CAPITAN BOY INITIATED INTO COLLEGE CLUB
Carlton Britton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Britton of Capitan, was recently initiated into the Koinonia Men's Social Club at Lubbock Christian College, Lubbock, Texas. Organized in 1957, when the junior college was in its first year of operation, the club participates in inter-campus sports events, competes for the highest cumulative grade average of the 11 social clubs at LCC, and holds special events such as banquets and picnics. Britton, a May graduate of Capitan High School, is a freshman at LCC.

Nation wide election day, November 6, 1962, presented a confusing picture with an apparent Republican surge in the south and Democrats taking over where not expected. Lincoln County followed the same pattern and it was apparent as the polls were tallied that Lincoln County voters can still split a ticket — they were doing so in many instances.

A total of 1471 votes were cast for Jack C. Redman in the Congressional race, to 1470 for Joseph M. Montoya, giving the Republican a one-vote margin. In the next race down the ticket Julio Lopez, the Republican received only 1224 votes to 1602 for Thomas G. Morris, the Democratic candidate for Congress, position 2.

As in the southern United States there was a surge in this election, only in reverse. Generally it was a Republican victory with the Democrats taking the county assessor's office, formerly held by a Republican, and one commissioner position. W. G. Bradley, Lincoln County Sheriff, topped all candidates both state and county on either ticket with a total of 1533. His opponent, J. P. Bobo, Democrat, received 1174.

There were several close races, all undecided until the last box came in from Lincoln, arriving nearly two hours after Plecho, the next to last box to get to the county clerk's office. W. G. Shreeengost held a 100-vote margin at this point, and this was narrowed slightly leaving Shreeengost the winner in the Representative race over Sally Ortiz, 1518 to 1433. This was the first political campaign lost by Ortiz who had served as sheriff and representative.

I. G. Torrez was already out of the running before Lincoln came in, losing the commissioner race to Roman Nunez, Democrat. Only 71 votes separated Necker and Grasswell, and this race narrowed slightly leaving Necker the winner on the Republican ticket, for commissioner in District 3.

The county clerk race was close in a number of precincts with Allen winning Capitan, Nogal, Bonito, Corona, Ancho, and Ruidoso but losing the race with Alice King tallying 1569 to 1314 for Gertrude Allen. Phoebe May Taylor walked off with the treasurer's race, with a good boost from Lewis Cummins, 1773 to 1127 for Gladys Knox.

Louise Runnels, Demo for Assessor, was ahead 151 votes before Lincoln came in and with a possible of only 210 (but not probable) in this precinct, she had the race won over Lloyd Vigil, Republican incumbent. Marvin Roberts and Mal Petree battled it out right down to the wire. Before the last count Roberts led by 50 votes. After Lincoln was counted he won the race by 20 votes to hold his place as Probate Judge of Lincoln County.

The entire tabulation of all precincts and all candidates is printed on this page so readers of the Lincoln County News can study them to their heart's content.

DEATH TOLL CLIMBS

A head-on collision one mile east of Riverside claimed two lives on October 24. The accident increased the County death toll to 11 for this year surpassing the 1961 toll of 10.

The accident was the second fatal accident, each claiming two lives, in four days on the newly opened 280-70 highway.

Killed were Kenneth Wayne Thomason, 36, of Carlsbad and Clifford Ed Cole, 53, of Atoka, Tennessee.

Thomason, who was heading east to Roswell, was reportedly under the influence of liquor and on the extreme left side of the highway. His car hit head on with the one driven by Cole's son. The son, whose wife was following in a separate car, was reported in serious condition in the Roswell hospital.

American Education Week

American Education Week is to be observed during the week of November 11 through 17. You are most cordially invited to visit the classrooms during this time and see your children in action.

As educators, we appreciate very much the interest and concern which you show with reference to the education of your children. American education provides a firm foundation for our whole way of life. It assures our standard of living. It is the path of social and economic advancement.

The American public school system is the institution which makes these benefits possible. This is a good week for us to think about our responsibilities and the privileges we enjoy in being a part of such an institution.

Will you visit your school next week? The teachers and the students are looking forward to greeting you. You are most welcome.

McEven makes hunting suggestions

The coming of the game season coupled with recent drying and curing conditions of the forest fuels, calls for everyone in the woods to be extremely careful with fire and to practice good woodsmen habits. Campfires are safe if reasonable precautions are taken to prevent their spread. Always be sure your fire is never left unattended.

Never trust young children to attend the campfire during your absence. Never build a bigger fire than you can handle with firefighting tools available. Be sure to build your campfire in an open space away from fuel concentrations, stumps or dead logs. Be extremely careful to completely extinguish your warming fires, warming fires are commonly built by hunters away from camp, the hunters attention is detracted by the sight or sound of game and his warming fire is abandoned which later burns out of control.

A good sportsman will always return and put-out the warming fire before leaving the area. Be constantly alert to warn the careless ones of unsafe acts in handling fire in the woods. Report unsafe fire violations to the nearest Fire or Game Warden before its too late, a "stitch in time" might well save a disaster.

In conclusion, a bit of advice. THINK, most of us KNOW but we do not ACT. BE CAREFUL WITH FIRE, BE CAREFUL WITH FIREARMS, LEAVE A CLEAN CAMP, A GREEN FOREST and come back again.

The Gamma Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi honored their new pledges with a tea in the Corona Recreation room Oct. 21, 1962. Those signing the guest book were Mrs. Jerry Clark, Mrs. Bill Kessler, and Mrs. Lee Mulkey.

The table was covered with a white lace edged tablecloth centered with an arrangement of yellow roses. Other floral arrangements were used about the room.

Refreshments of tea cake, nuts, mints, tea and coffee were served.

Upon leaving each pledge was presented with a yellow rose.

Gamma Theta of Beta Sigma Phi held its regular meeting on October 22, in the home of Mrs. Billy V. Patrom.

President, Mrs. L. L. Carnell was in charge of the business session. Plans for the Halloween Party were completed.

The roll call was answered by naming the qualities in friends which attracted and caused you to like them. The program for the evening, Personality and Relationship, was given by Mrs. John E. Tracey and Mrs. John Books. They discussed personal relationships and religion and the integrated self. Then members filled in and evaluated a personality and relationship chart.

A double wedding will be performed at Corona Catholic Church Saturday, November 24. Miss Josie Chavez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Romello Chavez of Corona will marry Mike Allrez, of Corona, son of Mrs. Molly Allrez; and Miss Viola Baca, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Baca of Corona will marry Raymond Marquez of Albuquerque, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delores Marquez of Corona.

There were 200 at Corona who took the Oral Sabin Polla Vaccine last Sunday, Nov. 4.

Clean-Up Sunday declared success

The clean-up Sunday for the Sabin Oral Vaccine program was declared a big success by Dr. Van Osdol. Dr. Van Osdol reports that he would like to commend the Corona people for their efforts which allowed him to spend a minimum of time in Corona. And, secondly, he stated Corona donated more money than the number of doses called for.

At the present time, there are no known plans for administering the last dose. Glen Ellison would like to express his appreciation to all those who helped and to all those who participated.

Seniors present annual play

The seniors of Corona High School will present their play Nov. 9. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. The name of the play is "Here Comes The Bride" published by the Hever Publishing Company, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The story of the play begins when a likeable, perfectly normal young bachelor by the name of Jimmy Took needs a wife in a terrific hurry to prove to generous Uncle Dan that his monthly checks for the support of Jimmy's non-existent bride have been justified. This is Jimmy's problem when he, Bill Thompson, and Bill's Aunt Ellen get Uncle Dan's telegram that he and his ward, Peggy, are bringing the monthly check in person, so that they can meet the new bride. What will happen when, through Jimmy's misguided scheming, three imitation brides appear—two of them men dressed as women, and the other his sweetheart, Madge? But this is only the beginning, for Peggy wants to see Bill, and Bill is one of the Brides; and Aunt Ellen is definitely interested in Uncle Dan, but so are Mrs. Duballe Smith and her sister, Eubie! And who are the mysterious Lady Macbeth and hearty, jolly McDaniel, not to mention timid, nearsighted Mr. Oswald, an unsuspected bill-collector, who is drafted as one of Jimmy's brides.

"Here Comes The Bride" is the sort of clean, clever, fast-moving farce that can be acted with greatest effectiveness by the senior class. Laughable situations follow each other with bewilderingly rapid humor and complexity. "Here Comes The Bride" cannot fail to please you.

DEER HUNTING SEASON

Open Saturday, November 10

Sponsored By American Legion

It happened 100 YEARS ago

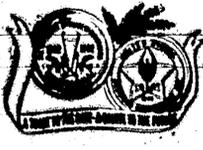

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862—the same year that

IN NEW MEXICO, the Butterfield Stage Line was in operation. Actually contracted for in 1857 by the Post Office Department, the line was developed to carry the California mails overland. Extending 2,795 miles from St. Louis to San Francisco, the Butterfield Stage Line crossed New Mexico near Fort-Cummings.

Even then, beer was New Mexico's traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides enjoyment for New Mexicans, and a good living for many of them—not only the employees of the Brewing Industry itself, but also for other businesses and suppliers who provide materials and services the industry must have to do business in New Mexico.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Ancho visitors at the store on Sunday were Allie and Levene Snodgrass, Mrs. Izara Sparkman, Mrs. Deme Blasingame, Mrs. Jessie Miller, and Billy Norman Irwin. Allie and Levene, who now reside in Las Cruces, made their home in Ancho for a number of years prior to the

Mrs. Vera Beall of Lincoln spent a short time with us last Sunday morning. It was so wonderful having her. Soon they will spend the winter in their home in Alamogordo.

The Grand Canasta Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frances Wednesday evening. Those present were Sybil Arnett, Grace Murphy, Lorene Ferguson, Corinne Province, Frances filled in. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served.

Garland Crow has spent several weeks in Pascal, Washington where he is employed. He visited Capitán last Saturday before returning to his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddie Brown and baby daughter are looking for a house as they expect to make their home here.

Vernon Payne and Richard McCormbs of San Angelo, Texas spent Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cheney. Sunday they visited friends here and in Carrizozo then to Jicarilla to hunt pheasants etc. as they are returning home.

Ben and Robert Leslie went to Roswell on Oct. 26 to pick up Eva, Rob's wife at the hospital where she had spent several days with a broken hip. She had been out of the hospital a few days with relatives before going home. She is doing nicely and getting around on crutches.

She was visiting their daughter Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Payne at Tularosa when she fell on the hard wood floor which is how she broke her hip. We wish you a speedy recovery.

Bill Randle spent several days at the Medical Center in Roswell last week with an injured back which had been bothering him for some time. He came home Saturday evening. Get well fast Bill. We do hope that back is O. K.

Brazel Hartley and son Jay of Las Cruces spent last weekend with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Williams and family and at the ranch home of his aunt and uncle, the Champ Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. Yelton moved last Sunday to Arka, to make their home. Mrs. Yelton needs a lower climate for her health. They sold their home on west fifth street to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean.

Halloween is past. I would like to tell the teenagers and their parents that it is a shame at the destruction they did. Franks are O. K. but the deliberate maliciously doing damage is another thing. That I feel is a bad caper. To do things that are willful and cost people money. I hope that the ones responsible for malicious deeds read this and meditate and let your conscience be your guide to the right things of life. I know that for 32 years I have been loyal to all of the children and many, many others have too and certainly were disappointed at some of the things that happened this year.

Our State Police and our Constable had to be on the man hunt so could not be present there for such shameful things happened to us all. I still say Witches and Goblins, etc. are O. K. and we laugh and enjoy the children but the destruction is out of order.

The hunting party of four who went to Colo. for an elk hunt were successful. Gerald Dean, Virgil Hall, Dick Cox and Bill Randle each killed an elk. There was snow. Each came home feeling under par.

Mr. and Mrs. Dec Dean and Sharon Talley of Claunch came by and visited his parents a few minutes while enroute last Saturday to Post, Texas to attend his nephew Gerald Dean Jr. wedding. The young couple left for points of interest in Texas and New Mexico before returning to make their home at the Harlan property. I wish you many happy and prosperous years together.

The Bert Cheney home and green house are nearing completion. They have moved in and will finish the inside as they go along. Truly is a good looking place.

S. A. Montes new home will be ready for them to move in any time. The outside has been painted white trimmed in Turquoise.

The new Post Office and Soil Conservation building is getting its brick veneer over the block. This will be a fire proof building. The west side will not be veneered as it will be left for future building of a shopping center to be tied in.

The Annaratonas have had a new board fence built on the south of their home. We love to see this progress in our City.

On The Bonito

By Louise Rannels

It's nice to come home after passing cards all day and asking for votes and find notes. Last week Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. man from Carrizozo and daughter Anna Belle and her husband Milton Burrow from Roswell had been to Bonito, sightseeing, and left me a note telling me about the beautiful country. Anna Belle is a telephone operator at Roswell.

Also in the valley for a ride recently was Marie Walker and daughter Alma and John Kelley from Fort Stanton. They had hoped to have fun gathering a few apples but this year there were none.

Robert Rannels has been busy the past few weeks building an addition to the Robert Williams' cabin on Eagle Creek — with 3100 sq. feet floor space. Williams are also having some remodeling done on another cabin near their home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hightower are doing some work on their home near Williams — so all these folks are going to have better living come winter time.

The Spooks on Halloween night were loaded in four cars to "Trick or Treat". A few years ago we could put all the little ones in one car! We were treated at Talley's, Rannels, LaMays and LaMays, Elams, Cols, Cordera, Lucas and Peters. The goblins, big and little had a pleasant evening and did no harm.

At Capitán School on Halloween the fine cooks there prepared a meal in keeping with the day. The menu was: Cats' Meow, (milk); Witches Brooms, (?); Devils Blanket, (?); Spooks Salad, (?); Ghosts, (?) and Jack-O-Lanterns, (?).

What a nice surprise while out campaigning to go in the "Chaparral" for coffee and find Old Timers from Lincoln Co., Carl and Gene Craig and daughter Gene and little grandson, Mark. Craigs are living in San Antonio, Texas but come to Ruidoso once in a while for a short visit. They have a cabin in upper Ruidoso. Carl and Gene were teachers at Ancho and Stetson years ago.

Making a business trip to Roswell last week were: Mary Helen and Anna Mae LaMay and little Megan, whose birthday was that day, Nov. 1, she is three years old.

Campaigning days are too fast coming to an end — I have not visited with enough folks — tried though — and wish I'd skipped one — no one was home and a silent dog gave me my first good dog-bite on the leg. Oh well, one bruise calls for another — half the time I've had a blue nose from running into the car door trying to hurry and get in so I could drive to another house — don't know if that is any worse than starting to brush my teeth with eye lash curlers when I thought I had my tooth brush. Then there was a politician who was in such a hurry and with a worry early in the morning — poured coffee in the sink to shave with instead of hot water. This has been a great experience — I've had fun — even when I knoeked on a door and the lady says, "oh, I can't help you, I'm working for your opponent". Never knew whose house has who — or going to the back door who'll throw dish water on you — but friends are everywhere.

Bonito Cafe will be open for hunting season — licenses — cats and drinks! Till then, adios.

Mining locations have prior rights

Walter A. Hubbard

With the discovery of the rich gold placer in California, and the "rush" that followed, came the beginning of western mining law. The miners had to band together to establish some law and order, codes and practices, to preserve some order out of the chaotic conditions. Later the better of these regulations and practices were translated into law after adjudications of the Courts. The early doctrine of pedis possession was one of the first protective regulations given the miner against trespass, theft and pilfering of his sluice boxes and placer deposits.

The unwritten mining code of that early day has been passed on to the present against uninvited entry upon the mining claims of another to prospect, "snoop" or other wise intrude to benefit himself of the work and discovery of the claim owner, particularly when valuable metal lies openly in sluice boxes or rich ores are openly piled near lode workings. This code arose from unwarranted intrusions, thefts and pilferings, and warnings became necessary as No Trespass signs to those requiring them.

"The locators of all mining locations . . . shall have the exclusive right of possession and enjoyment of all surface included within the lines of their locations . . ." This gives no one the right of free-entry for hunting, armed intrusion on any valid, posted mining claim or patent, nor does this permit the unwarranted menace of rifle fire, interruption of mining work through the menace of rifle fire by hunters within the confines of such locations. In fact such intrusions, constitute criminal trespass.

Two Harvests This Year

I thought the apple harvest would never get done so I could get out around Lincoln County and talk to the people who are interested in good government, as most Lincoln Countians are.

The harvest did get down to the place where I could campaign a few days and it was worth while, as campaigning and talking to people always is.

Then came the second harvest — of votes, your votes — I assure you they were appreciated. I will serve as your elected representative to the best of my ability.

Mrs. Kap Kelly daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juddy McKnight is home recuperating from a slight case of flu. Mrs. Kelly is a former employee of the First National Bank in Roswell and recently she and her husband moved to her parents ranch.

Much has been written in the newspapers about an international student of New York State University by the name of Aegma from Ethiopia Africa traveling to California from New York on a bicycle.

On Monday night of this week, this student stopped by the Juddy McKnight ranch, and asked to spend the eve there. The McKnights were very impressed at finding him such a well informed person on "Our National and Govt. Affairs."

Voting Influence

By Wednesday evening, when this newspaper should be in the mail, this nation will have charted a course for another two years — new or old, crooked or straight, to heaven or hell, much of this route will be based on "who wants a planned existence".

That our lives are now planned in large measure is beyond question. Major government programs to be fought out in the next two years include housing, medical care, education, farming, presumably so the citizens will not have to worry about a roof over their heads, going to the hospital, educating their children or selling their wheat.

This freedom from worry comes from increased taxation naturally, which has the double advantage of controlling spending, so the citizen does not have to worry so much about how to spend his money . . . after paying for bread and butter and the tax bill, little money is left to spend.

The question is gradually coming to the front, as much on the part of the wage earner as on the part of the large stockholder, and future elections will be influenced much more by the answer to this question — do citizens of the United States want to turn over to the bureaucrats most of their earnings to be spent in ways the bureaucrats think would do the citizens the most good.

In real simple language — do you want to manage your own life, or leave the planning to government? The trends of this election will be interesting to note.

Beautiful View Coming In

Coming home right at dusk from a trip out through western New Mexico and Arizona it's a real pleasure to drive through the Oscura Mountains and see the lights of Carrizozo off in the distance. Mighty pretty looking town, too.

Coming down from the north country to Carrizozo is a drive through much of nature's wonderland. The Mat Pals on the right, Jicarilla Mountains off to the left. You can't find much better looking country anywhere. The drive into Carrizozo from that direction is real clean too, with the 380-54 intersection a lively looking business location as one first enters town.

Easterners coming down out of the Capitan Mountains have a fine drive along the bed of the early-day railroad that used to wind its way up to Capitan, with views in every direction that take a lot of looking to realize the vast splendor of Lincoln County, Carrizozo, down at the foot of these mountains, is spread along the tracks and certainly impresses the traveler as quite a city.

There is a certain beauty in sage country, especially with a tall set of mountains like the Sacramentos in the background — such as one can see coming into Carrizozo from the south. It's a long road and rather straight but up ahead is another set of mountains to look at and makes the drive a pleasure. You sort of sneak up on Carrizozo from this direction, then all of a sudden there is a town spread out on the plain looking pretty as a picture.

Take a look from any direction and Carrizozo is fully as pretty as the tall grass that provided its name. Nothing to keep Carrizozo from looking just as pretty from the "inside looking out", just regular house-keeping like every wife is doing at home, will do the job.

This is how the voting went Tuesday in Carrizozo. "Shorty" Miller voted a straight prohibition ticket, Bunny Osorio took his advice and did the same . . . which adds two more names to the "Hall of Infamous" in Lincoln County.

Elfred Jones and Joe Candelaria were jawing each other over the fact they had lived long enough to see one candidate lose a race.

At least one Democrat must have enjoyed the outcome of the election — but not the hang-over Wednesday.

The winners in this election, almost all the way down the ticket, were the ones that campaigned the hardest . . . they should win.

House numbers for Carrizozo have been slow in coming but they are on the way now. Johnson Stearns, Gladney Stubbs, Ray Gabehart and Paul Payton were doing plats of town blocks and getting brass numbers ready last Sunday morning. This is a joint project of Rotary and Lions, that ought to be finished in two or three weeks.

Tom Anderson, publisher of the Collierville (Tenn.) Herald for 40 years, in writing an article "42 Years Ago and Now" says that nowadays editors are so encumbered with all the problems of publishing a newspaper that there just isn't time often for the personal touch and warm contact with people that provides the real spice of life in weekly journalism. Mr. Anderson is right but not entirely — we still have time to talk about a little of everything with anybody but some days we have to keep our hands busy at the same time.

The Lincoln County News baptized a couple of new babies last week and came out with "Lots of News in a New Look". These babies were a folder and a newspaper press. The editor learned "hand folding" working for Dad Payton in the Colony (Kansas) Free Press shop when about 10 years old. Hand folding the News was the first of this tedious work since that stint for Dad. There has not been a folder of this size in the News shop ever before that we know of. The press is different in this way — we can print four pages at a time instead of two.

We haven't gone quite as modern as some people might be thinking. The folder was made around 1925 and is no longer being manufactured. However, it is the best of its kind and will last a long time. There is little to wear out on a folder. Printing methods have been changing rapidly the past 10 years, many newspapers going to offset which is an entirely different method. Our press is still "old style" to come of the more modern shops.

The basic difference and advantage to the News, gained by the installation of this new equipment, is that we will not put the first pages on the press until Tuesday evening, probably after supper or later. By that time many of our correspondents and other live news has been set on the Intertypewriter so that we can bring our readers more current news each week.

Eight pages of the Lincoln County News in its new look, is not a lot larger than six pages of the old style. We intend to print at least eight pages each week which will let us departmentalize our paper better — meaning that our readers will find their favorite columns on the same page most weeks. There will be some shifting of news columns but in time we'll steady down.

We hope our readers will find the new size easier to handle and easier to read. We're attempting to print an "open" paper, letting white space take the place of so much ruling. Getting a new press and folder into our shop is about like building a new house. The moving and installation cost more than the equipment.

We've learned over the years what "normal" is for a weekly for the Kansas City market. H. M. Reddy of the Carrizozo Trading Co. clerical force is at his old home in Texas closing up some business matters.

Emil Fritz was in yesterday from the Fritz-Lutz sheep ranch, west of the Mal Pals. He reports sheep in excellent condition.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dawson and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Majors left yesterday for an over-Sunday visit in El Paso.

Father J. H. Girmán, of Lincoln, will be in Carrizozo Saturday and will conduct regular services in the Catholic church the following morning.

Messrs. Elmer Ham and Clark Pfingsten have started on the long grind of raking leaves on the lawn and from underneath the bushes. The trees have just begun to shed their dress, but if the leaves are not raked continuously, they would form a thick carpet and they cannot be burned on the grass.

Had a high wind from Sierra Blanca on Friday afternoon accompanied by a good equal and thunder bolts. It was more than welcome, for moisture is still needed in these parts. The Capitan Mountains could not be seen for the cloud cover and rain in their entire length.

Since we wrote that little piece about Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Sineroc of Old Lincoln last week, we have wondered if the George Sineroc family of Arabela, are not immediate descendants of the Sineroc family of old. We know the Sineroc had two sons, George and Manuel, Jr., and if we remember well they also had one daughter. Manuel, Jr. was reared from his childhood by his stepfather Syl newspaper. What was quite a "big deal" for us in reshaping our paper caused almost no comment from our readers. However, let us print something not to the liking of our readers and we expect to hear plenty. The world runs that way.

Especially good help was on hand to help us unload and install, including Bill Baker, Walter Hubbard, Jim Wagner, Jeffries-Evans trucker named Jeffrey, and the editor as water boy.

We believe . . . that Lincoln County deserves just as good a newspaper as we can print. We don't expect our readers to always agree with everything they read in the News, but we do expect them to be reading the news — with interest.

COWBOY

Something was said some time ago about horses. The column was brief, dwarfed, so to speak, far from being ample—the same as of this subject. It is, however, one liked by all, as that of the horses.

It is of the GREAT AMERICAN COWBOY.

The two, cowboys and horses, inseparable during the early days of the Old West, have given us some of the most wonderful accountings in American history. Mention of either, much less a mention of them together, tickles the fancy of every true American and lends thought of a colorful, courageous, daring life on the range.

Nothing acquaints us so fast with the cowboy of the early open range days, his horse and the cattle he worked—to say nothing of the fearless acts his daily life required—than a mural that a few years back dominated a spot in New Mexico. It depicted a great range, in all its destructive forces, a hazard that constantly haunted the cattlemen of the Texas plains and New Mexico; a daring, hell-bent cowboy, racing with an all-out fury and determination down the line of the fire, dragging from the end of a lasso tied to the saddle horn a hastily "shot-down" steer. His was a dogged effort to cross the spreading grass fire by pulling the dead steer through the raging fire. The thrifty fire could, and many times did, destroy thousands of sections of valuable grazing, the life-blood of the rancher. It portrayed with no uncertain depiction the loyalty of the American Cowboy to his duty. The painting was very impressive, and its memory has lasted for years.

The depicter knew something of cowboys. He knew something of horses. He knew something of the range, of cattle, of the grave dangers of range fires and the destruction they brought, and of the cowboy's loyalty to his herd.

I think the painting, at one time, was in the lobby of the Lea County Courthouse, in Lovington. That was a few years back. But it is not there now. And I can not locate it.

"The Cowboy's Story," written several years ago by Alice Rogers Hager, one who seemed to know something of the range, described the American Cowboy very vividly:

"The cowboy is the most vivid and native character in the United States today. A tall figure in chaps and Stetson, who stands as a living symbol of all that is gallant, adventurous, heroic in our history. Yet he is the first to deny heroism. He sees nothing extraordinary about his life—it is one that best suits his part of the country. He does not realize that the extraordinary thing is the fact he is maintaining a tradition which we need, and want to preserve; full of sly wit and a prandish humor with friends; sentimental, melancholy, hating sham and honoring sincerity. Thus in a few short words we are acquainted with the cowboy."

The story of the cowboy begins in Old Mexico, when Cortez and his men landed for conquest and a new empire. Out of their native Spain, where cattle raising was known and respected, they brought the nucleus herds for the New World, and introduced first livestock operations. Some historians of cattle brands contribute to Cortez the introduction of the first brand—three crosses—on the American Continent. The conquistadores gave the Southwest horses and cattle, and the cowboy commenced his work.

Bands of wild mustangs sprang from those first herds and the Indians were lifted from their ancient feet; the cowboy became master of the herds and we have the wonderful horse we know today. Spanish longhorns had their beginning from these herds, too, eventually becoming known as the Texas longhorn; the cowboy again portrayed his ingenuity to manage the range—to a degree of the thousands of square miles of wonderful thoroughbred herds and the savory steak we enjoy today.

From that long-ago picture, more than four centuries, to the present-day one, we have a most dramatic contrast in the life of the cowboy—from what he was during the days of Cortez, to the most modern, efficient cattleman the range has ever known. Many of them are graduates of agriculture colleges, with a degree in stock management and operation. They are a character that has definitely kept abreast of time, in its every advancement—not for a moment adhering to ancient methods of operation until the industry became lost, trampled under foot and obsolete, and advancement submitted to other nations.

Today the cowboy might have his early morning breakfast in the village's leading restaurant, while his faithful horse awaits in the pickup out front, anxiously and desirous to hit the range and work cattle. He enjoys modern conveniences and usually operates the range from headquarters in the town limits. Instead of rolling out of blankets, with saddle as pillow, far from a point of civilization, grabbing a cup of steaming-hot coffee from the cook at the chuck wagon, and hitting the range with the first peep of dawn. Enjoying none of the comforts of a home and being a social participant only when the work's all done in the fall.

Throughout the present-day periodicals we are attracted by such captions: "Cowboy had guts and lived according to a strict code of honor—even when facing someone they hated." And every action of every hour of his life was favored subject.

Then from George Phillips, an old-time cowboy, we have: "We drew $25.00 a month and found, and if we made top hand we got $40.00 a month. . . Cattle ranching all pasture work now. Now the cowboys use $100 saddles and $40.00 boots and if it rains (which it seldom does anymore in Texas and Arizona), your gentleman cowboy has a change of clothes handy so he won't take his death of cold. For breakfast he has oatmeal or some fancy cereal, nice crisp bacon and coffee with sugar and cream! That modern grub won't stick to a fellow's ribs like a mug of Arbuticle and a plate of beefsteak and beans, with a couple of sourdough biscuits on the side!"

And I can supplement a little more of the range life as it happened in the blow-sand hills around Andrews, Texas: Where in the days gone by one had a good strong nip from the jug about four in the morning, followed with a gigantic breakfast of great helpings of fried round steak, cream-gravy, and honest-to-goodness biscuits prepared and served right from the old chuck house.

Cowboys have always been proud of their heritage, and have always adhered to it. Along a few years back when the petroleum industry broke loose in the southeastern portion of the State, many oil field hands from the fields back east filtered into the range land. They readily noticed the boots which the cowboys and the stockmen of the region wore, and liked them. Every oil field worker bought himself a pair usually gaudy in color, and proudly wore them about over town when not working in the fields.

One day, on the outskirts of a town, a lone cowboy was found dismounted by the roadside, his horse nearby. He was pulling off his range boots clearly marked with usage and certain elements which are usually found in a corral. He took from his saddle a pair of slippers, and put them on. He placed his boots in the same saddle bags, and buckled down the flaps.

When asked why the change at such a time, just before entering town, and seeming strange that a cowboy would forsake his boots, he drawled in a dry sort of tone, "I don't want the people to think I'm one of those damn oil field rough necks!"

He crawled back into the saddle, and rode into town. THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT IS . . . It's harder than hell to add "the long and short of it is" onto the subject of the American Cowboy.

Mrs. Pierce has been discharged and has gone to her home in Albuquerque.

Tex Ony had visitors from Albuquerque on Saturday. Father Clay Dennis of Carrizozo held Mass in the Sacred Heart Church last Sunday, and announced a change of schedule for Masses. The Mass in Fort Stanton will now be held Saturday at 6:30 a.m., instead of Sunday, except the Saturday after the first Friday of each month, when the Mass will be held on Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gonzales and Steve Sierra of Santa Rosa were Fort Stanton visitors on Sunday. They are ex patients of Fort Stanton and have many friends here, who were glad to see them. Mrs. Gonzales is the former Clara Sierra, sister of Steve.

The following had visitors from home on Sunday: Mary Merrit, Donnie McCarthy, Floyd Budick, Willard Wren, Madeleine Botone and a few others. Mary Molina has returned from emergency furlough to Las Cruces. She was accompanied here by her husband and children.

Rosa Crain has returned to her desk in the Administration building after being confined to her home with an armoring case of flu.

When Medical Clerk John Crow had the measles, Rosa accused him of being pampered and being in his second childhood. Now, John retallates by saying that Rosie was only spooking, to ride the broom on Halloween night. True or false, Rosa?

Fil Garcia and Nurse's Aide

Chambers made a trip in the ambulance to Roswell on Monday to bring back Toby Valdez from surgery.

Richard Griego has been on crutches for about two weeks, when he sprained his foot playing football in Capitan.

Cook Cipriano Hernandez visited with home folks in El Paso for several days. He was a cook in Beaumont Hospital with Chef Lell St. John before coming here.

Head Orderly and Mrs. Henry Sanchez spent the weekend with their children in Albuquerque. Their two boys work in the Duke City and their daughter attends St. Joseph's College. Henry accompanied the boys on a hunting trip to Cuba and came back with a deer. "More rugged country than Lincoln County," said Henry.

Fil Garcia and Nurse Martha Hale went to Albuquerque on Tuesday to bring back John Burleson and Jim Harden from surgery.

Halloween Party

The dining room was beautifully decorated with streamers, owls, black cats, witches, jack-o-lanterns and balloons, to give a weird and spooky atmosphere for the annual Halloween party for the patients of Fort Stanton, held the night of Oct. 30, from 6:30 until 8:30.

The party was sponsored by Medical Social Consultant Pat Romero, with a committee composed of Mary Pate, Steve Uharriet, Carmen Maes and Fernando Martinez, to carry out the arrangements and decorations. Also Pearl White.

There were many goblins dressed in glamorous costumes, some of which were spooky and really funny. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Blalock were chosen as judges for the best costumes and they gave the prizes to Carmen Maes as a Spanish Matador and Fernando Martinez as a Scottish Highlander.

The goblins danced the Broom Waltz with a broom, after which many were blindfolded and took turns pinning the tail on the donkey's right spot. Manuel Simeros came the closest and he pinned the tail on its flanks. He was awarded the prize. Patricia gave Big Jim so many turns, that he became dizzy and had to be helped off the floor by Mr. Blalock when he fell.

The goblins visited the different wards for the benefit of bed patients.

A long line of chairs were placed back to back for the Musical Chair game. The participants had to march around the chairs when George King started the music and when he stopped, they had to sit down. A chair or two were pulled out at each turn. The fun really began when the chairs had diminished to about half the number, and some landed on the floor while others sat in one another's lap. In one of these scrambles, Patty Mike Martinez put his weight in the lap of Frances Corral and she lost one of her pillows under her hoop skirt and also one of her over-size stockings.

Manuel Simeros and Mary Molina remained with the last chair, but Manuel was faster than Mary and he won his 2nd prize of the evening.

The crowd walked in line at the service counter, where Rob Sanders served punch, cookies and candies.

Special mention goes to Josie Morales, who both in dress and stature, mimicked a certain high dignitary in our troubled world affairs, but since the Cuban crisis has simmered down to a favorable extent, we deem it best not to mention his name in derision.

Mrs. Madames Flatley and Province of the O. T. were over from Capitan for the party.

To wind up the affair, Maria Rodriguez, Josie Morales, Theodore Garcia and Manuel Simeros sang a couple of Spanish duets. Big Jim got on the floor with his feather headdress and gave us a Navajo Indian song and dance.

Mrs. Hattie Lacy gave a party for her school pupils on the afternoon of Oct. 31.

Signs of the creeping years—we enjoyed the Halloween party, theatrics and the many beautiful and varied costumes, but we had nightmares and saw goblins around our bed all night long.

Artist Hoskie Jim drew the donkey for the party and Cowboy Derrick said it looked more like a dehydrated Australian kangaroo, and the south end should have been facing the person with the tail and pin. The donkey escaped, but we did not for we got our flu shots next day.

Rosa Armijo has gone on a furlough to her home in Albuquerque.

Judge Martin Hamilton passed away in No. 4, on the night of Oct. 31, and the remains taken to Hobbs for interment. His many friends offer their sympathy to his family.

FARM NEWS

Ralph Dunlap - County Agent

HUNTERS, DON'T FORGET MANNERS ON FARMS

Some hunters forget their manners when they hunt on farms and in woodlands as guests.

Criticism of hunting as a fine recreation often starts because many hunters forget the landowner is our host and we make ourselves uninvited guests.

Generally, landowners permit reasonable hunting if they know who is on their land. Asking permission to hunt is small courtesy in return for a pleasant day afield, yet too few follow this rule. Landowners need protection from indifferent, careless, destructive hunters.

Cut fences, trampled crops, littered trash and open gates are some of the problems facing farmers in hunting season. When the trouble becomes too great, farmers post land to be protected from irresponsible hunters. Then everyone loses the enjoyment of the wildlife crop.

Here are a few common sense rules of hunting courtesy: ask permission to hunt, close gates, pick up litter after eating lunch, keep out of unharvested crops, keep away from buildings and livestock when hunting and above all, mind your hunting manners.

Rayless goldenrod can be controlled with 2.4D used in a 0.2% spray. It will take 2 annual sprays for complete control.

Ranchers know that rayless goldenrod, when eaten in quantity by cattle, causes the disease known as "trembles." Symptoms of the disease are inactivity, weakness, a humped-up stance, and trembles of the muscles, especially after exercise. The poison is dangerous to humans because it can be transmitted through the milk or meat.

Four 4-H completion pins were given to 53 boys and girls for finishing their 4-H projects in 1962.

John W. Cooper presided over the awards program. Wayne Dunlap led the pledge to the Flag and Alma Walker led the 4-H pledge. Betty Lou Jones led the singing, accompanied by Minette Smaat on the piano.

The films "Agriculture U. S."

A., which celebrated the centennial of the United States Department of Agriculture, was shown to the group.

Lindane is not now approved to use as a dip for sheep scabies. Recently the U. S. D. A. removed it from the approved list, as it did not maintain a proper concentration when large numbers were dipped.

The only federally approved dip is Toxaphene and Lin Tox-X. The two brands have an acceptable emulsifier.

Woman, daughter hurt in wreck

A 24-year old Amarillo, Tex., woman and her four-year-old daughter were injured about 10:45 a.m. Tuesday when the small foreign car they were traveling in left the highway about four miles west of Riverside.

Mrs. Sharon Jones received upper chest and side injuries and mouth and teeth injuries; her daughter Karen, suffered a bloody nose and a bump on her head.

According to the Ballard Funeral Home ambulance driver, Mrs. Jones told him she apparently became fatigued and lost control of the vehicle. It went down an embankment, ripping off a small guard post.

Then the car went another 100-150 feet further down the embankment and stopped.

Mrs. Jones was en route from San Diego, Calif., to Amarillo.

'ZOZO ROUND-UP

By AGNES KEARNS

At the polls on Tuesday while taking advantage of the voting privilege granted to so few in the world today, I heard a comment made by Rev. Thomas Banks, now living in Albuquerque but whose vote was in Lincoln County. Rev. Banks remarked "That since he traveled thousands of miles to fight for his country, he surely could travel the 150 miles to vote."

My heart felt happy when I heard this remark. I'm one of those people who still believe in democracy and patriotism; and I sometimes get the feeling that there are not many of us left. Oh yes, we all say we are interested but when it comes to doing or voting, there are far too many who answer, "I am too busy or what's the use of voting because they (politicians) are all taking as much as they can." I'm not that naive that I don't believe there are men in office who are taking all they can from the people, but I do feel the biggest cause of graft, stealing, and highway robbery is the apathy of people. I still maintain the government is the servant of the people and if it has come to be the master, Mr. Public is to blame!

We all gripe about the weather, and, of course, we can't do anything about nature; but we, the people, can do something about the status of our government. Maybe, you don't think this way, but it is only reasonable that if the men and women in government from the top on down thought that their every move was being watched by the public, then they would be less inclined to spend, or as in some instances, steal the taxpayer's money.

During the "Measure your candidate" programs the Ruldaco and Hondo meetings were the only ones that drew crowds and that was because one politician was under fire. How can people vote for the right person if they aren't familiar with their views and platforms? Just because a candidate is a member of a certain party, does not mean he will do the best job. The two party system is the best thing our government has, but to say a man can do no wrong because he is a member of a certain party is a fanatical way to believe.

If you didn't get to vote this time... try to remember that 1964 is the next election year.
