The 28th session of the state legislature convened January 21 as expected. There had been over 100 bills introduced on the floor of the house by Tuesday the 28th. So you can see we are pretty busy.

There haven't been any that seem to be controversial other than Sunday Liquor sales or lowering the voting age. I have been attending budget hearings on various things in our area; such as the state Racing Association, Old Lincoln Co., etc. It is utterly amazing how hard it is for anyone to get their budget raised. I feel that some budgets need decreasing and others increasing. Look what the Valley of Fire State Park has meant to Carrizozo and Lincoln County. If the Commissioners of parks and recreation could have a nice budget increase, we could have even more of this type facility.

The representatives personally seem to know quite a lot about Lincoln County. This speaks well of our area.

There have been two tax bills introduced in the house that I think are absurd. One of them calls for a 400 per cent increase in our income tax, the other for a state wide 6 per cent sales tax.

These were introduced primarily to let the people know what is being requested to run our state. We are definitely going to have to raise some additional money, however, there are several ways to do it and not just those two; for instance:

Changing to a uniform state-wide 4 per cent sales tax raises 10 million dollars and the municipalities that now collect 4 per cent would still receive their 1 per cent city tax. If we raised it to 5 per cent, it would raise an additional 22 million dollars, and the low income taxpayer would receive a refund.

Increasing the motor vehicle tax from 1 1/2 per cent to 2 per cent would raise 1 million dollars, increasing corporate tax from 3 per cent to 5 per cent raises four million dollars.

The income tax offers from 10 million dollars to 30 million dollars depending on rate changes.

Before we can decide on what to do, we have to find out what is needed. I would certainly appreciate your views on this, if you would just drop me a line to the state Capitol in Santa Fe. Ralph Petty, Jr.

COMPUTER DANCE . . . The Very latest thing

The very latest thing in dating was introduced at Carrizozo High School last week when the student council sponsored a computer dance.

The dance committee, with Susan Harkey as chairman, sold tickets several weeks in advance by distributing questionnaires to those who wished to attend.

Questions included items on personality, appearance, and interests. These questionnaires were then sent to an electronic computer corporation in Boston for processing.

When students arrived at the dance they were given a card which assigned them a number and paired that number with their ideal date or dates. Each person there had at least one ideal date and two were lucky enough to have a choice of 7. They were Gloria Ortiz and Dan Knight.

The young people enjoyed finding who the computer had picked for them and some were amused to find that their best friends were included. Others were amazed to find that their least-liked acquaintances were considered ideal for them.

Some cards were marked with a number of asterisks, which meant that person was very hard to please.

The event was a great success with the students, but chances are it did not prove that "love is a many computerized thing".

Wilson attends youth conference

Miss Joyce Wilson, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Wilson of Anecho, and a junior at New Mexico State is privileged to attend a Baptist World Youth Conference in Berne, Switzerland last summer. The expression for these meetings, "The opportunity of a Youth-Time," has real meaning for Miss Wilson. The trip combined travel, worship and education.

"One Lord, One World, One Witness" was the theme of the one week conference conducted July 23-29 with 53 invited delegates attending from 58 nations. Thirty-eight hundred were from North America with the majority from the United States.

One of a group of thirty-five delegates, Joyce departed from Oklahoma City July 15 and returned to Kennedy Airport, New York City August 5.

Conference objectives were to help Baptist youth of the world

recognize their individual opportunities and responsibilities in the church's world-wide mission, to inspire them to commit their lives to continuing Christian witness, to provide opportunities for Baptist of the world to know each other better, and thus work cooperatively to fulfill the Great Commission.

Max Jarman, Baptist layman and business executive from Nashville, Tennessee, donated to each conference participant a copy of "Good News for Modern Man", a new translation of the New Testament produced by the American Bible Society and translated by Robert Bratcher, a Southern Baptist. The young men and women were urged by conference leaders to give these copies to non-Christians in Berne and other European cities.

The Swissborn artist, Annie Valotton, who illustrated the new Bible translation with simple sketches of Bible scenes, presented devotional messages to the youth delegates each evening, using drawings, singing and wry humor.

Music for the conference was directed by William I. Reynolds of Nashville, Tennessee with assistance from an 800-voice international choir, the Baylor University band, a 300-voice choir from the First Baptist Church, Dallas, and other music groups.

Keynote speakers for the second session of the conference was a delegate from Moscow, Czechoslovakia, Vlastislav Pospisil, other Communist countries represented were Yugoslavia, Poland, East Germany and Hungary. Although not represented because of restrictions on their travel, young Cuban Baptists sent a telegram of greetings to the conference.

Joyce received college credits for a course in religion taught on the tour by Rev. Carl Hasselton, pastor of First Baptist Church, Goodwell, Oklahoma and BSU director of Panhandle State College, Edmond, Oklahoma was inder for the group.

Sightseeing began in London with Windsor Castle, the Tower of London, Trafalgar Square, Westminster Abbey, House of Parliament, changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace.

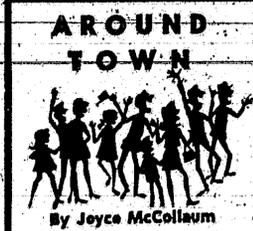

Other highlights were visits to Amsterdam, Holland; Cologne, Bonn and Heidelberg in Germany. A visit to the Baptist seminary in Rueschlikon, Switzerland, a spectacular drive through the Swiss Alps to Vaduz, capital of Liechtenstein, then into Austria to Innsbruck in the Tyrol Mountains, across Brenner Pass into Italy and through the Dolomite Mountains to Venice, Florence and Rome. Points of interest were the Vatican and Sistine Chapel, St. Peter's Cathedral, the Forum, Colosseum, Trevi Fountain, the Catacombs, and Leaning Tower of Pisa.

A day was spent in a drive along the Italian Riviera to Monaco and then to Nice, France for a swim in the Mediterranean. Two days and nights were spent in Paris. Sightseeing included the Eiffel Tower, Arch of Triumph, the Opera House, Notre Dame Cathedral, the Louvre, and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Joyce feels that this grand experience was indeed "the opportunity of a youth-time". "This tour brought me to love Europe, the joy of international friendships, and at the same time to appreciate my home country much more," she says.

Miss Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson of Lovington and a graduate of Lovington High School. She is majoring in education at New Mexico State.

He said he lived here 13 years and then left for 12 years. He weighs 116 pounds and that was the illness from which he recovered by being in the bed. He lived in the territory days and his name is on the Cherokee Roll 1881. His wife died in 1956. I do wish you many more very happy and healthy years, Mr. Freeland.

Progress is still going on in Capitán of which I am proud. Though I had not noticed the Catholic Church recently had a new coat of white paint, outside which looks grand. And it is so clean on the ground. Mrs. Lucy Padilla has added a new chain link fence around her home and yard which is attractive. The old Ramirez adobe house on west fourth has been torn down and the trees cut off. There is still some cleaning to do but it is getting done. The old ware house walls are down and the dirt nearly leveled on first street. That looks nice.

I have only a few disappointments from this town which is the finest place to live. These cars scattered over town and the ones being added on old main street. They should not be there. Someway they should be taken out. Then the weeds over the town should be buried. I know the Fire Department cannot do it as they are all employed and have hardly enough time to take care of a fire in the day time while some are on their duties. I wish I had the strength. I would help them out, but since I do not have I am asking everyone who is able to try to help clean it up. How we do need it. Isn't there some way to get this done? I know Mr. Reil would do his part on his property if approached in a nice manner for he has always cooperated.

We would be rid of grasshoppers and other insects which grow in the debris. Then, just think how nice our town would look to travelers. We do have a fine place to live with good schools, churches and business. I am proud to live here and do my part and have always done so. We have fine and good people and all of us need to pull together to help get the cleanliness this community so richly deserves.

Carrizozo stands out so clean. Why can't we? Ft. Stanton and Lincoln too. We have something here and we must appreciate it. There's so many trees to trim. There are many broken branches hanging down. Drive around and look. Something needs to be done. We have natural gas and the city sewer so let us progress by getting the cleaning done to improve the looks of our city. One cannot do it alone. It takes us all.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Young have remodeled the old furniture building into a lovely three bedroom home. It is not ready for occupancy, but it is nice and certainly anyone who ever lives there will enjoy it.

They also have a good trailer space for two trailers, with city water, sewer and electricity. They do prefer people who will remain for a while. All of this is good progress.

Exhibitors try horses in Trail Horse Class

Highlight of the horse show playday Sunday at the Malpais Indoor arena was the showing by each exhibitor of his horse in the trail horse class. This was the first time for this particular event for each of the young exhibitors.

Youth who take part in these shows are gaining valuable training and having lots of fun. The regular fourth Sunday playdays are expected to gain in popularity as the weather gets warmer. The shows are appreciated by adults who have ridden horses all their lives, but have not participated in many such horse shows.

Any cattleman can tell you that beef cattle need salt and minerals at all times, but all too often in the winter time these elements are lacking in cattle rations. Cattle just don't consume as much salt in the winter as during the summer.

As a result, many cattlemen tend to forget salt in the winter, but it is important in cattle diets. Cattlemen should supply salt in loose form to beef cattle. Cattle, like people, differ in their desires for salt and it's best to have it available free-choice at all times. A lack or shortage of salt is one of the more common causes of poor feed intake and feed utilization by beef cattle.

Trace mineralized salt will provide most of the minerals needed in very small quantities, but it doesn't supply calcium and phosphorus. New Mexico range grasses are deficient in phosphorus most of the year.

A simple mineral mixture of one part steamed bone meal and one part trace mineral salt will provide the needed minerals for most cattle. There are many mineral mixes on the market which also supply needed minerals. Even though most mineral mixes will supply salt, extra salt should be fed separately. Be sure there's a salt supply and mineral box in every shed or lot. Don't let a shortage of these ingredients be a 'profit robber' for you.

Winter is a good time to plan future home landscaping. A home landscape plan should suit a family as well as the site. A family's activities determine its needs in regards to a lawn and garden, walks and patios, and parking and service areas.

For small properties, the problem is to make your home ground livable and attractive. Planning is just as important as drawing a design. It means that many solutions are considered and a choice is made. Don't regard a landscape plan as an unnecessary expense, nor its results as purely ornamental.

Planning deals with a family's manner of living and as such is essential to its well-being.

A workable plan considers the location of the house, garage and automobile service areas, the soil slope and grading needed, placing of walks and other paved areas, fences, trees, and shrubs, hedges, steps, flower gardens, recreation, and other outdoor areas.

Dept. of Finance and Administration Local Government Division, the Secretary of State's office, Reappraisal Office and Public Employees Retirement Association were in attendance.

Mr. Phillip Larragoite, Executive Director, reviewed legislation affecting counties which will be introduced in the current session of the legislature.

Letters 36 Bel Aire Drive Springfield, Ill. Jan. 22, 1969

Gentlemen: Thanks for printing in your January 16, 1969 issue the obituary of my mother, Mrs. Nellie A. Gross.

Enclosed is my check for $3.00 as a subscription to your paper, for the time until sum is exhausted.

I plan on visiting Carrizozo on June 29/30th, with others of our family.

Yours truly, Emerson W. Gross

Here I'm, enclosing a money order, for $6.00. I like very much reading your paper. So please renew it, for one more year.

Thank you Mr. Conrad G. Apodaca 247 E. Riggin St. Monterey Pk. Calif. 91754

Dear Paul, It seems a bit early to talk about going home, but since it takes nearly three months for the paper to reach us I guess you had better stop sending it.

We will leave Kenya about April 14th and after seeing a few sights on the way home and visiting kin-folks in Texas, should get to Lincoln County about May 12th.

We are looking forward to our rodeos and visits with all of you folks.

Give our regards to Eleanor. Adios

Paul Payton Lincoln County News Carrizozo, New Mexico Dear Mr. Payton:

I am enclosing my check for $22.50 to cover the statement you sent me, I saw the first ad which was run the first week along with the letter I wrote you but I never did see the second ad, it may be that you charged me for the space the letter took up and this will be OK with me. You set the ad up very well and I was hoping to hear from a lot of friends in that part of the country in regard to helping me find some historical things on White Oaks and its early citizens. It may be that I will get more reaction in the coming weeks after some of the people have time to think it over.

I had a nice letter from Ernest Key the last day or two and he reminded me that this is the year that Lincoln County will be 100 years old, this might be the time for you to get your readers who are old timers in Lincoln County to start sending in material for a special edition of your paper, with a number of people helping out on this project it would not be too big a job. I got a feeling that your paper could do a real fine job. Think it over and see what you think about a promotion of this type, I would be willing to help you in any way I can.

I plan to visit the county courthouse there in Carrizozo and start making copies of some of the newspapers that were printed in White Oaks in the early days. At this time I am contacting many of the old time Lincoln County families by personal letter and so far have been getting some material that I am most happy to get my hands on, any material sent me I make copies and return the instrument back immediately.

I want to thank you for handling my request very satisfactorily.

Sincerely yours, John J. Kelt, Sr.

Dear Sir: Due to a recent heart attack, my activities have been slowed down to nearly nothing. Having lived an active ranch life all my life, in the mountains, this goes against the grain for me. A few weeks ago I was reading in my old scrap book, and came across some articles on "Billy the Kid". Brought back memories of what I had heard when I was a kid. One old timer told me "I know Billy ain't dead I know where he is, and I hear from him some too." He was so far as we all knew a truthful person, always thought he might be an old outlaw in hiding. But anyway he had the respect of the mountain people; but he caused me to always doubt that Garrett killed the kid. I have written several letters recently, and still am, to people who are kin to ones connected with Billy and the times then. This gives me something to do, and keeps me well occupied with something interesting.

Is there anything in the 1881 papers (July, I think) ABOUT Garrett killing Billy? Anything published about the funeral, like how many were there, if the body was shown to the public, anything to make one wonder if Billy was buried, another body buried, or any one at all buried? Or anything else of interest on him. Would you please have a copy made, if you have a machine to copy it with.

If the coroner's jury really viewed the body, or if there really was a body, and where they (jury) lived. What time of day he was buried, and if there is anything to back up the story his mother attended. This seems a little on the far out side, since four-footed horse power in those days would have been little too slow for her to get there in one day.

Anything on why Garrett had a little difficulty in collecting the reward money. Who was the first man Billy killed and where. The Silver City Enterprise tells me that they have no record of Billy killing his first man in Silver City. The Chamber of Commerce wrote a newsletter and they claimed the first victim, but gave no name for him. Did not give me any information on how they got their information.

Any information on the jail break, when Billy killed Bell and Olinger? The story that came out hid a gun in the out house should have been easy to determine, in none of the stories have I ever heard mention that Billy still hid his gun, only that the kid used Bell's gun. Seems as if Bell should have been shot before he got half way down the stairs, if the kid had Bell's gun. Makes me wonder if some one did hide a gun for him, and he went up the steps first, and shot back at Bell. I feel like there should have been some thing in the paper on that occasion to clear up the gun story one way or another.

Thanking you for your time and trouble, and will really appreciate any information you can give me, or if you know of any one who could give me any. So far I haven't found anyone who can give me any information on any member of the Pete Maxwell family, and how to contact them.

MINIMUM WAGE RATES INCREASED IN FEB.

New Mexico ranchers bound by the Fair Labor Standards Act should remember that the minimum wage for farm labor rises to $1.30 per hour, effective February 1, reports Gene Ott, management specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service of New Mexico State University.

Only those ranchers who used more than 500 man-days of eligible labor in any quarter of the preceding calendar year are covered by the law, he explains. This means that any rancher with approximately eight full-time workers must pay minimum wage.

Not all hired labor is considered in figuring the 500 man-day base, Ott points out. Members of the employer's immediate family; local community hand-harvest piece workers employed in agriculture less than 13 weeks last year, and migrant hand-harvest piece workers under 16 who work with their parents and are paid the same rate as older workers are exempt.

Most New Mexico ranch employees are not affected by the new minimum wage, Ott adds.

Thirty-Five Boys Reclassified Selective Service Board 14 in Carrizozo held its regular meeting on January 23 when 35 boys were reclassified, two registrants reviewed and one duplicate registration cancelled. The call for month of February will be for one to be inducted in Lincoln County, none to be examined. Any registrant having question is urged to contact the office or board member.

INTERESTING LAW POINT TO BE ARGUED IN COURT

The judge will hear arguments from both sides Thursday. No preliminary hearing has been held and won't be until the disqualification matter is settled.

Roundup

By Ralph Dunlap

Machine washable wools are now on the market that you can launder without fear of shrinkage, felting, or fading if you follow the directions on the label carefully. Certain wool items, such as sweaters and blankets, have always been hand washable if done with care, but now scientists have made a number of improvements for easy machine washing without fear of shrinkage.

Combining extreme heat, moisture, friction, and strong soap during laundering has caused some homemakers problems with washing wools garments. Wool can't withstand these extremes and relaxates by shrinking. For example, if a wool sweater is washed in hot water with strong soap for a full wash cycle, and then ironed with a hot iron and a wet press cloth, the sweater will shrink.

Even though the label on some of the new wools says machine washable, most manufacturers still recommend washing in cool to warm water with a mild soap using a short cycle. If pressing is necessary, always use a slightly dampened clothes, on-the-job clothes for women, robes, and winter sportswear.

But if you plan to use these fabrics in your home sewing, remember facing, trimmings, bindings, and linings must all be washable too.

The practice of using plastic wool bags at shearing is currently being questioned. The major wool processors have indicated all wool put up in plastic sacks might be discounted this year.

The chief reason given by the mills for discouraging the use of plastic is one of fiber contamination. In the movement and handling procedures used on baled wool, it is almost impossible to avoid a certain amount of tearing and ripping of the outer cover. When this occurs there is a breakdown of the individual plastic strand into several small plastic fibers which cannot be separated from the wool.

Unlike fiber contamination from burlap bags, plastic fibers are transparent and they do not dissolve in the carbonizing process. In addition, they are approximately the same size as individual wool fibers and have the same characteristic crimp. Consequently, they remain in the wool throughout the processing procedure and are not noticed until the finished product is dyed. Plastic will not accept dye and the result is an inferior product.

I would suggest you contact your wool warehouse and get their recommendations before ordering this year's supply of wool bags.

NM Native Working On NASA Job

Glenn A. Snow, native of Carrizozo, N.M., and graduate of New Mexico State University, is on special assignment to the NASA Space Center in Houston, Tex., as an advisor to the Botany Section of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory.

He is working with other scientists in completing the plant growth chambers to facilitate the growing of plants in a germ-free condition, perfectly sealed to prevent contamination.

In this sterilized condition, the effects of lunar material, to be returned on manned space shots to the moon, will be determined on several species of plants.

Snow is assisting in the setting up of monitoring equipment and that to control the environment within the chambers. He went to Houston in early January and will remain for several months.

Since 1957, he has been plant pathologist for the Forest and Wood Products Disease Laboratory of the U.S. Forest Service in Gulfport, Miss. He also received his Ph.D. from North Carolina State University last May. His dissertation, which has been published in a four-part series, being entitled "Environmental Factors Related to the Epidemiology of Fusiform Rust."

He received his B.S. degree from NMSU in 1952, served in the U.S. Army and was then district sanitarian for the New Mexico State Health Department until 1955 when he accepted a research assistantship at Colorado State University. He received his M.S. degree in plant pathology from CSU in 1957 and went to Mississippi.

He is married to the former Dolores Bombach of Las Cruces, N.M., and they have three sons. His parents reside in Carrizozo where he was graduated from high school in 1948.

EDITOR'S CORNER

Storm billows over "beating" in Ruidoso

It's not too hard to work up a chuckle over the opinions of some parents about discipline, either in home or in school.

About 50 percent of all children are angels (on earth) in the eyes of their parents and couldn't do anything wrong. Another twenty-five percent of children (both sexes) are little hellions and their parents know it but like things that way, even with mother hitting the anacin bottle all day. The other twenty-five percent of children and parents get along pretty well, maybe some trouble but working it out and bridging the age gap at least slightly.

Can't help but remember the time a woman teacher pulled the young guy's pant leg up and whacked him on the ankle severely, don't remember why. Knuckle whacking with ruler was common then.

On the serious side -- real honest to goodness education takes place only in school where discipline prevails, because learning is first a matter of discipline -- that of putting the mind to a task that may be hard and distastful.

The loose run and "have a good time all the time" schools will send their students out only partly prepared. Tax money to finance this type of school is at least half wasted, and more important the students are cheated at getting such a poor start.

Barney Barnett, Ruidoso editor, wrote a column opposing the practice of beating (his word) children in the Ruidoso schools, ending column with vow to fight against this practice of beating children. Barney got out on pretty thin ice right there because he probably does not (or did not then) know the full book on discipline and education. . . . at least not in his home town school.

Our only objection comes when school administration fails to establish a learning situation, one where the students show desire to learn or at least are serious about the business of school. A school is not operated on tax payer money solely for the purpose of making all parents happy, maybe try to make them understand the problems, but the learning process of youngsters in school should come first.

We hear it all the time, many of our young people can not read, write, spell or do arithmetic real well. Tax money spent on them was certainly partly wasted, time in school wasted, and these youngsters can't hold the best of jobs. No question but that those youngsters looking for job, and not going to college, lack preparation for other than most common type of work.

Whatever it takes to outfit our young people to compete in this age -- we're for. If the training gets a little hard-nosed, we're for that too, because life in this world is a little hard-nosed.

We'll end with these choice words -- Talent is nurtured in solitude; character is formed in the stormy billows of the world. Goethe-Torquato Tasso.
