State meat crop up; betters '71

by LYMAN JONES
Village Press Special

Red meat production in New Mexico during the first quarter of 1972 (latest tabulation available) ran well ahead of production for the first four months of 1971, official state and national agricultural sources told the Village Press this week.

April, 1972, production was down, however, from one month earlier, by about seven per cent. And seven was the exact percentage by which April-only 1972 production topped April-only of 1971.

New Mexico slaughter plants produced 19,655,000 pounds of red meat during April of this year.

A total of 32,000 cattle were slaughtered in April of this year, compared with 34,000 in March, this year, and with 30,000 in April, 1971.

Hogs slaughtered in April, 1972, totaled 9,100 - 1,400 less than a year earlier and 1,000 less than in April, 1971.

Sheep slaughters, in April, 1972 totaling 10,400, were the same as one month earlier but 2,500 head more than in April of 1971.

Cattle killed in April of this year were heavier than a year earlier, but both sheep and hogs were slaughtered at lighter weights.

Nationally, meantime, commercial production of red meat in the continental 48 states totaled 2,923 million pounds in April, 1972, down seven per cent from one year earlier.

Beef production in the 48 states in April of this year totaled 1,709 million pounds, four per cent off from the 1,771 million pounds produced in April of 1971. A 10-pound increase in average weight in the April-1972 beef slaughter was offset by a four per cent decrease in the number of head slaughtered.

In the 48 states in April of this year, pork production totaled 1,138 million pounds, 12 per cent less than 12 months earlier. And the hog kill was down 14 per cent from April of 1971.

Nationally, there were 43 million pounds of lamb and mutton produced in April of this year, 12 per cent less than in April of last year. The sheep and lamb slaughter totaled 821,500 head continentally, down 14 per cent from 1971's April. Meantime, the "Index of Prices Received for All Farm Products" by New Mexico farmers and ranchers for the month ending May 15 rose eight points (two per cent) over the previous 30-day period.

The New Mexico Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said that "prices were up from a month ago (April 15) on most commodities used in computing the index.

"Alfalfa, all hay and wholesale milk decreased in prices . . . while sheep remained unchanged." The "Livestock and Livestock Products Index increased by 12 points from April 15 to May 15 and was 12 per cent above the index for the same date in 1971.

The state reporting service said: "Prices were up 50 cents a head on all beef cattle and cows, $1 a head on steer, heifers and lambs, two cents a dozen on eggs and seven cents a pound on wool."

Of the other side of the farm-ranch economic coin, the reporting service had this to say:

" . . . prices paid by farmers for commodities and services, including interest, taxes and farm wage prices, as of May 15, were unchanged. "Lower prices for motor supplies offset higher prices for feeder livestock, food and tobacco, clothing, and household furnishings."

However, the overall index of prices paid by farm-ranch operators was up four per cent over one year earlier, the reporting service said.

FLAG DAY ARRIVALS in Carrizozo were the two eaglets above. A man in Three Rivers, unidentified, gave the young birds to Clint Westrope, also of Three Rivers, telling Westrope they were hawks. Westrope brought them to the Lincoln County Sheriff's office where they were identified as eagles. All this on June 14, Flag Day, appropriate enough - if you're an eagle.

COWBELLE CLEANUP COUNTINUES - The Canyon Cowbelles, in the midst of preparing a beef promotion for Fathers Day, took time out to pursue another project - keeping things uncluttered - a continuation of their recent Trashathon. Here Vernelle Hightower, Mary Jane Campbell and Anne Ferguson, helped by Lisa, Matthew and Mary Jane Ferguson, prepare some trash-gathering containers.

Serve Pop beef, proclaimer asks

Carrizozo Mayor Johnson Stearns, at the request of the Canyon Cowbelles, has proclaimed Father's Day, June 18, "Beef for Father's Day" day.

The Cowbelles hope by the action to underline the importance of beef - in diets and to the economy of the state and the Lincoln County area.

Father's Day, said the Stearns' proclamation, is "an appropriate time to honor the beef industry and its great contribution to the strength and welfare of our state and nation."

Therefore, concluded the proclamation: " . . . I respectfully urge all business organizations, producers and consumers to cooperate in the observance of Beef for Father's Day, and urge all housewives to serve nutritious beef on this day, that beef may have its rightful place among meats served on special days, and the importance of the beef industry to our state's economy be recognized."

Mamas-to-be: notice . . .

Lincoln County's Canyon Cowbelles have dreamed up a novel Father's Day contest.

The Cowbelles, all ranch wives, spend a great deal of time promoting the increased use of beef. Now, they're combining that interest with the advent father's Day.

The Cowbelles will award a giant roast of beef to the father of the first baby born in Lincoln County on Father's day - June 18.

Crucial contest period arrives this week-end; Mrs. Rensch leads

Crucial period in the Lincoln County NEWS big $1,200 subscription contest arrives this weekend as contestants strive hard for a maximum report of subscription collections before the points drop in value, Tuesday night, June 20.

All friends of the workers, who have promised them new and renewal subscriptions, should make every effort to get payment to them by Tuesday morning at the latest.

Close of the first period (high point schedule) marks a drop in value by one-half at the close of Tuesday night's report.

Meanwhile, the big race for the $500 cash first prize continues to be close between the top contenders, as the high point schedule reaches its climax Tuesday night, June 20.

Moving up into first place is Margaret Rensch, of Capitan, and holds a slight lead over her nearest rivals, Mrs. Dorothy Current and Thelma Appgar, both Carrizozo contestants. Mrs. Current holds second place, and Mrs. Appgar holds a close third place, and all three ladies are in a battle for top spot. Anything could happen in the standings before the close of the high point schedule, Tuesday night, June 20.

Mrs. Dorothy Silva, Alamogordo contestant, continues to hold fourth place this week, with Mrs. Agnes Hein in fifth spot.

All contestants are making every effort to collect promised subscriptions in time to be counted before the first period closing (high point schedule) Tuesday night, June 20.

The enrolled contestants have been working hard to contact potential subscribers throughout Lincoln and Otero Counties, and the work contestants do before Tuesday night, June 20, could decide just where they stand in the points tabulation in the box scoring.

Subscription points are cut in half, starting Wednesday, June 21.

"Tuesday night's report will also be the last opportunity for contestants to receive 500,000 bonus points for each $30 worth of subscription collections," according to Larry B. Hempel, contest manager.

Cash prizes for which the contestants are working hard are: first grand prize, $500; second prize, $300; third prize, $150; fourth prize, $75, and fifth prize, $50.

Don't delay making your subscription payment for your favorite contestant before next Tuesday night, June 20, subscription points are cut in half after that date," Hempel said.

NM Territory bragged of Lincoln County

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Back in the years before people spelled problems, the Territory of New Mexico wanted more people. The Territory's Bureau of Immigration painted the best possible picture of how it would be to live in old Lincoln County. Here's what it had to say.)

A Brief Outline of General Conditions

Lincoln county was one of the original subdivisions into which New Mexico was formed upon its creation by Congress in 1850. From its original area have been taken all the counties of southeastern New Mexico. Lincoln, the county seat, is one of the historic towns of the Southwest. Near the old military post of Fort Stanton, now transformed into a great hospital for victims of consumption; not far from Fort Sumner, as distances were reckoned in those days; and on the high-road to the Pecos country, the town in the early days was one of importance. Set deep in its picturesque valley, shadowed on either side by towering mountains, it has been the scene of many of the stirring incidents of the time when Indian warfare and outlawry were something more than memories of old men. Many a famous trial has taken place in the battered old court house, where Billy the Kid of notorious memory, was once confined: it was the meeting place of cattlemen for two hundred miles around, when cattlemen ruled the country and volumes of history and incident of absorbing interest might be written of its early days.

But in these years of rapid development - Lincoln has had to give way to the vigorous young towns along the railroads and the people of Lincoln county are far more interested in their material prosperity and progress than in history, for Lincoln county is no longer part of the frontier, but a peaceful, prosperous, well-governed community, part of an equally prosperous and well-governed commonwealth.

The county is located somewhat to the south and east of the center of New Mexico. It is bounded on the north by Torrance and Guadalupe counties, on the east by Chaves, on the south by Chaves and Otero and on the west by Socorro county. Its total area is 4,659 square miles, or nearly 3,000,000 acres, of which approximately 1,800,000 acres are open to homestead entry. A considerable portion of the area is classed as mineral land while 596,603 acres are included in the Lincoln National Forest which extends from the southern boundary well over the central portion of the county.

The general topographical features of the county are clearly shown in the accompanying map, the country rising from the east and west by sharp elevations into a chain of imposing mountain ranges which mount at their highest points to an elevation of near 12,000 feet. The towering, snow-capped peaks of the Sierra Blanca reach 11,900 feet; El Capitan is 10,023 feet, while the Gallinas reaches 9,798 and Carrizo 9,390. It is a mountain chain presenting scenery without rival in the Southwest. Little known, because little advertised, its grassy slopes and rugged canyons offer at once a playground and a sanitarium for the nation. The high, dry air of these elevations is healing and invigorating, while fish in the streams and game in the forests offer abundant sport.

A very large part of the drainage area of the Pecos River lies in Lincoln county. The Rio Hondo, one of its principal tributaries, rises in the south-central portion of the county and is fed by numerous streams of purest mountain water of which the principal ones are the Rio Bonito, and Eagle and Ruidoso creeks. The headwaters of the Rio Felix and Rio Salado are also in the county while Nogal creek and smaller independent water courses flow west into the Rio Grande during the food seasons.

The mountain ranges are broken by small valleys in which irrigation has been carried on with splendid results for many years. On the higher mesas a so-called "dry farming" has been practiced for years. But conditions on these mesas are little different from the humid regions, the average rainfall being sufficient to mature any crop without special methods of cultivation. The variety of crops; however, is limited because of the altitude and consequent brevity of the season.

The dry farming lands to which homeseekers are now turning lie chiefly along the railroad in the eastern and northern portion of the county, centering thus far around Carrizozo, Capitan, White Oaks, Nogal, Corona and Oscura.

Lincoln county's present population is a little more than 8,000. At the present rate of increase, which is rapid in the towns and villages near the railroad, the census of 1910 will show a population of 10,000. The county's assessed valuation in 1907 was $1,438,281.00. For 1908 it was $2,020,380.00, showing the amazing gain in a single year of $582,099.00. The increase in the 1909 assessment, which is now being returned, will not be so great, but it will be large enough to show the continued prosperity of the county.

While social conditions and conveniences are not what they are in the more thickly populated regions of the country, they are in no wise the conditions of the frontier. The people are law-abiding, industrious and prosperous and the immigration now coming in is of the very best class, from the central and southern states.

There are twenty-five postoffices in the county, and for every post office there is a school. The county school system is improving with every year and no homeseeker need fear that his children will lack the advantage of a common school education. In some of the towns as in Carrizozo, White Oaks and Capitan the school buildings would be a credit to any community. The school population, according to the census of 1908 is 2,111. Every town of any size has its church organizations and, taken as a whole, the man coming here from east, north or south will find conditions little different from those in the more thinly settled sections of his home state.

Lincoln county presents tremendous natural resources, now taking form in diversified industries, any one of which, fully developed, will be sufficient to support a large population. The county affords opportunities for profitable farming in all its classes of orchard, field and garden. Its stock growing industry will always be a wealth producer and the latent resources of its highly mineralized districts can hardly be over-estimated. Manufacturing will come with exploitation and development of the county's vast deposits of coal and iron and there are also large resources of timber.

Anglers report only fair takes

Southeastern New Mexico fishing varied last week from "fair to good" in most areas. Here's a spot report:

Alamogordo Lake -- Fishing improving. Crappie biting on Doll Flies and minnows. Walleye taken on deep running lures. Catfish taken p.m. on cut bait.

Nogal Lake -- Fishing fair to good with good sized fish being taken.

Bonito Lake -- Fishing fair to good on all baits including lures.

Alto Lake -- Fishing fair on all baits.

East Side Lakes -- Fishing poor to fair. Light fishing pressure.

McMillan Reservoir -- Fishing poor for all species.

Upper Pecos River -- Fishing fair to poor in deep holes on cutbait.

Lower Pecos River -- Catching a few catfish on trolines.

Bitter Lakes Refuge -- Catfishing fair to good. Black and white bass starting to hit on minnows and spinners in some spots.

Bottomless Lakes -- Fishing poor. Light fishing pressure.

Berrendo Creek -- Channel catfishing on worms and cheese.

Lake Van -- Fishing fair. Some bass and crappie taken on minnows.

Meantime, at Santa Fe, the state Department of Game and Fish has listed an official state record crappie and a new state record channel catfish.

The crappie was caught last April 8 at Ute Lake -- on the Canadian Arm -- by L. D. Holt of Enochs, Tex. The fish weighed two pounds, six ounces and was caught on a minnow.

The catfish -- an 18-pounder -- was caught from Farmington Lake by Kenny Copeland, no address listed. It was taken in July of last year on a waterdog.

TO THE EDITOR:

Just a note to thank you personally for the coverage you gave the recent primary elections. I can imagine the chore you must have had -- having to put up with so many candidates in this unprecedented type of election.

But, you did a really commendable job. Again, my deepest thanks,

Bear hunt was costly

Ray Clark and Tom Chaffins, both of Capitan, were fined a total of $800 by Carrizozo Magistrate Bill Payne last week following guilty pleas on charges of killing a bear out of season.

Chaffins also pleaded guilty to having killed a mountain lion out of season.

On the bear-killing charge, they were assessed fines of $140 each, plus courts costs of $10. The mountain lion charge cost Chaffins an additional $90 plus $10 in costs.

And both accepted civil damage assessments of $100 for the bear and $300 for the lion.

TO THE EDITOR:

Anyone who understands how much work and how many individuals are necessary to win a nomination knows the feeling which sets in when it is over.

You would honestly like to thank everyone personally. But how can you?

Perhaps only the news media can do it adequately for you.

I am grateful to everyone who had even the smallest part in my nomination -- men and women, new voters and old, from all over New Mexico. If Nancy and I could thank each of them individually, we would.

We look forward to a healthy, open, give-and-take campaign -- to an honest exchange of views on all the issues. This is in the true tradition of the American democratic system.

I promise the voters of all parties that I will make my stands as clear as I am capable of making them. I will meet with my opponent for frank, public discussion of those issues whenever and wherever he is willing.

I expect the kind of support I received in the primary to continue -- from all parts of the state and from people in all walks of life who believe in the things I believe in.

Reforestation:

Bonito burn project set

The New Mexico State Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, in cooperation with the Lincoln National Forest, will reforest the so-called Bonito Burn area near Bonito Lake in the forest.

The action came at a recent meeting of the DAR at Ruidoso at which Forest Service officials and representatives of eight DAR chapters formally reached agreement on the project.

It followed a decision reached at the 1972 spring State DAR Conference in Lovington to make the Bonito Burn project the first state DAR undertaking of this year.

The whole thing is part of a larger DAR Horizons USA program.

The formal agreement calls on the DAR to give $500 for replanting of a site to be designated by the Forest Service within the burn area. The Forest Service will mark the site with a sign and furnish appropriate seedlings.

The 'wilderness'

game? Overgrazing by game is man-caused when man's management regulations fail to keep game in balance with the carrying capacity of the range.

Wilderness must be protected from overuse by people, but does it need to be protected from the natural forces of insects or disease unless the conditions that set the stage for such attacks are man caused? I think not.

There are other aspects of protection, but I prefer at this point to pass on to management. We must ask: managed for what and for whom? The fact that management is viewed seriously can be seen by a quick scan of the Journal of Forestry which published two articles on this topic in 1968 and one in 1970. Closer study would show that there were more. In an era of multiple use management it is ironic that the same people who apply pressure for multiple use are often the same ones calling for the dedicated use management of wilderness. Wilderness should be managed, for people, for wildlife, for vegetation and for all the other facets of a true wilderness area.

In many National Parks being managed for people, wildlife is being allowed to proliferate at the expense of the vegetation. This should be carefully avoided in wilderness management where the tools are available to do a good job of managing for people, wildlife and vegetation. Some believe that wilderness should be managed for the person in search of solitude. Solitude is available in many places, but I submit it is not very soul stirring unless accompanied by such stimulants to the senses as the scents of a pine forest, the sounds of water gurgling over the rocks of a stream bed, or the sight of a deer grazing in an opening.

Our definition also included the word "natural." To me, "natural" includes the naturalness of native wildlife as surely as it does the naturalness of native vegetation. Here we must digress to consider whether to preserve its natural conditions means to preserve conditions as they existed at the moment of establishment. Let us protect and manage on a truly viable basis so that the forces of succession can play a part. If the latter course is chosen, then we must be concerned whether forces of succession will be allowed to proceed to the climax forest to the virtual exclusion of wildlife. This takes us right back to the need to let the natural forces of fire express themselves so that a reasonable portion of the area can be opened up for a new round of plant succession to promote the natural succession of animal communities that are found in the changing plant communities. I believe also that there plant succession is allowed to go too far, and no fires occur to set it back, or fires are not allowed to run, that it should be possible to help preserve the natural wildlife habitat by human disturbance of the plant communities. This would help to preserve a balance in the various disclimaxes present under an evolving ecosystem.

I should now like to make a plea for consistency in wilderness management. I am always reminded of the problem we had a few years ago when we wanted to plant bighorn sheep in the Pecos Wilderness by helicopter. Since the work of planting sheep by helicopter was not an on-going activity when the act was passed it was not permitted. The planting of fish, however, was permitted because that was an on-going activity. It is generally permissible to carry on activities such as spraying, hauling fire crews, hauling material for trail construction and such nonconsumer activities. It is acceptable not to kill spruce where it encroaches on a park or to haul in materials to service crews on work like cutting spruce or repairing dams, etc. With proper planning, these activities could be arranged for at a time when no one's solitude would be rudely interrupted.

In summary, wilderness should be protected from man-caused interference, but not protected from natural occurrences. In management we must strive for a balance between the management of the people, the vegetation and the wildlife so that there can be a free interplay of the forces of nature. I believe that to keep the natural condition means to attempt to achieve a balance of the various facets of the ecosystem. There will then be a place for all the truly native species of wildlife as well as a balance in the vegetative types and disclimaxes. The proper habitat will be found for the wildlife to promote the enjoyment of the people.

Management for wildlife values should be high, for what is wilderness without wildlife? I believe that the management must be kept on a consistent level for all the users and their types of use.

Fred W. McDonald

Funeral services for Fred W. McDonald of Capitan were held in the Angus Community Church June 11 with the Rev. James Wells officiating.

McDonald, 59, died at Carrizozo June 7 after a short illness.

A graveside service was held by Carrizozo Lodge No. 30 of the International Order of Odd Fellows, John Ferguson officiating.

Money worries?

Try this budget

Money is often the biggest worry of retirement because it often means living on less. As an aid to making retirement income cover needs, the U. S. Department of Agriculture offers a bulletin, "A Guide to Budgeting for the Retired Couple."

The guide offers suggestions on listing expenses and income. In addition, it realistically points out the need for an emergency fund. While helpful to those already retired, the bulletin offers planning advice for those who will retire within the next few years.

To reduce expenses, retired couples may have to change their style of living. For some it may require a second career. For many it means moving to an area where living expenses are less expensive. Small cities are usually less costly than large ones and the South is generally less expensive than the North.

It is available from the Bulletin Office, New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, 88001. Ask for Home and Garden Bulletin No. 194. The guide may also be found in your county agent's office.

Daily forest fee necessary

The U. S. Forest Service has announced that because Congress has not yet acted on an annual permit-for-use-of-developed recreation areas, it will be necessary to continue use of daily permits.

The daily permit for use of camp and picnic areas on the National Forest throughout Arizona and New Mexico is $1 per day for each non-commercial vehicle. The only exceptions are seven, highly developed areas where the fee is $2.

The announcement said the permits were available at the entrance to each camp or picnic area from self-service dispensers. It is the responsibility of users to obtain a permit and display or run the risk of a fine. Patrolmen will not sell the permits.

The $2 areas are Fawn Lakes and Columbine on the Carson National Forest, Bonito and Pinegrove on the Coconino, Mesa Campground on the Gila, Lynx Lake on the Prescott and Pondersoa on the Tonto.

CONTESTANT SCORES - Mrs. Thelma Apgar (right), one of the leaders in The Lincoln County NEWS $1,200 subscription contest, is showing the product to Mrs. Floyd Siegrist, Carrizozo, and bought a three-year renewal from Mrs. Apgar.

This sale helped swell Mrs. Apgar's point totals with 100,000 points for her effort, and she looks well pleased with her sale. This and other photos picture contestants at work in the current $1,200 NEWS subscription contest.

Ecology: Youth camp

Principles of ecology and the management of timber, wildlife, rangeland and recreation will be discussed at the 1972 Youth Conservation Camp near Cloudercroft Aug. 7-11. This camp is sponsored by the New Mexico Section Society for Range Management for boys and girls 14 to 18 years old who are interested in natural resource management.

This year's camp will be conducted at the Scott Able 4-H Camp 30 miles southeast of Cloudercroft. Total enrollment will be limited to 40 campers.

The purpose of the camp is to arouse the natural curiosity of youth to develop an appreciation and understanding of range management's role in the conservation, management and protection of our natural resources, says Robert Steger, extension range management specialist at New Mexico State University.

Attendance fees at the camp will be $35 per person. In the past, this cost has been paid for by sponsors in the various counties of the state, Steger said. Transportation, which is not included in the fee, must be provided by the camper.

Application and details for the camp are available at county extension offices. Deadline for application is June 30.

An outstanding camper, to be selected at the end of the camp, will represent the New Mexico Section as the Range Youth Forum delegate at the society's annual meeting in February of 1973, at Boise, Idaho. Expenses for the delegate will be paid by the New Mexico section.

Banker elect Roswell's Clark

LAS CRUCES - James A. Clark, president of the Security National Bank of Roswell, was elected vice-president of the New Mexico Bankers Association at the Association's 61st Annual Convention in Las Cruces, June 8-10.

Clark, who has served as president of Security National since 1964, last year was named a director and member of the executive committee of the First New Mexico Bankshare Corporation.

Claude E. Leyendecker, president of the Mimbres-Valley Bank in Deming, was elected president of the association.

Leyendecker, who has been serving as vice president of NMBA, also serves on the board of directors of Public Service Company of New Mexico and is president of the Kingdom of the Sun Retirement Center.

From 1956 to 1958, he was editor of the New Mexico Farm and Ranch Magazine, and in 1955 and 1956 was Director of Education and Research for the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau.

What's known about Medicare?

Medicare like Ecology, has become a household word, but how much does the average person know about it? Who is eligible? How much does it cost? When does it become effective after application? What medical services and supplies are covered? These are just a few of the questions asked daily of social security representatives in southeastern New Mexico.

Mrs. Christine Graves, social security field representative, suggests that anyone who is interested in the answers to these questions should pick up a copy of "Your Medicare Handbook", a very helpful booklet available free of charge from any social security office. This handbook explains the basic benefits offered by Medicare. Complicated circumstances involved in illness or injury should be discussed with a social security representative.

A visit or telephone call to the nearest social security office will provide solutions to most Medicare problems.

Mrs. Graves may be contacted at the County Commissioner's Room, Lincoln County Court House in Carrizozo, the fourth Wednesday of each month from 10 a.m. to noon.

IRS restores Form W-2 rules

ALBUQUERQUE - The Internal Revenue Service has restored the requirement that employers provide Forms W-2 to former employees within 30 days after final wages are paid.

The requirement had been suspended last year while the Congress was considering legislation that would affect social security information also entered on the form. While that legislation was being considered, printing of the new forms was delayed. The delay in printing the forms led to the temporary suspension of the 30-day requirement.

Since action has not been completed on the proposed legislation, IRS has decided to go ahead with the printing of W-2 forms reflecting the current law. Supplies of the form are now available at IRS offices.

IRS said employers should furnish Forms W-2 to former workers on or before July 5.

IRS said employers should furnish Forms W-2 to former workers on or before July 5, if final wages were paid on or before June 5. For employees whose employment is terminated after June 5, W-2's should be furnished not later than 30 days after final wages are paid.

Revenue Procedure 72-19, which authorized the suspension, will be modified to reflect the reinstatement of the requirement as of June 5. This revenue procedure will appear in cumulative bulletin 1972-1 which contains all revenue rulings and procedures for the first six months of 1972, they said.

HEROES, HEXES AND HAUNTED HALLS, by Gilberto Espinosa. Calvin Horn Publisher, Inc., Albuquerque, 1972. 48 pages, $6.

"Heroes, Hexes and Haunted Halls" is a new book by Gilberto Espinosa, of Albuquerque, published last week by regional publisher Calvin Horn.

The book is a small collection, only 48 pages, of writings of the Albuquerque historian and attorney, but has been announced by the publishing firm as a "unique publishing event" because of the character of the collected items. Featured in the collection is the Spanish folk ballad "Los Comanches", written in the 1700s

books

When the Comanches were making raiding expeditions into New Mexico from the Plains. The poem played so important a part in the lives of the early colonists that it was adapted to a folk play that was presented annually in northern New Mexico for 200 years. During that period there were no printed copies. The only versions of the play in existence were in Spanish and had been hand-copied. Mr. Espinosa has translated the ballad into prose-poem style. It recites the story of the battle between heroic Comanches and the victorious Spanish soldiers.

Other chapters in the book include an account of a haunted rectory, a free-for-all at a village "baile", a strange hex murder, and an account of an unusual Penitente experience in a northern New Mexico chapel.

This is a valuable, if relative modest, addition to writings of this area. This reviewer has but one small quarrel: the use of the word "hexes" in the title.

Hex is a Pennsylvania Dutch word, a corrupted German-root word. It puts us off a little, it's use having no feet in Nuevo Mexico soil.

MONUMENT TO FEAR -- One of the most fascinating reminders of the past in Village Press Land is the ruined mission at Quarai. Founded in 1629, the remains of the old church are the most imposing left of the "Cities that Died of Fear." Its stone walls, once more than 60 feet high, are five to six feet thick and now stand about 20 feet high. This was a church at a Tiwa Indian pueblo abandoned somewhere between 1671 and 1680 when it was cut off by Apaches. It was made a state monument in 1935. Quarai is situated near Highway 10 about 10 miles northwest of Mountainair in Torrance County. Below, a picnic ground near the monument.

"Our Western Heritage" will be the theme of the estimated $250,000 art exhibit which will feature noted western artists Charles M. Russell, Frederick Remington, Frank Tenney Johnson, Harry Jackson, E. Irving Couse, James Waller, Harold Von Schmidt, Olaf Weighorst, A.D.M. Cooper and Carl Link.

The American Cattlemen's Conference will feature six panels of 88 prominent agriculturalists who will apply their expertise in the areas of consumerism, marketing, reproduction, growth, size and beef cattle, shows. Each panel will incorporate the use of a new interaction technique developed for this meeting.

The 'wilderness' concept: a pair of views

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Late last year, before the New Mexico Academy of Sciences, Walter E. Taylor of the US Forest Service at Albuquerque, presented a paper titled "Man and Wilderness -- Peaceful Coexistence." And William S. Huey of the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish offered another, "Wilderness Statement." Because a deadline nears -- June 30 -- on which the Wilderness Act of 1964 will begin to become operative and thousands of acres of land in New Mexico's National Forests may be recommended to the Secretary of the Interior for redesignation as wilderness, The Village Press offers here the Taylor and Huey views. Other views will follow. -- LJ)

Taylor

Every history written to record man's activities on earth contains accounts of his conquest of the wilderness. Most of his efforts at conquest have been directed toward producing the basic essential needs for existence. Some have been to exploit or "open-up" the country and perhaps by so doing to abate the fear of the unknown, the threat to his security.

acre basis, this reduces to only about 2.4 acres per visitor day. In itself this is not alarming. But consider that almost all this use took place on less than 10% of this total area -- on and along trails, around lakes and streams, at entry points, and in the popular campsite areas. Now, the ratio becomes drastically reduced to only about .25 acres per visitor day. This use, continuing unchecked, will lead to destruction of the very thing the visitor seeks.

Who, for instance, stops to consider the fragility of the site or ecosystem he will visit; the effect of solitary, periodic, or prolonged vegetation trampling on low-growing plants; forest productivity in relation to firewood consumption for the tiny cooking flame or roaring campfire to sit before and meditate; impacts of the use of pack animals -- the effects of their browsing, trampling, and defecation on plant vigor, soil erosion and soil fertility; the effects of human waste disposal on soil chemistry; plant and soil shading by camp appurtenances; or even repeated visits to the same area by successive visitors?

both the prosaic and romantic values of wilderness. Destruction of the wilderness may be looked upon as progress. Although the works of man may be duplicated or replaced, the works of God are imitable. What there is left of wilderness must be nurtured and protected lest it too be lost.

Acceptance of strict user regulation, in areas supposed to be free of such mundane things, will come hard to many people. Those organizations, clubs, and agencies which foster the concept of wilderness may be the most reluctant to accept this basic tenet. Our first job, then, is one of education of the American people as to what wilderness really is. This must be followed by the development and implementation of management practices which will insure the compatibility of use with wilderness. Such management must be sensitive enough to the needs of the people and the need for preservation of the wilderness environment that further loss of the wilderness resource is not sustained.

They are deserving of a pat on the back.

Tony Payton in House race

GRDNERVILLE, NEV.-- Republican Congressional candidate David Towell has named former Nevada newspaper publisher Tony Payton to manage his campaign for Nevada's single seat in the United States House of Representatives.

Payton is the son of Village Press publisher Paul W. Payton.
Towell said Payton will have over-all charge of the state-wide campaign—from fund-raising and organizational efforts to press relations and scheduling.

"I feel extremely fortunate in having a man with professional state wide campaign experience directing my Congressional bid," Towell said.

Payton was a full-time staff member in Ed Fike's 1970 gubernatorial campaign. He was in charge of all press relations in the 16 Nevada counties north of Las Vegas, as well as coordinator of all campaign activities in the state's 15 rural counties.

In addition, he has been active in GOP political circles and in state wide campaigns since 1966.
Payton, 31, is the former co-publisher and editor of The Record-Courier in Gardnerville and The Lovelock Review-Miner. He was a member of the board of directors of the Nevada State Press Association for five years and during the administration of Governor Paul Laxalt was a member of the Nevada Magazine editorial advisory board.

For the past year Payton has been free-lance writing from his home in Genoa, Nev.

It is raining gently . . .

Monday June 20th. It is raining gently, as it has a couple of times this week and we have had 4 tenths of an inch of rain. It does not seem like much but it is general in our vicinity and it does cleanse the atmosphere and helps the grass, vegetation and we people. Just to live in it is something grand and each little drop of moisture; how grateful we are. There was lots of lightning and thunder last night. The lightning struck a large cottonwood tree on west edge of the shopping center in town. It really tore out big splinters. Its power is great and truly does make we little human beings, realize how great is nature.

There has been heavier rains around us but ours may come after these lighter showers that prepare the soil to take it.

At Gateway Shopping area Sunday just after noon Sunday it rained hard for 45 minutes with hail the size of a pea. Upper Ruidoso had only a very light shower. It is good to know there is rain and that we should value and appreciate it.

Friday and Saturday I went to Ruidoso and down the Ruidoso Valley to Hondo returned via Lincoln. Though the sun was bright we did have a light shower while enroute. Saturday I went down Hondo Valley to Riverside and what a beautiful day. I went thru showers of good rain several times. I had two great days and really enjoyed all of the lovely people.

I stopped at the Silver Dollar. What a great business and how they have to work. They have great help and good coordination and everyone that comes in and there are many, many, all leave happy and desire to return. It certainly is a nice place. The hospitality is grand. Thanks to Mr. Parham, Mr. Higgins, Nethaway, Hill, Proctor and Talley for joining our circle of readers. I wish you much joy and many happy hours of reading with us.

Also all of the new and renewals in that valley and the others as well.

I met Alta at Alta's Trading Post Saturday. A lovely lady. She has Alta's Gift Shop on North Main in Roswell and Alta's Trading Post number one in downtown Roswell. The one at Hondo is number two. She knows many from our vicinity and is glad to join us in reading about us and our country. She likes it here.

Mr. E. M. (Shorty) Hill and his wife at Riverside Rancho were glad to see me too. He is not well as he had a fall over one year ago and it is hard for him to walk. He is in great pain and uses a cane. I wish you a complete recovery Mr. Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clements were gracious hosts to me and I enjoyed my few moments with them. Mr. Clements is confined to the bed just now due to back injuries and arthritis. I wish you a good recovery too.

A stop at Frank Tisworth, I learned that Allen Tisworth in Wisor, Mo. is very seriously ill. Frank and Mora left Sunday morning to be with him. Allen is a son of the late George A. Tisworth. A very nice person. I wish him a good recovery. Mr prayers are for all of the sick and injured.

I visited Mrs. Floyd (Gladys) Hale and her lady friend Susan Kerr of Booneville, Ark. They were enjoying the cool of the beautiful evening in that beautiful yard of roses and other flowers and lots of shade. Mrs. Kerr comes out each year and enjoys life in her trailer for the summer months. I learned that John Paul Holland, a business man of Roswell who was killed with two other business men in the plane crash out of Corona, is a nephew of Mrs. Louise Coe. The other two men were John W. Karnett and Jack W. Tolleson. My sympathy goes to their families.

A short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Jess Harris at Ruidoso Downs and they too joined us as subscribers. They had just returned from eight days vacation in Oklahoma. They drove to Roswell and then traveled via plane to Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Claremore. They visited relatives and the high lights of their trip was the Will Rogers Memorial. They had a great time. Saturday just before my arrival there had been a hard rain there and they were very thrilled as it was one that gave lots of good moisture.

Mayme C. Perry is visiting her children in Albuquerque at this time.

I visited Gallery 121 in Tinnie near the Silver Dollar, at Tinnie Mercantile, Roswell Gallery 121 has opened a branch there. It is of great interest. Most of the Artists represented are from the southwest. They handle old pawn Indian jewelry too. Cary Kunzman was charming and I enjoyed her so much and thank her for joining us. I am certain she will enjoy our paper.

I have visited the delightful LaPlacita Shop in Lincoln. What a fine and interesting place. Those ladies spin, weave and promote wool. You are missing something if you fail to go there.

I had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. H. F. Burkstaller in Nogal. She and her husband who is a tennis pro have purchased Driver Orchard and property. They are putting in a tennis camp for children 11 to 15 years. It starts July 1. Board, room and instructions are provided for two weeks. I know they will be successful and I do wish them the very best.

Clark Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Taylor, of Lincoln, made the Dean's List at the N. M. State University in Las Cruces with 3 point five average.

Mrs. C. C. Pryor who made Biscuit Hill Cafe and business with her good food, is now 84 years old. She has had a long illness but is coming out of it nicely and able to be in the business and enjoy watching the others and helping where she can. I wish you a very good recovery and many happy years.

Mrs. Robert Leslie sold her home in Carrizozo and purchased a home near her sister in Roswell. It was good to visit with her election day as she voted and then went to Roswell. She will come to her ranch often.

Guests of Mrs. Doris Pounds' last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Doomer and grandmother of Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn McDonald and his sister Patsy and many others.

We did lose a valuable and wonderful citizen in death last Wednesday, Mr. Fred McDonald, and he was laid to rest at Angus Cemetery Sunday afternoon. Fred was a very good man and was loved by all who knew him. My sympathy goes to his nice family.

Mr. Bob Baty was killed while on duty on the State Highway between Roswell and Lovington Wednesday afternoon and was laid to rest in the Tinnie Cemetery Saturday afternoon.

Weekend guest of Frances Peralta last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Chavez and family of Grants.

Last weekend guests of Travis Werner of Capitan and Hattie Phillips of Lincoln were their children Mr. and Mrs. John Werner and four children of Santa Fe.

Janie Randle of Las Cruces spent last weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dean, Sr. and her son, Joe Paul.

Mr. Harold Dean and daughter Sally Ann of Bingham spent last Sunday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean.

Sandy Bell returned home last week after four days in the Ruidoso Hospital with serious butane gas leak burns which was touched off by electricity at the cabin of his in-laws in Paradise Canyon on the Ruidoso. He was a lucky man of which we are so happy to know. Just to have him back with us and able to have his health with his lovely wife and son, Elaine is our first grade teacher and a good one. I wish you continued health Sandy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brovold and two children of Denver, Colo. spent one week with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Adams.

I learned today that the grandson of Mr. Kudner has purchased the O-Bar-O Ranch. More will follow later.

Miss Jamie Nethaway went to San Diego last week and arrived safely to spend some time with her sister Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Pfingsten. Pete was in Vietnam and was injured recently in an explosion.

Mr. and Mrs. James Nethaway after they cast their vote went to Farmington last Tuesday to visit their son Mr. and Mrs. Skip Nethaway and returned Thursday.

The three little children of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hill of near Lincoln at Henry Sanchez place are now spending some time with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hill in Artesia. I had the pleasure of meeting them a week ago when my pickup very conveniently had a break down as I was starting to go on the highway at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nethaways and no one was home there so I walked to Hills and there did find the help I needed. Mrs. Ceil Chaffins gave me a ride to Capitan, Avon and all and from there I did get another and made the day very pleasantly. The pickup was home by Monday night and has been repaired and all is well again. Mrs. Hill was so gracious and kind to me. I did appreciate that.

Frank and Jean Brake and daughter Debbie of Ashobuela, Ohio came thru Capitan on the way to Tucson, Arizona and visited friends here. They attended church here when he was stationed at Red Canyon a few years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy LaMay became the proud parents of a son June 4 at the Ruidoso hospital.

Name and other information will follow at later date.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Guck of Nogal were Capitan business visitors last Monday. We always appreciate seeing them.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Benfer and three children spent last weekend in Magdalena. Report a good time.

Guests of Mayor and Mrs. Jay Johnston recently were her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Alexander. Her sister, Mrs. Marcelle Magness and two daughters for two weeks, all of Elmer, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Beddoe enjoyed their children as guests last weekend they were Mr. and Mrs. Harley Jobe III, of Genoa, Nevada.

I made a business trip to Carrizozo last Wednesday and enjoyed traveling in the rain. It was also raining in Nogal. Certainly was refreshing and relaxing.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greene and two sons of Las Cruces arrived last Thursday to help her mother Eleanor Jones, celebrate her birthday and anniversary too. What a happy day for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones. I wish you many more very happy and healthy birthday and anniversaries Eleanor and Charles.

Something new has been added in Capitan. A very pretty bank sign has been installed not too far from the highway entrance of our bank. It is very nice.

The old drug store corner is nearly finished with the debris being taken away. Soon all of the old landmark will be gone. A clean and cleared corner. The Ceramic Shop shows very clearly with its lovely sign and the potted flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stone have painted their home a very pretty yellow with white trim. Looks nice.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pepper did enjoy a nice visit with Mrs. Hattie Lucy who called on them a few days ago. They do love to have their many friends call on them as they are unable to get out much.

Mrs. Neva Petross and her mother mother, Mrs. Dola Stapps of Claunch made a business trip to Carrizozo and I did have the pleasure of visiting with them during the dinner hour at the Coffee Cup. She stated it is very dry there with them. It was pretty for a while though was dry then. Perhaps they are getting rain too. They are encouraged that perhaps a highway will be constructed thru Claunch and Gran Quivira area.

The new highway near Glencoe was going good. There was a slide of a number of feet near the top of the mountain above the new highway. They closed that part until such time when they have the money and know what to do about it. They said there was a cave there that caused it. The heavy equipment was working at the time and they had to scramble to get out of the way. Therefore the detour must be used. It is in good condition. It is a good highway.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harris of Hollywood were guests of Mrs. Maude Kingston and Miss Lou Harris last Sunday afternoon. Their daughter Tracie is in Santa Fe with Rainbow for girls. She received a state appointment.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw spent last weekend in Clovis with daughter Daine, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Riska.

It is the mixing of good things together that produce a good thing . . . of a good place. No cook worth his salt forgets his salt when composing a stew -- or forgets pepper, a handful of savory onion, a dollop of spices, a pinch of garlic -- so that what happens is a carefully orchestrated whole. A good thing. Just so with Capitan -- a good place. Because Capitan is no single thing, but a pot pourri of several good things . . . The sweet combination of village and rural life. Clean air and blue skies. We of Big Country especially are taken with the friendly people. They sure do make shopping or an evening out a pleasure. Though the Village is small (that's a plus, too, no traffic problem), it certainly doesn't lack conveniences

We have three very good restaurants -- The Branding Iron, Smokey Bear, El Paisano. And two old-fashioned western bars -- Branding Iron Saloon and the Rusty Anchor. We have a friendly home, grocery, a modern, well-stocked supermarket, hardware store. And recently some nice folks opened some new places, really unusual for a small town. We know there will be more shops as people discover Capitan and its way of life -- but we believe that growth here can be selective, carefully planned to maintain Capitan as that combination of special qualities adding up to a good place. That's the way we're planning Big Country . . . carefully, with wide space and sweet air and a big, wide-lens view of New Mexico's mountains. All for a small number of very special homeowners who want to be a part of Capitan -- a good place, made up of many good things.

Opera season opening at SF

SANTA FE—The Santa Fe Opera will open its 16th season of six operas July 7 with "The Grand Duchess of Gerolstein," a score by Jacques Offenbach complete with live fireworks.

The opera, sung in French, has a humorous running commentary in English that makes the work an excellent one to introduce newcomers to the opera scene.

The second production of the season, Giacomo Puccini's, "Madame Butterfly," will be conducted by the general director of the opera, John Crosby, with a wardrobe of flowing colorful Japanese period costumes by Rouben Ter-Arutunian.

The opera does a Mozart score every year, a series that has been notable for capturing the Mozartian spirit and putting the operas of that composer back into the active repertoire. This season, "Don Giovanni" will be staged in a new production that will be conducted by Edo de Waart.

The only opera of Debussy, "Pelleas and Melisande" will be presented for the first time this year under the direction of Bliss Hebert, who has a long string of successful productions at Santa Fe.

One of the great current interpretations of Herod is credited to Ragnar Ulfung, who will appear in that role during the performance of "Salome" by Richard Strauss this summer. This opera, which has been a favorite with Santa Fe audiences, will be sung in German and will have equally strong casting in the other major roles.

Always a highlight of an opera season at Santa Fe is a premiere production, this year's a work by a young German composer, Albrecht Reimann. His opera, "Melusine," was performed with considerable success in Europe last year and will have its American premiere during August at Santa Fe. "Melusine" will be performed in English.

A brochure describing the 1972 season and containing detailed ticket information is available from local Chambers of Commerce, opera guild members or can be requested by writing directly to the business office of the opera, P. O. Box 2408, Santa Fe, New Mexico and the cost of building the new theatre and to build a cash reserve fund needed to break the cycle of cash flow crises that have afflicted not only the Santa Fe Opera, but all major performing arts organizations in the country.

SANTA FE—As the July 7 opening date for the 1972 season of the Santa Fe Opera approaches, activity is reaching a high pitch not only at the opera theatre but also in the fund drive that supports the company.

William L. Weinrod, president of the Opera Association of New Mexico, which is responsible for funding the Santa Fe Opera, announced that $325,000 must be raised from individual and business donors if the financial requirements of the Ford Foundation and the season are to be met successfully.

The stature of the opera company, which is world renowned, and the prestige of the Ford Foundation grant have developed considerable new financial support for the Santa Fe Opera from many areas of the nation.

Since 1967, more than $2 million has been raised outside New Mexico in support of the Santa Fe Opera and each year, it has been estimated, $4 million is turned into the New Mexico economy from the combined expenditures of the Opera, its staff, and tourists.

Tax deductible donations of any size can be made directly to the Opera Association of New Mexico at P. O. Box 2408, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87501, with credit for the contribution going to the local fund-drive effort.

Money worries? Try this budget

Money is often the biggest worry of retirement because it often means living on less. As an aid to making retirement income cover needs, the U. S. Department of Agriculture offers a bulletin, "A Guide to Budgeting for the Retired Couple."

The guide offers suggestions on listing expenses and income. In addition, it realistically points out the need for an emergency fund. While helpful to those already retired, the bulletin offers planning advice for those who will retire within the next few years.

To reduce expenses, retired couples may have to change their style of living. For some it may require a second career. For many it means moving to an area where living expenses are less expensive. Small cities are usually less costly than large ones and the South is generally less expensive than the North.

It is available from the Bulletin Office, New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, 88001.

Kennecott Unions Seek Governor's Assistance

Employees Want Clean Air, But Oppose "Unnecessarily Strict" Standards

The following letter was sent to the Honorable Bruce King, Governor of New Mexico. Its publication in the New Mexico press was requested by officials of the eight unions which represent the employees of the Chino Mines Division, Kennecott Copper Corporation.

June 7, 1972

Honorable Bruce King, Governor
State of New Mexico
Santa Fe, New Mexico 87501

Dear Governor:

During the past few days we have noticed several news stories in the local press dealing with New Mexico's air quality standards. Such developments are somewhat alarming and we think you should know our feelings.

We are vitally concerned with the future operation of the Kennecott smelter because of its direct economic impact on the 1200 employees we represent and the other thousands of people who are equally affected. We want clean air, but we have to protect the income of our people. Both can only be accomplished with reasonable standards. We, therefore, oppose unnecessarily strict regulations.

The item in these early reports that concerns us is the part dealing with sulfur oxide emission standards along the southern border of New Mexico. The newspapers say that this concerns only one installation, and that is the Kennecott smelter at Hurley.

Kennecott's planned expenditure of 18 plus million dollars for new pollution control equipment has been reviewed in detail with us. In fact, the company received bids and was preparing to let contracts before the Federal Government stepped in.

It is our understanding that our present regulations were subjected to a detailed examination at public hearings. We feel it is unreasonable for New Mexico to change now that pollution control projects are getting under way, and urge that as a state we stand firm behind the decisions of our agency and the Environmental Improvement Board.

We know there are pressures by so-called "environmentalists" to make the laws as strong as possible — in some cases, unreasonably so. We think it is time to give equal weight to the opinions of the people who live and work here.

In this connection, we believe that the employees we represent should at least be afforded the opportunity to participate directly in future hearings which affect the Hurley smelter. This has not been possible in the past since hearings have always been held in Santa Fe. We, therefore, request that any future hearings concerning the smelter be held in Grant County, possibly Hurley or Silver City.

We know you will appreciate our concern about these current developments. We also know we can count on you to see that our interests are taken into consideration in future deliberations.

Yours very truly,

(Signed)
