

Paul Harvey Says . . .

The News is pleased to bring its readers a column by one of the most popular commentators in the nation. Let us know how you, like Paul Harvey in print. . .

You heard Senator Robert Kennedy say he authorized no FBI wiretap recordings "except in national security cases." The fact is that Robert Kennedy, in an official communication over his own signature, August 17, 1961, directed the FBI to increase the use of such surveillance "in security and major criminal cases." Also -- you have heard

Senator Kennedy disassociate himself from any bugging done by the FBI, insisting that any such work while he as Attorney General was done without his knowledge.

The fact is that Kennedy, as attorney general, listened personally to the results of microphone surveillances. I know of one to which he listened in Chicago on March 19, 1963. I expect Senator Kennedy will seek to focus your attention elsewhere, thus to avoid any closer congressional scrutiny of administration of the office of Attorney General from 1961 to 1964.

J. Edgar Hoover, with a lifetime record of impeccable integrity and unimpeachable veracity was particularly careful in those days to get written orders for any FBI assignments which he found repugnant.

Kennedy, December 11, 1966, suggested that Director Hoover "Make this entire file available."

The Senator is entirely aware the Director Hoover would protect the sanctity of those files with his life, that innocent persons might not be embarrassed or endangered.

Kennedy, as Attorney General did some personal eavesdropping on conversations not involving national security. Further, he was aware, as Attorney General, that the Internal Revenue Service, the Secret Service and other agencies were using electronic and other equipment for this purpose.

He attended a meeting on February 16, 1961, at the Treasury Department at which time "bugging" by Treasury investigative agencies was fully outlined and approved by him. He was handed a memorandum at that time outlining both "bugging" and "personnel" training plans. He gave his approval to this memorandum. In other words, in addition to urging the FBI deeper into this practice, he also sought to involve other agencies in it. Why does he, as Senator, now seek to leave others holding the bag?

Understand, there were many times during Kennedy's tenure as Attorney General when J. Edgar Hoover refused "requests" from his superiors office. "We can't do that, General!" was often the Director's decision on some "request" during those deplorable days when the Justice Department was a shirtsleeve part-time kennel, -- part-time nursery, part-time touch-football playpen.

The FBI's use of bugging devices has always been carefully controlled and always only with the specific authority of the Attorney General. Kennedy, as Attorney General, insisted that such surveillance be increased, urged by the FBI to obtain better equipment for the purpose.

And enough confirming files will be presented to any interested congressional committee to disintegrate the Bobby Kennedy fan club. . .

Unless, again, he manages artfully to divert the public and officials to other matters,

Wool increase likely in '67

Cattle are predicted to sell for about the same as last year. There will be fewer calves and a reduced cow slaughter. This indicated an expansion of the beef herd. Some economists predict that wool prices are likely to increase slightly in 1967, I feel that competition from man-made fibers and short pricing by the mills will keep prices

Town to purchase street equipment

Carrizozo town council meeting Tuesday night went over a number of areas for town improvement, the major one being repair of paved streets. The town will buy a 4750 gallon oil heater and tank with motor mounted on wheels, and can get sprayer to complete equipment needed to patch holes in streets apply seal coat and fix dips in streets.

Councilman Buster Smoot said the town had been throwing money away on repair work in the past because the repairs would not hold up for any length of time.

Bob Means has the oil mix machine and will sell to the town.

Utility Manager John Hein said his crew would start taking holiday lights down Thursday.

Hein reported that youngsters have shot out all the glass in the swimming pool building. The opening will be boarded up until summer when it will pay to replace the glass.

Mayor Leandro Vega said he was interested in who got BB guns for Christmas. Many Christmas lights have been shot out, and Councilman Vernon Petty said that windows in the welfare building have been shot out. Marshal Choscho Morales said he had gathered up four BB guns, is holding them until parents come with children to claim--he expects to have the guns for some time.

Zozo students head for ski-run

Forty-five Carrizozo School students will load on a bus Saturday leaving town at 8:00 a.m. heading for Sierra Blanca Ski run where they will spend the day, returning by 6:00 p.m. The trip is sponsored by Mrs. A. N. Spencer with students paying $3 each which covers everything but lunch including bus trip, all equipment, instruction, and tow lift.

The ski activity starts with sixth graders and includes some college age students who help with the program, plus numerous teachers who will make the trip during the ten to twelve Saturdays of skiing. The ski classes have run as high as 55 students, 30 and more makes a good trip.

Conversation at the council meeting turned to natural gas coming into town in two-inch pipe when bid specs read four-inch pipe. No answers were available at the meeting. Jete Voss, member of the Capitán-Carrizozo Natural Gas Association gave the News the following information Wednesday morning.

At the time of bid opening the two bids went way over engineer's estimates and cutbacks had to be made. The main feed line from El Paso Natural to Capitán was cut down from 61 2 to 41/2 inch line, the feed line from this trunk line to Carrizozo was cut down from 4 to 2-inch line.

El Paso Natural Gas people have told the News, prior to this town meeting, that two inch line was adequate to serve Carrizozo for many years to come. Three engineers say the same. It should interest Carrizozo people to know that the metropolitan area of Albuquerque is served with only three 4-inch lines.

An added comment from Urban Development people, doing the financing, was that if Carrizozo ever grows enough to need more gas the town could certainly afford to install a larger line.

Town is planning to run sewer line from Appar to Ortiz to the on a cemetery. Have easements from all but Garrison and can bypass this area.

State highway tax revenues reported by AAA

Total state taxes to be paid by highway users in New Mexico during 1966 are officially estimated to total approximately $45,081.00, according to Harry B. Mallory, New Mexico AAA Manager.

"For the country as a whole," Mallory said, "State highway-user tax revenues are expected to total nearly $7.5 billion in 1966, an increase of 6.3 per cent over 1965. The estimate was made by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads on the basis of available figures and trend data."

The reported revenues do not include tolls or any taxes or fees -- such as parking meter revenue -- levied by local governments.

Assistance
Macho SWCD

The Women's Auxiliary to the Macho District Board of Supervisors needs the assistance of all conservation-minded women in the District, whether or not you live on a farm or ranch. You women could be of real help to the Auxiliary in getting information and educational materials to the PTA and schools and women's club organizations. Many of you have contacts with these organizations and serve on their committees. So, please, also consider working with the Auxiliary in its efforts to get conservation across to the public. With the population explosion it will be necessary for the land to support many times more people than it is now doing so it is absolutely vital for us to do everything in our power to see that our natural resources are managed and used wisely. Remember, our children will be shortchanged if we are not far-sighted. If you need speakers or films for your meetings or programs the District will be happy to supply them. Obtain housing

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration is better equipped to handle the housing credit needs of low and moderate income Lincoln County families.

Floyd said the Demonstration Cities and Metropolitan Development Act, signed last month by President Johnson, makes it possible for a broader range of Lincoln County families to qualify for housing credit under expanded housing loan authorities of the Farmers Home Administration.

The new legislation Floyd continued, makes more mortgage credit available to low and moderate income families in Lincoln County by increasing the level of the activity of the agency's rural housing loan program. Here are some of the other changes in the rural housing loan program administered by Lincoln County Farmers Home Administration:

Many Lincoln County families who had to go the long route of planning, contracting and building a house can now buy newly constructed buildings. Before the new legislation, these families could only purchase previously occupied buildings.

Qualified low-income families can now obtain housing credit from Farmers Home Administration on the basis of a cosigner. Previously, only those rural persons 62 years and older qualified for this assistance.

The new legislation increases from $1,000 to $1,500 the maximum amount of assistance the agency can make for emergency repairs to improvements to owner-occupied rural housing or farm service buildings. This credit is designed to upgrade a building but only to remove hazards to the health and the safety of the family and the community.

COMMENTARY . . .

Because I have confidence in the power of truth and of the spirit, I believe in the future of mankind. -- Albert Schweitzer.

Do-it-yourself kit

There have been "Do it yourself" guys through all ages, the ones who could do a creditable job of building their own cave or house of logs, stone or glass, and later came the craze for "do it yourself kits" which attempted to put everyone in the act of fixing plumbing, lights, walls, or the family car.

The next big craze was the "let Uncle Sam do it" jazz which is just now beginning to recede a bit, we hope. Big towns (Roswell closest to home) are expecting Uncle Sam using your tax money to pay for their blunders and to ball them out of the frying pan into the fire where downtown business is drooping . . . and result is a lot of sharp operators making money from local government fiddling around.

We are recommending to Carrizozo (and all of Lincoln County) that we take a run at doing a job ourselves . . . that of reversing the trend of loss of population, loss of business resulting in accumulation of empty buildings, vacant lots, and hazards of junk and weeds where there should be beauty. We think most Carrizozo people want more jobs in our town -- how about this for a do - it - yourself starter: Our local hospital has 20-bed capacity, average of 7 beds being used each day which does not generate enough business to pay three registered nurses, a requirement of any adequate hospital, and a requirement of medicare. We think it possible that a nursing home could be constructed here, after wading through a yard of medicare red tape, that would generate enough business to pay for three registered nurses who could serve both the nursing home and the hospital -- and "do-it-yourself" more jobs.

The same small town of 800 people whose band marched in the Rose Bowl parade Monday also recently bonded themselves to build a nursing home which has staff of 40 people -- that's 59 jobs total.

The extra jobs developed by a nursing home would be welcome in Carrizozo as well as solving a bad problem at the hospital. The only kit you need right now is one called "desire to help your home community."

Shock will be severe

As a starter we would like to compliment Jovita Torreon the way she is raising her youngsters, a doubly good job with no father in the home. Jovita's youngsters will recognize an older person, speak to them, in general be on working terms, with the world. A large number of teenagers locally are in a world of their own.

Our only thought about them is . . . the pill will be much more severe for the youngster who learns late in life that other people have all the things he wants in this world and he does not even know how to approach them.

It came as a bit of shock when two of these young people spent time in our home without even so much as a "Howdy Paul", or "Thank you Eleanor for the lovely dinner". We don't know where their world is but they managed somehow to stop this one and get off. Too bad -- the day will come when they need friends.

Food for thought

We honestly do not know many of the answers . . . as to where money can be saved, or where money should be spent . . . in doing the best job of operating a state penitentiary.

Nor do we pretend to know much about the operation of a state hospital for mentally ill. When should these people go back into life's stream, when should they have more hospitalization? We don't even give modern medicine credit for knowing even half the answers in this field.

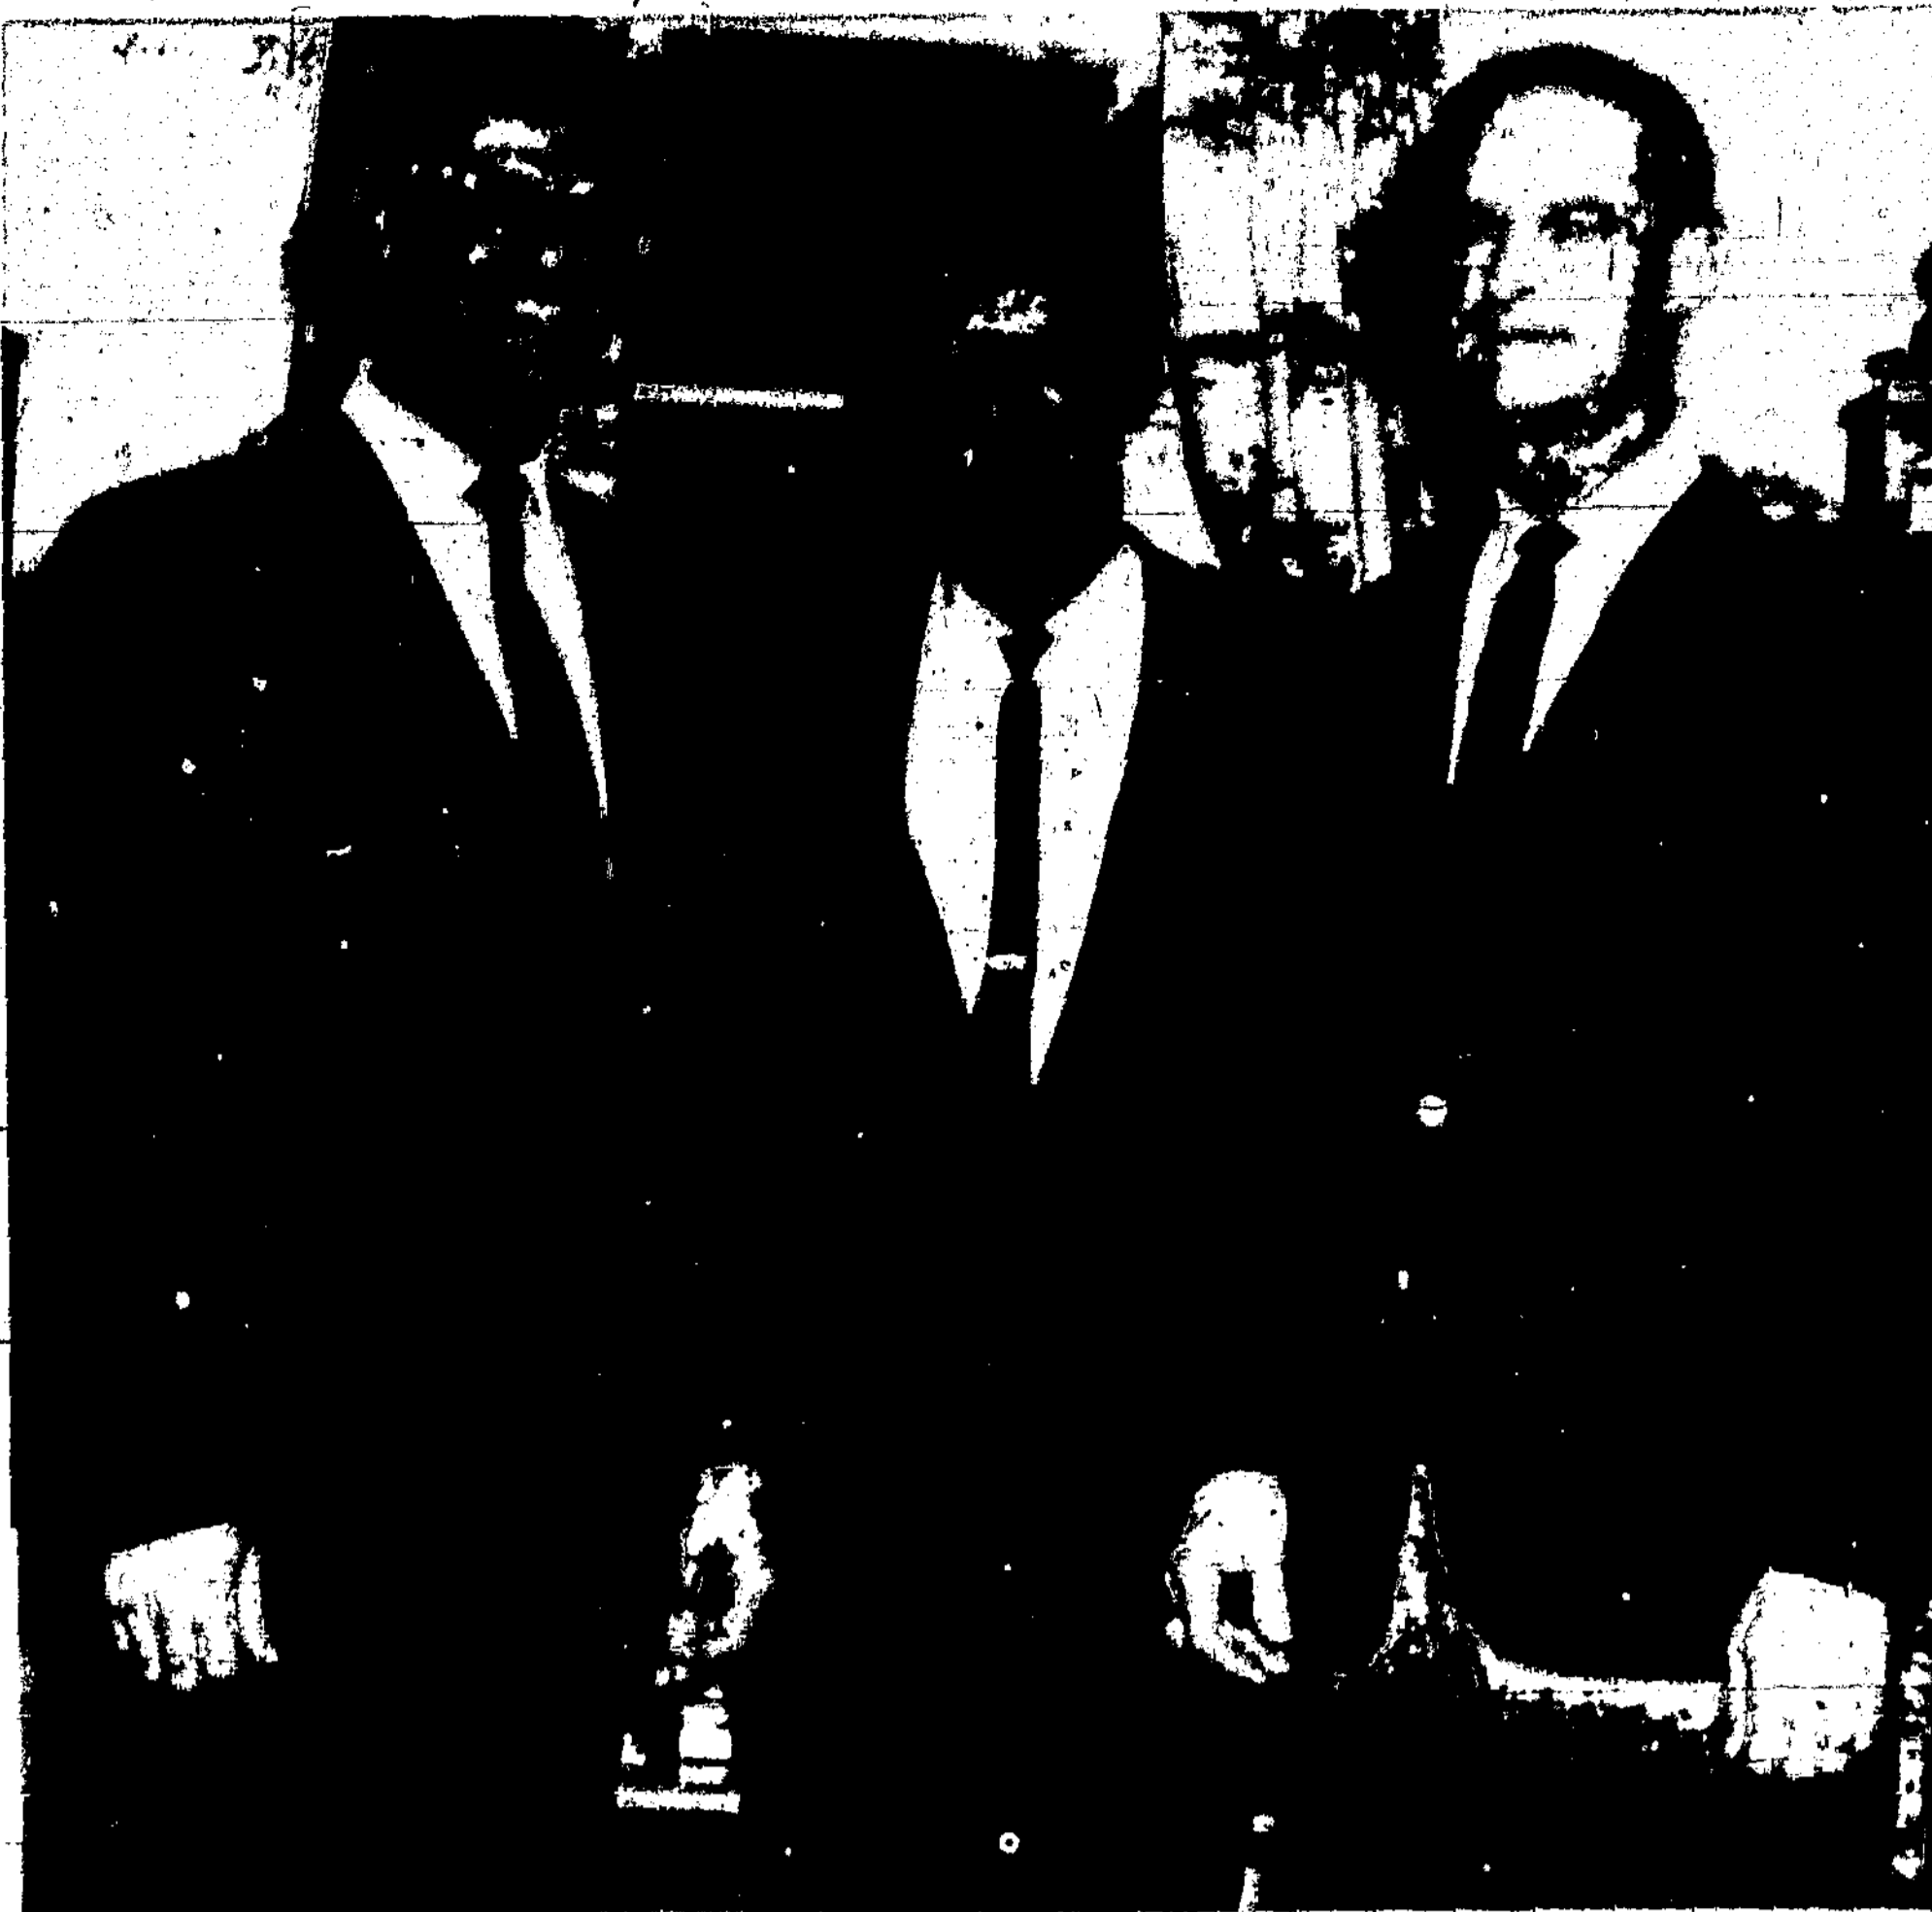

Ask yourself, what do you know, or think you know about the operation of a hospital for crippled children, a girl's welfare home, a boys home where it's hard just to keep the boys at home. Or, what are your thoughts about alcoholics, how much state money should be spent on them.

That's too much thinking to load on the average person -- yet that is the load a Board of Institutional Finance would have to carry -- board members would need to obtain comprehensive education in fields of knowledge that are difficult even for the experts.

State Rep Bill Shrencengost intends to introduce legislation proposing a Board of Institutional Finance to handle budget matters for state hospitals and other institutions.

We believe such legislation would be a detriment to the State of New Mexico, that power now spread over a wide area would be put in the hands of a few people, that the two-party system would suffer a severe setback, that we'd better suffer along with some of the faults in the present system than to compound problems by making them state-wide.

AFTER TWENTY YEARS -- They looked like this during their first reunion in 20 years, Dwight Payton of Topeka, Kansas, on the left, Col. Wm. A. One of our vivid memories is driving up through western Nebraska when it was dry and blowing away in spots -- just like the Cornhusker football team, those big fat slob can't play football for nothing. We were proud of the Dallas Cowboys for the way they played the Packers, a dazzler of a game.

Our three friends are in the doghouse, have been since before Christmas. Schnappes and Otis get to growling at each other over minor deals and pretty soon they have a fight. Schnappes must have got the worst of the last one, he hobbled around like an old man for a day. Now, at the first sign of a growl, especially in the house, we grab the daschund by the ears look him right in the eyeball and tell him off good. Probably more effective is the fact that we smack his rump with a paper and heave the offender out in the cold.

Ignacio Sedillo was in the hospital over the past weekend. He said to get over a spell of pneumonia, but we're inclined to think he was down there visiting with those pretty nurses. Being the hardest working man in town, nothing like pneumonia would get Ignacio down.

This is "get organized" and "ready to do business" week at the News . . . Payton missed the New Years party at Country Club mostly because we spent too long Friday helping place machinery in our new plant but the job is done and final wiring should be done Wednesday. Should be running our small press this weekend turning out letterheads, envelopes and a lots of jobs that have been waiting.

Brother Bill Payton and the editor had a confidential conversation while he was visiting in Carrizozo. Bill wanted to know if it was alright for him to get married. Us Paytons are all the time asking each other for advice and then paying no attention, Bill is a married man this week.

Swiped from Duffy -- There's a true story of a fellow who, on his way home after a night on the town, staggered accidentally into a zoo where he came face to face with a hippopotamus. "Don't look at me like that, Honey," he begged. "I can explain everything." More of the same. Follow we know came home one night and proudly announced to his wife that he'd bought himself a hearing-aid. "Well, thank goodness!" said his wife. "That's what I've been telling you to do for the last ten years." "Oh," replied hubby, "So that's what it was!"

INSIDE THE Capitol

By FRED BUCKLES

SANTA FE -- Gov. Dave Cargo invaded a highly sensitive area with an executive order and a legislative program on conflict of interest and lobbying.

His executive order bans officials and employees of the executive branch of state government from any direct financial interest in any transaction with any federal, state or local public agency.

Direct financial interest is defined as ownership by an employee or members of his immediate family of more than one per cent of a business or receipt of more than $1,000 a year from a business that does business with a federal, state or local public agency.

The order also prohibits any indirect financial interest in any transaction with a political subdivision unless the interest has been disclosed in writing and filed in the governor's office prior to the transaction.

Cargo said he will recommend legislators pass a conflict of interest law covering themselves. He will also ask lawmakers to enact a conflict of interest statute covering agencies of state government not affected by his executive order. This would embrace the State Land Office, State Corporation Commission, Highway Department and others.

Cargo will further request the legislature to approve a code of ethics covering legislators and the legislature as a whole.

In addition, he will seek lobbying legislation. "I see no reason why New Mexico should be one of three states which has no legislation whatsoever on lobbying except what's in the constitution," Cargo said.

The new governor would outlaw contingency fees in connection with lobbying. "A legislator

McGuire said recorded juvenile crime dropped 7.9 per cent in 1965 in New Mexico and 400 persons have been removed partly or fully from welfare rolls. More than 1,000 New Mexico residents have become literate in adult basic education programs in the last two years McGuire said, and 630 rural families increased their average annual income 12 per cent.

A Headstart program sampling "showed the number of school children who had to be kept behind to repeat the first grade has been cut by an average of more than 25 per cent, McGuire reported. U.S. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson predicted OEO spending will be pared to relieve the pressure on large federal expenditures which include huge outlays for the war in Vietnam.

"WHO CARES THEN?" An insurance agent was failing miserably in his efforts to sell a life insurance policy to the farmer.

"Look at it from this point," he finally said in desperation. "How would your wife be able to carry on if you should die suddenly?"

"Well," said the farmer, scratching his head, "I reckon I don't really care . . . just as long as she behaves herself while I'm still alive!"

Development stimulated

Electric and telephone systems financed by the Rural Electrification Administration helped create 31,000 new jobs in rural America during fiscal 1966, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced today. The figure, released following a survey of REA borrower rural areas development activities, brought to 182,000 the total number of jobs created with the help of REA borrowers since the department's rural areas development program began in mid-1961.

A USDA official said the employment opportunities stem from "commercial, industrial, and community facilities projects undertaken with the assistance of the REA-financed rural electric and rural telephone systems."

REA borrowers since the start of the rural areas development program have worked with other Federal agencies and local organizations in launching new rural businesses and in expanding existing ones, the spokesman said. He added: "Besides providing electric and telephone services in areas where there weren't any, they have given help to communities in obtaining water and waste disposal systems, hospitals and other community facilities."

The official said rural electric and telephone systems have helped to lift the standard of living for millions of rural people, to increase farm efficiency and income, and to create a vast new market, estimated at more than $1 billion a year, for the products of industry.

These systems play an important role in the life of their respective rural communities, he said.

Included in 443 rural areas development projects undertaken during the last fiscal year were 41 in agriculture, 37 in forestry, 78 in recreation, 156 in community facilities, and 131 for purposes including commercial and industrial. These brought to almost 2,100 the total number of projects launched with the help of REA borrowers since the RAD program began, in addition to stimulating the economy of their areas, the projects help to boost sales of electricity and telephone revenues -- thereby increasing the ability of rural electric and telephone systems to fulfill their service and community responsibilities.

The more than 1,900 rural electric and telephone systems financed by REA served nearly 7.3 million electric consumers and telephone subscribers in about 2,700 of the Nation's 3,100 counties.
