Campbell applies brake to Motor Vehicle Dept.

SANTA FE — Gov. Jack Campbell has applied a light brake to his speeding motor vehicle department in calling for slow down to $2.6 million in the year that starts July 1.

Benny Sanchez' motor vehicle section is presently spending at the rate of $2.8 million, had asked for $3.1 million and was dropped to $2.6 by the governor.

Five years ago the department had an appropriation of $700,000.

$3,124 TO PRINT SINGLE MEASURE

The legislature has a single bill that is costing $3,124.24 to print.

It is the 392-page municipal code that was put in by a committee that has been several years at work and still might be seriously short of completing its work.

One thousand copies of the bill were ordered from the senate bill printer at the contract price of $7.97 a page.

The Vergara Press of Santa Fe, house printer, and Hugh Bishop of Portales, senate bill printer, will split about $40,000 for printing the 1965 bills.

IT WAS A BAD DAY FOR NEW MEXICANS

The New Mexico contingent barely got back from the inaugural. Homer Glover's airplane was damaged while being towed on a Washington field; Dr. Joe Maldonado suffered a face injury in a taxi accident; Jack Hopkins came down with ulcers at an inaugural ball; Dessie Sawyer was robbed of hundreds of dollars worth of finery.

LEO MURPHY FIRES SCHOOL CANDIDATE

Serving on a school board is no violation of the state personnel law but it is against the rule in Leo Murphy's welfare department.

Murphy last week fired John Lochr, $360-a-month child welfare worker, when he refused Murphy's order to get of the East Las Vegas school board race.

Murphy said he had a rule against employees running for anything.

Lochr and some of his friends believe that he was fired because he was running against a candidate by the San Miguel Democratic political organization.

There was a law suit several years ago concerning Rebecca Baca, a corporation committee employee and a member of the Bernalillo Municipal school board in which it was established that school board service does not conflict with the personnel law.

ROY BOOHER SHOOTS SELF THROUGH THROAT

Roy Booher 14, of Fort Stanton is reported in critical condition in the Ruidoso hospital where he was rushed Saturday night, suffering a gunshot wound in the throat.

Roy and his brother Olin 15, were playing with a .22 caliber pistol, when the gun discharged sending the bullet through Roy's throat.

NO CONTEST AT CARRIZOZO

With all school district filing deadlines past the lists of candidates are complete for voting February two.

As reported in the News last week Capitan school district had two candidates for the school board, John R. Schuster, Director of Sierra Blanca Boys Camp, and Robert L. Gates, manager of G Bar F Ranch. Three have been added to the ballot since that time.

Joseph F. Escobedo, a long-time resident of Lincoln County who is employed at Fort Stanton as supervisor of supplies. Mr. and Mrs. Escobedo have three children in school at Capitan and a daughter attending the University at Albuquerque.

George F. McBride, a local contractor and long-time resident of Capitan. Mr. and Mrs. McBride have three children in school at Capitan.

Louise Coe Runnels, a life-long resident from Bonito. Mrs. Runnels previously taught school in Lincoln County for five years and has served as county assessor. She resides at Bonito. Mr. and Mrs. Runnels have two children in school, and

MUST ADVERTISE BUT NO MONEY

The law says that constitutional amendments, bond issues and referendum proposals must be advertised in every county but doesn't say anything about appropriating the money for the advertising.

These are the conditions which led to a current situation in which 31 newspapers are holding the bag for $86,807 of state advertising for which there is only $13,000.

In all probability the bills will be paid with a deficiency appropriation from the present legislature but there is no absolute surety that the legislators will be as generous and then the papers would be in a jam.

A BAD GUESS BY OFFICIALS

Secretary of State Alberta Miller was supposed to estimate the amount needed for election advertising and to inform the legislature accordingly.

She guessed $13,000 instead of the actual $86,000 and thus the jam.

Mrs. Miller said she didn't know there would be ten constitutional amendments, an $8 million bond issue and a referendum on the pro-primary convention law and thus the bad guess.

When taxpayers are late remitting they are charged one half of one per cent a month.

The state's advertising bill have been due since Nov. 1 and it could be next summer before they are paid which could involve quite a cum if that penalty assessment operated in both directions.

BARBER SCHOOL AT LONG LAST

The state is finally going to have a barber school after 30 years of a law that made it practically impossible to operate such a training program.

The old law had extremely prohibitive terms that were obviously intended to operate against new people coming into the trade.

The new school, to start around mid-year, will be under the federal Manpower Training Program and will be conducted at El Rito state school in Rio Arriba county.

Announcement of the barber program followed some outraged complaints about using the sap citizen money for a free cosmetology school when there were all ready 20 private schools in the state, each paying $500 a year license. And while there were 3900 licensed cosmetologists in the state and only 700 of them working.

GOSPEL SINGING LAST SUNDAY IN JANUARY

Pearl fractures Phoebe's fender

A citation for failure to yield right of way was issued to Mrs. Pearl Soderback of Capitan Wednesday by Darrell Austin, when her 1963 Chevrolet was involved in a two-car collision at the intersection of U S 380 and White Oaks Ave. in Capitan.

Austin stated that Mrs. Soderback had stopped at the stop sign but failed to see an oncoming 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Miss Phoebe May Taylor of Lincoln. The 1963 car proceeded north from the sign and struck the other vehicle in the right side.

Bills sponsored jointly and separately by Rep. W. G. Shreengost of Lincoln County and Rep. Larry Goodell of Chavez County were put in the legislative mill Monday. Goodell and Shreengost sponsored House Bill 29 which would require the board of the Fort Stanton hospital to allow persons suffering from pulmonary diseases other than tuberculosis to be admitted to the hospital. Such admission would be only upon the request of a physician and also upon presentation of evidence that they were unable to pay for services from a regular hospital. The bill was referred to the Public Affairs committee.

Rep. Shreengost introduced House Bill 41 which would provide for special license plates for officers and noncommissioned officers of the N. M. National Guard. Rep. Goodell introduced House Bill 33 to remove the limitation on the employer's share of insurance premiums.

With Rep. Bobby Mayfield of Dona Ana County and John J. Mershon, Shreengost sponsored House Bills 58 through 66 of the Legislative and Finance Committee.

Rep. Shreengost reported to the News Monday that included in Gov. Jack Campbell's General Fund budget in the next fiscal year was $24,100 recommendation for capital improvements for the Valley of Fire State Park. Included will be 20 shelters, six pit toilets, water system, landscaping, signs, playground equipment, group shelter.

Shreengost said he had been reappointed as vice chairman of rules committee on the appropriation and finance committee, and is a member of the natural resources committee.

As the weather changes from mild to misty and cold, the Johnstones at Parson's Hotel are open for business and are planning for more and more business come summer. They serve delicious steaks by a friendly fireplace.

A little item in the delightful book "Dear Doctor" by Juliet Lowell points up some of the hazards of first aid training.

The book, consisting of unusual letters written to members of the medical profession, includes the following: "Dear Doctor: I think our earnest young women should be stopped from giving first aid. They were practicing on a friend of mine the other night. They bandaged him, lifted him up, fumbled and dropped him.

"The fall broke his leg. They placed him on a stretcher, got an ambulance, slid him in but not quite far enough. They slammed the door which hit the patient's head and gave him a concussion.

"A little more training and they can be turned loose against the enemy."

Date palm gardens explain the age

Qatif, Saudi Arabia — This ancient Arab town along the Persian waters is akin to the old town of Hofuf, on the desert. Both date to the Stone Age. The Western traveler is rarely seen in either.

Hofuf is the oldest continuously inhabited town in the world. Qatif probably is also, but not yet authenticated that I know of. The two are separated by a 40-kilometer stretch of very rugged desert, yet the two have always been thought of in relation to each other.

My visit to Qatif revealed atmospheres depicting periods since before the Bible days. Man-made landscapes also exist, which are reminders of these many ages. They seem to hang on with a great deal of stubbornness.

Date palm gardens, in the photograph, explain the age of the oasis. The large clusters of fruit trees hanging from these old trees spell life for the Arab, while the fish of the adjoining placid Persian Gulf waters add variety of color to the menu. This pattern of a meal is as common today as it was in the days when the Queen of Sheba came up the coast line, to visit Solomon. Most of it is still consumed in the Arabian fashion—barehanded.

Modern schools, hospitals, shops (shops), two storied homes, all intermingle rather compactly with the ancient landmarks. The modernistic development which is so outstandingly obvious, is made possible by the huge Arabian American Oil Company, whose refinery at Ras Tanura affords work for hundreds of the Arabs who before had a lank gut, even for centuries before the oil revenues took up the slack and put flesh in the loose skin.

The Arabs in this section of the Peninsula never had it so good; yet they show little concern about the cause. History, they care nothing about; as a heritage. The Islam, and work consumes all their time. These people, in their everyday activity, trample over one of the richest archeologist background of any race of people that ever existed. It spells nothing to them, obviously.

At the head of the Persian waters is located Mesopotamia, ancient capital of the rich Tigris and Euphrates River valleys, where civilization began. On the Persian waters man is said to have made the first venture to sea. Qatif was in his path, not a great distance from Mesopotamia. Sections of Qatif today appear as though they might have existed during this period.

Archeologists, if allowed in Saudi Arabia, would have a ball in Qatif, and the surroundings. Old Portuguese fort ruins remain in the center of the village. These ruins are 500 years old. Other strongholds of pirates who one controlled the Persian Gulf waters are to be seen, it is commonly mentioned that these sea robbers were active as late as 1942.

Not far off shore is Tarut Island, which was once a Christian settlement. It remained under the sign of the cross for more than 400 years. In Prophet Mohammed's time, 7th century, it was subdued, but not wholly converted to the Moslem way. After the death of the Prophet, Christianity was firmly eradicated, and the last influence of the Christian era disappeared from Saudi Arabia, in favor of the Moslems. At six o'clock in the morning the hollowing call to prayer can be heard from the Mosque — every day of the week. A Moslem never sleeps in.

Tarut was famous for many years for its beautiful women, its rich pearls, and violent pirates. In the surrounding waters have been found the most cherished pearls in the world, and had the greatest market

Arabian Peninsula is much of a closed book, other than a few notes which have appeared in the Biblical narratives, and such literature. What research has been scraped together never agrees; one note is always different from the other—the same in the spelling of Arabic names.

During the short winter months a most wonderful climate exists around Qatif, and all up and down the Persian coastline. I am certainly enjoying it since the summer in the baked deserts. Qatif is just across the bay from my location. In the summer the temperature reaches a high point, and with a high humidity, one almost stew in his own juice. The waters of the Persian Gulf are beautiful, but full of sharks. The oil company built a swimming pool, in order that people prone to swim would be safe from the attacks of this ferocious sea animal. The waters afford the best fishing in the Middle East.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT IS . . . Should the Saudi Government relax its restrictions, this part of the Persian Gulf would be one of the greatest tourist centers in the world; and a money mint for the financiers who follow such enterprises. Not a speck of tourism exists in Saudi Arabia today.

The January meeting of the El Capitan 4-H Club was called to order by Jane Dean, president with 14 members present. Hub Traylor led the pledge.

We discussed plans to help the Capitan Woman's Club with the spring Community clean-up. All members were in favor of it. We voted for Jane Dean for January member of the month and Zana Hall for February member of the month. To do this each member got up and told of the things that had been done in 4-H. We voted to decide who should have this honor.

Mr. Dunlap gave a very interesting talk on his trip to National 4-H Club Congress. He showed slides and items that were on display at the Congress.

Two new members joined, Glennoa Moore and Jan Handle. We were glad to have Mrs. Sid Goodloe, Mrs. Claude Walker, Mr. Dean Boyd and our leaders Mrs. Marie Walker and Mrs. Ray Province.

Lot's of work on new development

It gladdens my heart to see the work being done in our subdivision. Culverts have been put in and there is lots of work going on. Roads being made to all of the plots. It is so encouraging. I want so much to see it grow and develop. It would be a great dream realized to me. I do want our town to grow and have lots of new people.

We have been having some terrific cold west winds. It snowed a little last night but did not last. But, it is the kind of weather we need now.

Dixie Sparks left Wednesday January 20, on a business and pleasure trip to Phoenix, Ariz. and expects to return Monday. Eltha Merrell is taking care of her duties at the Ft. Stanton Post Office during her absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Hyde and two children of Great Falls, Montana arrived Tuesday to spend several days with his Aunt Mrs. Ethel Keathley who is still at the Roswell Medical Center. They stayed here to her home and made several business trips. It was good to see you again. We certainly are very proud of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw left Friday noon for Portales, New Mexico where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shultz. Diane will join them at the Eastern School of Instruction of which her mother is the instructor Saturday they plan to go to Leveland, Texas to visit Jack's mother and have lunch with her. Then back to Portales where they will remain until they return home Sunday Diane went with them to Texas, too.

The Roundtable Club was held at the home of Mary Dean with 11 members present besides the hostess Lorene Ferguson. Marie Edgar, Corrine Provine, Beatie Jones, Ethel Howard, Grace Murphy, Frances Shaw, Angelina Provine, Pauline Britton, Geneva Walker and special guests, Mrs. Robert Dean, Kathy Dean Grant, Marjorie Eldridge and Betay. Mrs. Wayne Hobbs and Mrs. Fletcher Hall.

Beef Casserole was the main course, with all kinds of other delicious food to go with it.

Place favors were made of colorful plastic chore girls.

After luncheon the meeting was called to order by the president Beatie Jones assisted by Grace Murphy, secretary-treasurer.

Theaffle was won by Pauline Britton. They sang Happy Anniversary to Beatie Jones who's anniversary was January third.

The Rosebuds exchanged gifts. The meeting was then turned over to the program chairman, Ethel Howard. It was a game — to find out who could make the most words out of "March of Dimes" Marie Edgar won.

The meeting was adjourned to meet at the home of Pauline Britton in February.

Miles Williams went to Albuquerque Thursday and returned home Friday evening bringing his daughter Carol Ann home during semester break from college.

Thomas Howard Jr., son of

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Howard of Albuquerque was married Saturday evening. His uncle, Mr. and Mrs. James Howard of Capitan attended the wedding.

There has been lots of chicken pox. One of which is Kenny Cummins. He stayed in and is doing O.K. His two brothers are wondering who is going to be next. Get well fast, Kenny.

C. Peralta was injured during basketball practice. A freak accident. He slipped and skinned his leg on the rack where the balls are held and had to have 12 stitches taken. He spent the night in the Carrizozo hospital, but Thursday he was back in school, O.K.

Miles Williams Standard Station installed a new bright red gasoline pump this last week. It serves two cars at a time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Germany and family moved into their new home. It can be remembered as the Larmarie home. McDonough was the last owner. We wish you many years of happiness there in.

Mr. McDonough moved into an apartment at the Smokey Bear Motel to make his home.

The Smokey Bear addition was a bedroom. The outside has been finished and is painted to match the building. Neon lights are on the south gables. It looks nice.

Buddle Williams accompanied by a friend, Lynn Faulkner, of Amarillo, Texas, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Williams and family and Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson.

Mrs. Lewin Cummins accompanied by Mrs. Mayme Grefsen, visited her mother, Mrs. Ada Sellers Saturday, and found her doing O.K.

Several people from Capitan are going to attend the Nazarene mid-year convention starting Monday night through Wednesday in Roswell.

Garth Hyde preached the Sunday night services at the Nazarene Church here. He is an excellent preacher and we certainly are proud of him.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewin Cummins visited the Martin ranch Sunday. It was the former Cummins then Fritz ranch, long ago. They report the old house had been moved away. That a new home of red wood and glass is being built and it is very beautiful, and in such a beautiful setting.

I attended an Avon sales meeting at Ruidoso Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Halleck Kingston of Tulareca spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Kingston.

Bonito Water

By Louise Coe Runnels

As the weather changes from mild to misty and cold, the Johnstones at Parson's Hotel are open for business and are planning for more and more business come summer. They serve delicious steaks by a friendly fireplace.

The road around Bonito Lake is going to be really great for natives and tourists this summer. The work now sorta slows down travel, but the road is open most all hours of the day and is open all night.

At Bear Canyon for a chill, feed on a mild day Saturday were: Mr. and Mrs. Snuffy Smith from Hobbs, New Mexico, who made the chili; Kermit English from Odessa, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Tot Etcheverry and sons from Carlsbad, N. M. Buddy (LBJ) Johnson from Carlsbad, and Henry Etz and Arvel Runnels from Bonito City.

Spending the week end in Silver City, N. M. were: Mrs. Lula Runnels, Louise Coe Runnels, and Marylon. They visited Joe and Bonnie Coe and sons Terry and Dannie; also, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Hayes and two little daughters at Fort Bayard, one of Lula Runnels friends of years ago, Mrs. Cora (Copeland) Kemmick in Hurly, N. M. and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Young in Silver City. The Youngs are the parents of Jo Nell Darling who lives in Capitan. While visiting with the Coes, Lee Bonnell, also from the 'Coe tree', came in to see us. Lee was raised at Glencoe, N. M. He now, and has for years, works for the Kennecott Copper Co. at the 'pit' as an engineer.

Henry Etz who has been a Bonito City resident for the past 6 months left Monday for Los Angeles, Calif. on business.

Alto Country

By Allene Lindamood

Tuesday Mrs. Robert Williams and Mrs. Arvil Runnels spent the day in Corona.

Sam Allen and Marvin Jones made a business trip to Lordsburg Monday.

Mmes. Neal Chapman and Lawrence Peebles went to Roswell last Tuesday for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim McEuen were in Weed, New Mexico over the weekend visiting her sister and family the Noel Akers.

Saturday Mrs. George Dingwall and Mrs. Conrad Nugent were here from Carrizozo.

The past weekend John Von Rozenberg and Eldon Jones were here from Albuquerque doing some work on the Von Rozenberg house in Gavilan Canyon.

From Wednesday on of the past week we've had every type of weather in the book in the community. We had very wet snow Wednesday — with no accumulation at the lower altitudes. Come Saturday we had terrific wind all day. Sunday was lovely and clear but by mid afternoon the wind was at it again. Seems strange to have "spring winds" in January.

Saint Pat

By Lois R. Chavez

Mr. and Mrs. J. Encinas have moved to Ruidoso from San Patricio. Mr. Encinas has been employed at Ft. Stanton hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hurd were invited by President Johnson to attend the inauguration and are now in Washington D.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Quizar have returned to Wilmington, Calif. after a weeks vacation here in San Patricio. Mrs. Quizar is the former Adelita Chavez born and raised in San Patricio and Bill comes from the Philippine Islands and loves New Mexico.

Mrs. Max Sanchez is visiting her daughter in St. Louis, Missouri for the past two weeks.

Robert and Rosalie Gutierrez have left Newman, New Mexico where Robert was employed on a road construction. Also Babe and Raynald Gutierrez and son.

A little item in the delightful book "Dear Doctor" by Juliet Lowell points up some of the hazards of first aid training.

The book, consisting of unusual letters written to members of the medical profession, includes the following: "Dear Doctor: I think our earnest young women should be stopped from giving first aid. They were practicing on a friend of mine the other night. They bandaged him, lifted him up, fumbled and dropped him.

"The fall broke his leg. They placed him on a stretcher, got an ambulance, slid him in but not quite far enough. They slammed the door which hit the patient's head and gave him a concussion.

"A little more training and they can be turned loose against the enemy."

Date palm gardens explain the age

Qatif, Saudi Arabia — This ancient Arab town along the Persian waters is akin to the old town of Hofuf, on the desert. Both date to the Stone Age. The Western traveler is rarely seen in either.

Hofuf is the oldest continuously inhabited town in the world. Qatif probably is also, but not yet authenticated that I know of. The two are separated by a 40-kilometer stretch of very rugged desert, yet the two have always been thought of in relation to each other.

My visit to Qatif revealed atmospheres depicting periods since before the Bible days. Man-made landscapes also exist, which are remindful of these many ages. They seem to hang on with a great deal of stubbornness.

Date palm gardens, in the photograph, explain the age of the oasis. The large clusters of fruit seen hanging from these old trees spell life for the Arab, while the fish of the adjoining placid Persian Gulf waters add variety of color to the menu. This pattern of a meal is as common today as it was in the days when the Queen of Sheba came up the coast line, to visit Solomon. Most of it is still consumed in the Arabian fashion—barehanded.

Modern schools, hospitals, shops (shops), two storied homes, all intermingle rather compactly with the ancient landmarks. The modernistic development which is so outstandingly obvious, is made possible by the huge Arabian American Oil Company, whose refinery at Ras Tanura affords work for hundreds of the Arabs who before had a lank gut, even for centuries before the oil revenues took up the slack and put flesh in the lean skin.

The Arabs in this section of the Peninsula never had it so good; yet they show little concern about the cause. History, they care nothing about, as a heritage. The Islam, and work consumes all their time. These people, in their everyday activity, trample over one of the richest archeologist background of any race of people that ever existed. It spells nothing to them, obviously.

At the head of the Persian waters is located Mesopotamia, ancient capital of the rich Tigris and Euphrates River valleys, where civilization began. On the Persian waters man is said to have made the first venture to sea. Qatif was in his path, not a great distance from Mesopotamia. Sections of Qatif today appear as though they might have existed during this period.

Archeologists, if allowed in Saudi Arabia, would have a ball in Qatif, and the surroundings. Old Portuguese fort ruins remain in the center of the village. These ruins are 500 years old. Other strongholds of pirates who once controlled the Persian Gulf waters are to be seen. It is commonly mentioned that these sea robbers were active as late as 1942.

Not far off shore is Tarut Island, which was once a Christian settlement. It remained under the sign of the cross for more than 400 years. In Prophet Mohammed's time, 7th century, it was subdued, but not wholly converted to the Moslem way. After the death of the Prophet, Christianity was firmly eradicated, and the last influence of the Christian era disappeared from Saudi Arabia, in favor of the Moslems. At six o'clock in the morning the bellowing call to prayer can be heard from the Mosque — every day of the week. A Moslem never sleeps in.

Tarut was famous for many years for its beautiful women, its rich pearls, and violent pirates. In the surrounding waters have been found the most cherished pearls in the world, and had the greatest market value until the Japan culture landed the ancient occupation on the rocks. Today only a few dhow ply the waters with seekers of the pearls, and the divers reap very puny wages.

Until the appearance of the oil people in the recent years, date palm orchards like the photograph, were owned solely by the upper class, pearling merchants, traders, the amirs (governors), and the pirates. The lowly bedouin of the surrounding deserts, even though classified as the Kingdom's country gentleman, considered himself fortunate if he owned a tree. In many instances two or more people were partners in a single plant. A tree produces about one hundred pounds of fruit a year.

Near Qatif is the ruins of an ancient city, the name of which is not known. No information exists, none has been offered. A pipeline contractor who dug into the ruins a few months back, discovered piles of ancient coins, an underground-pulcher, made of stone in private-room-fashion, with muffled remains of an ancient people, along with much of the stuff which drives archeologists and anthropologists distracted.

The King decreed that the soil be returned to cover the ruins, and it was left unexplored. The pipeline was rerouted, and the area left intact. There it rests today, shrouded in the same mystery as before, and in a state of preservation. It would certainly make a valuable study for the savant of such fields.

This site is like many others in Saudi Arabia. It will remain untouched until government relations soften, to allow ambitious people to dig. The government permits no artifacts to leave the Kingdom. It allows no digging or exploratory for such items. Because of these decrees, the history of mankind on the Arabian Peninsula is much of a closed book, other than a few notes which have appeared in the Biblical narratives, and such literature. What research has been scraped together never agrees; one note is always different from the other—the same in the spelling of Arabic names.

During the short winter months a most wonderful climate exists around Qatif, and all up and down the Persian coastline. I am certainly enjoying it since the summer in the baked deserts, Qatif is just across the bay from my location. In the summer the temperature reaches a high point, and with a high humidity, one almost stew in his own juice. The waters of the Persian Gulf are beautiful, but full of sharks. The oil company built a swimming pool, in order that people prone to swim would be safe from the attacks of this ferocious sea animal. The waters afford the best fishing in the Middle East.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT IS . . . Should the Saudi Government relax its restrictions, this part of the Persian Gulf would be one of the greatest tourist centers in the world; and a money mint for the financiers who allow such enterprises. Not a speck of tourism exists in Saudi Arabia today.

Kit studies world's most mysterious and little-known female, the Arab

Udhallyah, Saudi Arabia — A view of this Kingdom's strange appearing, black-robed bed and heavily-veiled women during a passage through the bustling streets of Saudi Arabia's al-Kobar, birthed a study of the world's most mysterious and little-known female, an Arab's woman!

In the Kingdom, I have noted that she is commonly referred to, and as seldom as conveniently possible, as "madam," or harem member. That when the word "madam" is mentioned an Arab seems to acquire a facial gleam something like one might develop when he anticipates an accommodation from a bootlegger in a dry territory.

Al-Kobar is the brand new shopping center that the American oil people have built along the western shores of the Persian Gulf, all within the last quarter century. Tourists would certainly give their eye teeth to prowl the streets. It was in these bustling thoroughfares that I watched the Arab women shopping the same stalls as the American woman. These women in the crowded street scenes produced one of the strangest human contrasts in the whole wide world, I'm sure.

Studying the Arab woman, I learned this; also that the background was even more startling than that which met the eye.

Both sexes of children of an Arab family mingle rather freely until about ten years of age. Then the boys join the men folk, and the girls are arrayed in an overlying black robe, loosely and ungainly covering them from one end to the other, and there she stays until she dies. The female youth is in the offering of her mother, and takes her only instructions from her. She is not allowed in the company of male people. A mixing of the sexes is absolutely taboo. Should the children become lonesome for playmates, and the family by chance is well off, a little girl servant is engaged to play with the youth. Otherwise the girl clings to her mother's long black robe throughout the day, such as I have seen many times along the isolated regions inhabited by the nomadic camel and goat herders. The small girl accompanies her mother each day, clad in an identical black robe as the mother. They together tend the herds. The child is taught the words of the Koran, and that is about all in the way of book learning the child receives.

Should an Arab inquire of your family, he will certainly never question if you have a little girl — it's always do you have a "little boy." The Arab woman is something to be mentioned and thought about only upon a certain urge. Yet the people are very jealous of their women! Just try making a snapshot of one!

When the girl approaches the marriage age, the parents select a husband for her, with first cousins being in preference. The prospective husband normally enters into a bargaining with the girl's father, and if a price is agreed upon, a marriage is arranged.

I heard this account as it was told by an Arab of his marriage, and how his wife was selected. He paid 5,000 Saudi riyals for her. A riyal is worth in American exchange $0.222. As a celebration of the event, for two days the men folks danced and cavorted around, while his wife-to-be remained secluded in a nearby room, all alone, awaiting the ceremony to end and the time when they would view each other for the first time. He told how the old women of the gathering hovered and lingered around for two or three days after the couple had met and accepted each other, and approached the marriage bed. He said had the girl proven not to be a virgin, she would have been severely beaten by the elderly women!

About the only chance an Arab girl has of seeing her prospective husband is a glimpse of him through some lattice balcony, or tent covering, usually while the bartering for her is in progress. The rigid system which prohibits the young people from mixed sex groups is still in full practice today. Girls as young as five or six years old, however, have been known to be sold to husbands, to become harem members.

Arab households are traditionally large, and usually include the husband, from one to four wives—the number allowed by the teachings of Mohammad in the Koran—their children, and a collection of aunts, uncles, sisters, cousins, servants, and slaves, all conglomered in one great big huddle.

The sexes, mind you, are separated on different floors, or in different parts of the house. Should the family be wealthy enough, each harem member has private quarters of her own.

Should the members of a harem get along well together, they may all join the husband in an evening of entertainment. The wife with whom the husband is to spend the night acts as hostess, and serves the dinner. Immediately after the meal the other wives are expected to take a departure, and leave the couple alone.

The husband is expected to spend his time equally with each of his wives.

In the poorer households the wife cooks and serves the meals, tends the flocks of camels and long-haired black goats, weaving the goat hair into cloth throughout the daily tasks. She hustles up the family water supply, gathers the camel dung for fuel—all this, and every move except that of the most personal intimacy with her husband, under the cover of the huge, loose-fitting black robe and veil, with only two small peep holes from which she views what little dab of the world that passes her way.

In the black tent, the woman's quarters are traditionally located at the western end of the tent, which is oriented to catch the prevailing breeze in hot weather and to get the maximum shelter from sand dunes or other discomforts of the desert. However, in the locality of this dateline, I have seen this tradition a few times contradicted. The desert sand is the floor of the quarters. Hunting dogs are allowed to remain with the harem member, but the watch dogs are kept outside. The tents are large and are necessarily moved every week or two, due to sanitary reasons. The fact that the people live in these tents does not especially imply that they are of the lower class of Saudi Arabia. The lower class is normally found in the allies of the larger centers. The bedouin tent dwellers might be rated as the Kingdom's country gentleman, and are viewed with an eye as prominent.

The women are the cooks except for the coffee making, and better described generally as a "beast of burden," comparably to the lowly donkey. Probably not ranking as high as the camel. About two thirds of the Arab women bake bread only once or twice in a lifetime. The general diet is camel's milk, and rice. Of course the date.

It has been correctly stated that the status of the "Arabian woman will not change over night." However, with the American oilfield developer and a constant reminder of modernistic American customs in the Peninsula brought on by the oil development, a change is likely to occur sometime during the next several generations. The Arab's woman has a daily reminder of the better things of life, and may eventually hustle up an escape from her bondage.

It has been told that recently an American woman was attending a social gathering of the Arabian women, in the higher diplomatic circles. The group was watching a motion picture, which in the last few years, has gained much prominence in Saudi Arabia. The show was long, and lasted well into the evening, about eleven o'clock. The telephone rang. It was a call from the husband of four of the "plump, beautiful little Arabian women," who were enjoying the picture. He requested that one of his wives be sent home immediately.

Four of the blackrobes arose, and, after asking permission to return the following evening to learn the outcome of the show, filled out the front door, to meet the demands of the husband!

Such is the life of an Arab's woman!

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT IS . . . A glimpse at this sort of stuff certainly causes one to be proud of the Great American Woman, and the place she has gained in the world!

The Bureau of Land Management, Las Cruces, New Mexico, has awarded a contract to Troitz Construction Co., Albuquerque, New Mexico, J. W. Young, District Manager announces.

The work consists of construction of wire check dams 15 miles northwest of Carrizozo, New Mexico.

Construction of wire check dams is one of the methods of combating soil erosion on rangelands. They are adapted for use in shallow drainages to prevent the rapid run-off of soil laden water and allow the silt to settle out.

damage that occurs each year to orchards.

H. L. Jacobson, chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau in Albuquerque, said the State Department of Development has begun a study to determine the need for a weather network.

"I am convinced that the weather bureau has the capability of giving much better service, particularly to agriculture, but it is stymied by lack of communication facilities," Jacobson said.

"At the present time, we can do little more than issue a general forecast for the state or a portion of the state, often all too briefly covering a multitude of weather and temperature conditions themselves dependent on the terrain and elevation of the terrain."

"We need to know specifically the prevailing conditions of any given area for which we are to forecast in order to prepare a clear and accurate projection of conditions into the future, and we need to be able to deliver promptly and clearly forecasts and warnings to the user."

Jacobson told the fruit growers the best method of protecting trees against frost when it occurs is through the use of oil burners. These circulate the air up from the burners, down through the trees, and back to ward the burners in such a way as to counteract the very cold air near the surface and to mix the cold air with the warmer air over the orchard.

"A page for independent thought"

A parallel with a great man

During this week of mourning over the passing of a truly great man, Sir Winston Churchill, there comes the feeling that his example can provide strength where vitality needed in this nation, particularly in the State of New Mexico, and in Lincoln County.

This great man did not mind being in the minority when he thought he was right, which happened frequently in his life. Being a member of the minority political party in New Mexico has its trials and tribulations. Being a believer in "state's rights" puts many people in the minority class in the United States.

If you want to get along with your school friends you should go along with an increased budget each year. If you have any friends in the liquor industry you shouldn't fight the set price of booze. If your friends are among those in the Forest Service, the Bureau of Land, the Highway Department, etc., with most of them you go along or the friendship ceases.

The task is even more difficult to remain on many committees or retain a political appointment if you become vocal in opposition to policies you think detrimental to the welfare of your people.

Let the pioneers of this great country be a collective example and take Sir Winston Churchill as an individual example for accomplishment that has helped right more wrongs in this world, and provided more progress than could ever be accomplished by people who "went along" just to be with the majority.

We need people who will stand up and be counted when the going is tough, when you have to stand alone as a member of the minority. If this nation is to endure as a free society the need for a strong two-party system will always be with us — in greater proportion as the majority becomes stronger and the minority weaker.

The hours of darkness cannot be much blacker than the day when Hitler had the world in his iron grip and Churchill stood by his belief that right would prevail through courage. Freedom has its dark hours now, even in the small confines of Lincoln County — with more clouds to cover us before the sun breaks through.

We can, and should, do what we as individuals think is right, regardless of political party. The majority must rule in our democracy — but not without strong help from the minority because only decadence results when no opposition exists.

Take strength from Sir Winston Churchill while his memory is still fresh in your mind.

To centralize power, or not

On Monday of this week legislation was introduced in Santa Fe, generally known as the "Hospital Board Act" which would, in short, wipe out existing boards now directing the work of the several hospitals in the state. In place of these boards there would be installed a super board of five people to run, the entire works.

Background information is necessary as follows. The 1963 session of the legislature passed what is known as Senate Bill 59, it became law. This legislation has as its objective the closer cooperation among institutions. Quote, "The legislature urges that groups representing all the institutions undertake studies in the areas of institutional programs, services and future requirements with a view toward offering sound advice to the legislature. The chief of the budget division of the department of finance and administration is directed to report to the legislature during each of its sessions on institutional cooperation and coordination to the end that the legislature shall be regularly informed as to whether its intent is being implemented."

The new legislation mentioned in the first paragraph comes out of the Legislative Finance Committee which is looking for financial savings. It is much akin to the school consolidation matters. School consolidation in some areas could save money — at the same time local boards and control are sacrificed. Having one hospital board might, though we doubt, mean a saving of money to the state; at the same time control of state hospitals would be taken from the hands of many and put in the hands of a few.

A good question at this time is this, "Has the period of time since the last regular session of legislature been sufficient in length to allow the law (Senate Bill 59) to be proven workable or not?" We'd say, "No," sufficient time has not elapsed by several years.

If Lincoln Countians are interested in the welfare of the state operated hospital at Fort Stanton, and others in the state, they could possibly feel as we do and be opposed to the Hospital Board Act. You should know that our county representative is a member of the Legislative Finance Committee and has his name on the Hospital Board Act as sponsor by virtue of being a member of the committee. His help can not be counted on in this instance, maybe it won't be needed because the Act may never get out of committee. But, if you have legislative contacts outside of Lincoln County, and feel it worth the effort, there can be no harm in your expressing your opinion to them . . . or anyone else.

In short, do you want more centralized control or less in state government?

Editorial views welcome from readers!

Would you like to try your hand at editorializing?

Everyone who reads editorials likes to dispute, or agree with, the editor. The reason is simple: to argue is human.

In line with this thinking, The Lincoln County News is offering an opportunity to provide the conclusion to an editorial.

Editorials are often mere statement of fact and then the editor's conclusion. There follows a short editorial stating facts about right-to-work in the State of New Mex. Readers are asked to provide a conclusion and mail that conclusion to the News. They will be printed at a later date and away we go —

In a joint statement released January 20 the New Mexico

Congressional delegation urges repeal of Section 14(B) of the Taft-Hartley Act. "We are unalterably opposed to the so-called 'right-to-work' law. We oppose such legislation in New Mexico and we will vote in the Congress to repeal Section 14 (B) of the Taft-Hartley Act which made these disruptive laws possible in individual states."

Agreements negotiated by some union and management representatives compel workers regardless of their wishes - to pay union initiation fees, dues and assessments. They must join and pay union dues under penalty of discharge. This is compulsory unionism. Section 14(B) gives states the right to outlaw compulsory unionism.

Should a man have the right to make up his own mind about whether he wants to belong to a particular union? (You take it from here).

The influence of television is everywhere. No matter how we disguise leftovers at meals, our grandchildren call them "re-runs."

Paul and Eleanor spent the better part of four days with other publishers and printers in Las Cruces the past weekend and certainly enjoyed the shop talk, most of the speeches, and the business that went along with such a press convention.

The New Mexico Press Association board of directors met Friday morning for business. Good part of this time taken up with defense of Will Harrison's case coming to court this spring. The Association is involved because if Harrison is convicted other reporters will be in the same spot in time to come. Legal fees of close to $4,000 are being paid by the Association.

We always come home with some good ideas about things that can be done to improve our newspaper . . . we never get all our visiting done. Some guys we haven't seen for a year and would like to talk to, we just get in a quick "howdy" and that's all.

Put about 300 newspaper people and others from all the allied services through an hour-long cocktail party where the booze is free and what you have is not a group ready to listen to serious speaking. Orville Priately, publisher of the Las Cruces Sun-News, (on the dry side) who did most of the program planning was ready with a speaker Friday night. Name of Dwight A. Nesmith, a professor from Kansas State University, this guy laid them in the aisles with scientific satire and not a serious word throughout his speech. Crowd thought he was the best they'd ever heard.

We like trips, but in between jaunts around the country some work has to be done and a newspaper put in the mail each week, with much of the writing, advertising and other details done by this writer. In June the National Editorial Association holds its 85th summer convention in Dallas, this morning a registration card arrived for a Foreign Policy Conference put on by the Department of State in Dallas February 27. In late June the New Mexico Press Association will have its summer meeting in Santa Fe, the TB Hospital Board meets every month which takes a weekend, and in between the work and the trips there ought to be at least two fishing trips and some excursions around Lincoln County — which after all this other traveling, is the most fascinating place to see and be.

Found a one time bridge partner, Florence Flak, at the desk in the Palma Motel at Las Cruces. Florence sends greetings to Minnie Lee Neill and other friends in Carrizozo. Says she will be up this way some day.

A nice chunk of money is up for grabs at Eastern New Mexico February 13 during their annual talent day, 99 scholarships worth $11,880 will be given.

The most interesting part of the Press meeting at Las Cruces, outside of convention business was a trip to the Lunar Excursion Module (LEM) test area east of Las Cruces, just to the translunar orbit. Two of the astronauts will land on the moon, while the third orbits in the CM, then the two come back from the moon in the LEM and transfer to the CSM and head for home — the earth.

What is happening at the test area is the installation of millions of dollars worth of test equipment. As fantastic a set of wiring and plumbing as one ever expects to see. Look at the controls on your kitchen stove, multiply those by a million, plus some, and you have a faint idea of the set up.

Hubert Walker, a representative of the Intertype Company, now living in Buena Park, Calif., but moving to Phoenix shortly, was a News visitor last week. Hubert married Betty Hammett, formerly of Capitán. They have three children, Brenda 9, Debbie 11, and Loyce 6. He used to work at the News when Les Kinnard was publisher.

This thought occurs with learning that the mill east of Capitán may be reactivated—the Apollo Project needs thousands of miles of copper, maybe Lincoln County minerals will be needed.

The News editor claims no kin to Sir Winston Churchill even though our middle name happens to be Winston — we went by the handle of "Wienie" all through our prep school days and still hear that name on visits back to Kansas.

We contemplate no price raises around the News this year, but, "Contrary to all expectations, the Administration may ask Congress to raise second class postal rates again in 1965" so we suggest you keep your subscription paid up. When our costs go up, some one has got to pay if we stay in business and we intend to. A newspaper each week remains your best bargain at $3.50 (local) or $4.25 per year. It would be a bargain at $5.00 or more.

A lecturer, talking on the population explosion to a woman's club, stated: "Do you realize somewhere in the world a woman is giving birth to a baby every second?" The audience gasped. The lecturer asked: "What should we do about it?" A woman declared: "Find her and make her stop!"

Rural family receives loan

CAPTAN — Charles W. Moore, 38, a Capitán wood-cutter, Sunday was named by President Johnson as one of 88 recipients of federal loans or grants under his War on Poverty.

Moore's request for a $2500 federal loan to rural families will enable him to increase his business and thereby increase his family's standard of living.

His was the first loan application in New Mexico under the Economic Opportunity Act (War on Poverty) and the first to be approved, according to Drew Cloud, state director of the Farmers-Home-Administration.

Anything goes at Maxwell Lakes

Relaxation of the method and manner of taking game fish is in effect on the Maxwell Lakes until 6:00 p.m. on February 28.

The lakes involved are Stubblefield, Laguna Madre, and Lakes 12, 13, 14, and 20. These waters were drained during the irrigation season and have not refilled. Fish life is therefore endangered. To save this resource, Director Gordon of the Department of Game and Fish has declared an emergency.

For the period of emergency, fish may be taken by grappling, spears, gigs, dip nets, bow and arrow, as well as by the usual method. However, there is no change in the daily bag and possession limit.

THE ECONOMY TICKET Of Ruidoso School District Believes . . .

- 1. We will achieve the proper academic levels of our graduates. This need is in evidence by the many families over the past years who have sent their children out of the school district for the proper high school education. We want our children who have the desire to be able to pass college entrance examinations and complete their education.
2. We will seek the best possible moral environment. This is evident with the condoning of our students' fraternizing in the general area of the school. We believe that good moral teaching and the practices should be adhered to while the students are under the jurisdiction of the school officials or in the immediate vicinity of the school area. In many cases breakdown of moral standards begin in the school environment.
3. We will lay the necessary foundation and build the school system to a point where we will be accredited by the North Central Association.
4. We will see to it that the school administration keeps the public informed of the progress and achievement of our past graduates.
5. Our Economy Ticket will seek to build in the most economic manner the additional class rooms required at the old school site. We believe there is adequate space by eliminating certain buildings and constructing, if necessary, two story buildings. We are certain that our plans will be adequate for both the present and the future development of our schools. Dr. Lamon Langston, head of school land sites, states, "There is no law restricting additions to existing school facilities. The state only recommends."
6. We of the Economy Ticket will not bow down to conspiracy designed to create hate with the purpose of stampeding public opinion.
7. We of the Economy Ticket pledge ourselves to the sincere dedication of our duties in behalf of the taxpaying citizens who are, after all, the employers of our teachers and administrators.
8. We of the Economy Ticket recognize the need of eliminating incompetency in the administration of our school affairs. Competency to some means harmony; to others it means complete deterioration of purpose at the expense of our students.

Vote For the Economy Ticket William (Bill) Leftwich - for six year term James (Red) Lackey - for six year term AL Pearson - for four year term George Westall - for two year term

Basketball Scoreboard

Zozo team goes good at Socorro

In the best game played this season the Carrizozo Grizzly basketball squad lost a one-pointed score to Socorro Saturday night. The Grizzlies were playing as a team, and like a good all-around squad all night for the first time according to Coach Dick Brown. The game was even for most of three quarters.

Carrizozo	14	10	14	20
Socorro	17	21	16	11

Zozo had a short cold streak in the third quarter then came on strong to push the Socorro team right down to the wire and had a chance to win, but missed a couple of free throws and lost by one point.

Gerald Posey hit 22 points, Mike Ortiz 12, Gilbert Lucero 10, Herrera came off the bench to score twice when needed. Holmes was high for Socorro with 19. Final score Socorro 65, Carrizozo 64.

The Socorro B team won 38-33. The Zozo B's made too many mistakes walking too much and throwing the ball away. Payne was high for Zozo with 14, Vallejos hit 11 for Socorro.

Lose to Ft. Sumner, win over Mountainair

Corona won one game and lost the other over the weekend. Corona lost a see-saw battle with Ft. Sumner. The game was in doubt until the horn went off. Ft. Sumner won the game by one point, 59-58. Corona was behind by four points at the half way mark.

Saturday night Corona coasted to an easy victory over Mountainair 59-50. Corona led 19-11 at the end of the first quarter, 35-21 at half time. Corona is now 9-5 for the season and undefeated in district play.

Two trucks met on a country road just wide enough for one. The first driver, a scrawny little man, leaned out of his cab. "Turn out, you!" he shouted, "if you don't, I'll do to you what I did to the last guy who wouldn't turn out for me!"

The second driver was muscular and weighed almost 200 pounds, but did not care to have trouble. He pulled out. As the other driver's truck rumbled by, he yelled, "What did you do to that other guy?"

"Turned out for him!"

Hondo loses second one-point game

Wayne Dillon scored possibly his two most important points of the season Saturday night as he tossed in two free throws in the dying seconds of the game to give the Crusaders an exciting 40-45 win over a tough Hondo team.

The win was the second single point victory of the season for the winners over Hondo and increased their lead in the District 5B conference race. St. Peter's won a 54-53 overtime battle with the Eagles a few weeks ago.

The Crusaders grabbed a quick lead which they held throughout the first quarter. Robert Chavez put Hondo in the lead with a goal and the half ended Hondo ahead 27-24.

The third quarter was nip and tuck but the Crusaders managed 8 points while the Eagles made 6. The first four minutes of the fourth quarter saw the Eagles outscore the Crusaders 5-2 from the free throw line making the score 37-35 for St. Peter's.

Richardson and Torrez fouled out leaving Sonny Sanchez as the main scorer for the Eagles. he kept them within one point with 40 seconds remaining. Preston Radcliff hit a long shot to put the Eagles ahead with 13 seconds remaining. Dillon drew a foul shot and hit for the Crusaders to make the winning points.

Hondo — Sonny Sanchez tallied 28 points to lead Hondo to a 73-52 win over Cloudcroft on the winners court Friday night in District 5B basketball action.

Eloy Torres aided Sanchez's effort with 18 points while Hendrickson and Rogers scored 17 and 11 points for the losers.

Hondo also won the B game by a 49-41 margin.

What's new next door!

By Trudy Baker

Tom Seek and Bill French of Alamogordo were Carrizozo visitors last Thursday.

This reporter toured the new jail, under the guidance of Undersheriff Glen Bradley last Tuesday, and it looks like they are going to be finished with it very soon. In the jail itself there is not too much work to be done other than the finishing up and a lot of cleaning. Whether the prisoners are as anxious as the Sheriff and his crew, to get moved to the new jail, which is escape proof, is a very good question. Once one is locked up in that place there is no getting out, except when someone opens the door. There are no windows and except for a few skylights, the lighting is all artificial.

Most of the offices in the same building with the jail are almost completed. The kitchen, where the meals for the prisoners are prepared is the only room which needs a lot of work done yet. So far no cooking fa-

Grizzlies out-run by the Warriors

Ruidoso — Ruidoso's Warriors broke loose in the final half here Friday night to turn back Carrizozo, 74-49.

Errol Stierwalt shoved 25 points through the rim to pace the winners. Gerald Posey led Carrizozo with 14.

The first half was close with a good starting effort from Carrizozo. Ruidoso jumped off to a 14-12 first quarter lead and escaped to the dressing room with a 26-25 edge at the half.

In the third period, the Warriors broke it open outscoring the visitors, 21-10.

Carrizozo	12	25	35	49
Ruidoso	14	26	47	74

The Warrior B team won by a score of 54-36. The Warriors were having a hot night and couldn't miss. Whipple hit 21 and Candelaria 17, the first game they really got going. Coach Troy Sadler said the Zozo defense just couldn't keep up with them. Curtis Payne was high man for the Zozo B squad, with 8 points.

clittles have been installed. Sheriff Leandro Vega, Jr. hopes to move the prisoners into the new jail soon.
