

Ranch road meeting report

Carrizozo could have fabulous new recreation area -- handy

A beautiful recreation area

Water Canyon and Carrizozo were both wet Wednesday morning from good soft rain that started in the night and continued into an overcast morning. This was the first moisture of any consequence Carrizozo area has received since very early summer.

The public hearing on request of Stephenson Ranch to close road through this ranch leading to Water Canyon was held Monday morning with a small crowd of people in attendance at the courthouse in Carrizozo.

It was the opinion of the News reporter that people at this hearing represented a government agency, mining interest, trail riders, the Stephensons or the county, and no what-you-might-call general public in attendance.

Representative of the Forest Service, Game & Fish Department, mining claims in Water Canyon, trail riders, made it clear that they wanted a road to the Water Canyon section of the Lincoln National Forest wilderness area. They would be agreeable to an "alternate route."

Paul A. Cooter, atty. speaking for Stephenson Ranch, spoke of the many problems of the rancher with an unfenced public road through his property which include all kinds of vandalism, littering, loss of livestock and loss of property.

At the conclusion of the hearing, about 11:30 a.m., Kelly Stephenson thanked the county commissioners and the people present for their consideration, and the commissioners in turn thanked Kelly and Billy Stephenson for the way they had handled their case.

Commission Chairman Paul Pacheco stated that the commission would be several weeks in making a decision.

The regular meeting of Lincoln County Commissioners Pacheco, Bud Payne and Bill Hart took place Tuesday, an all-day meeting. At this meeting the findings of the road viewing committee, appointed by the commission, was opened and read, reported in full here.

Lincoln County Commissioners
Carrizozo, New Mexico

Dear Sirs:

After careful study and looking over Water Canyon road, we as a committee recommend that Stephenson Ranch, Inc., be allowed to close this road by locking the gates to the general public, until such time a Public Camp Ground on National Forest be provided.

We base our decision after finding that it is a dead-end road, that there is litter from campers, and erosion is caused by vehicles driving off the road. Also there is the fact that the National Forest Land is in a wilderness area, prohibiting any vehicles on Government land, putting all camping on private land.

Sincerely yours,

R.A. Cox

LaMoyn Peters

J.G. Sidwell

Members of the Committee

This opinion of the viewing committee does not necessarily mean that the commission will grant Stephenson's request, but it certainly adds a great deal of importance to the necessity of making some sort of move that might satisfy parties on both sides of the issue.

The only way out, and one that would be a great value to the Carrizozo area, would be construction and fencing of the alternate route as shown by the dotted line on the sketch, printed here.

Kelly Stephenson says a dozer could make a good road that would be very usable in a day or two. Ken Reamy, county road foreman, said no gravel would be needed, the land has plenty of natural gravel. Fencing, one of the vital points of the new route would be provided on one side by natural boundary lines, and new fencing for seven or eight miles estimated to cost from $1400 to $1500 per mile.

The present route to Water Canyon up by the Finley Ranch means opening five gates, not really an easy trip for a family outing or one that you would want to rent visitors or sight-seers on. The alternate route would be open driving all the Rancher Truman A. Spencer Jr. suggested that alternate route from one now being used would be a good solution to the Water Canyon access problem.

Skeleton identified

Back in 1964 when Dr. W. F. Rosenblatt was at Fort Stanton Hospital, a patient named Manuel B. Aragon of Silver City, age 60, was reported missing.

On September 13 of 1964 an extensive search got underway with 15 boys from Camp Sierra Blanca and the Ruidoso Jeep Club joining Sheriff Glen Bradley and his department to comb the brush in the Fort Stanton area.

Aragon was not found at that time.

On January 1, 1974 John Genta, employee at Fort Stanton, was out rabbit hunting in the early morning and came upon a human skeleton, a mile southwest of the Fort. This find was reported to Sgt. Jack Johnson of the State Police and Deputy Sheriff Glen Bradley who went to gather up the remains.

The find made radio and TV news and by this route Dr. Rosenblatt learned of the incident and called Bradley, reminding him that all records would be at Fort Bayard and probably the skeleton was the remains of Aragon.

Eight teeth were found with the skeleton, which fit where dental records showed that Aragon had teeth, and what remnants of clothing and shoes found also matched what he was wearing to help prove the identification.

Sheriff Bradley remembers that it rained all day when Aragon was out in September of 1964, the man being in far advanced stages of TB, probably died of exposure.

Free use Fuelwood from forest

Due to the impending shortages of heating fuels and our overall energy situation, Forest Supervisor Kenneth L. Evans announced today the establishment of personal free use fuelwood cutting on the Lincoln National Forest available to all persons without regard to race, color, sex, national origin, or place of residence.

Mr. Evans stated that personal use fuelwood will be available on all National Forest Lands within the Lincoln National Forest, without a permit, except for those areas posted as closed to such use. Examples of areas which will be closed are the White Mountain Wilderness, Roadless Areas, and Commercial Sales Areas.

Supervisor Evans emphasized that the cutting and taking of this fuelwood is for personal use only and is not for resale. Also, that standing trees whether green or dead are not to be cut. The taking of wood which is not dead and down requires a permit.

Renovation of Carrizozo is prime project

Carrizozo, N.M. - A general renovation and remodeling of the physical appearance of Carrizozo was agreed to be the prime project of the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce for 1974.

At the first meeting of the year, the Chamber Board of Directors discussed in depth the ways and means to encourage both private and public groups to put a new face on the town.

The President of the Chamber, R.A. 'Dutch' Cox was asked to begin a study of the problem and to consult with the city on any projects presently under consideration.

In other action, the Board expressed interest in access to the Water Canyon Wilderness area. "This is Carrizozo's nearest mountain camping area", said News publisher Paul Payton, "and the town has an interest in some means of access for both residents and tourists."

Payton said that the present road, through the Kelly Stephenson Ranch, is inadequate for most people since it is crossed by four gates. Mr. Stephenson has asked the county to close the road through his ranch. It has been proposed that an alternate road to the area be opened.

The Board appointed a committee composed of School bonds sold at 4.67949

Carrizozo Municipal School Board opened bond bids at their meeting Tuesday night and the low joint bid came from Quinn & Co. of Albuquerque and Underwood, Neuhaus & Co. of Houston. Their bid on the $250,000.00 bonds offered by the school was an interest rate of 4.67949 percent.

The next highest bid was 5.28 percent interest.

This money will be used to start construction of a new vocational facility in Carrizozo. Whether or not the gymnasium or any other part of the building program will be started at this time was not decided this week. The money will be on hand February 19 at which time the school can call for construction bids.

Companies bidding to buy the bonds were: Ruidoso State Bank and Stillwell & Co. a joint bid; Hanfien, Imhoff and Samford & Co., a joint bid; Citizens State Bank and Zahner & Co. of Kansas City, a joint bid; Coughlin & Co., Inc. of Denver; E.F. Hutton & Co., Inc. of Denver; Kirchner, Moore & Co., of Denver; Stern Bros. Co. of Albuquerque; and First National Bank in Albuquerque.

Johnson Stearns of Citizens State Bank Capps of Ruidoso State Bank, and Doug Hensley of Quinn & Co. attended the meeting.

Money Talks, People Count is Woman's Club program

The school Home Economics class will present the program at the Carrizozo Woman's Club on Thursday, January 17. Money talks-people count is the title of their program.

Mrs. Basil Lawson is program chairman. Hostesses for the afternoon are Mrs. E.S. Eaker, Mrs. T.J. Chisholm, and Mrs. O.S. Simmons.

The children will love this Snow Storm project. When I see or think snow I get the chills, especially when the wood supply is low. Central heating does not come on and off in this house hold. Our thermostat is our feet. When the children see the beautiful-snow flakes falling outside their eyes widen with delight. You can capture a bit of the wonder of snow with this Snow Storm project.

Snow Storm

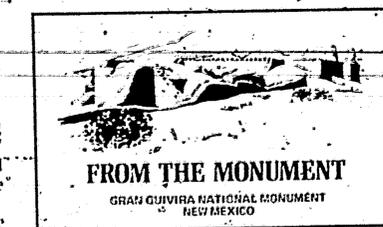

Take a clean baby food jar or mayonnaise jar, put in a heap of moth flakes.

Then cap with lid that you have glued a tiny china figurine with water proof cement the day before.

Before capping lid put some cement also on rim of jar. Let set until dry.

When dry, turn jar upside down. (Lid down) The 'snow' should now come drifting down on tiny figurine.

A poem by John Donne
"No Man is an Island"
No man is an Island, entire of its self;
Every man is a piece of the Continent--
A part of the main;
If a clod be washed away by the Sea,
Europe is the lesser;
As well as if a Promontory were.
Any man's death diminishes me,
Because I am involved in mankind.
And therefore never send to know
for whom the bell tolls;
It tolls for thee.

Does mistletoe shoot its seeds?

We'd like to meet a man down in Capitan who reads this column. His name is Mr. Pfingsten, and every once in a while we get an enjoyable letter from him. Last week he questioned my statement about mistletoe "shooting" its seeds. He said his observation has been that birds spread mistletoe by eating the berries and then passing the seeds in their droppings, on some tree. And he's absolutely right: it does spread that way. In fact, one big bunch of mistletoe I've been keeping an eye on had me confused. It seemed to have berries only on its bottom half. Then a few days ago I watched a quail eating the berries and suddenly it was obvious. This particular mistletoe is on the end of a branch. The quail could land on it and eat the berries on top, but he was not agile enough to get those underneath, and in this case there was no where else for him to stand.

But mistletoe also spreads by shooting its seeds! There are many varieties of mistletoe, and each is parasitic to a particular species of tree. The mistletoe that grows on our one-seed junipers has not been studied much, since juniper is not particularly valuable to the timber industry. But the varieties that effect ponderosa and other lumber trees have been much studied, and they all are basically pretty similar.

When mistletoe is about seven years old it produces berries. These are rather pretty; they are salmon colored on our junipers, and other types are red or yellow. As you can see from the diagram, the pulpy stuff between the seed and the skin is called "viscin". It collects moisture and nutrients the mistletoe steals from its host tree. In fact, it collects so much that the skin is stretched tight by the pressure of the stored moisture. It also gets heavy and leans over toward the ground. The seed is held in by the stem, which acts something like a cork. But finally the berry lets go and falls. The instant that happens it is as though someone took the cork out. The pressure of the skin and viscin tissue squirts the seed out, just like a boy squeezing watermelon seeds between his fingertips. Extensive research by the U.S. Forest Service indicates that the average horizontal distance is about fifteen feet, with an extreme maximum of 42 feet.

Obviously such a random shooting results in very few seeds landing where they can thrive. Many land on the ground, or on rocks. Even of those that do land on the proper host tree, and manage to stick there because of the sticky viscin tissue, only about 5 per cent reach maturity. Others are promptly eaten by birds, procupines, insects, or what have you. But let's watch one of the lucky ones that avoids those dangers. It uses its stored-up energy to send out a little shoot, called the "hypocotyl". If within an inch or so this "feeler" fails to gain entrance to the tree, that particular seed dies. But if it does find a needle base, or an old scar, or some other way to get a runner into the tree, it enters, establishes itself and begins to use the host tree's nutrients.

The initial growth of the parasite is inside the tree. In fact, it will be three or four years before anything at all appears on the surface. But all that time the mistletoe has been growing inside the tree. That is why if you want to trim the mistletoe out of your trees, just getting the growth you see doesn't do any good. You have to cut the whole branch off, usually about four times the diameter of the branch back toward the trunk. For instance, if the mistletoe is on a 2" branch, you should cut that branch off about 8" toward the trunk. That way you get the whole plant, not just the surface shoots.

That is the only way I know of to get rid of mistletoe. So far chemicals have not been effective. If we could find out for sure what insect pollinates the plant, we could attack that insect. But so far we don't know what insect it is (though probably it is in the thrip family). If you want the whole story on mistletoe, Technical Bulletin No. 1246 from the U.S. Department of Agriculture has about as much as is known.

We don't worry too much about our mistletoe here. The junipers seem uncountable, and it takes an awfully heavy infestation to kill a tree.

Home freezing very popular

by Mary Ellen Payne

USE THE FOODS IN YOUR FREEZER: Now that your freezer is filled to the top after the harvest season, don't run trying to store foods indefinitely. Use them.

Your freezer is not a safety deposit box. All foods have a maximum storage time; after that they begin to lose flavor.

Don't keep fruits and vegetables longer than 12 months. You should use most meats, fish and poultry within nine months; eat cooked foods within four months and ice cream, sandwiches and leftovers within one month. After this length of time, they're still fine as far as food safety goes, but food value and taste are beginning to decline.

Since the most efficient way to run a freezer is to keep it well-stocked at all time, replace the foods you take out with others. Also, to be sure you're using up foods that have been frozen longest, always label everything with a date as well as a kind of food. And wrap all foods carefully so they'll keep properly.

Home freezing has become so popular because it's such a simple way to do an excellent job of preserving foods. Keep up the good work by serving the food while it's still at peak flavor and food value.

COFFEE BREAKS, SWEET OR BITTER, GAINING GROUND AROUND THE WORLD.

By Donald J. Frederick

National Geographic News Service
Washington-The coffee break that popular forum for the exchange of ideas, gripes, and gossip-is one of America's hottest gringe benefits.

More than 90 percent of all employed persons in the United States have coffeebreaks in office or factory. They drink about 50 million cups during daily coffee breaks.

Although Americans consume some 40 percent of the world's coffee imports, their drinking habits rarely are imitated in other countries, the National Geographic Society says.

Some like it sweet
The Japanese prefer coffee at least twice as sweet as the average American brew. The Swedes like theirs much stronger.

Italians relish cafe espresso, a dark, rich liquid concocted in a gleaming, steaming-spouting monster of a machine. Ugandans make a savory blend of coffee and bananas.

In Arabia, where the coffee plant first was cultivated, the beans are roasted, pulverized, and boiled for each brew. Few business deals are completed without a cup of coffee. Arabs consider a water chaser after a coffee break a breach of etiquette.

The name for coffee in almost every country of the world comes from the Arabian word qahwah-an honored title meaning "that which gives strength"-and its Turkish derivative, kahveh.

The beverage once was so popular in Turkey that if a husband failed to keep his wife supplied with the brew, she had grounds for divorce.

In its thousand-year history, coffee has blended with many whims. When the Italians first took to the drink, they seemed more concerned with clarity than flavor. To settle the grounds, they added eggshells, codfish skin, and isinglass.

Warned Against Sterility

Prussia's Frederick the Great limited coffee-roasting licenses to the cream of society, and warned the poor that drinking the beverage caused sterility.

Undaunted, illegal roasters thrived, and Frederick, who brewed his coffee with champagne, had to employ a corps of "coffee sniffers" to follow the unmistakable aroma and arrest the lawbreakers.

Coffee was more readily accepted in Austria. The Viennese today drink gallons of coffee and are finicky about the way it is served. A traveler once saw an elderly Viennese gentleman carry his cup from a dark coffee house interior outdoors to make sure it was the exact color he had ordered.

The Boston Tea Party converted many Americans to coffee drinking almost overnight.

Later, the pioneers who settled the West always managed to find room for some coffee beans in their crowded covered wagons. The precious commodity often was used as a peace offering to the Indians, who quickly developed a taste for the beverage.

Coffee retained its popularity even after the West was won. An old range tradition calls for testing coffee with a horseshoe-when the shoe floats, the coffee's ready.

Semi-annual circuit meeting in El Paso

Jehovah's Witnesses from throughout Southern and Eastern New Mexico will be gathering in El Paso for their semi-annual circuit assembly according to Wesley Cheatham, presiding overseer of the Capitan Congregation. Approximately 2,000 persons are expected for the two-day meet set for January 19, 20 at the El Paso Coliseum.

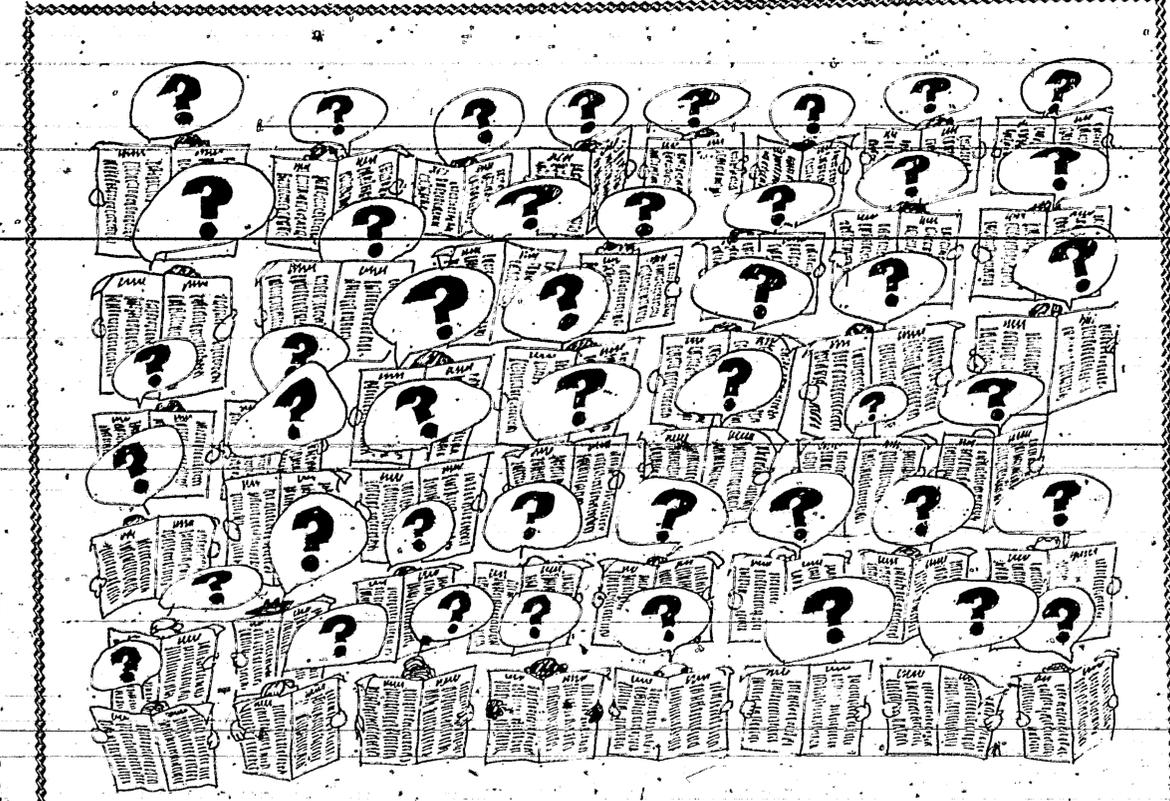

Cheatham stated that Bible readers have long noted that "critical times hard to deal with" were foretold for the "last days" (2 Tim 3:1) and since these are in evidence all around us the Bible takes on added meaning and importance. He pointed to the main public address of the assembly, "Act Wisely as the End Draws Near" as timely for our day. Speaker for this address, and other key sessions will be Mr. Frank D. Malaspina, District Overseer of Jehovah's Witnesses in the Southwest.

CAPITAN—By Margaret Rench

Utterbacks visit here

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Utterback who is spending some time just now with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Utterback, Sr. in Hagerman visited friends in Capitan last Sunday afternoon. What a happy surprise for all of us. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Ray, Province, Mrs. Rench and Mrs. Aldrich.

We had not seen them for 21 years. That is when they moved away.

Their home is in Portland, Oregon. Tom retired early in summer and Pauline retired in June. They left home in August and will be away until next August. They are both well and enjoyed their retirement.

Their son Tom is a Dr. in Corpus Christi, Texas. He has a lovely wife and three beautiful children. Jean was a teacher and is married to a Banker and they have two beautiful children. And they live in south western Oregon. Tom and Pauline spent Christmas with Tommy and family. Then they and Utterbacks, Sr. enjoyed a trip thru the southern States.

I just learned that it was the Rainbow Girls that delivered the delicious date cake and Banana bread instead of 4-H Dear Rainbow Girls. I appreciate that and so did others who received them. Thank You sincerely.

The Methodist Church held their Fourth Quarterly Conference with District Supt. Dr. Buren Stewart and Mrs. Stewart December 30. A good crowd enjoyed the delicious dinner as well.

Old Lincoln town By Hattie Phillips

On Dec. 29, 1973 Lincoln folks were happy to have one of the most delightful wedding of all time in the Lincoln School House auditorium where Billy Key and Cindy Goodloe were married - Western Style.

The lovely bride rode in to town in a buckboard with her father, Mr. Sid Goodloe handling the horses reins and the men in the party rode in on horses with their spurs jingling and tied their horses to the hitching post.

The bride wore a beautiful white wedding gown and the bridesmaids wore identical light blue gowns. The men and boys in the wedding party were in Western style clothes. Mrs. Goodloe, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Key, mother of the groom, wore long gowns. As a matter of fact long dresses were the order of the day for most of the ladies and girls present.

I would like to name each guest but as there were several hundred, I can't but believe me, everyone was having a wonderful time.

With such a large crowd over three hundred. All dressed to conform with Old Lincoln Town's legend, tourists passing through were practically speechless.

I hoped to go into more detail but have been unable to get many names so I'd better not try. I do know that the wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Merritt. Mrs. Emma Jean Hall played cowboy songs on the piano and Mrs. Mary Guck Crenshaw accompanied her, on her accordion as she sang. Also a cowboy whose name I didn't get played a harmonica prior to the ceremony.

Pat Ward, Cille Dockery and Ciel Chaffin along with others coordinate to preparations for the bountiful cowboy style dinner served to all the guests after the bride and groom cut the huge wedding cake.

It was all so fantastic and wonderful I too was almost speechless.

A western dance followed and a good time was had by all!

May the young couple have a long happy life together.

Capitan 4-H re-organizes

The Capitan 4-H club held its first meeting of the year December 7. This was a re-organizational meeting. We planned several projects for the new 4-H year in which the whole club will be involved.

A Christmas party was first on our list. We wanted to do something special this Christmas, so we are going to put on a Christmas program for the patients at Fort Stanton.

Another project we are planning this year is putting up 4-H signs on the roads leading into town.

We will also have first aid courses. These courses will begin sometime in January.

Our club is very fortunate to have the support of our community. It is really appreciated. We would like to thank Mr. Fletcher Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jones for their generous donations and everyone else who has donated their time and patience to our club.

On December 19, we had another meeting, at which we elected our new officers. The newly elected officers are:

President - Ricky Richardson
Vice President - Robbie Richardson
Secretary Treasurer - Rick Clifton
Floating officers for next meeting are:
Song Leader - Altina Proctor
Recreation Leader - Betsy Eldridge
Reporter - Nancy Hunter
Seargant at Arms - Lloyd Engleking

Supplemental Security Applications taken

262 people in the Chaves-Eddy-Lincoln County area have applied for supplemental security income payments, the Federal program starting in January that will establish a nationally uniform income floor for people with little or no income who are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled. Social security offices are taking applications now from low income people who are not getting state public assistance payments but who think they may be eligible for supplemental security income, according to James Flemmons, social security Claims Representative.

A Bowl of Activities From Nogal

by Roby Burke

THE FIRST TABLESPOON OF THE NEW YEAR

It is sunny but cold. January is coming in colder than ever. The festivities are about over and it's time for a rest, from company and from travel. Let's sit by the fire for a moment and think of positive things that happened during last year. If negative thoughts keep crowding in perhaps 1 resolution would start the New Year right.

EMILY DICKINSON SAID:

"If I can stop one heart from breaking,
I shall not live in vain;
If I can ease one life the aching, or cool one pain,
or help one fainting robin, into his nest again,
I shall not live in vain."

SAY! How about that jar of Jelly some of you gave for Xmas? Attention Marion!

To other's eyes, it may not look like much. It's just a jar of jelly, some would say, wrapped up in Fibbons.
To make it look more gay.
The fruit in this small jar, packed with labor and great care.

Is filled with endless time and love and it holds the essence of truth so rare.

A present for those with a broad view, and it was made especially for you.

By Roby!

Around the Bowl-During Xmas and New Years! SOUNDS LIKE FUN!

Mr. & Mrs. Miles Williams and daughter Carol Ann Sanders of El Paso, spent part of their Xmas in Chihuahua Mex., in the Ferromont Hotel. They bought a round-trip buss fare from El Paso imagine the cost! About six or seven dollars. Lets try it sometime! - I heard that the Whitakers went to Albuquerque for Xmas, than their daughter came from Brownfield and spent New Years with them! Mr. Austin Wootter was in the Medical Center in Roswell for a few days but is home today and feeling better. Mr. & Mrs. Randall Greer & Everett spent Xmas with their son and family, and also Mr. & Mrs. Erick Lynch. After Xmas Opal's grandson paid them a visit. The H.F. Burkstallers & Damon had Xmas dinner with the Crouses' and Fay Stokes at Dot Burkstaller's house. Debra Smith, & Children and Mrs. Bob Crosby visited Nogal the day before New Years. CHEERS! for Bonita Lou, she is going to be our new Paper Girl. Urban Crouse is teaching her the paper route and she is having a tough time in the bad weather. We wish Mr. Crouse happy retirement-I am sure Nogal and other areas will miss him. SO TAKE IT EASY Louise good driving and a happy New Year to our paper girl! When I called Sue tonight for some news, she said that Jack & Sharon Hecker, and family were visiting her. Mrs. Maxwell told me she spent Xmas with herself and enjoyed it thoroughly.

Please put your visitors on paper, and drop it in the can in the post-office. The people from out of town like to read about it.

I received a long note from the Sharps and they wished every-one in Nogal is happy New Year.

Please drop me notes in the can when you go to get your mail.

INSTALLATION

Hank & Mary Means & Opal Greer attended the installation program of The Rebekah - Odd Fellow's lodge in Alamogordo.

A GIANT TABLESPOON OF NEWS!
The assistant administrator of Ft. STANTON FOUND A SKELETON, WHILE HE WAS RABBIT HUNTING. (It gives me a chill) Yes a real skeleton. The Police are trying to identify it. There were shreds of clothes old shoes and a belt on it. The dental records are being checked now. They think the skeleton is about 6 years old, and maybe a boy about 15 years old.

ANOTHER TABLESPOON OF NEWS! NOGAL IS INTERESTED!

Nogal residents have received letters from D.W. Romine, Commercial Supervisor of the Western States Telephone Co., saying that on Feb. 12, 1974. They would complete a construction project to provide upgraded telephone service in Nogal. It has been suggested that Nogal people put their name in the can in the Post Office if they are interested in having a meeting with Mr. D.W. Romine in order to better understand the upgraded telephone service. You may also call Sue Stearns and she will take your name. Then we will ask Mr. D.W. Romine to come over and talk with us about it. I am sure the Nogal people have many questions to be answered, before they can take action on the service.

Roby's Box:

I spent all Xmas morning dialing Calif. to talk to our Daughter. Their was no phone service. I had to go to Carrizozo to complete the call.

Very Unhappy!

Dear Very Unhappy,

The Nogal phone service is a disgrace - you are so right. Lets get together and do something about it.

Roby

Dear Roby:

Someone with the initial J.D. hit a bronco near Fern's gate a few days ago. Nobody was hurt hope it didn't do much damage.

Guess Who?

Dear Guess Who?

This note wasn't very informative-but it was a collision, I guess-So sorry!

Vocational course to provide work experience

The Vocational Guidance Program formulated through the cooperation of the Carrizozo and Capitan Schools is designed to afford students in both communities opportunities for work experience and earnings to further their education and vocational pursuits at the post high school level.

Students in small communities often have very limited opportunities to explore and experience the world of work while attending high school. The basic intent of the Vocational Guidance Program will be to formulate these kinds of job experiences within the communities of Carrizozo and Capitan. These formulations are not simulated but will be actual work stations with individually developed duties and responsibilities. It will be the responsibility of the program to insure that students in both communities have opportunities to become aware and develop the duties and responsibilities that employers will eventually expect of them.

The Vocational Guidance Program is designed to provide occupational information services that are pertinent to the students and to current labor market projections. Individual and group counseling services will help students better understand themselves in relation to the world of work. Inventory service through testing will provide adequate information to the students about themselves in relation to their ability, interest, aptitudes, and training opportunities for employment. The program will also aid teachers in securing and using occupational information related to their subject field.

Local vocational advisory communities will assist in determining student entrance standards, scope of the training program, equipment, program assistance, and to provide other advisory assistance.

Members of the Advisory Committee in Capitan are:

Herman Otero, Cafe owner and operator; Virgil Hall, garage owner and operator; Carol Reamy, Secretary; U.S. Forest Service; Betty Joiner, housewife; Ermalinda Trujillo, housewife.

Members of the Advisory Committee in Carrizozo are:

Vernon Petty, Department Store owner and operator; Mary Ellen Payne, Extension Service Agent; Clara Snow, housewife; Joe West, Cable T.V.; Walt Wilson, rancher; Earl Fenter, Retired Military and City Councilman; Wally Ferguson, rancher; Choncho Morales, City Policeman; Larry Gier, Laborer; Vocational Teachers and School Counselor.

The Vocational Guidance Program will be related to an intermingled with other State and Federal funded programs such as Vocational Work Study, and programs for the disadvantaged and handicapped.

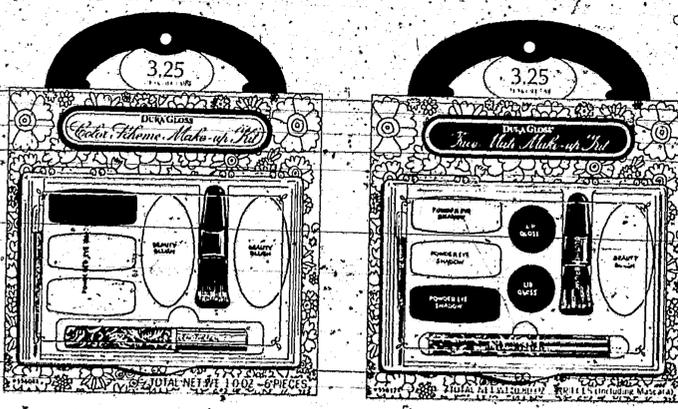

The overall program at the State level is under the direction and supervision of Mr. Tony Dizon, State Supervisor of Special Needs, State Department of Education, Santa Fe.

The cooperative community development of the vocational guidance program will be responsible to Mr. Steimpreis, Superintendent of Carrizozo Schools, and Mr. Clifton, Superintendent of Capitan Schools. Mr. O.R. Lamb, the vocational guidance coordinator will work in close liason with school principals Mr. Wilkerson of Carrizozo and Mr. Franklin McKay of Capitan in the development of the program.

Tax guides at agent's office

New Mexico rancher can obtain answers to many of their questions about 1973 Farmer's Tax Guide available now from county extension offices: Gene Ott, farm management specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service at New Mexico State University, says the guide explains tax regulations important to farmers and contains examples that show how the tax laws apply to actual situations.

This year's edition of the annual publication includes a chapter on investment depreciable property and certain farm land.

Ott says farmers will find the tax guide very helpful in supplying information on depreciation, investment credit, and solid and water conservation expenses.

Contact your county extension office for a free copy of the Farmer's Tax Guide.

RRD

If you're finding that your food bill is running too high and didn't raise your own vegetables, consider the costs of taking up this do-it-yourself project next year.

It will cost about $15 to $20 for fertilizer seed, plants, and sprays for a 2,500-square foot garden. With great success, the vegetables produced could be worth $100 or more over those bought at the store.

RRD

If you're starting a vegetable garden for the first time, consider having a plot of 500 to 600 sq. ft. You can prepare it easily and you'll only need hand tools to till the crops. If you find the experience rewarding then have a bigger garden the following year to produce a more self-sufficient supply of vegetables.

RRD

In addition to out-of-the-pocket costs, you must also consider the time and energy spent to establish the garden through harvest. Additionally, plan on figuring your own time to preserve food for future use by freezing or canning. The root crops - carrots, beets, onions - of course must be stored in a cool, damp place protected from freezing.

Other factors such as weather, temperature, rainfall and raids by raccoons, squirrels, woodchucks and rabbits, may hinder your efforts, the agent says. These animals are quite adept in eating plants or vegetables most desired, depending on the location of your garden.

RRD

ONLY DEAD PLANTS ARE COMPLETELY DORMANT. Trees, shrubs, and lawns continue to take up and transport moisture during their dormant season. Continue to water at six-week intervals during the winter.

RRD

FUEL FROM BARNYARD MANURE - Pennsylvania Ext. workers demonstrated a device with which turns cow manure into fuel at the 1973 Agricultural Progress Days at Hershey. Lebañon County Agent Glenn Miller and Assistant Agent Newton Blair built the converter from an old refrigerator compressor and a hydraulic fluid tank. Blair runs his garden tractor on methane gas generated by the converter.

RRD

The methane gas is odorless, colorless, burns cleanly, and is relatively pollution free. The potential for converting manure to methane is large. Organic waste from 100,000 cattle could supply the natural gas needs of 30,000 people. It is being used to power cars in some cities, and India is using these processes.

RRD

USDA SURVEY WILL REVEAL FARMERS' PRODUCTION PLANS: Livestock and poultry inventories and winter wheat seedings of New Mexico farmers will be an important part of a nationwide farm survey to be conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture starting in late November.

RRD

The results of this survey will provide the first indications of how U.S. producers are responding to recent market conditions as well as their reactions to the elimination of production controls by the 1973 Farm Bill.

RRD

Joe D. Herman, Statistician that is in charge of the New Mexico Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, indicated that 500 New Mexico farmers will be included among the national survey total of 29,000 operators representing all of agriculture.

RRD

These farmers will be asked in detail about their intentions for the 1974 spring pig crop; inventories of cattle, hogs, sheep, and chickens; and plantings of winter wheat and rye for harvest in 1974.

RRD

"It's been decades since farmers have had this broad an opportunity to make all their own crop production decisions, with no guidelines from the Department of Agriculture," Mr. Herman explains. "Consequently, our survey is taking a special importance. Winter wheat and rye are the first crops to be planted under the new 'no holds barred' farm policy. Indications about seedings of these crops will provide the agricultural industry with its first look at the impact of the new farm policy." Mailed surveys will also be conducted at this same time to obtain additional livestock indications and final 1973 crop data.

RRD

Reports based on the November 23-December 4 survey will start being released by the New Mexico Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in late December.

Jamie Cano, vice president of New Mexico State FFA Chapter, presented a plaque to Carrizozo FFA President G. L. Straley in recognition of the 1973 program carried out here. Cano is spending two weeks in Carrizozo for observance of activities.

ROUND THE CAPITOL

by FRED BUCKLES

SANTA FE-- A difficult, 30-day legislative session centered on money will open Tuesday (Jan. 15).

The election year powwow could be a disaster. House Democrats who elected Rep. Walter Martinez, Grants, as speaker in 1971 and 1973 are working among themselves.

Four announced or prospective governor candidates are Democratic senators. They are Majority leader Tibo Chavez, Belen; Majority Co-Whip Odis Echols, Clovis; Jerry Apodaca, Las Cruces; and President Pro Tem I. M. (Ike) Smalley, Luna-Hidalgo-Sierra.

Gov. Bruce King is supporting Sen. Chavez as his successor. Many senators have already pledged their support to a Democratic governor candidate. King's position could endanger his legislative program.

Political maneuvering could affect the lawmaking session deeply. A rash of election year tax relief bills is expected. But the energy crisis and economic uncertainties will make assessment of state revenue 18 months ahead a tough job.

Gov. King will send a series of tax relief measures to legislators. But King says resistance to tax relief has risen among lawmakers because of tenuous money outlook.

Differences may be strong in the House Appropriations-Finance Committee which will write the big General Appropriations Act. The 15-member panel is considered almost unmanageable.

Sen. Chavez is leading the Democratic governor race. Sen. Echols is rated in the top three candidates. Sen. Apodaca has the best organization at present. Apodaca is also among the leaders.

The Democratic governor primary poses a thorny problem for U. S. Sen. Joseph M. Montoya. Montoya has ties with former Atty. Gen. Boston Witt, Santa Fe; Chavez and Apodaca. So far Montoya says he is not choosing a governor candidate.

Montoya could be hurt if he backs the wrong horse. He must seek reelection himself in two years.

Former State Sen. Joe Skeen of Picacho, Lincoln County, is the front runner in the Republican governor primary. Many Democrats assume Skeen, a rancher, will be the GOP nominee.

Former Gov. David F. Cargo, Albuquerque, is expected by many Republicans to enter the party governor primary. Some capitol observers say the lineup in the primary and general election favors Cargo's chances for another term.

Legislators will be pressed to complete their work in the limited 30-day session. But they will also observe governors races in both major parties that will gather steam while lawmakers meet.

RRD

Gov. King will meet Friday with Democratic and Republican members of his campaign reform committee to shape final decisions on recommendations he will send to the legislature. King is committee chairman.

RRD

The 1973 Legislature voted $45,000 for an outdoor swimming pool at Los Lunas Hospital and Training School. The pool has not been built. Now a proposal is pending for a $130,000 appropriation for an indoor therapeutic pool. King may send the project to the legislature.

RRD

Also on the capital improvements list is an added $229,161 for enlargement and cost increases for a state office building in Clovis. The 1973 Legislature appropriated $600,000 for the building. The additional money is subject to legislative approval.

RRD

The State Museum proposes $330,000 in state money for Dorsey Mansion in Colfax County. Gov. King and State Finance Department aides deliberated on a host of capital improvements projects. King wants to hold projects within $25 million. Lawmakers will consider the list he sends them.

RRD

Republican State Chairman Murray Ryan will set goals and objectives of the New Mexico GOP Saturday (Jan. 12) in Albuquerque. A state representative, Ryan represents Sierra and Grant Counties.

RRD

Republican county chairmen were invited to the workshop. Ryan says: "We intend to outline plans for our 'Follow the Leader' drive to increase Republican registration."

RRD

Rep. Ryan will tell party officials "where I feel the party should go in this election year." Republican elected officials will report on their activities in talks.

RRD

Colfax County Democratic Chairman Alvino Castillo says a fundraising spaghetti dinner will be held Thursday night (Jan. 10) in Baton at the Spur Supper Club. The cost is $5 a plate. Castillo said all democratic candidates are invited. Many contenders for major offices were expected.

RRD

Jan Democrat John W. Blocker resigned as magistrate in Lea County Division 3. Blocker was appointed May 18, 1972, by Gov. King. Blocker told Court Administrator Larry Coughenour, "Other demands make it necessary for me to vacate the office Jan. 1." A successor had not been named by King. The part-time magistrate's salary is $3,800 a year.

RRD

The summer tourist season is the time when one notices quite a gain in women who wear shorts.

RRD

Women who are selecting beachwear might profit from this advice of the late Dorothy Dix. A reader wrote the columnist: "Is it considered good form for a lady to appear on a public bathing beach in a low-cut backless bathing suit?"

If your form is a good form, it is good form." Mrs. Dix replied. "Other-wise - otherwise."

THE WAY OF THE WEST

You might be thinking that things would slow up a bit in the middle of the winter and with a simulated energy crises at hand - not so in Zozo. The wheels have really been turning, even in the rain Tuesday night and Wednesday. Hearing in the courthouse Monday, Weed girls here, council meet, school board meet, commissioners meet, skeleton found and stuff like has put spice in the Life of Lincoln Counties. Today (Thursday) lots more activity on BB court when grade teams mingle, or tangle, or tango or something.

Should it become necessary for some general fund raising and park naming in the Water Canyon area, we have an action plan already. Payton will put in the first $12, then we get 12 guys to put in the next $1200 and the News recommends Dale, Alton, Wesley, Wheels, Nick, Joe, Bill, Bob, Ziggy, Henry, Paul and Pat as some of the more affluent around town. Then to really cap the deal we let Albert take up the slack and finish off the $12,000 approximately needed for the new road to the canyon. When it comes down to naming things, we'd call it Albert Park, and name a fence, post for each of the other parties.

Been talking to the Eastern N.M. Librarian again about newspapers in the state. They put out one list, another coming. We didn't know that Estancia has had 21 different newspapers in its history.

Anyone catching trout in Lake Bonito since article in the News couple of weeks ago saying the lake is open to fishing - should split with the News that is if you did not get caught and had to pay a fine. Dec. 18 release from Game & Fish Dept. reads: "Bonito Lake open to fishing from 6 to 10" - but it meant in season, and not right now. Jerry Maracchini was just a little shook on first reading our release, and got over it some on reading release from his department.

We've sort of felt this way. - We must, no doubt, still accord Mr. Nixon the presumption of innocence - we must believe that he was unaware that his friends, subordinates, lawyers, tax accountants and general-purpose acolytes were breaking, entering, obstructing, suborning, perjuring, erasing, either evading or avoiding and converting public property to the President's household use. But this could be the limiting case where innocence is worse than guilt. If Mr. Nixon did not know that any of these things were going on, he is a ferriable man to be in charge of fissionable material, Fort Knox and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing - J.K. Galbraith.

The Old Farmer's 1974 Almanac weather summary for January 7-9: Rain on the 7th, cloudy & mild 9.9 with highs near 60. That's for New Mexico and Arizona. More rain scheduled for later this month.

Swiped from Duffy - Sudden though: A dollar will do as much as it ever did - if you want to cut someone out of your will.

A fool and his money are soon invited places. Nothing is more annoying than to find everyone already knows the secret you promised to keep to yourself.

Everstop to think? - A hypochondriac isn't just a person who is forever taking his own temperature; it's one who refuses to believe the thermometer when it registers "normal".

Words for motel, restaurant and station people who think their business is shot all to hell - Recent statistics from the U.S. Travel Data Center indicate that Americans traveling 100 miles from their homes spent $36 billion in the U.S. which cuts up pretty good for those places mentioned.

Dear Mr. Payton,

We enjoyed the pictures and story of the Lincoln County 4-H awards day, and some of us were wondering how many people, if any, really let the kids know what a terrific job they have done whether they receive many special awards or only a single year pin. Just to finish a project in 4-H. The awards aren't something on hand to find a person that deserves it, the kids accomplish their tasks and awards are found for the accomplishments. If no one has done the job well enough the award isn't given only because it was handy. We here and around Capitan are proud of our 4-Hers, they all did their projects and it is a treat for us leaders to work with them. It isn't for me to choose a member and single her out as the most outstanding, but, we do have in our club ONE of the outstanding 4-Hers. She received many outstanding awards which only a very few people know how hard she worked, not for the award alone but for her own satisfaction. She is of course, Nancy Hunter. At the awards program a letter was read by Mr. Rameriz, the Fort Stanton 4-H leader, and with the permission of the hospital staff, and Bobby Dan Crenshaw, who helped Nancy considerably, I'd like for you to please print the following letter:

"This letter is written to commend you for the excellent leadership, initiative, and understanding displayed in working with the mentally retarded students from in early 1973. In any field there are those who display excellence of character, integrity, and initiative and are willing to put forth that extra effort and work to ensure success. You displayed these qualities during the period of time mentioned above and in so doing reflected great credit upon yourself, your parents, your school and the 4-H club of which you are a member. It is not rare to encounter these qualities in an older and experienced person, but it is most commendable and unusual to find these attributes in a person of your comparative youth.

On behalf of the staff and the students of Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School, I commend you for the excellent job you did in working with our students in the Ft. Lamb project. It goes without saying that we will remember your industry and initiative, and we know that you will do well in all your future endeavors. If any time we may be of assistance to you, please feel free to call upon Fort Stanton Hospital & Training School. With all good wishes for your continued success.

The Staff and Students of Fort Stanton

way, until you came to the forest-wilderness area, where no vehicles are allowed. Carrizozo is now in the process of construction on a recreation facility costing around $100,000, and taking a least a year longer than expected to complete. If Carrizozo people got really interested they could have access for themselves and all visitors to this area, to a recreation area that is one of the most beautiful in the county. Water Canyon runs more water than any canyon on this side of the mountains; year-around. Mountains get real steep in short order at the entrance to the canyon and the view in all directions is one of great natural wonder -- all of this for a cost of maybe $12,000 more or less.

Stephenson told the News that his only aim was to close the road going through the middle of his pasture -- not to keep people from the forest and the wilderness area. He would be willing to work out something so there would be land for recreation-park area at the far end. The county could dedicate the road to the maintaining.

We've already said the mountains get pretty steep at Water Canyon, it would take a good horse and rider to get to the top from that point which does not change a thing, if anything it makes the area more attractive for campers and hikers.

In addition to Paul A. Cooter, others who spoke at the meeting were; Carl Degner on behalf of mining interests wanting access road, Truman Spencer made first mention of alternate route, Jerry Maracchini gave sentiments of Game & Fish Department meaning opposition to closing of any access to state or federal lands.

Bill Hart spoke of hunting agreement, Jerry Adams of Forest Service told of five entrances to wilderness areas in the National Forest, Forest Supervisor Kenneth Evans said we do need access roads, Paul Pacheco commented that the Forest Service could not object to camp on Forest land as now on Stephenson land, Buck

Hale said there are other game seasons than deer.

Sheriff Pedro Vega said that over the years we have investigated numerous breaks; littering near the Finley Ranch and the Canyon, not hunters so much as Saturday nighters. My recommendation would be that the road should be rerouted. Bud Payne spoke of feasibility of rerouting.

Meeting concluded.

Commissioner Bud Payne talks about access road to Water Canyon at the hearing Monday in the courthouse.
