Pearl Soderback at High Country

John Hall, manager of High Country Lodge and Restaurant at Ruidoso, told the News Monday that Pearl Soderback would be chef at the restaurant starting Saturday, May 1.

Pearl is probably the best known and best liked chef in Lincoln County plus a lot of surrounding country. Her home cooked family style meals are famous with more people than can be counted. She operated a restaurant at Capitan for a long time and more recently brought hungry diners in from the entire southwest to eat at the Wortley in Lincoln.

Pearl is also well known for the wonderful baked goods she makes in her spare time, like delicious cinnamon rolls and bread.

Party groups are welcome at the High Country Lodge according to Mr. Hall.

No doubt at all but that Carrizozo's new Intermediate Care Unit is going to be modern all the way. Here you see Forest White setting up furniture for beauty parlor.

Billy's pistol stolen from museum

Lincoln County Sheriff's department is still investigating a breakin at the courthouse-museum in Old Lincoln Town April 14 when six valuable antique guns were stolen including a Colt reputed to have belonged and used by Billy the Kid.

An amount of $600 in cash, bills of small denomination plus one roll of nickles, was taken from its hiding place which indicates that the theft could have been done by some local person who knows about the hiding place. The stolen guns included: 1851 Colt Navy pistol, .38 cal., cap and ball, no serial number recorded.

Sheriff Brent's gun, Serial 79264, a Colt Frontier Model, .44 cal. has pearl handle, first inscription reads: Given to Jas. R. Brent by citizens of White Oaks 1883, second inscription reads: Given to Bill Brent by his father July 1921.

The Blanchard Gun, Smith & Wesson, .48 cal. six-shooter, serial 331756.

The Blanchard Gun, Smith & Wesson, five-shot, double-action Hammerless, serial 111794. Sheriff's Poe's Gun, 1873, .44 cal. Winchester, no serial available.

Sheriff Poe's Gun, Colt Frontier six-shooter, .44 cal. on .45 frame, no serial available. Entrance was made at the rear of the courthouse.

A Country Editor's Life: Hectic!

By Ben A. Franklin
The following article was sent to the News by Margaret Fulmer with these words -- "Many thanks for keeping the Lincoln County News coming. It certainly cheers Dad (J.G. Fulmer Jr.) each week to hear the news from home. He has missed the hospital news lately. Hope its because no one is in there."

WHITESBURG, Ky. -- The names of America's weekly newspapers may evoke a strong sense of the nation's link to a gentler, rustic past, full of shrewd, mordant humor and easy days under the shade trees: Advocate, Atlas, Beacon, Eagle, Booster, Clarion, Crier, Eccentric, Hatchet, Headlight, Gleamer, Oracle, Plain Talk, Philistine, Searchlight, Telephone, Tomahawk, Tiller & Toller, Sun, Moon, and Star. But Thomas E. Gish of the crusading weekly newspaper, The Mountain Eagle ("It's Screams!") who has just won a journalistic award for a long and lonely struggle with strip mining interests in the mountains of eastern Kentucky, says it isn't so.

The 45-year-old Mr. Gish is editor-publisher-reporter-photographer-ad salesman-type-setter-compositor and business-and circulation manager of the paper, and he looks a little weary at the very idea that a country editor's life might be a leisurely one.

"It's just sheer myth," he said, with emphasis but without bitterness, between long, reflective draws on one of a succession of chain-lit cigarettes. "I don't know an editor of a weekly paper who doesn't work 60 to 70 hours a week. But it still seems to me the most interesting of all vocations. Everytime I tell myself I ought to leave, I can't visualize doing anything else half Continued On Back Page

Which way land values?

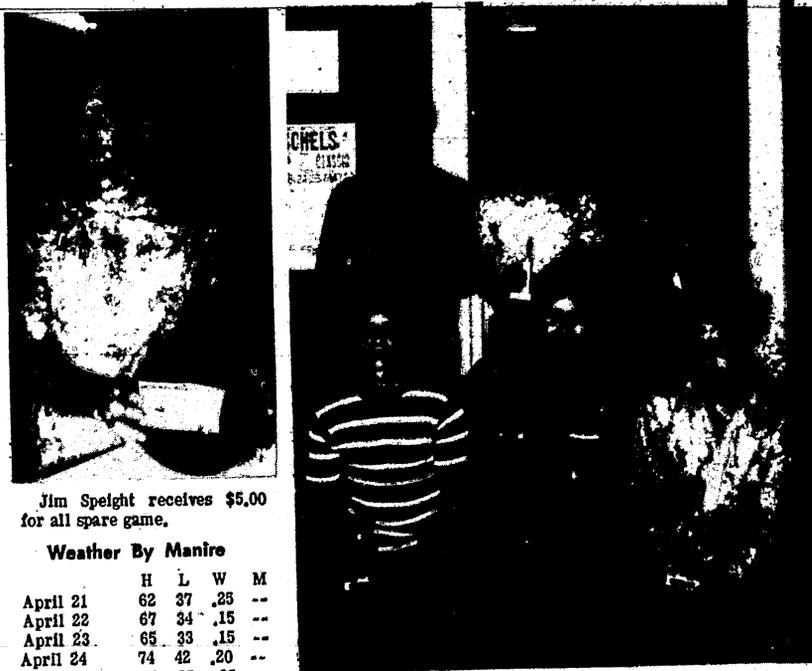

Take an average acre of farmland that's been cultivated for a couple of generations and track what's happened to its value. Starting in 1850, it was worth $11 (U.S. average). By the turn of the century, $20. In 1950, $65. And last November, $195. (Values, of course, vary markedly by States. You couldn't touch a piece of farmland in New Jersey for $195 last year; per acre values were closer to $1,028. In contrast, Wyoming's land was worth some $36 an acre, the lowest in the Nation. In Illinois, the heart of the Corn Belt, per acre values ran about $483.)

To get back to our average acre, though: How come the big change in value over time? Inflation is part of the explanation. But there have also been gains in productivity, increasing capital improvements, changes in government programs, and -- above all -- market demand. The fifties and sixties were decades of fierce competition for farmland as producers vied with one another for expansion acreage while nonfarm people looked to the countryside for living room and work space. The seventies will doubtless bring more of the same. But there are signs that the rate of growth in land values is starting to slacken in parts of the country. Nationally, per-acre-farmland values last November were up only 1 percent from March 1970 -- the slightest gain in any similar period since 1960. The entire year saw only a 3 percent rise in contrast to 1969's 4-percent hike and 1968's 6-percent spurt. Changes in value per acre varied widely among States. Six saw values climb 10 percent or more during 1970, in 15 States gains came to 5-9 percent; in 22, from 1-4 percent. The remaining 5 States experienced declines of 1 to 5 percent. Sharpest drops were in Kansas, 5 percent, and California 3 percent. Tight credit conditions apparently were partly to blame in both areas. Regionally, strong gains in farm real estate values were notable only in the Northeast and Southeast during 1970. In the first area, strong demand for rural homes and urban use buoyed land values last year, despite the shortage of market money. In the Southeast, changing farm practices and enterprises accompanying technological change, plus a growing nonfarm demand appeared to be the big factors back of the continuing strong market.

Steam engines like this used to run through Carrizozo many times a day and memories of that period of history are still vivid to a number of Carrizozo residents. Read Fredrika's Powell's Tale of the Southwest in this issue. Picture courtesy Johnson Stearns.

Front page of the PATENT TRADER, twice weekly newspaper serving Chappaqua, New York, where the William Fulmer live, has picture of Irving the Pigeon and Betsy and Dieder Fulmer. Irving was found last June, featherless and disconsolate, by Mrs. Fulmer who brought him home, and hand-fed him on watered-down dogfood, he survived and was soon a member of the family. Irving loved to walk along behind the family poodle. The question of him or her was answered after Irving's picture appeared in the paper -- with the appearance of two eggs, leaving Bill Fulmer, as leader of the harem with four females instead of three.

Jim Reynolds, preacher for both Capitan and Carrizozo Methodist churches, said Sunday that the Capitan folks usually invited him for coffee after a good sermon. He didn't say how often this happened except that Sunday he let his boss, Dr. Buren Stewart, district Superintendent, in the pulpit at Capitan and no coffee offers so now he's wondering????

Article about country editor's experiences sent us by Margaret Fulmer is in this issue -- you'll enjoy reading it we think. The News editor could relate a flock of experiences only with minor differences from this article. Probably the choicest cussing we got came from a female and about advertisement -- "You tall, skinny SOB" was only part of the raking over.

After writing editorials on home-front scene for many years we finally quit -- and came into agreement with dozens of editors we've argued with over 25 years. They said small town editor cannot afford to offend local business people if he wants to stay in business... so we quit because our advertising customers are getting fewer as the town gets smaller.

One thing we haven't given up on is our sense of what is fair and honest -- which causes us about as much trouble as some editorials we've written. No business has to advertise in the News, but to be honest and fair in our business we can not give away for free the same merchandise (publicity in our instance) to one business place that others are paying for. For instance, neither local gas or electric companies have been advertising customers of the News -- which is their business -- but there is no way we can publicize what goes on in or about their business FOR FREE -- that would not be fair to our grocery, lumber, hardware, insurance or other type of advertiser. So Liz is madder than a wet hen at the News -- sorry about that. Things sometimes get worse before they get better.

Flower care discussed at meeting

Capitan Womans Club met Thursday, April 8, with nine members present.

Mrs. Doris Littlefield of Ruidoso Flowers was introduced by Mrs. Wayne Langford.

Mrs. Littlefield gave many suggestions pertaining to the care of flowers, fresh arrangements cut from our gardens, and could be carried over to floral arrangements, that they would stay attractive longer. Also she reminded us we have a flower of the month.

Mrs. Littlefield brought two films; the first showed the planting, caring for, harvesting and shipping process and from the most delicate to the most hardy of flowering plants.

The second film was confined to floral arrangements, and proved instructive.

Mrs. Gerald Dean Jr. president called the meeting to order.

Plans for attending State Convention in Hobbs were discussed.

Mrs. Wayne Langford reported all trees and shrubs set out were lying, and the park will continue to be watered twice each week.

Notes of thanks and appreciation from Mrs. Clem and Mrs. Hunt were read.

Hostess for the evening were Mrs. John Able and Mrs. D. Robertson who served coffee and delicacies from an attractively decorated table.

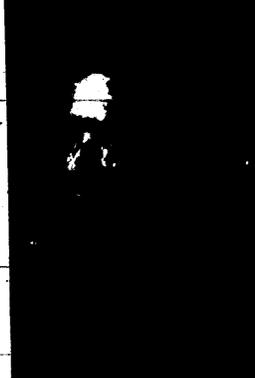

Fiesta dancers to perform at Hondo

The nationally known Hondo Fiesta Dancers will present the 19th Annual Hondo Mexican Fiesta Friday and Saturday, April 30 and May 1 at 8 p.m. in the Hondo gym.

The Fiesta is the annual presentation of the extremely colorful performance of Spanish, Mexican and New Mexican folk dances. Sixty-seven junior and senior high school students in beautiful costumes perform the many graceful and difficult dances.

These nationally famous dancers have traveled and danced at the Festival of Arts in Tucson, Arizona in 1951 and Acapulco in 1965, Disneyland and San Juan Capistrano in 1966, The HemisFair at San Antonio in 1968, Chihuahua City and Los Mochis in 1970 in addition to their extensive travels throughout New Mexico and Texas. The dancers were forced to refuse an invitation to the National Folk Festival in Washington D.C. in 1960 due to the students' school commitment.

Many of the old favorite dances will be danced again by popular request. They include El Jarabe Pateno, El Bolochor, La Varsoviana and La Raspa, El Vals De Los Panos, La Polka, La Paluma, El Novillero, Danza De Los Matlachines, Viva Navarra, Lagarternas, and the always popular El Jarabe Tapatio. Among the new dances that Mrs. Fernin Montes has added to the program will be La Bamba, La Morellana and El Schotis.

Church dedication to be Sept. 5

United Trinity Methodist Church in Carrizozo held its annual conference Sunday afternoon with M. Buren Stewart, superintendent of El Paso District, presiding.

Ballots in the mail referendum on mohair market promotion are now arriving in the County ASC Office, Fred Pfingsten, Chairman of the Lincoln County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee reminded mohair producers today. "Friday, April 30 is the last day for voting. Ballots that are not received in the County ASCS Office by close of business on that date cannot be counted," he said.

Producers eligible to vote in the referendum are all those who have owned Angora goats, 6 months of age or older, for 30 consecutive days during 1970. Votes may be cast by individuals or corporations. Producers who apply jointly for mohair payments are to cast one ballot, which must be signed by all the producers.

The chairman emphasized that the mohair price-support program will not be affected by the referendum. Support payments are made to bring producers' average returns from mohair sales up to 80.2 cents a pound. The promotion program is a separate provision provided for under the National Wool Act of 1954.

The agreement between the Secretary of Agriculture and the Mohair Council of America, Inc., provides for (1) the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Mohair Council to set deduction rates not to exceed 1.5 cents per pound from price-support payments to producers on mohair marketed in 1971, 1972, and 1973; (2) the Council to use the deductions to continue to finance advertising and sales promotion programs to encourage the use of mohair and mohair products. The new agreement would be similar to the one approved by mohair producers in March 1967.

To become effective, the agreement requires approval by two-thirds of the number of growers voting, or by growers producing two-thirds of the total volume of production represented in the referendum.

To coincide with this rate increase the subscription price of the Lincoln County News to subscribers outside Lincoln County will be increased from $6.00 to $7.00 per year. You may renew your subscription now and until May 15 at the old price of $6.00 per year.

SWCD Equipment Leased

Effective in January of this year the Carrizozo Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors leased their equipment to the Central Welding and Supply. The lease was for a three month period on a trial basis and has been renewed recently.

It became apparent some time ago that, due to changing demands and methods of conservation work, the operation needed more management supervision than the District Board of Supervisors were able to furnish. Although the Board had operated at a loss for over two years the need remained for the equipment. A natural solution was presented when Central Welding expanded into complete conservation contracting. The purpose of the equipment has always been to provide a means of doing conservation work in the absence of private contractors. Under the terms of the lease this purpose is being maintained in that conservation work is given preference. The equipment is being operated in much the same way as before. Randall Greer is still operating the equipment and has the backing of the Central Welding personnel.

The District Board of Supervisors still maintain a keen interest in the operation and feel that they will now be able to assist in broader ways. The Board expresses their appreciation for the support of the landowners who have given the equipment operation.

Gran Quivira travel increases 22.5

During the month of March 1,600 persons visited Gran Quivira National Monument, an increase of 300 more visitors than March 1970. This is 720 more persons, year-to-date, than the first three months of 1970. With this beginning increase in visitation, we can expect to reach a record year. Last year totaled an all time high of 27,859.

Gran Quivira National Monument is administered by the National Park Service, an agency of the United States Department of the Interior. The Visitor Center is open 7

Training Session Planned For County Clerks

Secretary of State, Betty Florida, returned today from a Las Cruces planning session on instructing county clerks on recent election law changes and the upcoming special amendment election. The Ten Constitutional Amendments and the local option question on liquor to be included on the November 2 ballot were discussed.

Other subjects considered were new registration affidavits and registration of under twenty-one year old voters. The first of the training sessions for election administrators will take place during the county officials convention in Albuquerque, May 6, 7, and 8. A series of pre-election seminars will be held this summer.

Ruidoso officer charged in death

Ruidoso police officer Victor Brooks, 42, was released on $2,500 bond Saturday after being arraigned before Magistrate Bill Payne in Carrizozo on charge of voluntary man-slaughter in the Friday night shooting death of Paul Edward Green, 22, of Wheaton, Maryland.

Green was arrested Friday by Ruidoso police and charged with lewd co-habitation, Magistrate Austin Pritchett sentenced him to 30 days in jail and fined him $100.

Friday night Green was reported to have asked to use phone, and ran out of the building. After yelling for Green to stop, Officer Brooks fired two shots. Green died of gunshot wound in back of the head.

MY HOUSE OF OLD THINGS — By Jackie Silvers

Jackie's House going to be busy place

Last week was a very delightful week with quite a few visitors some from far away places like Merritt, Florida, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, El Paso and Andrews, Texas. Others from Deming, Carlsbad, Alamogordo, Albuquerque and T or C, New Mexico. Our very own neighboring towns of Alto, Corona, Capitan and Tularosa.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ray of Tularosa paid us a visit on Monday. Orba is Postmaster at Tularosa and she and Walter had attended the State Postmasters Convention in T or C, New Mexico. They were accompanied by Orba's brother L.O. Norman and his wife May of Seminole, Oklahoma. It is always a great pleasure to see Orba, Walter and members of their family.

James E. McKibben of Corona brought three lonely Kansas ladies to see us. They were Romona and Marie Adams of Dodge City and Mrs. Lee Shumate of Minneola. Lee is the former Lee Rodgers who lived at Corona several years ago. It was a real joy to see Lee again after so many years, she was a young girl when I saw her last. The visit with Jim, Lee Romona and Marie was most enjoyable.

Thursday the 22nd, six lovely ladies of Corona came to see us, all of them and their families dear friends these many years. They were Ruby Dairdson, Jo Hiner, Helen Nalda, Lucille Penix, Mrs. R.B. Cole and Susan Huey. These gals had all been out for the day, lurching in Lincoln at the Wortley Hotel, shopping in Carrizozo and a tour thru "My House". We truly enjoyed their visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Montgomery of Ruidoso and Mr. and Mrs. Neal Chapman of Alto were delightful visitors on Sunday. We enjoyed a nice visit with a couple who live at Tijeras, New Mexico and operate "Wrangler's Roost" there. They were looking for an old depot for sale and "scouting" around for "old things".

Max Zamora, Carol Portillo, Raymond Aragon and Liz Ortiz all of Carrizozo came to see us Sunday afternoon. We enjoyed their visit very much. We have watched these kids "grow-up" and it is always nice to see them.

Mr. and Mrs. Mill Jones and little granddaughter Donna Joiner of Capitan were Mr. and Mrs. Bo Warsham and their granddaughter Brenda and Dora Warsham of Pecos, Texas came to see us last Saturday. These are "old time" friends and neighbors and it's a real joy, always, to have them return. Mill and Bessie lived in Ancho some years back and Donna's mother Betty Lou attended her first school in Ancho. Bo and Belle will be remembered as the general owners and operators of the Jicarilla Store a few years ago and none of us can forget, completely, the depression years of the 30's.

Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Harkey of the Harkey Ranch of Ancho are in T or C, New Mexico for an indefinite time. Sparkey is taking the mineral baths, hopeful of lasting benefits for his rheumatic ailments. His stay in the S.P. hospital at Tucson was not as successful as he had hoped. The mineral baths, given time, we believe will be most beneficial. We hope to see Sparkey much improved and very, very soon.

Dear friends, neighbors and those who read the column of "My House of Old Things", I am really very sorry but for a while I shall be too busy and rushed to write for you. I hope all of you, at least some of you, will miss me! May God Bless all of you bountifully is my prayer.

By Fredrika Powell Story given by R.E. Lemon

By 1899 the steel rails of the El Paso Northeastern Railroad had crept north from El Paso up the east side of the valley to Alamogordo, New Mexico. A year later they reached as far as Carrizozo and on to Coalar, a coalmining community just west of what is now the town of Capitan.

By 1901 the rails stretched north to Tucumcari where they met the Rock Island from Chicago and on July 1, 1905 the El Paso Northeastern changed hands and became the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad. Known as the Golden State Route, the passenger trains carried an average of eight coaches, a pullman, a diner. It took only eight hours to steam up the valley, in luxury from El Paso to Carrizozo at the cost of $5.00 -- a decided improvement over the stage and buggy days. Carrizozo grew up with the railroad but at least one ungrateful citizen bit the hand that fed him.

It was along about midnight, sometime late in the year 1910, when the northbound train pulled into Carrizozo. Passengers climbed aboard the coaches and the cars rolled on picking up speed as they left the town behind. Eight miles north, at a siding known as Robsart, the brakes responded to a jerk on the emergency cord. The train slid screeching to a sudden stop and only seconds later the surprised porter on the pullman car found himself at the wrong end of an unfriendly gun.

The gunman moved on down the aisle intruding on the privacy of all twelve passengers who were caught in various states of desarray behind the heavy curtains of the luxury berths. Cash and jewelry fell silently into the greedy palms of the bandit, as one by one the helpless "sleepers" did as they were told -- all but one. This desperate little mother still believed that a spark of compassion could still be lit in the ashes of cold heart. "It's all I have in the world," she cried, "and I have six children." That little spark burst into flame -- "Keep it lady" and the gunman lowered his gun -- "I have a wife and six kids myself."

By then the startled porter had found his feet. He was off the train and sprinting for somewhere -- anywhere -- but bullets tore up the dirt behind his heels and in front of his toes. Completing a circle he jumped back on the train. The bandit jumped off. Of course there was a posse that "hit the trail" by daylight, but they never caught up with that family man.

Control of salt cedar, a major problem on New Mexico waterways will be discussed during a morning field tour and an afternoon program May 6th at Roswell. The public is invited to attend. Other topics to be discussed include the possibility of biotic control of salt cedar; the benefits of salt cedar for wildlife; and salt cedar control program on the Pecos River and the Rio Grande.

The field tour will begin at 9 a.m. from a Bureau of Reclamation shop building about nine miles south of Roswell in the Dexter highway. Results of past control measures will be reviewed, and equipment used for salt cedar control will be operated during the tour. Dr. Gerald W. Thomas, president of NMSU, will deliver the keynote address to open the afternoon program. He will be followed by W. J. (Dub) Waldrip, manager of Chappell-Spade ranches in Texas and New Mexico, who will discuss the effects of salt cedar on ranching operation. *****

Landscape plants need iron to produce a rich green color. Plant leaves deficient in iron are pale green, yellow or white. Severely affected plants fail to grow, flower or fruit and many die from lack of iron. Iron chlorosis can occur in most landscape plants, including roses and lawns. The condition is due to the alkalinity of our soils, which makes iron unavailable to plant roots.

Two principal types of iron-containing materials are iron chelates (organic in nature), and inorganic compounds in soluble form such as ferrous sulfate. Iron chelates are marketed under various trade names. They remain more available to plants when placed in the soil. Some iron chelate formulations can be applied to the foliage, however, these are not as permanent as soil applications. Follow the manufacturer's instructions on amount of iron chelates to use.

Ferrous sulfate can also be applied to the soil or foliage. Circular 421, "Control of Iron Chlorosis" can help you identify and control iron chlorosis around your home. Suggested rates of iron chelates and ferrous sulfate are given for plants, and rates include foliar or soil applications. This circular is available from your county extension office in Carrizozo. *****

Worms can attack pleasure horses, or any horse that is constantly exposed. Prevent parasitism by practicing proper sanitation. Compost manure before spreading, or spread on ungrazed areas. Remove manure frequently from corrals, pasture lots, and stalls. Mow and harrow pastures regularly. Avoid overstocking pastures. Rotate pastures for grazing. Graze young animals separately from older horses. Provide bunks, mangers or racks for feeding hay and grain to avoid contact with manure. Practice a complete horse-parasite control program. How can you tell if your horse is infected? A wormy horse is dull and inactive and has a dry, rough hair coat. The animal becomes anemic, showing bleached mucous membranes, and colic may develop. Once these symptoms appear, your horse will require special care to recover properly. Prevention is a better method and your horse should be treated periodically. The cycle starts when adult female worms in the animals' digestive tract produce great numbers of microscopic eggs which are passed in the manure. Tiny larval worms hatch out, crawl onto pasture plants and are eaten by horses while grazing. The larvae become adults and the cycle repeats itself. Drugs control parasites in horses by removing adult worms from the digestive tract. All horses on the premises should be included in a long-range control program.

What will they try next? Gary Neese of the University of California is conducting a test to determine if the presence of a shunk-like odor around sheep, goats and calves, will protect them from coyotes and wild dogs. Using a pair of squeeze pliers, Neese attaches a capsule containing a substance with the shunk-like smell to an earring worn by the sheep. The aroma is leaked into the atmosphere through vents in the capsule. A capsule remains potent for about six months. The initial cost is 35 cents and capsule refills cost 27 cents.

Neese's report of the experiment did not contain any comments regarding the reaction of the sheep or shearers.

Openhouse in honor of R. T. Freeland

Open house was held by Mrs. Virda Cook of Artesia and Mrs. Minnie James of Capitán at the home of their father, Mr. R. T. Freeland honoring his 99th birthday Saturday, April 24. Robert Travis Freeland was born April 24, 1872. He has two daughters and four sons. Mrs. James lives in her trailer home close to him, works at Ft. Stanton at night and takes care of him daily. Mrs. Cook lives in Artesia. Roy lives in Roswell. He brought Virda last Thursday. Pete lives in Blythe, California. Campbell lives in Bakersfield, California and R. T. Jr. lives in Gallup. Each came home at intervals. The daughters are so loyal.

Mrs. Cook baked birthday cakes for his birthday. She served ice cream and cake to the many friends who called during the day to wish Mr. Freeland a happy birthday on his 99th year. He is very alert, in very good health. He is quiet and peaceful. Happy and loves to have his friends call. He has had a good life and lived it well. A good example to all. He was a successful rancher for many years. Drove his own transportation until two years ago. I wish you many more happy birthdays with good health Mr. Freeland.

Many friends came from Carrizozo as well as Capitán. I will not name them as I may miss some and that would cause someone to feel hurt to be left out. He received many cards and letters.

The Capitán Methodist Church held their fourth quarterly meeting with the District Supt. Buren Stewart and wife last Sunday night.

They had a pot luck farewell dinner honoring Mr. and Mrs. Clay Baxter and three children who will soon be leaving. Clay will leave May 1 and she and the children will go June 1.

Do remember the Fiesta at Hondo starting Friday night April 30 and May 1. PTA serves the best spanish food and it does help the school. What a lovely program. The children truly dance well and beautiful. I hope you go and enjoy it.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins recently attended the Patriotic Concert in Roswell. Mr. Paul W. McNutt was the Baritone Soloist.

They both express the wish that everyone in America could enjoy the talk and songs. It would make them appreciate America.

Miss Jane Cozzens of Alamogordo came home last Friday and enjoyed supper with her parents Mr. and Mrs. S.M. Cozzens and then she went on to spend the week end with her sister Mr. and Mrs. Bob Parsons in Ft. Sumner.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lee Miller of Alamogordo spent last week end here at their home. We are always so very happy to have them.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean last Sunday were their two sons and granddaughter. Mr. Harold Dean and Sally Ann of Bingham and Mr. and Mrs. Doc Dean of Claunch.

Mr. Jess Harris and Mrs. J.C. Harris visited his sisters Miss Lou Harris and Mrs. Maude Kingstons last Tuesday.

Mrs. Ellen Faye Cornelius, Kaye and Beverly made a business trip to Abilene, Texas Sunday and returned Tuesday evening.

I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mitchell of Albuquerque who stopped at Smokey Bear Cafe to have their dinner and were enroute to her sister Mr. and Mrs. John Purcella last Saturday. They had been in Las Cruces, El Paso and Alamogordo. They are moving to Dillon, Colorado on Highway Construction. Clyde has followed that for years. In fact since the 30's. His wife was the former Pearl Pruitt. She goes with him every where now as their two children are grown.

Mr. Robert Runnels and Donna Whitteker were united in marriage April 17, 1971 at the First Methodist in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico.

Rev. Statler officiated. He is formerly of Capitán and will be remembered by many as he had his first church.

David and Terry Barber were the witnesses who stood up with them.

They will make their home at Beaver Head Ranger Station in the Gila Forest. I wish you many very happy years of wedded life together.

Mr. and Mrs. David Barber and Donna left Friday, 16th to spend a weeks vacation with Robert Runnels at Beaver Head. It snowed 10 inches there and they had to stay longer than intended.

Mr. Frank English of Carrizozo moved to his summer home on the Bonita last Friday.

Billy Littlefield, Mike Somerville and Butch Allen spent Tuesday thru Friday fishing near Pine Top, Arizona. Though the fish were not biting to well, they did have all they could eat daily. They had a grand time.

Recently Mrs. Billy Littlefield and their three children went to Las Cruces to visit her parents and they all went fishing in Mexico for a week. They reported a good time.

The Littlefields will move to Roswell first part of May which is not far away. How we will miss them.

They are several young couples who will be moving very soon and it is a great loss to our community. I do hate to lose them. But wish them the best in their new locations.

Mr. and Mrs. David Barber celebrated their 3rd wedding anniversary April 20. Those present who enjoyed dinner with them were her parents Mr. and Mrs. Hob Lucero of Lincoln, Mr. Bert Minter of Capitán and Mrs. Louise Runnels of Bonita and Mrs. John (Sue) Able and two children. I wish you many more very happy anniversaries.

We are having lots of very high winds. And often they are very cold. The White Mts. had more snow on them seen from a distance than the winter. There was more on the west side to be seen from Alamogordo side. Just glisteningly white.

I drove to Truth or Consequences, New Mexico last Tuesday afternoon to meet and visit Ruth and Will Thomas, old friends of mine who arrived there from Junction, Texas to spend one week. Will is not in good health therefore they have not been able for 11 years to visit me. I went to them to spend the night and have several hours of good visit. They took me over T or C to view the city and what a town. It had not been there since 1925 so you can vision my surprise.

Many beautiful homes and trailer homes. Roses, petunias and other flowers in full bloom. The Locust trees were so fragrant and lovely to see. It was very warm. Tuesday was windy but Wednesday was warm and quiet when I left at 8 a.m. on was just terrific and wonderful to travel. I enjoyed every moment.

I had a terrific visit and do not intend to let another 11 years pass without seeing them. They left Tuesday, April 27 for their home in Austin, Colorado. They formerly lived at Corona.

We are pleased to report that a former native of Lincoln, Eligo C. Griego, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eligo T. He has decided to reside here with his family, which consists of his wife Pauline, son Figgy and two daughters, Delores and Carolyn.

He attended the Lincoln County Schools and later joined the U.S. Army and was in the Korean Conflict. On his return he was employed at the W.S.M.R. in Las Cruces, as a driving instructor.

He will be managing the Texaco Service on highway 70 across from the Ruidoso Downs race track. He is well acquainted with with the oil business, having had experience and will be able to give good service to his customers.

He worked at W.S.M.R. for 14 years as a drivers instructor and an Optical Electronic Technician.

He attended the Civil Service Board of Examiners Training School, at the Federal Center in Denver and the Red Stone Arsenal Electronic Training School at W.S.M.R.

After this time he transferred to the Naval Air Station at Point Mugu, California, where he was employed as an Air Control Tower Technician.

He and his family are enjoying being back in Lincoln County and hopes that people will stop

Bert Shrecengost was one of a group of area Boy Scouts who had a big day in Roswell last Saturday.

Mrs. Julia Henn who has been visiting her son Walter and his wife Nora, will be leaving for California on Wednesday. Walter will take her to El Paso to board a plane. She is a very charming little lady and we enjoyed having her visit in Lincoln.

We welcome our newest resident Mr. Al Locke, who came from Texas. He purchased the Lloyd Hulbert home and is now living here. He and his wife were planning to come here to live when they bought the place about two years ago, but she lost her life in a car accident. A son and his family live in Albuquerque.

On Easter Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. (Barney) Aldez had a big dinner at their home. They entertained Mr. and Mrs. Pat G. Aldez, Marc and Patrice of San Angelo, Texas, who visited for a few days. Also Mr. and Mrs. Joe Aldez and son Isabel Aldez. It was such a happy occasion for all who were there. Mr. and Mrs. Aldez enjoyed having them with them so much and also enjoyed the wonderful food they brought for the dinner.

Mr. Hilario Maes of Alamogordo, who has been quite ill is gradually improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cumpsten made a trip to visit their son and his wife and children at Loveland, Colorado and attended the wedding of one of their granddaughters.

Hopefully she will be stopping in Lincoln for visits.

News from the County Agent

Lincoln County cattlegrowers recommended that all cattle coming into New Mexico be tested for Brucellosis and that cattle going through sales rings be tested unless they are from a Brucellosis free area.

Lee Garner, New Mexico Livestock Sanitary Board, explained the proposed Brucellosis testing program. The Brucellosis test using the tail bleeding method would be done on the breeding cattle as they come to the sales ring. It would be done at no cost to the owner, but must be requested by the owner. This test would not delay the cattle being sold but would require extra help at the sales ring.

The grower would benefit in that the tested cattle usually bring a better price. Also, if he tests 10% of his breeding cattle each year, he will not need to test any more cattle at the ranch. If an area has these tests done it can be used to get the area declared Brucellosis free
if no infection is found. Dr. Pyles, Animal Health Division said that
New Mexico cannot ship to a Brucellosis free state without testing. This includes all the states west of us. Also many other states such as Oklahoma and Kansas are requiring a test unless it is from a Brucellosis free area.

In 1955 testing started in New Mexico and it was declared a Brucellosis modified free state in 1958. We have remained this way until now. Other states are vigorously trying to eradicate Brucellosis and are setting up more stringent requirements on incoming cattle. Arizona and Oklahoma are requiring blood testing on all cattle going through sales rings unless they are from a Brucellosis free area.

A Country Editor

The rewards have not been financial. Despite Letcher County's poverty and precipitous population loss -- like many other remote areas of the land, this county has lost about 25 percent of its people in each of the last two decades -- Mr. Gish has quadrupled the 62-year-old paper's weekly circulation to 4,300 in 1957. But he nets only $7,000 to $8,000 a year.

Still, although that income may not seem like much at first, it is not too bad by the standards of many rural weeklies (not counting the proliferating and hugely profitable suburban shopping guides) and, given The Mountain Eagle's aggressive politics, it might even be considered extraordinary.

Survival, most country editors readily admit, depends to a great extent on not offending anyone, and Mr. Gish, in his iconoclastic way, sooner or later offends almost everyone. In this conservative coal mining county, he has taken strong stands against the environmental incursions of strip mining and of the exploration for gas and oil, and he has also criticized the electric power industry, organized medicine and powerful antipoverty officials and local school and governmental leaders.

He maintains that this has cost him heavily over the years in retributive advertising. "Since we started in on the strip mines in 1958," Mr. Gish recalled the other day, "we haven't had a single ad from one of our automobile dealers here in town. In 1963, when we said we thought a solution to the problems here might be a publicly owned electric power system, using our coal locally to generate jobs and income here, we lost for a time the Kentucky power company ads. And they ran sometimes four, five or six pages of ads in our opposition for a couple of years."

In 1964, he said the school board resolved to place all its legal advertising in a smaller opposition weekly after the Mountain Eagle criticized the school superintendent. Mr. Gish ran a frontpage editorial accusing the board of stifling a free press and appealing for new subscriptions to stave off the financial impact. "We got 700 new readers in a few weeks and the board changed its mind," he said.

And a year ago, Mr. Gish said, the Letcher County Federal Court, the county governing body, some of whose members share in coal mining interest, was ready to deny The Mountain Eagle thousands of dollars a year in county legal notices because, unknown to Mr. Gish, a law had been passed in 1968 requiring papers carrying such items to be published within the state.

"We moved kind of fast on that one," said Mr. Gish, whose printing was being done nearby in Virginia. "We placed our printing contract in Manchester and then in Prestonsburg, inside the state. There was probably a good, winnable lawsuit there, but we couldn't afford it."

All of which, according to certain skeptics in this gritty, closed-in valley town of 1,137 people, is either exaggerated or natural enough under the circumstances.

Herbert Hoover Dawahare, co-publisher of a competing weekly, The Community Press, and the owner of furniture and department stores here, said that Mr. Gish had indeed alienated some people by his strong politics, especially in the mining industry. "But I'll tell you," he said, "that's not the reason that Tom Gish doesn't get my ads -- and I do put some in there, even if I have to carry them over myself. It's that he don't come around selling and soliciting business."

Mr. Dawahare went on: "His attitude is terrible. If you did want to buy something from him, why he'd make you so damn mad you wouldn't want it anyway. Now, Tom Gish is a brilliant man, you understand? But sometimes the smartest man in the world can be wrong, you know that? A brilliant man is not going to work in a coalmine and earn a living because it's too hard work. But take an ordinary man, he'll do it. And the ordinary people of this country are what make it great."

GIVEN JOURNALISM REWARD

To show that they do not think of Mr. Gish as ordinary, the faculty of the University of Kentucky Department of Journalism, where both Mr. Gish and his wife, Pat, were students in the late 'forties, gave them an award and a silver bowl April for outstanding work on local journalism.

At the award presentation, Harry M. Caudill, a Whitesburg lawyer who is a nationally known conservation leader and the author of the angry, anti-strip mining book, "Night Comes to the Cumberlands," praised the Gishes for having "fought a long and very courageous battle for an important part of the country, at great financial loss and frequently at the cost of loneliness and ostracism by the community."

While the politics of The Mountain Eagle are never in doubt, the paper doesn't "scream" about everything. Like country weeklies everywhere, it is full of gossip, get-well messages, reports of sons and daughters home for a visit, and homespun philosophy about the weather, agriculture and life's other absolutes.

Mr. Gish pays his country correspondents 15 cents an inch for lengthy pieces like a recent one from Ice, Kentucky, by Mrs. Siller Brown, which was headed: "Mrs. Brown Says It's Time Now to Put a Pig in the Pen for Next Fall."

Some of it is priceless stuff," Mr. Gish said.

Mr. Gish, who was a reporter and bureau manager for United Press International at Frankfurt, Kentucky, for 10 years before coming to Whitesburg, pays no one, including himself a salary. The paper's net is his income. "Which is why I have a job," Mrs. Gish broke in with a smile. She and all five Gish children help out at the paper whenever they can, but her regular job is as the $12,000-a-year director of the Eastern Kentucky Housing Development Corporation, a Federally financed home rehabilitation program among the Appalachian poor.

For a one-man enterprise, The Mountain Eagle has fielded an unusual group of alumni. Young men and women -- itinerant former VISTA volunteers and other Appalachian, anti-poverty workers -- have been welcomed over the years by Mr. Gish and have been put to work on his newspaper. Several of them have stayed for months or years at a stretch, donating their labor.

Mr. Gish is reticent about some of the youths who have learned the trade from him here, feeling that the community might not understand. But he will give a hint.

The Mountain Eagle is printed "offset," using press plates prepared photographically from pasted-up columns, with a "ragged-right" margin.

"If a lot of the 'underground' papers look like The Mountain Eagle typographically," Mr. Gish said with a smile, "it may be one of our great, unknown contributions to a free press."

Cloudcroft Springfest this weekend

Almost 300 men from the German-Air Defense School at Ft. Bliss will come to Cloudcroft for a week end Springfest April 30 - May 2.

Jerry Baker of the Department of Development's Economic Development Division said the West German Ambassador has been invited to attend the festival by Governor Bruce King.

Cloudcroft's Springfest ("Fruehlingfest" in German) is based on ancient Germanic celebrations and is the forerunner of a regional "Cowboy Oktoberfest" to be held in south-central New Mexico this fall.

"Both celebrations will combine Southwestern traditions and heritage with the Teutonic festivals," Baker said.

Baker, assigned to the south-central area by the DOD, has been working with Cloudcroft on planning the Springfest and with area communities on the "Cowboy Oktoberfest." Both celebrations are being held for the first time this year.

Layne Preslar, president of the Cloudcroft Chamber of Commerce, said the German airmen will travel to Cloudcroft Friday (April 30) and return to Ft. Bliss Sunday evening.

"Springfestivities" will start Friday night with a Western dance," Preslar said. "Saturday afternoon we'll have trail rides and German band and choral concert, and Saturday night we'll dance the polka.

Preslar said the community was "a little worried for awhile" that dry weather and the closing of Lincoln National Forest would put limits on what could be done during the Springfest.

"The trail rides are still on the agenda," Preslar said. "Fortunately, we got quite a bit of snow, and the Forest Service rescinded the closing order April 19. The forest is open to activity again."

A "Fueschoppen," a traditional Sunday morning celebration, will follow a pancake breakfast, Preslar said. To find out what a "Fueschoppen" is, he added, people will have to join in the Springfest.

"It's looking pretty big," Preslar said. "We expect to have a lot of people here. Both the Springfest and the 'Cowboy Oktoberfest' should prove to be pretty exciting."

The Oktoberfest, scheduled for Oct. 1-17, is a regional event being planned by Alamogordo, Carrizozo, Cloudcroft, Ruidoso, Tularosa and the Mescalero Apache Tribe with an assist from the DOD.

Preslar urged the public to join in the Springfest "in the interest of international relations and general relaxation."

Representative David Salman, D-Union-Mora-Harding, leveled straight talk after his election as chairman of the Legislative School Study Committee.

Salman, who is also House majority leader, said: "We should tell the legislature what is wrong with education. We should point out what is good in education."

"We should get away from this trichotomy of a State Board of Education, the legislature and the Public School Finance Department," Salman said the LSSC should not try to develop a curriculum or a school money distribution formula.

He said: "We know the money situation is not good. It's going to get worse. Can we continue to exist with eighty-nine school districts?" Rep. Salman said the LSSC "may get into some very controversial areas." He hit the practice of shaping a new school finance formula at every legislative session as "a waste of time."

Rep. Salman said: "How can you have goals when you have 89 systems with 89 sets of goals? He said some schools offer 140 courses and others list 34. He said there are 89 different salary schedules. "We're flying off in 89 different directions," he said. "And you can't tell me the needs of a child in Mora are that different from a child in Albuquerque."

LSSC members will submit ideas for committee projects before May 15. The LSSC will meet with the influential Legislative Finance Committee June 18. Sen. C.B. Trujillo, D-Taos, is LFC vice chairman. Sen. I.M. (Ike) Smalley, D-Luna-Hidalgo-Sierra, is on the LFC.

Legislative Council members include Sen. R.C. (Ike) Morgan, D-Curry-Roosevelt, the chairman; Sen. Tibbo Chavez, D-Belen; and Sen. Aubrey Dunn, D-Lincoln-Otero. Dunn is new on the council. Morgan and Chavez are returnees.

Legislators on a new Environmental Problems Study Committee include Reps. Fred Luna, D-Los Lunas, and Alfonso Vigil, D-Ranchos de Taos, and Sen. Harry McDams, D-Hobbs.

Sen. Dunn was named to the Educational Commission of the Lewis Cox and Harold Hensley will be paid $30 an hour and expenses. Currently pending before the FPC are two cases -- a Permian Basin case affecting Southeastern New Mexico and an Aztec Oil Co. case applying to Northwestern New Mexico. The state hopes the FPC will extend the Aztec Oil Co. case to an area rate proceeding for all of Northwestern New Mexico.

The 1971 Legislature appropriated $50,000 to finance New Mexico's legal fight in the rate cases. Rep. George Blocker, D-Jal., supported the bill authorizing the appropriation.

The State Court of Appeals ruled the Fort Sumner Board of Education had authority to release a tenured teacher. The decision overturned a State Board of Education ruling. The state board had reversed the Fort Sumner board in the case of Mrs. Eileen Parsons.

The case involves a decision to reduce English and social studies offerings and reassignment of teachers.

Gov. Bruce King met in Santa Fe early this week with farm and ranch industry representatives on effects and solutions to drought conditions in New Mexico. Six agriculture and livestock organizations were invited to send officials to the session.

A goal of the meeting was shaping of joint federal-state action necessary for relief from effects of drought.

Belarmino Giron of Santa Fe, a state service veteran, became new secretary of the State Hospitals-Institutions Department. Giron visited five of the eight DHI units. Included were Los Lunas Hospital and Training School and Fort Stanton Hospital. Giron replaced Dr. Miron-Neal who resigned.

Dr. I.D. Johnson of Clovis is on the new State Economic Development Board set to meet May 12 in Albuquerque. Gov. King is chairman of the 9-member board.

A $226,205 federal grant went to the Eight Northern Pueblos Community Action Agency for vocational training, economic development, housing services and a neighborhood service center. Toas Pueblo is in the group.

CHEMICAL WEED CONTROL

BOOKLET PUBLISHED

Latest chemical weed control recommendations are available in a new publication of New Mexico State University's Agricultural Experiment Station. The publication lists chemicals recommended for different crops, tells when to apply the chemicals, gives remarks on waiting periods necessary before grazing livestock on treated fields, waiting periods before harvest, the methods to use in applying the chemicals. Chemical control of weeds in field crops, lawns, ponds, pastures and orchards are explained.

The authors -- Extension Agronomist Gordon Hoff and Powell Anderson and Walter Gould of NMSU's agronomy department -- stress a successful weed control program must be planned and conscientiously followed.

Weeds have individual characteristics and growth habits which must be considered when attempting to control them. First know your weed problem and then select the most appropriate method for its control that will fit your situation and will be most beneficial and economical under your conditions.

To use chemicals effectively for the control of weeds, it is necessary to know something about them. Like the weeds they control, chemicals have their individual characteristics and a knowledge of these characteristics enables one to use them to the best advantage.
