

Arnold the politician

(Way of the West is once again filled by son number two, Tony, filling in for his busy father, who normally takes time to compose this epistle. And all due credit goes to Mezcla of the Rio Grande Sun.)

Our friend Arnold paraded into the office Monday, sat down and proudly presented us with a photograph and six pages of typed copy—all single spaced.

"Good morning, Arnold. What's going on?" we asked pleasantly.

"I am announcing my candidacy for county surveyor. I brought you my official announcement and campaign photograph for publication on the front page of this week's News," he said in what he must have thought was his best vote-getting manner.

"Well, congratulations, Arnold, but you have been campaigning for six weeks and we've been reporting during this period that you are a candidate. I doubt that your 'official announcement' merits front page space—particularly since in its present form it appears it would require about half the front page," we commented.

"But if it's not on the front page, no one will see it," he protested.

We assured him the newspaper was read with great care throughout and were confident thousands of potential voters would absorb his announcement word-for-word. We probably would not be able to use all six pages, however.

"But how else will the people know where I stand on the vital issues of the day?" he demanded.

"Arnold, believe us, the people already know. Let's see your picture," we said.

It was an eight by 10 glossy of Arnold, his wife, six children, his wife's parents, six cousins and an uncle who had disappeared six years ago while exploring the Amazon River.

Mentally we lifted a one-column mug shot of Arnold out of the glossy and complimented him on his fine family.

"Let's see the release, Arnold."

"Well, it hardly seems necessary to state you attended Mrs. Medina's Jack and Jill Kindergarten, or that you were an honor student in grades one, and three through six. By the way, what happened in the second grade?"

"The teacher was a Roosevelt Democrat," he explained.

We then assured him his chances of election were just as good if he didn't mention he was second string cheerleader in high school, and at one time invited the Democratic county chairman's daughter to the prom.

"Did she accept, by the way?" we asked. "I was of the wrong party faith at the time," he explained. "Since then, I'm on the right side of the fence."

"No college?" we asked.

"No, I was called upon to serve my country in the Big War," he said, dipping a hand into his side pocket and pulling forth his American Legion cap which he donned.

"Overseas?" we asked.

"Well, actually, I was sent to Aberdeen, South Dakota, by mistake after I finished basic training and my records were lost. I spent my entire hitch shooting pool in the rec hall."

We penciled out his Army career and studied his employment record.

"It says you were employed by your father as a 'trouble-shooter.' What did you do?"

"I sat around the house and whenever something happened at the office no one else could handle, they called me in," he explained proudly.

"Very impressive. Did they ever need you?"

"No," he admitted sadly. "I only had the job two weeks and got 11 phone calls. Seven were wrong numbers, one was from a magazine salesman, two from Presidential pollsters and the other from a girl wanted to know which TV show I was watching."

"After that you had quite a career—sewing machine salesman, apple picker, state highway department flagman, receptionist for a Roswell gym and Otero County road employee. All in 13 months. Arnold, are you an itinerant worker?"

"No, I just haven't found my niche in life, but I think politics is it. That's why I'm seeking public office."

"How do you make a living?" we asked.

"My Army experience," he explained.

"You mean . . . ?"

"That's right, I shoot pool and do rather well, I must admit."

"Arnold, you are the 14th person to announce for this political job that pays $85 a month. Why?"

"It is my desire to serve the public unselfishly, to give freely of my time without complaint to my fellow citizens, to perform public service with only slight compensation and to do a job properly that the person now holding it has neglected through incompetence, indifference and political spite."

"Besides," he added, "my wife wants me out of the house daytimes."

"Well, Arnold, we'll run your announcement this week then. Good luck."

"How much is that going to cost?" he asked.

"No charge, Arnold. We run these as news."

"Could I have the copy back. I need it for the radio station in Ruidoso," he said.

"Are they going to read this whole thing?" we asked.

"Word-for-word," he said proudly.

"Free?"

"No. They said it will cost $378, but I sure want it on the radio."

"Arnold, we are confident you have found your niche. You should go far in politics," we said, handing him his $378 news release.

"Don't forget, they will want cash in advance."

Cloudcroft and Carrizozo lead in 880 yard relay

Wildcats win Grizzly Relays

With only scattered clouds and a light breeze—almost perfect weather for a track meet—five records were shattered and another tied in the 12th running of the Grizzly Relays in Carrizozo last Saturday.

Tularosa's Wildcats, led by one of the state's finest distance runners, David Huggins, piled up 95 points to take the team title. Defending champion Socorro was second with 79 points.

Other scoring in the seven-team meet was Carrizozo 72, Cloudcroft 38, Estancia 24, Capitán 21 and Dexter 14.

Probably the most outstanding record set in the relays was by the slender Huggins in the two-mile event. He ran the eight-lap race in 9:55.8 minutes—knocking a minute and three seconds off the old record.

Huggins also set a new mark in the one-mile run, with a clocking of 4:49.0 minutes—erasing the old record by an even 10 seconds.

Following his win in the two-mile run, Huggins said he was still disappointed with his performance. "Sandoval is still ahead of me," he said, referring to the top time in the state this year of 9:44.2 minutes by Los Alamos' Anthony Sandoval.

Though he was ineligible to enter in the 880-yard run because prep rules allow only one other race if an athlete runs in the two-mile, Huggins was in the field for the half-mile and won by more than 20 yards. He was not allowed to score points in this event.

Another outstanding performance came from Socorro's towering Darryl Saulsberry in the 120-yard high hurdles. The defending "AAA" state champion in this event set a new Grizzly Relays record with a clocking of 14.85 seconds—topping the 11-year-old record by more than half a second. The timing was among the state's best this year.

Cloudcroft's Buddy Briscoe set a new mark in the discus throw with a distance of 142-foot-nine-inches. This bettered the relay's 10-year-old record of 141-foot-one-and-a-half-inches.

Ellison takes off in high jump

The fifth new record came late in the day in the medley relay, when Socorro's baton foursome turned the one-mile event in 3:55.0 minutes. This erased the 10-year-old record by a narrow four-tenths of a second.

Socorro's Larry Olguin tied the meet mark in the 180-yard low hurdles, winning with a time of 21.1 seconds.

Aside from Huggins' two wins in the distance events, the relays produced two other double winners.

In addition to his record in the high hurdles, Saulsberry also won the 22-yard dash with a clocking of 24.2 seconds.

And, Capitán's little Ted Sisneros took the top medal in the broad jump and pole vault. His winning jump was 19-foot-10-inches, while he vaulted 11-foot-six-inches.

Sisneros, who set the relays vault record last year at 12-foot-one-and-three-quarters-inches, tried three times unsuccessfully to set a new mark at 12-foot-five. Several minutes later he took an unofficial try at the height and cleared it—but too late for a record.

The new champions, Tularosa, also got winning performances from Wayne Mendoza in the javelin, Ronald Rhodes in the shot put, Eddie Ray Telles in the 100-yard dash and the mile relay foursome of Melvin Trammell, Severo Provinco, Telles and Robert Monje.

Second place Socorro also picked up first place points in the 440-yard and medley relays.

And, the host school earned three wins with Gabe Chavez taking the 440-yard dash, David Lee in the 880-yard run and the crack 880-yard relay team of Matt Ellison, Willie Gallegos, David Roper and Rusty Leslie.

The other first place went to Estancia's Eddie Burns in the high jump.

Grizzly coach Roger St. Louis said he was pleased with the performance of his team Saturday.

In winning the 880-yard relay, the Zoza quartet turned in a time three seconds better than any previous race, while the same foursome knocked a second off its best-ever performance in the 440-yard relay.

"Hoff has his best time of the year in the two-mile, while Lee ran his best one-mile race," St. Louis said.

Food Stamps 'a good deal'

Participants in the federal food stamps program in Lincoln County have what could aptly be termed "a good deal."

But for the recipients of the grocery-getting stamps in places like Denver, San Francisco and the big cities of the east, the program benefits are not nearly so plush.

And the difference between the two—the program recipients here and there—is the ground on which some criticism has been leveled by some people in Lincoln County.

And, if the benefits available to residents of Lincoln County were, in fact, extraordinary, they got a little better last Saturday. For on April 1 the program was expanded throughout New Mexico and some 30 percent more people are eligible to participate in the program now, who were ineligible last month.

Last Friday, the day before the new regulations went into effect, Lincoln County's food stamps program director, Bill Dunbar, explained some details of the program to the Lincoln County News.

Dunbar said that currently there are some 220 persons in this county participating directly in the food stamps program. With their family members, this means that about 738 people in

10 contests in county primary

Ten primary election contests developed Tuesday when a record number of candidates filed for office in Lincoln County.

A total of 28 political hopefuls—15 Democrats and 13 Republicans—filed certificates of candidacy for the eight county offices to be decided in elections this year.

It was believed to be a record-number in the county's 102-year history.

The biggest field came in the race for county sheriff, when a total of five hopefuls—including three Democrats and two Republicans—filed candidacy certificates. But there were also four candidates for the district one and three seats on the county commission, as well as four entrants in the probate judge race.

County clerk Alice King and her staff were kept busy throughout the day accepting the certificates, which took about 10 minutes to fill out and sign. There were no filing fees for office this year as the clerk's office followed instructions handed down last weekend by the attorney general's office.

One candidate, however, did submit a filing fee. Capitán candidate for commissioner Walt Jones paid a fee of $180—but Mrs. King said she was "just holding the check" and that it wasn't officially accepted.

The first candidate to file Tuesday morning was county treasurer hopeful Rosella Kirkpatrick of Carrizozo. She appeared at the clerk's office five minutes after the door opened. And the last filing came at 4:59 p.m.—just one minute prior to the deadline. It was by Democrat county clerk candidate Rexene Howard Huey of Capitán.

When the clerk's office doors were closed at 5 p.m. Mrs. King, along with several of the candidates, drew lots for ballot positions—to determine which candidate would be listed first on the voting machine or ballot. For those candidates not present, Mrs. King asked others present to draw for them.

Here is the way the primary election stacks up in Lincoln County, with the names listed in the order they will appear on the voting machines:

—County commissioner district one: Republicans Proceso Salcido of Hondo and Paul

Valley fruit crop nearly wiped out

Lincoln County's million dollar fruit crop has been 75 percent wiped out by the severe late-season freeze last week.

County extension Ralph Dunlap agent made the estimate this week that three-fourths of the Hondo Valley fruit was destroyed in the cold wave. However, some damage estimated have ranged up to 95 percent.

The damage came late last week when the temperature in the Valley fell to below -20 degrees on three consecutive nights.

Dunlap said the freeze destroyed all peaches, sweet cherries and apricots. "They're flat gone," he said yesterday.

There is some hope, however, for pears, sour cherries and several apple varieties, he said.

Some old-timers up in the Valley are comparing last week's freeze damage to the late season freeze of 1953, when the entire fruit crop was destroyed. And, old-timers also point out that in years past, it isn't too uncommon for freezes to come in early May.

"Don't count your fruit crop until May 10" is an adage that probably has much truth in it.

Dunlap explained that he freeze last week killed any small fruit, as well as the fruit in full bloom stages. "I looked at some apple buds," he said, "and they were killed even though they were not showing pink."

"The apple full bloom is about a month ahead of last year. Normally apples bloom in mid-April. This year they bloomed in mid-March," Dunlap explained.

The county agent said he is currently estimating a light crop throughout the Valley. "There might be some later blooms so we'll have to wait to give a more accurate estimate."

He said the light crop likely would come with the red delicious apples, the jonathan apples and the golden delicious apples.

The value of the fruit crop in this county averages more than half a million dollars. However, in good years—when there is no freeze like last week—the value soars over a million dollars.

about 40 percent of the recipients over 65-years-old.

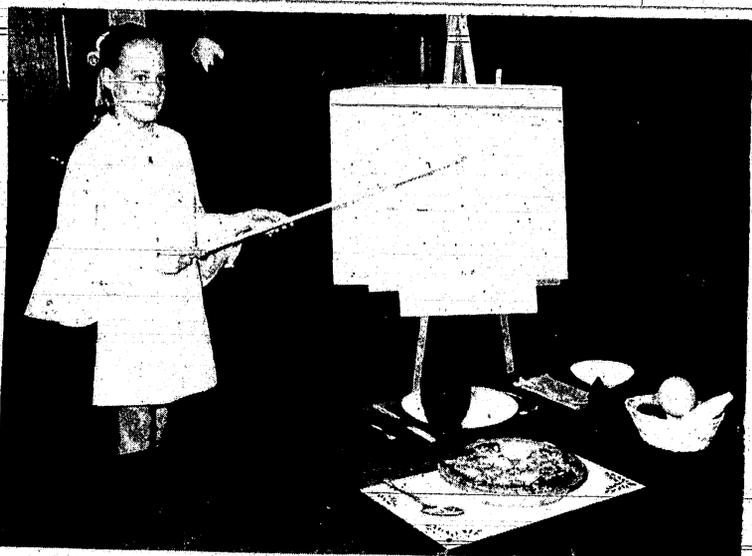

—65 cases (with family members, about 316 people) who are employable but currently don't hold jobs, or hold jobs with wages so low they are still eligible to participate in the program. These people receive no other kind of public assistance.

—41 cases (with family members, about 132 people) who are considered unemployable. Most of these people are over 65-years-old and some have small incomes.

With the new regulations, Dunbar said he expects that the 30 to 40 new cases that will qualify for the program will likely be in the first category—persons who don't receive other forms of welfare, but have an income low enough to qualify for stamps.

Dunbar acknowledged that food stamps are of "greater benefit" to residents of Lincoln County, where the cost of living is nationally considered to be near the lowest in the nation, than they are in some other areas where the cost of living is extremely high.

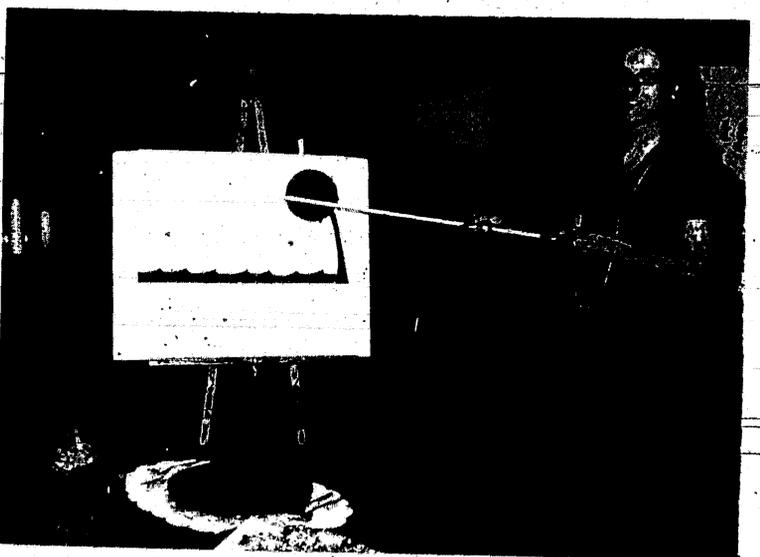

But, the standards for qualifying for the program are based on nation-wide figures—which, on the whole, sets the cost of living at a

Mrs. John Tracey heads Corona sorority chapter

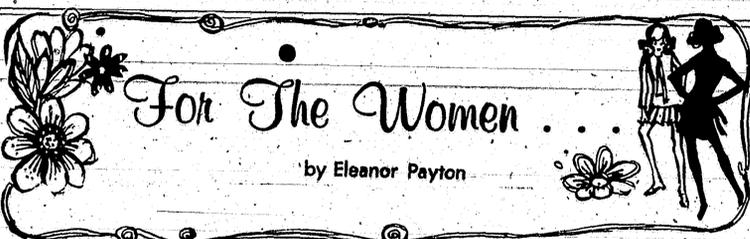

Xi Beta Epsilon of Beta Sigma Phi held its second regular March meeting in the home of Mrs. R. A. Perkins with vice-president Mrs. John Tracey in charge of the business session. Miss Sherrill Perkins, president, arrived a little late since she was being sworn in as the new member of the village council. Mrs. Royce Washburn was excused long enough to take a picture of the council for the chapter scrapbook.

The group finalized plans for the Easter dance, the junior-senior tea, and the scholarship. Plans for Founders Day were discussed.

Officers for next year were elected including president Mrs. Tracey, vice-president Mrs. Washburn, recording secretary Mrs. Melvin Sultemeier, corresponding secretary Mrs. Rogene Alford, treasurer Mrs. Frank W. Sultemeier Jr. and extension officer Mrs. Jack Davidson Jr. Others present were Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, Mrs. John D. Holleyman and Mrs. Rand Perkind.

Roll call was answered by telling what things we have around us for our own enjoyment and what we have for the pleasure of guests. Mrs. Tracey presented a most interesting program on "The Things About Us" developed from the outline, "The Home We Make." She stated that whether we like rooms that are filled with things or rooms that are bare, we should exercise control over the things around us, adding or subtracting or changing them to suit our whim or the seasons of our souls. With objects we can make our own still-life even if we can not paint it. We should be concerned with what we like and not pay too much attention to the prejudice of others.

Some of things discussed from both the functional and decorative viewpoints were: tables, clocks, vases, bric-a-brac, cushions, hassocks, waste baskets (there should be one in every room), book ends, ashtrays, figurines, family treasurers, books, and fireplace equipment. Refreshments were a variety of party snacks, cherry and lemon coolers, nuts, candies, tea and coffee. The table was covered with a lace cloth over green and centered with an arrangement of leperchaun, shamrocks, and green candles.

Manning announces retirement

New administrator at Ft. Stanton hospital

Roscoe Manning, the administrator at Ft. Stanton Hospital and Training School for the past four years, Monday announced his retirement effective April 30.

In a joint news release, State Department of Hospitals and Institutions secretary Bill Giron also announced the appointment of Jerald Myers to succeed Manning.

Myers presently is serving as assistant administrator at Ft. Bayard Medical Center near Silver City.

Manning has been with the state hospitals system since 1965. Before his appointment as administrator at Ft. Stanton, he was director of administrative services at Los Lunas Hospital and Training School.

In 1966 Manning was sent from Los Lunas on temporary leave to coordinate the change-over in programs at Ft. Stanton from a tuberculosis hospital to a facility for the mentally retarded.

Two years later he returned as administrator. A native of Illinois, Manning moved to New Mexico for his health in 1939. Prior to his employment with the state he was administrator of the City of Las Vegas Hospital.

In announcing his retirement, Manning said "Due to the expected new programs to be developed at Ft. Stanton, my retirement at this time will enable my successor to become actively involved in planning as well as implementation." He added that he was very proud of the staff at Ft. Stanton and its accomplishments.

Manning and his wife plan to retire in Ruidoso.

Myers has been assistant administrator at Ft. Bayard for the past four years, prior to that he worked as assistant director of personnel and administration with the department of hospitals' central office.

Recently named as a member of the American Academy of Medical Administrators, Myers is also a member of the American Hospital Association and the New Mexico Personnel Directors Association.

Shrecengosts' 25th Anniversary celebrated

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. Bert Pfingsten, Nora Henn, Mickey Thomas, Leota Pfingsten and Rosalie Dunlap were hostesses for a reception at the Bert Pfingsten home, honoring Bill and Betty Shrecengost on their 25th wedding anniversary.

The house was decorated with lovely flowers in silver bowls and refreshments of cake, punch, mints and nuts were served from a table highlighted by the beautiful anniversary cake. Approximately 100 people were there to enjoy it. The majority of the guests had attended the Shrecengosts wedding at the Chapel in Glencoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Pfingsten enjoyed last Friday evening, playing cards and visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Zumwalt at the Zumwalts' home.

Mrs. Mary Trujillo and daughter Maria, spent the Easter holidays with Mary's parents Mr. and Mrs. Christobal Zamora.

Mr. and Mrs. Esmel Salas spent the holidays in Las Cruces with Mrs. Salas' mother, Mrs. Miranda. Mrs. Miranda's many friends here, will be glad to hear that she is feeling real well.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Aldaz and their two children, of Raton, spent the holidays with Joe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Aldaz.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Murray and children of Las Cruces visited Mrs. Murray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas during the Easter holidays.

The Sheep to Shawl Shop in the west end of the Old Tunstall Store has opened again. It looks very attractive and is proving to be quite popular with people visiting Lincoln.

We just can't help feeling a bit unhappy that the fruit crop has just about, if not completely been wiped out. Just another one of those things that can't be helped.

We get letters

Dear Editor:
Thank you for taking time to visit with me on Friday, March 17.

Media calls by political candidates are really supposed to be arranged so the media come to know us, but I find that I never make one without learning more about New Mexico than I knew when I started out.

That's a contribution - and I thank you for your part in my "education".

For example, under the new regulations a family of four can earn up to $360 a month and still be eligible to participate in the program. This family could buy $108 worth of food stamps by paying $82-a net gain of $26 in buying power.

Dunbar pointed out that in Lincoln County, many families of four won't spend $82 a month for groceries-let alone $108. The cost of living here just doesn't necessitate spending that much money for groceries.

And, in Lincoln County, a monthly salary of $360 for a man with a wife and two children generally isn't considered as a "poverty-wage."

However, in cities like Denver and San Francisco, as well as many big eastern cities, the cost of living is so high that it would be somewhat difficult for a single person to exist on $360 a month-let alone a family of four.

But, because the qualification standards are nationwide, some families in Lincoln County who seem to be doing okay financially, still are qualified to join in the stamps program.

Other examples cited by Dunbar were: A single (one person household) person can make up to $170 a month-and be eligible to pay $22 for $32 worth of stamps-a net gain of $10; ranging to a family of 10 can earn up to $706 and be eligible to purchase $212 in stamps for $150-a net of $62.

Aside from the issuance of stamps, Dunbar and his staff that includes two case-workers, one social services aide and a clerk-typist, are kept busy making regular investigations that the law requires to make sure recipients are not getting more stamps than to which they're entitled.

The county director said his office investigates 10 percent of all its cases every month. This includes interviews with the family, checking on employment status, as well as seeking information from friends and neighbors.

"There are definitely small county advantages in this kind of thing," Dunbar said. "We usually hear through the grapevine when someone goes to work."

He said this kind of investigation is much more difficult in larger cities throughout New Mexico. In addition to the 25-or-so cases that are investigated monthly in the Lincoln County office, the State Health and Social Services Department reviews about 10 cases each month and the federal agency of Health, Education and Welfare checks one or two cases monthly.

But with 35 to 40 cases out of the more than 250 being checked each month, Dunbar said it is a rare instance that someone is caught misrepresenting their qualifications. He said it averages only one or two cases in a hundred that a person is found getting more stamps than the regulations allow.

Fire restrictions posted in Lincoln National Forest

Restrictions have been posted throughout the huge Lincoln National Forest limiting smoking and use of camp fires.

The restrictions were effective last Saturday, according to forest supervisor Kenneth L. Evans.

Fire ratings throughout the 1.25 million acre forest this week were rated from "high" to "extreme", according to fire control officer Wes Lathrop.

He said the April 1 restriction date was earlier this year than usual. But, he pointed out, not as early as in some years like last year when the restrictions went up in early February.

Lathrop said a dozen fires have been reported throughout the forest so far this year. Three were reported last Saturday in the Ruidoso district, one of them in the Bonito Lake area. All three of the fires were man-caused, the fire control officer said.

The highest fire danger ratings currently are in the Capitan area, where much of the forest land is at low elevation and covered with grass. This same condition occurs on the east side of the forest in the Carlsbad area.

Lathrop rated the conditions as "very high" in the Cloudcroft, Mayhill and Ruidoso areas, where the elevation is much higher. And, at the forest's north end, near Ancho, the conditions vary from "very high" to "extreme."

The restrictions now limit use of camp fires in the forest's 25 designated camp and picnic grounds. And, smoking is permitted only in these areas or while traveling on paved or surfaced roads.

Federal funding cut for Carrizozo school district

Carrizozo School District is one of 44 throughout New Mexico that will feel the impact of a federal government funding cut-back in the near future.

This was learned when local superintendent Jim Steinpreis attended the state-wide, pre-budget workshop for school administrators in Albuquerque last month. Also attending the annual session was Helen Lock, the district secretary and bookkeeper.

While not overly severe in terms of dollars the cut in funding to Carrizozo was one of the largest in percentage terms throughout the state.

Steinpreis said during the current year the district received some $7,447 in Public Law 874 federal funds. This has been slashed for next year to $1,462-or 81 percent. State-wide, the funding cut totals $2 million.

The P. L. 874 monies are paid to the local district on a per pupil basis for students whose parents are employed by the federal government. The money is in lieu of property taxes to systems which have heavy enrollments of school children whose parents live or work on federal property.

Bookmobile Schedules visit here April 12-13

Patrol car grant okayed by federal law agency

Lincoln County Sheriff's Department will soon be recipient of a federal grant of $3,045.00 for a new patrol car which is to be used in the Capitan-Lincoln-Alto area.

The grant was announced this week by William L. Jerspenson, coordinator for the New Mexico Law Enforcement Planning Commission's region two at Carrizozo.

The funds should be received sometime next month, Jerspenson said. The grant application was made some two-months ago.

He explained that the department already has a deputy assigned to the small-town central county area, but currently the officer is using his own vehicle for patrol work. The new car will come complete with radio, police lights and other patrol equipment.

Dear Paul:
Wish you would get as interested in fishing as you are in music.

I think you and the music are great - you have added much to ZoZo and the youngsters. Keep it up.

And then could you tell me why the Game Department doesn't want to stock Bonito Creek with fish for Spring fishing? Nogal Lake was stocked and we are very grateful. Its been fine fishing but some folks like creek fishing.

Corona Extension Club hears talk on fraud

Arabelle Molder and Johnnie Bond were hostesses for the March meeting of the Corona Extension Club March 23. They served a chicken enchilada casserole for the main dish.

Due to an engagement elsewhere later in the day, Mrs. Charmaine Crown of the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office spoke to the group in the forenoon rather than in the afternoon as scheduled. The main topic of her informative talk was how to avoid being defrauded and what to do in the event a person is the victim of fraud. A lively question and answer session followed.

After being a guest of the club at lunch, Mrs. Crown addressed a group of Consumer Education students at the local high school.

Using an Easter theme, Mrs. Pallie Dishman created three beautiful center-pieces for the tables. Two of the center-pieces were miniature trees made from branches of the manzanita tree decorated with tiny lace-trimmed baskets filled with Easter eggs and flowers. Little bunnies surrounded by grass and Easter eggs were the focal point of the other centerpiece. Arabelle Molder held the lucky number for the hostess gift—one of the center-pieces.

During the business meeting with followed lunch, the club voted to donate $15 to the Parents Working Committee toward purchase of the new curtains for the auditorium and $15 to the Corona Fireman's fourth of July Celebration Fund.

Mrs. de la Pena and Mrs. Howlett of El Paso Natural Gas Lincoln Station, as well as two former members, Lois Bagley and June Tyree, were guests of the 20 members present for the day's activities.

Corona Extension Club was well represented at the district IV meeting of the New Mexico Council of Homemakers held in Portales, March 24. Those making the overnight trip were Jean Sultemeier, Mary O'Brien, Lorene Woodfin, Pallie Dishman, Mola Vick and Nena Stratton. The eight workshops were held at both morning and afternoon sessions, and the Corona club had a member at each of the different workshops.

During the general business sessions, Mrs. Woodfin was one of the three voting delegates from Lincoln County and Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Stratton served on the election committee with Mrs. O'Brien chairman of that committee.

Lincoln County will be hostess to the District IV meeting in 1973.

While in Portales, the ladies visited with Connie Sultemeier, Brenda Lynch, Lois Ann Holleyman, Pam and Emmy Owen, all students at ENMU from Corona. They also visited with Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and Mrs. L. O. Foster, who are former Corona area residents now living in Portales. Friends of Mrs. Foster will be interested to know that she is well and planning a trip to Cedarvale the first part of April to visit and attend the club meeting.

It may be later than you think! The time to consider retirement ideas is early in your plan-in plenty of time to make a transitional pattern for retirement. It's easier that way, according to the retirement publication published by the Consumer and Food Economics Division, Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Many things should be considered if you're planning to retire in the next few years. Your spending pattern will need to be adjusted to your changed income because your present life style may not be continued. You may want to start a second career! You may even want to live somewhere else! It's less expensive to live in small cities than in large cities—and the South is usually lower in living costs than the North. Some expenses will be less, some may be more; but, then should all be listed. Balancing your expenses and your income is the first chore. Once you have your figures you may plan to cut your expenses—move to a smaller, less costly place—you may need only one car, you may even need less food. There are many ways of shaving expenses you can consider. Also you should plan an emergency fund, if you don't have one, and you should make sure your will is in good order.

New faces oppose area incumbents

Filings for district judicial and legislative political offices throughout the southland of New Mexico brought a host of new faces challenging incumbents.

However, five incumbent office-holders won election for lack of opposition.

In state senate district 40, incumbent Democrat Aubrey Dunn of Alamogordo has no opposition. And in house of representatives district 51, incumbent Democrat John Mershon of Alamogordo is also unopposed, as is house of representatives district 53 incumbent George "Fettinger," an Alamogordo Democrat.

And in judicial district 12, which includes Lincoln and Otero Counties, Democrat district attorney Norman Bloome of Alamogordo is unopposed.

Incumbent state school board member L. Grady Mayfield, a Democrat, is unopposed in district six, which includes Otero and Dona Ana Counties.

But in state senate district 25, which includes Torrance and Santa Fe Counties, incumbent Democrat Edmundo Delgado of Santa Fe has opposition from fellow Democrat Consuelo Kitzes and Republican Willard H. McDermott.

In the house of representatives district 50 contest, incumbent Republican John Bigbee of Encino has opposition from fellow Republican John Bigbee of Encino has opposition from fellow Republican Antonio Sanches and Democrat Paul Joseph Davis Jr.

And in house district 51, incumbent Republican Maurice Hobson of Alamogordo drew opposition from Democrat Page Carter of Alamogordo.

Judicial district 12 district judge Richard Stanley, a Democrat, is opposed by former district judge George L. Zimmerman, also an Alamogordo Democrat.

And judicial district seven, which includes Torrance County, has a contest between incumbent judge Edmund Kase III, a Democrat, and Republican David E. Douglas.

In the seventh judicial district attorney's contest, the three candidates are Republican Hal W. Everett and Democrats Paul Marshall and Claron Earl Waggoner.

Three candidates are vying in the seventh district for the state board of education, which includes Chavez, Eddy, De Baca and Lincoln Counties. They are George O. Teel, a Democrat, and Republicans George S. Richardson and Paul Cooter.

And in the 10th district for the board of education, which includes Torrance, Santa Fe, Los Alamos and Sandoval Counties, the two candidates are Democrats Virginia Gonzales and Leonard R. Quintana.

Amelita Jenkins

Capitan businesswoman Amelita Jenkins, 52, has filed for election for county treasurer in the Democratic Primary Election.

Mrs. Jenkins, who owns and operates Jenkins General Store, said "this is my maiden voyage in politics" Tuesday after filing for the election.

The Oklahoma-native has operated the store in Capitan since 1958. Prior to that, she and her late husband were in business in Roswell.

The mother of three children, she is active in the Capitan Boosters Club and the Baptist Church.

Vote Wooten for Probate Judge

Former ZoZoan mayor candidate

A native of Carrizozo who moved from here 25 years ago, Mrs. Rhoda Freeman Kohler, is currently a candidate for mayor in Higginsville, Mo.

She moved from Carrizozo to the Higginsville area when she married 25 years ago, but she has maintained contact with several old friends in the New Mexico southland.

An article in a Missouri newspaper announcing her candidacy said Mrs. Kohler is an elementary school teacher. She is past-president of the Higginsville Business and Professional Womens Club and the American Legion Auxiliary and a past matron of the Eastern Star chapter in Higginsville. Currently she is treasurer of the Lafayette Federated Republican Womens Club and president of the Central Christian Church Circle II.

"I feel that all the people should be represented conscientiously by one who cares," the Carrizozo native commented in making her announcement of candidacy. "The city government of Higginsville needs a mayor who wants the best for Higginsville and the results being more beneficial for all the people of Higginsville."

S. M. 'Sally' Ortiz

S. M. "Sally" Ortiz, an announced candidate for the Lincoln County board of commissioners in district two, has been sheriff of this county for eight years, as well as serving a two-year term in the state house of representatives.

Announcing his candidacy in the Democratic primary, Ortiz said he is the only Democrat that has been elected sheriff in this county in 34 years.

He has been a resident of Lincoln County for 40 years and said he is opposed to "unreasonable property taxes." He said there is also a need to improve communications between the public and the county highway department.

Ortiz is a past president of the Carrizozo Lions Club, past president of the chamber of commerce, and a past director of the Ruidoso Elk Lodge, of which he is a charter member. He is also a past president of the Carrizozo-Capitan Natural Gas Association and is presently secretary-treasurer.

He and his wife Cecilia have five children.

TRADING POST

Walter Jones

Capitan rancher Walter Jones, 30, has filed for election in the Democratic Primary as a candidate for county commissioner in district one.

"The next four years are very important to Lincoln County and its growth," Jones said yesterday. "I think the county needs someone who wants Lincoln County to grow with the rest of New Mexico—and I think I can give some of that direction."

Jones is a life-time resident of the county. He and his wife have three children—all girls.

He is currently president of the county Farm Bureau, a post he has held for four years; and has been on the county fair board for five years. In addition, he has been on the planning and zoning commission for the past year; and is chairman of the White Oaks Historical Review Board.

George White

Former Ruidoso mayor George White has filed for election as Lincoln County probate judge in the Democratic Primary Election.

White was mayor of Ruidoso for a two-year term from 1970 to 1972 and before that was superintendent of the Ruidoso School District for eight years.

"I feel I can be of service to the county patrons involved in probate work," White said. "I'm retired and can give the position plenty of time and energy."

White came to Ruidoso in 1962 from a position with the State Department of Education in Santa Fe. Prior to that he was school superintendent in Santa Fe.

Recently Governor Bruce King appointed the Lincoln County to the Commission on Housing and Urban Development's southeast New Mexico seven-county district.

John F. Bigbee

Encino rancher John F. Bigbee has filed for re-election to the State House of Representatives in the 50th legislative district.

A Republican, Bigbee's district was reapportioned earlier this year to include the east side of Lincoln County, a long with portions of Torrance, DeBaca and Guadalupe Counties.

Bigbee, 37, said "In the past several years I have served on the agriculture and judiciary committees, as well as the appropriations and finance committee, the transportation committees, as well as the appropriations and finance committee, the transportation committee and the printing and supplies committee."

He was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention and was chairman of the taxation and revenue committee. He is a member of the State Livestock Board, having served a year as chairman and served seven years on the Encino School Board.

Bigbee and his wife have three children.

$80 million in welfare

The economy of New Mexico benefitted by more than $80 million last fiscal year in welfare, financial, medical, and bonus food assistance, mostly in federal funds. The Health and Social Services Department annual report, recently released, shows that such assistance last fiscal year exceeded that for the previous year by more than $20.7 million - primarily due to the more than doubling of free or bonus food stamps to welfare recipients and other low income persons and families.

Your Weekly Horoscope

April 15 through April 21

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Matter which hangs heavy, heavy over thy head can no longer be postponed, Ari, my love. Stop thinking in terms of "tomorrow." Tomorrow will never do. Tomorrow never comes. Week ends fruitfully, if you get off of your duff and get into action. Now MOVE.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A token of kindness will be offered before third day ends, Taurus. Accept. You deserve every nice thing which comes your way this week finds you in a muddle concerning family financial matter. Stocks are high, so play cards with great care. As week wears on, you may tend to wear out. If so, take French leave. Even a big, strong Taurus needs a little R and R occasionally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Dear one needs attention, Gem. Give it, or relationship is apt to go down the old tub. Lack of attention to the little things, coupled with boredom are "the little foxes, that spoil the vine" of understanding and compatibility. Mull it over.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lie low in days ahead. Moonlove. Week unfavorable for making important moves. Choices are offered. Stall for time. Think matters through with great care, and for just ONCE in your life consider your own self-interest first.

LEO (July 23-August 22): You very well may tangle with member of another generation concerning money before fourth day. You are basically generous. Leo love, but do not allow others to take advantage of you. Some people will stoop to out-and-out flattery to achieve their goals. And lions just gobble up flattery, you know.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): Try not to be picky in days ahead, Virg. What you pick could too easily become untraveled, and heaven knows you haven't the time, this month to knit relationship back together again. Before last day, you are aware that your friendship means much to close associate.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You are the beautiful balance of tenderness and strength, Libra love. Friend calls on you for both before fifth day. Give with a generous heart. Week ends on note of peace and joy.

SOCRAPIO (October 23-November 21): Put yesterday in your memory bank, Scorp, and tomorrow in your pocket. Concentrate on TODAY. Go forth and spread your own special brand of sunshine. You know the way. You have the means. And, baby, do you have the talent!

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): Money matters highlighted first part of week, Sag. Be on guard. There is one who would pinch your poke if given opportunity. Before week ends, secret plans hatch. Last day a perfect peach.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Wondrous transformation could take place in week ahead, am. Have confidence in yourself and your abilities. Others watch. Before last day ends you are washed in the warmth of honest love.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): You are a field which may need a bit of tilling, Aquari. Sensitive friend offers advice and help. Accept both. End of week finds you fresh, warm and ready to take on new and exciting tasks.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): There is very apt to be a splitting apart in days ahead, Pisces. But don't fret. In the long run you benefit, though you may not think so now. As week draws to a chaotic close, get out in the woods and communicate with nature. Mother Nature (and Oiga) still love you.
