Geological Survey to be made in 2 areas

Kenneth Segerstrom, geologist, and Norton Harrison, a student at Louisiana State College in Baton Rouge, La., are starting a geological survey of the Jicarilla Mountains, some 63 square miles, and when this survey is complete the same project will be started for the Sierra Blanca Wilderness Area. Mr. and Mrs. Segerstrom and two children, Kathy 14 and Larry 16, have moved into the Minnie Thornton house. Harrison will return to college before the survey work is complete.

The result of their work will be geologic maps of the Ancho-Jicarilla-placer district and the Sierra Blanca Wilderness Area. The work is being done under the auspices of the U.S. Geological Service.

BY PATE

We've been reading several interesting things the past week and maybe the best of the lot is article on "Water planning for equilibrium" by Max Linn, president of John Muir Institute. Presented in the New Mexico Business May issue. This article makes several points worth remembering, not quoted here for the sake of argument but more for information.

W-W
The lack of rainfall in the Southwest is one of the main reasons why we have had such a tremendous development here. People come because of the dry climate and the great abundance of sunshine and open space. Industry comes for the same reason.

W-W
Many agricultural interests will figure that shade trees, shrubs and grass in your picnic area, called phreatophytes, should be eliminated because they use water that could be put to beneficial use like irrigating crops.

W-W
And farmers take note -- it takes more water to irrigate an acre of land for agriculture than it does to provide service both for drinking and waste disposal per urbanized acre. Some say the low-profit feed stuffs should be raised in areas of higher rainfall and leave more water for town use in the dry southwest.

W-W
In 1965 Arizona was pumping almost five billion gallons each day. Much of this water was and still is being used for agriculture. The amount of ground water taken out is far beyond the amount being replenished by the scant rainfall there. Nearly every time a drop of water falls in Arizona, state and federal agencies examine it, name it, claim it, dam it, or flight over it.

A problem in overdrawing ground water is the permanent compaction of water-bearing layers, which reduces their carrying capacity forever. Outside Phoenix there are reported to be great cracks in the desert where aquifers (underground water source) have collapsed. The San Joaquin Valley in California settled 25 feet because of underground compaction (meaning water taken out let soil and rock above settle down. Other areas have this same problem.

Irrigation has changed the Phoenix area from a dry desert area (main reason a lot of people went there) into a moist almost subtropical area -- Evaporative coolers no longer work in Phoenix.

W-W
Figure this one out -- one solution to the overuse of water in Arizona is more people. What the man means is that there should be less farming and more people because people use less water than farming.

W-W
Texas has a water plan of normal size for that state. It will cost $10 billion and involved construction of 66 reservoirs diversion to Texas of 13 million acre-feet of water annually from the lower Mississippi River, and construction of two canals to carry in Mississippi water from east Texas to the south and the arid west and to the New Mexico border.

W-W
On August 5 Texas voters rejected the plan. One expert figured out that the Texas plan would destroy life in Louisiana as we have known it.

W-W
Much argument is going on about various hydro-electric projects, one in Alaska would give that state 700 per cent oversupply of electricity 1,000 miles from the nearest customer, at the same time ruin a salmon industry, destroy 2.4 million acres of fowl breeding ground and much other damage.

W-W
Glen Canyon Dam, which won a 1964 award for civil-engineering achievement, will be silted up and unusable in only a few short decades, while the canyon, which took the Colorado River millions of years to create, will never be recovered.

W-W
Linn closes his writing with these remarks - perhaps we should begin to question more seriously than ever both the need for and the desirability of our major water projects, and even all the small water projects that effect the environment. We can no longer rely solely on economic or technical or engineering feasibility in deciding whether we ought to undertake a project. No other planet in our solar system has water. Let us plan and think and act accordingly. And let us learn from history.

Court says ranchers have no interest

In a brief opinion of June 1, the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals has affirmed the Federal District Court in New Mexico in its dismissal of an action challenging the legality of the grazing fee schedules for BLM and Forest Service lands which were announced in 1968.

The suit had been filed by Pankey Land & Cattle Company for itself and on behalf of all other public land permittees and named the Secretaries of Interior and Agriculture as defendants. Holding that grazing permits, although valuable to ranchers, are not interests in property, the Court rejected the contention that the permittees would be deprived of property without due process by the fee increase would tend to destroy permit value. The Court went on to hold that, since the ranchers have no vested interest by virtue of their permits, the claim against the secretaries would have to rest on a contention that these officials had abused their statutory discretion. However, because there is no provision in the statutes for judicial review of the authority conferred upon the secretaries to fix fees, the Court decided that it could only determine whether or not the two officials had acted illegally or without any authority. Thus, since all parties agreed that statutory authority to fix fees did exist, the District Court properly dismissed the action.

The Circuit Court closed its opinion by stating that, in any event, the issue was moot, because the administrative officials had imposed a moratorium on the new fee schedule. Unfortunately, this part of the opinion fails to recognize the fact that the moratorium is of temporary effect and that after the receipt of the report of the Public Land Law Review Commission, in the absence of any further action, the new fee schedules will become effective.

For so long as the statutes invest administering agencies with broad discretion to fix fees, the reasoning of the 10th Circuit Court will undoubtedly control any judicial attacks upon future fee increases.

The litigation has, however, served a useful purpose in that it demonstrates to Congress the need for legislative guidelines which are binding upon the administrators in fixing fees as well as statutory provision for adequate judicial review.

Fond memories of Texas Park and White Oaks by Ben Leslie

I was born in the Texas Park in 1892, there was several large families living there and most of them were from Texas, that is where it got its name Texas Park. I will give you some of the family names that made their home in Texas Park in the early days, Lacy, Bragg, Bartlett, Palmer, Current, Fowell, Harris, Mahon, Cleghorn, Johnson, Slacks, Glenn, Augayo, and us Leslies, everyone of them big families.

I went to school two terms in Texas Park and my teacher was Daisy Nabours, there was some seventy five children in this school at that time, my family lived about three miles from the school house and we rode burros to our school, at times we could not find the burros and we would have to walk back and forth to school. I remember they used to have dances in the school house on Saturday nights and they would come off horse back and in wagons, the cowboys would come up from the Block Ranch, they would make coffee outside on a camp fire and the ladies would bring cakes. They would dance until daylight and some times until sundown. I went to several dances after I was grown. After I spent two terms in school at Texas Park my folks moved to White Oaks as the schools were much better there and I received the rest of my schooling there in White Oaks which was quite a large town at that time, some thing like 4000 people. White Oaks had two grocery stores, one owned by Ziegler and the other by Jones Telefero, one dry goods store run by Sol Weiner, two saloons one being run by Cap-Lee and another run by a Spanish guy I don't remember his name. One bank run by Frank Sager and George Uldelick, two hotels one run by Ozanes which was later sold to Fletcher Lund and one run by Mrs. Jane Galacher. One butcher shop run by Mr. Treat the father of Ralph and Roy Treat. Two drug stores one run by Dr. A. G. Lane and the other by Dr. M. G. Paden, one lumber yard run by the Gumm brothers, one laundry run by two chinamen, one dance hall built by Bonnell's, two blacksmith shops, one run by Charlie Mayer (father of Paul and Bertha Mayer) the other by Taylor and Sons, one livery stable run by Paul Mayer brother of Charlie Mayer, two churches and one jail; two law offices one run by John Y. Hewitt and A. H. Hudspeth, the other by Col. Prichard and one fine school house.

White Oaks was quite a town in these days, lots of men working in the mines and all houses were full and tents were stretched in the foot hills, four gold mines "North and South Home stake, Little Mack and the Old Abe, one coal mine east of White Oaks called at that time the Old Abe Coal mine. White Oaks had a fine school house and there was some three or four hundred kids going to this school, one of my teachers was Mrs. Covington and another was "Mr. Davis. I remember we used to get to school early in the morning so we could play base ball, also at the noon hour, I remember so well there were three girls that could really play baseball with us boys, they were Sally and Ollie Grumbles (sisters of the late Walter Grumbles) and Margaret (Maggie) Gallacher who later married Bill Kelt, these girls could catch and throw a ball just as good as any of us boys, some of my school mates were Roy Grumbles, Paul Mayer (living in El Paso, Texas at this time) Bill James, Guy Lund, Carl Anderson who also lives in El Paso, Francis Cannon, there were others but I cannot recall their names. An incident I well remember when I was a small boy, there was a bunch of boys much older than me that was playing on Rocky Peak just on the north side of White Oaks and they started a fire and had with them a lot of empty cart-ridge hulls, they would put water in the hulls and put them together and throw them in the fire, they would go off and make a loud report like a gun shot. One of these hulls hit Jim Lee in the cheek and tore a great big gash and they had to rush him to the doctor. It took several stitches to close the cut, I cannot remember all the boys names but I believe the Queen boys, Owens boys and Candy Sandoval were in this group of boys. I remember another terrible thing that happened when I was a small boy, this was on a night shift at the Old Abe Gold mine about two miles north west of White Oaks, they used large kerosene oil lamps and were attached to the upright gallow's which are right at the top of the main shaft, one lamp on each side, for some unknown reason one of these lamps set one side of the gallow's on fire, the top man or trammer had just taken a car of ore to the Old Abe Mill and was coming back toward the main shaft when he saw the fire and it was spreading very fast since all the timbers were dry, in a very short time the whole mine shaft was on fire, there was no way to fight the fire and all the oxygen was burned out of the air and the following men lost their lives since they were working down in side the Old Abe. John Davis, B. Frank Wilson, George W. Baxter, William B. Mitchell, G. L. Conover, Chas. H. Sherrick, Frank White, and W. J. Williams died of suffocation. The date of this accident was March 9, 1895. The top man or trammer was thought to be Alfred James.

The smoke from this Old Abe fire could be seen from the town of White Oaks which happened in the early morning hours and continued to burn for some time the next morning, my oldest brother Lisha Leslie had come to town the evening before so he jumped on his horse and was the first one to the mines, there was eight lives lost being overcome by smoke which spread through out the mine tunnels, the rest of the workers got out alive, I remember so well going down with my mother to see all eight of the men laid out side by side. There were a large number of women and children crying and grieving over their loved ones.

Back to the school days after us boys got up a little older, we got a little rough on Halloween, we would kinda tear up the town, we would go to Bob Taylor's blacksmith shop and gather up old wagons and any thing else we could find and drag the items down to Ziegler's and Telefero's stores and block the front entrance and it would take them a half a day to remove the junk we had stacked up before they could open up for business. Mr. Ziegler got real mad and one Halloween he swore that he could catch us and make our parents pay for the damage, we were all around 15 or 16 years old at this time so we figured Mr. Ziegler would be out to catch us, we figured out a way to have some fun and got ourselves some wire and stretched it about 8" high from Cap-Lee's saloon which was near the Ziegler store, actually the wire was attached to a hitch rack in front of the saloon to the corner of the store building and made the wire real tight, later we went and got some items and started dragging them down the main street of White Oaks right past the Ziegler store and made sure we were making plenty of noise or racket. Mr. Jake Ziegler was a large fat man and sure enough he was laying to catch us boys, he come running out and as he come out us boys took off down the sidewalk in front of the store and we all knew that the wire was there eight inches off the ground so we jumped or stepped right over the wire but Mr. Ziegler caught his foot on the wire and we thought he would never quit rolling, he was real skinned up the next day and naturally he never caught us boys. There were something like eight of us in this group, two Hunt Boys, Bill James, Earl Martin William Current and myself and others. Another time on Halloween there were ten or twelve of us turning over old outside toilets, that was the only style we had in those early days, we had turned over several already when we came to an extra large one behind Ziegler's store and it was taking a lot more effort to get it to turn over finally we did get it to start falling over and Earl Martin slipped, and fell in the hole, we got him out but it took us the rest of the night to get him cleaned back up.

When I was about sixteen years old I got stuck on a girl that was in the same grade with me at school, she was the first girl that I had ever went with and I thought a lot of her, her name was Beulah Brazel and her dad

News and Notes

By Mary Ellen Payne

The newcomer to New Mexico who is not aware of the differences between high-altitude and sea-level cooking may have problems getting everything ready to serve at the same time. Vegetables require a considerably longer cooking period at high altitudes than at sea level. Green beans require almost twice as long to cook, boiled potatoes require approximately one and one half times as much cooking time. Onions must be cooked about twice as long at 7,000 feet as at sea level. When planning a meal, it is necessary to allow additional time for the vegetables to cook in order to have everything ready at the same time.

Frozen vegetables require slightly longer cooking periods at high altitudes than at sea level, so a little more time will be needed than is recommended for commercially packaged vegetables. Because of tenderizing effects brought about by blanching and freezing, frozen vegetables require only one-half to two-thirds the time necessary to cook the fresh vegetables.

Considering the additional time required for cooking vegetables at high altitudes, a pressure saucepan is a real time saver. With the saucepan, fresh or frozen vegetables can be cooked in a very short period of time. Dried vegetables, such as beans or peas, will cook in a matter of minutes instead of hours.

Even though longer cooking periods are necessary at high altitudes, don't overcook your vegetables. Tender, firm vegetables are far superior in color, flavor, and nutritional value to those that have been overcooked and are mushy and soft.

Single copies of NMSU Extension Circular 404 "A Cook's Almanac for High Altitude Cooking" are available at the Extension Office in Carrizozo or from the Bulletin Office, New Mexico State University, Box 3A1, Las Cruces, 88001.

Conditions and treatments which merely work upon the hair surface cannot correct the internal structural damage which causes your hair to be weak, spongy, breaking.

But now there is Ineral. A revolutionary restructuring solution that penetrates deep inside your hair and actually builds new internal structures to replace those that are weak and broken!

It's like replacing damaged hair with new, stronger hair.

The Result? The beautiful, young-looking, flowing, more and thicker hair. New liveliness, new strength, even shine!

We are making our city beautiful

The last three days we have had growing weather though dry. But we must keep plenty water to keep things coming.

Due to wonderful cooperation of good citizens of Capitán we will make our city beautiful. The Cheneys furnished the plants and prepared the plots for the lovely flowers as usual. Chad Horton is keeping them watered. He mowed the lawns in front of Museum, City Hall and City park. Hollis Cummins and Gerald Dean Sr. donated the necessary fertilizer, each a sack to be used there. Therefore it should all be very pretty. For each are doing their part to make it so. Thank you dear Citizens and friends. Though I know that none of these persons want notoriety I feel they deserve lots of thanks, gratitude and appreciation from all of us and that we let them know it. We do have a wonderful city to live in and we all must do our part to help make it so. Wonderful cool climate, though seasons are short, it is a bit of paradise each day.

The Capitán recreation started off this Monday morning June 15 by the bus taking the children to Carrizozo for swimming. Mr. Dickey is in charge and I am certain there will be lots of enjoyment. You happy children should by all means appreciate and participate. For it is a grand opportunity for everyone. Take advantage of the opportunity to learn constructive things and enjoy them. Now is the time. Mr. and Mrs. S.M. Cozzens took their two grand daughters who had visited them for two weeks, to their home in Fort Summer last Tuesday. They attended the Nazarene Assembly in Clovis Wednesday and Thursday and returned home Friday afternoon.

They talked to their daughter Miss Marilyn Cozzens in Palm Springs, California, Saturday. She had just returned from two weeks vacation in London, England which she happily enjoyed visiting an aunt. Her sister Miss Jane Cozzens is at this time visiting her.

Mr. Ralph Dunlap was in Sonora, Texas last week on business.

Their son Wayne Dunlap is out of college for the summer and is now employed with the Phillips Petroleum in Borger, Texas.

Their daughter Mrs. David (Lola) Coleman was home with them four days last week. Her husband David expects to receive his degree in Business Administration in August. They both are going to summer school now.

Mr. and Mrs. T.G. Jobs of Fort Stanton are enjoying their daughters Sharon and Sandra who are now at home from Eastern College.

The Vacation Bible School started Monday June 15 at the Nazarene Church and closes Saturday 20.

Get to the bottom of your TV cable problem right now is the time. I am telling each citizen to get their problem to the right source at this time instead of just complaining, do something and pull together for we then will have good TV. It is possible here but just needs us to work together. There is no sense in putting up with what we have had for the last several months. It is time for the gentleman to get our lines in proper working condition and give us something for our money.

Kathy Robinson, Worthy Advisor of Rainbow Assembly #7 Carrizozo attended the N. M. Assembly of Rainbow in Albuquerque last week. Then went with her sister Virginia to visit Patty Cook in Hurley, N. M. They returned home together Monday June 15.

Hollis Cummins has set Lombardy Popular trees out on the south and west of his home outside of their fence for wind break. They look nice and in years to come they will get much enjoyment from them and lots of protection. He also changed his fence a bit to strengthen it.

Mrs. Ofelia (Cy) Salas of Lincoln left June 2 to visit her sister in Georgia then went on to Florida to visit her mother and other relatives. She is having a happy vacation which she so richly deserved as she is one of our excellent teachers.

Mrs. Pat Hicks and Mrs. Catherine Burgess were hostesses for the wedding shower given June 11 honoring Miss Karen Means. Sixteen guests attended. She received many nice gifts.

Miss Karen Means and Mr. Roy Payton, Jr. were united in marriage Saturday June 13 at High Mesa Ranch with Reverend Robertson officiating, Jim Don Wright and Susan Payton were attendants.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Mr. Kenneth C. Means. She is a 1970 graduate of the Capitán High School.

Twenty-five people attended. The couple is at home in Capitán.

I wish you worlds of happiness together and years of marital bliss.

Mrs. Howard Wright and Jimmy and daughter Kay Strickland left Sunday evening for Seminole, Texas to visit her mother Mrs. Elsie Kidd and other relatives and will return Thursday.

Mrs. Irene Renfrow's sister Mrs. Wanda Wilson who was injured seriously in car accident Friday before Decoration Day is now convalescing here with Irene. We wish you rapid and good recovery Wanda.

Mr. and Mrs. John Purcella spent most of the day in Alamogordo helping her sister Grace Long break up house keeping since the death of her mother Mrs. Pearl Pruitt. They brought furniture etc. home with them and Mr. Smoot also helped. They did stop and visit Mrs. Allie Taylor here while enroute to their home on the ranch. Mrs. Long has moved into an apartment. She is expecting a transfer and desired to have it all settled before it.

Several weeks ago the hall we had damaged Mrs. Allie Taylor roof on her home. The insurance as usual did nothing. Last Saturday afternoon her son Mr. and Mrs. Bud Taylor of Hope and her sister Miss Mora Boyer of Okla. arrived with good metal roofing. Her grandson Mr. and Mrs. Lee Crandall of Alamogordo also arrived and spent the night. Sunday morning her daughter Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crandall of Roswell and her sister Mr. and Mrs. George McBride and Cody of Mesclero arrived. The five men put the new roof on Sunday. Therefore now Allie does not have the worry of the roof leaking and doing damage inside her home.

There was eleven for dinner Sunday. Mrs. Annie McInnes joined them in the afternoon. I am so happy and glad for you Allie. You have a good family.

The work is progressing nicely on the foundation of the new Fair building. Our City men are still working diligently on the clean up. I hope each citizen does their part to try to clean on their own and help make it all the more beautiful. Please, each one of us strive to do so.

Fond Memories

Continued From Page One had a ranch down on the flats south of White Oaks (Beulah Brazel being the sister of Mrs. Albert Snow of Carrizozo, N. M.) Mr. Brazel had some mean horses that had thrown several riders, one day Beulah's father said Ben why don't you go to the ranch with me. I want you to ride a mean horse for me, I know that you Leslie boys are all good riders, so me being stuck on this little gal of his I had to take him up on this proposition, Beulah went along to see the action, I managed to ride the horse but it was all I could do, I later rode several more horses for Mr. Brazel but I never did get his daughter.

After I finished school I worked in the coal mine and my brother Rob worked in the Old Abe. Alfred James was his shift boss at that time, they got up a bet as to who could win in a foot race, I remember Shorty Dillard run against Ralph Treat, there was a lot of money bet on this race, they run this race on the main street of White Oaks, Ralph Treat won the race by two or three feet (Mrs. Ralph Treat lives in El Paso today). Later on Shorty Dillard married Myrtle McNew.

I went to work in the North Homestake mine in August 1913 John Lee was my shift boss, the mining company went by the name of Wildcat Leasing Co. the partners in this company were Ed Queen, Allen Lane and Dave Jackson, I worked until about the 10th of January 1914 and since I had fell in love with a Capitán girl by the name of May Birch and we made it up to get married she was only seventeen and her folks wouldn't agree to it. So I told Bud Lee my shift boss that I wanted to take off for ten days that I was going to get married so Mr. Lee told me to go ahead that my job would be waiting for me when I got back. So I took off and rode my horse over to where my girl lived on a little ranch close to Capitán, I got her a horse out of the corral that night and we eloped and rode back to White Oaks which was thirty miles to the north and it was around eleven o'clock at night when we arrived back in White Oaks and nothing was open but Cap Lee's saloon, I left my girl sitting on her horse out in front and also holding the reins of my horse while I went in the saloon to talk to Jim Lee who was tending bar, I talked to him a little while and got hold of a little money and told him what was up. I told him that I wanted to go to Carrizozo and catch the train to El Paso, Jim told me that he would be glad to take us when he closed up at twelve. While I was waiting for him to close up I went over to Mrs. Jane Gallachers and borrowed a suitcase from her to put our clothes in which we had them tied on our saddles in sacks, then I took the horses up to my fathers house in the east part of White Oaks and put the horses in the corral and walked back down to the saloon, Jim Lee took us on down to Carrizozo in his Model T Ford and we left on the train at 1 a.m. in the morning, I will never forget Les Harmon was on this same train and he teased us all the way to El Paso, we got married the next morning at 9 a.m. at the court house in El Paso and Les Harmon was one of the witnesses. We spent our honeymoon in El Paso and was back in White Oaks in about one week. The parents of May now my wife got real good and invited us over to see them. Then I went back to my job at the mine. I worked until the middle of April 1914 and that was when I got hurt real bad. R. D. had been working on the 1200 foot level and was tramping ore out of the shutes and we run out of ore about noon and my shift boss moved me after lunch up to the 1000 foot level. After I sent up the first bucket, Mr. Armstrong thinking I was still on the 1200 foot level let the empty bucket drop pretty fast, I had a loaded bucket ready to hook on to the cable when it got back, I heard something really singing and thought it was a big rock falling down the shaft. I made one big jump backwards but didn't jump far enough, the empty ore bucket hit the loaded one and bounced over and struck me on the forehead and caught my hand and arm, the sudden rush of air put out all the candle lights which we had to use during this day, here I was in the complete darkness and I would not have seen even if I had some light as my eyes were full of blood from the lick on my head and my arm and hand was all cut up. It was my left arm and hand that was injured. Blood was running all over the place. Ralph Treat and Fred Lee was working one hundred feet above me and they heard the noise, they hit the man way which has the ladders from one level to the other and these two men were by my side in short time. They loaded me in the empty ore bucket and took me to the top, I was about all in since I had lost so much blood, Allen Lane was there and got the blood stopped and bandaged my head, arm and hand and rushed me down to Dr. Paden who had moved to Carrizozo sometime back. Allen had a good car and got me down to Carrizozo in a short time. It took several stitches to sew up my hand, arm and head but I was thankful I was still alive. If it hadn't been for Ralph Treat and Fred Lee I wouldn't be here to tell this story because I would have bled to death in a short time. It was six months before I could go back to work. I guess the good Lord was with me, if I had not made that jump backwards I never would have known what hit me because the empty bucket would have hit me right on top of the head, some of the other men working in the mine at this time were Jessie Leslie my brother, George Current, Ted Reasoner, Pitts and Bive Brookings, Ed Lee, Bud Lee, and several others that I cannot recall at this time.

I treasure my memories of Texas Park and White Oaks, in this article I have set down the true facts as I remember them. I am now living at 1204 14th St. in Alamogordo, N. M. and welcome any letters from my old friends.

Signed
Ben Leslie

Robert McDaniel of Glencoe is out of the hospital and back at his home again and is still improving from day to day. Giles Ramey was to have gotten out of the hospital to go to Mesclero for a while last Sunday where he will stay for a while before coming to Lincoln. We hope he made it. He too, has been improving daily.

Mr. and Mrs. Cumpsten went to Loveland, Colorado for a ten day visit with their son and his family and to attend the graduation exercises of their granddaughter.

Last weekend their daughter her husband and children visited en route to California. They will come back by for a longer visit, on their way back to Dallas, Bill Shrecengost who is attending a National Guard School in Albuquerque was at home for the week end. Little Maria Trujillo of Roswell visited her grand parents Mr. and Mrs. Christobel Zamora recently. Daniel Gomez Retires

Daniel D. Gomez, a life-long resident of Lincoln County, retired as senior laboratory technician at Fort Stanton June 15, after spending 37 of his 45 working years at the hospital. The 64-year old Gomez began employment at Fort Stanton as an attendant in 1925, when the facility was a Merchant Marine Hospital for tuberculosis treatment under the United States Public Health Service. Gomez remained until 1953, at which time the State of New Mexico acquired Fort Stanton and established a state hospital for tuberculosis there. After serving as a laboratory technician at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Albuquerque until 1961, Mr. Gomez retired from civil service and returned to Fort Stanton. He remained with the facility after it was converted from a tuberculosis center to a school for the mentally retarded in 1966. The personnel of Fort Stanton held a testimonial coffee for Mr. Gomez on June 12 and presented him with a watch as a token of their high esteem. Mr. Gomez plans to remain in Lincoln.

Small communities . . . like this one of ours are the finest places in the world for youngsters to grow up. They are the strongholds of the real American way of life and our country's greatest source of leadership.
Away from the regimented beehive life of the cities, a child has a better chance to develop the broad and independent viewpoint that makes useful leaders.
But . . . if we keep our small communities intact with good schools and churches and comfortable living standards, we're going to have to slow down on the Great Give-Away . . . small town people giving away their community assets to Big City business.

But for him our notes of issue would be as the stump-tailed currency of 1857. But for him this government of ours would be bankrupt. "Mines will be producing millions of gold, silver and copper in that future day when National banks are unknown. "A mine contains a crop already raised, harvested and on deposit for you to check against at your pleasure. "The wealth gathered from the mines immortalized King Solomon."

Mining is an industry as necessary to the welfare of the community as the raising of crops. "Show me a country without mines and I will show you a people sunk in degradation and poverty; and poverty makes cowards of nations as well as individuals.

"Mining is the second industry in the United States. "Mining has transformed more poor men into millionaires and raised them to positions of honor and trust than any other business. "Mining has scored less than 35 per cent failures against 95 per cent failures in general merchandising business in the United States. "Without the products of the mines you would have neither a frying pan, a spoon, a hatpin or a monetary circulating medium. "Eliminate the miner and you set civilization back to the dark ages. "Outside the element of great personal profit which will accrue to us as bankers who are able to supply the money to open great mines, it behooves us to foster an industry upon which the prosperity of not alone our depositors, but of the entire nation depends." These words out of the past are even more meaningful today, when a blind and head-strong bureaucracy is either unable or unwilling to recognize the absolute necessity of a strong, virile mining industry.

Agriculture programs must be justified

Speech by George V. Hansen, deputy administrator, State and County operations, agricultural stabilization and conservation service, USDA, at the annual meeting of the New Mexico Association of ASCS county-office employees, at Las Cruces, New Mexico on June 6, 1970.

"Agricultural Programs must be justified not only on the strength of how they serve the farmer, but how they serve the growing urban populace -- what they mean to the consumer," George V. Hansen, a US Department of Agriculture Official of Washington, D. C., today told a group of USDA Employees meeting in Las Cruces.

Hansen, who is Deputy Administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, told ASCS State and County Employees: "The future of agriculture in New Mexico depends on how successful you are in helping make farm programs meaningful to the farmer and yet in presenting them in the light of consumer-benefit programs that serve all of the people".

In urging the ASCS employees to "go on the offensive" in telling non-farm people of agriculture's contributions, Hansen said: "In the past, farm programs have too often been presented to the general public in an unfavorable light. We haven't told this story as well as we must in this critical era for farm programs and for the health of the agricultural community. Let's point out that the average farmer today feeds about 45 persons and that agriculture is increasing in efficiency twice as fast as industry."

Illustrating his point further, Hansen said: "When you compare American agriculture with the agriculture of other nations, our progress is even more astounding. While most other countries require 40, 60, 80 or even high percentages of their population to produce an often inadequate supply of food and fiber, Americans produce an abundance of both with less than 5% of the nation's population."

Hansen said that the American consumer realizes the greatest benefits from agriculture's success by having to spend less than 17 percent of his income for food -- "far less than consumers pay anywhere else in the world."

Concerning the public debate over $3 1/2 billion in government assistance each year to farmers, Hansen said this amounts to less than 7 percent of the farmer's gross income -- contrary to popular belief. For this 7 percent, taxpayers get the most consistently abundant, well prepared, economical food in history, plus what the farmer gives America in the way of a green countryside, fresh water, clean air, and havens for the sportsman and nature-lover," he concluded.

Attending this meeting were Allen K. Trammell, County Executive Director, Lincoln County ASCS Committee and Anne Maude Miller, Program Assistant, County ASCS Office.

Round-Up
By Ralph Dunlap
Lincoln County Agent
Carol... .. placed week. She had a score of 592 points. The high point individual had 606 points. The Lincoln County team of Carol Cooper of Tinnie, Cristina Pacheco of Tinnie, Allen Sultemeier of Corona and Ray Sismoros of Tinnie, placed sixth with 1692 points. The contest was won by Kerr County 4-H team with 1783 points.

During the trip they also visited the Sonora Experimental Station, El Dorado Woolen Mills, El Dorado Wool warehouse, and Sonora Caverns.

Good horse health for performance and appearance is emphasized by the 4-H horse project. Spring should bring a total program of horse health care with particular emphasis on internal parasites. More horses die directly or indirectly from blood worms than any other disease condition, according to veterinarians. This means that every 4-H'er must learn how to identify a horse with parasite problems and find effective methods of treatment. Parasites harm horses by absorbing the food before the animal gets it, sucking the blood and lymph from the animal, eating the tissue of the host animal, causing a mechanical obstruction in the bile and circulatory system, producing nodules or tumors on the intestinal walls, providing a constant irritation and providing entry to various bacteria and viruses through openings in the duct walls caused by the parasites.

Several symptoms may appear when your horse has parasite problems. The appetite is usually reduced, and the hair coat becomes dull and rough. The horse loses his ambition and just stands lifelessly all day. Colts are very common targets for parasites. Colts may run as if playing, then stop in a lifeless, dejected position. They often cough and have many digestive disturbances. Their hair coat is also very rough and dull, and their eyes are dull. If your horse shows any of these Signs of parasites, contact your veterinarian for proper treatment. One type of anti-parasite drug won't kill every type of parasite your horse may have. Some effective drugs are thiabendazole, piperazine, and trichlorfon. The three most common parasites are blood worms, round worms, or ascarids and bots.

A public hearing to determine if certain chemicals are environmentally harmful has been called for July 8 at New Mexico State University, Dallas Rlerson, director of the state department of agriculture, said today. The hearing will be held in the Agriculture Building auditorium beginning at 9 a.m.

The following chemicals will be considered at the hearing to determine if they are environmentally harmful, as defined by the state Economic Poison Act: aldrin, dieldrin, chlordane, endrin, heptachlor, toxaphene, 2,4,5-T, and mercury compounds used for seed treatment. Persons wishing to present oral testimony at the hearing may file an intent to be heard by writing to Hearing Officer, Economic Poisons Act, P.O. Box 3189, New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, N.M. 88001. Written testimony will be included as a part of the hearing proceedings if presented before the close of the hearing.

"The Economic Poisons Act limits the use of environmentally harmful economic poisons to those situations in which no adequate substitute is found practical," Rlerson pointed out. The regulations provide that environmentally harmful economic poisons may be used only under permit and conditions established by the board of regents and under the supervision of the director of the state department of agriculture.

Calving difficulty is a major factor in subsequent decreased fertility in beef cattle, according to a study of 2971 calving records by the San Juan, Colorado, Experiment Station. Uterine infection and retained placenta can cause a delay to normal cycling. To offset this, use bulls that have a history of low calving difficulty.

Begin peach tree borer control now. An application of dieldrin or Guthion to the trunk and lower branches of peaches and other stone fruits, every 21 days beginning June 15 will control peach tree borers. Ask for a copy of Insects of Peaches, Plums, Apricots and Nectarines and their Control, from the County Agents office in Carrizozo.

Spray for apple mildew control. Powdery mildew can reduce both yield and quality of apples if left uncontrolled. Sulfur compounds, Karathane, Moracide, and certain other fungicides will reduce disease incidence. Follow the manufacturer's label recommendations.

My House

Of Old Things, By Jackie Silvers

We were blessed with many visitors last week. It was good to greet them from the States of Texas, Colorado, Illinois, Arizona, South Dakota, Mississippi and Wisconsin. Texas had the most towns represented; they were El Paso, Gatesville, Brownwood, Lubbock, Ft. Stockton, Plainview, Monahan and Santa Ana. New Mexico towns were: Vaughn, Tucuman, Mountainair, Capitan, Hobbs, Holloman, Axtec, Ruidoso, and Carrizozo. They all seemed to enjoy our arrangement of the relics of the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miller are the proud parents of a new little girl born to them June 4th at Tularosa, N.M. She has been named Wanda Wynette.

Our youth of Ancho have been very busy this past week with several different activities. Susan in is Las Vegas for Girls State and Dan Harley to Boys State. Leanne Straley was in Albuquerque with the Rainbow for a meeting. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Lee Straley one of the sponsors. Michael Scott is here working on the George Straley Ranch with Lee, Mark Driskell is a guest of G.L. and Phil and all are working cattle. Leland Jackson is working for Mr. Calentine on the Harkey Ranch north west of Ancho.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. West and Mr. Forest Gaston of Capitan, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Herman West and Donna Brock of Plainview were here for a lovely visit with us and a tour of "My House". We still seem to have a bond with Plainview, Texas as my brother Cap bought flour for the store for many years from "Harvest Queen Mills" of Plainview.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethel Mathew, with her daughter Mrs. Billy M. Woods and children came from Ruidoso Saturday for a tour thru "My House" and an afternoon visit with Jackie and Sara Jackson. They are vacationing in the cool, cool, mountains of Ruidoso.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hightower and Mr. Bryan Hightower left Friday for Phoenix to attend the wedding of Gary Hightower and Beth Flynt. Mrs. Katherine Colley of Pecos, Texas, who is visiting the Hightowers, accompanied them.

Among students receiving advanced degrees at Eastern New Mexico University May 28 was Willis F. Kilpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Kilpatrick of Palmdale, California, and grandson of Mrs. Jack Kilpatrick of Corona. Mr. Kilpatrick received his Master of Business Administration degree in Management Science. He will be employed as an Operations Analyst by the Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company in Topeka, Kansas.

While earning his Master's degree, Mr. Kilpatrick was employed as Resident Manager of Lincoln Hall men's dormitory on the ENMU campus. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi, professional business fraternity, and the ENMU Graduate Student's Society in Business Administration. Mr. Kilpatrick is married to the former Carol Bonnell of Capitan. They have a daughter, Shanna Colleen, 16 months.
