Lincoln County News
Carrizozo, New Mexico
Mr. Paul Payton, Editor

Dear Mr. Payton;
Since my story to you, "Bonney was an alias," Feb. 10th, I notice there are quite a few of your readers who are interested in the Billy the Kid legend. Since this seems to be the case, I'd like to point out to your readers that I am not such a shallow researcher as Mr. Rhodes seems to think. Mr. Wm. Morrison summed up the situation on the Bonney name quite nicely, but I'd like to inform your readers of some of the latest developments on this subject. I read Mr. Morrison's book, "Alias Billy the Kid," and the run down on his Brushy Bill Roberts and have to say that I enjoyed it very much. If your readers have read it I am sure that those who have done so will find that Mr. Morrison is a well informed writer and researcher.

I have been working with Mr. Phillip Rasch, another writer and researcher for about three years now on the specific subject of the genealogy of Billy the Kid. In the past couple of years several interesting facts have come to light.

We, like many other of your readers, gave the name Bonney much consideration in the matter of research. As Mr. Morrison mentioned, the Kid did use the name Bonney and had it signed to his letters many times. On the other hand, we had documented evidence pertaining to the name of McCarty which was beyond question, as was not the case with the name Bonney.

We wrote to Miss Telfer to try and find out what she knew, but for one reason or another she never answered us. Silence being golden, it was concluded that her claims must stand as a tenable hypothesis until they were disproved. This seems to have been accomplished by Morrison in his article to you April 7. It was very interesting to note that Miss Telfer had brought her claim to relationship with Billy the Kid to court and the case was dismissed due to lack of evidence. Until I read this article I did not know that the case had gone that far. All I was aware of was the results of extensive research.

A thorough search was made through many roles of census films, for several states, by us to try and locate Billy the Kid, his mother, and brother Joseph, as a family. We searched for the name Bonney as well as McCarty and variations due to misspellings. The only record to come from a census report came when Mr. Rasch discovered the Kid on record for 1880 in Fort Sumner. Here the Kid stated that he was 25 years old and that he and his parents were born in Missouri! We checked what little we could concerning Missouri but nothing so far has turned up. This has been appropriately termed the Missouri hypothesis. We do know that the Kid was given to "big winds" so we don't really know whether to completely discount it or not! It can neither be proven nor disproven.

Next in line of important information on our subject was a new book written by Mr. Waldo E. Koop entitled, "Billy the Kid the Trail of a Kansas Legend," put out by the Kansas City Westerners Posse in 1965. In this outstanding piece of research Mr. Koop shows us that Catherine McCarty (Billy's mother) owned some of the choicest property in the town of Wichita, Kansas on 1871! To verify this Mr. Koop produces the sworn statement of Mr. William Henry Harrison Antrim who appeared as a witness on Mrs. McCarty's land application. In Mr. Antrim's statement (he was later to become stepfather to the Kid) he states quite simply and clearly that he had known Catherine McCarty for six years past, and that she was an unmarried woman with two boys. This seems to shatter what we had, until now, accepted about Billy the Kid's mother. She obviously was not the impoverished frontier widow she was thought to have been!

As Catherine McCarty had applied for a section of the Ojaga Indian trust lands which was being opened up to the public we thought that a photostatic copy of her application to the U.S. Government for these lands would give us a chance to see her signature for the first time. It also would give us an opportunity to compare it against any future documents to turn up. Acting upon a suggestion from Mr.

Rasch as to how I might get these documents I sent to the National Archives in Wash., D. C. for a copy of them. There was no problem and the photocopies of the exact document I had sent for came a few weeks later. The results certainly were not what we had expected. On three different pages the name Cathrine was misspelled three different times. On the applicant's affidavit the signature of Catherine McCarty was written in by Andrew Akin, the register and Catherine made an X, which was noted as "her mark." We could only conclude from this that the woman was illiterate, and this being the case could never have signed her own name to any documents. Since her name always had to have been written by someone else, the margin for error in spelling was extreme!

This may be a point in favor of the claim that this woman's name was Kathleen instead of Catherine. It might be interesting to note that Kathleen is the Irish version of this name, while Catherine is the German-Russian version. It has not been proven that Billy's mother was an Irish immigrant servant girl. Under the circumstances, evidence seems to point to the contrary! The misspellings I referred to appeared in slight variations to the first name, such as: Catharine and Cathrine. Nowhere was Kathleen ever mentioned on any documents I have seen. The name McCarty has always been the same throughout all documents, although a spelling of McCarty was used in one city directory. This has brought interesting results.

No one can actually make the statement that the Kid was, or was not, born in New York, or born on any specific date, until a suitable birth record is produced on Henry McCarty. As Mr. Morrison stated, it is doubtful if Pat Garret knew anything about it, or Ash Upson either, for that matter. Just as Mr. Morrison emphasizes the importance of Billy the Kid's legal death record, so must the importance of his birth records be emphasized.

Mr. Alan Rhodes, in reply to my article of February 10, 1966, wanted to know why, after 100 (Continued on back page)

INSIDE THE CAPITOL — By Charles Cullin

Expenses in every area of new Capitol are surpassing the original estimate

SANTA FE — Ed Delgado is a longtime boy-wonder with a marvelous record of success who defeated State Sen. Jose Ortiz y Pino for the Demo nomination in the recent primary. If Delgado wins the general, he'll be a State Senator from Santa Fe County.

Last week Delgado visited in Secretary of State Alberta Miller's office and then sallied forth with some harsh comments on the Capitol Buildings Improvement Commission.

Members of the CBIC boiled over and some bitter words were exchanged.

There's a unique situation involved and it's never been said publicly.

Members of the CBIC are charged with the responsibility of looking over the progress of the new multi-million dollar Capitol.

All members of the group, however, are private businessmen who contribute their time to attend to the details of the construction.

The only paid member is Gov. Jack Campbell, who rarely can attend a meeting of the CBIC.

Expenses for the CBIC are poured principally into a tiny salary for a single secretary.

Inequity in Money Eyed

The main point is that every taxpaying resident of New Mexico is kicking in some money to build the new Capitol.

It's a vast project and expenses in every area of its construction are surpassing the original estimates.

And to handle the situation are five people who must tend their own affairs while attempting to oversee the erection of a building that is intended to serve as a "monument" to the state for many decades to come.

From a distance, the construction site is impressive. There are always dozens of workers scurrying around.

But internal problems have, in fact, become almost unbearable.

The CBIC meets each week in a restaurant and tries to make decisions while gulping down a meal.

"Change order" approvals have soared and bickering among future inhabitants has reached a peak.

Contractors have hedged in every way possible and there's no competent supervisor to stop this.

Essentially, the vast Capitol is being constructed with top-level authority being volunteer businessmen and members of the State Board of Finance, which meet only once a month.

The battered taxpayer is building a "monument" to his state. He would do well to twist his legislator's ear and attempt to have the job done so it's worth the money.

There's no kick against the volunteer CBIC. They are men who actually sacrifice time to overlook the affair. But a more virile "official" authority could be maintained.

Welfare Problem Moves To Field

A recent problem regarding lack of funds in the New Mexico Welfare Department reportedly will involve a rather extensive study of "field" workers.

To comply with regulations necessary to clip off the maximum of federal funds, Department will have to ask for more money, but will have to pay closer attention to all of the field offices.

Legitimate recipients of welfare can often be a "fringe" decision. Auditors figure there's been too much cash going out on dubious cases.

The main aim, however, is to concur with federal regulations rather than an attempt to cut off current aid.

Major problem is that field workers are generous and the Santa Fe bookkeepers are not.

You can look for a major overhaul of the department with the next administration.

A fast man

on the recovery

That Police Officer Fowler Knoblock is a man of action was proved on May 28 when he recovered a 1/2 ton 1956 Ford Pickup belonging to Len Maten, Alamogordo just one minute after the message came over the radio. It was broadcast at 1:27 p.m. at 1:36 Fowler recovered the stolen truck at Orosquieta where it had been abandoned.

LANDMARKS OF LINCOLN COUNTY...

Torreón at Old Lincoln Town

No one should be bold enough to say that history in Lincoln County began on any certain date but there are origins of history as we know it today. The Lincoln County News has engaged artist Walter Henn of Lincoln to sketch a series of historical landmarks in Lincoln County. There will be thirteen in the series.

Besides giving home folks an artist's view of these landmarks, the sketches and accompanying data will inform people who are in a position of answering tourist questions all summer.

The first of the series, the Torreón at Old Lincoln Town, has a special significance because it goes back in history to the very beginnings of the white man's presence in this area.

There are many routes to establish an approximate date of white men's arrival here. We like to refer you to Edward Penfield, as one of the best historical authorities, who will in turn tell you that Jose Corioja, great uncle of Mrs. Roman Nunez de Piocho, shipped out of Barcelona, Spain, in 1840, and settled at Las Tablas north of Capitan Mountain near the Arabella country... which was probably the first settlement in the Lincoln County area. For reasons of protection from the Indians the torreón at Lincoln was built in the years between 1840 and 1850.

There is a series of torreóns throughout the southwest. It was customary to first build a torreón, frequently of cedar or juniper poles stuck in the ground and covered with mud. The torreón at Lincoln is of rock construction.

When the torreón was underway, trenches would be dug from houses to the torreón. A sentry would keep lookout on top of the torreón to warn settlers who would come in from fields and houses during periods of Indian raiding.

Indian depredations got so bad in the Lincoln County that all white settlers departed for a period of years prior to the establishment of Fort Stanton in 1855.

Early Spanish settlers came down from Manzano County near Albuquerque, where there is a community by name of Torreón which has a tower almost identical to the one in Lincoln. Some of the earliest maps available indicate that the Spanish were in this area for gold in the Jicarilla Mountains for mining and they must have mined at the Parson's Mine location. The maps indicate arastras, a form of stone ore crusher used by the Spanish. Leonard Sharp, a Lincoln County resident with mining interests has located several arastras and hopes to someday find one complete and undisturbed.

The torreón at Lincoln is a part of the Old Lincoln County Memorial Commission, the agency of state government which operates the museum and other properties at Lincoln. Paul Gardner is the curator. Mr. Gardner or any of his staff at Lincoln will be pleased to talk with tourists, and Lincoln County folk, about this historic settlement.

mins and many others. He is a person of great interest and I do feel, they are doing a grand job to date. But, of course want suggestions.

I believe they would like to accomplish it much faster, but to date they have done well. It takes lots of time and work to reach their goal. We all know and understand, then it takes the same to keep it in operation. Our Smokey Bear Club is doing a splendid job. Many members and other too.

I do wish them success and I know they will make it. Alamogordo is much larger, but one can see, it is the same in all places, large or small. But, if they follow the pattern they have started, they will make it.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Perry and Mrs. Vera Beall of Lincoln were business visitors in Capitan on Wednesday.

Mr. Edgar Phillips underwent surgery on the left side of his nose last Tuesday morning. It was more serious than expected. Mrs. (Hattie) is with him. Mrs. Richard (Lisa) Phillips is taking care of the Post Office for Hattie during her absence. I do wish you a speedy recovery, Edgar.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Huey and two daughters of Albuquerque are here to make their home. They have lived in Albuquerque for several years and have a nice home there but are selling it. He has been in an office with IBM and is tired of it and wants to be out in the open. Therefore the change. Welcome to Capitan. We hope you find and enjoy the kind of work you desire.

Mr. Shows of Hollywood who has the Motof TV repair is in the process of installing Cable TV in Lincoln. He has the material ordered. Those people will enjoy several stations. I am so glad for them. He really does know his business in TV.

The State Highway crews from Portales or Clovis came in Monday morning and left Friday night. They are installing the signs and railing on the new highway to the Ski Area. It is good to know progress is going on around us.

Mrs. Sonny Durham who came home from the Carrizozo Hospital a week ago, is doing very nicely of which we are happy to see.

Mrs. Frankie Easley of Hobbs spent last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Charles.

The following poem, written by Mrs. F. E. Richard in 1944, seems especially appropriate at this time, just a week after her death.

Life Is Like a Day

Morning and childhood with song and laughter
Bright promise of what will follow after.
A little play, then school and work,
Responsibilities we must not shirk.
Eagerly we play a game of chance
With fame, fortune, and romance.
At noon, a pause to celebrate success,
Forgetful of the ones who may have less.
Storm clouds arise and friends forsake,
Riches vanish though hearts may break,
Too late we see through bitter tears
That love alone withstands the years.
With falling strength we wait awhile
Wondering what lies beyond the last short mile.
Evening, and the softly fading light,
Darkness; and the long, cold, night.

Mrs. Shows of Hollywood who has the Motof TV repair is in the process of installing Cable TV in Lincoln. He has the material ordered. Those people will enjoy several stations. I am so glad for them. He really does know his business in TV.

Mike Randle of Lubbock Christian College and Johnnie Cambell of Western N. M. U. in Silver City are home for the summer from their studies.

Mrs. Rench accompanied by the R. D. Kingstons went to Carrizozo Friday morning on business. We did enjoy those good people. We always do.

Sam Massey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Massey of the Massey Herefords ranch and Miss Kila Smith of Monahans, Texas were united in marriage in a church in Ruidoso Saturday evening. I wish you a long and happy life together.

The new addition being built at the Smokey Bear Motel is progressing nicely. It is ready for the shingles at this time.

The State Highway crews from Portales or Clovis came in Monday morning and left Friday night. They are installing the signs and railing on the new highway to the Ski Area. It is good to know progress is going on around us.

Suppose a local merchant has a tabloid preprint he wants to get in the hands of his customers. Would it be better for him to mail it direct to his customers, or bring it to the News and have us send the preprint along with our newspaper?
Here is What It Would Cost Him To Do His Own Mailing:
Post Office permit (yearly) $ 45.00
Bulk rate postage (1500) 43.12
Addressing, bundling 12.00
Cost to direct mail 1500 100.12
Cost for mailing without bulk permit approximately $104.00

(WHEN SENT AS SUPPLEMENT TO NEWS)
What would the News charge to mail, as a supplement of its newspaper, 1,500 preprinted copies? First, the News is not selling a distribution service, rather we are selling readership with acceptance. For us to charge on a distribution basis would not be fair to our advertisers. (What kind of answer could we give our best advertiser next week if he came in and said he was not running his regular ad, but wanted us to distribute his insert for 2c each).
In general, but real close figures, the News will charge full ad price for half the inches of the preprint.
Cost, 4-Page Tabloid Preprint As Supplement To News $96
Mr. Merchant, we invite you to ask our readers how long they keep the Lincoln County News in their house, before making shelf paper, meat wrapper, or putting our newspaper to other use. Average time will be a week or more.

50th ANNIVERSARY

By Robert L. Embrey.

Grandson of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Degner on their 50th wedding anniversary.

The fire and brimstones gone;
Now the old ones merely muse,
And many times in Methodist pews,
Over past years when life was a merry song.

50th Wedding Anniversary this day.
Grandchildren are celebrating with cheer
While grandfather still calls his wife dear.
And the kinfolk were never more gay.

Strange, on Easter this occurrence did fall,
But then maybe it's not so odd,
For it could be a work of God;
It means greatness for us, but for Him tis only small.

The Golden Anniversary shows love
In this life long partnership of smooth sailing,
So God must be halting
Down through the angels from above.

The oldfolk, even after all these years
Through so much blood, sweat and tears,
Are still so very much in love,
Tis plainly visible, for their tenderness is softer than a dove.

Maybe some year
Not long in time to come,
I, myself will find the one,
That on our 50th year, I'll hold dear.

The anatomy of a newspaper

By G. Richard Dew
Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Assn.

THE LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS, THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1966

THIS IS NOT a news story. This is a newspaper story about newspapers. It is called "The Anatomy of a Newspaper." Why "anatomy"?

According to a dictionary, anatomy is defined as: "The structural makeup of an organism or any of its parts."

Of course, everyone readily visualizes the human anatomy. The human anatomy is a complex mechanism with thousands of parts and components all carefully joined and interlocked to produce an end product — the whole human body.

In this description, if one substitutes newspaper for human body an interesting analogy is made:

The anatomy is a complex mechanism with thousands of parts and components all carefully joined and interlocked to produce an end product — the whole community newspaper.

To illustrate, visualize the picture of eight major portions of the human body — and their newspaper counterparts:

First — the brain. In the newspaper structure this stands for ownership and management.

Next — the eyes and ears — two counterparts in the newspaper: one eye and ear, the editor; the second eye and ear, the advertising manager.

Fourth — the mouth — on the newspaper — the editorial page writers.

Fifth — the arms — as reporters and advertising salesmen.

Sixth — the legs — the men and boys and occasionally women that make up the circulation department.

Seventh — the lungs, internal organs and blood — this is the production crew — the printers, pressmen, typesetters, etc.

Eighth and last — the heart. What do you think the heart of a newspaper might be? The answer is in a moment.

Taking each of the anatomical parts in the order listed — a few explanatory comments may be helpful.

A market of profit — it is pure and simple — a business enterprise.

Anybody with the inclination and money necessary — can start a newspaper. The quality of its brain, of its owner's and manager's ability to provide a salable product will have direct bearing on its success or failure.

The eyes and ears (news editors and advertising managers): In the human body eyes see, and ears hear the passing scene. They collect, evaluate and interpret and record information. So it is with editors for news; advertising managers for.

Sight and sound — seeing and hearing — the two most valuable senses. Without one — the human anatomy is grossly handicapped. Without both a human approaches complete incompetence.

A newspaper without the talents of a news editor to see what news is — to hear what news is — would be a failure from the start.

A newspaper without advertising — has been tried but always found to be an incomplete — less popular — less interesting — and always unsuccessful enterprise. Without advertising, for example, a typical city daily newspaper would have to sell for many times its per copy price — providing enough people would pay the high cost to keep it in business.

The mouth (the newspaper's editorial writers): This means newspaper editorials, commentary, cartoons, the columnists — and even letters to the editors.

A newspaper without a mouth is more than mute. It is incomplete and ineffectual. A good newspaper doesn't talk with one voice, doesn't present just one viewpoint. A good newspaper offers its own thinking — and adds to it a good balance of the voices of others — liberal-oriented columnists, conservative viewpoint columnists — serious columnists, etc.

A simple tip to better newspaper reading, incidentally, is to clearly establish in your own mind these important differences. Know when you're reading something in newspaper whether that paper is offering it to you as news or opinion — and if opinion, whose!

The arms (the reporters and the advertising salesmen): Both arms play vital roles in the success or failure of a newspaper. For example, if the reporter is lazy — if he doesn't stretch his arms to get the news — if he doesn't dig to get the facts — he isn't doing his job. Perhaps the term "hand-out" referring to a prepared publicity release, is doubly significant when we think of a reporter as the arms of a newspaper. For surely the handout is not enough.

The legs (personnel of the circulation department): The circulation manager, the route men and the great phenomenon of the American business scene the newspaperboy — usually operating not as an employee but as an independent businessman in his own right — buying papers at wholesale and selling at retail and pocketing a neat profit for his industry and energy. For many readers — their newspaperboy may be their only personal contact they have regularly with a newspaper. It is hoped he is treated with the respect and dignity that his dedicated leg work commands.

Lungs, organs and blood (the production crew — the printers, pressmen, typesetters, machinists, etc.): This is a particularly true analogy. For these various anatomical necessities give life to everything else. Without them the human body is dead. Without skills and talents of the production departments a newspaper would never come into being. A bad appendix or collapsed lung will put the strongest man out of business until repairs are made. A broken typesetting machine or busted cog wheel on a press similarly sidelines the newspaper.

The heart of a newspaper is you. You — the reader, you — the community which the newspaper serves.

The human heart is defined as the most essential part of any body or system. It is the center of spiritual or conscious life.

What more perfect way to define the role of a newspaper reader and the community which the readers as a whole comprise?

For truly the reader is the most essential part of any newspaper. Without the reader, it could not exist — in fact, would have no reason for being.

You as a reader are, in fact, the seat of a newspaper's conscious life. It is suggested that you respect yourself for the role you play in your own newspaper. Learn to understand what it is and why it is.

No injuries in four minor accidents but State Police have busy weekend

Four minor accidents which caused no serious injuries but did some damage to vehicles involved and kept state policemen busy with investigations occurred over the past ten days. ## I didn't have a very happy childhood either

(Contributed)

But nobody worried very much about it. I was too busy, I guess — cutting lawns, shoveling snow, running errands, delivering packages for 10 cents, selling newspapers, doing housecleaning for my mother, and going to school. I passed my grades, too; if I hadn't, I'd have had the hide strapped off me.

No one concerned himself about my amusements, either. What fun we had, we made. But if we did any damage like breaking a window in a ball game we paid for it by working it out.

We never heard these modern phrases like "standard of living," "subsistence level," "minimum requirements." Our standard of living was whatever my father (and after I was about 12, my father and I) earned. I don't suppose people "understood" me and if I had said so, my mother would have asked, "Why should they?" And certainly no one ever gave a thought to my "problems." They were mine, weren't they? Mine to solve. Why should I expect anyone else to bother?

If my father was laid off, we stopped spending on anything but food, and a lot less of that. My dad spent every waking hour looking for work — any work. We lived on savings and when they were gone, we moved in with relatives. If there had been no relatives, when every penny and every salable asset was gone, we would have gone to the only place left — the County Poor House — but that would have been an admission that we couldn't take care of ourselves.

You'll notice in this true story of a typical American family of a few years back, I'm not talking about privileges nor happiness. I guess we didn't have much. But we had something that was infinitely more important, infinitely more rewarding — we had self-respect, because whatever we had, however little it was, we earned.

It seems to me that is why America is the strong nation it is today — and it will stay strong only as long as there are enough Americans more interested in earning than getting.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions; some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

A bunch of pantiwaists

In South America campus demonstrations and riots are close to putting education out of business. A part of this left-wing infiltration is tolerance of most any campus misbehavior.

The campus of the University of California is becoming the playground for far-left-wingers and it seems hard to understand how a college president can be so remote from the facts of life and tolerate, in the name of California taxpayers, such a lack of discipline.

Carrizozo high school campus is not nearly so remote but lack of discipline exists just the same. Zoza seniors laid down the law, they would not participate in graduation ceremonies and outside help was necessary to run the program off.

A bunch of pantiwaists with no guts are heading both Zoza and California institutions.

Judged poorly, fought splendidly

Emmett John Hughes, writer for Newsweek magazine, has made a trip to Viet Nam. His opinions and thinking come as clear as any we've read to an honest report of the situation. On Monday morning 1966 the News editor took time to sort out and summarize the Hughes article.

As one of the highest officials in the British Foreign Office stated the matter, "To the cool eye of Belong you have been led to commit 300,000 men to a struggle that costs China exactly nothing. If you were Peking why would you negotiate?"

An one Foreign Minister argued "Your ambassadors and your generals keep saying that you are waging war in the holy name of 'anti-Communism.' Yet Washington keeps saying it will gladly negotiate with the Communists and accept their popular election to a Saigon government. It's hard to understand how you can sincerely hold both views. In fact, it is hard to know just what your government imagines is going to be won out of all this."

It is not possible to respect a regime under Premier Nguyen Cao Ky as concerned with democracy or competent to govern. The Premier is immature, shallow, vastly pretentious and wildly mercurial.

It is utterly untrue to blame the country's political ferment on the cryptic politics or ambitions of a cabal of Buddhist monks. As falsehood always begets falsehood this fiction is essentially the invention of those US propagandists who must explain away their earlier fabrication, namely: a South Vietnam that has "turned the corner" in military security and political progress.

It has remained for the United States to contrive the contrary blunder: to credit its military power with a gift for the most elaborate political achievement — the making of a new and free nation. This stays, as it has always appeared, the fatal flaw. It is a demonstrable fact that U.S. policy has over-extended itself with reckless extravagance politically. This involvement is wholly without precedent in American policy.

As one wise and sympathetic statesman of Southeast Asia stated to me: "You are going to leave Vietnam. You are not going to be routed or humiliated: your armadas and your bombers make you the greatest power over in the South Pacific. But you are going to leave because the earth-bound politics of Vietnam cannot be solved by the airborne cavalry of America."

It is a stern choice in American politics. It would require of Washington almost a convulsion of candor and a revolution in courage. This means the courage to concede, after all, that the present hope of history for Vietnam has never been more in truth, than a nation dealing with Peking much as Poland deals with Moscow. And it means the wisdom to sense that American repute in Asia is not dignified but diminished by untiring war for the unattainable victory and American honor is not tarnished but brightened when so great a power can say, with quiet assurance: we have judged poorly, fought splendidly, and survive confidently.

I can think of no other way that the leaders of the United States might match the courage of the soldiers they have dispatched.

Rather not have 'aginer' label

People frequently misunderstand attitudes and opinions of editors because words do not convey the same meaning to all people.

The News editor is not against all foreign aid but when a nation is breeding faster than it can possibly be feeding we feel such a nation should take drastic steps about its starving millions before coming to the United States for help. Yes, we are willing to extend help, but on a basis that will get at the root of the problem.

The News editor is not opposed to people working, fact is, we think people should have the right to work and we oppose the closed shop. On the same line, a high minimum wage has the tendency to stop apprentice training programs, and in the long run cuts down on the number of available jobs.

We like small towns, they once were the backbone of America, but small towns have died by the thousands and a do-nothing attitude on the part of a long line of city officials can kill any small town eventually. We're not against small towns, rather we're much for them, but the small town that is not going forward (hopefully at a controlled pace) is going backward to eventual demise.

We're not against athletics in schools in any sense of the word, as some might think when we write editorials about a well-rounded school. A grad can't do much with his football letter by the time he gets to college, but he can make speeches, present himself in able manner for job, make music with voice or instrument, make repairs around the house, etc., the rest of his life.

We're not "against" much in this world, but maybe we're "for" different things.

also can give you one hell-of-a sunburn." After three days of deciphering we finally got the message.

Swiped from Duffy — Isn't it amazing that a narrow-minded person can stack so many prejudices in a thin verticle column? There's a line on the ocean where you lose a day when you cross it. There's a line on most highways where you can do even better. Overheard: "So your son got his B, A. and M. A.?" "Yes, but his P. A. still has to support him."

W • W

We asked our senior printer why the 66 class was being so contrary at grad time, asked him point-blank if he was one of them. Answer was yes. To our question of why he said he was just going along with the crowd. We cannot tell you who is the leader of the crowd of 66 in Zoza.

A tourist in Africa saw a hunter complete with helmet, rifle and bush jacket, but standing only two feet tall, at the bar.

"Good gosh," he said to the bartender. "Who is he? How can it be that a big game hunter is so tiny?"

"Mr. Bedford," called the bartender. "Here's someone else who would like to hear about the time you told the witch doctor he was a big fake!"

The youngsters who want seriously to go to college will probably find a way (many scholarships untapped, jobs available), but in future years parents are going to buck harder at the cost of higher education for their youngsters. From June business magazine: "Since 1950, the average prices of food, clothing, shelter and new car has risen by 22%. In the same 15 years, the average total cost of attending college has risen by nearly 60%. The worst is yet to come, for the average total cost of tuition, room and board is now rising at the rate of about 5% a year."

We've heard much talk around Carrizozo that no good rodeo dates are open — seems to us like Memorial Day is a good as any. It's a full weekend holiday, probably as good a set of weather as any day in the year. Average high is 89, low 66, average wind speed is 7.9 knots and average rainfall is .25 inch.

Personal records set by Gene Lusk

SANTA FE — Gene Lusk of Carlsbad established two personal Democratic political records Tuesday when he won the Democratic nomination for governor.

The party set a record in the number of Democrats who turned out to vote.

Lusk received nearly 85,000 votes in his landslide victory over former Gov. John Burroughs. This far exceeded the number of votes received by any candidate for governor in the history of the state.

Burroughs had been the previous record holder, with 66,541 votes in the 1960 Democratic primary.

Lusk's second record was in the plurality over his opponent. Unofficial returns indicate Lusk beat Burroughs by about 27,500 votes. The last time any Democratic candidate came close to such a plurality was 1948 when Gov. Thomas J. Mabry won the nomination for a second term over Eugene Allison 41,991 votes to 16,201.

The total Democratic vote of about 142,000 was a record, exceeding the past record by more than 18,000 votes.

On the Ball

"Yes," said the personnel manager, to the job applicant, "what we're after is a man of vision; a man with drive, determination, fire; a man who can inspire others; a man who can pull our bowling team out of last place!"

most interesting and historic Desk has just been installed in the Courthouse Museum at Lincoln. The gift of Daniel R. Brenton, lawyer, who lived for many years at Nogal and later built a handsome residence in old Lincoln Town, the desk was used in his office for years by Andrew H. Hudspeth, a pioneer Justice and lawyer in Lincoln County.

The desk, of blond walnut, is simple and massive. It is composed of two large pedestals which contain drawers and filing cabinets. These two pedestals are joined by a single plank top, over six feet long and thirty inches wide. It is a knee-hole type with the opening going through the desk and so can be used from either side.

Born in 1874, Hudspeth was a native of Texas and studied law at the Cumberland University in Tennessee. He came to Lincoln County in 1894 and was admitted to the bar the same year. He had a colorful career in New Mexico. From 1894 to 1902 he was secretary of the Angus VV ranch. In 1902 he entered, into partnership with Judge John Y. Hewitt and they practiced law together in White Oaks for many years. He served as United States Marshall from 1913-1921. Soon after he took office he had to deal with a serious uprising of Navajo Indians who went on the warpath.

He called in the First Squadron of the 12th U. S. Cavalry which had to be rushed from Nebraska by special train to Gallup. He was successful in negotiating a treaty of peace and friendship with the Navajo chiefs before any bloodshed took place.

When Pancho Villa raided Columbus, New Mexico the raid resulted in the Pershing expedition into Mexico — Hudspeth had to go to Columbus and spend many weeks there in onerous duties, supervising the border patrols and dealing with Mexican soldiery who broke the neutrality laws and illegally entered United States territory.

In 1930 he was elected Justice of the Supreme Court of New Mexico and spent six years on the court, part of the time as Chief Justice. He served again on this court in 1946 when he filled out the term of Justice Thomas J. Mabry who had resigned his office. After his service on the Supreme Court he returned to Lincoln County and practiced law in Carrizozo, later going to California where he died in 1948. Until his death, he believed with great confidence that White Oaks would one day resume its importance as a great gold mining camp.

Roswell land bank notes 50th year

As a service to farmers and ranchers, the Federal Land Bank Association of Roswell will join in a national program of public information keyed to the 50th Anniversary of the Federal Land Bank System. The Roswell Association, along with some 700 other associations and the 12 Federal Land Banks, will carry out the program to make all Americans aware of the importance of agriculture.

Vonnie Jasper, the local Association manager, stated that large segments of the country's population, such as city residents, factory workers and the like, are not aware of the vital part which agricultural people take in adding to the basic strength of the nation.

With agriculture moving into a "challenging new era of development for rural America and of production for the worldwide battle against hunger," it becomes increasingly necessary that the complete story of agricultural progress and potentials be told, he said.

Mr. Jasper noted that numerous meetings, commemorative activities and special anniversary events will get under way in the coming months, leading up to the nation-wide 50th Anniversary in 1967. The 12 Federal Land Banks were established in 1917 under the Federal Farm Loan Act.

The 50th Anniversary comes as a timely opportunity, Mr. Jasper commented, to translate the accomplishments of agriculture into terms of interest for all people everywhere. He said the Federal Land Bank Association of Roswell welcomes the chance to take part in this effort.

Nature sculpture by Wilbur Coe will have 1st showing at Lincoln Museum

The opening exhibition to be held under the new summer program displays at the Courthouse Museum in Lincoln will have widespread interest. It will be devoted to the first showing anywhere of the highly imaginative Nature Sculpture of Wilbur Coe of Glencoe in Lincoln County. It is fitting that this exhibition should honor Wilbur Coe. For years, as President of the Lincoln County Historical Society, he and Mrs. Coe were prime movers in stimulating and finding financial support to found the Courthouse Museum. To the Coes, too, must go the credit of establishing and continuing the annual Pageant of the Last Escape of Billy the Kid and the securing and setting apart the pageant grounds. The exhibition will open on Sunday, June 5th and will continue through the month. The Courthouse Museum is open daily from eight until five.

Another outstanding feature of the exhibition will be the inclusion of the portrait of Mr. Coe, painted by New Mexico's foremost artist, Peter Hurd. It has been acclaimed by national critics as one of Mr. Hurd's finest portraits and has never before been exhibited locally. It is lent through courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Coe.

Mr. Coe enjoys talking about his sculptures and his eyes sparkle as he explains how he was inspired to start these completely individual carvings. He first began the hobby some fifteen years ago and has completed several hundred objects. They range in size from tiny figurines no larger than one's finger, to heroic animals or humans that are fifteen to eighteen feet high. His interest in the plastic arts comes naturally as his grandfather was a noted architect in Missouri.

His first sculpture, a realistic eagle, can still be seen at the entrance of the Coe Ranch. He was riding the hills across the Ruidoso River and came upon the burned stump of a juniper tree. His discerning and penetrating eyes immediately saw the form of the bird in the stump and it took very little carving effort to release the eagle from the charred remains. Mr. Coe's apple orchards are famous all over the Southwest; he has spent many hours in them on horseback, his eyes always alert for some root or stump that suggests the eventual human being, animal or bird. Thus, much of his later work is of apple wood.

The figures have endless variety, no two of them alike. Sometimes human figure is in dance or sport poses, sometimes the arms raised as in prayer. One eighteen inch figure has the characteristics of an actor from the Italian pantomime, with flaring, almost ragged garments and a rakish hat with a long and pointed visor. It is one of his finest carvings. An angel, at the moment of alighting on the ground, has the wind swept draperies of a Greek personification of Victory. The animals assume the familiar postures of their habits, striding in stealth or upright on hind legs, as poised for a quick get-away. The birds are in repose, with heads cocked to one side, or wings spread ready for flight. Some of these birds are treated as the mobile sculptures of modern art and become more effective hanging from the ceiling. One bear recalls the trained animals of a circus, as he is standing upright and playing a superimposed violin. A kangaroo has the typical crouched back with a baby in its pouch. An ant eater prowls the ground, its beady eyes alert for a succulent insect. Many of these animals have the eerie quality of a surrealist's dream.

Some of the sculptures are already formed for him by nature, others take some time to develop and emerge. His tool is most simple - a pocket knife. He relates that he has bought many elaborate sculpture tools but never uses them, only his trusty knife that is constantly with him. He works in a small, compact studio, surrounded by many half-finished pieces. Often he mounts the root or stump temporarily and will spend many days studying it - as all sculptors do - from every angle until the final image takes form in his eyes. Sometimes nature has to be improved a bit - the shape of a head, an eye, a hand or foot - a claw or beak aided by his simple pocket knife. But for the most part the finished sculpture has needed very little assistance to emerge in its captivating, final form. In many of the figures, the natural grains of the wood will accent the movement.

The exhibition will contain some fifty of Mr. Coe's very personal sculptures and will open with a reception in the Courthouse Museum with attending hostesses from two until five o'clock on Sunday the fifth of June.

Bonney was alias

(Continued from page one) years of being accepted, the name Bonney should now be questioned? In all due respect to him, I would say the information included in the article should have been self explanatory! I suppose the reason for so much present interest in the Bonney name comes from the various claims people have made concerning it. Some claimed to have been the Kid himself, while others merely distant relatives of our dashing pigeon for the Lincoln County War. Also the element of time, and researchers interested in this subject, have produced a combination which brought new evidence to light. Material on this subject has been hard to find and even harder to authenticate.

This brings Miss Telfer to my mind once again. If she seriously believes she is related to Billy the Kid, she has been up against the same problems of collecting evidence as men in this field who are professionals and can't find anything! Evidence acceptable in a court of law, which would be conclusive on the subject, would be next to impossible to find. It is a small wonder that she lost the case mentioned by Mr. Morrison in your paper, and is reluctant to answer letters questioning her on the subject, which I mentioned! If she can prove her case more power to her. We just cannot find anything to do her much good.

Respectfully,
 William Carson
