Carrizozo is unanimous No. 1, down Hagerman 20 to 7

Grizzlies headlines are beautiful

Headlines in daily newspapers and weekly newspapers all over the State of New Mexico have been beautiful for weeks, all telling about the undefeated Carrizozo football team, and equally good has been the exposure on television telling about Willie Gallegos being the top scorer in the state and Jim Speight being declared the top defensive back in the state.
You can read all the details, plus see the pick of two to four hundred pictures in the "Champion Edition" next week. This week we just want to put out a personal message about a wonderful squad of boys.
Carrizozo football players had the desire, the drive and the know-how to go all the way through an undefeated season. Clayton Yellowjackets, coached by Pat Aguilar of Carrizozo, had an undefeated season until they met Ruidoso. Carlsbad was going with a 9-0-1 record but they'll have to scrap to remain undefeated, and Carrizozo may well wind up the only undefeated team in the state this year.

Sportswriters and sportscasters in New Mexico awarded the Carrizozo Grizzlies a just honor last week: No. 1 in the final Associated Press Class A prep football poll.
Carrizozo's Mr. Everything, Willie Gallegos, is the top scorer in all classes. Jim Speight received the Associated Press defensive player of the week award for his performance against Reserve October 21.
There are a lot of things that can be said about Zozo defensive squad that would not quit in the championship game, names of 11 or more boys that ought to go down in history of Carrizozo football as the finest in Lincoln County. They stopped Hagerman cold when the goal line was inches away and the Bobcats had four tries at it. We'll try to say those things and name those people next week. A Way West column written for last week, which did not see print because of the two-page spread about the Grizzlies, told of the drive this team made at Colonia Juarez when Zozo really showed its strength of character. At Colonia Juarez the game could have well been a loser. Juarez scored making it look easy with drive plays straight down the field against a team that had made a real long trip, had short sleep and were flat tired. The heart of this team was showing when they took the ball, leading only 12-6, and drove to almost run out the eight or ten minutes on the clock for a win against a powerful, though not too skilled, a team.

The Grizzly defense did it again in the Wool Bowl. The News photographer was working the Hagerman side of the field to get the sun back of the camera and all we could hear was stuff like, "Really hurt 'em, you Bobcats, that big red machine isn't so much, hit them harder" and much more of the same. After the Bobcats failed to cross the Grizzly goal line twice from less than five yards out, and with four attempts each time, the chatter changed its pattern a bit, though the Hagerman boosters never quit. Grizzly boys were showing more than just skill during those two attempts -- they were showing the stuff champions are made of.

We said it to ourself, no Grizzly fan being handy, those Bobcats will never be state champions until the QB learns to call the right plays, the lineman learns to open the holes, and the team can punch over the tough ones against a defense stacked hip-pad deep for a goal line stand.

We make an apology right here to most of the Grizzly linemen for not being able to get more pictures of them in action. There are lots of reasons. First, probably half the plays are on the opposite side of the field. Then there is an official standing right on the line of play so the photographer has to move off to one side. And, likely as not, the play winds up with a jumble of players and no way to photo the guy on the bottom who made the tackle. We've been after shots of good defensive play all year and have not really won. We'll keep trying because those line men are our boys. (The photographer was a center on an undefeated team back in the year one.)

The Roswell Record said, "The Carrizozo Grizzlies maintained their Class A New Mexico State supremacy with a 70-7 victory over Hagerman in Roswell's Wool Bowl Saturday to capture their third straight title." There is a score error there but not too bad, because there have been days when the Grizzlies might have beaten them that bad, and nary a day when the Bobcats could have come out a winner.

Coach Pat Aguilar at Clayton certainly gets a lot of credit for bringing his team out of the football boondocks. Clayton has not had a winning football team

Donda Jo participates in OEA project

Donda Jo May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. May and another home economics student at N.M.S.U., Pat Pennington, are conducting an OEO project recently written up in the school paper. The story as it appeared in the "Roundup" follows;

IN OEO PROJECT GIRLS OVERCOME LANGUAGE BARRIER

by Sandy Graham

What do you do when you walk into a class expecting to teach six women to sew and find they know no English and you know no Spanish?

Such a problem recently confronted NMSU home economics students Donda Jo May and Pat Pennington. As their project in their "special problems" class, the girls agreed to work in conjunction with the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) in teaching a group of women from the economically deprived area around Sunland Park, Texas, to sew. OEO would provide funds; Pennington and May would be the staff.

The six women that Pat and Donda Jo would teach were to have previous sewing experience and receive advanced training from the girls. The six in turn would teach 12 more. It was thought from the nucleus of 18, the women would be able to set up a small clothing factory of their own.

May explained that after the initial problems of organization, the main barrier was one of language. A friend majoring in Spanish helped translate sewing worksheets from English to Spanish, and they learned the Spanish names for basic sewing terms.

"We also developed a sign language with the ladies for classroom work. It caused a lot of laughter and helped ease the stilted atmosphere," added May. The women's immediate goal is to produce 50 children's dresses by December 1. These will be purchased by the El Paso Herald Post's Christmas project for the needy.

May explained, "The overall objective is to teach good sewing procedures and techniques so they (the women) can sew for themselves, and, more important, for community cooperation."

In the three meetings they have had with their pupils, the time was spent buying sewing machines, explaining how to select material, actually buying the fabric and "learning to communicate."

These first classes were held in the Home Management House on campus. Future meetings will possibly be held in the community recreation hall in Anthony, Texas.

The two teachers are very enthused about the progress their pupils are making. They find their enthusiasm is shared by the women: "The ladies are eager to learn," explained May, "and are with us all the way in what we do."

Donda Jo feels that working on this project will be of great help to Pat and her when they begin to teach high school students.

"After so many college classes," she said, "you forget that pupils with less experience will not understand you when you use technical terms and long explanations. It is this way with the ladies. Pat and I find our best teaching method to be demonstrating what needs to be done."

Professor Evelyn Hollen, head of the department of home economics, commented on the project. "Besides giving the girls (Pat and Donda Jo) assurance, we hope that the program will start the women on the way to a self-sustaining existence. A lot of them have been 'cornered' in life, and this will help them find a way to lift themselves up. It could also open opportunities to earn money by giving them experience they could use later in factory work."

Special film at Baptist Church

Lost Generation, the latest release from World Wide Pictures, will be shown on Tuesday, November 23, at the First Baptist Church-Carrizozo corner of 10th St. and 4th Ave.

Filmed in Eastmancolor, Lost Generation utilizes multiple screen images and a probing documentary style to investigate attitudes on dissent, violence, the mood of America, and the answers that can be found by this generation as they face the decisions of life. According to Bill Miller, pastor of the church, the opinions of both young and old, urban and rural, rich and poor, are brought to the screen as the camera focuses on people of various backgrounds throughout the Nation. Location shots were filmed in Alaska, the Southern states, on the farms and in the small towns of mid-America, and in the dying Haight-Ashbury hippie district of San Francisco.

The feature-length film, which includes special appearances by Billy Graham, Art Linkletter, and Jack Webb, was described by one reviewer as a "moving film that calls on us to make a decision about how much we want to get involved in the troubles of our times. It is a relevant story that demands our immediate attention."

Lost Generation will be shown once at 7:30 p.m., with no admission charge. The public is cordially invited.

The Marketing Home Economics Skills class gave a tea to introduce the student teachers, Miss Ila De Smet and Miss Roberta Lucero, to the Carrizozo faculty. Refreshments of punch, coffee, and homemade cookies were prepared and served by class members who also acted as hostesses, served refreshments and did all of the cleaning. The table was decorated in fall colors with welcoming placards for the student teachers. Miss Berneta Hendrix, college supervisor from New Mexico State University, was also present for the tea party.

As a matter of fact, historical records show that most southern New Mexico areas now infested with mesquite and other shrubs were originally good grasslands. When mesquite invaded the areas, grass was depleted because of competition for moisture, periodic droughts, and the effects of selective grazing by rodents, livestock and wildlife.

Without the protective grass cover, the sandy soils are picked up by the wind, forming sand dunes around mesquite brush, says Gould. As the dunes grow, wind velocity and erosion become more severe because of the channeling effect created.

Recent research by Gould shows that when mesquite is killed with foliar herbicide sprays 2, 4, 5-T, forbs and grasses will increase naturally on and between the dunes. Plant debris remaining after the forbs mature and die is sufficient to protect the soil from blowing, says Gould.

Baptists Church to be hosts

The First Baptist Church was host to approximately sixty people for the Mountain Valley Baptist-Associational Stewardship Conference Monday evening. A ham dinner was prepared and served by the ladies of the church prior to the meeting where the speakers were Jeff Rytherford of Albuquerque and Leon Bruce, pastor of First Baptist Church, Ruidoso. The theme of the meeting was "Missions waits on stewardship."

Special music for the occasion was presented by the choir of the Carrizozo Baptist Church under the able direction of Mrs. Helen Lock.

DUST CONTROL — These adjacent test plots in southern New Mexico show results of mesquite brush control in keeping down dust. The top photo shows how wind piles larger particles of sand around mesquite, while smaller dust particles have been whipped into the air. Mesquite in the lower photo has been killed with 2,4,5-T, allowing forbs and grasses to increase naturally. Plant debris remaining after the forbs mature and die prevents wind erosion. Walter L. Gould, New Mexico State University agronomist who conducted the tests, is at lower right.

Las Cruces — The amount of dust in New Mexico's late winter and spring wind storms can be dramatically reduced by controlling mesquite brush, according to an Agricultural Experiment Station researcher at New Mexico State University.

Walter L. Gould of the NMSU Agronomy Department says a large portion of dust in the state's moderate to severe wind storms comes from sand dune areas infested with mesquite. Much of the dust, and the misery associated with it, can be prevented, he says.

National Clean Air Week (Oct. 24-30) is a good time to point this out, Gould adds.

The dust comes from barren areas between the dunes, Gould explains. The larger particles of sand from the barren areas collect around the mesquite, while the smaller particles are whipped into the air by the wind.

Gould says killing mesquite and replacing it with annual and perennial forbs and grasses will

Program provides good information

The beef cattle feedlot and carcass evaluation program will give the producer information on his own cattle and is not a contest to see who can get the best gain. Only the average of the test groups will be available to everyone. Bill Myers and Wallace Cox, New Mexico State University, explained the test program to a group of interested cattle growers last week.

It is designed to give the owner information on his cattle and how they perform. They will be fed at the Chaves County Cattle Corporation feedlot south of Roswell.

Check your tomatoes, chile and other vegetable crops for root knot nematodes. Root knot nematode presence is recognized by galls and knots on plant roots. These plants do not produce a good crop. Although it is too late to prevent damage to this year's crop, you can treat the soil this fall after harvest with a chemical to prevent damage to the crop next year. You can also treat next spring before planting.

The most widely used chemical for nematode control contains dibromochloropropane (DBCP). It can be purchased at nurseries and farm supply stores. Trade names containing DBCP include Nemagon and Fumazone. No special equipment is necessary for treating home gardens. Liquid materials can be applied with a quart fruit jar with a ten-penny nail hole punched on each side of the lid-one to pour from and the other to let air into the jar so the liquid will pour evenly. This jar can be used to pour the proper amount of fumigant diluted with water, kerosene, or fuel oil into each 100 feet of open furrow at least six inches deep.

Granular DBCP can be sprinkled by hand—using rubber gloves—into the open furrow. In either case, cover the treated furrow immediately to prevent chemical vapors from escaping into the air. Row treatment is made by placing the fumigant in a six-inch-deep furrow directly under seed rows or transplant rows.

Broadcast treatment can be made by opening a six-inch-deep furrow using a hoe, spade, or other implement. Furrows should be no more than twelve inches apart from center to center. A broadcast treatment is much more effective than row treatment; however, more fumigant and expense is involved. No matter which method is used, seal the fumigant into a soil by dragging a weighted board over the area immediately after treatment, then sprinkle lightly with water.

Thoroughly clean your sprayer this fall and store it out of the weather over winter. Proper care and storage minimizes repair costs and makes it much easier to prepare for spraying next spring. In addition, your sprayer will remain functional when you need it most. Wear rubber gloves and boots when cleaning and flushing sprayers. Do not allow water used for cleaning or flushing to puddle or flow into streams, ponds, or ditches. Your sprayer will remain in good condition if you observe these suggestions from the county agent:

Thoroughly drain all spray materials from tank, pump, boom and flush out any accumulations of chemicals or other foreign materials. Fill the tank with clean water, run the pump and flush through the boom. Refill the tank with clean water and add one ounce per gallon of household ammonia. Run the pump to agitate and flush the solution through the boom. This should wash most commonly used chemicals out of the equipment. Rinse several times with clean water after draining the cleaning solution. Remove the nozzles and screens from the boom, and disassemble and clean them. Store them dry or immersed in a jar of light oil. Thoroughly drain the spray pump and coat the inside with soluble oil. This will prevent the pump from sticking during storage. Rinse and coat the interior of rust-susceptible tanks with soluble oil.

Drain the boom to prevent freezing, and support it to avoid its being damaged by other machinery. Remove and clean all hoses. Then, roll them up, avoiding sharp kinks, and store in a dry place for the winter.

Community development was discussed at the Extension Conference at New Mexico State University last week.

Community development has been done for many years by County Agents, but not always as Community Development. Another look will be made at areas and a more complete survey will be made to pin-point the needs of an area.

If the most good is to be obtained all the groups working in the field must work together and recognize the efforts of all concerned.

R-R-D
Agriculture has been managing the environment for many, many years. Dr. Gerald W. Thomas, president of New Mexico State University, told 150 extension specialists and county agents at the opening session of their annual Extension Conference at NMSU Wednesday. So today's environmental thrust is nothing new for agriculture, NMSU prexy added. Management of the environment and not protection per se is the key to ecological problems. Agriculture has not been given proper credit for its concern with the environment, he stressed.

R-R-D
Before hunting this fall, review safety rules and help prevent accidents. Hunting is one of the safest sports when the large number of hunters is compared with the small number of accidents. But even one accident is a tragedy for some family.

R-R-D
If taking youngsters to the field for the first time, impress on them that accidents are caused by careless shooters. Practice safe gun handling at all times and encourage young hunting friends to do the same. Treat every gun as if it were loaded. Never point a gun at anything you don't expect to shoot. Any be sure of your target before pulling the trigger.

Be sure the barrel and actions are clean and clear of obstructions. Keep the chamber and magazine open at all times when the gun is not in use. And never store or leave a loaded gun unattended.

Carry the gun so you can control the direction of the muzzle—even though you stumble. And unload your gun before climbing fences or jumping ditches. Don't drink alcoholic liquids before or during hunting or shooting.

Practice safe gun handling rules until they become second nature.

By remembering to treat every gun with respect and pointing only at things you want to shoot, you won't have to say "I didn't know the gun was loaded."

Clover mites which may appear by the thousands as tiny red dots on walls of homes are not dangerous, but annoy. They neither eat anything commonly found in the house nor bite humans and animals. These tiny pests, some fiftieth-of-an-inch long, usually stay outside the house—lush green lawns are among their favorite feeding places. But lawns that come right up to the wall of a house give them a natural pathway indoors. On cool nights, they swarm in through the smallest openings seeking warmth.

Clover mites have increased in numbers in recent years, probably because of improved lawns throughout the country, giving the mites more and better food, the mites now have become a year around household problem where they once appeared in homes only in spring.

Use a vacuum cleaner or pyrethrin aerosol spray to get rid of these pests indoors.

Capitan has organized a 4-H Club. They held their general meeting Saturday, November 13, at 1:30 p.m. at the Fire Hall.

Twenty-two young persons attended. They elected their officers. The next meeting will be held the second Saturday in December.

At this time Monday November 15 it is raining and has been for an hour. We cannot see the mountains in any direction. It has been warm for three nights and days though there was chill enough in the atmosphere for one to wear a wrap. The tree leaves are gone. It is barren as the cold demands. It is time as the time is marching on.

I wish all of you every where a happy and most grateful Thanksgiving ever. Count your many blessings for we do have so very many.

Mrs. Nellie McGrath passed away last Saturday night November 13, at the Osteopathic Hospital in Roswell. Funeral Services were held Tuesday November 16 at the Church of Christ in Capitan. She is being laid to rest in Indiana-her home state.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean are spending several days with their son Mr. Harold Dean and Sally Ann at Bingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dean, Sr., Janie and Joe Paul spent the weekend in Lovington.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGarry went to Carlsbad last Saturday and attended the wedding of a friend returning Sunday.

Mr. Dan Storm of Hondo Valley was injured Monday November 8, on the highway project in that Valley. We have had reports that he is doing O.K. I wish you a good recovery.

Mr. James Bailey entered the Osteopathic Hospital in Roswell Monday November 8. I wish you a good recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Goodrich spent a few days in Albuquerque last week and their three children stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGarry.

Mrs. Rench and Mrs. Maude Kingston made a business trip to Carrizozo last Wednesday.

We do have reports that Mr. and Mrs. Bert Chaney and their families are doing nicely. I wish them continued progress in their struggle for their health.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Hall accompanied by Mrs. Ellen Faye Cornelious and Beverly spent the weekend in Abilene, Texas visiting Buddy Hall at ACC and Miss Kaye Cornelious at Hardin Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wright and Jimmie made a business trip to Roswell last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGarry went to Carlsbad last Saturday and attended the wedding of a friend returning Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harris of Hollywood visited his aunts Miss Lou Harris and Mrs. Maude Kingston for a few hours last Sunday night.

I wish Mrs. Lee Anderson many more Happy Birthdays. Her day was November 10, 1971. She is enjoying her home and getting around slowly but nicely.

NOGAL NUGGET

- By Sue Stearns

Dave Alexander's brother, Luther Alexander and wife Christina were visiting Dave in Nogal this past week.

Mr. Howell Adams of El Paso, Texas is visiting in the home of Pearl Stearns. Mrs. Stearns and Robert Poage made a trip to San Angelo last week to get him, and bring him here.

It seemed as if most of Carrizozo turned out for the Saturday. There was a big crowd and it was an exciting two hours of entertainment. Congratulations to the Coach and Team!

Mrs. Bunny Richardson is home after spending a month back east visiting relatives. She had a wonderful visit but is glad to be home.

Johnson and Margaret Stearns, Mae Shafer, and Judy and Charlie Glover spent Sunday afternoon in Nogal visiting Stearns.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cox returned home Monday evening from Williams, Arizona where they had been visiting Sam's son, Dick and his wife, Donna. They said the snow followed them home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kennedy and children of Las Cruces visited Mrs. Kennedy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mert Zumwalt, this past week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Guck and Mrs. Ted Zumwalt were in Roswell Monday on business.

Speed Change At Glencoe

Joseph W. Nail, project supervisor for the new road construction in the Glencoe area advises that the legal speed limit has been changed from 55 mph to 40 mph through the entire six miles of construction. State Police will be enforcing this speed limit until this construction is completed.

Spaghetti dinner for 4-H Mavricks

The Corona Mavricks 4-H Club held a regular meeting October 20, 1971, at the Corona Gym. Mrs. Carnell and Mrs. Alford fixed a spaghetti dinner for all the members. There was a recreation period afterward which Tawyna and Joan Alford and Janet Davidson lead. The members were taught several string tricks. Allen Sultemeier called the meeting to order. The officers for 1972 were elected. President-Amy Foster, vice-president-Joan Alford, secretary-Mel Gnatkowski, treasurer-Brett Carnell, reporter-Janet Davidson, song leader-Phoebe Foster, recreation leader-Tawyna Alford.

The members then discussed a Halloween party. A committee was chosen to make the plans and arrangements these were: Janet Foster, Tawyna and Joan Alford, Allen Sultemeier, and Janet Davidson.

Joan Alford, asked if the club would like to have dinner with the Corona Jewels 4-H Club and take out Food Fun, Out door Food and other projects by fixing the meals.

Cecilia Pacheco elected president

The Hondo Valley 4-H Club held election for their November meeting. Elected was President, Cecilia Pacheco, Vice-President, Thomas Montes, Secretary, Treasurer, Marcella Montes, Parliamentarian, Ray Sisneros, Recreational Leader, Beatrice Sanchez. Enrollment now stands at 30.

Dates for future project meetings were set and plans were made for a Christmas Party, at which time a tree would be decorated to take to Fort Stanton Hospital. Miss Pacheco gave a report on her trip to Washington D.C. this summer at which time she attended the Citizenship Short Course there, showing the club pictures of different points of interest.

Games were played and refreshments were served by Marcella and Thomas Montes.

Using hot water for laundering white cotton fabrics is superior to cold water. This was proven by cooperative research in the West. Factors studied were soil removal, fabric whiteness, softness, strength, shrinkage, smoothness and cost. After a series of soiling and launderings, results of the tests showed that substantially more soil was removed by hot-water laundering than by cold-water laundering.

Of the two detergents used, the regular granular hot-water detergent was more efficient in removing soil at both temperatures than the liquid cold-water detergent. Samples washed in hot water with granular hot-water detergent rated highest in fabric whiteness. Those washed in cold water with a cold-water detergent rated lowest. Fabrics washed in hot water were smoother and softer than those washed in cold water. And the detergent type used had no effect on these factors. The research was done by home economists from universities in Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Nevada and Oregon.

Wool Growers meet Nov. 24th

By Ralph Dunlap

The annual meeting of the New Mexico Wool Growers Inc. is scheduled for Wednesday, November 24 in Roswell at the Roswell Inn. The New Mexico Wool Show, Miss Wool Pageant and Wool Bowl Game will round out wool grower activities for the three day period from November 23 to 25th.

A panel discussion on predators will be held at the annual meeting.

The 33rd annual wool show will be judged on Thursday the 23rd. The following day the annual meeting, Miss Wool Pageant and dance are scheduled. The wool bowl game will be held on Thanksgiving Day. The use of a codling moth attractant in timing of codling moth spray was discussed at a meeting in Delta, Colorado last week. Research has shown that properly timed sprays can get better control. Also if everyone sprays the number of applications can be reduced from five to two. (The codling moth produces the worm in the apple).

A proposed program for New Mexico, Colorado and Utah was outlined at the meeting. There would be about 130 of these traps available in this area. Traps will be placed in every ten acres of orchard. New units for the traps will be furnished weekly. The old traps will be returned for a complete record of the results and at the same time put on a computer. These traps are only to time sprays, not to control the codling moth itself. In Colorado they have found the codling moth moved up to three miles in its lifetime, or one quarter mile in a day.

The triangular yellow-orange and red slow-moving vehicle reflective emblem is required on all farm machinery designed to operate at 25 miles per hour or less while traveling on a public highway. The effective date was October 11, 1971. The emblem is required for both day and night operation. The emblem should be displayed on the rear of the implement: 2 to 6 feet above the ground and centered as nearly as practical.

The use of the SMV emblem is in addition to lighting, flags or other equipment required by law. The SMV emblem is also required on a towed piece of equipment on any public highway if the emblem on the towing vehicle is not visible from the rear. For example, if a tractor is towing a flatbed wagon and the SMV emblem on the tractor is visible from the rear of the wagon, the requirements on the law are satisfied. If a forage box or load of baled hay is added to the same wagon, then an additional emblem would be required on the rear of the wagon.

This new law is an amendment to the vehicle code. Any person who violates the law and is convicted may be sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs or shall undergo imprisonment for not more than two full days. The SMV emblems are available from local machinery dealers and farm supply stores. Farmers will probably want to purchase several, although one for each machine is not needed. The signs are mounted on a spade which fits into a bracket on the implement; mount one of the inexpensive brackets on each piece of equipment and move the SMV emblem to the specific implement that must be operated on a highway.

After the yard has been mowed for the last time this fall, the homeowner should prepare the lawn mower for winter storage. First, clean the mower. Remove the hood or blower housing from over the fly wheel. Remove dirt and trash from the cooling fins and on other mower parts. Clean dirt and oil from the engine and housing by using a grease removing chemical, kerosene or hot soapy water. Do not use gasoline for cleaning. It is very flammable and also causes a "burning sensation" to the skin. Be careful not to get water or cleaning agents inside the engine.

Next, change the crankcase oil. Drain the old oil through the drain plug under the deck of the mower or through the oil filler plug. When tilting the mower, keep the carburetor on the high side. Also, if your mower has an oil bath air cleaner, be sure to remove it before tilting the mower. Tilted otherwise, the oil will spill all over the engine and into the carburetor.

After draining, refill the crankcase with fresh oil of the type recommended in the operators manual. This type is usually 30 weight detergent oil. Clean the air cleaner. For the oil bath type air cleaner, pour the oil out, wipe the bowl clean and refill with clean oil to the full mark. This oil is usually the same grade as that used in the crankcase.

Some mowers use a polyurethane sponge air cleaner. Wash it in kerosene or hot soapy water. Squeeze out all excess cleaner and allow the sponge to dry. Then add a small quantity of oil to the sponge and then squeeze out excess oil. Replace the sponge. The fuel system should be drained. Drain all gasoline from the tank before removing the fuel line between the tank and carburetor. After draining, reconnect the gas tank, start the engine and let it run until all fuel is removed. Be sure to replace the fuel lines and tank cover securely. The reason for removing all gasoline from the tank is that as the gasoline ages, gums and deposits are formed which can clog the fuel system. Burning it through engine operations avoids these deposits.

Remove the spark plug and place a small quantity of oil in the cylinder. One or two teaspoons should be enough. With the spark plug out, crank the engine causing it to turn over several times. This allows the oil to coat the cylinder walls and piston rings. Replace the spark plug leaving the plug wire off for safety.

Store the mower in a clean, dry place that has good air ventilation. Finally, winter is an ideal time to lubricate the wheels, do some spot painting and sharpen the mower blade. With these things done, the mower will be ready to go next spring.

MORE COSTLY THAN GOLD+THE SYNTHETIC

More costly than gold-the synthetic codling moth attractant cost $1500 for 10 milligrams. Yet this 10 milligrams will bait 40,000 traps. The codling moth hatches in broods. By knowing when the brood hatches, the apple grower can reduce his spraying cost by half. Yet he can get good codling moth control.

Several New Mexico growers are attending a meeting Wednesday in Delta, Colorado to see if the synthetic attractant can be tested in this area.

Several kinds of aphids or plant lice become active in the fall when days are warm and nights are cold. These very small, soft-bodied, sucking insects multiply rapidly when most gardeners think insect problems are over. It takes a sharp eye and persistence to find aphids before they cause extensive damage. They often take on the color of the foliage or plant parts they are feeding on or they feed under the leaves or in developing leaf and flower bud. Some of the aphids' favorite plants this time of year are pansies, stock, calendulas, chrysanthemums, and carnations. Check these plants frequently during periods when day-time temperatures are in the 50's and 60's and night-time temperatures are in the 20's and 30's.

Since aphids are sucking insects, their injury is not too obvious. Be suspicious of plants that are not growing as actively as they should. If leaves, stems or flowers are curled or deformed, look closely for colonies of aphids. To prevent aphid damage, treat the areas where you are setting out bedding plants or bulbs with granular systemic insecticide or a fertilizer containing systemic insecticide before you plant or soon after you plant. Follow directions on the label carefully. If aphids are already a problem, spray them with a malathion.

Thankful

FOR ALL WE HAVE

Excessive speed consumes tires, gasoline, cars, nerves, and people.

A panhandler approached a man on the street and said, "Mister, could you give a cripple a quarter for bus fare?" "All right," said the man, giving the beggar a close look, "but how are you crippled?" "Financially."

Mrs. Coe writes from East Africa

November 12, 1971
Dear Mr. Payton:
I am on a Comero Safari touring three interesting countries in East Africa. There are 18 plus guides in our group. We travel most of the time in Mini Buses - with five and driver in each car. The drivers are well dressed, native of the country, but well informed and speak good English.

I have learned a great deal about this part of Africa from our guide and from the drivers. Schools are not free in these countries and there is much illiteracy. The country has great potential but needs capital for development. Vast fields of tea and coffee mostly exported to England. Huge groves of bananas, pineapples, oranges and grapefruit and other tropical fruits. The cattle we have seen here have terribly long horns, 3 and 4 feet long, so the cattle are poor quality. No horses in Uganda because of a fly infestation. There are some large open pit copper mines. Not much for the tourist to buy - almost everything is imported.

We went by launch up the Nile River to see New Chison Falls, Hippos, Rhinos, Elephants, Water Buffalo. In the Game Viewing Tours of the Wild Life National Parks, we are not allowed to get out of the cars. We take pictures of lions in and under trees, leopards, hyena, giraffe, herds of zebras and elephants. People are friendly, hotels modern, food. Main highways are poor, lots of buses and trucks and people everywhere, all friendly. Africa needs capital for development in this part. Good trip.

I like Lincoln County better.
Regards,
Mrs. Wilbur Coe

This century that we know of. Used to be a guy up there named Doc Haley that would tell about Clayton's winners but they must have been in the 1800s.

But, Pat's boys got knocked off by a team that really came to Union County to play ball - the Ruidoso Warriors. Ruidoso goes into the state championship game this week against Jal, a real toughie even with a 4-5 season. We hope the Warriors can go all the way and bring two state championships to Lincoln County. The Warriors have two losses on their record, the first being to Carrizozo in the season opener by 24-14 score.

We told a lot of people that the Town of Carrizozo gets more state-wide publicity from its winning football teams than from any or all other sources. Headlines laying on desk more than prove that statement. More than publicity is the kind of sportsmanship being developed by Zozo Coach Roger St. Louis and the kind of approach to life in general.

It's been a wonderful year for Carrizozo in our favorite sport, thanks to a group of boys wearing the Big Red letter "C".
