Corona shortage brings mandate from Armijo

SANTA FE — Past and present officials of the village of Corona were given a March 1 deadline Monday to either repay or account for more than $1000 in shortages disclosed in the 1963-64 audit. The officials met Monday with State Auditor Alez Armijo to discuss the shortages or apparent shortages found in the audit made by Allan and Evertson, Roswell accountants. The audit disclosed a shortage of $1024.53 from receipts during the 1963-64 fiscal year. Armijo said Elano R. Tracy, former Corona clerk-treasurer, accepted the responsibility for the shortage and was given until March 1 to make restitution. "There also is an amount of $944.60 on which we are awaiting an explanation," Armijo said. "The village board of trustees has been given until March 1 to make an accounting of this money."

Right-to-work doomed from start

SANTA FE — The 18 to 14 vote in the senate Monday against the right to work bill was only a confirmation of what had been obvious since the November election to all but the right-to-workers. Even this column noted three months ago that the anti-union drive was untimely after the Johnson landslide and there was hardly an observer or a knowledgeable politician who gave the drive a ghost of a chance in 1965. All the money and elbow grease that was spent in organizing and advertising the futile campaign was monstrous bad judgment by somebody. The national right to work organization must continue active to justify its existence and the recent New Mexico campaign looks like it was merely a keeping-busy project. If that is true it was a pretty shoddy way to use the naive ones who put in the money and the work to organize the hopeless project.

REPUBLICANS ARE MIXED UP
The first test of the 18 Republicans in the state house of representatives found nine of them voting yes and nine voting no. The nine voting no explained that they really meant yes but for some reason or other were voting no. It was about as mixed up as possible. Republicans contributed nine of the 13 votes cast against repeal of the pre-primary convention, which was supposed to be a major objective of the Republican party. Rep. Kenneth Black, Republican floor leader, said the nine were for repeal of the thing but did not like the minor embellishments that had been added to the repeal measure. KING AND ROBERTS SHOW STRENGTH
The 60 to 13 house vote for repeal of the 1963 convention law looked good for Speaker Bruce King and Demo Floor Leader Austin Roberts who took the stand against the wishes of Sens. Clint Anderson and Joe Montoya and Gov. Jack Campbell who favored retention of the convention nominating system. King and Roberts aspirants for the Demo nomination for governor and lieutenant governor, demonstrated extraordinary strength in their own chamber. The convention law won't be repealed, however, until it clears the senate and also the governor. MEAD, MONTOYA AGAINST REPEAL

The major opponents of repeal in the senate are Sen. Ed Mead of Albuquerque, who sponsored the 1963 convention law, and Sen. Alfonso Montoya, brother of the U. S. senator. And there is a hazard of veto if the measure gets as far as the governor's desk.

Campbell has expressed favor for the convention law and since he doesn't have to face the voters next year he just might veto the repealer if it reaches him. COURT REFORM IS SUFFERING
The court reform program which includes the appointment of all judges has been developing trouble ever since the legislature opened and there is much opinion that it won't clear the chambers this season. The program includes abolishment of the elective justice of the peace system over a five-year period, the creation of a new court to operate between the district courts and the supreme court, the creation of a commission for the discipline and removal of erring judges, and gubernatorial appointment for all supreme court, intermediate court and district court judges. HEADING FOR STATE PLAYOFFS — One of the Lincoln County teams most likely to be counted at the top when state tournament time comes is the Honda Eagles coached by Frank Ready. The Eagles are 6-2 in conference play, with two 1-point losses to St. Peters. They have beaten all Lincoln County teams except Corona who plays in another conference. From left to right are: Robert Chavez, Eloy Torres, Bobby Richardson, Sonny Sanchez, Aron Sanchez, Eddie Montes, Preston Radcliff, Fermin Herrera, Harold Radcliff and Joe Torres. ## Dog race bill next on the agenda

Sen. Joe Skeen reporting to the News Wednesday said the dog race bill hearing was set for this afternoon, and added his opinion that it probably won't come out of committee. Considerable opposition to dog racing is on hand. The dog race people think New Mexico could support three tracks now, and not be a detriment to horse racing, one at Tucumcari, one in the Albuquerque — Santa Fe area, and one at Hobbs. Horse race people don't want the dogs any place at any time. Reports from other states are that dog racing has not harmed horse racing. The right-to-work bill in the Senate was killed 18-14 (complete vote list in this issue). The News editor heard the discussion Monday, Sen. Floyd Santistevan of Taos County and Sen. Kenneth Johnston of Sierra County, both sponsors of the bill, voted against right-to-work. People for right-to-work had been counting on Sen. Donald Hathaway of Socorro County who had voted for right-to-work two years ago, he voted negative this round. Lois of committee reports Tuesday, several cleanup bills, eight or nine, were passed Wednesday morning. The conservation committee is holding hearings on bill to allow livestock people in counties to assess themselves based on a head count of livestock, with a levy up to 25c per head, for predatory animal control. There are two plans, one for sheep and for cattlemen, Robert Corn, Lincoln County rancher, is in Santa Fe for the hearings. A minimum wage bill is due in the Senate from the House in a few days. Sen. Skeen said the labor people always ask for more than they think they can get. The hot item around Santa Fe next week will probably be liquor legislation. Sen. Skeen said that some Albuquerque grass rooters, Citizens for Liquor Reform, were in Santa Fe today lobbying on liquor.

Fire demolishes home Monday

A four alarm fire Monday, summoned the Carrizozo Fire Department to the home of Mrs. Lucinda Silva about 11:45 a.m. The department battled the fire for an hour, which Fire Chief Kino Ortiz stated was probably caused by faulty electric wires. Mrs. Silva, who is employed at the local hospital, was at work at the time the fire broke out. The inside of the house, located one half block south of Santa Rita Church, was completely demolished and only a small part of the furnishings and a few personal belongings were salvaged.

Fire demolishes home Monday

WASHINGTON — The Federal Aviation Agency said Monday its current series of sonic boom test flights at the White Sands, N. M. Missile Range will end next Monday. Since the experimental blast-producing runs began last Nov. 18, there have been more than 1200 such tests, an FAA spokesman said. They have ranged in intensity up to more than 20 pounds of over-pressure. By contrast, the highest over-pressure planned at the Oklahoma City sonic boom tests last year were about two pounds, and the greatest attained was about four pounds of over-pressure. These pressure forces are in addition to the normal atmospheric pressure on the ground, about 2100 pounds per square foot. The tests, over different types of houses, have been conducted primarily by Air Force F104 fighter aircraft flying at various supersonic speeds and at different altitudes and by a limited number of Air Force B53 bombers. The FAA plans to issue an interim report later this month, after the White Sands technical data has been analyzed in part. Until then, it said, no material will be released on the degree of damage—if any—that has been caused.

Zozo residents can foresee quiet days, FAA say sonic boom tests end Monday

Vets rep here on Thursday
Sam Sloan of the New Mexico Veterans Service Commission, will be at the Lincoln County courthouse the second Thursday of each month at 10:00 a.m.

Ball games postponed due to death

The two ball games, the A and B teams, with Ruidoso, to have been played here Saturday night, February 6, and the Lions pancake supper was postponed until February 16, due to the sad accident of one of the senior's father, Mr. Charles Walker, which happened near Saturday noon when a tractor he was using to get wood crushed him. He was care taker at the Nazarene Camp at Angus. His wife, who had been in very ill health for some time, had a heart attack on learning this and is hospitalized at the Ruidoso Hospital. Doctors say for not less than 10 days.

The funeral services were held at the Nazarene Tabernacle at the camp ground and he was laid to rest at Angus Monday. Our school closed at noon in respect.

There were no services at the Nazarene Church here Sunday. Instead, 50 people gathered at the camp grounds to cook and feed the family and many friends gathered at that home of sorrow.

What a happy country we are at this time. We awakened Monday morning with six inches of wet snow Saturday night there were light rain and snow showers as well as some Sunday forenoon. It looks like a fairy land with all of the trees and shrubbery and ground covered with snow. Oh, how grateful we are for this moisture.

Three more beautiful homes have been remodeled in Capitán. The last ones were Ramon Padilla with three sides in yellow, the Manuel Millers Sr home, green gables with yellow side walls. The Macie Edmondson home they were working on at the end of the week is white with pink gables.

Mr. R. L. Raines purchased the lot east of the Utterback home on east Fifth Street, that has the rock foundation. Just recently he moved a several room house in and put it on that foundation. As the days, weeks and months go by, he will make this a very pretty home. Each improvement makes our city beautiful and more progressive. Congratulations on each step taken by each of you.

They arrived safely. They had no trouble whatever. There were icy roads in Wyoming but no snow. Mrs. Keathley will make her home with them. She made the trip O.K., tired a little.

The Hydys were detained a week longer due to car trouble but that gave Mrs. Keathley that much more time to gain more strength to endure the long trip which she did nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins visited her at the Medical Center the evening before she left. Reported her in grand happy spirits.

Do you want to make if you do

Check yourself on the simple test below by answering questions 1 to 8 to see if you are equipped to take advantage of your normal opportunities!

On money you invest? most investments

Make a profit of only 3 to 6 percent. You can increase this rate of profit considerably by making wise investments in advertising, with a minimum of effort on your part!

(1)

Question 1 — Do you have merchandise you want to move, services you want to sell, a message you want to send to all people of your area, something you want to buy, lease or rent?

ANSWER

Yes .....
No .....

(2)

Question 2 — Do you want to live in a town that "sells itself", one where the majority of business people really want most of the business of their area and will work in that direction?

ANSWER

Yes .....
No .....

(3)

Question 3 — Do you know that an investment of only $2 or $3 a week (or less), say $100 a year, can easily return you $120.00, and in many cases a whole lot more, in fact you can double your money if you invest wisely?

ANSWER

Yes .....
No .....

(4)

Question 4 — Are you enthusiastic about your opportunity to make more money? Do you believe that your business and your town is most important, important enough for you to spend a little time making it better?

ANSWER

Yes .....
No .....

Analysis

of your score . . . . .

Question 1 — The correct answer to Question 1 is "Yes". If you answer "No" you are probably not alive and the closest burial service should be contacted.

Question 2 — One could answer "No" to Question 2 and still make a lot of money from advertising, but the shopping center idea is a strong motivation to most shoppers.

Question 3 — A lot of fortunes are made a nickel and a dime at a time. The same is true of small advertising budgets. Such a budget will make a return though it may be small. You could answer "No" to Question 3 and still score in the top bracket.

Question 4 — To score heavily in this test you should answer "Yes" to Question 4 because if making money is not important to you, and you are not enthusiastic about opportunities, even small ones, advertising will be of little help to you.

Question 5 — Advertising can not help the fly-by-nighter much, especially in a weekly newspaper. If you don't mean what you say in your advertisement you've thrown your money away. "Yes" is the only possible answer here.

Question 6 — This question will stand a lot of analysis because so much advertising money is completely wasted, poorly timed, poorly written, spent on gimmicks with no possible return on investment, the whole story is not told or there is no followup. Even good advertising can have its bad weeks — so it pays to be cautious about money invested in advertising. The way you invest is all important, much more than the amount you invest. An answer of either "Yes" or "No" is alright here.

Question 7 — Your score will not suffer too much with either "Yes" or "No" answer to Question 7 because you may not realize that people do have a mental image of your store or town and either shop your store or go elsewhere because of that image. It's worth checking into, to find out if your "store identity" could possibly be changed for the better.

Question 8 — Many people say they don't believe in advertising, and probably they won't believe the statement in Question 8, yet it is true. The sum of money being spent on advertising each day is real good proof that such an investment does pay off. If you answer "No" to this question your score has gone blooey because not much better proof can be furnished.

Question 5 — Will you back up your sales and service with the kind of customer consideration that brings repeat business, that really makes a good business year instead of just one sale?

ANSWER

Yes .....
No .....

(6)

Question 6 — Do you know that the amount of money you invest is not most important, it's the way you invest, how you use your money that is the most important?

ANSWER

Yes .....
No .....

(7)

Question 7 — Do you believe there is such a thing as "identity", "image" or "emotional attitude" toward your store or town and that such an identity can be changed for better or worse?

ANSWER

Yes .....
No .....

(8)

Question 8 — Do you know that over $38,000,000 is being invested in advertising every single day of every single week throughout the year? Do you need more proof that advertising can be a good investment?

ANSWER

Yes .....
No .....

How to total your score

	Yes	No
Question 1 .....	100	0
Question 2 .....	60	40
Question 3 .....	50	50
Question 4 .....	90	10
Question 5 .....	100	0
Question 6 .....	100	100
Question 7 .....	90	60
Question 8 .....	100	40
TOTAL .....

500
or more is a passing score!

The blessedness of lack

A reminder of worthwhile blessing in Lincoln County is timely. Namely, the absence of partisan politics in school and town elections. Generally speaking, people have voted for the best man for the job, in both school and town elections, without regard to politics.

Things appear to be different in Rio Arriba County, and others that we know of. The National Education Assn. and the New Mexico Education Assn. sponsored an investigation of public education in Rio Arriba County and this comment was the result: "In writing up a plate for an election here, they will not pick a nominee for superintendent who is the man with the highest qualifications, but will back a man who will be amenable to suggestion or to complete control. The result is, the entire education system becomes part of a political patronage system. The hiring and placing of teachers in many cases comes as a reward or as a punishment for loyalty or lack of it to the political leaders who can swing this vote."

We've no such problems in Lincoln County — for this we can be thankful.

How many is too many . . . dogs?

Gnat Gnatowski is a loveable guy and also one who understands human nature. Probably he did us a favor but we aren't entirely sure. Gnat's two dachshunds, Leonard and Dorothy, are fairly consistent with their offspring.

First we got Schnappes who immediately became a bosom companion to all members of the Payton family. Several things were done to make life liveable for this pup, like getting him a personal dish, a brand new basket with mattress which he immediately chewed up, in fact Schnappes had two personal maids, maybe not to his liking but the best available.

It's only normal, when a person has one of a good thing, like a car, TV, fishing rod, etc., that pretty soon you want another . . . and we did. Just before Christmas the following year Dorothy and Leonard did it again. The Gnatowskis named one of the pups Otis and that was for us. The name would have done it without all that tall wagging and soft, loose, brown fur.

The first thing that happened when Otis got to his new home was a serious dog fight. The little pup was fierce in standing up for his own rights. Even now he will lick his bowl clean and then stand there and growl, daring Schnappes to come close.

Actually Otis is shy and Schnappes still runs the family. Now we have two cars, two spinning rods, two guns, in fact two of most everything a person enjoys in life including two dogs. The latest poop calculated by the people who cater to American tastes, is that the next decade will see families going for two homes, one in town and the other in some resort area.

Two is certainly not too many dogs, but how many is too many is a question we had answered for us — Leonard and Dorothy did it again upon which occasion Gnat told Jeanice that those Paytons ought to get a free dog this time. That's even better than Green Stamps and the Paytons were not hard to convince. So we have a third pup whose tail is even more waggy than Otis' or Schnappes'. We've named him Waldo just to vary the name sounds.

Waldo loves to chase the big dogs, in fact he thinks they are his personal playthings. Now we have three eating dishes, an expensive fence, need a larger basket though the three will pile into the one we have, and are almost scared to leave town over night because of the increased family duties at home.

How many is too many dogs? We sure don't know the answer at our house.

Too much is bad, not enough is worse!

Most of us local people get unhappy regularly at tax paying time and in between times with the things we have to do, the forms to fill out, the nick out of our paycheck, the people who loaf while we work — you know the old story — all because of the power of government to tell us what to do.

Some of the power is most certainly necessary if our government is to operate effectively in a country as complex as the United States of America. If our government did not make use of power our country would degenerate faster than it may be with over guidance.

Power on the local level works the same. A town without guidance from the top will grow or disintegrate in haphazard fashion. A simple example of what we mean — are the unsightly structures, trash-littered lots next to home, cemetery, school, church and other places a community normally likes to brag about.

People in power at home have got to use their power, and accept the criticisms and lack of 100 per cent popularity, else they are no good at their job.

In January, 1874, the Sumner County (Kansas) Press carried this news report: "A couple from Akron, Ohio, arriving in Leavenworth a few days since, were married at noon. At 8 p.m. a bouncing boy weighing 10½ pounds was born to the blooming bride of less than ten hours. This is only another evidence of the fertility of Kansas and a proof that the drought is not so general."

Carrizozo Lions should feel flattered. A good friend of the area came to Zozo last Wednesday on business and thought he would make up Rotary attendance while here. He walked in the club meeting at the Four Winds, stayed out the hour and didn't know until the end that he was attending a Lions meeting.

Lincoln County had a little of everything in weather over the weekend. Mrs. A. P. Sitton was telling us about conditions at Nogal where they had snow, sleet, fog, wind, rain, in alternating doses. The Sittons enjoyed watching the fog roll down the canyon, then a clear spell and then more fog, then rain, then sleet, etc.

The Paytons were in Santa Fe Monday for the budget hearing of the TB Hospital and wondering if they would have trouble getting home. By late afternoon the sun was shining and we decided to take the short route through Moriarity and Corona — clear all the way and no trouble at all. Dr. Gene Mann and Mrs. Lena May Pfeiffer made it alright until they got within 20 miles of Portales then they hit heavy snow.

W • W

Out walking around Santa Fe Sunday after 9:00 p.m. we found the streets rolled up just like in Carrizozo, and no place to eat. By Monday morning the place was a beehive, especially at the state house. Lots of visitors in town to hear debate on right-to-work, the Senate bill was killed 18-14. Sen. Jim Patton of Las Cruces said he thought they had it won before the vote. Sen. Harold Runnels of Lea County told another news reporter that he didn't mind people voting their convictions, but he sure hated to have them lie to him.

W • W

We sat in the Senate with Sen. Bill Wheatley of Union County, a long time friend. Sen. Wheatley was for the right-to-work bill but his vote was not enough. Sen. Wheatley was largely responsible for bringing along Clayton (N. M.) lake and we got some information from him on this subject. Lincoln County has lake sites, the problem is the same as in Union County — getting the people interested enough to push the job through.

W • W

Can't say we are proud of the three senators who spoke against right-to-work. Generally their remarks did not make much sense (our personal opinion). What they were wanting, without admitting such, was to deny the people of the state a right to vote on the subject.

W • W

Lincoln County people could well thank Dr. Eugene Mann, Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, for all the work he has done on behalf of Fort Stanton TB Hospital. Dr. Mann has a lot of good help from the hospital administrative staff and some help from other board members, but he sure does a fine job of carrying the ball. Dr. Mann made the presentation to the budget committee and did a masterful job. A lot of people do not realize that Fort Stanton is working hard to prevent TB on a state-wide basis, as well as to cure or arrest those cases that are admitted to the hospital. There are many, many problems that go with state-wide prevention, and here we'll only mention the hundreds of chest X-rays and skin tests that are being made along with chest clinics and the work of the mobile X-ray unit. Dr. Mann told the legislative committee that Texas has spent millions of dollars in study of tuberculosis and that state is just now starting to do the things that are well along (in TB prevention) in New Mexico. Dr. Mann said we are seven years ahead of Texas in TB control.

W • W

The Ft. Stanton TB Hospital group has taken the lead in inter-agency cooperation which is saving the state a lot of money. The committee hearing had its humorous side — Dr. Mann talked about five minutes on the inter-agency work being done by the Fort group, and all this time Sen. Patton, chairman of the hearing committee, had a 11000 bill right in front of him and was going to ask Dr. Mann what had been done along the lines of cooperation between hospitals and other agencies. Sen. Patton got the answers before he had a chance to ask any questions.

Another angle about Fort Stanton

That many people do not understand — is that the operation of this institution combines all the problems of hospital administration with those of managing a city. Such as water works, power, fire prevention, security, streets, maintenance of buildings (many of them), handling a big payroll, all of these go along with the major task . . . that of taking care of 190 more or less TB patients including numerous children-of-school-age. The legislators got some of the message on this subject.

W • W

We thought the total budget of $1,116,519 would be approved at the proper time. An increase of $35,000 was asked, which amount will be used to pay a normal seven per cent salary increase to Fort personnel.

W • W

You could have read about the money problems the sheriff of Catron County is having. The scuttlebutt we gathered about this situation is that the board of commissioners is Democratic, the sheriff Republican. The commissioners are trying to squeeze the sheriff out.

W • W

New Mexico ranchers know of another way this state is ahead of Texas, besides TB control. Our branding laws are much better. Unless Texas has made improvement in recent years that state hardly has anything like a branding law.

Letters to Editor

Not fur from Progress Mt. Jan. 29, 1965

Dear Editor,

I had to go to Carrizozo to render my taxes because where I went to render them the benches, foot stools, and apple boxes were taken. The line standing made my ulcers do a flip. After rendering my taxes I enjoyed a good lunch at Welcome Armstrong's 54 Cafe or rather was enjoying it until I looked from my booth north across the street and saw what I thought must be "Fort Knox" on account of the crooked rocks on the new court house. Now, Editor, I ain't no Arcketek but them rocks made me wonder if it was the soup I was eating that made me see crooked or was it how the walls of that half million dollar court house was "stacked up". I been wondering, am I behind on the latest Specifications? It ain't right to do them pretty Corona rock thatta way.

Sincerely yours,

Legal gambling matures in Nevada but big headaches still a pain

Modernized legalized gambling in Nevada, nearing the ripe old age of 34, is showing more and more signs of growing out of a troublesome adolescence. It is now two decades since the state took over supreme control of gambling from local governments; one decade since the state reorganized its control apparatus with the express goal of weeding out hoodlums and "other undesirables."

In some respects, 1964 was an important year: for the first time, the state closed a major casino on cheating charges, and a federal court upheld the state's authority to keep known criminals out of gambling casinos.

There still are headaches. To the continuing moral question, the state replies: "Most Nevadans believe, it is better to license, tax and regulate legal gambling than to tolerate the bribery and corruption that inevitably accompany illegal gambling operations."

Critics contend profits from legal gambling in Nevada go elsewhere to finance illicit gambling, crime and vice.

Milton Keefer, chairman of the Nevada Gambling Commission, thinks Nevada gambling's image is better now than ever.

"More people are coming to recognize and accept it as they have the legalized racing in many states. I think it's gained stature and is generally recognized as a well-regulated and honest industry," says Keefer, a Las Vegas attorney and former FBI agent.

"The Gambling Control Board and the commission have never been able to establish that any sums, sizable or not, are channeled out of the state to support any illegal activity," he says.

About 30 states have some form of legalized betting, but Nevada remains the only one where it's virtually wide open — from cash bingo and football parlay cards to the classic casino games of craps, 21 and roulette.

Perhaps another sign of maturity is labor's attempt to unionize card dealers, croupiers and other casino workers. The infant union now is seeking National Labor Relations Board authority to bargain for the employees. Las Vegas casinos are resisting. Gov. Grant Sawyer, a Democrat in his second term, has stipulated the state must have ultimate control over whom a casino has on the payroll. He says this to prevent proven cheaters from keeping their jobs through union security clauses.

Gambling carries a hefty share of the state's tax burden. Whether it's paying enough or too much is a point under study. The state is taking steps to learn just how much casinos can bear without hurting overall business and tourism.

In 1963, casinos paid $13.4 million on reported gross winnings of $260.8 million. Nevada's 2 per cent sales tax brings in more, and there are indications local governments will seek an additional 1 per cent sales tax, on a county-option basis, to help them meet demands of growing population. The state's population remains less than 500,000, but Nevada played host to an estimated 22 million tourists last year.

The supreme authority in gambling matters is the five-member Nevada Gaming Commission. Two of the five, including Keefer, are former FBI agents. The commission's investigative and enforcement agency is the three-member Nevada Gaming Control Board, under the chairmanship of Edward A. Olsen, a former newspaperman. The board's enforcement chief, Thomas J. Hill, knows the game from the inside out — as a former casino "pit boss" and supervisor.

The gaming commission puts the responsibility of running a clean house on the casino owners. Its lever is its authority to lift a casino's license at any time, for any operation considered "unsuitable."

Last April, five altered dice were found on a table at the Silver Slipper casino at Las Vegas. The casino was summarily closed by gaming officials. The three owners were charged with cheating and given a hearing. The commission revoked the owner's license.

The commission's staff also audits casino books and collects the taxes. The primo state take is a gross receipts tax levied on the winnings before anything is taken out for salaries, operating expenses or other overhead. The scale, in effect since 1955, ranges from 3 per cent for a small club to a maximum 5½ per cent on operations grossing more than $1 million a year. There also is a flat fee for each table and each slot machine.

How much do casinos make?

Inside The Capitol

By Will Harrison

There are indication of a new kind of competition for state land this year, bidding for its use at a higher rental.

Land Commissioner Sheep Hays has declared against any more big land sales such as were conducted during the four-year administration of Commissioner Johnny Walker, which leaves renting at a higher price the only means of getting hold of the land.

The average rental of some 10 million acres of state grazing land is around 10 cents an acre a year.

Leases run for five years with about a fifth of them expiring on each October 1.

Commissioner Hays said that inquiries reaching his office indicated there would be competition for many of the leases expiring next fall.

The old rule calls for the lease to go to the highest bidder, but it also requires any new renter to pay the old renter for all the improvements on the land. The value of improvements sometimes make it prohibitive for another to take over.

Dr. Dan Palmer of the state mental hospital at Las Vegas has been raised from $21,000 to $22,200 and he also gets a house.

The mental hospital superintendent is the highest paid individual in the state penal and mental institutions.

His rate of $22,200 plus residence ranks him with the better paid university presidents.

Palmer tops a list of 20 well paid professional people $10,000 or more — who have been employed in the past two years in a serious effort to upgrade the quality of the state hospital staff.

The elective state officials below the governor who are paid in a range of $12,500 to $10,000 and are hoping for more, recently published a list of 183 people in state employment, excluding those in the universities, who are paid more than $10,000.

The list includes many M.D.s, engineers, and long-time career people who are qualified for high pay but there are many with no particular qualifications who make up the bulk of the elective officials' complaint.

For instance the corporation commissioners who must run for their offices get $10,000 a year for presiding over a much greater area of public services than the appointive public service commissioners who get $10,200.

The state personnel director, Harold Bibb gets $11,400, Planning Director Jack Flynn $12,000, Purchasing Agent Dante Vaio $12,000.

Bureau of Revenue Commissioner Max Gonzales is on at $15,000 and his assistants Tomatos Ortiz, Pete Baca, Carlos Trujillo, Howard Babcock and Charlie Bassett $10,320.

The Highway Department lists 53 at $10,000 or more ranging from Chief Engineer T. B. White's $19,500 down to $10,200.

Most all of them have been in the department long enough to qualify for high pay or have professional qualifications for $10,000 or more.

The state land office has James T. Pierce Jr., a recent $7,000-a-year school teacher in Albuquerque, at $12,500 a year.

Floyd Cross is state park and recreation superintendent at $12,500 a year; Finlay MacGill## livery is state fair manager at $14,000, Ruben Miera, director of the ports of entry, $11,400.

There are 11 people in the Department of Education drawing more than $10,000 a year, some with not very impressive qualifications for their pay.

Leo Murphy, distinguished as a former mayor of Santa Fe and a popular but losing candidate for governor in the Demo primary of 1962, is welfare director at $12,500; Apolonio Duran, Demo chairman of San Miguel and renowned for his nickname "Apples", is on the motor vehicle payroll at more than $10,000.

John F. Otero was brought into public work in 1963 and is drawing $11,400 as labor commissioner, David McNeill, also a newcomer in public work, is being paid $10,800 for running the contractors licensing board.

Keeps the doctor away

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away," may well be one of the soundest pieces of folk advice ever tendered. The list of health benefits attributed to the apple is almost endless, and researchers keep adding new ones.

One research group is exploring the use of an apple substance to prevent hardening of the arteries; another has found apple-eating an important means of preventing tooth decay; a third has made a study of the effect of apple-eating on over-all health.

Packed within its shining envelope, the apple boasts vitamins, minerals, proteins, fats and carbohydrates which bring health dividends to the body.

Its vitamins A and C aid in growth and help ward off colds. Its sugars provide a source of instant energy. Its acids stimulate saliva flow and its crunchy pulp acts as a natural toothbrush. Dermatologists recommend it to teenagers with skin problems, nutritionists to dieters because of its low calorie and high bulk. In short, the apple seems a paragon of virtue.

More immediate results were gained by British dentists who for two years fed apples to children after meals. A second group of non-apple-eaters served as controls. The apple-eaters were found to have "significantly better" gum condition than the control group and only half as many cavities.

It looks as though the fruit which proved Eve's undoing holds high hopes for the rest of us. And modern research is adding still more truth to the old adage, first coined in Devonshire, England: "Ate an apple afore gain to bed. Makes the doctor beg his bread."

showed apple-eaters ahead by 6 to 1.

Looking into the future, researchers at Rutgers University are investigating pectin — a substance found in abundance in apples — as a means of preventing arteriosclerosis, the number one heart disease in America.

Chicken Feed

The first experiments were made on two flocks of chickens. One flock of birds received their normal diet. A second flock was fed pectin as well. Then the aortas — the large artery that carries blood from the heart — were removed and examined. The aortas of chickens receiving no pectin showed the presence of arteriosclerosis to a moderately severe degree. The birds fed pectin had a significantly lower count.

The next step is to apply these findings to human beings. "What we hope to do," says Dr. Paul Griminger of Rutgers, "is work with older persons who have arteriosclerosis, but it will be a long range program."

Recently researchers at Michigan State University studied the over-all health of 500 students who ate 2 to 3 apples a day against the rest of the college population. It was found that the apple-eaters paid one-third fewer calls at the health clinic for colds and other respiratory infections, showed fewer skin disorders, gastrointestinal ailments and viral infections.

Even more significant was their ability to stand up under the pressures of college life. The comparisons of tension-pressure ailments — headaches, nervousness, inability to concentrate —

Corona

By Effie Mulkey

Corona basketball team has won 13 games and lost only 5 this season in the over all games. They have a 10-0 score in the district. This is an excellent showing so far, and everyone thinks the boys, as well as the coaches, Derrol Percy and Bob Buchanan, deserve more praise and recognition. WE ARE PROUD OF CORONA BASKETBALL TEAM THIS YEAR! Thanks and congratulations to the coaches and the boys for their hard work and good sportsmanship.

Corona won Friday night, February 5, over Estancia, and Saturday night over Encino, both home games. There will be two more home games this weekend, Friday night, February 12, with O.L.O.S., and Saturday night with Carrizozo here. Don't miss these games! Mrs. Vivian Gali Yandell and son, Delbert Jr., of Albuquerque visited last week with her mother, Mrs. Lucille Porter. Also Mr. and Mrs. Pete Porter and children of Los Lunas were here during the weekend visiting his mother, Mrs. Porter.

Mrs. Jesse Wade took her mother, Mrs. Carrie Mae Jarnagin, to the Presbyterian hospital in Albuquerque Sunday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Henry Green.

Four or five inches of snow, maybe more, fell at Corona Sunday night and Monday, February 7 and 8. Roads were slick and icy, but school busses made it, come late. Road crews from Torrance and Lincoln counties were out working long hours to keep the roads clear and safe. Thanks to the State Highway crews.

Mrs. Crestina Romero, daughter of Rufino Romero of Corona, was married to Leo Nunez of Belen in a very beautiful ceremony at the Corona Catholic Church Saturday morning at 10:00 a.m. There were many guests at the wedding and reception, and also at the dance Saturday night at the old school gym.

The bride is a very fine young woman, and has many friends in this area. We wish for her and her husband a long and happy life together.

United Presbyterian Women of Corona Church will meet Tuesday, February 16, at 7:00 p.m. at the Roberts home. Everyone welcome.

Rev. Tom Meyer of Albuquerque will bring the message next Sunday, February 14, at the Corona Presbyterian Church. Communion will also be held at 11:00 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Keelin had as their guests the past weekend Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Prescott and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Callan of Pampa, Texas. Also David Keelin and boys from Albuquerque and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keelin and children from Santa Fe.

Fruitgrowers will meet Feb. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Agricultural Building of the Hondo School. Leaf analysis, marketing, water management and apple pollination will be discussed. Plan to attend.

Overeating disease in range sheep was found in the Corona area this last week. The sheep were being fed one half pound of whole corn every other day, but some of the sheep were getting much more than their share. The sheep developed enterotoxemia (overeating) with several dying each day. The sick and dead sheep develop a jaundice and the dead sheep had a pulpy black kidney. Taking the sheep off the corn and feeding alfalfa or an alfalfa grain cube will stop these losses.

Lola Dunlap was one of three junior wool growers named for the recognition award of the New Mexico Wool Growers Association at its annual meeting here.

Lola, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dunlap, has completed five years of range sheep management projects under the 4-H program administered by New Mexico State University Cooperative Extension Service. She is a veteran showman at the Lincoln County Fair and at the New Mexico State Fair. She is president of the Happy Homemakers 4-H Club and secretary of the Ancho Junior Ranchera 4-H Club also she is a freshman at Carrizozo High School. She is a contestant in this year's Make-It-With-Wool Contest.

Hondo Eagles are hot from outside

A smooth team was too much for the Grizzlies Saturday night and won 69-54.

Zozo started off well and at one time had a 9-point lead which continued up to the middle of the second quarter. Then the Eagles started hitting from outside the Zozo zone defense and the Eagles put on a press of their own which caught the Grizzlies hibernating. Hondo stole the ball six times, forced Zozo into a press and the Eagles drove right through the Zozo defense.

Hondo was exceptionally hot in the second half with Sonny Sanchez potting the net from all angles. Sanchez hit 24 to lead the Eagles while Posey had 23 points for Carrizozo.

Carrizozo 14 15 12 13 54 Hondo 11 17 19 22 69 The Grizzly B squad saved the evening with a 53-45 win over Hondo. Zozo Bees stuck to a zone defense most of the evening and showed some improvement over early season play. Zozo was hurrying the Hondo shot makers so their aim was poor. Coach Sadler said this was their best game to date.

Payne hit 15 points, Zamora had 10 at the same time setting up some nice scoring plays. J. Torrez was having a fine night for Hondo and hit for 23 points.

Eagles batter

Ruidoso Warriors

Friday was a bad night for the Ruidoso Warriors on their home court. The Hondo Eagles came to town and beat them soundly 72-60. Coach Frank Ready said, it was a real good game, the Eagles six points a head at the half. They played fine control ball in the third quarter and were ahead 17 points by the start of the fourth quarter.

Ruidoso tried a full court press and came within eight points of catching up but the Eagles settled down and pulled out to a 12-point victory. Harold Radcliff did not start, nor Hale for Ruidoso.

The Eagles are now 14-5 for the season and 6-2 in conference play.

Hondo 17 34 57 72 Ruidoso 12 26 40 60 For Hondo Sonny Sanchez hit 24 points, Eloy Torrez 22, and Bobby Richardson 19. For Ruidoso Graham had 18, Stewart 16, Morrison 12 and Garrett 10.

Grizzlies get hot

last 60 seconds

The Carrizozo Grizzlies had a real tight game on their hands with Dexter Friday night until the closing minutes when the Grizzlies scored 8 points, most on free throws, which won the game in the last 60 seconds.

Carrizozo started off with a zone defense but it was not paying off too well, and a shift to press was made in the middle of the third quarter, fairly successful according to Coach Dick Brown, and kept the Grizzlies in the game.

Gilbert Sisneros was high with 12 point, Mike Petty also had 12. For Dexter the high man was Daubert with 19. Final score Carrizozo 83, Dexter 45. Carrizozo 10 15 11 17 53 Dexter 9 13 16 7 45

Carrizozo B team, coached by Troy Sadler, came through with a nice win 51 to 44. The Grizzlies pressed them all the way and Dexter Bees lost the ball on walking and other penalties as much as Zozo usually does. Zozo shot about three times as often as Dexter which paid off. The Dexter Bees were capable of hitting the bucket but were off stride most of the evening.

Curtis Payne hit 17 and Max Zamora 11 while Madrino hit 15 for Dexter as top man.

Cardinals win 13th game

This past Friday and Saturday proved very fruitful for Corona. Leroy McCloud led against Estancia with 7 field goals and 4 of 5 free throws. Alvin James and Will Locke each scored 5 goals, Alvin 2 free throws and Will 5. Roman Tenorio scored 4 goals and 3 free throws, Allan Brunson, 3 goals and 3 free throws, Darrel Carnell 2 goals and 1 free throw. Allan Brunson repeatedly penetrated the Estancia defense with his fine dribbling and ball handling. Estancia led at the first quarter 11 to 15. The second, third and fourth quarters were a walk away for Corona, 36 to 29, 50 to 38, and 70 to 60 respectively.

Saturday night the Cardinals romped over Encino, Darrel Carnell was hot as a firecracker with 13 field goals, a total of 26 points, James, Carnell, Brunson, Tenorio, Locke and Leroy McCloud showed Coach Buchanan they could do all the things he has endeavored to teach them during this season. Kenneth McCloud, Richard Hervol, James Lackey and Dale Brown played the last quarter for Corona giving Coach Buchanan's starters an earned rest. They held the Encino team giving not an inch. Score by quarters were Corona 23 to 11, 46 to 18, 68 to 32 and 87 to 45. The Corona cheering section has been fabulous and attendance has been great.

Inside The Capitol

By Will Harrison

(Continued from page one) Many legislators express favor for all the program except the appointment provision and there is some talk of adopting it all except that part.

WOULD FREEZE IN PRESENT JUDGES

The program is wrapped up in one big resolution for a constitutional amendment which means it would have to be approved by the voters if it clears the legislature. The voters turned down a similar proposal in 1951.

Under the plan all the present judges would be given appointive status and not required to run again if the amendment carried in the proposed special election next September.

The names of judges would appear periodically on ballots with the question of whether they should be continued on the bench. If a majority voted against retaining a judge he would be unseated and replaced by the governor.

NON-LAWYERS IN CONTROL

The plan calls for a commission to be made up of a majority of non-lawyers which would submit lists of prospects to the governor from which appointees would be selected.

The proposed disciplinary commission would also be made up of a majority of non-lawyers.

It was the predominance of the legal profession in the 1951 plan that is commonly credited with defeat of the proposal.
