Lincoln Co. adds chapter to unusual history

A middle-aged Albuquerque woman and a youthful Spanish-American man are being held on $10,000 cash bonds in the aftermath of as bizarre an extortionrobbery as ever unraveled in the violence-scared annals of Lincoln county history.

The story of how the talkative, vehement woman in this case persuaded Lincoln County rancher H. O. Smith to write an authorization for $3,193.63 -which the woman claims she received-was revealed by Sheriff Glenn Bradley.

"I scared him," Sheriff Bradley said the woman, identified as Mrs. C. V. Bland, plias Vaughn Garwood, of Albuquerque, told him under questioning in the Otero county jail,

Mrs. Bland is lodged in the Alamogordo fail because the Lincoln county fail lacks facilities for female prisoners. She is charged with "robbery of a person while unarmed."

In jail at Carrizozo, under the same charge, is Willy Garcia, 23, of Encino, who gave a statement to officers detailing the bizarre trail of events which began Thursday afternoon and ended Saturday morning with his apprehension at a roadblock at Corona,

Story Checks

Garcia's story, which Sheriff Bradley says is borne out substantially by corroborating facts, relates that he was approached at an Encino servico station by Mrs. Bland on Thursday afternoon with the offer assisting her in come work until Friday noon, for which sho would pay him.

The pair drove in Mrs. Bland's car to Carrizozo, thence to Capitan, and then to the Smith ranch come 22 miles north of Capitan. En route. Garcia said Mrs. Eaird told him she had a claim against Smith for $200 farfeit money she had lost 21 years ago on a purchase of como calves from the rancher.

On arrival at the ranch, sho forced Smith to write an authorization for the savings and loan company at Roswell to pay her $3,103.63, which she claimed was due her as principal and interest on the old debt, At 2 a.m. Friday, she left the ranch, cautioning Garcia to keep the 70-year-old, clightly built Smith tied until she returned at noon that day from Roswell.

Did Untie Him

Garcia stayed with Smith the rest of the night and the following day, disobeying orders, however, by untying the rancher in the morning and evening so that he could attend to his stock and cook breakfast. By Friday evening, however, he decided to leave the ranch, and after asking for the loan of a horse. which Smith saddled, he then tied the rancher again and set off for a neighboring ranch.

Before leaving the limits of Smith's land, however, he was struck with the thought that he would be considered stealing the house if seen riding away from the ranch, so he returned to Smith's house. In the meantime, Smith had worked loose from his bonds and proceeded afoot to another neighbor's, covering the 10 miles acrosscountry in three hours.

After arrival at the neighbor's ranch, he called Sheriff Bradley, who proceeded to the scene and soon arrested Mrs. Bland, who was spending the night with another ranch family in the area on the pretext of a possible purchase of their ranch. Garcia proceeded on foot across country to Highway 54, where he caught a ride seeking-to return home, but was picked up at Corona.

Sheriff Bradley said Mrs. Bland told him this was her third attempt to collect the money she claimed Smith owed her through the years, and Smith told the sheriff it was the second attempt she had made.

Stories Differ

Smith told Bradley he had accepted the earnest money from Mrs. Bland, had rounded up the calves on the delivery date and had held them three days awaiting her arrival to take delivery before disposing of them to another buyer.

Sheriff Bradley said Mrs. Bland told him she obtained a check for the $3,193.63 in Roswell and had malled the check to herself at an address the declined to disclose. Both Garcia and Mrs. Bland an attractive woman apparently in the early fifties—were arraigned before Carrizozo Justice of the Peace R. L. Sherrill, who set the $10,000 cash bonds. Smith was described as none the werse for his ordeal.

LINCOLN COUNTY RODEO ASSN. TO HOLD METTING

There will be a business meeting at Carrizozo Country Club 7:30 p.m. Friday evening to discuss plans for a Junior Rodeo sanctions by N.J.R.A. R. C. Barham, Bob Curtis, Bill Stephenson and Johnson S. Steams met with Buster Prather in Alamogordo Tuesday night to find out about getting his stock for the coming show. All of these need to be worked out so be there if you can Also anyone who is interested in a Junior Rodeo Association Jobs for all-we need your help.

On February 3, R. J. "Jack" Carter whose residence is in El Paso, had Gene Little install two ready-mix loads of cement for base and steel posts for fencing along a small tringle of land owned by Carter near the Chaparral Motor Hotel in Ruidoso Downs.

Corter had recently sold a parcel of land to the race track. leaving him the small triangle with roads on three sides, two being used for access by some 14 families, and Red Massey's place of business,

The County of Lincoln has a 40-foot easement on the stretch of road where Carter placed his fence. The fence was located approximately 16 feet 10 inches in from one side of the road. and closed off approximately 17 feet I inch of the county road. Length of the fenced area was 224 feet.

County commissioners discussed this problem at their February meeting but no definite action taken at that time. At the March meeting the decision to act was taken and the district attorney was contacted. Att'y Dan Sosa said to remove the obstruction.

County road foreman Leroy McKnight was asked to get equipment on hand the morning of March 7 to take out the fence. The commissioners figured it was cheaper to employ local equipment than to bring in some of their own for a couple of hours work. A dozer was needed because of the large amount of concrete placed in the ground, holding the steel posts. Sections of concrete were five to six feet in length, two or three feet in depth and about that wide. The dozer had to dig them out.

Sheriff W. G. Bradley accompenied this task force, just so there would be no trouble, and stayed on the job satil the last shovel full of dirt was moved.

Trout Planting

The Department of Game and fish last week planted 10,768 rainbow trout that weighed 2,062 pounds. All were 714 to 814 inches in length.

They were released in Storrie and Nogal lakes; Sabinal, Corroles, Albuquerque-Riverside and Atrisco drains: Bear Canyon Recervoir: and Penasco, Tularosa and Ruidoso rivers.

"Today, the people need a change in entertainment," says C. A. Frank, business manager for the Zogi TV Revue staring Prince Zogi and featuring his

"Stars of Today". "Contemporary drama, the movies, and television are inclined to stick too closely to the dull round of everyday problems, the very ones we wish to forget while at the theatre". Frank says that the Zogi show has been programmed so the public, for an evening, is privileged to move into a world of enchantment where dull reality has no place. Music, comedy, novelty acts and illusions in a rousing, rapid moving sequence banish humdrum problems for the evening.

Officers check third grass fire

Sheriff Glenn Bradley said that the investigation of the man-caused fire northeast of Carrizozo was still in process today although he did have a of the year for Lincoln National Forest burned approximately 20 acres, according to Forest Service spokesmen, who said that about three of the 20 were on National Forest land.

A passing tourist reported the blaze in the grass-woodland area after spotting it from U.S. 54 en route to Carrizozo. He called from a service station telephone. Bradley said, and the sheriff's office relayed the message to State Police.

State Police officers Jim Clayton and Sgt. William J. Kruse

were dispatched along with Sheriff Bradley and said that hands of Truman Spencer, rancher on whose property the blaze started, had controlled prime subject. This third fire the flames shortly following the 2:55 p.m. report, Forest Service personnel then extinguished the blaze.

Forest Service spokesman Wayne Cook said that this was the third forest fire of the year for Lincoln National Forest and that all three were man-caused.

The burnt area, which Bradley described as a strip about three-quarters of a mile long and varying in width from less than one to about 500 feet, is located in Section 13 and 14. of Township 7 South, Rango 11

AROUND THE COUNTY

As I said before the primary

With the county assessor

in May last year—and still feel the same—there is nothing I'd rather do than serve the people of Lincoln Co—but to please all of you is enother question-can only try. Learning to assess property has so far been very interesting and educational—I dare say there are too many Lincoln Co. residents who should study their property more and know for sure what they own and teach their children.

Corona was the 1st place where I spent two days assessing taxes, Mayor Alex Jenkins was the first customer. Making me feel at home (the weather was a help too—like on the Bonito 6 degrees below 0 the second day.) All of Corona folks were patient and that I appreciated. Mrs. Dishman had Gertrude Allen and I for supper and was it a tasty treat! Over to Nogal for a day with neighbors was a fast day. Pearl Stearns said, "don't worry about your kinch-I always fix dinner for the assessor,"-It was a fine one. Tommy Zumwalt rallied around and reminded folks in the friendly. little town to hurry in and get that deal over for another year.

Capitan was the next on schedule, no one was fussy, one lady told me to make it mappy because she had left her turnles and greens cooking.

I regret very much not taking a day for Lincoln Town and will next year, and also plan to go to Arabella.

At Picacho folks kept me busy all day but Polly Kimbrell fixed me a delicious sandwich in between customers and I had time to have a short visit with Dick and go back to the days when his dad was in politics. Mrs. Kimbrell told me why Picacho was named the way it is. There are three small pointed peaks on the hillside and Picacho means peak. To Tinnie a couple of days was great, Met Margo Sanchez, an old friend of my dads. Alma Torrez fixed a good dinner for me, Everyone should stop in at the Tinnie Store, Fred and Alma have everything from horse shoes to canned corn meal much! I was glad to see Frank Titsworth getting over his burns and out and about.

At San Patricio in the Post Office, Louise and Tom Babers made us a good place to get the tax rendering done and I only had time to devour my Bologna Sandwich at noon then kept on copying rendictions (most everybody had the same) I might mention I didn't find but d very few pigs in the Valley. No wonder pork is so high!

At Glencoe, Shortle Ellis and wife, at Shortle's Store let us take up space to get the rendering done—and Mrs. Ellis cooked a delicious dinner.

Ruldoso Down's wasn't full of race horses but folks would like to own some. We met at Howard's Cafe for two days and it was nice to say hello to so many natives. Willie Benevedls who still drives his team of horses, came from his home in his wagon to render their taxes, about four miles.

New Mexico Land

Land developments in Lincoln County do not seem to constitute the problem and resulting fuss of over-exploitation as surrounds developments in Taos County, Bernalillo, and other portions of the state.

Finding land to buy in Lincoln County—is a problem. All of which testifies to the fact that this County is a choice ranching as well as recreation territory, with plenty of water (in the water years) millions of acres of shade and a sunny climate unsurpassed anywhere on this earth.

We are not the most interested in bringing foreigners from all parts of the globe to New Mexico, they'll continue coming fast enough, but then on the other hand we don't like for some of the real estate people and "watchers of the public welfare" to be low-rating any part of New Mexico. It's all good, even the sage brush country of Otero County (very little in Lincoln),

The population explosion of this world is no myth. It's full effect on New Mexico may be generations away but the day is coming and none of our land is being sold cheap today. The person who holds title to even a small parcel of land in this state has a merchantable property.

The worst aspect likely is the spreading of so many titles around the country. Again, a bright side. Think of the legal business.

A minor tragedy, and we could care less, is that many easterners do not realize the full value of New Mexico, its parts, its life, its scenery. We're still fighting Indians in this 50year-old state. Billy the Kid shot his last shot only a short time back, a rancher has to fend off rattle snakes out in the brush country, and it's hundreds of miles from drink to drink -is our last report from eastern chores.

Another minor hazard is that state tax rolls are years behind the real estate developments, again that is an internal problem. A source of revenue our government does not want to tap.

Keep the production guys within reasonable bounds . . , but let them sell . . . they are selling one of the best products our god Lord saw fit to bring into being at the time this earth was formed with all its wonders-most of which can be found some where in New Mexico.

The First Step

Reporter: I understand, sir, that you began life as a poor bricklayer. What was your first step forward?

Tycoon: I became a good bricklayer.

Memories literally flood by of people crossing our path who were obviously good at the task they set out to perform. Probably we first learned this trick skinning a set of light mules hitched to hay rake, working for Fred Schinost back in Anderson County, Kansas. Odd thing about Fred, he was a success, a tycoon in his way. but to the day of his death he never installed inside plumbing in his house.

Used to be some top-rate crap games on the Model-T hay trucks riding the miles out to Schinost's hay land. Can't say that Fred ever tried to interfere with these, nor did he insist that the rest of his town do without indoor plumbing. Long as a man did his job right . . . that counted most.

All this talk of raking hay and shooting craps is intended to point up the fact that there is room for good bricklayers, good carpenters, good city officials, and good citizens, around this town—people who will do the job. Wouldn't take long to bring on a changed appearance with enough people around trying hard to do the job right.

Hurd exhibition opens in Roswell Museum

Thirty works of internationally acclaimed Peter Hurd are included in the exhibition which opened Sunday at the Roswell Museum and Art Center. Hurd was present for the reception and graciously autographed programs for admirers.

The show includes tempera and water color renderings of the New Mexico landscape and portraits. It has just come from a showing at the Phoenix Art Museum and Arizonans lauded Hurd's excellence and his portrayal of the wide open spaces and the subjects which tell the story of our land and Hurd's affection for it. His handling of light, without revealing its source was commented on. Hurd paints into the sun and thus his beloved San Patricio hills are bathed in the shadows of the late afternoon. The show will be on until April 12, when it will move to the Joslin Art Museum in Omaha, Nebraska,

WHY DON'T WE GET BONITO WATER?

Why do we not get Bonita water? The dam is running over and Nogal Lake is filled to the top, and not one drop for Carrizozo. The present gypeeous well water is rulning our steam heated homes, radiators corroded away by caustic alkali, replacements costing few hundred per year. As the socalled city wells are drilled on metamorphism structure. Why does the city Administration think we can use this caustle alkali water for our steam heat when the railroads S. P. Company couldn't use it at all? They spent millions in gettingwater that was fit for steam. Lets have Bonita Dam water from October until first of April here after. Let's grow and not slide back.

THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1963 LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS -

By Senator Joe Skeen

March 9th wound up the 26th session of the Legislature. While many of you feel that it has produced too little in some areas and too much in others, it is hoped by way of this column, that you have been given some insight concerning legislative matters during the past two months.

Some 916 bills were entered by the House and Senate during this session. Well under half were passed by both bodies. It is too early to determine how many the Governor will veto. but it can be estimated that at least 50 will be killed in this manner. Probably 40 to 50 per cent never got out of committee and a good portion of these were never considered while there.

Anyone not unfamiliar with the caliber of most of these bills would in all likelihood feel that this is an intolerable waste of the taxpayer's money. While it is true that most of this junk legislation if eliminated would decrease the cost of the session. they are still an integral part of our democratic process.

The taxpayers can find some relief, however, in the fact that most of the bills dropped in the hopper never became law. If all bills were passed and enacted we would find ourselves enshared in a hopeless web of confusing and conflicting laws every two years. Good business for attorneys but less than desirable for John Q. Public!

I would like to make one final observation concerning this session and that is the House and Senate's complement of each other to make and maintain a check and balance system. The House proved to be liberal and the Senate conservative, resulting in many compromises not satisfactory to any one extreme. The conservatives were as thankful that there was a Senate as the liberals were that there was a House. Depending on the outcome of the next general election, there could be a radical change in either house thereby tipping the existing balance one way or the other. The House could become conservative and the Senate remain unchanged or vice versa. New Mexico has been historically a conservative state regardless of which major party was in power. However, this is changing as the larger cities are sending representatives to Santa Fe who depend on organized labor endorsements for political success. This is not to say that organized labor constitutes a majority of votes in these areas but they can contribute money, workers, and organization in sufficient quantities to give a favorite candidate a pretty good edge over his opposition. This fact is evidenced by the Bernalillo delegation's reluctance to be districted. They give lip service to wanting re-apportionment but fight vehemently any change in the present situation. Nine Representatives ran at large in that county and the majority of them live within a 20-block radius of each other. If their membership should increase without districting the county, the liberal element in the House would increase when in reality Bernalillo is predominantly conservative, The present delegation does not want districting, except for two Republicans and one Democrat,

Let Us Give You An Estimate

This concludes my column for this session. It has been a distinct pleasure to serve you and Lincoln County during these past two months. I hope to see many of you personally after I return home.

the two preferred delayed dormant sprays. The time of application should be at green tip or just before the leaves come out on the apple free, At this time the mites are more active and you will get a better kill than earlier.

Also consider Sevin for use in the spray schedule at 10 to 17 days effer and bloom. Sevin is an excellent coddling moth spray as were as a chemical thinner when used from 10 to 20 days after full bloom.

According to the 1962 sheep count Lincoln Co. has 240,000 sheep or almost one fourth of the entire state.

NEW MEXICO WOOL PRODUCTION UP

New Mexico wool production rose 2 percent to 10,557,000 pounds (grease basis) during 1962, while national production declined 6 percent, according to John R. Stauder, sheep specialist with the NMSU Extension Service. Value of shorn wool produced in the state is estimated at $4,540,000, 4 percent above the previous year.

Stauder, figures released by the New Mexico Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, said sheep shorn in the state totaled 1,122,000 head, down 1% from last year. The average price received by N. M. growers for shorn wool from April 1962 through January 1963 was 43c per pound. Average price received during the -1961 marketing seasoff was 42c. Average for the delayed dormant. Mal Pais made state park by legislature

The New Mexico House of Representatievs passed a bill March 5, creating Valley of Fires State Park near Carrizozo in the lava bed just off U.S. 54.

Rep. William Shrecengost, R-Lincoln, in urging passage of the bill, said the lava flow was close to the youngest in the United States—only about 1,000 years old.

Shrecengost said the area is about 40 miles long and about 10 miles wide. At its thickest portion, the bed is about 100 feet deep, he said.

He said the name "Valley of Fires" came from an old Indian legend of finding many small fires and a lot of smoke in the Daytona is no "private" test arranged by a manufacturer to favor his car's strong points. It is open competition—anyone can enter—and the one thing that is proved by its searing 500 miles is just exactly how well a car hangs together. At Daytona, Florida, on February 24, five brand-new 1963% Fords showed the world what durability means by sweeping the first five places. And that has never been equaled in Daytona history!

The box score at the left tells the true story...car endurance that takes brutal punishment and comes back for more.

No proving ground can equal this kind of torture. Daytona was a challenge we welcomed, a chance to prove in open competition the essential durability that makes possible the silence, the solid road-grip, the ease of control, the balanced braking . . . and all the other things that go into Ford's concept of total performance.

"When I bought this cow ranch fifteen years ago, only a few scattered cholla were to be found in the draws. Now, the cactus are so thick that I can't ride through them. As a young man, herding sheep from the Hondo to the Pentsco, we saw very few of these cholla cactus."

These and many similar remarks may be heard from almost any rancher in Lincoln County as you ride over their ranches with them, Cholla cactus (Opuntia arborescens), or buckhorn, staghorn, devil's walking stick, has spread over the grasslands so quickly during past years that it has become a grave concern to ranchers from southwest Texts to the central plains of Colorado. with Lincoln County in New Mexico being in the center of the area. Here the thickest and tallest stands of cholla are to be found.

During the past fifteen years, while working with ranchers in southern and central New Mexico, I have noted that these cactus are making a rapid increase on areas with deeper soils. On many sheep and cattle outlets, the cholla density is so great today, that the livestock no longer are able to properly utilize the grasses growing in the area. As I have been told by a local rancher - "I can't ride through them, much less work cattle among the cholla." In the foothill country east and south of Corona, it is commanplace to count 1000-1500 cholla plants per acre and in a few scattered spots, 1800-2000 plants per acro have been counted by the Soil Conservation Service technicians. For size, we can go to the bottomlands south of the Hondo to find 10-12 foot cholla with 14 foot specimens not uncommon.

Ranchers claim many types of damage to the livestock from grazing areas infested with choila cactus. These vary from sour mouth and wool damage in sheep to sore eye and lump faw in cattle. Death, although more common in sheep than cattle, occurrs every day from eating the spine covered pods and branches of this plant. One rancher friend of mine claims a three per-cent sheep death loss average over the years, with a big portion of this loss due directly to cholla. Another stockman had a registered bull down with an intestinal block caused from eating cholla seed

Not only are ranchers experlencing physical damage to their stock, but they are also witnessing damage to their grasslands and ranges, Pastures that once carried 250 sheep yearlong, with no apparent overuse, now become overused in seven to nine months grazing with the came number of sheep. The usual excuso - "docsn't rain as much as it used to" - does not always account for all the drop water, thereby producing even more grass growth than in the

What is the future for Mr. Cholla? With cholla in New Mexico becoming thicker and more widespread every year, the Soil Conservation Service, together with other Federal and State agencies and private contractors, are constantly trying newer methods of cactus con-

Every effort is being made to increase the efficiency of controlling the cholla cactus, keeping a sharp pencil on costs per acre. Perhaps future generations of Lincoln County ranchers will know of another Lincoln County War - On Cholla Cactus, through stories told by their parents or grandparents.

in carrying capacity. Closer inspection will reveal that the cholla stands, while becoming thicker, cover up more grazing area and take an increasing amount of moisture away from the grass plants. This results in lower yields of grass forage to the rancher. Since sheep and cattle cannot get to the grass under the cactus, they concentrate more heavily on the open grass areas with light stands of cholla. In a few years the forage plants on these more open areas become overgrazed while those under the cactus are never used. This double loss of uscable forage can greatly reduce carrying

In the last four years, the Soll Conservation Service has been working closely with ranchers in Lincoln County, trping to find the most economical way to control and eradicate the cholla cactus. The problem is very difficult, since these cactus are capable of resprouting and growing from branches dropped and left scattered on the ground, Chemical treatment, digging the plants out below the was among the first tried, Resourceful contractors have been ful in digging and stacking these cactus. THE STRANGE MURDER OF JUDGE FOUNTAIN!

Does some person harbor in a security vault of a Roswell bank a manuscript that would solve the long mysterious murder case of Judge Fountain, a mystery that has long baffled Lincoln County, and all of the Southwest -- and scores of Western writers!

Author Monk Lofton in an article entitled "Who Killed Judge Fountain," in TRUE WEST MAGAZINE, of the Western publications, Austin, Texas, offers information about the mystery that has long dazzled the general public about the cold-blooded murder of Judge Fountain and his son. Lofton laid bare some startling statements about the mysterious murder. The article lends a promise that some day the killer of the Judge and his son will be revealed.

A little public sentiment might hasten the possibility! Western Publications, publishing house of TRUE WEST and FRONTIER TIMES, has a record of carefully researching each article before publication, and

> Search Pays Off The search for a damaged white late model vehicle paid off for State Police yesterday with the arrest of Abel Chavez of Roswell. An area lookout for the vehicle and driver that smashed into the front of the Hondo Service Station sometime between 11 p.m. Tuesday and about 7 a.m. Wednesday resulted in Chavez' being jailed in Carrizozo in lieu of $300 bond on charges of reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident, and failure to report an accident, State Police said.

Tony Gonzales, also of Roswell, and reported to have been a passenger in the vehicle, was said to have been treated after the collision, officers reported.

The search for the mystery white vehicle and injured occupant began yesterday morning after reports were made to State Police of damage to the front of the U.S. 70 station and of blood found at the scene.
