Artist enchanted with Tulie basin

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE - A transplanted New Mexican is heading East to his native Ohio this summer with buckaroos, wild cattle, stallions and other memorabilia of this area's cowboy glory days garnered during a 19-year round-up on the Southwest plains.

William A. Stevens, 51, an Alamogordo artist who devotes almost as much time painting local subjects as he does at his job as a management analyst at nearby White Sands Missile Range, plans to bring a western atmosphere to a series of art shows in the Buckeye state.

He plans to participate in other shows, too, on his Eastern trek. His first show began Saturday, July 1, at the Desert Aire Motor Hotel in Alamogordo. The show, sponsored by the Desert Arts League, will feature about 25 paintings, all of which will be offered for sale.

Stevens' purpose is to underscore the desert's scenic splendor for his Ohio neighbors.

"When I first came down here in 1953, I had no idea the desert and surrounding area would be so beautiful," the artist explains. "I know people who have never been here must have some idea from movies and television, but maybe I can make it a little more real."

Stevens' quest as a painter has been to record as much of the dying west as possible. Windmills, deserted ranch buildings, stock tanks, wild horses, and the men who worked them, most often appear in his work.

"These are still a part of the great Southwest," Stevens claims, "but one doesn't run across these subjects as readily as he used to. Modernization is taking over so fast, I want to capture these scenes before they become extinct."

The man who studied art at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio, is enchanted with the Tularosa Basin in which he now lives.

'Cloud Country' expansion begins; 2,000 new mountain homes planned

by KATE GRAW
Village Press Staff

CLOUDCROFT - "Cloud Country" - the new corporation which recently acquired the historic Lodge Hotel and other Lodge properties - has announced the kicking off of a $50 million, four-phase program that will, when completed, add approximately 2,000 year-around homes to this Sacramento Mountain resort community.

Announcement of the building program came a recent meeting at the Lodge of the new organization's board of directors and followed ratification by the board of the new entity's officers.

President of Cloud Country is C. W. (Buddy) Ritter of Cloudcroft. Chairman of the board is Jack Stahl of Albuquerque. William C. Schauer of Alamogordo was named secretary, John Petty of Albuquerque, treasurer.

Board members, in addition to the officers, are T. A. Bonnell of Alamogordo, and Charles Roth and Scott Johnson of Denver, Colo.

Attorney John Conway of Alamogordo was named legal counsel to the new corporation.

Ritter told The Village Press "the project is one of the largest of its kind in the state" and added that "dollars involved will surpass $50 million."

Ritter said the keys to success for the big project include "the financial strength of the individuals involved and their expertise in the field." He added:

"Our recreational facilities are here and our people really know what they are doing."

The board ordered the undertaking of the first phase of what it sees as a four-phase development. Target for first-phase development involves two tracts about nine miles east of Cloudcroft on U. S. Highway 82.

On tract is property known here for many years as the V.I.V. farm, about 550 acres along both sides of the highway, fronting on the highway for more than a mile and bordered on the east by Burgett Floral.

The second tract is directly south of the highway in a band about 5,000 feet long of which 200 acres has been devoted to recreational activities.

Half-acre residential lots are being laid out to the east of the recreational area and on land west of the highway.

Engineering is underway, Ritter said, on a central water system with a storage capacity of 1.5 million gallons.

As soon as sufficient residences are built, a central sewage system will be constructed.

All utility facilities will be underground. And 12 miles of all-weather roads planned in first-phase construction will wind so as to avoid the necessity for cutting trees.

Ritter said that "lot owners will be provided with the Southwest's most diversified and luxurious year-round resort activities on a membership basis."

"Membership will afford families and their guests access to the facilities of the Lodge, the ski area, the golf course, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, tennis centers, horse boarding stables, snowmobiles, fishing in the pond or the well-stocked, million-gallon trout lake.

"The few recreational facilities not already existing will be completed in the next few months."

Ritter said he expected to be able to offer lots for sale by September. He predicted the overall program will mean "rapid economic growth for Cloudcroft as well as the surrounding area - including Tularosa and Cloudcroft."

Ritter said he was confident of the success of the Cloud Country operation.

"Financial strength is the key," he said; "when you look at the people involved, you know we can deliver what we promise."

"Ted Bonnell, who controls the state's largest bank holding company, is one of our directors. Bill Hooten, Jack Stahl and John Petty are managing members of the state's largest real estate firm, Hooten-Stahl, Inc., of Albuquerque - and they did over $30 million in sales last year.

"Western Empire Financial, headed by Charles Roth of Denver, manages life insurance and mutual fund assets in excess of $60 million."

He said his associates' talents include Bonnell's reputation as one of the southwest's experts in short-term finance, Hooten-Stahl as leaders in real estate sales and that Roth is a long-term financial expert.

But Cloud Country's major asset, Ritter said, is its already-existing recreational facilities - the 70-year-old golf course and the other recreation-oriented facilities.

He called "Cloud Country the most exciting thing I have ever been a part of."

Killing lion, bear expensive

The total payment of fines, court costs and civil damages stemming from the illegal killing and possession of a bear and a mountain lion in the Capitan area has now risen to $1,100.

A total of $300 in fines and court costs have been paid by a Dallas, Tex. man after he pled guilty to charges brought about by his part in these violations. Two Capitan men had already paid $800 in fines, court costs and civil damages after pleading guilty to charges brought about by the incidents.

Bob E. Morton of Dallas entered a guilty plea in Bill Payne's Magistrate Court to charges of illegal possession of a bear and a mountain lion. He was fined $140 plus $10 court costs on each of the two charges by Magistrate Payne.

Ray Clark a Capitan Mountains rancher, and Tom Chaffins of Capitan, had pleaded guilty previously to taking a bear out of season and Clark pleaded guilty to an additional charge of taking a mountain lion out of season.

Payne fined each of those men $140 plus $10 court costs on the bear charges and assessed a fine of $90 and $10 court costs against Clark on the mountain lion charge. The two men agreed voluntarily to civil damage assessments filed by Department of Game and Fish officers in the amount of $300 for the mountain lion and $100 for the bear.

The charges were filed after an extensive investigation, covering a period of about 30 days, by department personnel on the district level as well as personnel from the Southeast Area Office in Roswell and the Department's Wildlife Enforcement Division, with the cooperation of U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service Agent Larry Glover.

Forest Service permits needed

ALBUQUERQUE - The Forest Service announced that daily permits still are necessary for use of designated recreation charge areas on National Forest lands.

Congress has not yet reinstated the "Golden Eagle" passport program.

The announcement of the continuing requirement for "user permits" was made to clarify possible misunderstanding about the Interior Department's Interim "National Parklands" and "Golden Age" passports. Permits issued by the National Park Service are valid only at charge areas administered by that agency.

Coltharp will urge that programs, though perhaps successful in the past, if they are not providing a worthwhile benefit to the citizens of the community as a whole, be set aside and new ones be designed to take their places.

"Rotary is a big fellowship," Coltharp will tell the local club, serving through more than 719,000 clubs around the world, "and we must maintain our international reputation of serving our fellowman."

S-S reporting is mandatory

Social security disability beneficiaries should remain alert to their reporting obligations, Mrs. Christine Graves, social security Field Representative, said Wednesday.

Each disabled beneficiary, or the person who receives his social security checks for him, is obligated to notify his social security office when he returns to work. An immediate report may save some hardships later.

He should report when his medical condition improves or if he has been released from a hospital. These conditions do not always mean that the social security checks will be discontinued. However, if a determination is made later that they should have been stopped, a late report would mean an overpayment.

If the worker begins receiving workmen's compensation after he applied for social security disability benefits, this should be reported right away. Workmen's compensation may cause a reduction in the social security checks. If so, it likely will be easier to have the reduction by the month rather than for several months at one time.

Any of these reports may be made by telephoning the nearest social security office.

Mrs. Graves may be seen at the County Commissioner's Room, Lincoln County Court House in Carrizozo, the fourth Wednesday of each month from 10 a.m. to noon.

Bible study Baptist-urged

GLORIETA--"A note of expectance is becoming very evident in Southern Baptist work across the nation," A.V. Washburn, secretary of the Sunday School Department, SBC, told 1,600 leaders and officers attending Sunday School Leadership week here at Glorieta Baptist Assembly.

Emphasizing "people to people" concern, A. V. Washburn challenged laymen and ministers to reach out to the more than six million Baptists who are not involved in Bible teaching as well as the 150 million in the nation who are not enrolled in anyone's Bible study program.

Good plans and materials are necessary, but are never more effective than the leaders who use them. "Nothing will take higher priority than high standards for teachers and leaders," stated Washburn.

Dave Kimpton, minister from New Zealand who has been visiting the United States and other countries, said, "seminaries are good, but that's not where people are hurting." Kimpton decided to take a five-month international tour in place of studying at a seminary.

As pastor for the week, James B. Henry, pastor of the Two Rivers Baptist Church, Nashville, Tenn., said that a Christian wasn't being obedient if he wasn't going forth as a witness to Jesus Christ.

"Thousands and millions without Jesus... we are living in a time when it doesn't seem to make as much difference to us any more," he said.

High nightly sermons centered around "going forth in urgency, in compassion, in the power of the Word of God."

He said "we will never win men to Jesus Christ and penetrate the sin darkness of our generation unless we go in the power of the Word of God."

Concern for the world must begin with concern for the individual, he said. "Work for Christ has always been a 'People to People' affair," added Washburn.

Glorieta Baptist Assembly is located on a 2,500 acre mountain site 18 miles east of Santa Fe.

The assembly, open all year, is owned and operated by the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, Nashville, Tenn.

We understand about saving.

We understand how very important that first savings account is to a small child. How proud he is of every cent he saves. How often he checks his passbook—just to be sure the money is still there!

But it doesn't stop there. We know how important savings are to young couples just getting started. To families with children to educate. To couples entering retirement years.

And we know how much hard work and effort every dollar you save represents. That's why we offer a variety of savings plans. And why we try to make every savings transaction a very special, very pleasant occasion.

We understand about saving. Because... we're people, too!

More than 300 youth and adults are expected to take part in the field day. Anyone interested in Angus cattle is invited to attend, Ljungdahl said.

Corona Extensioners talk cake-decorating

CORONA -- The largest group of members and guests--34 in all--to attend a meeting of the Corona Extension Club in the past few years was present for the regular June 22 meeting.

Juanita Owen and Loretta Proctor were hostesses for the covered dish luncheon. A cake inscribed "Extension Club" was a focal point of the dining table.

After lunch, Martha Proctor gave a demonstration of cake decorating. She explained the various techniques of flower making and other decorations. As part of her demonstration she decorated a white cake with yellow roses. She also decorated a "Bikini" cake. A "Bikini" cake is in the shape of a body with a colorful, dainty Bikini decorated on it.

Lucky Ollie Dee Wade won the "Bikini" cake as the hostess gift. After the demonstration, several members tried their skill at making confection roses.

A number of white shirts were distributed to members to alter for the American Cancer Society. This is one of the club's important community service projects for this year.

S-S reporting is mandatory

Social security disability beneficiaries should remain alert to their reporting obligations, Mrs. Christine Graves, social security Field Representative, said Wednesday.

Each disabled beneficiary, or the person who receives his social security checks for him, is obligated to notify his social security office when he returns to work. An immediate report may save some hardships later.

He should report when his medical condition improves or if he has been released from a hospital. These conditions do not always mean that the social security checks will be discontinued. However, if a determination is made later that they should have been stopped, a late report would mean an overpayment.

If the worker begins receiving workmen's compensation after he applied for social security disability benefits, this should be reported right away. Workmen's compensation may cause a reduction in the social security checks. If so, it likely will be easier to have the reduction by the month rather than for several months at one time.

Any of these reports may be made by telephoning the nearest social security office.

Mrs. Graves may be seen at the County Commissioner's Room, Lincoln County Court House in Carrizozo, the fourth Wednesday of each month from 10 a.m. to noon.

Bible study Baptist-urged

GLORIETA--"A note of expectance is becoming very evident in Southern Baptist work across the nation," A. V. Washburn, secretary of the Sunday School Department, SBC, told 1,600 leaders and officers attending Sunday School Leadership week here at Glorieta Baptist Assembly.

Emphasizing "people to people" concern, A. V. Washburn challenged laymen and ministers to reach out to the more than six million Baptist who are not involved in Bible teaching as well as the 150 million in the nation who are not enrolled in anyone's Bible study program.

Good plans and materials are necessary, but are never more effective than the leaders who use them. "Nothing will take higher priority than high standards for teachers and leaders," stated Washburn.

Dave Kimpton, minister from New Zealand who has been visiting the United States and other countries, said, "seminaries are good, but that's not where people are hurting." Kimpton decided to take a five-month international tour in place of studying at a seminary.

As pastor for the week, James B. Henry, pastor of the Two Rivers Baptist Church, Nashville, Tenn., said that a Christian wasn't being obedient if he wasn't going forth as a witness to Jesus Christ.

"Thousands and millions without Jesus... we are living in a time when it doesn't seem to make as much difference to us any more," he said.

High nightly sermons centered around "going forth in urgency, in compassion, in the power of the Word of God."

He said "we will never win men to Jesus Christ and penetrate the sin darkness of our generation unless we go in the power of the Word of God."

Concern for the world must begin with concern for the individual, he said. "Work for Christ has always been a 'People to People' affair," added Washburn.

Glorieta Baptist Assembly is located on a 2,500-acre mountain site 18 miles east of Santa Fe.

The assembly, open all year, is owned and operated by the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, Nashville, Tenn.

We understand about saving.

We understand how very important that first savings account is to a small child. How proud he is of every cent he saves. How often he checks his passbook—just to be sure the money is still there!

But it doesn't stop there. We know how important savings are to young couples just getting started. To families with children to educate. To couples entering retirement years.

And we know how much hard work and effort every dollar you save represents. That's why we offer a variety of savings plans. And why we try to make every savings transaction a very special, very pleasant occasion.

We understand about saving. Because . . . we're people, too!

Angus 'day' set at fair

LAS CRUCES -- The annual New Mexico Angus Field Day is scheduled for July 15 at the beef cattle barns at state fairgrounds in Albuquerque, according to W. A. Ljungdahl, extension livestock specialist at New Mexico State University.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. for the judging contest. The contest will have awards for junior individuals and junior teams and adult individuals. There will be a type demonstration at 9 a.m. followed by the judging contest and official placings and reasons, Ljungdahl said. The afternoon program will include a showmanship contest to determine New Mexico's representative in the national contest at the All-American Futurity in Kentucky in August. The queen contest will be held to select the young lady who will represent the association at events in the coming year.

More than 300 youth and adults are expected to take part in the field day. Anyone interested in Angus cattle is invited to attend, Ljungdahl said.

ROUND THE BEND -- Whipping 'round the bend -- and a barrel -- at the Smokey Bear Fourth of July Stampede at Capitan -- is Wanda Blackburn of Melrose, one of the bevy of young female riders in this event.

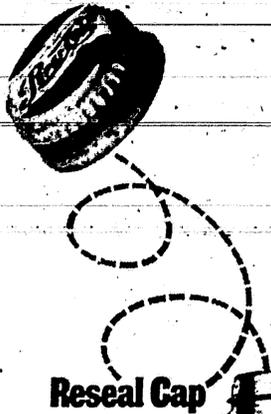

FASTEST BULLDOGGER -- Bill Cradick of Las Cruces had the fastest bulldogging time on the afternoon of the annual Smokey Bear Stampede at Capitan -- 6.6. Bad weather plagued three area rodeos on the Fourth -- at Capitan, Mescalero and White Oaks.

Corona Extensioners talk cake-decorating

CORONA -- The largest group of members and guests--34 in all--to attend a meeting of the Corona Extension Club in the past few years was present for the regular June 22 meeting.

Juanita Owen and Loretta Proctor were hostesses for the covered dish luncheon. A cake inscribed "Extension Club" was a focal point of the dining-table.

After lunch, Martha Proctor gave a demonstration of cake decorating. She explained the various techniques of flower making and other decorations. As part of her demonstration she decorated a white cake with yellow roses. She also decorated a "Bikini" cake. A "Bikini" cake is in the shape of a body with a colorful, dainty Bikini decorated on it.

Lucky Ollie Dee Wade won the "Bikini" cake as the hostess gift. After the demonstration, several members tried their skill at making confection roses.

A number of white shirts were distributed to members to alter for the American Cancer Society. This is one of the club's important community service projects for this year.

Split Democrats head for Miami

SANTA FE — A divided, 18-vote McGovern-Wallace New Mexico delegation will head this weekend for the 4-day National Democratic Convention opening Monday in Miami Beach.

Wallace alternate John Hemery, 62, of Luna County explains why he asserts the Alabama governor's cause. Hemery, an accountant, says: "Very importantly law and order. His stand on what the Supreme Court has done to favor the criminal rather than the victim. My sympathy is with the victim."

"I'm with him on states' rights and the lessening of federal bureaucracy. We should get federal government back to the people or it will fall over. On foreign aid I can't see giving hard-

"We have a lot of problems — tax reform, law and order, the crime rate. I believe in states' rights and individual rights. We seem to have more of them taken away from us every day. We're paying the bills and getting the least out of it."

She said: "I think Castro or Lenin could run quite well on this platform the way it is right now. If we could change it to where it gives us working people a chance and Mr. McGovern would give his pledge to stand behind it, then I would be glad to vote for him."

"Evidently he doesn't care that we have this rising crime business. He seems to be appealing to the minorities. I disagree with this. I believe the Democratic Party should represent the majority."

"We are out for liberty. We should work to win in November. That's my goal." Mrs. Moore was Quay County Wallace chairwoman in the primary campaign. Wallace swamped opponents in Quay County June 6. He polled 1,407 votes to 509 for Humphrey and 411 for McGovern. Mrs. Moore has been a Democrat all her voting life.

earned taxpayers' money to countries that will spit on us.

"I'm with Wallace on foreign aid. I would certainly cut down foreign aid and use that money on domestic issues. I'm with him on defense. We can't afford to cut defense spending to the danger level which I think McGovern is trying to do."

"I'm absolutely against amnesty." Hemery calls South Dakota Sen. George McGovern's $1,000-per-person proposal "a political year gimmick." He says McGovern "knows perfectly well Congress would never accept it."

Hemery, born in British Guiana, backed Wallace in 1968 but could not vote because he was not a U. S. citizen. He became a naturalized citizen in 1970 so he could support Wallace actively. Hemery was Luna County Wallace vice-chairman and treasurer in the primary campaign this year.

Hemery "definitely favors welfare for those who need it." He also supports "giving work to those who are able-bodied, even work in the community." But he says: "I don't believe in giving money to people to just sit around when they are able. There are very definitely abuses going on."

Hemery backs Wallace's tax reform program. He says wealthy people and corporations "don't pay their share." He believes middle income people "are paying more than their fair share of taxes now."

We asked Hemery if New Mexico Wallace and McGovern delegation members share common ground. He says: "It would be pretty nearly impossible to do that. They are diametrically opposed. One is left and the other is right."

"I could personally not ever support McGovern. I would vote for President Nixon if Nixon and McGovern are the presidential candidates." Hemery says Nixon will carry Southern New Mexico if Nixon and McGovern are the presidential nominees.

Wallace carried Luna County and 18 others in the primary June 6. Wallace polled 900 Luna County votes to 493 for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and 456 for McGovern.

Wallace delegate Dortha Moore, 35, of Tucumcari details her Wallace support. Her husband, Charles, is a transport truck driver. Mrs. Moore says: "The first concern is the fact we should be getting people back involved in taking care of their own problems."

THE CLOWNS — Always a source of entertainment — as well as skilled safety-firsters — are the professional rodeo clowns. Here's some clown action at the annual Smokey Bear Stampede at Capitan.

NM private payrolls hiked

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Employment in the private sector of the New Mexico economy totaled 200,292 in March 1971, an increase of 6,551 from March 1970, and payrolls amounted to $290.2 million, up $15 million, according to a report issued this week by the Bureau of the Census, Social and Economic Statistics Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce.

Bernalillo County had the largest employment, 84,661, an increase of 5,466, and payroll, $136 million, up $10.6 million from the year earlier.

We came to stay . . .

Some developers move in, sell out and move on.

Some of them. Not Mohaco.

In 1965 we chose Capitan for its mountains, its clean air, its village atmosphere — and for its beauty.

We chose Capitan as home for our business and as OUR HOME.

We are here to stay. Every place has its problems and Capitan has a few.

Some problems we believe we have helped to solve.

Some problems still exist and we want to help solve them.

There used to be an unsightly garbage dump on beautiful Highway 68. We gave the city a remote land-fill area to be used to dispose of its trash. In fact, Mohaco is building 16 acres to Capitan for this purpose.

We know there is a water storage problem. Mohaco is building two 20,000-gallon storage tanks and has offered the city free use of more land for water storage sites.

We want to help. We have offered to pay for half the cost of water distribution lines, we have offered easements where needed, and we have offered to move the earth for water lines to the development.

Yes, Mohaco is here to stay. We are pledged to develop this beautiful country in such a manner as to be an asset to all the people, new residents and old residents, of Capitan.

The development of Big Country has already spread the individual tax burden and it will make a contribution in the future development of city services.

The developers of Big Country deliberately chose to be a part of Capitan. It would have been possible to provide water and other services without becoming a part of the Village. But we want to be of and for Capitan, to share in its future, to enjoy its historical past and its beauty.

Mohaco has helped with problems in the past and we will help with problems in the future. Just ask us.

Nogal camp meeting set

by MARGARET RENCH

Our town is like a city this holiday. So many people and all so happy. We like this and love to have everyone with us and to enjoy themselves.

The rodeo and dances will be a success as always.

It is cool and partially cloudy this day. It does feel good after the terrific heat we have had of late.

We did have three tenths of an inch of rain one day last week. Each little drop of rain is so appreciated.

I was in Ruidoso Sunday on business and what traffic. It took the police to direct traffic as we enter and leave Ruidoso. It was bumper to bumper miles each way. It was good to arrive safely home after that.

Mattie Thorp of Mentone, Texas arrived Sunday afternoon and stayed at the Smokey Bear Motel until the fifth. She enjoys her vacation at this time as she can see and visit so many of her old friends. I was delighted she spent several hours with me in my home in the evening.

Mr. R. T. Freeland, who is 101 years old, underwent surgery at St. Mary's hospital recently and stayed two weeks and returned home last Wednesday. He is doing just okay and I wish you many more very good years of good health.

Mrs. Ruth Torkelson and her father, Mr. Gust Pederson of Robinson, Kansas spent eight days with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Benfer and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sanchez are proud parents of a daughter born June 25 at the Ruidoso Hospital weighing six pounds. Name is pending.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cozzens are the proud parents of a son born June 15 in Burbank, Calif., weighing eight pounds, twelve ounces. His name is Robert Kenyon, Jr. His two sisters proudly and happily welcomes him.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw happily went to Clovis June 23 to greet their new grand daughter who was born before their arrival that day. Her name is Danielle Leigh and she weighed seven pounds and nine ounces. Her happy parents are Mr. and Mrs. Micheal Riska. The grandparents remained there until Sunday, July 2. They report her as a healthy and beautiful baby.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Darling of Loving, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw. Bud visited other friends as well.

Mrs. Amanda Allen and four children of Globe, Ariz. spent three days last week with her mother Mrs. Trina Ramos. She will return for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Petree and family of Albuquerque spent this holiday at the Smokey Bear Motel and enjoyed the festivities and visited their many friends. His mother, Mrs. Annie Petree of Clovis, joined them Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Beltran of Tularosa became the proud parents of a daughter born June 14, at the Ruidoso hospital. Christina Inez weighed six pounds, eleven ounces. Her aunt is Mrs. Avelina Trujillo.

Holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Goodrich were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bourbon and Leslie and Kathy Shau of Alamogordo.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean spent several days last week with their son Mr. Harold Dean and Sally Ann at Bingham.

Mr. Vernon Payne of San Antonio, Texas spent the weekend of June 23 with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Payne in Carrizozo. They attended a meeting in Ruidoso and had a good visit. He had been there a week before. Vernon, I do thank you for your renewal.

There has been several roofs repaired and repainted this past week. The Laundry was painted a yellow, Virgil's Garage front was painted a light color. Judge Huey's home and garage was painted a beautiful gray with green trim. The Pepper's roof was painted. Many changes have been for the good.

Mrs. Jennie Smith and Mr. Lewis were united in marriage Saturday evening in the Nazarene Church by the Rev. Harold Cartwright, July 1. They will make their home in Florida.

Gary Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Wright was seriously injured last Friday night as he was returning home from his all night work on the Ruidoso on the Nogal road. His pickup which was new was wrecked. He was taken to the Ruidoso hospital. He does not know what happened. I wish you a good recovery.

Sunday, June 25, the Luck family held their annual family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barber at Alto. Those attending were Mrs. B. L. Luck, Clovis, Gracie and Ben England of Midwest City, Okla., Hazel and Bill Mayer of Clovis, Louise and Jerry Pearce of El Paso, Texas, Mary Lou and Cullen Skipper of Ozark, Ala., Reba Jean and Ralph Barber of Alto, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Johnson of Orlando, Fla., Harold and J. B. Clarey of Cissney, Calif.

'Safety Month' set for NM

SANTA FE -- Governor Bruce King has proclaimed the month of July "Symbols for Safety Month" in New Mexico.

In issuing the proclamation, the Governor commended the New Mexico State Highway Department and its personnel for being "leaders in promoting highway safety for the motoring public."

The new signing in New Mexico is in conformance with a new manual on uniform traffic control devices which stresses the need for developing traffic signs which communicate with symbols and not with words.

Governor King and L. G. Boles, State Highway Engineer, have "called upon the traveling public to recognize the existence and meaning of the new signs and symbols" and have urged the New Mexicans to cooperate in the observance of "Symbols for Safety Month" in New Mexico.

Fishing Reports:

Nogal 'weedy' but biggies hit

"Excess vegetation" has cut the fishing take at Nogal Lake in the past week or so - but, says the state Department of Game and Fish - "a few good-sized fish are still being taken."
 Elsewhere in southeastern New Mexico, this was the most recent fishing report:
 Alto, Bonito Lakes, some nice trout taken early a.m. and late p.m. slow during daylight hours. Ruidoso River, good condition. Should furnish good fishing this week.
 Lower Pecos River, Carlsbad, Area, some catfish being taken on trotlines.
 Pecos River, Artesia Area, fishing slow.
 Greenmeadow, Chaparral Lakes, some nice bass being taken. A few good catfish reported. Alamogordo Lake, water level low. Catching a few catfish on waterdogs and minnows.
 In other fishing areas, said the state department, Conchas was yielding crappie, with minnows, and some walleyes were being taken on spinners and with worms. Some bass were reported taken with top-water plugs.
 And at Elephant Butte Reservoir, the catfishing was reported "very good". Also, some bass were being taken. There was no report on what baits or lures were being used for bass.

SBA reports on Spanish-speaking

WASHINGTON -- The Small Business Administration has more than doubled its total Spanish-speaking work force in the past two years, reported a joint task force report issued by President Nixon's Cabinet Committee on Opportunities for Spanish Speaking People and the Small Business Administration (SBA).

The number of Spanish speaking employees at SBA has risen from 2.2 per cent to 5.8 per cent of the total in the period between November, 1969, and November, 1971, not counting employment in Hawaii or Puerto Rico.

The study, executed by Nick Ortiz, Deputy Assistant Administrator for Minority Enterprise at SBA, and Raul Barroso, Associate Director for Economic Development at the Cabinet Committee, examined SBA's Spanish-speaking work force and delivery to the Spanish speaking under the various SBA's programs. SBA has put an emphasis on their Spanish-speaking employment in response to President Nixon's 16 Point Program to aid Spanish-speaking people enter Federal service.

The report also highlighted the substantial progress made by SBA in serving the Spanish-speaking community in recent years. Economic Opportunity Loans approved to Spanish-speaking small businessmen during the first half of fiscal year 1972 increased 470 percent over comparable figures in fiscal year 1969, while regular business loans increased 138 per cent.

In its report to Henry M. Ramirez, Cabinet Committee Chairman, and Thomas S. Kleppe, SBA Administrator, the task force advised SBA to appoint a full-time task force, under the chairmanship of an assistant administrator, to consist of one qualified representative from each of the agency's major operating units, for the purpose of developing an immediate "action plan" aimed at expanding the momentum in small business economic development for the Spanish speaking.

The task force report contains a series of recommendations for possible implementation within the framework of the proposed plan. These include:

Goals for further increase in employment of Spanish-speaking persons for service in federal regions of heavy Spanish-speaking concentrations, and at central headquarters; placement of Spanish-speaking personnel in key programmatic areas; methods of facilitate the upward mobility of Spanish-speaking employees; management clinics and workshops for further dissemination of programmatic information, upgrading the capabilities of Spanish-speaking people for their increased utilization of SBA's programs, and "sensitizing of SBA's personnel as to the needs of the Spanish-speaking communities."

Other recommendations call for the scheduling of an increasing number of compliance reviews in areas of Spanish-speaking concentration; the detail of an SBA Program Development Specialist for duty at the Cabinet Committee; decentralization of the 8-(a) contracting procedures, and actions aimed at expanded financing to Spanish-speaking businessmen by MESBICs and SBICs.

In commenting on the task force report, Chairman Ramirez said:

"This is an excellent report, and both members of the task force, Nick Ortiz and Raul Barroso, ought to be highly commended for it. It paves the way for expanded service by SBA to the Spanish-speaking community which would translate into many millions of dollars, plus scores of jobs upgradings and opportunities.

"Alone, the assurance of equitable awards of 8 (a) contracts to Spanish-speaking small businessmen, would represent an additional twenty million dollars at the present annual rate of total 8 (a) contracts being awarded."

The 'wilderness concept': timber industry view

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Recently The Village Press published two articles from spokesmen for the retention and expansion of the "wilderness" designation and use of National Forest lands. Here is a statement from a spokesman for an opposite view, that of the Western Wood Products Association, an Albuquerque-based organization representing fir and pine timber producers in 12 western states.)

THE ACT:

The Wilderness Act of 1964 defines a wilderness this way: "... An area where the earth and its community of life are untrammeled by man, where man himself is a visitor who does not remain ... an area of undeveloped federal land retaining its primeval character and influences, without permanent improvements or human habitation ..."

THE ACREAGE:

By early 1972, more than 10 million acres of land were included in the nation's legally classified wilderness system. Under terms of the Wilderness Act or public agency regulations, another 103 million acres of roadless federal land are now being studied for possible wilderness designation.

For perspective, existing wilderness now occupies acreage nearly equal to the total land area of Vermont and New Hampshire. Roadless study areas occupy land approximately equal to the acreage in Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

In New Mexico, of all public land ownerships, 89.5 per cent, according to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, is natural environment and available for primitive outdoor recreation use. Only 10.5 percent is devoted to general recreation.

The concept of wilderness is uniquely American. Our history has been shaped by the frontier heritage which promised more land and a new life beyond the setting sun. Perhaps the realization that this heritage has ended, that our land area is limited, accounts of the American desire to set aside wild land for enjoyment today, tomorrow and forever.

HARMONIOUS USE:

Bring mountain to Mohammed?

LAS CRUCES -- Gardening is not limited to those who can stoop and bend with ease. If you cannot reach the ground, bring it up to your height, says Douglas Bryant, extension horticulturist at New Mexico State University. "The trick is to use wooden boxes, large metal pails, plastic buckets or other containers set at easy-to-reach heights. Each container should be at least 12 inches wide and nine inches deep, with wire mesh or holes for drainage," he says.

Set the containers at a convenient height in a sunny spot with a southerly exposure and fill with a mixture of soil, peat and sand. With such an arrangement the elderly, handicapped, or back-bothered person can plant, mulch and water to his heart's content. He can cultivate the soil easily with a garden trowel, or a hand hoe can be made by sawing off most of the handle of a hoe.

"Just about anything can be grown in a garden box," Bryant says. "Lettuce, radishes, onions, beans, peas, tomatoes and other favorite vegetables will grow successfully. Flowers will grow too in boxes placed in the more shaded areas of a yard."

Fresh, bright red garden tomatoes can flourish in garden boxes, and some seed companies have varieties adapted for container culture.

If you want to grow your favorite tomato variety in a container, Bryant has several hints. Let the tomato plant develop three or four clusters of flowers and then cut the top off the plant about two leaves above the last cluster. Place a firm stake in the container to support the stem. Pinch off side shoots developing where leaves attach to the main stem.

Feds studying NM drought

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- U. S. Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., who has asked for federal aid for farmers and ranchers hard-hit by the drought, said that the federal government is compiling a report on the problem.

"If assistance is to be effective in helping these people combat the drought and the resulting economic losses then aid must be made available when first needed and not late in the game," Montoya said.

The senator inquired early in June about what the federal government was planning to do to aid farmers and ranchers faced with economic losses due to the drought. John R. McGuire, chief of the U. S. Forest Service, answered the inquiry.

"We share your concern over the unprecedented shortages of rainfall during the recent months in the Southwest," McGuire said. "If the present drought is not broken, ranchers may expect a serious situation to develop by late summer."

"Since we did not have detailed information on the drought in this office we have asked for a survey and evaluation of this situation," McGuire added. "We will be in further touch with you when we receive the report on the implications of the 1972 drought."

SIR THOMAS NOON TALFOURD

Nations with a longer history and rapidly expanding populations now face saturation of their living space. They have been compelled to use their lands intensively. In Switzerland and Japan, for example, land is both scarce and valuable. Citizens of these nations take pretty much for granted the concept that use of natural resources must be in harmony with the recreational and scenic values of their land. Tramways, ski lifts, mountain lodges and roads all provide maximum access to scenic wonders for the enjoyment by the greatest number of people.

NO ROADS -- NO DEVELOPMENT:

In contrast, legally classified wilderness lands in the United States by law must remain roadless and undeveloped, thus denying access to all except the strong, energetic and the hardy. In fact, federal studies of wilderness users indicate that they generally possess means and leisure not shared by the bulk of the population in the United States. Not only do they have more money and time; they also are in the minority, making up less than one-half of one per cent of the nation's population.

There is a striking disparity in the National Forest acreage under consideration for this minority compared with developed forest lands. Campgrounds, ski lifts, boat landings, picnic grounds and other developed recreation lands on the National Forests totaled about 100,000 acres in June, 1971.

Wild lands, including those classified as wilderness, conservatively total 30 million acres. Thus the ratio of wild lands to developed lands on our National Forests is at least 300 to one.

NO AUTOS--NO SIGHTSEEING:

Recreational facilities in the wilderness are severely restricted. There can be no roads, which eliminates automobile sightseeing for those who lack the means, or ability or inclination to enjoy the wilds on foot or horseback. Machinery and developments are prohibited, denying the use of motorboats, ski lifts, snowmobiles, four-wheel drive vehicles, motorbikes, tramways, house trailers, excursion boats and mountain lodges.

Permissible activities include primitive camping, hiking, horseback riding, mountaineering, snowshoeing and cross country skiing. Such conveniences as piped water, bridges, tables, fire pits and sanitary facilities are rare or non-existent, tolerated in a few areas but discouraged in most.

LIMITED RECREATION:

Not only does wilderness deny recreational accessibility and a wide range of the most popular outdoor pursuits, it also severely restricts the flow and use of natural resources of which any nation has a limited supply. Under terms of the Wilderness Act of 1964, all mineral entry on wilderness lands must cease by January, 1984, although valid pre-existing rights will still be recognized.

WHERE THE TIMBER IS:

Roughly 60 percent of all the nation's commercial timber is on federal lands, most of it on National Forests. Wilderness is classified for the most part from the national forest lands. About one-third of wilderness acreage bears timber of commercial value.

THE RENEWABLE RESOURCE:

Timber, of course, is one of the nation's very few renewable resources, non-depletable under proper management. It is a major building material with a unique capacity for regeneration. These facts insure that timber will always play a prominent role in building construction. Timber harvesting is prohibited in wilderness areas. Curtailment of timber production is destined to affect the availability and cost of housing in the United States. Our nation has set as its goal the construction of 26 million new housing units in the decade ending in 1978.

OTHER OPPORTUNITIES:

Other resource opportunities, such as watershed management, also are denied in wilderness areas, unless the President specifically permits such use. The values will take on new meaning and importance in coming years for a rapidly expanding population.

WILDERNESS ADOVCATES:

The timber industry is often criticized for being insensitive to wilderness values. Nothing could be further from the truth. Men who derive their daily bread from the forests are among the most enthusiastic wilderness users.

HIGH COUNTRY WILDERNESS:

Two thirds or more of wilderness land bears no timber of commercial value. Much of this land consists of high alpine country, clear mountain lakes, sparkling streams and areas of unique scenic splendor and wilderness quality. These areas deserve protection. Timber industry representatives have offered thousands of words in public testimony supporting wilderness designation for lands deserving such treatment.

CONCERNED FORESTERS:

Professional foresters, however, are concerned about the loss of forest resources and problems arising in vast tracts of unmanaged forest lands. Trees are living things and all life must end. The forests are populated with vigorous young trees, mature trees, dying and dead trees. Wind, insects and disease strew the wilderness floor with tangles of material which impedes access and provides tinder for wildfire. Lack of roads makes it difficult to protect wilderness land from the forces of nature, denying access for fighting insects and fire. Potential devastation threatens wilderness land and adjacent commercial forests.

CAN WE AFFORD IT?:

These wilderness characteristics stimulate responsible, professional forest managers to ask that Americans consider the consequences of overdoing a good thing. Wilderness land designation has rightfully earned public favor. The question is: how much land can a nation facing double its present population in 100 years afford to preserve as wilderness?

MAN THE UTILIZER:

Wilderness has its place. It also can cause serious problems if over-emphasized. Our natural resources are limited and necessary to our way of life. Man utilizes such resources, but left to her own devices, nature wastes them. There must be a rational middle ground in using our resources, to insure that the greatest good is provided for the greatest number of Americans in the long run.

Indians get first jobs try

WASHINGTON D.C. -- Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton has announced that he has approved recommendations of Bureau of Indian Affairs Commissioner Louis R. Bruce to extend the policy of "Indian Preference" to filling vacancies, whether by original appointment, reinstatement or promotion.

In addition, he said, greater emphasis on training efforts will be directed toward the development of Indians. The changes will be effective immediately within the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

"A careful review of statutes covering Indian Preference has led us to the conclusion that our past practice of giving preference in the Bureau of Indian Affairs in cases of new hire and reduction in force should be extended to include the filling of all vacancies," Morton said.

Morton said that in the implementation of this new policy, "careful attention will be given to protecting the rights of non-Indian employees to the greatest extent possible within statutory requirements."

The new policy is designed to enable Indian personnel in the Bureau of Indian Affairs to progress as rapidly as their capabilities allow, Morton said.

Implementing procedures are now being prepared by the Bureau of Indian Affairs.
