

School bond vote at Capitan

Voters in Capitan Municipal School District No. 28 will vote May 11, 1971 on question of issuing $200,000 in bonds for construction of a new multi-purpose building to meet State Department of Education standards, as recommended in recent evaluation.

The voting will take place in the Village Hall from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

The multi-purpose building will include a gymnasium to provide equal opportunity for all students in grades one through twelve to participate in the physical education program, extra class activities and recreation. The present gym and auditorium will continue to be used to enable the school to offer two physical education classes at one time.

The cafeteria part of the new construction will replace the old barracks building now in use. Supt. Ira Caster of Capitan said that if educational needs of our school children are to be fulfilled, the passage of this bond issue is needed. Supt. Caster has the full backing of the school board in this project. Any person 21 years or over with one year residence in state, 90 days in the county and 30 days in the school district, now residing with the school district and a registered voter -- may vote in this election.

The anticipated tax effect is an increase of approximately $7.88 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

The planned location for the new building is off to the southwest of the quadrangle of school buildings at Capitan.

Had a real pleasant surprise visitor Sunday, young lady we knew as Peggy Ann Smiley (year younger than our son Tony) now married and living in Farmington, stopped here and after couple of tries found Payton at the office. We used to beat her father regular at throwing quarters at a ledge on his service station property and really didn't pay a whole lot of attention the fact that his wife, Ira, had something in the sack every eleven months. They turned out to be good kids and probably will be taking care of Duane in his old age which could happen any time.

Peggy Ann grew up at Bucklin, Kansas and strange thing about that town is that they have put up with a wild-eyed Democrat-type for mayor ever since we left. Most any normal town would have run him off long ago and there he is proclaiming to the people of Bucklin that they should all quit littering, clean up their yards, alleys, vacant lots, streets and highways and do it right now during merry month of May. Signed by me, Clyde Voshell, mayor of the town.

One other note from Bucklin -- they've done away with baccalaureate.

Billy Stephenson, Wally Ferguson, Paul Payton, Bill Gallacher, Fred Chavez, George Nicholas, Bob Shafer -- If fact all us more cultured types -- enjoyed the recital Sunday afternoon and you would have too if you'd have been there. The youngsters did good, which isn't to say that they didn't get a little scared and maybe miss a few notes, but they were entertaining all the way. John Chavez wants to play organ at his church, maybe he can in three-four more years. Mark Nicholas, Tawn Colwell, Cheryl Johnson, Leanne Straley could be playing in their churches, home, school or wherever right now.

Wanted to give the youngsters the best message we ever got from a piano teacher -- pick out the tough spots, practice them each day plenty, let the rest go until you can play the hard parts.

Carrizozo people were fire watchers Monday. Some south of US 380 west of Carrizozo was visible most of the afternoon, and on into the night. News editor thought this fire probably on the McKinley Ranch, drove that direction and really got fooled, the fire was 30 miles

I'll watch school boys 100% effort all the way

By Bob Schlisinger - Sports Writer, Cleveland Plain Dealer
To explain the main reason why high school basketball is better than either the pro or college variety requires borrowing a term from competitive diving.

That term is degree of difficulty. It means that a competitor receives a higher score for completing a difficult dive, one requiring a couple of nifty flip flops, than for an easy one, like where he just holds his nose and falls into the pool.

A successful basketball player is a seven-footer with his hands directly above the rim has about the same degree of difficulty as sinking a five-foot putt ... into the Grand Canyon.

And the degree of difficulty of an eight-foot jump shot by a 6-6 guard is about the same as kicking an extra point.

The two shots I just mentioned are the basic ones in pro basketball except for the foul shot. And foul shots are something that I've seen paunchy old men, fighting the Battle of the Bulge, at the local YMCA, execute as well as the average pro cager.

Much of the rest of the pro game consists of eight guys watching two guys play one-on-one, a silly situation made possible by the rule prohibiting zone defenses.

This rule allows a coach to send four guys off in one corner some place where four rivals must dutifully follow them. This leaves the team's best shooter (an Oscar Robertson or Jerry West) alone to score against a guy who can't possibly stop him without the help from his teammates, which he ought sensibly to be allowed to have.

The other problem of professional basketball is that the game and season are both too long. Thus, only the final few minutes of any one game are played at top speed.

Major college basketball is a slight improvement, because at least sensible defenses are permitted. But its problem is that it's really pro basketball under the guise of amateurism.

Even were we to concede that college basketball players don't receive under-the-table inducements to sign up with a particular college team (which would be like conceding that no one cheats on his income tax) the players still would be professionals.

The degree of difficulty problem is almost as severe in major college ball as it is in the pros too. One of this season's most successful teams is Jacksonville University.

The reason for this is that Jacksonville went out and hired itself a center and two forwards who average seven feet in height (actually bigger than any starting front line in the NBA). Needless to say, they are remarkable successfully at dropping those five-foot putts into the Grand Canyon.

Motivation is also a question mark. The college player is given a four-year contract upon entrance and unless his coach is particularly unscrupulous it's whether or not he plays well. There's no great reason for him to give 100 per cent each game.

In contrast, the high school player's "contract" can be terminated at any time if he misbehaves or otherwise displays a poor attitude. But this really is almost never necessary. He's there without tangible reward because he wants to be. He usually loves the game and schedule is the shortest. It's possible for a player to go full speed every minute of every game and almost every one of them do.

The high school player also passes more, which gives the game the exciting rhythm it was intended to have. To the pros, passing is something they do with the mashed potatoes at the dinner table.

And most important, 5-6 high school players score from much farther out than their seven foot professional counter-parts.

Their game is equivalent in difficulty to sinking wedge shots and long putts into a standard cup instead of those gimmees into the canyon.

It's an accomplishment for a high school player to score, not an accident when he doesn't. Which is why high school basketball's best.

This quartet of young ladies both sang and played the piano at the recital given by students of Mrs. Jane Shafer. Jane is seated at the piano, the quartet includes Debbie Gallacher, Lois McBride, Lisa Ferguson and Joy Dee Simpson.

Piano and organ students perform for large audience at Shafer recital

Piano and organ students of Mrs. Jane Shafer performing in recital Sunday afternoon at Trinity Methodist did a fine job and were well received by the large audience.

Only one of the programmed pianists could not appear, Carol Sidwell was home sick in bed. The program started with Sandra Carey, Debra Wells and Russell Carey. Then a quartet composed of Joy Dee Simpson, Lisa Ferguson, Lois McBride and Debbie Gallacher sang "One Little Candle", accompanied by Mrs. Shafer.

Five more young pianists performed following the quartet, Melanfe Vega, Kimberly Vallejos, Jeffery Whyman, Maurita Lovelace and Joy Dee Simpson.

The second half of the program was presented by more advanced students. Welda Mc Kinley played two piano numbers and organ, Lois McBride and Lisa Anne Ferguson played their solos on the piano. Leanne Straley and Mark Nicholas played a duet, "Jamaica Farewell", Leanne at the piano, Mark at the organ. Next was Mark Nicholas playing Marie Hymn and Waves and of the Danube on the organ as solos.

Tawn Colwell played Lara's Theme and Gertrudes Dream Waltz on the piano. Cheryl Johnson's solo was Valsette by Grandfield and Leanne Straley played Romance by Sibelius as the last number on the program.

An organ-piano duet by Jane Shafer and Paul Payton concluded the performance. Punch and cookies was served to all of the guests following the recital.

These young people showed some jitters during their first performance but all of them performed well, and Carrizozo should have several fine pianists and organists in years to come.

Gardener's best friend—earthworm

The humble earthworm makes the busy bee look like a loafer.

The remarkable worm works so hard and so well that it could justly claim to be man's best friend.

"No less a scientist than Charles Darwin: "It may be doubted if there are any other animals which have played such an important part in the history of the world as these lowly organized creatures."

As a soil cretor, conditioner, and preserver, the earthworm has no rivals, the National Geographic Society says.

EATS WEIGHT DAILY

Tirelessly boring through the ground, an earthworm eats its weight in organic matter and mineral soil every 24 hours. It takes in leaves, grass, stems, dead insects and animals, larvae, and the like along with subsoil.

All of this material passes through the worm's formidable digestive system, which includes a muscular gizzard where soil is thoroughly ground. The residue is deposited in the familiar mounds called "castings."

These castings actually are enormously rich topsoil. Compared to the surrounding earth, castings contain five times as much nitrogen, seven times as much phosphorus, eleven times as much potash, and three times as much magnezium -- in a form that plants can readily use.

More than 1,750,000 earthworms may churn through one acre of rich farmland, producing as much as 40 tons of topsoil every year. Their tunnels aid root growth, allow air to penetrate underground, and improve drainage, thus preventing erosion.

Besides farmers and fishermen -- who have found angleworms good bait for centuries -- the earthworm aids archeologists. Their ceaseless activities over the centuries gradually have helped to cover and preserve ancient cities.

A few years ago, worms even pointed the way to a lost city. An archeologist searching for an ancient Roman city outside Vienna saw bits of brightly colored soil among worm castings. Analysis showed the bits to be from Roman frescoes. The site was excavated, and the remains of Roman buildings emerged from a thick layer of humus.

LOTS OF MUSCLE

The common earthworm (Lumbricus terrestris) comes equipped with tiny clusters of bristles on each segment. The bristles serve as hooks as the worm extends and shortens its body and so propels itself.

For its size, an earthworm is amazingly strong. A worm weighing just one-thirtieth of an ounce can move a two-ounce stone -- 60 times its own weight.

Lacking lungs, the earthworm breathes through its skin. It can live for months submerged in water without food, but a heavy rain may force it from its burrow because water filtered through soil contains little oxygen. Then the ground surface may look as if it had been "raining worms."

Curiously, in spite of the earthworm's omnivorous appetite, it does have a sense of taste. In a laboratory, worms will pass up cabbage if celery is offered and reject celery if carrot leaves are available.

Nogal Nuggets

By Sue Stearns

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cox's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Albro from Alamogordo, spent Saturday night with them.

Mrs. Agnus Crouse was in Roswell visiting Saturday.

Mr. Howell Adams, from El Paso, spent a day in Nogal last week. He is remarkable. He is 89 years old and travels all the time. He keeps books on his trips. This was his 186th trip here since 1946. We certainly enjoyed him.

It's so nice to have Leonard and May Sharp back 'home' for the summer. May always has some new 'handicraft' to show everyone. She is such a talented lady.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Miller are putting the finishing touches on their new home up the canyon. It's going to be a lovely place and we all hope to get a grand tour when completed.

Dorothy Guck and Eva Zumwalt from our town, plus some other very talented ladies have really worked to put on the art exhibit in Carrizozo. You'd think we were in a big city having so much artistic talent in this area. If you haven't done so, be sure to stop in the Electric building and see all the beautiful paintings from our local artists. Some are for sale too.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Dillard left Tuesday morning for California where they'll visit their children for an indefinite period of time.

The Hondo Flesta was really enjoyable to see with all the beautiful costumes and lovely girls competing for Queen. I don't see how they remember all those dances -- each one is so long.

It's good to see Dorothy Zumwalt up again and walking to the store for her mail. She was pretty sick for a while, but was determined not to let it get her down.

Capitan junior riding club growing

Twenty three children attended the Capitan New Mexico Jr. Riding Club last Sunday at the Rodeo Grounds. They gave out 126 ribbons. All had a happy time. It is growing of which we are happy to state.

Pearl Soderback is now cooking at the High Country Lodge. Her good food will draw the crowds and I wish her success, and much happiness there. There is such a picturesque setting. That view makes one relax.

Carolyn a junior was installed in the National Honor Society as a member last Friday. She is attending the Ruidoso School since their move to Hollywood.

Mrs. Kingston-Lisa Lou Harris and Mrs. Rench attended the Fiesta at Hondo last Friday night. What beautiful performance those youngsters gave and how we did enjoy it. There was a large crowd. We do hope this continues each year for it is certainly grand and enjoyable. The junior students were called amateurs but they did a grand job with no fault in their steps. Just think how excellent they will be in the years ahead. Everyone in both groups seem to enjoy it.

The Tres Valles Garden Club met at the beautiful home of Myrtis Pflingsten April 26.

There were fourteen members and two guests present. The guest were Mrs. Clara Snow and Mrs. Grady Hale.

After a brief business meeting the Program of Flower Arrangement was put on by Mickey Thomas and Elisa Pacheco. Beautiful flowers from the garden of Luci Yeaman were used.

Refreshments of delicious apple pie and coffee were served by the hostess Myrtis Pflingsten and Lorene Ferguson.

A flower show is planned for June 12 at the Lincoln School House.

Mr. Harry Lloyd broke his hip by a fall several weeks ago and is in the St. Joseph's Hospital in Albuquerque. Be certain to send him cards and words of cheer. I wish you to get well soon Harry.

Mrs. Myrtle Williams and Mrs. Champ Ferguson spent last Friday night with her brother Mr. and Mrs. Brazel Hartley in Las Cruces returning Saturday evening.

It was good to see the men working on the new roof on the Masonic Hall in Carrizozo. It did need it and that is a good building. I am happy for that will help preserve the building and its interior.

Here is the mention of three deaths of former Capitan residents. Mrs. Edna Kuykendall passed away last week and was laid to rest in the Belen Cemetery.

Mr. Tom Currant underwent surgery in the St. Joseph's Hospital in Albuquerque successfully and later died of a heart attack. Laid to rest in the Socorro Cemetery.

Mr. Dick Saint passed away last week and was laid to rest in the Alamogordo cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordie Goins of Roswell visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jess Harris and her brother Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Harris of Ruidoso Downs and her aunts Miss Lou Harris and Mrs. Maude Kingston in Capitan last Sunday. Mrs. Frances Peralta enjoyed a weeks vacation with her son and daughters and their families in Grants last week.

Little Marc Romero enjoyed his fourth birthday Monday 3, 1971. I wish you many more happy birthdays little man.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Ferris of Tularosa checked on the graves in the Capitan cemetery last Sunday and then visited Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins. They mentioned they were adding on to their Tasty Freeze in Tularosa.

Geraldine Randle entered the Ruidoso Hospital last Thursday. I wish you a good recovery.

Mrs. Eugene Parker took their youngest son John to the St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell Monday afternoon and he underwent surgery for hernia Tuesday morning. Get well quick little John.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw made a business trip to Roswell last Saturday.

Mrs. Howard Wright and her daughter Mrs. Terry Strickland and daughter Rhonda Kay enjoyed a trip to Roswell last Saturday.

Remember the election in Capitan for the new Gymnasium and Cafeteria construction. We do need that as progress must go on.

Willie and Lena Padilla and family of Albuquerque spent a week end with his mother Mrs. Lucy Padilla recently.

Dixie Sparks resigned at the Post Office at Ft. Stanton. She left Monday to make her home in Socorro where she will have employment.

Mr. and Mrs. H.G. Gadbury of Roswell spent some time last Monday visiting friends in Capitan. They lived here several years ago in their trailer home. They purchased the Hulbert property near Lincoln. Later they sold that to Mr. and Mrs. Lock.

Three weeks after they bought it, Mrs. Lock was killed in a car accident. Their son would not let Mr. Lock come back until now a year later. Therefore he is there making new improvements and enjoying it so much. I wish you much happiness there.

Mrs. Beatrice Sedillo had all five of her children and their families together for the first time in ten years Easter. Sgt. Marco Sedillo, wife and four children of Ft. Hood. Who had returned in November from three years in Germany. Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Quinones and two children of Albuquerque, Paul and Shirley Sedillo of Santa Barbara, California. Eddie and Mary Ann Sedillo of Carrizozo and Joe and Consuelo of the University of Albuquerque.

Mrs. Annie Colbert accompanied by her sister-in-law Mrs. Gladys Martin and Mrs. Opal Johnson came in from Jumbo, Oklahoma last week and packed Annie's possessions and they returned to Jumbo where Annie will make her home in her own home which had been rented. She will be near her mother in Antlers, 22 miles. Her brother and family there too.

We hate to lose her but it was necessary for her to go. She was still in shock over her husband Sam's death. She expressed her gratitude for everything said and done for her at the time she needed friends. She loves Capitan and hopes to return some time. Mrs. Claudio Montoya returned with their son Jimmie and wife who had visited them one week to their home in Compton, California. They had the news of their son Claudio having a motor cycle accident. It happened Easter Sunday.

THEY'RE STILL AROUND -- The range caterpillar, which denuded acre after acre of New Mexico rangeland last year, will be around again this year. The top photo showing range caterpillar eggs on Snakehook (also known as Broomweed) was taken about one month ago in Lincoln County. The eggs will probably begin hatching the first week in June. The photo, lower left, shows the egg cluster on a plant stem. The caterpillars are hatching, lower right.

Claudio had taken everyone for a ride and was by himself when the brakes locked and threw him off and hit his head. He was hospitalized for a week and is now at home recuperating. His mother spent one week there and then brought her five year old grand daughter Rhonda Kay home with her for a while.

Robert Sherrill and Dan Abercrombie have been selected for Boys State. Janice Silva was chosen for Girls State.

350 Germans at Fruelingfest

CLOUDCRIFT -- Cloudcroft hosted more than 350 Germans, including wives and children, during its Fruelingfest (Spring-fest) this past week end.

The men and their families are based at the German Air Defense School at Ft. Bliss, Texas.

Mrs. Jackie Killian, president of the Cloudcroft Motel-Hotel Association, said the week end "was a beautiful success. It's one of the best things we've had in Cloudcroft in a long time, and I didn't talk to a single guest who didn't say he had a good time."

The association and the Chamber of Commerce co-sponsored the Fruelingfest. The Department of Development assisted with planning and publicity. Originally set up as a fore-runner to the regional "Cowboy Oktoberfest" scheduled for south-central New Mexico this fall, the Springfest may become an annual event itself. Mrs. Killian said, The German airmen will also be invited to the "Oktoberfest."

The West German Ambassador to the United States, Rolf Tauls, was invited by Gov. Bruce King to attend the Fruelingfest but was unable to attend due to prior commitments.

In a letter to the Governor, Ambassador Tauls commended Cloudcroft for its efforts "in establishing and maintaining good relations with German Armed Forces Units stationed in the Southwest."

News from the County Agent

Range caterpillar eggs have been found throughout most of the Lincoln County rangeland that was infested in 1970. The moths (adults) also flew beyond the previously infested areas to deposit their eggs. These new areas will therefore become infested when the eggs hatch this summer. Personnel of the New Mexico Department of Agriculture and the plant Protection Division, USDA, conducted egg surveys during March and April. They were also in Colfax, Union, Harding and Socorro counties. In designating the concentration of egg clusters, the surveyor walked about 50 paces and counted a number of egg clusters. If one or two egg clusters were observed the infestation was considered light; three to eight was moderate; and eight and above, heavy. Most of the egg clusters had from 40 to over 200 individual eggs.

The eggs were abundant (up to five egg-clusters per square yard) in many of the areas where the larvae denuded the rangeland in 1970. If all the eggs hatch in the areas where the eggs are most abundant this year, there will be over 1,000 caterpillars per square yard. Only an occasional egg cluster was noted during the survey in rangeland where grass was treated last summer to control the range caterpillar. In 1970 range caterpillar larvae were observed in Colfax, Union, Harding, Lincoln, Mora and Socorro counties. It is possible that the moths have also deposited their eggs in adjoining counties, such as Chaves.

Start your apple worm control program a week to 10 days after all flower petals have fallen or within 10 days after the first female codling moth is caught in your light trap. Thorough coverage of the entire tree is necessary for efficient control. Distorted twisted leaves with a powdery white growth are sure signs of mildew. Spray early in the season with Karathane to prevent lower production and poor quality fruit.

Back in 1909-11, 34 soil samples were taken in Wisconsin. They were stored continuously in tightly sealed glass jars and presumably were free of insecticide contamination (insecticides just weren't around back when William Howard Taft was president). Recent analysis, however, shows that 32 of the samples contained some apparent insecticide residues. Researchers concluded the residues were apparently the result of natural soil components.

Lice can take a serious toll in cattle herds so, check cattle for lice regularly and apply a recommended treatment. Blood loss caused by sucking lice can pose the most significant losses. Sucking lice are blue-gray and cluster around the jaws, ears, dewlap, tail-head and the belly between the legs. The volume of red blood cells can be reduced to one-fourth the normal volume in infested animals, causing them to become weak, unthrifty, stunted and slow gainers.

The second type of loss results from biting lice irritation. Biting lice are reddish-brown and feed on the skin. Cattle rub against fence posts, hay racks, barn doors and fences in an effort to gain relief. Large areas of skin become bruised and partly denuded of hair. Both kinds of lice reduce a cow's efficiency as a forager and milk producer.

When lice are a problem, all animals must be sprayed. A second spraying should be made in about three weeks or dust bags should be made available to kill any lice that hatch from eggs.

Insecticides which are effective in controlling cattle lice on beef cattle as sprays are: Clovop, Co-Ral, Delnav, Lindane, malathion, methoxychlor, Kortan, Neguvon, Ruelon or toxaphene. Read the label of the insecticide you use and observe the waiting period between last application and slaughter if any of your animals are to be used for meat. Ciodrin three per cent dust or coumaphos one to five per cent dust in dust bags hung around loafing areas, salt licks, and watering areas will keep lice under control after the initial spraying.

For dairy cattle, use a spray of Clovop, Co-Ral, or pyrethrins plus piperonyl butoxide. Do not exceed recommended rate on cows giving milk for human consumption. Repeat applications in two or three weeks. Don't treat calves under three months of age with Clovop or Co-Ral.

Dust bags, self-treaters, with five per cent Co-Ral or three per cent Ciodrin can be used for lice control on dairy cattle. Place dust bags in a place where animals travel regularly.

LIVING PLEASURE GAS

LP Gas Costs to Stay Steady!

When making plans to buy your next home appliance, or heating unit for office, home or any building, it would be well worth your time to consider this opinion: David Freeman, head of the Energy Policy Staff in the White House Office of Science and Technology, believes that rates for electricity will probably increase by about 50 percent in the next five years. (Reported in Newsweek, May 3, 1971). An advertisement in this same magazine states: In cities, suburbs, small towns and rural areas . . . all across the land . . . our nation is in a desperate race against an ever-mounting shortage of electric energy.

The cost of LP Gas Fuel will likely increase in the next five years but we do not expect a shortage or anything more than small normal increases.

 School year about ended -- not a bad time to tally-up, if you parents think your tax money is buying any public speaking ability, or just the simple ability to stand in front of small audience and make one audible statement -- you are surely wrong. Proof was present on two recent occasions that our youngsters can only mumble when they get up to say something to a group -- it was pretty sad, too -- all those pretty and talented gals, that handsome banquet speaker, just mumbling and falling completely at their tasks; that of getting message across to people. Something to think about for next school year.

 Have two Prospect reports on our desk, one company would start with initial 50-man workforce, hope to expand to 300. This needs immediate action.  It's nice to sit back and day-dream about the big business that might come along with a 100 jobs to spark up the home town, give it back the life it had 40 years ago, maybe make it a vital and breathing town. You can read lots these days about what the corporations consider their social responsibility. We may be a bit cynical but we've figured out over a long span that it's the small merchants right here in town who will have to do it. Such as the government, gas or electric companies, telephone, or you name it--will never help much. What is done will have to be done by us business people right here in town--and that isn't very many people, hardly over a dozen.

'Normal lifespan' required by ASC

Conservation and pollution-abatement practices established with cost-sharing approved by the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee must be maintained for their normal lifespan.

When a farmer installs a needed conservation practice, he normally has every intention of realizing its full benefits for a long period. "For the lifespan of the practice" is the term used by ASCS.

"Sometimes it happens that a farmer will make a change in his farm operations that interrupts the lifespan of a practice he installed with cost-sharing," said Fred Pfingsten, Chairman of the Lincoln County ASC Committee. "When a practice is not maintained through its normal lifespan, all or part of the cost-sharing must be refunded by the producer, unless the practice failed due to conditions beyond his control."

Mr. Pfingsten drew attention to the operation of this lifespan provision as it relates to participation in the 1971 set-aside programs for feed grain, wheat, and cotton.

All or part of the cost-sharing must be refunded in instances where a farmer or rancher takes either of the following actions as a result of his participation in the set-aside programs:

1. Breaks out, before the expiration of the lifespan of the practice, vegetative cover established or improved with cost-sharing.

Democratic Governor Bruce King moved to obtain federal aid to ease effects of a prolonged drought in New Mexico. King met with representatives of six organizations in Santa Fe and charted plans. Thirteen of the 32 counties asked to be designated as emergency areas to qualify for federal dollars. State officials said Colfax, Valencia, Hidalgo and Union were among them. A decision was awaited from the Toas County disaster committee.

Gov. King was slated to issue a proclamation pegging drought-affected counties. The State Disaster Board met here to act on required procedures.

Range caterpillar eggs were found in surveys in Colfax, Union, Lincoln, and Harding Counties. Last year range caterpillar larvae were spotted in Colfax, Union, Lincoln, Harding, Mora and Socorro Counties. The caterpillars caused extensive damage in some areas in 1970. Efforts to obtain federal funds to spray insecticides to destroy the caterpillars failed then. Many ranchers funded spraying with their own resources.

An appeal was filed in State Supreme Court in a suit over the 1968 sale of Tome Land and Improvement Co. land in Valencia County to Horizon Land Corp. Claims and counterclaims of dissident Tome Land and Improvement Co. shareholders are involved in the lengthy, complex litigation.

Shareholders opposing the sale to Horizon Land Corp. initiated the Valencia County District court case heard by Judge Edwin L. Swope. Sale of some 47,000 acres for about $4.7 million is at issue.

Sen C.B. Trujillo, D-Taos, scored impressively in the 1971 Legislature. Twenty-three of 33 bills introduced by Sen. Trujillo cleared the legislature and were signed by Gov. King into law. King vetoes no Trujillo bills.

The Senate also adopted a memorial sponsored by Trujillo. Among the 10 Trujillo bills that died were proposals to legalize gambling and to require governor and lieutenant governor candidates to run as teams in party primaries.

Former State Rep. Jack Daniels of Lea County is among a big field of prospects for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination in 1972. A moderate, Daniels says he is considering a race but wants to avoid a party-splitting primary scrap.

Daniels notes U.S. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, 75, Albuquerque Democrat, may decide to seek re-election. Anderson said months ago he will not try for another 6-year term for the $42,500-a-year office he has held since 1949. Daniels ran a creditable race in his first statewide campaign last year in the Democratic governor primary. Jack placed second behind King.

Miss Mettis Jordan of Eunice hit teacher retirement benefit legislation adopted by the legislature this year, effective July 1. Miss Jordan said the benefits increase of 9.4 per cent for teachers retiring July 1 and later is much greater than the cost-of-living hike voted for other retirees.

Kenneth Davis, executive director of the Educational Retirement Association, said the cost-of-living benefit boost for teachers retired before July 1 is about 8.5 per cent under the new law.

Miss Jordan said: "Salaries have risen each year but retirees have received no benefits from these increases and no cost of living increases in spite of the 5 to 6 per cent annual increase in cost of living due to inflation." Until this year the last cost-of-living benefit increase voted to retired teachers occurred in 1967.

Mrs. Louise Coe of Lincoln County, a Democratic state senator in 1925-40, visited the capitol in Santa Fe. Mrs. Coe sold 10,000-acre, famed Coe Ranch in Lincoln County Jan. 1 this year to Robert O. Anderson of Roswell, wealthy businessman and national Republican committeeman for New Mexico.

pollution - abatement practice should check with the County ASC Committee or the executive director of the County ASCS Office, Mr. Pfingsten said.

Cost-sharing practices are being established this year under the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP). In previous years, cost-sharing was through the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP). The lifespan provisions apply to practices established under either program.

Mrs. Coe retained 5 acres on the ranch. She said she will establish homes in Ruidoso and Roswell. Mrs. Coe returned recently from a voyage to Antarctica in the Norwegian icebreaker, Lindblad Explorer, from New Zealand.

The book "Ranch on the Ruidoso," a history of Coe Ranch by her late husband, Wilbur Coe, may be the basis for a movie. Negotiations reportedly are under way between the book publisher and a Hollywood studio.

Edmund Gausson of Fresno, California, a former teacher at Springer, was hired by New Mexico Education Association as its new executive secretary. Gausson succeeds James W. Green who quit last October to accept a job in Austin, Texas, with the National Education Association.

State liquor agency records show Liquor Director Carlos Jaramillo fined Donald E. Smith, doing business as Club 85, Springer, $125 for failure to engage in business. Jaramillo suspended $50 of the $125 for six months pending no further violations.

Sale of a liquor license at San Patricio, Lincoln County, is proposed in an application for ownership transfer filed in the Alcoholic Beverage Control Department here. Ownership would pass from Mrs. Alma M. Gibson, doing business as Roundup Bar and Motel, to H.L. Graham of Roswell. The ABCD said the application was incomplete.

Attorney Gen. David Norvell, Clovis Democrat, supported Gov. King's veto of a legislature-approved bill by State Sen. Odie Echols, D-Clovis, in a formal opinion. Echols' bill created framework for a rapid transit system and assigned administration to the Highway Department. Norvell held the delegation of authority conflicted with constitutional powers of the Corporation Committee.

With King's support a threatened 10 per cent federal funds cut was avoided in the foster grandparent program at Los Lunas Hospital and Training School.

Linotype outstripped by electronics

Washington -- An era ends in February when production of Linotype machines ceases in the United States.

The development of computer-directed photographic and the electronic printing equipment has led to fewer orders for the machine that once revolutionized printing.

Invented by a German immigrant in 1884, the Linotype had almost as great an impact on the printed word as did Gutenberg's movable type nearly 500 years earlier.

Linotype machines helped make mass circulation newspapers possible, the National Geographic Society says. They spurred a dramatic growth of publishing, with an accompanying rise in literacy.

For centuries, the Chinese had used wooden type. In most of the world, however, books were copied individually by scribes until Johann Gutenberg unveiled his metal type in Strasburg in 1440.

Printing spread rapidly, bringing books within reach of many who previously could not afford them. Type was still being set by hand in the 18th century, but hundreds of inventors sought ways of speeding the process.

The Chadwick Typesetter, developed around 1775, mechanically assembled type for printing but it was too awkward.

Possibly the most elaborate typesetting device of all was the Planotype, used in Paris in 1840. It required a crew of seven men.

As one man punched a keyboard to set the type, another spaced out the lines of type and two more operated the apparatus that distributed the type. Two others kept the machine supplied with type, while one man turned a hand crank to keep the contraption running.

At least 125 inventors sought patents for mechanical methods of typesetting in the United States. A contemporary observer reported that "the patent examiners sat for years over the drawings, so that one of them even lost his reason."

Mark Twain lost more than $100,000 backing an unsuccessful effort to design a machine that could set type.

In 1876 Ottmar Mergenthaler, a 22-year-old machinist in Baltimore, was assigned to make an inventor's model of a machine that was supposed to punch type from paper-mache.

It didn't work. But with some financial aid from the would-be inventor, he worked for eight years and found the solution.

Where earlier machines worked with type that already had been cast, Mergenthaler's keyboard lined up a series of type molds that then were pressed against a molten alloy. The metal slug cooled almost instantly and the line of type was deposited on a tray.

Mergenthaler demonstrated his Linotype machine in 1884. Two years later an improved model was installed at the New York Tribune, the first newspaper to be set by Linotype.
