Lincoln County lists third traffic victim

Nathan Block Faulkner, 51, of Albuquerque became Lincoln County's third traffic victim when his pickup ran off a curve 14.2 miles south of Hondo on Highway 54, overturned three times and rolled over him. Officer Robert Clouse of Corona, State Highway Patrol, reported that there were indications of a combination of high speed and liquor. Skid marks showed that the death vehicle had been out of control for some 350 feet, he reported.

Two days before, another one-car accident occurred almost in the same spot. A blowout was blamed for causing Leslie Nielson, San Diego, Calif., to run off the road and inflicting $600 damage to his car. Nielson is presently hospitalized in Lincoln County Municipal Hospital in Carrizozo. No charges have been filed, said Sgt. M. West, State Highway Patrol.

A rear end collision near Hondo resulted in Nicholas Gonzales of Juarez, Mexico, being escorted back to the border by members of the Border Patrol, reported Sergeant West, Gonzales' car struck the rear of one being driven by Thurlie Reid, 50, of Muleshoe, Texas, as Reid was turning off Highway 70-380, Sergeant West told.

A pair of animals and a pair of cars argued over right of way near Corona. Score: Cars 2, Animals, 0.

George W. Hanson, 48, of Corona struck a cow as it darted onto Highway 54. Damage to the Department of Game and Fish car was reported at $200.

John D. Graham, 22, of Las Cruces bagged a deer on State Road 42. Damage to his car was estimated at $150.

No charges were filed in either case, Sergeant West said.

Small news

A legal separation suit between a Ruidoso couple involves custody of their 16-month-old daughter, Teeny Tiny Small.

Car corners well, pilot--not so well

It's bad enough to fall out of your car, but when it keeps right on going for more than a block then slams into a pair of service station gas pumps and causes a fire, then you have troubles.

Pvt. F. LaFave now a medic

Pvt. Frederick A. LaFave, son of Sp.4 and Mrs. Leonard La Fave of Carrizozo, recently completed a 13-week preventative medicine procedure basic course in the Brooke Army Medical Center at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Private La Fave joined the Army in October of 1966. His father is presently serving with Service Battery, 614th Artillery, Pleku, Vietnam.

PVT. FREDERICK A. LaFAVE

So does Mack Lamou Preston, 53, of Ruidoso who is scheduled to appear before Judge R. L. Sheriff in police magistrate court to face charges of driving while intoxicated, reckless driving and having no driver's license. Trial date is August 7.

According to witnesses, Preston fell out of his car while making the curve into Main Street in Carrizozo, just missing a telephone pole. Preston landed in the gravel near the Riel Motel, his car continuing on more than 450 feet, slamming into a pair of gas pumps at the Ortiz Chevron Station. One pump was knocked over in front of the wash bay door. Gas spewed up from the severed pipe and ignited.

The Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Department responded and promptly snuffed out the blaze. No injuries were reported.

Ft. Bliss band to participate

A 33-man military band unit from Fort Bliss, Texas, will participate in the Old Timer's Parade, Sunday, Aug. 6, said Bill Ward, Lincoln Memorial Commission curator.

Mrs Chadwick embarks to run ranch -- alone

CORONA- Headed for Australia this week was Mrs. Vera Chadwick, formerly of Corona. She was not a tourist. She was returning to operate a ranch-- alone.

Mrs. Chadwick and her late husband, Nelson, leased out their ranch near Corona last December after deciding to become Australian cattle raisers. In March they bought a ranch at Murgou, in Queensland, Nelson was killed June 20 in a car wreck. She brought her husband's body back to Roswell for burial.

"We had already bought cattle to stock the ranch and had made plans to continue there," Mrs. Chadwick said. "I intend to go ahead with our plans."

It's winter in Australia now she pointed out, and cattle are beginning to get thin. "Its time to start feeding--not a time to sell out," she said. "The calves will be coming soon; the yearlings won't be ready to sell until September. We had it planned to sell them at that time, because that's when there are fewest cattle on the Australian market."

Just before Nelson's death a neighbor sold them some alfalfa hay, the first he had ever sold, at 80 cents a bale.

Mrs. Chadwick said that when she and Nelson bought their ranch they tried to be very conservative until they became acquainted with the country and customs. They located about 180 miles north and west of Brisbane on 1067 acres, 160 in cultivation. The place was being operated as a dairy, and included in their purchase were 110 milk cows, some with calves. Improvements included a three-bedroom home, barns, and some equipment. Purchase price was $34,000.

The Chadwicks operated the dairy until the calves were weaned and the cows dried up. Meanwhile, they bought another

More than 500 persons throng to Spencer Park

More than 500 persons thronged Spencer Park Thursday night to sip, snack, visit and enjoy the entertainment provided by the Alamogordo Chamber of Commerce.

Quite a bit of excitement was generated during the drawings for gift awards, groans followed moans, then cheers as winning ticket holders stepped from the crowd. Kids, gathered in front of the areaway of the Carrizozo Recreation building, furnished a boisterous countdown when ticket holders didn't appear.

A fiddler's contest drew 12 entrants: from Artesia, Dexter, Pinos, Dell City, Texas, and other towns.

The crowd was swelled by the presence of more than 80 members of the rural relations committee of the Alamo C of C including Paul Reed, president; and Cliff McDonald, president of the rural relations committee.

Fiddler's contest results: Junior Daugherty, $50 first prize; Bill Bates, $15 second prize; and Tom McBride, $10 third prize. The Citizens State Bank of Carrizozo and the Alamogordo C of C each had donated $25.

Also competing were: Barney Aldaz, Delbert Ivans, Don Miller, Clarence Stevens, Dee Don Bates, Warren Tidwell, Pavy Snow, Odel Jenkins, Johnny Clark and Fred Wood.

Preview of future use

PREVIEW — Gathering before the soon-to-be opened Carrizozo Recreation Center is a crowd of more than 500 persons who gathered in Spencer Park for the ice cream social and fiddler's contest presented Thursday evening by the Alamogordo Chamber of Commerce.

Activities in front of the center hint of the prospective impact it will have on area residents. Along with the social and fiddler's contest, Alamo C of C members gave away merchandise prizes to lucky ticket holders. Ice cream, cookies and soft drinks were given to all.

Mrs. Chadwick embarks

100 cows and several red bulls of three-quarter Brahman breeding which cost $600 per head at auction. Purebred bulls may cost from $700 to $10,000, Mrs. Chadwick said. The cows were bought from a company that takes the buyer's order, drives him out to see the cattle, and delivers them to his ranch; buyer and seller do not visit about trades handled in this way, she said.

"Our place is supposed to run 350 head of cows, but we decided to try 200 cows and keep what yearlings we had kept from the dairy," she said. "The 160 acres of farm land is being planted in barley, but any of the other grains would do as well. Our neighbors tell us there has already been sufficient moisture to assure good grazing.

The Chadwicks also bought 10 head of registered heifer calves which they bought direct from a nearby rancher for $200 a head. The seller asked if he might keep them long enough after they are weaned to "gentle them." Owners of registered female cattle in Australia must also own part or all of the calves registered sire in order to get the calves registered. Registered livestock are known as "studs," and a ranch that runs such stock is listed under a name that includes the word "stud," i.e., "Mountain View Stud Ranch."

Oddly enough, telephone directory listings include people's occupation, a man who raises hogs is listed as a "pig farmer."

The Chadwick ranch is not in what is called the "big country," or "back bush." It is 180 miles north and west of Brisbane, capital of Queensland.

A cafe owner in a town close to the Chadwick ranch recently won 190 sections of grazing land in the government lottery. His prize is located in the Great Dividing Range. Qualifications for receiving possession of the land, a citizen of Australia and being financially able to improve the land. He has since put 100 cows on it and leased part of it to another man who stocked it with 700 cows and calves at 10 cents per week per pair until the calves are weaned. Land acquired in the lottery cannot be sold for seven years. Mrs. Chadwick said.

She and her husband took out an immigrant's citizenship which entitles the holder to all privileges of a citizen with the exception of voting.

Aside from the routine problems of setting up a ranching operation in a strange land, Mrs. Chadwick has had to adapt to such minor inconveniences as having only rainwater for household use, no ice cube trays, and no frozen foods or salad dressings like those that come from U.S. grocery shelves. Food shopping requires visits to several different stores: the "green grocer" for vegetables, the meat market, bakery, and chemist (drugstore).

She found that most cooked food is boiled; Australians she has met haven't yet taken to charcoaling or barbecuing. A steak dinner in a restaurant quite likely will be served with pumpkin and cold, canned green peas a top the meat.

Mrs. Chadwick's house is 50 years old and built on stilts eight feet high; there are 16 steps up the veranda in front and 14 in the rear. The house is frame, built of native iron-bark trees (eucalyptus). The window panes have a design molded into them and are now turning purple.

The government is financing a pipeline project to bring fresh water into rural areas; the water will cost $120 per household annually until the line is paid for, and of course that will depend on the number of connections.

Radio and television stations broadcast a lot of American programs such as the Dean Martin and Red Skelton shows and mostly country or western music. The radio station Mrs. Chadwick listens to carries American music one day and rock-and-roll, beatnik type music from London the next. Newspapers tend to play up the sensational.

One of the popular pastimes is hunting semi-precious stones; this reminds Mrs. Chadwick of Americans hunting arrowheads.

A few chain stores are attempting to introduce super market type of merchandising, and Brisbane now has three motels. But Mrs. Chadwick says a person traveling alone has difficulty getting a motel room because the price is set by the number of occupants; some rooms may bring as much as $20 per night, since Australians as a rule have large families. On the beaches you can rent space for 60 cents to set up a tent, a camper, or in which to sleep along to your car. The accommodations are used by persons in every walk of life.

In addition to her other duties, the housewife must also keep books; banks don't return canceled checks. Bank interest rates for short term loans are about 6 1/4 per cent.

Australian roads are not built to handle the heavier American automobiles; Mrs. Chadwick says the GMC Opal and compact Ford are popular cars. It costs $1200 to convert a car to righthand steering over there.

The Chadwicks took a covered, four-horse trailer to Australia. Shipping costs were approximately $1,000, and then they had to put up a $300 deposit to guarantee that it would not be sold for two years. This trailer has been a curiosity to Australian customs agents and ranchers alike. "They all search endlessly for the motor," Mrs. Chadwick said.

Their neighbors had never seen American cowboys rope, and the Chadwicks were constantly being invited to demonstrate the technique. On one occasion when the roping was rained out, their new Aussie friends apologized profusely for the weather, but asked them if they would ride out in the arena and display their horses, saddles and boots.

Their saddles were fumigated for 12 hours on going through Australian customs; the alternative was having the lining ripped out in search of grass seeds, weeds or insects. This cost $1.25 per saddle. Their two dogs, weighing four pounds each left quarantine in England about two weeks ago; they'd spent six months in quarantine at a cost of $240.

In addition to her cattle, Mrs. Chadwick will have about 60 hogs to look after when she gets back to the ranch. Pigs are marketed in town. She also has a flock of ducks which are used for household food. Nelson had contracted to have some of the eucalyptus trees cleared from their land to be sold for income, as well as to improve the property, and they had planned to try drilling for water. Stock water is caught in dirt tanks which hold very well because of a layer of granite near the surface, but most of the cattle that are lost during droughts die from thirst rather than starvation.

Mrs. Chadwick is confident that her Australian friends and neighbors who so warmly welcomed the "Yank" family from New Mexico will make top hands in helping her adjust to her new home.

Mrs. Henry Green spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Green of Clovis. They also attended the rock show which they enjoyed very much. While at the rock show they saw several former residents of Corona.

Harlon Harris and his crew have completed the road job going to the Transwestern Gas Station. Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Jones and boys of Bloomfield, were visiting Mrs. Jones parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Proctor and family last week.

Mrs. J.M. Frame passed away one day last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B.E. Penix of Ruidoso, where she had been visiting.

Mrs. Frame was a long time resident of Corona and Ancho, where her husband, Mr. Frame, retired as operator from the railroad.

Services were held at Mochans, Texas, at the Methodist church last Sunday.

Mrs. Frame was a member of the Eastern Star Chapter 65. Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. B.E. Penix of Ruidoso; two sons, Paul of Van Horn, and Eugene of El Paso. Six grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Jack Kilpatrick and two grandsons, Billy and Jack Bates, who have been visiting here, left Monday by rail from Vaughn for a vacation to parts of California including the boys home, Three Rivers, Calif.

Cardinal grad conducts study

An area of the Guadalupe Mountains of Texas, scheduled to become a national park, is being studied this summer by a University of New Mexico biology student under a park service grant of $4,000 to U.N.M.

Dr. Loren Potter, chairman of the university's biology department, is supervising the project while J. Lyndon Robinson, an Alamogordo teacher and son of Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Robinson of Corona, is doing the field work.

Robinson, who will be a graduate assistant in biology at U.N.M. this fall, is conducting an ecological study of certain forest and woodland regions in that part of the Guadalupe proposed for inclusion in a new national park.

Hunt outlook is excellent

Bear hunters planning to hunt the mountains of southeastern New Mexico this fall should have an excellent chance of bagging a bruin.

District Officers Roy Owen of La Luz and Charles Cockerell of Ruidoso both report that many bear have been seen this year in the Ruidoso and Clouderoff areas. Both officers have been kept busy all summer trapping nuisance bears. These "garbage can bears" are live trapped and moved to an area where they are less likely to get in trouble with people.

The 1967 bear season for southeastern New Mexico will be from Sept. 2 through Sept. 24 and Nov. 11 through 19. Hunters will be permitted to use dogs during the September season but not during the November season.

Now is the time for dove hunters to get the old shotgun out and prepare it for the fall hunting seasons.

Mourning dove season will open on Sept. 1. Field reports indicate that, barring an early cold spell, southeastern New Mexico dove hunters should have a good year. Dove can be seen in large numbers around almost any water hole in the evening or early morning.

The bag limit and season length for dove will be set Aug. 16 at the meeting of the New Mexico Game and Fish Commission. Federal regulations concerning dove are now available.

PRINCIPAL SPEAKER — Judge Edward E. Triviz, Las Cruces district judge for the Third Judicial District, addressed the annual State 4-H Club Conference at New Mexico State University. His talk: "You, Leisure, and Your Community."

Earthquakes in the United States have claimed only 1,500 persons since settlement. Almost half the victims perished in the 1906 San Francisco disaster.

About This Question:

"The Homeowner Policy covers items of jewelry, furs, etc. to a maximum of $1000 per item and $500 on motor boats, including their trailers. If personal belongings exceed these limits, and in the case of stamps and coin collections, is it advisable to separately insure such valuables?"

Commentary --

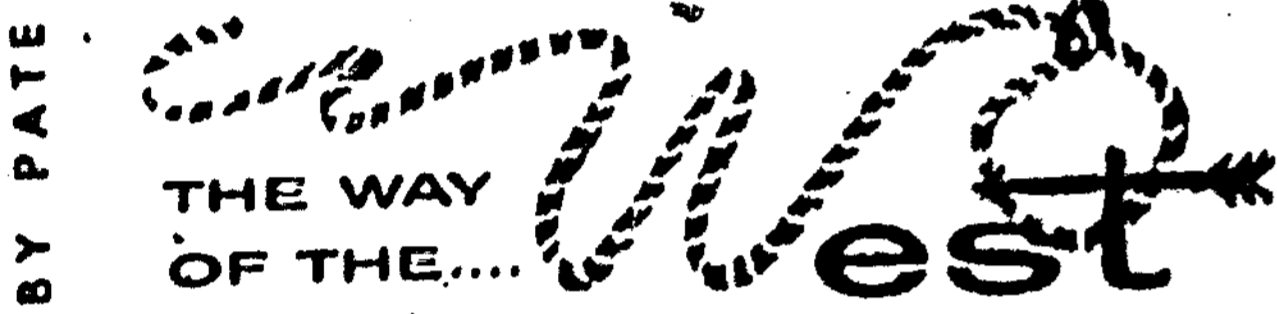

Most people would die sooner than think; in fact, they do so. --BERTRAND RUSSEL

Trouble ahead

The trouble at Tierra Amarilla seems to be far from over. With two of the principal agitators again on the loose, nothing but trouble can be predicted. As to charges that the Anglo has ruined the Spanish culture in New Mexico and pre-empted all the choice jobs, just take a look at the names in state and county offices. Race doesn't seem to matter; only ability. This should be the test of a New Mexican: Ability.

Nice gesture

As a gesture of friendship, which it was supposed to be, the ice cream social and fiddler's contest in Spencer Park Thursday night was received with enthusiasm and warmth. Persons from Lincoln County and Otero County mixed, visited and had a splendid evening. Remember though, something is never given for nothing. The real purpose of the ice breaker was to get residents to thinking of doing their out-of-town shopping in Alamogordo. 'This is fine...IF...merchants in the county can't supply a customer's needs. 'We're not trying to take business away from local merchants, just trying to get more of the out-of-town trade,' one Alamogordo C of C official said. When you have a certain number of persons in a certain area shopping at local stores and some of the trade is enticed away the local merchant suffers. Remember he's the guy who helps pay your city and county taxes, boosts the town and is your neighbor. He's also the guy who supports this paper and makes it possible for you to keep abreast of happenings in Lincoln County. So when you need something, check with your local merchant first. That's why he set up in business here, so that he could serve YOU.

From visual observation the 20 miles south of Carrizozo include the driest county from here to Nebraska. All the way north on US54 the grass is tall and green, Panhandle County of Texas and Oklahoma, plus western Kansas is the greenest seen in many a year. Getting the wheat in was a real problem in Ellsworth County because of too much moisture.

W-W
We drove to Ellsworth Saturday so that Eleanor could visit her folks and attend the Ellsworth County centennial festivities which started Friday and runs for nine days.

W-W
Not too long ago we heard a sermon preached in Spanish in Carrizozo--Sunday in Ellsworth we heard a hymn sung in German. Going from Chavez, Gonzales, Sanchez -- land in Lincoln County one gets into Boucka, Zvolanek, Koots, Prochaska and Soukup -- land in Ellsworth County.

Steve Stephenson writes a column for the Bucklin (Kansas) Banner, last week telling about a seeing 25 herds on a 500-mile trip.

I was struck by two truths in the herds that had come down through fifty years in one family you would hear "their cows have a wonderful motherly look and they are uniform" -- They like "yellow cattle." This yellow color in Herefords is just a fashion, but when an idealist is painting a picture, he wants to make it pleasing to himself, so power to him. That motherly look, though, is something else again. That is a FIRM foundation of a good breeder's success. I talked to one boy who said, "That bull's mother was sixteen years old when he was calved, her mother lived to seventeen and HER mother lived to eighteen, (that's 91 years), and most of the cows in this herd are practically full sisters.

By using the same type of sire all through the years, when you've "seen them all." I was struck by a lesson in another herd. This boy started with two purebred Hereford heifers 40 years ago. They were of distinctly two different kinds, one kind of dark and leggy, the other yellow as a pumpkin and close made. He has used the same bulls through the last forty years, but you can sort this herd into two different kinds even today. I know this herd from the way-back time, and can see Peerless Lass in this'n and Fairfay Maid in that'n even yet. Most of us give too much credit to a great bull, but the best herds we saw were started with really good heifers all of the same bloodlines. When we finally come to recognize the maternal part in reaching our final picture, we realize that mothers in all species have the most influence with their offspring. In our own "minority groups" you haven't heard of looting, brawling and general hell raising in our Chinese communities. Know why? Every Chinese child is raised to revere his ancestors, and the mother is responsible for that feeling clear through his life.

W-W
On the north side of Guymon, Okla., has been a cattle auction setup for two or three years, this trip up we noticed that Swift has a new packing plant across the road, a fertilizer company has now distributing plant and on the auction side a trucking company has built a large terminal -- sort of points up the way business breeds business.

W-W
A recent Kansas auction sale will give you some idea of land values in western Kansas. Three quarter-sections in Wichita County sold for $112,000, 960 acres in Ford County sold for $106,420. For more than the past ten years land has been sold at auction.

Orville Smith of Albuquerque visited with us recently and had one Lincoln County tale he wanted to clarify -- that about who built the rock house in the Mal Pais. Orville ran off from Liberal, Kansas in 1906 and hoboed here when he was 12 years old. He remembers Carrizozo when goats occupied the northwest part of town, there was a warehouse and depot and maybe three business buildings.

W-W
J. R. Jones is the man who built the rock house by hand in 1921-22. Jones was working for Orville Smith at the time he was running a goat herd in the Mal Pais area.

Fred Buckles: FROM THE CAPITOL:

King "yes," Cargo "no" in poll

Santa Fe -- Bachers of Speaker Bruce King of Santa Fe County for the Democratic nomination for governor recently polled 288 Albuquerqueans with mixed results. Most polling was in the Heights.

Asked "Do you know Bruce King?" a total of 195 answered yes and 89 said no. Pollsters also asked: "Do you think he (King) has done a good job as speaker?" Replies were: Yes, 113; no, 12; no opinion, 161.

"How do you think Gov. Dave Cargo handled the Tijerina affair?" Albuquerqueans were asked. "Good" was the answer from 63, "bad" responded 125 and 98 had no opinion. The governor has been severely criticized in some quarters for his conduct of the Tijerina-landgrant claimant matter but observers concede he has gained strength generally in the northern counties as a result of the crisis.

Pollsters matched Cargo and King. They reported 87 voters said they favored King over Cargo and 64 endorsed Cargo over King. Also matched were King and Sen. Mack Easley of Hobbs, also a prime prospect for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. The report said 33 backed King and 23 supported Easley.

In another matching, Calvin Horn of Albuquerque, former legislator and current chairman of the Democratic reorganization committee, was pitted against King. Pollsters said 35 favored King and 26 chose Horn. In all, 111 Albuquerqueans had no opinion on the various matchings.

King showed strength in the Bernalillo County delegation at the 1966 pre-primary nominating convention. He polled just enough convention votes to get on the primary ballot but withdrew before the primary and supported T. E. (Gene) Luck of Carlsbad.

The Albuquerque poll was taken July 19-23 in four Heights locations and one in the Southwest Valley. Polling was by telephone and in person.

Democrats are talking about a widening gap between U. S. Sens. Clinton P. Anderson and Joseph M. Montoya over control of the New Mexico Democratic Party.

King's backers say he is sure to run for governor in 1968 and will probably formally announce his candidacy next January. The legislature this year repealed the pre-primary convention law and revived the direct primary. The primary will be held next year on Aug. 29. Candidates will file for office in June.

The state Democratic reorganization committee met in Santa Fe last week-end to continue elaborate planning to rebuild the party after the shocker in the general election in November. Apparently, a select group was invited to the meeting. Several prominent Democrats were not asked to attend.

The Legislative Judicial Systems Study Committee will go to Denver Aug. 16-17 to study Colorado's three-year-old magistrate system. Committee members will meet with Harry O. Lawson, Colorado's Judicial administrator. The panel is shaping legislation for a change-over in New Mexico from the justice of peace system to a magistrate system. The legislation may be introduced in the 30-day legislative session starting next January. The committee will ask Gov. Cargo to include magistrates among subjects to be considered at the session. New Mexico voters approved the change at the general election last year. JP's will be phased out over a five-year period.

Judicial Systems Study Committee members are Rep. David Norvell, Clovis, chairman; Sen. Jerry Apodaca, Las Cruces, vice chairman; Sens. Fincher Neal, Carlsbad, and John Eastham, Albuquerque; Reps. Bonifacio M. Tabel, Belen; Raymond Davenport, Las Cruces, and Richard B. Edwards, Albuquerque.

Max A. Torres of Socorro, cousin of former Rep. Steve Torres Jr., was hired June 16 by the Revenue Bureau as a gasoline tax fieldman at $300 a month and was transferred July 1 to the new State Motor Transportation Department. The Special Fuels Section of the Revenue Bureau was moved to the new agency in the change-over. Max Torres passed a qualifying test and is in probationary status.

State Tax Commission Secretary Jesse D. Kornegay said he would recommend that the State Board of Finance not approve a property reappraisal contract between Luna County and Dean Evaluation Service of Roswell for $65,000. "They could get the same job done for $50,000," Kornegay said before the board met this week. Luna County commissioners agreed to enter the contract but the contract is subject to Board of Finance and State Tax Commission approval.

Gov. Cargo appointed Charles H. Fowler, a Socorro attorney and a Republican, to the State Board of Educational Finance, succeeding Frank Dally, Socorro Democrat. Dally's term expired. Fowler previously served on the BEF during the administration of former Gov. John F. Simms.

ESCAPE OF BILLY THE KID — Commissioned to illustrate a magazine article written during the 1930's by now Chief Justice William O. Douglas concerning Billy the Kid's escape from the Lincoln County Courthouse, this painting by Peter Hurd had hung in a New York City gallery for 15 years. Recently acquired by Baker Galleries, Lubbock, Texas, it was cleaned, restored and portions repainted by Artist Hurd. A full color reproduction has been presented to the Old Lincoln County Memorial Commission and is presently on display in the Old Courthouse in Lincoln.

Morgans, Cumpstens guests at State

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cumpsten drove to Las Cruces on Friday for a visit with Alta's brother, Jesse P. Morgan and his family.

The Morgans and Cumpstens were guests of the Engineering

Department of New Mexico State University on Friday evening at banquet honoring Professor Morgan who is retiring soon from his position as Assistant to the dean of engineers. Mr. Morgan has been with the college for twenty one years. Also present for the occasion were the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan and their families, Dr. and Mrs. W.F. Sears, Pam and Margie of Las Vegas, N.M., Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Wood of El Paso and Miss Patricia Morgan of University Park. The Morgans' son Jim was unable to be with them.

The Cumpstens returned home Saturday and are now expecting relatives from Louisiana to be here soon for a visit.

Lincoln will really come alive this weekend when the pageant, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid" will be presented and a day in old Lincoln, also a parade will be on the calendar of events.

Terry Abbey went to Alamogordo for a few days and will be accompanied on his return by his cousin, Joe Gesting.

Patsy Vigil and family, who visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanchez and brother Tony, returned to Albuquerque last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Baca have both been under a doctor's care recently but are feeling some better.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Miritez and family are here from Brighton, Colo., visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eligio Griego and other friends and relatives.

Eligio Griego, Jr. and family of Las Cruces also visited here. We're looking forward to seeing everybody in Lincoln this weekend.

Highway Patrol

Bula M. Baker, 64, of Las Cruces was cited for failure to use due care when her car struck the rear of a highway department maintenance on U.S. 70-340 about four miles east of Hondo. According to Sgt. M. L. West, State Highway Patrol, she mistook a flagman's signal to stop and started to go around the maintainer when an oncoming car forced her to swerve in behind it. Damage to the car estimated at $425, none to the maintainer.

A two car collision in Carrizozo resulted, when Erma Reasoner pulled out from 12th Street and struck the right rear fender of a car driven by Bob Means, Sergeant West said. Charges are pending.

Agnes Moore, 48, of Albuquerque, lost control of her car on a rain slick stretch of U.S. 54 about six miles south of Corona, ran off the road and struck a culvert, said Sergeant West. Damage to her car was estimated at $1,000. A citation was issued for failure to use due care.

John Russell Pierce, 6, of Albu suffered a severed knee tendon when a station wagon, driven by his grandmother, Mary G. Landrum, 55, of Memphis, Tenn., collided with the rear of a state highway department sweeper being pulled by a pickup driven by Leroy J. LaMay, 32, of Capitan. Two other children in the station wagon, Reese Pierce, 7, and Randy Pierce, 3, and LaMay, were not injured. According to Sergeant West, Mrs. Landrum, with a reported heart condition, was blinded by dust raised by the sweeper. Charges are pending against Mrs. Landrum, he told.

Zozo conservation district enters Goodyear Tourney

The Carrizozo Soil and Water Conservation District has entered the 21st annual Goodyear competition to select the nation's top 53 conservation districts, according to Lee Straley, district chairman.

Activities of the district will be weighed against the performance of other districts in the state in determining the outstanding district in the annual event. Key agricultural leaders will serve as judges and will select the state winner. Soil Conservation efforts from January 1, 1967, through December 31, 1967, will be considered.

Grand award for the 53 districts selected nationally will be an expense paid, work-study trip to Arizona in December, 1968, for one member of the district governing body and the outstanding cooperater in each winning district. The 106 men selected will be guests at a 14,000-acre general farm operation near Phoenix.

District Supervisors are Bill Stephenson, A.W. Gnatkowski, Bill Gallacher, Jr., Johnson Stearns, and Lee Straley. Straley said the district's outstanding cooperater will be selected from over the 65 operators enrolled in the district program. Nationally, over 2,000,000 farmers and ranchers in over 2,950 districts have signed cooperative agreements with local Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

GOP for worker, says Foreman

The Young Republicans during a State-wide executive board meeting in Las Cruces Sunday stressed the importance, and their support, of Republican Party unity and harmony.

Former Congressman Ed Foreman, Las Cruces, told YR's, "Acknowledging that any thinking party will have its differences, we must recognize that, even with its differences, the Republican Party is the party of and for the American working man because it is the only party unified for the preservation of his right to make his own decisions, spend or save his own money and live his own free and independent life."

BASS FISHING GOOD — See means, Jess and J. D. Garrison had a big day at Elephant Butte Lake on a recent Sunday when they caught 140 white bass, the largest going four and a half pounds.
