feeding and are about ready to leave the wound. Most common blow fly maggots have white, yellow, or gray colors.

However, microscopic examination by a specialist is the only sure means of identification. Producers should continue to collect 10 or more worms from deep in each wound, put them in household alcohol and take them to their county agent if they have one of the mailing cartons complete with preservative. The specimens may be sent directly to the headquarters of the Screwworm Eradication Program.

The only sure way to identify screwworms is to collect maggots for microscopic examination by a specialist. This is why livestock producers are urged to collect worms from every injured livestock wound.

Some of the eradication program is based on positive identification of the insects as well as on the use of insecticides. In Lincoln County, the county agent also stresses the importance of continued cooperation.

Although the largest number of wounds infected with maggots is found in the ears of the ear screwworm, other kinds of maggots may be involved. This has been confirmed by some producers. The true screwworm is only one of a large group of flies, most of which are referred to as common blow flies. However, screwworm maggots infest only wounds of living, warm-blooded animals.

Some of the maggots infesting wounds may be maggots which breed primarily in carcasses. When they are found in living animals, carcass-breeding maggots are usually found feeding on coiled wool or in wounds containing decaying blood and tissue.

Nominations for the "Agriculturist of Distinction" Awards each year will be made by county extension agents, the N. M. Farm and Livestock Bureau, the N. M. Wool Growers, the N. M. Cattle Growers, and the N. M. Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Applications for the awards this year must be in the office of dean and director by July 15. Final selection of the winners will be made by NMSU president, Roger B. Corbett, and the Board of Regents of the University.

The following points will be normally considered in making nominations: 45 years of age or older; 20 years farming or ranching experience in N. M.; farming or ranching a source of livelihood; officers in state or farm and ranch organizations; service on county, regional or state agricultural committees; evidence of interest in organizations fostering agriculture; membership in crop or animal improvement associations; participation in local, county or state community service organizations; and local or state leadership in agricultural circles.

Presentation of "Agriculturist of Distinction" Awards is a continuing program. We anticipate that at least eight or ten including post-humous awards will be made to outstanding leaders in agriculture this year at the time of the dedication of the new agriculture building thereat. One or more awards will normally be made annually. The University administration feels that the awards will do much to bring the importance of agriculture into closer focus in New Mexico and at the same time recognize those who have made lasting contributions to this great industry.

TOO MUCH WATER BAD AS NOT ENOUGH

Too much water is about as bad as not enough when it comes to irrigating your lawn. There are two simple ways to tell if your lawn needs watering. One is to check the color of the grass. Just before wilting, it takes on a darker color, often a bluish green. The fine grasses and clover show footprints and don't recover quickly from trampling. This is the time to water.

Or if you are not such an astute observer, give your lawn the screwdriver test. If the ground is moist, you'll be able to poke the screwdriver into the soil, but when it goes down only 3 or 4 inches, you'll know the lower levels are dry and need a good soaking. The screwdriver test may not be a true indicator in sandy soil since penetration will be much easier regardless of moisture.

Apply an inch of water each time you sprinkle. This is usually enough to last a week, although in the early spring, it may last as long as 2 to 4 weeks or in hot summer weather not more than 4 days.

To be sure you apply enough water, set a coffee can under the sprinkler. Stop when you have an inch of water in the can.

MULCHES SAVE LABOR AND MOISTURE IN HOME GARDENS

A good mulch can relieve you of much of the nuisance of weed pulling in your garden this summer. And just as important, a mulch will conserve valuable soil moisture.

A thick mulch of about 2 inches will eliminate most garden weeds. Only a few of the strongest perennial weeds are able to grow up through a thick mulch. Mulches virtually can eliminate the need of hoeing and only an occasional weed will have to be pulled by hand.

A benefit of equal importance provided by mulches is the conservation of soil moisture. A good mulch reduces the amount of water lost through evaporation, extending the supply available to plants. This is particularly important during hot or excessively dry weather. Rain also soaks into mulched soil more readily because the soil's physical condition is improved through use of a mulch.

You can use many different materials for a satisfactory mulch. Feat moss, leaves, grass clippings, sawdust, pine needles, pecan shells, straw, and cotton seed hulls all work well in most home gardens.

WATCH FOR FOOD SPOILAGE IN WARM WEATHER

Although care in handling food should be taken all year 'round, in warm weather especially, when foods spoil more easily, certain important kitchen rules should be carefully observed. Bacteria thrive in warm temperatures.

Don't permit perishable foods (meat, fish, poultry, salad mixture, cream-filled pies, cakes, etc.) to stand in a warm kitchen (60 degrees and up); keep them either hot or cold. If not served at once, the food should be refrigerated. Reheat before serving, if necessary. When you cook meat, fish, or poultry for later use, cool it quickly by setting it in a pan of cold water, then cover and refrigerate it promptly.

Don't wait until hot food has cooled to room temperature before putting it in the refrigerator. In fact, waiting provides an ideal condition for rapid growth of bacteria and resulting food spoilage. Warm foods should be cooled when refrigerated (if moisture condenses on the underside of a cover, wipe it dry to help prevent souring and replace).

When preparing a large salad hours in advance of use, don't put it in a big deep bowl, because chilling through to the center may be so slow that spoilage can occur. Refrigerate the salad by dividing among shallow containers that permit complete speedy chilling.

On picnics, carry sandwiches and salad ingredients in refrigerated containers or in coolers, and keep the containers out of the sun. Have everything chilled in advance. Avoid cream mixtures (including custards) in pies, puddings, etc., in hot weather if you can't keep them chilled. Take along only nonperishable foods if you haven't suitable containers for keeping things hot or cold.

Food requiring no refrigeration at home are safe to take, such as canned luncheon meats, jam, peanut butter, etc., keep the hard-cooked eggs, lettuce, sliced tomatoes, cucumbers in chilled refrigerator bags. Carry the mayonnaise jar separately and use after you arrive. If you take foods from your home freezer, take them as long as it is - they'll thaw en route before lunch time.

Prime Products of Our Talent Farm

Every year... at great expense in time, money and love... we turn out another fine crop of young men and women... trained and schooled and ready to take their places in the adult world! And every year the big cities get most of them... because we haven't enough jobs for them to do.

- It's very generous of us to go to all of this trouble and expense to furnish high grade personnel for city use.
- Of course, we'd like very much to keep them here near us because we love them. And we could use nearly all of them if we should develop a real selfish streak some day and decide to wean the big cities

- have been helping to support.
- The money we spend out of town every year, if most of it was spent here, would provide many more job and business opportunities for our young people.
- It would make the grass a good deal greener for most of us older citizens, too.

The Hondo local Farm Bureau members and their families enjoyed a picnic in observance of Father's Day at the Fritz-Spring west of Hondo with Bert Pfingston, the Cristoval Zamoras, Bill Shreengosts and the Lucio Zamoras acting as hosts. Hamburgers broiled over an open fire, games and songs around the camp fire added to the wonderful Sunday. The Otero Co-op booster station is now under construction in Tinnie. The land on which it is being built was leased from Elma F. Torres and is situated north of the old Tinnie school. It is estimated that it will be complete in about two months.
