Corona and Carrizozo opening day the 22nd

Supt. Bill Hall of Corona has gone to Cheyenne, Wyo., for a few days vacation attending the Frontier Days celebration, but will be back next week to get the 1966-67 school year started at Corona.

Carrizozo Schools will open August 22, with registration at 10 o'clock. All teachers and students are expected to be present. School will be dismissed at 2 p.m.

The new program for pre-school children has not been cleared at this time but Superintendent Glen Ellison stated that they hope to have it set up and ready to go with the beginning of school. However, there is a possibility that it may be later.

All bus routes are to remain about the same. There will be some changes in Ray Stone-man's route involving the south part of town.

At this point the staff is lacking one teacher in English. The board expects to have this position filled by the opening of school.

School is set to be out May 19, 1967.

New restaurant open by Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hill are working on the Lewis Huffman property getting it in shape for restaurant opening which should happen Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill moved to Carrizozo because they want to live here and decided that the restaurant business was the only thing they could do to make a living. Mr. Hill has been in the business for 25 years. They expect to cater to local people, serving American and Spanish food.

A lot of cleaning and repairing is necessary to get the restaurant in operation. Water pipes were broken and are being replaced, and equipment had to be worked over.

Mrs. Hill (Donna) has worked at the restaurant business for a number of years. They expect to be open 18 hours a day to start. The restaurant is located on Highway 54 at the south side of town.

LANDMARKS OF LINCOLN COUNTY . . . By Walter Henn

The Courthouse in Old Lincoln Town

The Lincoln County News editor, Paul Payton, has been doing the writeups to go with Walter Henn's sketches and we must confess that there are so many side trails leading off from the main one centering on Lincoln County's first courthouse that this writing only touches the surface of the story. However, the surface is almost as interesting as the depths.

The old courthouse building much as you see it in Old Lincoln Town today, was built for L. G. Murphy & Co., who used it for general store and residence. Men doing repair job on buildings at Fort Stanton probably did the work.

One major change was made after Lincoln County acquired the property. There were four rooms in the present courtroom location, the partitions were taken out to form the courtroom.

Murphy was born in Ireland and educated to be a priest, some say Anglican, others Catholic. Anyway, he never followed priesthood and probably was the best of the scalawags who were prominent in Lincoln during the Lincoln County War. Murphy never took an active part.

People in Lincoln County must have held him in high regard because he was the county's first probato officer, a rather high office in those times. One of his duties was to divide the county into precincts. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge and meetings were held in his store building.

Murphy never married and descendants of Lincoln Town in its heyday say that people never really knew him. He died in Santa Fe, after a prolonged drunk, it is said.

When Murphy built his store building there could have been six or eight other business places. A hotel was prominent, a blacksmith, several saloons, likely a saddlery and another store. Lincoln remained the business center of the area for many years.

An interesting note from old commissioner's records — on July 18, 1870, Samuel Wortley, who built the Wortley Hotel in Lincoln, presented commissioners a bill for $29.25 for boarding prisoners and jurors.

On December 15, 1880, action was taken by Lincoln County Commissioners Isaac Ellis, W. W. Paul and J. C. Lea to complete purchase of about 200 acres, water rights, building, dwelling, store (the courthouse building) used by James J. Dolan & Co. from Will Dowlin & Co. The consideration was $15,000, payments made by 18 warrants, probably, bearing different dates.

The following meeting of Lincoln commissioners was held in the clerk's office January 5, 1881, in the courthouse. J. C. Lea was the man who laid out the Roswell townsite.

Things were handled differently in those days. Lots of petitions to have precinct boundary lines were presented to the county commissioners. In April 1882 the commissioners issued $40,000 worth of bonds by resolution — no election held, the record does not state (Continued on back page)

"A day in Old Lincoln" merits a visit to an historic old Town

The interest in the entertainment called "A Day in Old Lincoln" given in connection with the pageant, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid," often rivals that of the pageant itself. The program this year is so varied that it merits a trip to historic Lincoln Town on Sunday, August 7th. Betty Shrecengost is again in charge and her experience has enabled her to assemble a first rate show. Of great importance is the fact that this program, given before the Sunday afternoon performance of the pageant, is free to the general public.

The Day will start at ten in the morning with old time music. Featured will be Mark Storm and his guitar from Houston and many local musicians. At eleven, there will be a Polka Contest, open to all comers and this will be an animated event. The ample stage of the Pageant grounds will give every opportunity for contestants to show their nimbleness and precision in the frolicking steps of the still popular polka. Lincoln County has always been one of the most active centers of Square Dancing and groups from all over the area will perform off and on during the day. From Roswell will come the Enchanted Whirlwinds and other groups, and from Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, the popular Sierra Squares. Don Driver of Ruidoso will be the guest caller. With their colorful costumes, the lively music and the challenging commands of the caller, Square Dancing is one of the most popular attractions. An innovation this year will be Group Stepping in which the audience can take part.

For visitors who want to spend the entire day in Lincoln, Pearl Soderbeck at the atmospheric Westley Hotel is to serve a buffet lunch and dinner.

The several practices of the past week of the Pageant, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid" to be given at Lincoln on August 6th and 7th, are whipping the dramatic episodes into shape. The main roles have been filled and this year, one of the largest and most enthusiastic responses of participants has made it unnecessary to have one actor play several roles as in the past.

The most coveted role, that of Billy, will be played by Tom Taylor, great-grandson of Geo. Coe who fought in the Lincoln County War. Tom's sister, Phoebe Mae will play the part of Susan McSween, the lovely Easterner who came to the frontier town of Lincoln and astounded the local women with her fancy frocks and her love of music. Her unfortunate husband, Alexander, will be played by Jon Armstrong whose maternal grandparents owned the famous Panfield Store, now the Tunstall - McSween Museum. Jack Thomas, whose father Johnny played the part of Billy for so many years, has just returned from officer's training camp at Fort Sill in time to play his old role of Tunstall. No one can fall more dramatically from a horse than Jack, and his acting of the killed Tunstall is realistic and effective.

Dan Storm will again play the lone gun man, Buckshot Roberts and as usual, he steals the show in this one-handed duel with a posse of thirteen at Blazer's Mill. Other old timers are David Bonnell as Pat Garrett and Kenneth Nosker as Gov. Lew Wallace. New comers this year are Frank Butts as Brewer, Preston Radcliff as Bowdre, Harold Radcliff as Bell, Arthur Salas, whose father Cy was a minority of the pageant for years until his health forbade him to continue, plays Brady and his brother Robert.

the role of Slazar. Tommy Alcaz plays Squire Wilson and Joe Montana will again be the humorous and affable bartender.

The comic role of Goss will be played by Jimmy Racher and Mike Seymour will be the itinerant peddler whose fancy wares catch all the feminine eyes in the first scene. Theodor and Ramon Maes have promised to add their delightful and hilarious sketch "The Bor-racho's Rescue" to the Fiesta Scene. Incidental music will be provided by Mark Storm, Lois Morris and Mariano Aldez.

In order to attain a new degree of perfection, a special light rehearsal will be held on the Pageant grounds before the Dress Rehearsal of Thursday evening, August 4th. Ann Seymour and Henry Sanchez are in charge of the spot and flood lights which have been lent by the New Mexico Military Institute. A special prologue is planned at the beginning of each performance that will have a definite nostalgic appeal to the many who have been constant and yearly spectators of the Pageant. John Thomas, in his familiar costume of the part of Billy, will be present to receive the applause of the audience and also to enact a brief pantomime in which he will hand over his guns to the new Billy, Tom Taylor. Also will be present at this little ceremony, Barney Aldez, who has played the part of Ollinger every year and is playing it again this year. This makes him perhaps the most faithful actor of the cast and well deserved of an ovation from the audience.

The event that receives most attention and interest at "A Day in Old Lincoln" is the popular Fiddlers Contest. This year it will start at 1 p.m. in the Pageant Amphitheatre and again there will be prizes for the winners. A competent jury of Kathryn Halk Travis of Ruidoso and Cecil Bonney and Joe Huff of Roswell will be on hand to judge the results. Banjos, electric guitars, mandolins, may come and go, but the fiddle is most definitely associated with the frontier Southwest and it is fitting that this contest should be the feature of the Sunday program.

Town grants 25-year franchise to Capitan - Carrizozo Gas Association

Carrizozo town council met Tuesday night to allow bills and take care of routine matters.

J. R. Turner will pay $100 on cost of abstract covering airport property bought by town from Turner, town to pay balance.

Natalio Chavez application for $600 building permit to add 12x16 kitchen to his house granted. Frank McBride wants weekly garbage service, out of town limits, will be done at $3.50 per month.

Town originally had 24 code books now down to two in the town hall. These books need to be updated by addition of many resolutions and ordinances. Persons having code books are asked to return them to town hall.

Swimming pool receipts totaled $42.81 for July, cigarette tax money $119.20, Coke machine money $20.00.

A resolution adopted May 10 granted the Capitan - Carrizozo Natural Gas Association franchise rights in Carrizozo for 25 years from date of acceptance. Bert Chaney, president, signing for the Association, accepted the franchise.

The Town Clerk was instructed to get information from Town of Ruidoso on airport hangers, their construction, leasing, renting, etc.

Councilman Joe Ventura asked who had been left in charge of town utilities while Wayne Withers was on vacation. Mayor Leandro Vera, Sr., said he did not know. Withers had not told him he was going on vacation. Ventura commented that the garbage truck was off schedule, that some road work needed to be done adjacent to football field and leading to the baseball field.

All members present except Councilman Chevo Baca. Mayor Vega expects Baca to return to Carrizozo and said unless he resigned or was gone for six months no appointment would be made to fill his vacancy.

A true bear story . . . sworn to on stack of bibles by R. K. Runnels

He says, "Some have got it, some don't. Some believe, and some don't. But I'll swear on a stack of Bibles that this is the truth. Back in 1947 I was raising hogs on the Bonita. These hogs were disappearing until one day while I was aboard ole Susie I heard a pig squealing. I hung the spurs to my horse, Suzie, and soon reached the scene of the slaughter. A medium-sized bruin was already eating away on the neck of the dead hog. Well I jerked my 30-30 from the saddle scabbard, and I got a snap hip shot at the bear as he disappeared into the timber. Momentarily he came out of the timber through a small opening, and I noticed he was limping on his right front foot. I had an ole blood hound known as Blue, and another I called ole Mack. "Incidentally, he didn't come from Give A Dam Canyon!" Well any way the dogs and I ran this ole bruin at one time for 3 days. I saw several signs of this bruin at water holes, and I also noticed that his right front foot was a stub except for one 3 inch claw I called him Ole South Paw. One night before day light South Paw sneaked into the old corral at Bonita and made his get-a-way with a week-old calf. I found his tracks and knew it was Ole South Paw. I immediately unchained Blue and Mack and the chase was on. Mack lost his life from a hard left to his head, and Blue who was 14 years old ready for retirement under medical care, with a card, died of a heart attack during the chase. They were buried on Tenderfoot Mountain. Well any way I had many encounters with South Paw after that, but the next major encounter occurred in 1954 when the Call Brothers at High Mesa Ranch reported a 600 pound steer missing. I went to help the boys find it, and sure enough Ole South Paw found another victim. The game warden was called to the scene, and we were informed that the steer had been struck by lightning and that Ole South Paw had merely fed on the corpse. However, six of us boys set up an ambush for Ole South Paw at the murder scene. Along about dark here came South Paw. Sounds like Cox's army opening up, but Ole South Paw escaped unharmed. It seemed as if he was immortal. All these bear-hunters with dogs still haven't been able to bay or tree Ole South Paw. He eludes them all. My next meeting with Ole South Paw occurred in 1961 down the ranch which is called the "Old Ferguson Place". He was eating away on some ripe pumpkins and squash. We met face to face at the garden gate, and I was unarmed. He gave me the impression that he was thinking "You can't out fox me ole boy." That was my last encounter with him until this July '66. I was making coffee and had the radio playing when I heard the fuel barrel overturn, and then the garbage cans made a clatter. I didn't pay any attention at first, but then I thought I had better shoot her away anyway. I looked through the back door panel and nearly had a heart attack at what I saw. There was Ole South Paw reared up with his stub on the hood of the pickup just twelve feet from my point of view. His head and head were rising far above the cab of the pickup. I made a dash and grabbed my pistol that was tucked under my belt. Then I got the old O-6. I heard the door knocking and banging. It was Ole South Paw reared up on the panel glass door. We were looking in each other face to face only one foot apart. I saw his white whiskers and stub. I didn't have the heart to shoot. I pitched him some bacon and said, "Come back and visit again, but leave my gasoline barrel and trash cans alone."

Fishing is big business on Indian Reservation

Created in 1949, the Department of the Interior is concerned with the management, conservation, and development of the nation's water, fish, wildlife, mineral, forest, and park and recreational resources. A part of this concern is raising fish to stock a growing number of lakes and provide sport for increasing number of fishermen each year.

According to a bulletin put out by the Department of the Interior, fish are allocated to waters in this order of precedence: Lakes and streams under control of Federal Government, next to waters under state control. If any fish are left they may be used to stock privately owned lakes and streams.

Fish hatcheries are strategically located throughout the country to help manage our important sport and commercial fishery resources. The stocking of fish in itself does not necessarily produce better fishing, however it does contribute to continued good fishing.

Hatchery fish are usually kept until they have reached a length of seven inches before they are stocked into fishing streams and lake. The first responsibility of the Mesalero hatchery is to stock trout in the 20 miles of streams and 16 lakes on the reservation. Fish are then allotted to the Indian Pueblo waters in northern New Mexico and to federal and state waters open to the general public. No fish are sold.

Eggs are stripped directly from good trout. They are then fertilized with sperm from a male fish and placed in running water to hatch. Trout are fed a nutritional balanced diet composed largely of meat products and cereals.

Visitors are welcome at the Mesalero hatchery. It is open every day from 7:30 to 4:30

New batch of 'hoppers' moved in

A new group of large grasshoppers just moved in. The spray killed millions of baby ones as well as large ones but these just moved in, yesterday afternoon. We will keep fighting them. We have to if we want anything alive and growing. This is a summer to remember. This moisture, I do hope reaches out far and near.

We enjoyed a good blowing shower of rain from the north east this Monday August 1, about 1:15 p.m. How grateful we are. July was a very very hot and dry month. This is a heavy rain with lots of thunder and lightning with it. Lots of water running. What a joyful sight and what a grand feeling. There were good rains at Bingham all last week ending the 24th of July. Tanks ran over. This is good news and we know those ranchers do appreciate that.

Robert Salas who is attending college in San Francisco, California has been there two semesters. Mr. and Mrs. Jim McEuen are putting a new galvanized roof on their home at the top of Angus Hill.

Men of the Nazarene Church tore down some old buildings back of their Church in preparation for the 50th year Anniversary.

Thanks millions to Ray Proviné and Jay Posey for cutting those elms that obstructed the view from the stop sign here, where you came out to the highway from the school. That was a good deed. They did it last year. But they grew again. They took them out with the digger. It looks better and truly is better for travelers.

Mr. Brazel Hartley spent last Tuesday night with his aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson at their ranch home.

Mrs. Miles Williams, Jr. and Luan went to Albuquerque last Thursday and took the train to New York where they boarded a jet plane for France for a months vacation with Budde who is stationed there.

I enjoyed a business trip to Ruidoso 1st Friday afternoon. It was so green restful and refreshing driving there and back. I did notice that the excavation for a swimming pool was in progress. I think that is wonderful.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Witham and Bobbie of Nogal were Capitan business visitors last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald King and family (Mike, Ronda and Mark) came by and ate dinner with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Otho Lowe and visited while enroute home from their vacation in Santa, Maria Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gray and son, Edward accompanied by his mother Mrs. Ada Gray of Roswell visited me a few minutes last week while enroute to the Bonita for a vacation of campfire. It had been 33 years since Adas' and my last meeting and we did enjoy this. Edward was a small boy at that time. He is her youngest son.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gouchenour are the proud parents of a baby daughter, Amanda Ann, weighed 8 lbs. 2 1/4 Oz. was born Friday July 22 at the Ruidoso hospital.

Do not be a litter bug, please when you park at sight near the Capitan Cemetery. Do not throw your cans out there. Take them with you and put them in someones trash barrel. Let the dead rest in peace and not chut-ter the beautiful terrain there or near there. Please.

It also makes so much work for innocent persons who are interested in keeping the country looking nice. One citizen hauled a pickup load of cans and debris away from that sight the morning before Mrs. Lon Merchant was laid to rest there. Help us keep it clean, please.

Maybe Billy chunked a few

East of St. Louis is just on the outskirts of Indian country. Anything west of that area is frontier land, full of snakes, bad men, desert sands, wild beasts, and outlaws like Billy the Kid.

Lincoln County, being the stomping ground of Billy during his latter days, should be called the heartland of the wild west as those people east of St. Louis think of it.

It's a good thing those eastern city dudes don't know the full extent of pleasant living as practiced by Lincoln County folks, else we'd have droves of settlers in this area right now.

Occasionally people will get mad at one another and some one gets shot or knifed but rarely more than one at a time. It's usually just a personal sort of thing between former friends, and if they don't both die they'll likely be friends the next day.

Pleasant living out in these parts includes drenching the innards on regular schedule with a firewater known legally as tequila. This liquid takes the place of half a dozen pills like they use for sedatives on the other side of St. Louis but it also does great things for individual character as well as toughening the goles of ones feet.

The sporting side of the pleasant life in Lincoln County has thrills all of its own. When sports gather for such as the annual stampede up Capitan way they're having fun in their own unique manner trying to keep from being tromped on by a ton-size bull or aiming to avoid getting a horn in a hip pocket, or maybe just navigating through a cluster of mustang hooves any one of which might blast a body to kingdom come.

When the sun gets lowdown in Lincoln County at stampede time, cowboys start allickin' down their hair and gettin' ready for the big dance. Most of them learned long ago that if they want to wear a hat home they better keep it on their head, and spins the same way which really makes the dance a sporting event.

Education for the youngsters is a lot more pleasant in these parts. They may not have the feel of a book in their hand until induction time but they know how to drop a rope on a critter, how to drop a varmint at a hundred paces, how to whump up a mess of bluecits and beans in nothing flat.

Billy really wasn't much like those city folks think, he was just a wild kid growing up in a wild country. The visual education Billy learned was snottin' your enemies before they spotted you, being kind to the weaker sex was a part of Billy, too, course they ain't so weak any more. Sticking with your friends through thick and thin and gun down your enemies when you had to was the law of the land back in Billy's day boy, were those times peaceful.

Maybe the leading lady was "no lady." Maybe the head guy was the one "with his hand in your pocket." Maybe Billy was a better friend to have than a lot of big shots of the 1870's.

Maybe Billy the Kid means "outlaw" to a lot of people today. They're the ones who don't know that the real outlaws frequently come carrying a brief case, wearing white shirt and dark suit, with a sanctimonious smile and nothing but harm in their heart.

It was the same in 1878 and will be the same in 1978. Maybe Billy chunked a few in the ribs but he was just a wild kid. The real outlaws were inhabiting much more dignified places than the wild hills of Lincoln County.

LETTERS

Alamogordo, N. M. June 17, 1966

Mr. Walter Henn
Lincoln, N. M.
Dear Mr. Henn:

Your sketch and write-up for the June 10, 1966 issue of the Lincoln County News intrigued me.

"La Casa de Adobe," was mentioned in low, secretive voice. Also in loud voice, according to the occasion, and it wasn't much of a mystery, as bootleggers in Carrizozo had large families — except one bootlegger. I don't remember his wife or what became of her. Bootleggers' children heard and saw a lot of bad women (Billie) and other bad women" that went with Billie to drink and buy white mule and beer. No doubt Billie had reasons to want to kill Doc. But he was so handsome, how could he help but take a lady out to drink — at bootleggers', of course.

Wives often went to bootleggers' to ask for their husbands. If the husbands happened to get there before the engaged wives left — poor men! They were cremated at, "vienes de la casa de adobe de ver esas . . ."

The local trap competition that put Billie and Doc out of business was in a residence whose owners (women) were very well acquainted with some trainmen, some that built the highway through Mal Pais and others.

Mr. Henn, I don't blame you if you are bored with this letter. Thanks for reading it anyway.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Fred G. Silva
(Formerly from Carrizozo.)

Dear Editor:

After receiving a copy of your paper, since my departure from Lincoln County some sixteen years ago. It seems somewhat improper to sever such lines with the Native Land, on which so many people I know and love, carry on their daily tasks.

Yes, even though current events are several days old, it's often better than a boxcarload of vitamins.

See, here in N. Dakota, The Land of Enchantment is like a fairy tale, to those who have never experienced its reality. In fact I'm still dubbed a southerner.

However, whether re-living the old past of the Lincoln County War, worshipping God on Nogal Mesa, next door to the Space Age Experiments, or just associating with the neighbors. The Land of Enchantment has a true meaning.

May it long remain!
Here in western N. Dakota, early moisture gave promise of another prosperous season. However, high temperature readings and oven like breezes have painted the picture another color.

So no one knows until harvest is completed and the sense cents recorded.

My best wishes to friends in New Mexico.
Enclosed is a re-newal of my subscription.

Sincerely,
Leonard Hall

Dear Mr. Henn:

Congratulations on your Pen Stretches of Historic Buildings in Lincoln County. They have all been excellent, but we especially liked the one on St. Anne's Chapel.

I am preserving all of your sketches in my Scrap Book. I think you may want to use our Red Barn sometime. It was built in 1894 by my father, Frank Coe and has been in continued use, by him and me since that date. It is perhaps, the oldest barn of its type in the Southwest. One unusual feature about it is that the first floor walls are made of adobe.

I can give you details and history, at your convenience, of this old landmark.

Thanks again for your interesting articles.
Sincerely yours,
Wilbur Coe

August 1, 1966

Dear Mr. Editor:

Critics of my story on the invalidation hearing held in Alamogordo on June 30th, do not seem to understand. Discovery takes time, effort and some recognition of minerals and mineral associations. There must be protection to such legitimate work and the investment involved. As long as markets can be manipulated by price fixing, tariffs, subsidies to some and not others, and we have immediate defense needs and what not, — marketability cannot be a gauge for "discovery" or invalidation of any mining claim. Gold is not the only type of placer. It's depressed price makes it a prime target.

THE LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 4, 1966

Admittedly, there are always some in every form of activity who give enterprise a bad image. Holding of mining claims by pencil, or "squattin'" is as responsible to me as to anyone seeking legitimate activity and development. More than that I have done something about it. It should be remembered, however, that a mining district is an area set aside by an act of Congress for mineral exploitation as prime use, even in a National Forest. Timber on a mining claim cannot be cut except for mining use. Nor can there be chain dragging as has been done by the forest service to strip everything in a mining district, in the Forest Reserve. This action paid for by the Forest Service has left windrows of dead trees and scrub as an unsightly mess and fire menace (highway beautification). When a federal agency is free to violate the law with immunity and a private citizen doing the same thing is subject to arrest, something is very wrong.

In the case of the hearing, the illegal practices and objectives were clearly in violation of Amendments IV and VII of the Constitution and were instigated by those sworn to uphold it as the highest law of the land. If there is not uniform and equitable adjudication and enforcement of the law, there is no law. If there is no law, it is a government by men not law, a government by human erring will, dictatorship, with loss of democracy and freedom. Further if one fails to stand up for what is right, in the end he loses the right himself. That is the danger of aggression at home. Even the U. S. Patent Office is no longer sacrosanct. Think it over.

Walter Hubbard,

Inside the Capitol

By Charles Cullin

Who, After All, Can Do What?

SANTA FE — Some rather bitter squabbles around the state have erupted in regard to interpretation of the Municipal Code and who, after all, can do what. It involves the power of mayors in transacting municipal business.

After a few days of listening in on opinions and gleaning what is considered to be expert declarations, there are a few brief conclusions.

New Mexico cities and communities operate under either the "manager - commission" arrangement or with a "mayor-council" situation.

In the "manager - commission" setup, the elected mayor is the chairman of the meetings but he can make motions, second motions, and vote on all issues.

In the smaller "mayor - council" affairs, the mayor can vote only in case of a tie, but is still eligible to make motions or second them.

Most arguments have been over whether the mayor, who presides over meeting can take the same active part that members do.

Although it's been customary for the mayor to act as somewhat of an impartial referee in meetings, he is legally within his right to do anything any other member of council or commission can, except to vote only on ties if he's involved in the mayor - council type government.

Storm Brewing Over NMEA State Operation

There appears to be a future storm brewing over the New Mexico Education Association. The initial spark is a complaint filed by an Albuquerque school teacher against the Horace Mann Insurance Co., alleging that he was refused an insurance policy because he "did not" belong to the NMEA. The firm ostensibly is for teachers regardless of professional affiliations.

The teacher involved, however, is a strong member of the AFL-CIO in regard to organizing and pushing teachers' unions.

Officials figure the complaint may have been filed with the State Insurance Department as a "test case" prior to a full-fledged assault on the NMEA.

There have been recent rumbles about the old problem of school administrators using secretarial help to deduct NMEA fees. The NMEA is not a state agency, but a private operation. Use of personnel paid by taxpayers to do the work of the NMEA could essentially be compared to salaried school secretaries deducting for gas bills, light bills, bank savings accounts, etc.

Superintendent of Insurance Ralph Apodaca will have to rule on the complaint against the Mann firm.

Depending on which way he goes, the fight between the union and the NMEA could become more bitter, and every taxpayer should be aware of who is doing what with the money.

Campaign Launched For New TV Battles

The first televised "debate" between Demo Governor candidate Gene Lusk and GOP candidate Dave Cargo evolved into a behind-the-scenes fiasco. Now a campaign is being launched for more such action, but the Demos want the next one to include Lieutenant Governor hopefuls, Republican Lee Francis and Demo Fabian Chavez.

Republican chief Sonny Johns of Santa Fe was furious because Chavez appeared at the first debate. Demos were angry because the GOPs wouldn't let Fabian in on the dog fight.

Although the initial performance was billed as the "first debate," it's indicated now that the Democrats won't agree again unless they can get their fast-talking loots candidate in on the act.

Johns screams that it's a matter of potential governors. Lusk says since both parties' candidates will run as a "team" then it should be a foursome.

The viewer will have to decide just what import any debate will have on the eventual vote. But for what it's worth, most have acknowledged that Cargo and Chavez are the rowdy fast-talkers - not Lusk and Francis.

One of the Best Reasons

One of the best reasons why a business should advertise in a weekly is given by the Toronto Telegram, Toronto Canada. The Telegram, one of the city's three daily giants, has gone weekly.

What makes a big daily go weekly? The move is based on a realization that major future population growth will take place in the suburban area. The crescent that exists around the expanding city produces a belt in which a daily can't hope to provide the intimate service offered by a weekly.

"It's the strategy of the Telegram to go where the people are," was one of the reasons for the move an official said. Accompanying this entry to the weekly field is a concept of a regional weekly necessitated by the mobility of people and the expansion of their interest over more than a one-town area. It is pointed out that this increasing mobility leads people to travel distances to work, to shop and to be entertained. The regional weekly will reflect this broader area of interest.

Wool Growers meet in Vaughn

The New Mexico Wool Growers' Association will hold its summer quarterly meeting and sheep ranch tour August 13th in Vaughn.

The car caravan will leave from the City Hall in Vaughn at 9 a.m., and visit the Vicente Ranch, the Del Curto Ranch, the Raymond Perez Ranch and the Paul Horner Ranch, where a lamb barbecue will be hosted by the Citizens State Bank of Vaughn. Business session will follow the barbecue with the following program: Speakers: W. O. Culbertson - Chairman, Cattle Sanitary Board and 1st Vice President, New Mexico Cattle Growers - "The New Mexico Meat Inspection Law of 1966 and its Implementation." Peter Mocho - Manager, Onate Feed Company - "Some Problems of the Livestock Feeder." Dick Worley - Worley Mills, Clovis - "The Affect of Government to Livestock Fees." William Morrow - Executive Secretary, State ASC Committee - "Price Supports and Acreage Control of Grains." Directors meeting following business session.

Abbe Pena, President, says, "It has been so many years since we have had a ranch tour in the Vaughn area and we are happy that the Vaughn ranchers have agreed to show us some of the finest sheep in the state and some of the most modern improvements anywhere in the country. The range has been blessed with good rains and this will make a fine outing for the entire family." Furthermore, Pena continues, "There is an optimism in this industry of ours that our product, lamb and wool, is finding a very substantial demand in consumers channels reflected by the fact that lambs are up 3 to 4 cents a pound from 1965 and wool about 4 to 6 cents a pound over 1965."

Frank Joyce of station KOB has provided us with a list of most of the sportsmen and conservation groups in the state and we are inviting these people to join us in our tour. Loss of sheep to coyotes and bobcats is still the biggest problem of the sheepman and we should like to show our wildlife and conservation people some of the damage caused by predators.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — The 1966 New Mexico Hereford Ranch Tour is scheduled for August 22-23. Coffee and donuts will be served at 7:00 A.M. at the Montosa Camp Meeting grounds, 14 miles west of Datil on August 22nd to get the Tour Under way. Many of the top commercial and registered Hereford operations in the area will be visited.

This year's Tour will be unique to the fact that for the first time it will go outside of New Mexico to Springerville, Arizona for ranch visits.

The following commercial ranches will be visited: Dub Evans, Tommy James, Marvin Ake, and Double H Ranches all near Magdalena. In the Datil area: Odell Emory, Elliott Mc Masters, Quin Sabe, Oscar Dickens, Orville Malmstrom and the Y Ranch. Quemado area: Rito Ranch, Jim Boudas, Tom Bates and Layton Ranches.

Mounted Patrol meets at Sierra Blanca Boys' Camp The Lincoln County Mounted Patrol met Sunday afternoon at the Sierra Blanca Boys Camp with Jack Schuster as host. A noon meal was served them at the camp.

Later some of the members went on to Ruidoso to help patrol the teenage dance at the Chaparril featuring Paul Revore and his Raiders. Over 2,000 teenagers from New Mexico and adjoining states attended the dance. Both the State Police and the mounted patrol commented on what an orderly bunch they were.

DA NANG (East) VIET NAM — Editor Fitzpatrick of the New Mexico Magazine months ago said this in his "authors' column": "Carson is in the construction business; he goes around over the Southwest researching the things he likes to write about."

This time it was not the SW, but Viet Nam. The cloak of a construction stiff is a pass to many studies, difficult otherwise to obtain. It worked in Viet Nam. The U.S. troops are paying the greatest physical suffering in this country; American civilians making the most money (?); RMK-BRJ, prime Viet Nam construction contractor, the greatest waste of the taxpayers' dollar.

I went to RMK-BRJ's Da Nang (East) construction camp; but I didn't stay long. It was the stinkiest mess that I ever laid eyes upon, a total squander of money, because all the costly facilities were present to make it bearable and liveable for humanity. The condition at this camp is said to be the same as at 37 other job sites. It is a decidedly turning factor in the cause of the 78 percent manpower turnover in South Viet Nam, up until July 1. Since the turnover has increased to 80 percent, it is unhesitatingly said. A cost not to be sneezed at when the cost to process an American and arrive him in Saigon from the U. S. exceeds $1,500!

THE LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 4, 1966

On the morning of July 5 I arrived at this job site. It is situated across the river from the Da Nang (West) camp, a replica of the west camp. This makes two huge camps in this guerrilla warfare torn country; but the west camp is much better kept.

The construction camp attempts to accommodate over 500 inhabitants, both American and 3rd Nationals. It is situated along the sandy beaches of the South China Sea. Blistering sun rays spread all over the countryside, and cook the hide off the individual in a tropical 100 degree temperature, in high humidity. The camp has only a meager supply of cool drinking water, with facilities to provide all that is needed.

Piles of construction materials, covering many, many acres, are strewn all around the camp, up and down the beach, vulnerable to the Viet Cong and the natives who have need for the light things they have no trouble in wagging off.

In the piles of these valuable and costly materials, during the day, loafs swarms of Americans and 3rd Nationals, employees of RMK - BRJ, who say that they have nothing to do except hunt out dark spots, to spend the day and draw pay.

Hereford ranch tour starts west of Datil

The material piles are gigantic. Millions invested in construction materials and equipment clouds the view for long distances. Salary of the American ranges upward of $1,000, plus subsistence. The 3rd Nationals range somewhat lower. This I was told was typical of all other RMK-BRJ job sites in South Viet Nam.

Upon arrival at this Da Nang (East) camp on morning 5 July, I was assigned to a 10 x 10 foot room, in a portable trailer. The furniture consisted of a couple of cots, a locker with the lock broken, and one writing desk.

I piled my luggage into this small woodpecker hole, and soon noted that someone else occupied the room, I being the third inhabitant. The hole was a squalid mess, and I pretty soon learned why. Drunks were returning, and they blazely said they were dragging up; and they had all of it they could stand. They took stiff snorts and decided the situation was worse off than they really thought.

Soon I walked a construction stiff; he asked what I was doing in the room. Without waiting for an answer, he said: "You can't move in here!" I was already fed up with the situation, and took a firm stand at the exit, and replied: "The hell I can't; I've already moved in!"

There I remained for a couple of hours. The camp manager finally scratched his head and started something dormant working, and seemed to remember where there was another room. One of the same size and description. There was about 100 such facilities in this camp.

I hustled up a Vietnamese boy to pack my luggage. I hung onto the camera and typewriter, because these people will steal the shirt right off the back while you are watching.

Really these are the type of people we are fighting for in SVN.

I entered newly discovered hole, a filthy mess, like all others of the area, I was soon to learn. Sawdust and materials left over from construction still littered the interior. The floor was filthy.

There was stinking evidence that the room had been occupied at one time, as there remained in it a pair of shoes the size of which must have been in the 14s. I played Dick Tracy for a while and learned that a man by the name of Stone claimed the room, and I wasn't looking for trouble with a man who could fill the shoes I had found within.

But he was in New York City on vacation, and would not return for two weeks!

I also learned that while this room had remained vacant for several days, a good Mormon American had been billeted in a squalid hut with the 3rd Nationals, where there was no protection from insects, nor air-conditioning.

The hordes are sleeping in cots spread all over the place, with the nasty bathroom many, many paces away, over filthy grounds, where people urinate rather than make the long trek to the facilities.

Others do not care to leave the room and use a bucket. The next morning the Vietnamese peasant girl who supposedly cleans the place comes along and tosses the mess out the door.

This is all around the mess hall, where the files in VN never had it so good. After I dumped my gear in the room, I thought of my buddy who was melting in the hot sun, awaiting the assignment of a room. I hustled him up, and he moved into the 10 x 10 room with me.

Two nights later, two new men arrived from Saigon. They piled up in these small rooms, three deep, and commenced to make arrangements to return to Saigon. This move had cost someone a piece of money to fly these people across the Viet Nam Peninsula, and perform all the paper work attached to such a move. It couldn't be anyone except the American taxpayer.

On the morning of 6 July I belied up to the long chow line, at the stinking mess hall entrance. Filth was everywhere, and the 3rd Nationals mixed with the Americans. For two days I struggled at this food line, braving the existent rancid odor; to take on enough food to survive.

Finally on the morning of 8 July, I could stand the mess no longer. I served notice on the management to move me to Saigon.

They didn't want to lose me, they said. However, they'd return me to the war capital for re-assignment, if I'd consider. It really made no difference with them how much money I cost them, for the job is "cost-plus."

I've already told that the payroll for the expatriates in VN for the month of May, as released RMK-BRJ, ran over $5.5 million. This does not include approximate same amount which is disbursed to the 3rd Nationals.

Back to the mess hall. To satisfy myself as to what could create such a stench, on this morning I followed the odor. I arrived at the backdoor of the kitchen.

There was a pile of garbage as large as a 5-ton White tandem truck, that stunk worse than hell, like tons of dead fish. All within 20 feet of the place where the food was being dished up and served the endless chow line. I made pictures of the conglomeration. I was seen making the exposures, and the mess was cleaned up within two hours!

I dare any senator, congressman, or what have you, to investigate this Da Nang situation which exists in the RMK-BRJ organization. Also about the fire on the 4th of July which destroyed a large warehouse in Da Nang (West) about noon that day, where it is said that "the fire was so hot that no evidence remained as to the material that was catalogued for its interior.

Smearing remarks, catty, were commonly heard from certain Americans that "anything which could not be accounted for, surely must have burned."

About the departure, I served notice on the proper authorities for my transfer, I was eager to see how the wheels of such transactions motivated.

For three days I remained in my room awaiting orders to fly to Saigon. During this time I talked with many Americans, and listened to their complaints and versions of the Viet Nam situation. Everyone wished the senators knew the situation, and could do something about it.

There was a constant rumble that LBJ and his family were certainly getting "well" in the deal, as it is the general expression that the President and the First Lady are prime stock holders in this construction venture. Whether there's truth to it or not, I don't know. My mother always said where there's smoke, there was bound to be some fire.

THE LONG AND THE SHORT OF IT IS By the time this goes to press, I'll be in Albuquerque, God willing. Other accounts on the Viet Nam situation will be following. I sometimes think I've pulled stinks here, as every other American should.

The Courthouse

In paying warrants in 1882, some claims were dated 1877. Probably the claimants were slow getting to Lincoln to collect their money.

Much action took place in Lincoln prior to the county acquiring a courthouse. In October 1875 a case was recorded, Territory vs. L. B. Maxwell, refusing to pay taxes. Now comes the Territory by her District Attorney and suggests the death of the defendant herein.

It is therefore ordered by the Court that said case do abate. Court was held in more than one location around town, most likely place being in a building now known as the convento, back of the Priest house.

The old original Lincoln Courthouse served the county in many ways, for social functions as well as for legal matters. Its transferral to Carrizozo was not an easy matter.

The actual transfer spanned two or three years. Edward Penfield says the election held to move the courthouse was never valid in the first place. The moving was enjoined and the technicality of the election questioned at great length, but time wore down the opposition to the move and around 1912 Carrizozo became the county seat of Lincoln County.

This weekend in Old Lincoln Town much of the action centering around the original court house will be re-enacted and the most famous scene - Billy the Kid shooting down Bob Olinger from the courthouse second story - will be played out for the entertainment of the present generation.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) - One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night. No matter what you've used without results - here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids - without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection. In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months. Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration. The secret in this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) - discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in convenient suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.
