Employment Service interviewing to compile manpower record for county

The New Mexico State Employment Service has three men doing a service job in Lincoln County. Gordon Waldrip and Fred McCracken, counselors, and Steve Kozlowski, clerk-interviewer have their office in the county commission room in the courthouse. They will be in Carrizozo through September 10. The manpower service being offered is under the sponsorship of Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce and includes job referrals, vocational counseling, testing, referral to vocational training and other services where needed to become job-ready.

Waldrip, McCracken and Kozlowski are particularly interested in talking to a wide group of people; unemployed persons, housewives, part-time employees, businessmen and women, businessmen and women, ranchers, self employed people and farmers about the manpower situation in Lincoln County.

They will start working with seniors in schools of the county in September doing counseling and vocational testing. They will visit Corona and Capitan on September 15, Ruidoso on September 20, and Hondo on the 27th.

Rawhide races at Billy the Kid Rodeo were thrilling to watch. Just staying on the rawhide around the barrel took some doing. This picture should show the Sunday winners, David Hernandez pulling Ray Martinez and making the route in 9.8.

Outdoor recreation facility would be the finest in southwest

The Town of Carrizozo this day has recreational advantages to offer that far surpasses most small towns of the nation and with any luck all these facilities should be rounded out soon with an outdoor recreation park that will include:

1. Two lakes, one 4-acre and one 1-acre. The 4-acre lake will be stocked for fishing and open to all the public.
2. Little League Ball Diamond with lights and bleachers.
3. Playground equipment, including tornado whirl, dome whirl, saddle swing, glider swing,

Jack & Jill climber, see saws and slides.

4. Two comfort stations, will be nice.
5. Tennis court and badminton court.
6. Nine-hole golf course with grass greens.
7. Picnic shelters with rotissaries and picnic tables will be placed throughout the area.
8. Ample parking facilities will be provided.

This will be a recreation area for all ages of people in the area as well as a welcome stop for tourists.

Priorities for projects such as this will be set probably this week. Mayor Johnson Stearns, Engineer Tom Mann and probably Duff May and Alton Whitaker were in Santa Fe Wednesday to present the Carrizozo Outdoor Recreation plan to the state planning people.

The project will occupy a total of 90.83 acres. A group of citizens, all stockholders in Carrizozo Country Club, are donating 69.29 acres of land and the remaining 21.54 acres will be purchased. Fifty-four acres will be grassed and landscaped.

The Town of Carrizozo will be the sponsor for the construction of this facility. No member or stockholder in the Country Club will have any special privilege. Financing will come from established recreational funds.

The recreation park starts at road turning in to the Country Club and runs east along U.S. 380 Highway.

The view from this park area is spectacular. To the west is the Valley of Fires State Park, the beginning of the lava flow of the Tularosa Basin with a skyline of Salinas Peak, Rhodes Canyon and Mockingbird Gap. To the north is the upper end of the Tularosa Basin where it joins Estancia Valley.

The boundary between the two is formed by Los Pinos Mountains in the center of the basin. To the northeast is the famous White Oaks Country with the looming Carrizo Peak and back drop of the Tucson Mountain. To the east are the villages of Capitan and Nogal with Indian Divide and Nogal Canyon, the gateways to the Capitan and Sierra Blanca Mountains.

Nogal Peak with its 9,000 foot top, Mon Jeau with its 10,000 foot lookout and White Mountain rising to 12,000 feet furnishes an impressive skyline that can be seen for hundreds of miles.

Between the mountains and the recreational project are the smaller Willow Mountain foothills, blending mountains with the rolling range land slopes. To the south is the harsh, dry Lava Flow and White Sands Country with distance blocked by the rugged outline of the Franklin and Organ Mountains. Carrizozo is a genuine crossroads in central southern New Mexico, both highways U.S. 54 and U.S. 380 intersecting here. The flow of tourists down these highways has shown a gradual increase over a long period of years. The malpais has been a major attraction in this area, the one most tourists ask about. Now they may soon have another interesting stopping place on U.S. 380, a new recreation park where visitors can rest, picnic, and enjoy the wonderful climate of Lincoln County.

Obituaries

Lewis Otis Foster was born McLanesboro, Illinois, on April 4, 1886. He came to homestead in New Mexico at Cedarvale, in Torrance County. He married his wife Effie on July 1, 1913. They were blessed with three children, a son Lewis Kenneth, who preceded Mr. Foster in death in 1928 and two surviving daughters, Vera (Mrs. Sam Barnes of Clovis), and Helen (Mrs. Floyd E. Toland of Portales.)

The pride of Mr. Foster's life, the ranch at Cedarvale, expanded to four and one-half sections during the fifty-three years that he labored on it. Ill health forced the couple to move to the lower altitude of Portales. The ranch is now leased to Mr. Jack Davidson.

Survivors, in addition to his wife and two daughters, include the following: Elmer R. Foster and Charles K. Foster, brothers; Mrs. Minnie Hatman and Mrs. Nola LaMore, sisters; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents, his son, two brothers, Edgar and Owen, and one sister, Mrs. Ana Cunningham. Interment is at Cedarvale Cemetery.

Otis Foster, an elder in the Corona Presbyterian Church, built his life on the foundation of Jesus Christ. He treated all whom he met with kindness and honesty. Any work that he attempted, he labored at whole heartedly. Idle time and hands did not abide with him. When God, through a heart attack, reclaimed his own on the morning of August 12, 1971, he reclaimed a soul that reflected Christ in his dealings with his neighbors.

Way West - By Pate

Marion O'Donnell has been visiting the Paul Paytons this week and would like to return to Kansas by train, the one known as the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe. Pretty good song about that line was popular few years back but it needs changing now. This line never did have passenger service into Santa Fe and now Marion finds out the A, T & S passenger train does not stop at Topeka.

Happiest person in Carrizozo ought to be Daniel Sandoval, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sabino Sandoval who won a $500 bingo jackpot last week.

Mary Shrum takes flowers to many friends, churches and such.

Few of them will know that Mary's bouquets have a pretty flower known as "physostegia."

Other happy people around Carrizozo include all the Chamber of Commerce guys and gals involved in the Billy the Kid Rodeo. Wesley Lindsay, Committee chairman, said it might break even -- and that's good. The rodeo was good, too.

People who saw Carrizozo scrimmage Tularosa thought the Grizzlies were certainly up to par and could win their share of games--which is quite a few. Thing that is hard to understand and has nothing at all to do with new coach, is how come there are just 21 boys suited up as of Wednesday -- all this after winning two state championships in a row. Sure hate to think that boys in Grizzly land are going soft but can't come with any other conclusion. Worst result will be next year when the team starts off short on experienced players.

We talked with Elfred Jones on the phone Tuesday. He's in Room 219 at Medical Center in Roswell. Elfred has been feeling poorly and just not up to clarinet playing for quite some time. We think he can whip whatever troubles he has and are looking for him back home in maybe a week.

Got to admit one misses a few things by being off on vacation. Arden and Phyllis Jennings stopped in for visit and we missed them. Arden was top student of the editor back up there in Spearville, Kansas. Arden's lovely wife is pictured here.

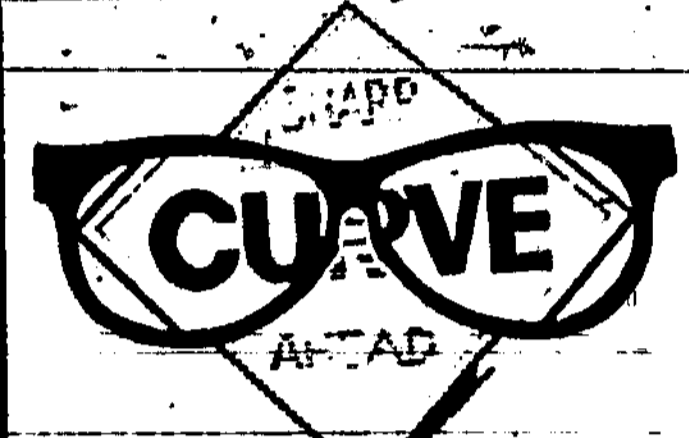

Tomorrow all you friends of Jake Fulmer (most of Carrizozo people) take a minute out to remember this good friend. His birthday is August 29, the address is J.G. Fulmer Jr., 16 West Way, Chappaqua, N.Y. 10514. His daughter Margaret, says he's in pretty good shape but can't see worth a toot. Margaret will read any messages you send and Jake will know that Carrizozo has not forgot all the many good things he did for this area.

That's for us -- you can actually get a chocolate ice cream soda now at Paden Drug Store.

Non-resident fishing license in Wisconsin costs $6.50, good for year--our recommendation to those people is that they give a three-pound fish with each license, alive and wiggling, so the holders can immediately get their picture taken for the home folks.

Monday morning, opened front door to go out for papers. There was one of our friends had crawled under the screen door and was being very still, watched but not molested by two sausage dogs on the porch. Haven't seen this horned toad since and would like for him/her to work on the small ants on the patio.

There is simply nothing like a bit of travel, maybe 3,000 miles, for information on the price of gasoline, learning about highways and wayside stops in other states, finding that Iowa really does have a lot of corn, Minnesota a big barn on every eighty, the rain falls by the bucket-full in Nebraska, Kansas is real green, and Wisconsin has enough lakes to share with New Mexico and the rest of the southwest.

Three things that really make a farmer happy were most obvious in Kansas — good grass throughout the Flint Hills, good crops — and all this good stuff dotted with oil and gas wells.

Nebraska has real fine wayside stations, same in Iowa where you can rest and get information if needed. Hard rain hit crossing Nebraska and we figured might as well keep driving because the rain would stop shortly — it took fifty miles.

Iowa is well known as a corn state but you almost have to see it to get the full message. So much corn on each side of the road all the way that you don't realize they may raise any other kind of crop.

Run out of freeway or interstate type of road going into Minnesota and got lost for about twelve miles. Country roads in Minnesota are all black-topped but they're sure windy (pronounced like in wine).

The big barns of the north central and eastern United States ought to make an interesting book as some of the historic ruins in the southwest. Houses almost equal size and one can imagine that those people, fifty years ago, intended to raise large families and button up for the winter with enough feed in the loft for the livestock.

Without anyone telling us, or reading any literature on the subject, we reckon that the agriculture processes in that area are changing, much like the small farms going out in the Panhandle Country, and small ranches a thing of the past in the southwest. A large number of the big barns were showing lack of maintenance and use, just no livestock around anywhere. Probably families are much smaller in these times than in the early 1900s.

Reading the map about the town of Minocqua, Wisconsin, it says population is 750 more or less. What the map does not say is that Minocqua is set on an island between two large lakes, bridge at south end and fill at the north for entrance, and there are thousands of people living in beautiful homes along the lake shores and in the woods—all of which makes Minocqua a busy, busy trading center, stores open until 9:00 p.m. seven day a week.

A lot of people in the Village Press country will remember Bernie Laabs, coach of many champion football teams, and his wife Edna. They live in beautiful spot about fifty feet from lake at Minocqua. Both happy and well and send their best wishes to all people of this area.

Times change in the wooded northeast. Talked with insurance agent named Eddie LaPlante about the isolated cottages and how they were insured for fire and such. The coming of snowmobiles changed everything. Now nothing is isolated anywhere in that country. Breakins occur now that never happened before—the snow vehicles came along.

People get on their snowmobiles and ride off twenty or thirty miles for dinner. Bernie says there will be 200 or more of the snowmobiles parked at the popular places during the peak periods.

Supper clubs dot the area every which way, and smaller taverns thick in between. Rick Gergs, state director for United States Brewers Assn., told us that beer consumption in that area was about double, per person, what it is here. Those people drink a lot of brandy and ice cream mixtures. One bar operator said he would serve eighteen gallons of ice cream a week or more, mixed in drinks.

You haven't really been up to a smorgasbord until you've dined at the House of David in Abbotsford, Wisconsin. We've seen a lot of them but none to come even close to what David and Edna May Laabs (son of Bernie) set out. Things like pickled mushrooms, Wisconsin Cheddar cheese, and a couple of dozen other delicacies make David's House an exceptional place to eat — located in a town of 1200 people.

Edna plays the organ in Busse's Supper Club, finest and most enjoyable music we heard in the area. People like to gather around and sing and Edna was probably the only musician up there who could play any tune they think of. Bernie and Paul check on the other spots while Edna was busy at the organ.

Southern New Mexico looked real beautiful on the return trip—different in a way that people in those northern and eastern states do not know — nice to get home safe, nice to see how the other half lives.

EDITOR'S CORNER

It happens every year!

And this is the week -- when youngsters ages five to around seventeen head back to school. That first week is always fun, sorting out the new people, putting on the pads, getting elected cheerleader, even a hand full of new books can be fun until they become work.

Brings to mind some real recent conversation with another member of the family, an opinionated young lady of maybe twenty-six years, whose ideas are at least as far out as the 70's.

We do admit she right in many instances, but not entirely.

This young lady realizes that many young people come out of high school without the skills and abilities to hold much of a job, and that a large percentage of them do not go to college, and many who do last only a year or less. She would like to see coming generations of young people do well in this world--so would her father.

Where we part company is when she argues strong for much more freedom of selection of courses, like letting 6-7-8th graders select the courses they want... in addition to reading, writing and maybe arithmetic.

She thinks students of the intermediate level, and certainly of high school age, know what they want and are qualified to select the courses that will best fit them for the life they see in the future.

No way -- is our answer. We're much more inclined to think that the intermediate level in school (6-7-8th grades, or around there) are finding out a period in life. Curiosity then is real strong for sure. Let the students get a taste of this and that in education, including some of the skills like a keyboard, a drafting board, a chemistry lab, football or basketball court, a music instrument, a calculator, and such where both mind and body do the work.

But somewhere along the line the school should provide what we both agree on, at least for the students who are completing their formal education--at the high school level. That is, the basic skills and knowledge to hold a job, one the young person really wants. There is the tough part, especially for the small schools. And there is where we're falling.

This is the year of the jobless, much the same as any other year in small towns of the Village Press area. There just are not many jobs so the youngsters have to go in the big towns and compete for jobs with youngsters who have had a different kind of training, are closer to the jobs and in many instances are better prepared to fill the available jobs.

This education problem is too much in the hands of large bureaucracy -- the State of New Mexico. About all school patrons can do is talk to their local representatives, meaning the school board and school teachers. You likely won't get what you want or think your youngster ought to have in short order, but maybe those younger ones coming along will have a better chance.

This nation is like it is for the fact that people have set back and just let things happen without getting involved. The only real way you are going to improve opportunities for your youngster is to get involved--real deep. On that both father and daughter agree.

No winner in News Contest

Catherine Ward of Ruidoso went with Caster, Swalander, Bonnell, Mrs. N.E. Britton and Judy Province of Capitán, and Bella Barola of Carrizozo the same, but that was as close as any Names in the News contestants got to being a winner last week.

The winning combination was Chavez-Swalander-Bonnell.

Leonard Hall sent an entry from Trotters, North Dakota, using Barnett, Stearns and Gutierrez. Mrs. G. P. Sandoval of Duran went with Cozzens, Stephens, and Bonnell. Eileen Griffin of Alamogordo tried Chapman, Stephens and Bonnell.

It can be done because there were two winners the week before, but surely takes a little luck as well as bit of reading the News. You will find the clues for a new contest in this issue. Prize money is the same, $5,000 cash plus paid-up subscription either for yourself or other person you choose in Lincoln County or out of the county.

It's all free, so read the clues and write your three names on the coupon in the Names in the News advertisement. The contest closes each week at 8:00 a.m. Tuesday.

Quarter Horse Classic Sunday

Sunday's upcoming finals of the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic will ring down the season's curtain on major races for older quarter horses at Ruidoso Downs, but the prospect of the showdown between the super-speedsters has racing blood pumping a rapid pulse.

Thirty-two candidates entered the journey toward the Classic crown and met in four divisional time trials last Friday. When the last clump of track sod had fallen back in place ten of the brilliant entries had sped their way to spots in the finals. Next Sunday these finalists will go to post in the eleventh and feature race with large slices of the $68,000 purse as the goal. The winner's share will be a whopping $34,000.

Bunny Bid, the bouncy colt with hare-splitting speed, had no trouble in winning the last time trial and posting the fastest time of the elite qualifiers. The 3-year old son of Double Bid-Easter Rose rocketed down the 440-yard straightaway in 20.02 seconds to whip Miss Fund and Carlotta 2. However, the division was so fast that the top three finishers all qualified for the finals. In fact, Miss Fund's second place finish rated her the third fastest time of 22.14.

Bunny Bid, trained by Richard Nolen and ridden by jockey Larry Byers, is owned by the Bunny Bid Syndicate of Chillicothe, Texas. Going into the trial test, the sleek chestnut colt had earned $69,315 for the year and a jolting $172,578 for his young career.

Robbie Richardson, Gary Vega, Maura Lovelace, Leola Montes.

Flag Race 13-15 -- Jenny Lander 12.5, Jimmy Warden.

Steer Riding To 12 -- Chuck Lambert 40 points, Roger Graham, Dale McDaniels.

Steer Riding 13-15 -- Eddie Martinez 46 points, Sammy Martinez 46 points, Sammy Salazar, Joy Phelps.

County Treasurer Mabel Vigil has been ill and out of the office since July 29. She will undergo surgery next Tuesday at St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell. Rosella Kirkpatrick is Deputy Treasurer taking care of the office.

Lincoln County Commissioners will meet September 10 in Carrizozo.

Reappraisal work in Lincoln County is moving along, some fast and some slow. Properties being found without accurate description or location take time. The many subdivisions are scattered and so are the houses in them, these take time.

It appears that Carrizozo and Corona school will get their 1.7 mills tax money, around $10,000 for Carrizozo. This money is a part of the reappraisal program. No way for Capitán, Ruidoso or Hondo to get the 1.7 mill money this year.

What is not generally known is that most of the sub-divisions in Lincoln County are in School District 28, Capitán. The appraisal of this district will take longer than any other. Completion of the reappraisal is expected sometime next Fall.

Judge Dee C. Blythe of Clovis will preside in District Court September 1-2-3 for hearing of the case of Sierra Blanca Sales Co. vs All-American Livestock Co. and Ruidoso Racing Assn. The suit is for breach of contract, brought by Eugene Hensley over sale of the race track. Hensley is asking $215,000.00 in punitive damages.

Judge E. Forrest Sanders will preside in district court for jury trial September 7-8, case is Hammond vs Powers Construction in Village of Capitán.
