

Walker and Morgan developing a powerful political force in their staffs

YOUNG DENNIS EYES HIS DADDY'S PLACE

SANTA FE — Dennis Chavez Jr. who has been blasting the nomination of H. Vearle Payne of Lordsburg for U. S. district judge as one prejudiced against Spanish-Americans, has found time between to hint that he would be a candidate for his late father's place in the Senate next year.

Young Chavez is no popularity winner but his name would attract a lot of votes in a Demo primary, perhaps enough to seriously handicap U. S. Rep. Joe Montoya who is already running for the big job.

Meanwhile the capitol has heard that Land Commissioner Johnny Walker is a probable starter in the 1964 Senate run. Walker, and his inseparable political colleague, Coropration Commissioner Murray Morgan, are developing a powerful political force of their own in the staffs of the two big state agencies.

PRIMARY REPEAL STILL POSSIBLE

Walker, Dennis Chavez or any of the other outsiders eyeing the Senate primary, might not get to run if the legislature repeals the primary.

A repeal measure before the legislature has strong support from Our Clint the Senator and other top figures in the Demo party, but much opposition in the legislature itself.

Anderson, Montoya and perhaps Gov. Jack Campbell would select the Senate nominee if the nomination were made in a party convention. That would seem to be stacked in favor of Montoya.

The place the hopefuls are eyeing is that held by Republican Ed Mechem.

NORMAN HODGES FOR PAYNE POST

Chavez Jr. won't be able to make any trouble for Judge Payne when he comes up for confirmation in the Senate. The prejudice he is accused of hasn't revealed itself in more than twenty years that Payne has been in public service.

Santa Fe politicians are telling that Dist. Atty. Norman Hodges of Silver City will get Payne's place on the Grant-Luna-Hidalgo district bench.

He has the backing of John Bingham of Silver City, Sen. Clint Anderson's colleague, and seven of ten Grant county lawyers. Others in consideration are former DA Tommy Foy of Silver City and former State Rep. Ray Hughes of Deming.

ISIDRO ROMERO HELPING PANCHO

Banishment of Pancho Padilla, the retail liquor dealer president, from the legislature halls has shifted much of his work to Rep. Isidro Romero of Pastura in Guadalupe county, an executive committeeman of Padilla's association.

Padilla, a resident of Albuquerque, is originally from Guadalupe, presently holds a liquor license in Santa Rosa, and was a Guadalupe state representative 1941-42.

PAYROLLERS ADMITT WITHOUT A PATRON

The 1962 defeat of Corporation Commissioner Block and last week's death of Commissioner Ingram Pickett has left about fifty of the seventy employees of the commission floundering without a patron.

Most all of the commission work force were employed and protected by Block and Pickett. Only a handful were brought in by Commissioner G. Y. Falls who was appointed to the commission in 1959 and Morgan hasn't been in long enough to get his people established on the payroll.

SPANISH-AMERICAN URGED FOR PLACE

There has been strong urging on Governor Campbell to pick a Spanish-American for the Pickett place and as this was written there were no less than thirty prospects from that group.

Joe Campos, successful Santa Rosa business man who had regional backing for the state highway commission has friends plugging him for the place; Emilio Naranjo, Demo chairman of Rio Arriba, has offered to resign as sheriff if he can have the place; Filo Sedillo, Demo chairman of Valencia, has been suggested; Ruben Miera, ports of entry director and Demo chairman of Sandoval, has strong support; State Insurance Superintendent Ralph Apodaca of Dona Ana, was the No. 1 prospect for the job at the first of the week; a lot of people, including some Spanish-American leaders, would like to see former Gov. John Miles in the place.

STATE SCHOOL BOARD IN DANGEROUS SPOT

The drive that is progressing through the legislature to repeal the elective state board of education is going forward on two main points:

—The board's recent effort to consolidate 23 little state schools with bigger ones.

—The 1961 effort by members Gilie Lopez of the San Miguel-Mora-Guadalupe district and Tito Martinez of the Taos-Colfax-Union district to divide the department of education jobs among the board members on a patronage basis.

BIG REPUBLICANS SQUEEZING SKEEN

State Sen. Joe Skeen of Lincoln who has the unpleasant responsibility of Republican state chairman is the squeeze in rivalry developing between top figures in the party.

It involves the Tom Bolack people, who think the chairman is keeping them out of their rightful place; the Dr. Jack Redman people who are complaining of the same thing.

Skeen is commonly accused of serving the interest of Sen. Ed Mechem and his friend Robert O. Anderson of Roswell at the expense of others in the party.

Anderson, who has more oil wells than Bolack, has mounted to prominent consideration for the party nomination for governor next year, a place that Bolack held all by himself until he went tiger hunting in India a couple of months ago.

IMPORTANT SENATOR HAVING DIFFICULTY

Sen. Jim Patton of Las Cruces, is having a mighty rough time to be such an important legislator as he is—chairman of the legislative interim finance committee.

The legislature turned down his pet measure for a 15 per cent tax on cigars and has rejected an important measure he offered for cutting off the state auditor's control over who makes public audits.

CONGRATULATIONS IN ORDER — it's customary to kiss the ladies after making a presentation such as Bernie Laabs did on behalf of the Quarterback Club, however, Coach Laabs settled for a handshake and congratulations to Veda Lou Colwell, physical education instructor, for the work she has done in teaching athletics. Veda Lou received a jacket (she's wearing it) for her fine work. Left to right in the background are Georgia Harkey, Pat Voss and Welcorm Armstrong, members of the Quarterback Club assisting in the presentation. (News Photo)

REPORT FROM SENATOR JOE SKEEN

Interim committees labeled waste

In my opinion, one of the biggest wastes of state money is that spent on interim committees of the Legislature. These committees are set up every session to study specific problems of state government. The state spends around $200,000 to maintain these study groups between sessions. This covers staff salary, Legislator's travel and per diem, and committee expense.

The ultimate goal of these committees is to prepare needed legislation for each session's consideration. Generally speaking, the legislation that is presented is of little value and has small chance of being passed by either house, as experience has shown. The Legislature, in some cases, benefits from some excellent staff work that is more than useful and is well worth the state's money. However, in the long run, these interim Committee reports usually end up in the capitol basement or some storage room where their recommendations function as dust catchers.

Last week the bill to continue the Revenue Structure Subcommittee for another two years was presented to the Senate. Previously, this committee had a budget of $50,000 with the director receiving $25,000 per annum for his services. His contract expires after this current session. This committee had prepared many bills but before they reached the Legislature half of them were abandoned and the other half were emasculated beyond recognition. It is questionable that any of them will become law.

When the bill to extend this committee was on the Senate floor, an amendment was proposed limiting the amount paid to any one individual to $12,500 per year. There are numerous Ph.D.'s now employed in our universities in fields of taxation and public administration who work for this much and less. The floor amendment passed 14-12 but the bill and amendment were tabled and a ten minute recess called. During this recess three votes were changed and four absent senators were recalled to the chambers and the amendment was reconsidered. The amendment was killed 10-11, thereby allowing the director his $25,000 a year salary.

When the amendment was proposed there was some talk that it was politically inspired but when we examine the fact that three senators had their convictions reversed after a ten minute deliberation (one of them being the Senator from Chavez County) we wonder who is playing politics.

Phone Bulletin

Senate is moving along rapidly acting on bills which are coming out of committee in fast order.

Sen. Greer's distribution formula of school funds passed 30-2 in the senate. The Governor is putting pressure on House members to kill the Greer plan in favor of Gott's plan which has the backing of Charley Spain, $25,000-a-year superintendent of Albuquerque schools and the state board of education. Bernard Laabs and Glenn Ellison, Lincoln County school men, were in Santa Fe this week and reported to Skeen they were impressed with Greer's presentation in the House last (Tuesday) night. The formula allows for growth of schools and will not need changing every two years. The plan can be adjusted without changing the entire act.

Sen. Black of Los Alamos revision of the personnel act had Skeen's backing, over the plan offered by the revenue study committee, which is impractical, requires too much money for administration. New Mexico is not ready for it yet.

The governor will present his message today, expected to ask for tripling income tax, stair-step things up. The legislature is still opposed to income tax, all the way down the line. Considerable opposition has developed to combining institution boards, such as combining Fort Stanton with the board of the mental hospital in Las Vegas.

PRISONERS ARE RETURNED TO ATTEND TRIAL BY JURY

"Around town"

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Dodo and boys were called away Wednesday afternoon to attend the funeral of Mrs. Dodo's father, Mr. Noble Gore in Oklahoma. Mr. Gore died very suddenly of a heart attack. They returned Sunday night bringing with them her mother and two brothers, James and Douglas. The Gores plan on staying for a week.

Mr. Bruce Phillips and wife Ernestine, daughter Selma, and son Gordon are newcomers to Carrizozo having moved here only recently from T. or C. Mr. Phillips is employed by the Arrow Gas Company and he and his family live at the Lava Vista Courts.

Mrs. Ray Warner has received word that her nephew, George Pablo of Dallas, Texas was killed in a tragic accident Friday morning. He was 26 years old. Mr. Pablo is survived by his wife and four children.

Bulletin From Bill Shreengost

As reported by Rep. W. G. Shreengost, his Bill No. 371 relating to natural gas, has passed committee and House with no opposition. The Bill is permissive legislation which will permit municipalities such as Capitan, Ruidoso, Carrizozo to join forces to bring natural gas into their communities. This is an addition to an old law pertaining to water.

There was a close vote on a Joint Memorial No. 18 this morning which allows for absentee property owners to vote on issues concerning money. For instance, an absentee property owner in Carrizozo could vote on a school bond or paving issue. Shreengost opposed the Memorial, it passed on a close vote.

The House listened to Sen. Greer last night discuss his formula for distribution of school funds. He emphasized that his proposal gave particular emphasis to small schools in our state. The Bill is in the education committee. Among other things Greer was very receptive to any ideas small schools may have to propose.

One school problem is junior high setups. In the larger towns the junior highs are weighted the same as high schools. There are junior high schools in Lincoln County, but they are not weighted the same. Shreengost thinks the Greer plan is well based, and backed by a tremendous amount of study and research.

A one-car accident occurred February 15, at 4:00 p.m., 17 miles north of Carrizozo on highway 54.

Lincoln County in Bygone Years

10 YEARS AGO

The police radio station, which was formerly situated in the fire department quarters, is being moved this week to the Sheriff's office.

Army second lieutenant Glenn A. Snow, of Carrizozo has been assigned to Battery C 440th Armored Field Artillery Batt'n. He is a company officer in charge of the training of basic trainees in the 7th Armored Division unit. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Snow of Carrizozo.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gallacher and family and Margo Duncan saw the Sonja Henle ice show in Albuquerque last week.

They reported it was a colorful and highly entertaining show.

30 YEARS AGO

The junior music club met at the home of Mrs. Kelly Saturday, at 2:00 p.m. The meeting was called to order by the president, after the reading of the minutes we had the roll call; each member responded by asking the meaning of some musical term. The meeting was turned over to the program leader, Those taking part in the program were: Evelyn Claunch, Margaret Shafer, Zane Harkey, Pinkie Ruth Sidner, Lealey Cooper, Helen Mae Young, Inez Ward and Wilma Snow.

Refreshments were served. We had a nice rain and snow last week, which brightened the smile on all our faces.

Wanted to trade cow for bulky plow. Lonnie Ray.

Scientists have figured out a substitute for milk and butter, but the shrewdest wizards of the laboratory have not yet discovered a substitute for cream.

50 YEARS AGO

Carrizozo has been awarded the county seat by the Supreme Court of the United States. The action took place Monday.

Carrizozo should - and no doubt will enjoy a steady growth from this date.

A new Barber shop just opened on Main street near the railroad crossing. First class work guaranteed. Next to Headlight Saloon.

We understand the extra $1000 from the Forest Service is to be spent on the Capitan-White Oaks road. Guess there is little question as to the need.

Achievement tests in Zozo schools

The Carrizozo teachers are following a series of lectures on achievement testing, intelligence testing and guidance. This program is being sponsored by the State Department of Education and has been coming over station KNME-TV, Channel 5, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of last week and will also be on the air on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of this week from 4:30 to 5:15 p.m. The faculty is divided into 6 committee groups and will give special reports on their particular topic on the afternoon of February 12.

Since February is considered the most patriotic month of the school year, the Student Council is sponsoring a special patriotic assembly which will be given February 12 from 12:45 to 1:30, with the remainder of the day being a holiday for the students, while teachers meet and discuss the testing and guidance program which will have been previously presented on Channel 5.

In behalf of the Board of Education, I would like to take this opportunity to extend to the citizens of this community a special invitation to attend the patriotic assembly and also the discussion on testing and guidance if you are interested. We are well pleased with the reception we have been able to receive over Channel 5, thus far, and the manner in which the topics have been handled. Teaching by TV is a great move forward in the State's Educational program. I think it is marvelous that most of the teachers in the state of New Mexico can be reached by the educational channel.

The school has purchased TV set under Public law no. 864. This unit will be set up in the auditorium and used at various times for group class instruction when the administration and the teachers feel that it is advantageous for the TV program to be presented to our local students.

Natural resources speakers listed

ALBUQUERQUE — Senator Clinton P. Anderson, one of the nation's foremost authorities on natural resources development, particularly in areas of land and water conservation and utilization, will be one of the speakers at the Farm Bureau natural resources conference here February 14-15.

Senator Anderson, former Secretary of Agriculture and in past years a ranking member of the Senate Agricultural Committee, has been intimately associated with resource development and conservation work both in New Mexico and the nation for many years. He has been a strong advocate of the preservation of wilderness areas and was largely responsible for experimental work now under way in the conversion of saline and brackish water to a potable level. One such pilot conversation plant is being readied in Roswell.

Gov. Jack M. Campbell

ALBUQUERQUE — Governor Jack M. Campbell will talk on "Developing Our State's Resources" at the Farm Bureau-sponsored natural resources conference opening here Thursday.

Campbell, who took the governor's chair this year after eight years in the House of Representatives, including one term as Speaker, emphasized the need for long range economic development. Improvement of economic conditions in North central New Mexico where depression has been chronic and more effective utilization and development of the state's natural recreational resources during his 1962 campaign. Since taking office, he has announced plans to reorganize the State Park Commission into a Parks and Recreation Commission with the power to issue revenue bonds for development purposes.

In the Half Blood Ewe - Howard Shanks placed first and Linda Harrington second. In the Fine Wool Ram - Wayne & Lois Dunlap placed sixth.

Money was one of the major problems of the New Mexico Woolgrowers. Besides money needed for the Screwworm Program, they needed money to pay dues to the National Association, money for predatory animal control and for sheep inspection.

The control of predatory animals was still a big problem. The group recognized the need to get more public understanding of this problem.

On the bright note over 200,000 lb of wool has already been contracted on a strong market. James Goodrum of Roswell Wool and Mohair, said that many of the reputation clips have already been contracted.

"HIGHWAY HYPNOSIS" IS A KILLER
"Highway hypnosis" can be a deadly killer. Watch out for it when you're speeding along the highway. Expressway travel is swift, comfortable, and undered. But it becomes monotonous and produces a false sense of security. It can relax you too much and lull you into a state of dulled reflexes.

Here are proved ways to break the spell and stay alert: At the first sign of blurred vision or heavy eyelids, stop your car and rest. You've just been introduced to highway hypnosis.

Change your speed and body position. Sight objects frequently. Make a habit of looking near, far, and both sides. Don't focus sharply on any object unless necessary. Move head and eyes constantly.

Stop at regular intervals whether you are tired or not. Take time to refresh yourself by getting out of the car.

Instead of eating a big meal just before or during a long trip, stop often and eat small amounts.

Try not to drive long distances at night—the danger of hypnosis is greater. Start a trip well rested. Fatigue deteriorates your entire driving ability. Wear loose fitting clothes and keep fresh air circulating in the car. Play the radio, but avoid dreamy music and change stations often. Sing along or whistle along. Try to avoid sun glare, a major factor in eye-strain, which in turn causes fatigue.

The New Mexico wool industry faces a bright future in spite of competition from synthetics, according to J. R. Stauder, sheep specialist with the Extension Service, N. M. S. U.

"West Texas and New Mexico sheepmen operating under fence are in an enviable position," Stauder told the State's wool growers at their annual convention. "The local situation is very encouraging this year. Prices are good. Wool stocks on hand are at a low level. There is a definite trend toward rising prices during the coming season."

He pointed out that scientists have been unable to produce a synthetic having the distinctive characteristics of wool fiber, and declared that "there will always be a significant demand for wool."

The wool growers re-elected all their present officers and added one new one—Dave McGee of Roswell—who will serve on the New Mexico Sheep Producers Council. Present directors will also continue in their posts.

Charles D. Fuller of Picacho and Roswell is president of the group. Vice-presidents are Jack Huling of Albuquerque, Al Pena of Grants, and Robert Fred Corn, Roswell.

Highlights of the annual University Wool School were discussions and demonstrations conducted by professors P. E. Neale, Earl Ray and Dr. William D. McFadden, all of the Agricultural Experiment Station staff. Prof. Neale called for a new system of grading lamb carcasses for actual quality rather than for fatness. Dr. McFadden explained the latest scientific methods for wool sampling and grading now in use at the University. The U. S. Department of Agriculture recently approved a proposal that these methods be used throughout the nation to supplement the visual grading system now practiced by buyers.

Resolutions adopted at the final session of the convention called for more effective predator control, an increase in industry contributions to Sheep Sanitary Board in support of its successful fight against sheep scabies, tariff system of micron grading for wool, and continuation of the present uniform method of assessing grazing fees on public lands.

Michele Mitchell, Albuquerque, a freshman at the U. of N. M., was chosen Miss Wool of New Mexico at the convention banquet February 11. The willowy, auburn-haired beauty will represent the state in the national Miss Wool contest at San Angelo, Texas, March 31-April

6. Miss Mitchell, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Mitchell of Albuquerque. Her first alternate is Judy McAllister of Lordsburg, a sophomore at E. N. M. U. Second alternate is Cynthia Carnes, Albuquerque, a senior at the U. of N. M.

Wonderland of Winter Sports

Photographed by Harvey Caplin • Text by George Fitzpatrick

In the snow country of the Old World, skiing — so they say — is as old as the hills.

But it took a depression and a World War to boost skiing from hill-side fun to a major sport and a multi-million dollar industry in New Mexico.

Back in the 30's, a fox farm operator and a few of his friends axed out a trail near Las Vegas and enjoyed week-end skiing on the snowy slope. In Santa Fe, the Rotary Club sponsored a snow survey in an effort to establish skiing as a tourist attraction. The University of New Mexico and Albuquerque High School took up skiing as a physical education course in the Sandia Mountains near the city.

Today there are eight winter sports areas that attract skiers by the thousands. Ski schools and snack bars do a thriving business. Ski trails, chair lifts, poma lifts, and the latest — a gondola lift — represent millions in investment. Such summer vacation resort towns as Taos, Red River, Ruidoso and Santa Fe have become winter resorts also — thanks to skiing.

Once, only ranchers and farmers scanned the skies, anxiously hoping for snow for needed moisture and the spring run-off. Today, the ski operators have joined them — just as anxious for the white powder that keeps the trails smooth and the cash registers ringing.

The slopes of Kennecott's Santa Rita Mine represent economic benefits from another great resource in New Mexico. Copper produced from the mine's low grade ore means payrolls, tax payments and supply purchases that add to New Mexico's prosperity.

In observance of New Mexico's Golden Anniversary of Statehood Chino has asked George Fitzpatrick, editor of New Mexico Magazine, and Harvey Caplin, an outstanding photographer of the New Mexico scene, to collaborate in a series of advertisements highlighting the qualities which have made New Mexico.

Bare-backed referees get good wetting after preliminary game

Gerald Allen and Merle Heldt, both of Omaha, refereed a preliminary basketball game Saturday night, February 2, at Ralston, Nebraska.

"We had to stay in the shower to keep warm," reported Mr. Allen. They weren't missed because other referees were officiating at the varsity game.

Methodist Church Sunday morning. This Santa Fe church was celebrating its 113th anniversary and had prepared a fine program.

no charge, using equipment furnished by Rio Grande Estates. The Yucca Flats estates in Zozo will furnish the club should one want to start such a program.

This week's mail has brought two requests about "Old Mac" who lives up "Give a dam canyon," not far from Capitan. We've been up that dam canyon and about ruined a set of tires, disposition, and the only saving grace was conversation with "Old Mac" who is an interesting character.

The will of the wealthy, eccentric man was being read and the relatives all listened expectantly. Finally, the lawyer said: "And to my nephew, Charlie Jones, whom I promised to remember - Hi, there, Charlie!"

About Streets

This driver has experienced four flat tires in the last 60 days, two of the tires ruined beyond repair, rattles are developing in a last year's model which doesn't help its trade-in value.

Tom Mann, Roswell engineer, gets around the country and in a recent conversation told about paving in Tatum, a town that is no more on the upgrade than Carrizozo - except that they did pave their streets, the payments are being met in good shape, and Tom said that the paving brought on a remarkable cleanup in Tatum.

Carrizozo has one other built-in problem resulting from its beautiful location right up next to a set of mountains - that of drainage. The runoff and remaining puddles make street maintenance doubly expensive to the point that washed out streets are the rule instead of the exception.

The News invites your comment about Carrizozo streets!

Fight For Survival

Abraham Lincoln said, "The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but can not do, at all, or can not so well do, for themselves - in their separate and individual capacities. In all that the people can individually do as well for themselves, government ought not to interfere."

Keeping faith with Lincoln's words means a running battle and the engagement being fought out in Santa Fe at this time can well mean a loss to the separate communities of New Mexico.

This immediate battle is over the apportionment of school money - shall it be based on a plan that favors the large school (Gott plan), politically a feasible move because of large number of votes involved, or on size apportionment based on the size of the individual schools (Greer plan) which favors the small schools in some measure.

The most recent fracas had to do with centralization of school administration. In Lincoln County this would have meant one superintendent for Corona, Capitan, and Carrizozo, and one superintendent for Ruidoso and Hondo. Such a move would have meant a saving - but, whose money is involved? School tax money from these five school districts, of course. Who should say whether or not Capitan, Carrizozo, Hondo, Ruidoso, and Corona schools will have their own superintendent - according to Lincoln the people in these communities should have the say.

From the governor on down through the state department of education . . . the small schools have their opposition lined up. What can they do to get a fair share of school tax money, enough to hire the best teachers available.

The best that school patrons, in the small school areas, can do is to make their desires known, to the governor, legislators, and the state board of education - and they'd better line up for battle with some ammunition in reserve because the same battle will be fought over again at the next session of the legislature.

NO AID, EH?

A news reporter said last night that the United Nations is going ahead with plans to give agricultural aid to Cuba in spite of the strong protest, made by the United States, "But," said a U. S. representative in the U. N., "the United States is not going to help. They won't get a dollar from the U. S.," he emphasized.

But we say the good U. S. man in the U. N. overlooked the fact that it is the dollars from the United States that is keeping the United Nations going.

TALK ABOUT GOVERNMENT WASTE

"I'm flabbergasted! According to a press release, you want to give Croswell a new postoffice. Croswell was listed as one of the six cities being considered for new, Government-constructed, taxpayer-financed post offices. And not just 'a' post office, but one costing $177,000.

"My first reaction to the news was one of helpless frustration. Here we are, a nation suffering from acute financial anemia, and our elected 'doctors' in Washington are preparing for another blood-letting. "But then a ray of hope. Perhaps you simply didn't have all the facts when you selected Croswell for this unexpected gift.

"Our post office is 12 years old, the newest building on the main street. It was built by the city in 1931 at a cost of $27,000. It is now and for the foreseeable future will continue to be of more than adequate size.

"The Post Office Department rents this building for $175 a month. It would cost more than that just for maintenance in the building you propose.

"Believe me, Senator, it's not that we wouldn't like a new $177,000 building in town. That would be by far the most expensive building in our business district. It's just that you keep remembering where that $177,000 comes from and we have a nagging feeling in the area of our billfold that the money will have to be replaced from the same source.

"So please, Senator, take us off your gift list. We couldn't afford the upkeep and besides, you might feel we should reciprocate."

In a postscript, Editor Black wonders whether the five other new, tax-financed post offices proposed by the Senator for his state are really needed. He lists them as: "Lake Linden, pop. 1,314, $174,000; Lawton, pop. 1,402, $173,000; Port Austin, pop. 706, $174,300; and Roscommon, pop. 657, $181,200."

Dear Paul: Please find enclosed $1.00 for which send me several copies of last week's news—forgot to get them before we left. Our friends might be interested to know we arrived in Hereford about 6:45. The van came in Friday.

Saturday morning and Mrs. Ball has really been busy unpacking and getting this big house looking like a home. I'm already very home sick and really hated to leave Carrizozo and all you wonderful, wonderful people—but no "bridges were burned" and we'll be back often—and will look forward each week for your good paper. Sincerely Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ball

BY PATE

There's a first, every time. Couple of weeks back a former acquaintance stopped in to visit, a police chief at the time of this casual friendship. Just happened this friend had car trouble and was out of money so we went his check for $20.00. Now the problem is . . . how to make that rubber check stretch the distance. We've asked Glen's help but have a feeling it will take more stretch.

Trouble seems to come in bunches. We let a shaft on our Kelly B printing press get dry (real stupid), result is we are now putting in some gears borrowed off an old press at Las Cruces. Our press is the one that was wrecked when Paul Baker brought it in the shop, and later rebuilt by Payton and Baker. Except for the money, that hurts, we'll have it running again this weekend.

We're hoping that the third (and last) in the series was the flat tire a mile out of town on the way back from Santa Fe Sunday evening. May be we're in the market for a set and we're reading the ads.

Possibly that 3rd bad stroke of luck was a bet made with Eleanor. Going out to visit the A. J. Krehbiel family (lawyer with the revenue department) in Santa Fe we made a bet that A. J. would not have any bird feeders, basing this conclusion on his home place in Clayton where, to the best of our recollection there were no feeders. Krehbiel had two feeders, juncos, sparrows, Canyon Towhee, and at times other birds taking advantage of his hospitality.

On getting along with wives, we have special advice from Welcom Armstrong which we got first hand during a trip through Arkansas when an old native who had been married for more than a half-century said, "Keep 'em barefoot and keep 'em pregnant, that's my secret."

Then there was the newspaper report of a murder. "It says here that he was shot by his wife at very close range." "Then there must have been powder marks." "Yes, that's why she shot him."

Several nice features about a weekend spent in Santa Fe. Primary reason for the trip was a N. M. Press Association board of directors meeting Saturday morning. On a previous trip we had visited Claude's eating place, found Claude to be a comely, plump gal with a blond wig, and on this last trip we ate with Renee, another blond dressed in what could best be described as outlandish fashion. Strange to say, the food was real fine in both places.

The Corona school was closed February 11, because of the weather. The storm blew in on Sunday afternoon with more thunder and lightning than usual for this time of the year. Upon awakening Monday morning the community found the ground covered with a thick blanket of snow. The administration advised K. O. B. radio in Albuquerque of the fact that there would be no school and this station put the announcement over the air before the buses began their run. The bus drivers and pupils appreciated this for it prevented them from having to fight the bad roads in vain.
