

7,000 people at Ladder Ranch for Bob Anderson's barbeque Sunday

CROWD AT LADDER HARD TO BELIEVE

SANTA FE — Seven thousand people at the Ladder Ranch in Sierra county to see Sen. Ed Mechem last Sunday was a political marvel. The Ladder Ranch is about as far away as possible from the population of New Mexico, the census gives Sierra county only 6,409, and Ed Mechem is old shoe in New Mexico and not that kind of a crowd drawer. The credit must go to Robert O. Anderson of Roswell, Ladder owner and promoter of the event.

BOB LOOKS GOOD UNDER PUBLIC FIRE

Anderson is the one that Mechem said he figured he'd support for governor, a statement that set off a row of objections from people wanting Tom Bolack for that place on the Republican ticket. The response from the Bolacks was so great that Mechem retreated and Anderson said he would step aside. If Bolack became a candidate for governor, developments since the flare-up over Mechem's statement have made Anderson look pretty good.

LIKELY MATERIAL FOR '66 ELECTION

He was big enough to fly to Farmington to see Bolack where he offered to remove himself as a prospect for governor and to take any role he was given to help the ticket.

The big barbeque at the Ladder showed the Republican crowd apparently happy and together after being seriously split only a couple of weeks before.

It was Anderson's conduct during the dispute that brought it about. The Roswell financier has prospects of being as good at politics as he was in his business career. He's presently at the head of the group driving for Mechem's re-election and whatever he might run for in 1964 is likely to be a warm-up for the 1966 when he may be going for the Senate seat held by the other Anderson, Clinton P.

WRENCHES HIT PENSION PLAN

Old legislators are going to have to wait a year for the pensions that the 1963 legislators thought they were voting for them.

John Hays, director of the Public Employees Retirement Assn., has raised hell a dozen serious legal doubts about the legislators' pension program, enough, probably, to require re-enactment of the statute.

And on top of that the '63 legislature didn't appropriate enough money to take care of more than four or five of the forty or fifty who have lined up for pension handouts.

If the legislature is in the mood the situation could be corrected in the special session next winter.

DELAYO CHOICE ROCKS CAPITOL

The State Board of Education's choice of Leonard Delayo for state school superintendent surprised most everybody in the capitol and in school circles, too.

The Baltimore man had hardly been mentioned in speculation with most all thinking the choice would be Mike Hunt of Portales or John Gott, the state finance director.

Delayo, pronounced with the accent on the second syllable, came out to UNM in 1941 on a football scholarship, was a War II naval officer, taught for a while in Albuquerque and is presently employed as executive secretary of the Baltimore Teachers Assn., an affiliate of the National Education Assn. He has a masters degree in education and credits toward a Ph. D.

WILL TAKE OVER TROUBLED AGENCY

The new super will get here in mid-June and go on the payroll July 1 at $15,000 managing a department that has $130,000 less for operation than in the year now closing, and a staff that is so heavy with directors and assistant directors that it came in for severe criticism from the legislature.

Everybody in the department is jittery.

NEW LAW LIMITS SUPERS' CONTRACTS

School superintendents' contracts at the district level have been written for five years and longer—and which were vaguely held in a supreme court opinion last year to be no good for more than one year, after June 2 may be drawn for two years and no longer.

That's the date a new law goes into effect but it doesn't answer all the questions such as a lame duck school board renewing a superintendent's contract, or board action extending a contract that does not expire until far in the future. The Santa Rosa board set off a local rumpus this month by extending Superintendent Joe T. Gonzalez' contract one year beyond its expiration date of June 1964.

BOARDS PROTECTS FAVORED OFFICERS

Another device used by school superintendents and their boards is cancellation of a contract mid-way in its term and then rewriting it for the full original period.

All such schemes are designed to protect superintendents from new boards that might want to make changes.

SECOND ANNUAL LITTLE MAVERICK RODEO JUNE 7-8-9

Carrizozo Out where the west begins

NEW TRUCK IN LINE — Carrizozo Fire Department has received its new fire truck, and are practicing to get familiar with the new vehicle which has all the latest controls and equipment for fire control. In the picture, in front of the truck are Ken Means, chief, J. D. Garrison, Herman McKibben, Friday Sherrill, Jess Garrison, deputy fire marshal, Tino Lopez.

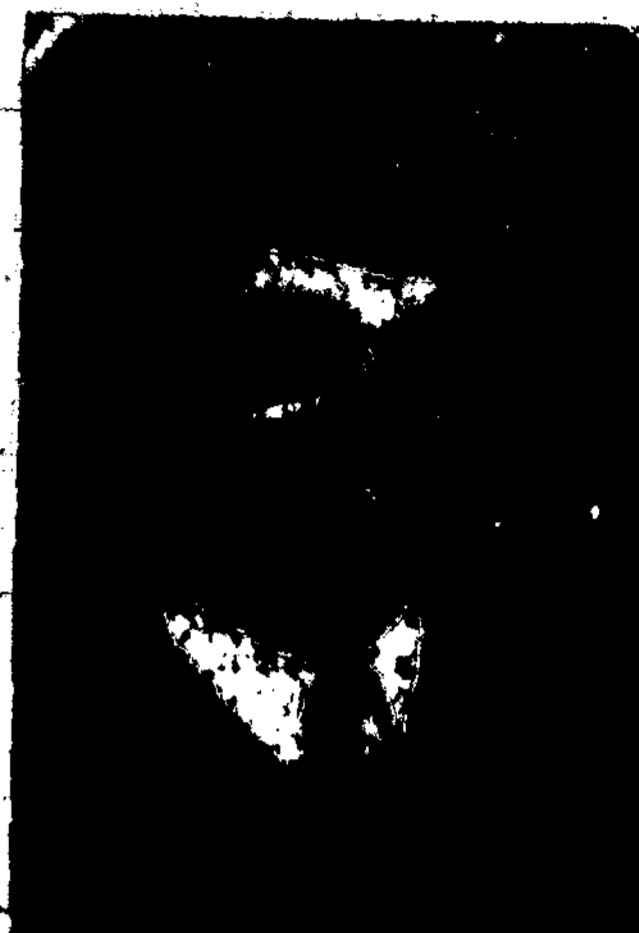

At the intersection of two transcontinental highways, Carrizozo, established at the turn of the century for the El Paso & Northeastern Railway, enjoys its role as a typical New Mexico cowtown. Located in the northern end of the great Tularosa Basin and surrounded by spectacular mountains, its air of serenity is not dominated by projects whose goal is self defense but whose presence seems to be the only means of economic assurance to many communities who look for the Great White Father in Washington to guide the destiny of all Americans.

Here at an altitude of 5426 ft., where the summer nights are pleasantly cool and the days warm enough to make you yearn for a dip in the newly constructed Municipal swimming pool, Carrizozo's residents do not view the brighter prospect of tomorrow while they let the passing moment go by unnoticed. A new and better school plant is in the offing, as the result of an overwhelming majority given to the recent school bond election.

The City Dads have given impetus to a paving project which will add another progressive step toward the goal of building a town that will attract home-seekers; people who are already cognizant of the climate, the fresh, dry mountain air that leaves one's lungs feeling the zest of clean and healthful breathing but who still would seek to enjoy some of the refinements of their home-towns in the east, where progress and attractiveness is paramount but where the temperature plunges out of sight almost before the autumn leaves have fallen and stays there, in a mire of deep snows and unyielding winter freezes until its people would give their kingdoms for just one of the sunny, warm, springlike days that the southwest is more accustomed to than not.

From a train window or a speeding car, it may seem that this is the land that God forgot, as a traveler views endless miles of mesquite and cholla flats and meditates how even the lowly lizard can survive; and, yet, with scarcely a hafl of rain, the desert blooms, native grama grasses turn green and head out in maturity to provide feed to fatten cattle that could stand belly-deep in native grasses of a wetter country and slowly starve. While a passer-by idly surveys a dust-devil picking its way through the dusty countryside and contemplates that surely the only reason this land is here is to hold the rest of the world together, his views with amazement and awe, a sunset that leaves him weak inside and wondering how he has lived these many years away from this Land of Enchantment.

This is Carrizozo, county seat of famous Lincoln County, in New Mexico, where Charles Eddy and other builders of railroads, laid their hands of steel that united east with west, offered transportation for the thousands of cattle that heretofore had been trailed from the border to the North, and to the wheatfields and fattening pens of Kansas and Iowa, provided a means for the intrepid miner to get his coal from the rich underground deposits at Coalinga and Dawson to the furnaces and to the countless homes far away from their fuel supply.

This is the Carrizozo today that beckons the weary traveler who first glimpses its bright lights from fifty or sixty miles distant and surmises that only a short distance is the haven he seeks; only to find that in the west distances are not what they seem; and finally after the gas register is almost to the empty mark, this sleepy little cowtown appears with its welcome sign out. Here the city dweller and commuter who keeps time with the relentless, furious pace of today's big city living finds a friendly, quiet atmosphere offering the tranquility and restfulness he has dreamed about but shied to one side in his quest for who knows what.

And for those who travel these two highways in early June, they will view a town of the old west, come to life for three days of rodeoing. Three days when the small fry of these wide open spaces dominate the cow-country scene as they perform daring feats of horsemanship and prove to their elders that the spirit of the old west lives on in the hearts of its young mavericks, as they compete in calf roping, steer riding and other events peculiar to a land where towns and ranches and people are widely separated and congregated on these occasions to cheer for the boy and the horse; and for the cowgirls with their rodeo apparel and staves against the judges stop watch.

Many paint contest entries

The paint contest sponsored by Posey Lumber, Carrizozo Hardware and Pettys, closes Friday, May 31.

You may still win five gallons of paint simply by writing a letter to the New telling how you intend to beautify your home property.

May 15, 1963 Carrizozo, N. Mex. Dear Sir:

If I were to win the five gallons of white paint this is the way I would use it to beautify my home. I would paint the ceiling in all five rooms in my home white with the walls in pastel colors so that they would be clean and fresh in color for this summer. This really makes a home look fresh.

I would also paint the doors and windows inside and outside white and my kitchen cabinets also in white.

If there were to be enough paint left I would paint the garage outside so that it would help beautify our yard with the lawn and flowers.

I would be very happy, pleased and thankful if I were to win this paint as we need to do some painting on my house.

Mrs. Ramon S. Luna Thank you, P. O. Box 536 Carrizozo, N. Mex.

White Oaks May 22, 1963 Mr. and Mrs. Public Box 533 Carrizozo, N. Mex.

I have been a painter since a boy of ten years. I even painted the fence posts on our ranch, when Dad complained about the cost, my argument was, "The cows liked it better that way".

There are three basic reasons for painting, first to prolong the life of property; second, to beautify and third is sanitation. Bugs and vermin avoid paint when possible, also a well painted surface is not porous and can be cleaned of pests.

Also paint is fire, don't cost you a penny. The reason is you sure do pay for it if you do not use it. Termites will not eat paint.

Wood does not absorb moisture and decay if well painted. Metal such as iron, galvanized or other materials, all require paint.

To be sure it has a bonding surface use a good metal primer. Rusty metal bonds well with aluminum paint.

IN DOUBLE HITTER
The Bears played the Tigers in a double hitter Saturday morning at the Little League ball field. The two six inning games were lost by the Bears with final scores of 11-5 and 10-2. Coaches and referees are needed and all adults that are interested in softball should come to the game on Saturday morning, warm up time 9:00 a.m., game time 10:00 a.m.

N.M.S.U. reported to be interested in experimental station at Ft. Stanton

The Lincoln County Rural Area Development Committee met at the Captain School Lunch room on May 22, at 7:30 p.m., with the following members present: Fred H. English, President; W. G. Shreengost, Paul Payton, Welcolm Armstrong, Gerald Dean, Ralph Dunlap, Alfred Johnson, Dick Floyd, Dud Darling, J. S. Stearns, members.

President English called the meeting to order and brought up as the first order of business, a discussion concerning the Lincoln County Fast Draw Contest, stating that inasmuch as there was a deficit in the neighborhood of $2700.00 as the result of the 1962 contest, some immediate planning should be forthcoming to pay this off, if possible, and also to determine whether other contests should be held.

Dick Floyd of the Farmers Home Administration stated that if we would contact the Department of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, that we could receive a great deal of help in publicizing any contests or activities held in Lincoln Co. Mr. Floyd stated that this Department was in touch with all the sporting goods magazines and others and that they would probably send people to Lincoln County to find out what was going on.

Welcolm Armstrong and Paul Payton brought up a possibility of plaques and letterhead stationery with maps of the county shown thereon, outlining all the places and events of interest, roads, etc., which could be sold to tourists, businesses, individuals and whoever had a need for same and thought that in this manner the deficit could be paid. It was anticipated that on each 1M sheets of letterheads a profit of $5.00 could be realized and at this rate and with every one in the county trying to sell them, $2500.00 could be realized within a short period.

John Melgs had volunteered to make a painting of this kind without pay and Paul stated that he could probably get Vic Lamb of the Ruidoso News to help on the project. The group thought that the idea was a worthwhile one and gave their permission for Mr. Payton to get started and also to work again on a fast draw contest for this year under a different set-up whereby we wouldn't be getting into the financing end of it in the same way as last year.

The Ft. Stanton reservation had been previously discussed at our meetings and Bill Shreengost reported that the State College was most interested in having it for an experimental station if the people wanted them to have it for this purpose. The purposes of such an experimental station would be to find out more about the adaptability of range cattle to certain range conditions and general herd improvement. Bill Shreengost said that if enough interest was shown and the Governor would put Ft. Stanton in his call for a special session, then the matter would be a legislative one and it might be possible to secure the necessary appropriation for the experimental station. People who think this is a good idea could write to the State College and to our Governor and legislators expressing their endorsement and it had been previously understood that a $40,000.00 appropriation would be necessary.

A discussion was held regarding the natural gas for this area but little was known about the project or the possibility of Carrizozo coming within the program because of its distance from the line which would be run from the main line through Capitán to Ruidoso. However, some comment had been made of it branching off south of Capitán and going through Nogal which would supply some additional customers.

A discussion was held regarding the fact that it had been found that Ponderosa pine could be suitably used in the manufacture of plywood and Agent Ralph Dunlap said he would write to the Corvallis Plywood Veneer Plant at Corvallis, Oregon and also to Oregon State University, Forest Products Lab., to find out more about it. It had been estimated that about 50 billion feet a year could be made available from the forests of New Mexico and such a plant would help the economy.

Regarding the frost forecasts, Bill Shreengost said they had been very helpful and he thought they had helped to save considerable fruit. He said that he looked for additional smudging in the valley in the future. He said the apple crop outlook was very good.

A young man who put his dream on wheels was Henry Ford, pictured with his first automobile in 1896. That dream was to produce a light-weight, inexpensive automobile that the ordinary family could afford, and its fulfillment put the world on wheels. Mr. Ford, born 100 years ago this July 30, was 33 when he posed in his Sunday finest, sporting a proud mustache, with the car he built in a rented workshop in Detroit.

beautiful spot on the fringes of the scenic ranch headquarters. It seemed an attendant would have no time for anything other than the stand business.

The letter contributor also tore into Miss Gertrude Butler, who also had a published letter in the "MAIL ROUND-UP" section last January, on the controversial subject of re-interment of the kid's bones. They kindled a pretty good little fire at each other. Some of this argumentation evidently arose over an article this writer had in REAL WEST several months ago, all stemming from the reburial issue which got hotter than hades and attracted national attention, with the New York Times coming out with three or four pages on the subject.

People are still arguing over the subject, even if it's nothing except digging into the grave—and have been ever since the first shovelful of dirt began to settle. Old accounts in the Santa Fe New Mexican show that much controversy existed over the countryside shortly after Pat Garrett shot the Kid "whether Pete Maxwell was guilty of harboring Billy the Kid." And one reporter from that frontier publication rode down Pat Garrett for an interview. Garrett, of course, exonerated Pete in the accusation.

Rasch tore into Morrison and Jonnichen a few months ago in the book they published, entitled "Alias Billy the Kid," in which documentation indicated the Kid was not killed that July '81 in Fort Sumner, but lived to be an old, old man. He also elaborated on Hertzog's recently published little booklet. And when Mr. Ballert gets his volume on the market, you can betcha-bottom dollar he'd better throw on the coffee pot and make arrangements to scratch his head, for all hell will break in upon him. That goes for this writer too, for he has some articles scheduled soon on the subject.

No one seems to be bothered as little as does Miss Lois Telfer, of New York, acclaimed as "the only living relative of the Kid."

And that brings up another thought—a few months back come lady wrote a letter from Arizona to the Lincoln County News that she knew of a family of several that were direct descendants of the Kid's folks—or related in some manner, and that Miss Telfer was not the "only living relative." The letter writer did not stop to realize that Miss Telfer was only claiming, in all legality, according to the framing of words on the subject "to be the only KNOWN living relative."

Any time any type of writing is turned loose to the public on the subject, the writer will get the hell torn out of him, in one form or the other. He is either right or wrong, or else has the wrong attitude about the whole situation.

And the argumentation has acquired such bounds that one commences to wonder if it does not afford a broader scope of colorful reading that does the subject of the First World War! THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT IS... The subject will never "write out." Just like Lincoln County will always be attractive to the travelers, or visitors, or the writer. And always plague John Boylan.

Some months back, Mr. Carson and I were enjoying a late breakfast in the colorful old dining room of the Wortley Hotel. The sun was high over the mountains, and I'd already made several pix. In strolls John, saying something about the tourists in Lincoln County just wouldn't let anyone sleep.

Well, the tourist in Lincoln County never has enough time to see all the interesting spots; therefore, he falls out with the first crack of dawn and makes a hand of covering the countryside, and he doesn't have time to wait for John to get his nap out.

Just for fun!

A man lost a valuable show dog, and placed an ad offering $1,000 reward. Later he stopped by the newspaper office. The office boy greeted him.
Man: "I'd like to see the advertising manager."
Boy: "He's out, sir."
Man: "His assistant, then?"
Boy: "He's out too, sir."
Man: "Then may I see the editor?"
Boy: "Sorry, he's out too!"
Man: "Great Scott, where is everybody?"
Boy: "They are all out hunting for your dog."

Ma: "Pa, I don't think the neighbors like the drum we got Johnny for Christmas."
"Why?" said Pa.
Ma: "They gave him a knife and asked him if he knew what was in the drum."

The average man gets nothing out of having his name in the paper. The first time he's too young to read, the next time he's too dead to read, and finally he's too dead to read.

SAGA OF THE KID IS PERPETUAL SUBJECT

Books of Billy the Kid seem never to cease. The subject, like whiskey, improves with age!

Peter Hertzog has just authored a small booklet, entitled "Little Known Facts About Billy the Kid." It was printed by the Bishop Printing and Litho. Co. of Portales, for the Press of the Territorial. It is bristling full, as the title says, of "little known facts" about the Kid—very interesting.

Straying from the subject somewhat, but Hertzog is authoring a series of subjects on New Mexico, relative to a few of its many interesting historical subjects. The series, of which Billy the Kid is the third, will eventually comprise several volumes—all of which, when published and combined in one folder, will be very interesting to readers of Old West material.

The latest copy of REAL WEST magazine, to which this columnist has been a steady contributor for several months, has just hit my desk. In the MAIL ROUND-UP section was a letter from Frederic Marlon Ballert, 415 Irving St., Apt. 3, Toledo, Ohio. He has written a book on Billy the Kid, his letter states, and it is making the rounds of the publishers. No doubt, with the soaring interest of the subject, the volume will soon hit the markets.

He stated he had written Mr. Wilbur F. Coe, whose father was Frank Coe of the Lincoln County War and close friend of the Kid, for information on the subject. Well, Mr. Coe informs the author of the new book to come down to Glencoe and take charge of his fruit stand for a while "so I might have an opportunity to familiarize myself with the scene of most of Billy's activities and gather information on the spot."

Even at that he'd still need to contact—if he hasn't already done it—Mr. Ralph Rasch of California for additional information; for he, seemingly, has done the most reliable research on the subject. I'm sure Mr. Coe would enjoy his services at the fruit stand, but doubt if he would have much time to expend on the subject of the Kid; for when this writer visited the

Nogal Canyon

By Rosalie Dunlap

George Wandell of Nogal and San Antonio, Texas, and Miss Coye Lee Barrier of San Antonio, Texas, were united in marriage May 7, at the Methodist Church in Alamogordo.

The couple left for their honeymoon the next day on a trip to Mexico in their camper. They went to Nogales then on to Guaymas and San Carlos where they enjoyed the beaches, clear water swimming, but not much luck fishing. They also said the watermelons and cantaloupes were delicious.

On their return home they visited the Chaguero (Cactus Forest) at Tucson, Arizona, and with Mrs. Wandell's sister, Polly in El Paso.

Mrs. Wandell, who is the Librarian for the San Antonio Library returned there where she will work for another month. George will get her the first of July and the couple will live in Nogal for the summer months.

All of our best wishes go to them.

The story is told of a preacher who went to the mountains to preach and upon arriving struck up a conversation with the first old man he met.

"Brother, are you lost?" he asked.

"Well, I reckon not," replied the mountaineer. "I been here nigh on to 30 years and know every cow patch in these here hills."

"You don't understand," said the preacher. "I mean are you ready for the Judgment day?"

"When's it a comin'?" asked the mountaineer.

"Well," said the preacher, "it might come today or it might be tomorrow."

"For goodness sakes, don't tell my old woman," cautioned the mountaineer. "She'd want to go both ways!"

Old Ft. Stanton

If nothing happens, I will enter St. Mary's hospital in Roswell on May 27, for surgery. I'll probably have to stay there for seven or eight days, so I'll be unable to write the news for Ft. Stanton this week. But as soon as I am able, I will be back on the job and write every week. Of course if I don't go, the news will be in next week's paper.

The Woman's Service Club and the Ladies of the Boy Scouts had a joint meeting Monday night. After all the business was taken care of, coffee and donuts were served. One of the men mentioned, that another Den Mother was needed for the Girl Scouts. A mother of seven said, "I'm already a Den mother." That got quite a few laughs. But even with seven youngsters to care for, she still finds time to work with the Service Club and other things when she is needed.

We had a ball game Sunday. Carrizozo came and played our team. As usual, when we play Carrizozo, we lose. But the game was enjoyed by everyone.

May 26, the ball team went to Hagerman for a game.

Mrs. Charles McCorkle had surgery at St. Mary's hospital, in Roswell last Thursday morning and from all reports, she is recovering very nicely. We hope she is well real soon and able to come home.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chambers were Mr. Chambers' father, J. W. Chambers from Roswell, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Lykins also came to visit them for a short while Sunday afternoon. They are also from Roswell.

The picnic that was held for all employees and their families was very nice. The food was delicious. Mr. Bryan had the honor of pouring the punch and I'll bet he had a sore arm Monday morning. We had a very large crowd and everyone seemed to enjoy the occasion.

Graduation exercises at Ft. Stanton were held on the afternoon of May 19, at 3:00 o'clock at the Los Amigos Club.

Elizabeth Loera graduated from High school with many of her family attending from Las Vegas.

Corrinne Morales graduated from the 8th grade. Mr. and Mrs. Morales attended from Albuquerque.

Both these girls deserve much credit for their accomplish-ments because much of their studying has been done in the hospital under the expert and efficient guidance of Mrs. Hattie Lacey.

Mrs. Lacey has taught all 12 grades at Ft. Stanton for many years and has devoted much of her time and effort. She deserves much credit for her devotion to these young students who all love her very much.

Mr. Duane Darling, superintendent of Capitán schools, presented the students their diplomas.

Dr. H. C. Jernigan, Medical Director at Ft. Stanton also spoke to the graduates.

The grade school children of Ft. Stanton sang several songs under the direction of Harold Black who also is graduating from High School this year but will receive his diploma in Hobbs.

The graduation exercises were well attended and the club was beautifully decorated with lovely flowers.

Elizabeth Loera accompanied her parents home for a visit in Las Vegas.

Cox - Main 1 Reporter Jerry and Nelle Fincher and M. G. Peters enjoyed a visit with friends from Roswell this past Sunday. James W. Cox enjoyed a visit with a friend from Mesalero. Lee Harday enjoyed a nice visit with his wife Sunday.

The employees of Ft. Stanton hospital held their annual picnic this past Sunday. It was enjoyed by all who attended. Mrs. Lacey held graduation day for the Ft. Stanton school, also this past Sunday. Both the graduation and the picnic drew pretty good crowds.

Many of the patients and some of the personnel of the hospital enjoyed a pleasant hour last Thursday evening when a group of dancers performed in the dining room for the benefit of the patients. Our thanks to Patricia Romero (social worker) for contacting the group and getting them to come.

her cabin remodeled and ready for sale near-by.

Cordin's Store and Bonito City Store are going to be well stocked for the summer tourists this year.

Parson's Hotel has been re-vised again. It is not ready yet, but George McBride and Cab Galloway are busy. I will have a better story later. It may have a grand opening sooner than we think.

Paul Baker, former Editor of The Lincoln County News, sent me his paper from Ouray, Colorado. His editorial for that week was in praise of Our Dave Jackson, White Oaks' pioneer.

Applications have been mailed out or given to parties interested in electric power above Bonito-Dam. It has been proposed by Otery Co. Electric Coop., Inc. to run the line from Nogal up Nogal Canyon and down by Parson's Hotel and on to residents in Bear Canyon.

Corona

By Effie Mulkey

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Casey had as their guests the past weekend her nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Murrell Pennington and their two children, of Vinita, Okla. The Penningtons were on their vacation through New Mexico, Colorado, and Texas. It was their first visit with the Caseys in 15 years, and their first trip through New Mexico. Other guests of the Caseys recently were Mr. and Mrs. Othel Nicely from Miles City, Montana. Mr. Nicely's family lived on the J. T. Martin Ranch near Corona many years ago. He found many strangers and changes at Corona.

EDITORIAL

"A page for independent thought"

Of County Concern

A half-dozen times during the past two years various people have inserted "help wanted" ads in the News. They received some response, but not much, certainly not enough to lead one to believe that Carrizozo is an area of unemployment. There's bound to be people out of work here, and not a great number of jobs, but finding people who want to do rock quarry work, road work, ranch work, and a number of like jobs... is not easy.

During the past two years we have heard some talk about declaring Carrizozo a "distress area". No agency would even consider declaring Lincoln County a distress area, in view of the traffic growth in this county. And... it's not probable that Carrizozo could be split off as a piece of distress. We don't have a lot of unemployment, bank assets are showing a good, steady growth, a strong secondary source of cash flow in Carrizozo (Highways 54 and 380) brings more people by and thru Carrizozo each year, the hustlers are doing pretty good business by sports, not one's hurting for beer and other necessities — you'd have to want a handout real bad to call Carrizozo distressed.

This is not intended to mean that Carrizozo should forgo the use of all types of federal money. We're in recreation country. The government, both state and federal, is pushing for more recreation areas, which would serve many more people than just Carrizozo residents... here is a good area for spending government money. If a dam is feasible in the area — let's go for it. If road improvements could be secured on the loop drive through Jicarilla, that would be a good place for gas tax money, and good for all the county. Other areas for the use of federal and state funds would certainly come to light on investigation.

We don't believe that Lincoln County, considering all of its people, would think highly of a part of this county yelling "distress", especially for a matter of local concern, such as paving. Carrizozo is the county seat... as a town it certainly needs to hold its head as high as the elevation will allow, and then some.

There are more bad aspects to the determination, "distress" area than we care to go into here. Such aspects are outweighed by the good that can generate from Carrizozo people doing things for themselves — in the eyes of all Lincoln County, and probably in the eyes of federal agencies who might help with future development.

Map Correction

The official road-map put out by the state highway department of New Mexico does not show one of the most interesting and prettiest drives in Lincoln County and the southwest. This special drive is not a state road.

A good road takes off from U. S. 54 going to Ancho, or at a point just a few miles north of Carrizozo going to White Oaks. From these points the road loops around through the Jicarilla Mountains in the placer mining country, goes thru White Oaks, and the driver can go on to Capitan, or on the north side of the Capitan Mts., through Encinosa, Join Highway 380 by going through Arabella or go on to Roswell.

One could take in Jackie Silver's House of Old Things, a famous Ghost Town at White Oaks, lots of beautiful mountains, deer country galore, the land of Smokey Bear at Capitan... it's one of the better drives around Lincoln County. This oversight in furnishing tourist information may be taken care of in coming weeks by local folks. This is an instance where it certainly pays to advertise your home country.

Darrel Freeman reads like this: Bustamante (school principal) has a policy that nothing can be released to the News unless it is approved by him. We can understand such an order if the news release pertains to school policy or a financial appeal from some of the numerous school organizations, but when it also pertains to their school social and acceptable school activities... this is censorship we can't buy. The Santa Rosa News could not get pictures of the '63 graduating class.

EXISTENT COMPLEXITY OF LOST LITERARY EFFORTS

By Kit Carson

MANY works of art, literary and otherwise, have been lost to the public, which required a sifting of the ages to recover, long after its author had become a mouldering portion of the earth's crust.

Some of the greatest works have been cast aside, thrown around, condemned, and even declared contemporarily worthless—if not, indeed, tossed into obscurity in the original drafting without recognition of their true value.

The battle of Gettysburg was one of the most noted battles of the Civil War, fought during the first three days of July, 1863. When it was dedicated as a National Shrine on November 19th of the same year, Lincoln was called upon for an address, paying homage to those who gave their lives during the battle. His address was two minutes long; his contemporary's speech dragged along for two hours, and made the front pages. Lincoln's few, meek, humble words—from a big heart and great soul—lingered favorably in the back pages, with little attention. It took some time for the few words to gain attention for their true value.

We even doubt that Lincoln at the time really knew the immortality that would envelop his few simple but great words; for he said in the address, "The world will little note nor long remember what we say here."

Try reading the address; it's handy!

AND there's that lovely old tune, "When It's Springtime In The Rockies," by Mary Woolsey. She was very young when she wrote the song. It landed on some busy editor's desk, and eventually in a dusty file, forgotten. Later, when another editor propped his feet on the desk, he found it. It never made its author any money. Its soothing notes could have come only from a great heart—more valuable than coins.

EVERY whip of a stitch we are faced with accountings of old scroll findings along the paths of the ancient Egyptians—old parchments of the Biblical days. The long lost literary efforts afford excitement to the Biblical savants as they ponder a method of translation without the old scrolls crumbling at their touch, seeking the exciting contents of the works of authors so many centuries past!

THE Mona Lisa painting, Leonardo da Vinci—a centuries-old work of art which continues to gain prominence in leaps and bounds with the passage of the years.

THE famous HOLD-UP of the Barlow-Sanderson stage coach in the Raton Pass, in 1867. Here is the only note that can be found on the subject, from the Seligman Card of 1921: "This coach was in the famous 'hold-up' in Raton Pass in 1867, when the expressmessenger and two passengers were shot and killed; $50,000 taken, and the robbers made their escape. 'Kid Barton' was afterwards captured and hanged to the bridge on the Rock Island east of Tucuman, but not, however, until he had shot a Sheriff and two Deputies."

A literary note of few words, packed full of meaning and action; but not enough. Many students of Western Americana would give their eye teeth for more information on the subject, including this writer.

THERE'S still another, reaching a bit nearer the bounds of Lincoln County; if, indeed, its drafting did not actually take place in the County. Gen. Law Wallace, while Territorial Governor of New Mexico, wrote an article on a lost gold mine in the rugged Guadalupe, south of Lincoln County. It's lost; Treasure-hunters and story writers would give their right arm for it. More than likely it's an item of some late prospector's gear, hanging unnoticed in a little-used saddle shed; and no one has taken the trouble to look through his personal effects.

There is also another right in our midst. Vernon Payne, San Angelo, previous resident of Capitan and composer of poems, asks about it, as one of his favorites that has been out of reach for 30 years. Its title, "On the Banks of the Sunay San, Juan."

Members of the Farmington Archeological Society remember the ballad; and thought they could lay hands on it, but couldn't. They, however, recalled the piece of art, and expressed a favor for the work. It's in the New Mexico midst somewhere, and Vernon would certainly like to see it!

Vernon wrote a note, searching for the lost ballad. But first he said, "When the folks come down from Capitan, we'll kill the fatted 'Pegasus'—very true to the nature of Lincolnites."

The former Capitan resident has appeared in the recent "Avalon Anthology of Texas Poets," compiled by Lilith Lorraine. His contribution was "Thermopylae."

And another, with permission of the publishers, Young Publications, Appalachia, Virginia, entitled, "Treasurers of Parnassus, best poems of 1962," we quote:

Grotesque they lay, unposed, untense in the dignity of death. Can stillness bought of violence

Or an inquiry of circumstance Or the press of a school of transients Restore the body's breath?

My soul, what did you stop to see in apocalyptic arrest?

A specter of the Hades enemy Or a clue of keeps of agony

Or a crust for the ghoul, carnality, in eye or shattered breast?

Vernon was "inspired by a pathetic thing I saw on the road between Deming and Lordsburg a few years ago."

A large manufacturing concern asked purchasers to fill out a card saying what dominant thing made them buy the product. One man answered: "My wife."

Alto Country

By Aileen Lindamood

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Ryan of El Paso were over from their Ruidoso home Friday and went on to Carrizozo to visit Mrs. George Dingwall who is in the hospital there. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. Alan Johnson.

Friday the Ray Provines were over from Capitan, Sidney Preston and son Larry and "Corky" McEuen went to Dora, for the day last Friday.

Saturday Bonnie McEuen made a trip to Carrizozo.

From the number of people stopping to ask is Bonito Lake open and where can they fish it's a sure sign the summer season has arrived.

Every cloudy day we hope for rain but each day the clouds give us no moisture at all. It will rain one of these days — it always does — but let's hope it's soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Rhodes of Vestal, New York, stopped by to visit the Lindamoods on Sunday. They came west for the annual pilgrimage to the grave of Eugene Manlove Rhodes, his father, on June 2. They went first to Los Angeles from New York before arriving in this area to visit friends and attend the graveside services sponsored by the Alamogordo Chamber of Commerce.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Peebles had many visitors—the Bill Smiths and son Lester of Roswell, the R. W. McAnallys of House, and the Walter Schneiders of Ft. Stanton.

The Lindamoods went to Carrizozo Sunday afternoon to see Mrs. George Dingwall. At present she is in the hospital but at this time is improving each day.

Property owners can get out and look

Now that Summer is here and all of Lincoln Co. property owners can get out and look around — some will and some won't be worried about their property descriptions. We here in the assessor's office are worried about some of your properties — we want them to be filed right, described right and assessed right. If, when you are out and about will you look at your land and check your descriptions? Are you sure it is described right? If not, would you send us your description and we will check it with the Tax Schedule to make sure for you — or write us and ask for your description — we will be glad to send it to you.

Bottoms Up

On the ceiling over the prize-fight ring in a Los Angeles training gym is a sign that says bluntly:

"WHEN YOU CAN READ THIS, YOU'RE IN TROUBLE!"

Kalsen moves to Carrizozo

John A. Kalsen, a resident of Lincoln County off and on since 1915, has moved from Roswell to Carrizozo where he will live in the Shafer apartment.

Mr. Kalsen first came to Ft. Stanton in 1915, was in government service there four years. Then he transferred to California, came back to Lincoln County in 1955 and has managed the Holiday Inn at Roswell the past seven years.

Old Timers Picnic June 16

Fort Worth, Texas — Mary Alice King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn King of Carrizozo is a candidate to receive a B. S. degree in elementary education at Texas Christian University, May 29 when approximately 640 students will be graduated.

The University will confer more degrees this spring than it did during the entire first 48 years of its history. From 1873, when it was founded as "Add-Ren Male and Female College" at Thorp Spring, through the school year of 1920, the university conferred 387 degrees.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn King, and son Glenn, Jr., left Sunday to attend this graduation.

While waiting on a camera to be cleaned Saturday some real interesting conversation developed. Jack Glasco operates Jack's Camera Shop and hunts snakes. Both of us knew about cameras so we talked about snakes. Jack keeps 27 rattlesnakes in his basement for company and to use when he puts on snake shows around the country — part of his show is demonstration of how to handle snakes, milk them, etc., etc. He is planning to start a snake hunt which probably will be in the Carrizozo area, with either or both the Zozo and Alamo Chambers of Commerce as sponsors. This hunt would be developed along the lines of hunts held in Sweetwater, Texas, and Okin, Okla., where they will catch several thousand snakes in a hunt, butcher a lot of snake meat, sell it, eat it. Jack has served several snake fries. It's a good question how many snakes could be caught in the area between Carrizozo, maybe as far north as Corona — No question at all about there being big snakes in this area because the News photos five and six-foot rattlers each year, which are known as "big" snakes in a contest. The best time for a snake hunt is between mid-April and May 1, exact time within these dates not so easy to determine. Jack has three snake shows scheduled this month, would come up to Carrizozo for a Scout show or such, if invited.

An editorial in the Santa Fe New Mexican told of curtailment of services of units of the Museum of New Mexico for financial reasons. The reduced budget this year is the result of the generally bad financial condition of our state government, said the New Mexican. A difference here... a museum soon to open at Ancho certainly has taken a lot of money to get it to the "point of opening", but the state budget will never cut down on its services. Jackie Silver has done a fabulous job with her House of Old Things which opens June 15. It is a real addition to the list of "things to see" in this part of Lincoln County.

It's been like this with men and women since the day when

Adam and Eve were having their troubles. One day Adam really got mad. "Damn it," he said to Eve, "you've put my pants in the salad again."

One talented lady is doing much, probably the most, to boost art and culture in and around Lincoln County — this is Jane Shafer who was responsible for a fine music program in the school auditorium last Thursday. Big crowd out for this program and the youngsters played real well. Usually in a program of this length some youngster forgets and has to quit, nothing like that happened, because they were all well-prepared.

Looks like Carter isn't long for the outside world. Up around the 4-Winds last week he asked Frank Phillips whose car is that, it belonged to Frank. The keys happened to be in the Cadillac and shortly Carter got in and drove off. A stolen car call was put out. Officer Powder Knoblock and Sgt. Bill Kruse went north, Sheriff Glen Bradley east, Manny Chavez headed west, Choncho Morales south. Choncho located the car back of The Diner, Carter has just borrowed Phillip's car to go to The Diner to eat, you might say. Carter is fresh out of the state pen this month, and was looking through bars come May 27, time of this writing.

This couldn't happen in Zozo — a woman was chatting over the back fence with her neighbor. "We're going to be living in a better neighborhood soon," she said. "So are we," her neighbor volunteered. "What? Are you moving, too?" "No we're staying here."

Della Falls brought us in a clipping from the Mena (Arkansas) Weekly Star which gave some recollections of a 100-year-old civil war veteran. Here is one paragraph, "After we got to Camp Dugdale we was fed very well at first. But after they found that we would not take the oath they select our ration and tried to starve it into us, but it never entered my mind. The nearest ever I came to starving was at Model farm at Petersburg, Va. They made no bones of asking you one dollar for four potatoes, three eggs, two slices of meat and a piece of bread."

Baking Soda Fire Extinguisher

What's the best thing to do in case of fire? "Reach for the baking soda." The versatile household chemical so necessary for cooking can also help put out small fires.

Using soda on fires involving food is desirable, since if soda has been used the food need only be rinsed off, heated again and served.

Fires fall into three classes. Class A fires occur from burning wood, textiles, or trash. Water is still a good extinguisher for such fires.

Class B fires, which occur with burning gasoline, oil, paint, fat, paraffin, etc., can be spread by the use of water, and require another extinguisher.

Class C fires, which involve those caused by electrical equipment, also require some extinguishing product besides water.

A carbon dioxide extinguisher or a dry chemical are effective on both of these types of fires.

Storing a couple of boxes of soda in a canister or old oatmeal box, labeling the container "Fire" and parking it within easy reach of the range would be a practice a safety-conscious homemaker could observe.

However, it is still a good idea to have a regulation carbon dioxide or dry chemical extinguisher located in a convenient place in the home.

Discoveries May Help Stockmen

Two recent discoveries by the U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists may be of future value to New Mexico stockmen.

Cattle lice have been eradicated on a herd basis by USDA workers at the Department's Beltsville Research Center.

Success of the new eradication method, proved over a five-year period with an experimental herd, depends on the proper timing of insecticide applications to break the life cycle of the lice.

Quarantining and treating all cattle added to the herd was also necessary. Before the study began, the herd was infested with three species of cattle lice.

The animals were thoroughly sprayed twice, 14 days apart, with malathion. Cattle to be added to the herd were isolated and given the same two-spray treatment.

The scientists reported that the method offers cattle producers a practical procedure for completely freeing their herds of these pests and keeping them free.

An experimental parasiticide thiazendazole, tested by the Ag Research Service, has proved highly effective against several parasitic worms in cattle and sheep.

In limited tests, the drug was practically 100 percent successful against five species of round worms that attack cattle and five that infest sheep. No toxic reactions occurred in any of the treated animals.

However, the county agent pointed out that the use of the chemical is still in the experimental stage.

Born in Abraham Lincoln cabin

Ivy Davenport of Hodgenville, Kentucky, almost wishes he had not been born in the Abraham Lincoln cabin there.

"How dare you be born there?" demanded one woman, her face aflame with indignation.

"Lady," said a friend of Mr. Davenport, "if wasn't his fault, his mother happened to be living in the cabin at the time."

Davenport, now 72, explained that he spent five years in the Lincoln log cabin while his parents, John and Mary Davenport, lived there for 19 years.

"Lincoln and I had other things in common," he says, "Besides being born of poor but hard-working parents, we both lost our mothers when we were 10, and we both had little formal schooling."

A maintenance man at a local elementary school, Davenport worked for 21 years in a similar position at the National Park created at the site of Lincoln's log cabin birthplace.

Davenport remembers how life was in the cabin as an infant. He slept on corn-shuck mattresses and ate meals cooked on the open fireplace. Beds were fitted into the wall on pegs, and the Davenports ate at a rough-hewn table in the 16-by-18-foot cabin.

"Abe's father bought the farm here on December 12, 1803," he points out. "He himself built his cabin, just like other frontiersmen, near a large limestone spring, and Abe was born the following February 12."

"He lived here only two years when his father lost the land thru a faulty title. A Dr. George Rodman procured the cabin in 1861 and moved it to his own farm a mile away."

Dr. Rodman owned the property until Lincoln's assassination, when he sold it to an R. W. Dennett of New York, who bought the cabin and started touring the country with it. Then in 1906 it was bought by the Lincoln Farm Association.

There was a big celebration in 1909, the 100 anniversary of the Rail-splitter's birth, when the cornerstone was laid for the present Memorial Building.

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media.

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people generally do. Not only do they read; they cut out and show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples. When people see an advertisement in print, they can compare designs... features... and prices of nationally known products and services. (And people do compare before they buy.) Advertising in print is a handy thing. You can always check back: the message is still there even if your attention is distracted. When you read it up, print advertising—the kind you read in this newspaper—makes sense. And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sense. Lincoln County News Carrizozo, New Mexico choice of color. Never let a painter tell you what color to use. The surroundings of your home should be a factor, for instance a beautiful green vegetation blends real well with many shades of yellow.

Sweet clover, again yellow or green or the sun flower. The pine tree brownish gray trunk with green needles. Or the Irish, all green.

God's creation of nature's colors never clash. Anyone painting even a house, should consider this. Last of all painting is easy today.

The roller brush for flat open surface the old fashioned brush for hard to reach corners.

The many spray paints so simple to use. To redo furniture get a good paint remover, read the directions, remove old paint or varnish then rub with denatured alcohol and let dry, then repaint. Presto, sometimes more beautiful than a factory job.

He saw the need of a first class arena in Carrizozo and after broaching the subject at the weekly Rotary Meeting and receiving unanimous backing of all members present and no real help, proceeded almost single handed to construct an arena that is rapidly gaining fame as one of the most up-to-date in the southwest; and it is the considered opinion of many professional and amateur rodeo performers alike that this is one of the best show places on the circuit, just getting started and ready to grow. We invite all of you to this three day show.
