Number of traffic citations given is low compared to increased traffic

Sgt. Bill Kruse, of N. M. State Police talked to the Carrizozo Rotary club last Thursday and had several interesting statistics about increase of travel through the southwest, particularly down US54.

The average number of vehicles passing through Carrizozo each day is something like 728. A total of 783 citations were given last year in this area which is less than 1/2 of one percent in comparison to the number of vehicles.

The 783 citations represent violations of all kinds. First in order of traffic violation frequency is speeding, followed by illegal passing, careless driving, reckless driving, no driver license, DWI, brake and light sticker, SCC-truck law violation.

That traffic down US54 and across Highway 380 is increasing is proved in several ways. City Clerk Edward Penfield says that city gas tax collection has steadily increased the last four years. The increase amounts to 50,000 gallons of gas sold each year. Trucks are not counted in this increase.

The basic objectives of N. M. State Police in traffic accident prevention are: 1) Helping decrease traffic accident frequency through general traffic control. 2) Helping decrease traffic accident severity through speed control. 3) By promoting, thru enforcement and education, voluntary compliance with our traffic rules and regulations. 4) By utilizing traffic accident analysis in the selective enforcement program.

The reason for issuing citations, said Sgt. Kruse, is not to punish a motorist, but to try to get them to stay within legal law and to protect them and other people. The State Police have figures to prove that "when citations go down, accidents go up". Lincoln County was one of 20 counties that had an increase of 112 fatalities in 1962, six in the county.

According to Sgt. Kruse the highway north of town is hazardous, and the 65 MPH limit is plenty fast. The road is not straight, is mostly hills. This speed limit was set up by highway engineers who deem 65 MPH the safe limit for this stretch of road.

An average of 10 percent of all vehicles cause moving hazardous violations, this figure from the National Safety Council. The State Police patrolled 1,800, 000 miles in 1950, in 1962 they patrolled 6,160,773 miles. All other patrol items, such as assist to motorist, traffic checked, stolen cars recovered, have increased in the same proportion the last ten years.

Lincoln County not eligible for accelerated public works program

National 4-H week observed

University Park, N. M.—More than 8,000 New Mexico boys and girls will observe National 4-H Club Week, March 2-9, Dorman Brookley, state 4-H club leader for boys with the N. M. S. U. Extension Service, said here today.

There are now 2,285,000 youths working in the organization throughout the nation, and the movement has spread into 70 foreign countries, he said.

"Widespread changes in agricultural technology in recent years are being faced squarely in 4-H," Brookley added. "Leaders realize it is neither possible nor desirable for all farm youth to stay on farms. So rural members and others receive help in becoming well-rounded individuals who can earn and serve in many fields."

"Popular 4-H projects now include career exploration, automotive care, electrification, health and nutrition, personality development, entomology, money management, leadership and citizenship development."

Miss Tiny Faye Jones, state 4-H club leader for girls, NMSU, said that aim of the week are to: Focus on this year's citizenship-in-action goals for club members, emphasize career exploration and wise vocational choices, influence more young people to join or form 4-H clubs, acquaint more parents with 4-H, encourage capable men and women to become volunteer leaders, increase public understanding of 4-H goals, and honor 4-H friends locally and nationally.

As part of the observance, a small group of representative club members will spend part of the week in Washington, D. C., giving the annual 4-H "Report to the Nation." They will visit the White House and meet members of Congress and other top leaders in government, business, industry and education.

The club program is a part of the national educational system of cooperative extension work in which the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the State Land-grant colleges, and the counties share.

The non-government organizations helping to further 4-H are the National 4-H Club Foundation, Washington, D. C., and the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago.

A letter addressed to Mr Edward Penfield, clerk, Town of Carrizozo, from the House and Home Finance Agency, Fort Worth, Texas, was read at the Carrizozo council meeting Tuesday night. The letter reads, in part: Under the heading, Where most projects be located you will find the reason Lincoln County is not an eligible area, under the Accelerated Public Works Program, at this time.

The program fact sheet paragraph 2, Where most projects be located?, reads: (1) In an area which the Secretary of Labor has designated as an area of substantial unemployment for at least nine of the preceding 12 months or (2) In an area designated by the Secretary of Commerce under sections of the Area Redevelopment Act as a "redevelopment area."

Redevelopment areas in New Mexico include Catron, Colfax, Guadalupe, McKinley, Mora, Rio Arriba, Sandoval, San Juan, San Miguel, Santa Fe, Socorro, Taos, Torrance, and Valencia counties, with grants up to 75%.

The Town needs a radio for its new police car and will seek some help from the county in purchase of this item, in view of the fact that the Town Marshal is on duty during hours when the sheriff's office is closed and as a consequence close cooperation between these two law enforcement agencies is necessary.

A new law puts the old radio out of use because it can't be narrow-banded.

Occupation licenses read and all but two approved. A transfer of license for EZ Wash from Raymond Walker to Jack and Lucille King was approved.

Carrizozo property assessments have gone up. From $567, 000.00 in 1960 to $225,000.00 in 1962 and a like increase expected for 1963. The Council agreed there was a minimum of unemployment in this area, one of the reasons, together with the growth in Ruidoso, why Lincoln County is not eligible for public works aid.

Letter from Ora Moore was read.

Cost of fertilizing town parks discussed. Flinn Nursery at Alamogordo quoted price of $155.23 for fertilization, plus $18 for moving three trees. Cost of putting down fertilizer $60. The Town will check local costs of fertilization and probably do the application itself.

The suggestion was made that improvements be made on the triangle park, across from hospital, the downtown park, and a new park added across the tracks. Loan money, on long-term basis, is available for such purposes as the decision was to find out more about such financing.

Carrizozo schools want to use Town water. They have been using their own wells. The school wants the lowest possible price. The Council agreed to find out how much water is costing laid down in Carrizozo, then work out a price for the school, and possibly other large water users in town.

Present water rates are: $2.50 for first 3M gallons, $2.95 for 4M, $3.40 for 5M, and 40 c per thousand from 5M up. Summer rates: $2.50 for 3M gallons, 30c per thousand from 3M up. Town water use averages 3,047,000 gallons a month, which does not include swimming pool, parks, or line loss.

An engineering survey is being made to run natural gas lines to Capitan, Ruidoso, and Ruidoso Downs. Carrizozo will ask to be included in this survey. Mayor Jete Voss will set up a meeting of the towns involved to work out preliminary plans.

Complaint received about hot rodding at noon hour. A halter will be put on this activity. Dog complaints received about normal, which is bad.

Utility Manager Wayne Withers said the Town would start pumping Bonito water today. The Council went to Alamogordo Wednesday night (March 6) to confer with that city council about a lower freight rate for bringing Bonito water into Carrizozo, now 20c per thousand gallons.

Attending the meeting were Mayor Jete Voss, Councilmen Arroll Posey, Fred English and Leandro Vega. Officials Elfred Jones, Wayne Withers, Edward Penfield, and Choncho Morales.

Zozo students aim at 45 mile walk

Ward Hit A Cow
Leonard Ward and Manuel Belaquez, both of El Paso, received injuries when the 1961 diesel truck Ward was driving hit a cow belonging to Joe West. The accident happened three miles south of Carrizozo Monday night.

Carrizozo's high school students have joined the latest craze. On Saturday, March 9, approximately 20 students from Mr. Brazil's world history and Spanish classes will begin walking from Tularosa toward Carrizozo. The 45 miles they expect to walk is 5 miles short of President Kennedy's 50 mile hike but if the students complete the 45 miles it ought to outdo the students from Capitan and other nearby communities who have merely walked 20 miles. So that a bit of spice might be added the Spanish students will compete against the World History students.

Students planning to make the hike are: Juanita Baca, Frank Hayes, Martha Luera, Mickey Meier, Mary Bello, Era Dell Hemphill, Wayne Dunlap, Helen Hill, Frank Hoff, Ralph Lopez, Joe Moore, Minotto Smoot, Stirling Spencer, Carol Ann Vigil, Gary Armstrong, Mike Baca, Meg French, Marcha French, Janet Greer, Peto Griffin, Carmen Pino, Johnny Roberts, Ermalinda Salcido, and Dusty Vozz as well as Mr. Brazil. Stops are planned at Oscura and Three Rivers for those who can't make the entire distance.

W. G. Bradley, Sheriff of Lincoln County, is serving as first vice president of the N. M. Sheriff and Police Association. As vice president he becomes chairman of the regional meeting which will be held in Las Cruces on March 12.

The meeting is held especially for officers in the counties of Lincoln, Otero, Socorro, Sierra, Dona Ana, Grant, Hidalgo and Luna. All N. M. peace officers are welcome.

Call to order is at 9:30 a.m. by Reyes U. Barea, Sheriff, Dona Ana County. Mayor Tommy Graham, Hon. George Zimmerman, Dan Sosa, Jesse Sosa, Edward A. Farris, and Capt. C. A. White will be featured speakers on the program.

A. P. Winton, Jr., is president of the association.

Demo sponsors off of tax bill

For the third time the so-called right-to-work law has been voted down in the House this session. It seemed for a time that the proponents of the bill had enough strength to bring it before the voters next general election. However, the union influence was too great to overcome. It is strange that those counties the act would have helped are the ones whose representatives voted against it.

J. B. McCoy (D-Bern.), a paid union organizer, led the fight against the bill on the House floor. Governor Campbell also threw his support in opposition to the bill thereby changing several Democrat votes.

Since my last column, most Democrat sponsors have withdrawn their names from Campbell's income tax bill. It is apparent at this time that it will never even be heard in committee this session. The increases in the sales tax have already been approved by the Senate and should have no trouble in the House. One thing should be mentioned concerning these increases. The Governor indicated a need for $23 million in new revenues. The sales tax produces this much in one year after a 50 percent increase. The Democrats insisted, however, that the increase take effect immediately instead of next fiscal year. This means that they will collect the increase in April, May, and June of this fiscal year. The yield for these three months amounts to $5.4 million which is over and above what they estimate will be required for next fiscal year. This could give the administration a sizable surplus in 1964 with which to hand out small temporary tax decreases just before election time. And all of this in the face of a campaign promise that no new taxes would be needed this year!

If the sales tax increase does not pass the House by a 2/3rd majority then, of course, the increase will not start until July 1. This seems unlikely at this writing due to the overwhelming support of the sales tax in that body since Campbell's proposal was revealed.

Something for Lincoln County motorists and tourists to watch are boulders in the road. Lewis Wilke of Carrizozo was driving along south of Nogal when he came on two boulders in the road and nothing to do but swerve trying to avoid them. Wilke did get his '57 Ford swerved down a canyon and was very lucky it didn't roll and no damage to Wilke except that he lost his shoes in the accident.

He walked a mile bare-footed to the Dave Alexander place, and was taken to the Carrizozo hospital where it was determined he sustained no injuries.

Sheriff W. G. Bradley and Sgt. Bill Kruse investigated, gave no citation, removed the boulders. Sgt. Kruse says its a common occurrence in car accidents for the victims to come right out of their shoes.

The food was taken from the school cafeteria and the record players and microphone from the grade school.

Parsons resigns for private practice

Dick Parsons, assistant district attorney for Lincoln County, has tendered his resignation effective April 8, so that he may devote full time to the private practice of law.

Atty. Parsons has been an effective and popular attorney during the more than two years he served as assistant district attorney.

County JP fund in the red

Lincoln County commissioners budgeted $2,500 for Justice of Peace costs for the period July 1, 1962 - December 31, 1962. This fund was $123.00 in the red at the commissioner meeting March 4. The budget for the previous year was $3,000, but at the March 1962 meeting there was a balance of $1,643.40 which was plenty adequate.

Part of the trouble is in Sunday court. The several JPs of the county cannot accept fines on Sunday, in lieu of a fine they accept a bond, which goes to Santa Fe and no court costs are returned to the county.

Lincoln County Commissioners Charles A. Jones, Ramon Nunez, and Kenneth Nocker agreed to check this budget shortage up to the state, for the time being.

Pre-primary bill uncertain

(Wednesday report from Rep. W. G. Shreevogost)

Legislative action is fast and furious according to Lincoln Co. Rep. W. G. Shreevogost with only this week to go. Session expected to end late Saturday or Sunday.

Shreevogost opposed Senator Mead's pre-primary bill but, it passed the House by four votes last night, the House being in session from 7:00 to 10:30 p.m. There is considerable talk among Democrats against this bill and it may come back on the House floor for reconsideration.

The produce marketing act was signed by the governor last night. Anti-picketing during harvesting of perishable commodities bill was killed.

The Valley of Fire bill, introduced by Shreevogost, passed the House Monday without a dissenting vote. This bill includes $1,600 for purchase of land. Shreevogost said he had been assured by the acting director of the state park commission that we'll have a park.

The House is now in the middle of the revenue tax committee report on all tax bill. There will be a few tax increases, no income tax increase, and the 1 cent sales tax increase expected to produce most needed revenue.

School legislation is being considered. The proposal as set forth by the administration and Sen. Greer's bills had controls placed under the department of education, as the bills came out of education committee. The appropriation and finance committee (Shreevogost is member) made a change and put control back under the chief of finance and administration.

Shreevogost opposed the dog race bill, feeling would have adverse affect on Lincoln Co. It passed the House, is in Senate now.

Hondo school children, accompanied by Al Booksy, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Babers of San Patricio, visited in the House last Friday. Ex-senator Louise Coe of Glencoe spoke to the Senate last night.

Ft. Stanton research, as set forth by NMSU, House Bill 200 is a budget line item and does not look good at present.

Redistricting is a hot item. House Joint Resolution No. 2 is back out for reconsideration. This resolution has an amendment applying only to Bernalillo County. Would be good if the redistricting could be applied to represent the people of that county. A constitutional amendment will be necessary.

WILL HARRISON'S Inside the Capital

1963 LEGISLATURE
ERECTS MONUMENTS

SANTA FE — The 1963 legislature is closing with assurance of being remembered for its inability to do anything towards reforming the notorious New Mexico liquor code—

For coming close but failing on "right to work" legislation—

And for the Democratic governor's spectacular capitulation to his Republican opponent's program for a higher sales tax.

MORE CHIEFS

A marked characteristic of this year's meeting of the lawmakers was the almost complete lack of leadership.

The chamber leaders couldn't lead and even the governor demonstrated no influence. At one point he called in senate leaders to plug for his system of school money distribution and the senate a few minutes later voted 30 to 2 for the other system.

"Leadership" was a strong point in Jack Campbell's campaign for governor when he stressed the advantage of having a Demo governor working with a Demo legislature.

SEN. BUDDY WAMEL SHOWS INFLUENCE

Sen. Buddy Wamel of Hidalgo showed surprising strength in winning senate approval of a "right to work" amendment which would have made it illegal to require union membership as a condition of employment, but it went down in the house.

"Right to work" has been a contentious subject before New Mexico legislatures for 20 years with it getting through only in 1947.

That was when it was sponsored by Demo John Simms of Albuquerque and Republican Ed Mechem of Las Cruces, young freshmen in the house and both later to be governor.

The proposal for a constitutional change was later defeated in a popular election after Catholic Archbishop Edwin Byrne of Santa Fe turned against it.

GOVERNOR CORNERED ON THE SALES TAX

Gov. Jack Campbell is in a terrible predicament in accepting a 50 per cent increase of the sales tax after campaigning and winning election as an opponent of the levy.

His proposal of a $23 million income tax increase was hooted down before it even came to formal consideration and Campbell let it be known that he would eat sales tax crow if it came to his desk.

Santa Fe has been shaking with political reverberations ever since. Many are calling him a one-termer which isn't significant at this date a year-and-a-half in front of the next election.

The income tax proposal was so atrocious that there were momentary flares for impeachment of the governor in some communities and in Lea county automobiles appeared with bumper stickers proclaiming: "Don't Blame Me, I Voted for Mechem."

SMALLEY, HIEDEL
STARS OF SESSION

This year's meeting of the legislature developed some stars. There is wide admiration of Sen. Iko Smalley of Luna, an old timer who gains stature at each session. He seems to get more from the senate than any other.

In the house its Rep. Finis Hiedel of Lovington. He doesn't have much of an average for winning but has won wide public admiration. Both Hiedel and Smalley are conservative.

Rep. Raymond Davenport of Las Cruces who was listed last term as a lounge operator and this time as a "restaurantier" has become an effective leader of the non-conservative force in the house. He speaks well and gets along with the other members.

CHAVEZ, MAYFIELD ARE SESSION GOATS

Goats of the 1963 session: Rep. Bobby Mayfield who's Revenue Structure Study Subcommittee couldn't get a thing through the legislature and wound up in a grand climax with the governor's income tax measure, and all that after spending $90,000.

Sen. Majority Leader Fabian Chavez who chose to take all the glory for himself in fighting the liquor monopoly without assisting other legislators as co-leaders, and took a beating.

HARD DECISION ON PICKETT JOB

Governor Campbell has decided to wait until after the legislators go home to name a corporation commissioner for Seva-Foot Pickett's place.

He wants a Spanish-American, and one who would be an asset to the party in the 1964 run.

It's not easy at a salary of $10,000 with the appointee expected to run in the primary and general elections of 1964 and again in 1966 before getting on the usual six-year corporation commission term.

As usual, the legislature has been cold to the commission, turning down salary raises and other benefits sought by the commission.

About 200 men signed up for the R. F. C. emergency work. To date 148 men have been permitted to work. Although handicapped by the shortage of trucks, nearly all the principal streets have been graveled and a lot of necessary work accomplished which otherwise might have gone undone indefinitely. Mayor McQuillen and Mr. Sager have skillfully guided this work in a way to bring the most good.

With so-called Dollar Day cent-a-mile round trip fares scheduled over its lines in six western states from February 24-26, The Southern Pacific company is anticipating heavy excursion travel to and from the city, according to local officials of the railroad.

A return limit of March 7 has been authorized for the low-fare transportation to provide ample time for distant journeys, it was pointed out.

Wind, wind and then some more wind has been dealt out to us since the beginning of the new year. We have had the stormiest coldest winter on record and still it continues. There certainly will be nothing left in the way of wind and weather for the usual equinoctial storm.

One of the most attractive buildings along the line of the E. P. & S. W.—the Carrizozo club house—is nearing completion. Its solid concrete base, its superstructure, of bricks with a mission finish, its attractive approach and its artistically arranged interior not only give it beauty but reminds one of the civilization ante-dating the landing of the Pilgrims on Plymouth Rock.

Central American Expressway shortest

Modern civilization rides on rubber. Good paved roads with shortened routes are a "must" for the growth of States and internal expansion. There is a hidden price-tag, and a tax on every item in the cost of living by transportation costs. Cut mileage and you cut costs.

As Denver becomes more and more a seat for Government offices under atomic threat, and with Colorado Springs expanding as national Air Academy, the strategic importance of having a "straight line" shortcut from the huge installations of Fort Bliss at the border to link these cities and the line of Forts to Cheyenne, Wyo., and the Dakotas is a logistic importance. El Paso, aside from being a great military installation center, is the great distribution point for gulf and railroad networks to serve the states to the north even to the Canadian border.

By making New Mexico highway 3 into a U S paved highway from about Corona (US54) to a suitable junction with US 85, some 100 miles is cut off from the El Paso-Las Cruces, Socorro-Albuquerque route to Denver and Cheyene and Dakotas, and some 60 miles is cut off by this route over the US 54 to Pastura, then US 84 (a poor road) to Las Vegas and Colorado and northern net-works.

Not only is the long over-due & much needed shortcut important to effect great unifications between the several states, but is also provides for greater internal growth and shorter routes to cities inside the state of New Mexico where this improvement lies. This 85 mile stretch is in open country with the exception of about 7 miles near its junction with US 85 near Las Vegas.

This improvement could create a great central Pan American Expressway as a boon to everyone, military, business and tourists. Write your congressman and demand a priority for immediate action to get this much needed short cut to stimulate inter-state and internal growth with your state.

Let's Talk about Money

...it's a fascinating subject

Money is very beautiful stuff to look at... not so much, perhaps, because of its artistic design as because the sight of it reminds us of the many pleasing and necessary things it can do for us.

... Yet... if we're not careful about how we handle it, we may thoughtlessly cheat ourselves out of some of the finer things our money can bring us.

... Because only a part of each dollar we spend puts actual goods and services into our hands. Whether we like it or not... some of that dollar also goes toward the upbuilding and support of the community in which it is spent... to pay for the schools and churches, the roads and streets, the police and fire protection and other social facilities that make up modern living... and to make stronger that community's economy.

... If the area benefitting from our trade is that in which we live, then we get for ourselves all that our hard-earned money pays for... and often many times over... in better business, better jobs, better living among more good and useful neighbors.

cultural technology in recent years are being faced squarely in 4-H," Brooker added. "Leaders realize it is neither possible nor desirable for all farm youth to stay on farms. So rural members and others receive help in becoming well-rounded individuals who can earn and serve in many fields.

"Popular 4-H projects now include career exploration, automotive care, electrification, health, and nutrition, personality development, entomology, money management, leadership and citizenship development."

Miss Tiny Faye Jones, state 4-H club leader for girls, NMSU, said that aims of the week are to: Focus on this year's citizenship-in-action goals for club members, emphasize career exploration and wise vocational choices, influence more young people to join or form 4-H clubs, acquaint more parents with 4-H, encourage capable men and women to become volunteer leaders, increasing public understanding of 4-H goals, and honor 4-H friends locally and nationally.

As part of the observance, a small group of representative club members will spend part of the week in Washington, D. C., giving the annual 4-H "Report to the Nation." They will visit the White House and meet members of Congress and other top leaders in government, business, industry and education.

The club program is a part of the national educational system of cooperative extension work in which the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the State land-grant colleges, and the counties share.

The non-government organizations helping to further 4-H are the National 4-H Club Foundation, Washington, D. C., and the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago.

tually losing weight. Poor quality roughage requires some protein supplement, but more important would be the addition of 1/4 to 1/2 pounds of concentrates the last six weeks of pregnancy. A good concentrate such as corn will help to prevent ketosis.

RANCHERS MAY SOMEDAY CAPTURE WATER IN BAGS

New Mexico ranchers may someday capture and store runoff water in plastic bags, Prof. Eldon G. Hanson, head of the agricultural engineering department at NMSU, said. He declared that the water saved in this way could be of great economic value in semi-arid areas where a 9-inch average rainfall and yearly evaporation rates of 8 feet from stock ponds make wise use of range resources difficult.

Sid Goodlee, Capitan, said 21 percent of New Mexico's grazing land could be greatly improved by eradication of pinon and juniper brush and cactus. He reported that Lincoln County leads the state in control work, with more than 100,000 acres treated.

STAHMANN PROPOSES NEW TYPE PECAN ORCHARD

Deano F. Stahmann, Santo Tomas, N. M., world's largest pecan grower, told those attending the Pecan Workshop at NMSU, February 26, how to grow pecans if he were starting over again.

"If I were a young man, starting over again," Stahmann told the group of 100, "I would plant trees in rows 15 feet apart and eight and a half feet apart in the rows. I would prune them at 10 to 15 feet, with branches evenly spaced from the ground up. When the limbs were three years old, I would prune them off at the trunk."

Stahmann defended his theory on the basis that such a pruned tree would yield 10 pounds of nuts after five years' growth. At 605 trees an acre, this would mean 6050 pounds of pecans per acre, compared with his present average from old trees of 4100 pounds an acre. National average is only 1200 pounds an acre.

Besides, Stahmann said, the radically-pruned trees would produce a better quality nut, worth 15-17 cents more a pound and would be much easier to harvest by mechanical methods.

Stahmann is experimenting with 85 acres of such small trees and has found from past experience in thinning that production increases greatly when older trees are radically "dehorned."

Proper fertilizing of pecan orchards was stressed by Douglas Bryant, Extension Service horticulturist at NMSU. He recommended the application of 1-1 1/2 pounds of ammonium sulfate per inch of tree diameter annually in February or March. Phosphate should be applied every other year at the rate of 300-400 pounds an acre, or about 12 pounds per tree. Bryant told growers to apply fertilizers one half again as far as the shade spread of the tree. Zinc sulphate should be applied annually at the rate of one to five pounds per tree, according to size, with zinc chelate sprays being applied later in the season. The zinc chelate foliar spray is applied at the rate of two to four pounds of zinc chelate per 100 gallons of water.

NATIONAL 4-H WEEK TO BE OBSERVED MARCH 2-9
More than 8,000 New Mexico boys and girls will observe National 4-H Club Week, March 2-9. Dorman Brooker, state 4-H club leader for boys with the NMSU Extension Service, said here today.

There are now 2,285,000 youths working in the organization throughout the nation, and the movement has spread into 70 foreign countries.

CONDITION EWES FOR BETTER LAMBING
Ewes gaining weight going into lambing season will raise more lambs than ewes in poor condition. A good many lambs can be saved each year by a little extra feed prior to lambing time. Ewes that are strong and gaining in weight will drop vigorous lambs and furnish plenty of milk.
Flock owners doing supplemental feeding in late winter should pay particular attention to the condition of the ewes. Most ewes are carrying a heavy fleece of wool and may look to be in good condition, while ac-

I am certain I speak for the entire community when I say we extend our deepest sympathy and that our thoughts and prayers are with the Wieland family. A buffet lunch was served at the Club House for his family and many friends prior to the services which were held at the Presbyterian Church in Claunch at 2:00 p.m. Sunday.

Mr. James 'Jim' Collins, a former resident of Claunch passed away this week at his home in Lenora, Texas. The deceased was well known in the community and ran the bus route to Corona until his retirement. Visiting with Mr. and Mrs.

Jim Montgomery this week are Mrs. Ruby Horn and Mrs. Estelle Davis of Redwood City, California. They are niece and sister-in-law of the latter. Mr. and Mrs. Billy Montgomery and family of Albuquerque joined them for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hooker and children were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Friday evening.

Mr. Monty Bussey was in Albuquerque on business Wednesday, later visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bright. Mrs. Sammy Stoneman and daughter and Miss Monette Bussey spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Monty Bussey.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee were in Roswell and Albuquerque this week on business.

Several residents of the area including Rolla Hinckle, Roy Lee, Johnny Hooker and Charles Wilson are quite enthused over receiving their 2-way mobile radios. It's going to be real handy for us out here for we can talk to each other without going through home base which is Roswell although you must for long distance calls. The main topic so far has been the weather and we have really given it a fit.

The Ladies' Club met Friday the first at the Club House. Members present were: Mrs. Garvice Jobe, Ray Lovelace, Tee Hobbs, Everett Stamps and Joe Petross. After lunch was served a quilt was tacked for a family in Corona. The Club did real well on the "Pie Supper" and we thank everyone for the good turn out that we had.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Soffrells and children left Saturday morning for Littlefield, Texas. A family reunion was planned to help the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mariner celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary.

The Biggest Snakes

Tales abound in Lincoln Co., both the story type and those attached to slithering bodies. In fact some of the best tales and tall originating in the Land of Enchantment stem from the Mal Pals country and around the Capitan Mountains.

For a number of years Crock-et's pet snake, an 18-footer at the last count, was a famous character in these parts and with considerable renown over the nation. Fact is, these parts are well known for all kinds of characters.

It is with reluctance that Lincoln Co. admits that it has been outdone by a body of snakes, who rattle louder, slither swifter, bite deeper, and generally are a bigger detriment to New Mexico than any rattler found in Lincoln Co.

This body of snakes is housed at present in Santa Fe, place called the senate and the house. Pretty soon they will spread their poison out over the entire state.

These snakes are the kind that don't want to cut anything, like cost of state government, they just bite deeper. These snakes don't realize that a majority out in the boondocks have to eat, they are more concerned with the feeder who keeps them on a whiskey diet. Those reptile rattlers would rather be caged than to give New Mexico a chance to vote for freedom of work choice.

The vilest form of government is a dishonest government. Our present set of officials are as vile as any viper . . . they are being dishonest with the people they serve.

We'll take the Mal Pals snakes any day.

Prettiest Waitresses

The Parent Teacher Association in Carrizozo is a successful organization. They provide good food served by the prettiest set of waitresses one will see short of the bunnies in New York. They could double their take by adding the bunny drape which would certainly spice up the spaghetti and meatballs.

The Strings Attached

People are becoming better educated as time goes by . . . to look see who is holding the strings attached to loans, out-right gifts, and technical assistance offered by that well-known servant of people, our federal government. The learning is coming the hard way.

Some thickly populated states are just now waking up to the fact that highways are taking land that will be needed for living room in the not too distant future and other means of transportation had best be pushed.

In other areas flood control was and is a problem. The strings are attached to the best farm land in the country, which is flooded and out of use for this generation and the next.

A little security seemed like a good thing 10 and 20 years ago. The strings were attached to your paycheck and the deductions, with regular increases, were made from the time you went on social security. Secured hospitalization is just around the corner, attached to one of the strings dangling from the social security act.

When our wants become greater than our needs — there can be only one result — bankruptcy.

An article written by Eric McCrossen, editor of the Raton Daily Range, puts a new light on the highway bypass situation, at least for Raton. This town is in its second year of an Interstate highway bypass. In August 1960 the average daily traffic volume on Raton's main street was 8,658 vehicles per day, 2,000 of these classed as non-stop. In August 1962, average daily traffic volume on the same street was 9,554 vehicles per day, the bypass drew 1,420 per day.

It seems like a real good thing for Carrizozo to ask for one-way traffic through town following US54, using Central (present route of 54) and 12th Street for this purpose. Such is being installed at T or C now as the Interstate goes through that town.

The Irish are going to have it rough this St. Patrick's Day, March 17. Word from Eleanor, a second generation Irish lady of the O'Donnell clan, is that the shamrock crop in Ireland froze out. An annual air shipment of 2,000 pounds of shamrocks usually help the United States get by this festive occasion.

Things shouldn't be too bad in Lincoln County on St. Patrick's Day. There is a dance at the country club which will help one forget the shamrock shortage.

A recent booklet issued by the Press of the Territorial, about Billy the Kid, finds little favor with Philip Rasch, 1839 Chandelour Drive, San Pedro, California. Rasch says most all of the book is in error and incomplete. After reading the criticism by Rasch we're inclined to agree. Most Billy the Kid books are good reading, very few have much factual information.

We walked out of the shop last Thursday, right about 10:00 a.m., went home, changed clothes and headed to Santa Fe with Ray Wells, Ralph Dunlap, and Fred English. Every 30-40 miles something that we should have done came to mind. First was choir, should have called an assistant to take over. Then the dentist appointment, hope he kept busy during our time. Then the Rotary bulletin, it could have been well handled by J. Stearns.

Good trip, lots of conversation, only disappointing part was watching the House of Representatives in action. Lincoln County has a couple of good legislators, and there are other good ones, but the majority of the House members do not represent New Mexico, it seemed to this listener.

A young lawyer attended the funeral of a millionaire financier. A friend, who arrived at the funeral a little late, took a seat beside the lawyer, and whispered, "How far has the service gone?"
The lawyer nodded towards the clergyman in the pulpit and whispered back tersely, "Just opened for the defense."

By way of Jim Colegrove, editor of the Santa Fe New Mexican, to Wally Olds, editor of the Taos News, to the Lincoln County News — we have the first political cartoon this newspaper has printed in ages. You can see it from where you sit.

"Save your vision week" is March 3-9. Which means that one should not look at any eye-ball-popping females, should not play any peekunder (poker), should just look at the cartoons and not read the captions, get only the bare sports details from radio and don't read any newspapers. In other words, save your orbs as you can be buried with them.

We are especially fond of friends who send back cards from distant vacationlands, as Guadalajara, where Karl Guthmann is spending the winter. He should eat the postal.

After sitting in on a commissioner meeting Monday we came to the conclusion that Leroy McKnight has the most interesting job in the county. He gets to open up a new road every now and then under the most unusual circumstances.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find a postal note in the amount of $3.75 for another years subscription to the Lincoln Co. News. I have been a continuous reader of the News since 1935 and must say that I do enjoy reading the News very much, especially the 10 to 50 Years Ago column and the historical articles of the Lincoln Co. past.

I would like very much if you would print Old Mac's full name in one of the Old Mac from Give a Dam Canyon columns in the near future. I do like his letters but am not sure of whom Old Mac is.

I am acquainted with a few people from Lincoln Co. and must agree that the past History of Lincoln Co. from hearsay and from reading the Lincoln Co. News leaves a good impression and leaves one wondering of the colorful past of Lincoln Co. Thanking you I remain—

Sincerely Yours
Mrs. Hazel Thurman

Canadians offer to help Fast Draw

Quebec City, Canada
February 20, 1963
Sheriff W. G. Bradley
Lincoln County
New Mexico, U.S.A.
Dear Mr. Bradley:
Before I go on with this letter, I must excuse myself, and my English, the fact being that we over here, speak and write nothing but French.

The reason why I am writing you today is that I have been reading this book of the February issue on "GUNS" and was mostly interested on the subject of faster than Billy the Kid, which regards the sport of Fast Draw.

Being the fact that western hospitality was honor to you, and that you are the top man of law enforcement in your county, I thought that you would be the only person that would be able to give us the information that we want regarding Fast Draw.

We here in Quebec City have a club of Fast Draw formed over a year now. But we just don't have any competition — ?

Do you think that it would be possible for you to arrange or get in contact with the right people, so that it would be possible for us to enter in your next big contest of Fast Draw. We of Quebec Fast Draw Association would only be too glad to go to your State of New Mexico, and would be honored to assist and participate in your contest.

You see, Mr. Bradley, you are our only contact with the people who know something about Fast Draw, also if we did get in touch with the right party, we might be able to find out where and how to get ourselves one of these Fast Draw timers, like the one they had in their last contest, or similar to it.

If perhaps, you could show this letter to these following people, maybe it might help Mr. Paul Payton, Mr. Charles Jones, A. E. Hunt, Edward Penfield, or Gerald Dean.

Well, that about covers everything that we wish to say, and if we do get some result it will be our personal debt, to owe you our personal thanks.

Until we hear from you — or someone?

I remain
Yours truly

The dual system of nationally chartered and state chartered commercial banks has provided the credit necessary to keep the nation's economy vital, and has contributed greatly to the survival and strengthening of a competitive enterprise system, Campbell said.

tations, placing 18 normals and 2 whites, receiving 3rd place Breeders Award. Treme Chinchilla Ranch of Houston took 1st Breeders Award and Ground Chinchilla Ranch of Stillwater, Okla., took 2nd place Breeders Award. Mrs. Allen acted as one of the Show secretaries again this year and through her kindness this interesting account was given to me.

Mrs. Allen reports that the show was very educational. It is an opportunity to see the cream of the Chinchilla crop and to her the judges comments on each animal pointing out the strong and weak characteristics of each one. Only by this side by side comparison can the strong and weak points be discerned. The judges were: Stan Pangborn, Chinchilla Breeder and President of Farmers Chinchilla Cooperative of America, Inc., Washington, D. About Lucero's legend of lost gold

Along after the bloody Spanish-Indian Revolt of 1680, a certain Lucero came up from the State of Chihuahua, Mexico, and settled in the Gallinas River near Las Vegas, in a section of the country that was later crossed by the Santa Fe Trail. He had a son named Joe Lucero who was taken captive by the Indians during one of their raids in the territory. He was forced to remain in their circles for several years before he escaped.

Upon return to his people, he told a story of a fabulous gold mine located on the Cerro de Lauriana. The U. S. Geological Survey maps the site as Mesa Lauriana. In the early days the Spanish pioneers formed a settlement near the spot and named it San Augustin.

Years later, the old Spanish settlement was moved a few miles up stream on the Gallinas, to its present site. No obvious markings remain today of its first location. And about all the Spanish colonists left behind was a story of a buried treasure, with one man living today in Old Las Vegas holding a portion of an ancient map that might be the key to its hiding place. The Cerro de Lauriana is not far from San Augustin.

Joe told the Indian story of the gold mine, how they made annual trips to the cave for the precious yellow metal, and how he learned all about it while he was held captive—all except its location. He told the story to the people of the settlement and to his family. He had one son Ramon, who in later years searched relentlessly for the lost mine.

Now, Ramon, an agile, clear-minded, 62-year-old man who travels much and recites interesting folklore of New Mexico, tells of his search—how he worked for years with the Indians to gain the secret of the mysterious path leading to the cave; and how, at one time, he almost had the fabulous treasure within his grasp.

In his later years, after a great amount of inducement and feverish persuasive measure, one old tribesman agreed to direct Ramon to the hidden cave. In the village not too far distant from the peak, they made preparations for the trip and outfitted with all the things they might need. On the list was a blanket, a bright red one. It was to be used as a signal to direct Lucero and his companion to the cave's entrance.

According to the carefully made plans, the betraying Indian was to take his position upon a bluff, white by natural color, very distinctive, and an outstanding landmark on the Cerro de Lauriana. Lucero had formed partners with an aged Spaniard. He was not afraid of the Indians and believed in the legend of the cave-full of gold.

They were to make their way up the skirts of the peak. The Indian would perch himself high above them on the cliff to make signals with the red blanket to the eager men working below, guiding them to the mouth of the cave. Once they approached the objective, the Indian clared he would drop the blanket, as an indication that the cave was near, and the gold mine was immediately within. Thereafter the mine would be the sole responsibility of Lucero and his companion, and the Indian would have nothing more to do with it, as he feared the other tribesmen. As is commonly known, Indians will rarely ever disclose to white man the hiding place of gold or silver or any other valuable minerals, and believe that if they do ill omen will befall them.

According to the story, the cave's entrance is small, with no man-made markings anywhere about. It is believed that no white man has ever known of its location.

The day which had been set for the mine-hunting expedition arrived and the men made their way to the region of the peak, and commenced the eager search. The program went along fairly well for a time, and it seemed not much time would pass until the elated gold-seekers would have the long-sought, fabulously rich gold mine within their grasp—the cave where "gold hung from the ceiling in great chunks!"

But such was not the case. The Indian on the cliff directing with the colorful blanket the feverish gold-hunters below, disappeared — DISAPPEARED FOREVER! The flabbergasted men below the cliff stumbled about for a while, and gave up the search, wondering what had become of the old Indian.

Lucero's conquest for the gold came to a reluctant halt. He had no further directive, or source of knowledge from which to work. He could not locate the cave, even though he knew he must have been very close to it when the Indian disappeared. He sought out other members of the tribe and used knowledge passed to him by his father in an attempt to persuade other Indians to reveal the secret. But each one, upon approach, declared that he would not have anything to do with it, as he would surely meet with death if he betrayed the secret, and spoke with brevity, "I want to live; I do not want to die!"

At the age of 92, Ramon Lucero still swears by the legend of the Comanche Indians, the tale his father brought back with him from a period of captivity by the savages.

Rural Development by-laws adopted

The new by-laws adopted by the Rural Area Development Committee calls for a quorum of 15 members, there was exactly that number at the meeting in Capitan last Wednesday.

Much of the evening was spent discussing development of recreation areas, with and without federal funds which are available for such purposes. A rancher can borrow up to $60,000 for a 30-year period if he wants to get into the recreation business, however he must stay at home and tend to such business, one of the strings attached.

Ralph Dunlap reported that he would wait before starting a frost report. Ralph said he thought the peach crop at Nogal was not hurt yet. Down at Hondo there may be some frost damage to peaches.

Thomas Ryan, ranch owner near Three Rivers, is giving an acreage to the Forest Service. Lincoln County is expected to build three miles of road, Otero County will take care of the park upkeep. This project will be several months developing.

The need for a complete map showing all points of interest and recreation spots in the county was discussed. A list of such places will be made up through the Extension office.
