

Quarterback Kenny Cummins leads the Tigers down the field in one of the four called back touchdown plays. Kenny also passed for 60 yards gain Friday evening.

A fumble gave the Cardinals a try for the goal posts. The hard hitting Tigers, rated first in the district, held Corona scoreless.

Mark Sultemeier, Scott Nalda and Joe Salinas put on the speed for the tough little Corona team. Corona has an open night Friday while Capitan faces a district game at Quemada.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1975

P.O. DRAWER 459

CARRIZOZO, N.M. 88301

by Mary Rich

Many kind words from readers, combined with the incredible beauty of autumn's arrival, made the first week in September a happy beginning. Love and gratitude to you out there and Up There.

The highway between Willard and Corona is a glory road lined with profusions of sun flowers. The crisp blue early fall sky and the wet (oh, happy day) green ranges make the background. The impact of that drive this past weekend was a fantastic emotional experience.

Instead of the usual bourbon, beer, or port after-five-happy-hour, take your best friend, wife, husband, or child on that drive; or perhaps try the equally lovely path to White Oaks, or the splendid blue, red and yellow flower ornamented road to Ruidoso. Sing a song, turn on the radio or listen to the music in your heart. Mix all of that color and music with loving smiles for a guaranteed life-giving lift.

Indeed, dear friends, it is difficult to maintain the proper degree of humility these bright days. Surely those of us so blessed with life in Lincoln County must be among the Lord's chosen people. W-W

Another happy aspect of life in this relatively spacious West, is the degree of real tolerance that exists—the space for individuality. Often in these United States, there is a lot of speechmaking about the rights of the individual—the American way of life—but in actuality, mammoth social and economic pressures for conformity to middle group ideas. We have a tendency to melt into a rather "go along and get along" puddle.

One day a group of our well-haired and faded, dungareed youths stared with amazement at the appearance of a Jicarilla miner coming into town. Man, he looked like a hippy's hippy—the grandpappy of them all—straight out of Robert Service's "Shooting of Dan McGrew." He was dirtier and hairier and more tattered than anyone who drifted in from the runaway road.

The splendid attire of anyone of our ranchers who runs into town for a length of pipe or a quick cup of coffee, screwdriver sticking out of a hip pocket hole, mud (if we are lucky enough to have rain in the last month) covered work shoes, khaki jacket and any hat from the shed, differs little from the commune dweller pictured in national news magazines. Perhaps, even the thinking is not so different: Rancher to the Forest Service: "You do your thing and let me do mine, pardner."

Ah well, the true hippie is a disappearing species. From recent reports these young people of the 60's have gone to work farming, building and programming computers. They are being replaced on the city welfare rolls by the dropouts from the assembly plants, the steel mills, the army, navy and marines.

Since 1902... the Corona Trading Co. and owner

W-W

The Corona Trading Co. is 73 years old. Owners Roy and Tessa Cason are fine merchants and good citizens. Roy says he left Albuquerque just in time. There were four bullet holes in his grocery window when he sold. Shortly after, the new owner was killed. Roy says he knew his days were numbered if he stayed in the city.

Shoppers in Corona like the way Roy cuts his beef and sells it...about 10 cents a pound under most stores. He says that he has no loss from spoilage because he immediately freezes it. We talked about several phases of his business. He said that the number of T-bones from a side of beef varies, because cows, like people, come in different sizes pound for pound. Some steers will just naturally have longer loins than others. If you want more steaks, pick a long loined beef.

W-W

Which brings to mind another phase of employment and modern life style. I casually mentioned "Women's Lib" to one of our neighboring ranch wives, reciting some of the positive aspects: equal pay for equal work; the opportunity to hold any job. She snorted. "Ha, I've been throwing bales of hay to cows, carrying branding irons, fixing windmills in freezing wind alongside first my father and now my husband all of my life. Lately it's been for the same pay—nothing. Neither one of them ever opened a door or pulled out a chair for me, and I'm about ready for some unequal rights."

Thinking about that, it would appear that Women's Lib might be a product of an affluent society and certainly an urban one. Where families have to work together from can to can for a roof and food, there is little room for job description. This is not to say that hardships are desirable. Probably most men would be willing to take a little female harassment if it was iced with the silks and lace of a fat bank account.

W-W

The weight-watcher meeting last Thursday had a new member. The healthy glow produced by an absence of cigarettes had an added effect. Overheard, "Mary sure looks healthy these days. Wonder what brand of cake they been feeding her?" It may look great on cows but then that wasn't the effect I had in mind.

W-W

If the NEWS took your picture and it didn't appear in the paper, be forgiving. Sometimes the flash doesn't work, the film won't develop or there are gremlins betwixt and between. It was fate and not your face that caused the omission. Peace, kind readers.

W-W

Those of us on the highway between Zozo and Corona Friday morning were stopped by a flashing red light. Officer Al Clouse decided to do a license check. Why? "It is such a beautiful fall morning, I just had to do something," he said smiling. We think he really wanted to say "Hello" to the folks. People in Corona say that Al is a "darling man."

Capitan Tigers squeek past Corona Cards

A penalty ridden Capitan team went to victory in a 20 yard pass play in the third quarter of Friday's game against a tough young Corona field.

The 6-0 score came about on a pass from quarterback Kenny Cummins to Kirk Phillips. Cummins had had quite a night of it with credit for 166 yards of the total 200 rushing gained by his team.

A hard defensive effort by Corona plus 105 yards of penalties held the high rated Capitan team down to the single touchdown. Capitan had four touchdowns called back during the game.

The magic toe of Scott Nalda, a freshman, inspired the Corona defensive but what Coach John Warfield called first game jitters hampered his teams offensive efforts. The new Corona coach gave a pat on the back to Scott Williams and Steve Montoya for Friday night work.

After the game, Tiger Coach Billy Henson said, "We did a lot of good things in the game. A lot more work is needed to put things together." He commended his team for their defensive effort.

Rushing: Capitan 200 yds.; Corona 34 yds. Passing: Capitan 64 yds (5 for 8); Corona 5 yds. (1 for 10).

Penalties: Capitan 105 yds; Corona 35 yds. First downs: Capitan 14; Corona 3.

Scores by quarters: 1st Capitan 0; Corona 0. Second Capitan 0; Corona 0. Third: Capitan 6; Corona 0. Fourth: Capitan 0; Corona 0.

Grizzlies under Ruidoso 26-0

A big tough Warrior team led by Quarterback Steve Williams held the 'Zozo Grizzlies in check Friday night in a 26-0 game.

Passing and running, the Ruidoso eleven dominated the game from the first quarter on against the Grizzlies. In the first quarter a penalty on fourth down punt set up Ruidoso for a 19 yard drive by Frankie Montoya to make the first score. Montoya added the two points for an 8-0 lead. The second quarter produced another score after an exchange of fumbles that gave Williams his chance for a pass from the 5 yard line to Jim Lowrance.

In the third quarter a bad pass from the center to the Grizzly kicker put the Warriors on the Zozo 25 yard line and set up a three play third score by Williams to Mike Seelback. A Williams to Montoya pass accounted for the fourth TD and the score.

It seemed that a lot of bad luck dogged the light young Zozo team. The experience should be valuable against Tularosa Friday night.

Health Center open house

Some 300 guests attended the Carrizozo Health Center Open House held recently in their new facilities in the Annex of the Lincoln County Municipal Hospital.

Hostesses for the occasion were the Hospital Auxiliary members.

An exact replica of the Hospital was created by Mrs. Ramona Ortiz from cake and frosting. Those attending toured the offices and examination rooms; visited with the Med-We-Care, Inc. Board members, and took advantage of the opportunity to meet the Health Center's doctors, Marie Cortelyou, M.D. and Ravi Bashker, M.D.

150 letters in mail

Town clean-up enters new phase

Carrizozo's clean up plans moved ahead this week as some 150 letters went into the mail to residents advising them to clean-up, renovate and remove delapidated buildings from their property.

At the September meeting Tuesday night of the town trustees, Attorney Bill Payne said that the letters advising citizens of the law concerning unhealthy and unsightly conditions were in the mail.

Some people will receive three letters. Letter I advises lot clean up. Letter II describes premises that must be repaired or renovated and Letter III demands the removal of buildings.

If the owner requests, the city will remove buildings at no cost. If there is no answer, the city will proceed with condemnation, and the cost of removal will be charged to the owner and constitute a lien against the property.

The notification is another step in the move to beautify the town and meet fire and safety standards that was begun by the Chamber of Commerce in 1974.

Trash and debris in Carrizozo also came to the attention of state officials. City Manager John Johnson told the trustees that the Environmental Improvement Agency had notified the town that the town dump did not come up to state standards. Under the law all garbage must be buried once a week in the winter and twice weekly in the summer. He said that the agency felt that the dump must be more carefully regulated as to disposal of trash by individuals.

It was suggested that the gate be locked or that an attendant be on duty at certain hours during the week. Signs will be put up to advise the location of disposal areas. The trustees discussed a fee for individual use of the dump.

Johnson said that the town was lacking in equipment for compacting and covering trash. The trustees told him to negotiate with the county for possible purchase or trade on a tractor that is available.

The town could be fined as much as $500 a day for failure to comply with EIA garbage standards.

Johnson told the town that a new garbage truck would be needed soon. He suggested that a system now being tried in Ruidoso be investigated. Three hundred gallon plastic containers are situated between every four residents. The closed containers are picked and dumped by the one-man combination truck. Johnson said that although the initial cost was high, a considerable savings in salaries and equipment resulted over a long period. He said that the system halted the loss of trash from cans and trucks and kept the alleys clean.

Other business concerned the cemetery, police and health insurance. Trustee Roy Harmon who is also a member of the Cemetery Association was asked by Mayor Floyd Siegrist to attempt to clarify the degrees of responsibility for care of the cemetery.

Mayor Siegrist was disturbed about the use of equipment owned by the association. The cemetery has been deeded to the city and revenue from the sale of lots goes to the city. The association last year volunteered to continue beautification of the cemetery if assisted by the town. Mayor Siegrist felt that a more specific agreement was needed.

The possibility of health insurance for town employees was discussed. Johnson was asked to prepare a cost estimate that took into consideration the possibility of based on town participation of 50 per cent.

Johnson was also told to investigate a Law Enforcement Assistance Agency offer to supply up to 80 percent of the cost of riot kits, walkie-talkies, narcotic identification kits and other police tools. Marshall C. Morales was not present to explain the necessity of the items mentioned.

Police telephone bills came under discussion. A motion was made and passed that the town law enforcement officers be required to submit a monthly log of long distant calls and that the officers be required to pay their personal call bills. There appears to have been a problem in separating the tolls in the past.

In final action, the trustees voted to purchase dictation equipment for the doctors at the Health Care Center.

Hondo Conservationists to elect new officers

The Upper Hondo Natural Resource Conservation District will hold an election on October 31, 1975, to elect two supervisors. Nominating petitions are available in the Soil Conservation Service office in Capitan.

Officer Al Clouse...Have a nice morning.

History of environmental changes

The Bonito Valley, in which the town of Lincoln lies, was for some millennia a very well-watered strip between semi-arid hills.

The flood plains along the waterway were very narrow, and usually eroded and covered with rock and sand. The growth pattern along the flood plains was of small bush type, and might easily be torn away during flooding.

The valley changed but little over thousands of years, only adapting to dry and wet cycles and slowly building up alluvial flood plains as the Southwest lost its once-wet climate.

Village-dwelling Indians moved into the valley, probably in the eighth century, and remained for several hundred years. Their numbers were always small, and beyond the immediate area of the small pueblo the environment was substantially unchanged.

The nomadic Apaches who had ranged through the valleys of the White Mountains for centuries were a people who lived with and respected the natural habitat, and caused no damage to the floral or animal population.

Early in the 1850's the Spanish settlers moved out of the Rio Grande Valley to the west and began to farm the flood plains and a more ancient and somewhat higher flood plain running along parallel to the river. Irrigation canals were built and the water of the Bonito carried up to these high-level tables; large farms and orchards were developed.

By the turn of the century, most of the arable land (land in this case capable of being irrigated) was under cultivation. This use of the land changed only its character; there was some depletion of the soil minerals, but the total environment adapted without serious degradation.

With the settling by the Spanish, and later with the addition of an Anglo population, many new varieties of trees were introduced into the environment. Most significant among these were the walnut and the fruit trees of various sorts. The walnut trees grew from the 1880's until the later 1920's, when there was extensive harvesting of them by eastern sawyers, and a few English firms operating in the Bonito Valley.

The fruit orchards thrived from the turn of the century until quite recently. At the present time there is a tendency to remove large groves of fruit-bearing trees. The "logic" behind this is the uncertainty of the fruit crop, blamed on late-season freezes.

Recent studies by botanist indicate that while the late freezes have been a factor in reducing the fruit yield, a far more potent factor is the spraying, which has reduced the bee population and resulted in poor or no cross pollination of the blossoms. Without this fertilization of the blossoms there can be no fruit.

The manner of life that had developed along the valley began to fall into serious decline with the extensive purchasing of water rights by the railroad in the late 1910's and early 1920's. The railroad bought out the largest water users along each major ditch line, leaving the maintenance of the total ditch line to the remaining water rights holders. This generally forced the remaining farmers to abandon the ditch due to the excessive work and expense of keeping the waterway open.

By the late 1930's the valley population had dropped drastically with many farms lying fallow.

The valley today is only partially farmed. There are many abandoned houses and signs of many more in traces of walls.

The town of Lincoln in 1880 showed some sixty houses and buildings and today shows only forty-four. This changed, however, is of minor significance and has left the town with its early semi-rural character intact.

The major degradation of the town had been: (1) the introduction of overhead electric and telephone lines; (2) the paving and development of extensive heavy trucking traffic along its main street; (3) a number of buildings that have been built that are of a more modern character and incompatible with the spirit of the area.

At the same time the tremendous mineral wealth of the area was beginning to become an economic factor with gold and silver being discovered, and mining camps such as Pinos Altos and White Oaks springing up overnight, the 1860's and 1870's saw a new insurge of people hoping to find their own fortunes in a variety of enterprises.

The western and eastern sides of the county began to exhibit major and ethnic differences. While the western section was being settled, under the aegis of Fort Stanton, with ex-soldiers remaining in the area and merging with the native New Mexican population, the eastern section drew Texans attracted by the fine cattle ranges along the Pecos River. Most prominent among them was John S. Chisum. The settlement of Seven Rivers, in the southern part of the county and about one hundred miles from the Texas line, became a stopping point for herds destined for either Arizona or Colorado.

From its first days, Lincoln County suffered social and economic disturbances. In June of 1870, Navajos raided near Fort Stanton. In May of 1873, native New Mexicans destroyed the dams of Anglo newcomers in Tularosa Canyon. Troops from Fort Stanton quelled the incipient war. Later, in 1873, several of the Harrell brothers—recently from Texas with friends and families—shot a New Mexican constable who tried to restrain them during a riotous evening in Lincoln. After violence in the vicinity of Lincoln, New Mexico Territorial Gov. Giddings, applied to President Grant for assistance in keeping the peace in the county.

In 1875, cowboys from Chisum's South Spring River Ranch, exasperated by theft of horses by some Mesqueros, attacked an Indian camp, killing several people and driving the Apaches into the mountains. A few weeks later the territorial auditor pointed out to the legislature that Lincoln County had paid no taxes for two years. Although indictments were drawn, the matter went no further.

Another event, a serious prelude to the future, also occurred in 1875, John Copeland and John Riley, two ranchers west of Fort Stanton, killed two young New Mexicans who, they asserted, had robbed Copeland. A New Mexican posse arrested the pair; troops from Fort Stanton came to their rescue. As the native posse rode off, John Riley shot one of them, the highly respected native New Mexican leader and probate clerk, Juan B. Patron, in the back. Although there were several witnesses to the event, Riley was never indicted. In late 1876 and early '77, John Chisum was plagued by thefts of his cattle by smaller ranchers and cowboy drifters in the Seven Rivers area. There were numerous incidents and one resulted in a killing. Many Seven Rivers cowboys were left with a grudge against Chisum, a circumstance which would have a definite bearing on the events which were rapidly unfolding.

Demo women meet

Chino urges use of older workers

Mandatory early retirement was described as a waste of education and experience by Wendell Chino, Mesalero Apache Tribal Council president.

Speaking to the fall meeting of the New Mexico Democratic Women at the Inn of the Mountain Gods near Ruidoso, Chino said men and women who can do an effective job should be in use rather than wasted.

Chino congratulated the women on their work and added that he, unlike many men, does not feel threatened by women's accomplishments since he doubts that women are able to agree on many issues.

The Lincoln County Democratic Women's Club was hostess to the state meet Sept. 5 and 6 at the new Mesalero Reservation resort.

Senator Gladys Hansen, speaking on "Affirmative Action Plan", urged the party to tune in with all people, creating an environment that encouraged state Democrats to participate in party affairs.

In a round table workshop, members were told to remind county and state officials to be open and fair to all citizens regardless of race, color and philosophical ideals. It was suggested that workshops beginning on the precinct level be planned.

At a business meeting of the group, Teresa Moulds, editor of the Democratic publication RALLY, got approval on a resolution asking State Chairman Ben Alexander to reconsider his decision to resign from that post.

The meeting was led by State President, June Burke, Santa Fe; Vice President, Ruby Brown, Jal.; Rec. Sec., Leila Miller, Socorro. Corresponding Secretary Neville Streubing, Santa Cruz; Treasurer Helen Gordon, Albuquerque.

Xi Beta Epsilon

Beginning Day features quilting

Red, white and blue and long dresses were the scene Monday night at the Xi Beta Epsilon's annual Beginning Day activities held at the ranch home of Mrs. Tommy Tyree, Jr.

The evening began with a candlelight ceremony for the conferring of the Exemplar degree upon Mrs. Clay Crist by Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, president for the year. A short business meeting was also held and Mrs. Anderson handed out yearbooks for the year. Each member had done her own yearbook cover with the theme "Let Heritage Ring." It will be hard to decide on just one for the International Yearbook Contest.

Members enjoyed refreshments of chips, dips, mints, cake, ice cream, coffee and tea from a table covered with a white lace tablecloth. The centerpiece was a red, white and blue cannon and white candles.

Mrs. Anderson gave each guest a fabric flower corsage and Mrs. Rogene Alford furnished door prizes. The door prize winners were: Mrs. Clay Crist, a handmade doll; Mrs. Frank W. Sultemeier, Jr., a live ivy plant and vase; and Mrs. Melvin Sultemeier, a sand painting.

A few members quilted while others had a nice visit. Those present were: Mrs. Frank W. Sultemeier, Jr., Mrs. John D. Holleyman, Mrs. Clay Crist, Mrs. Royce Washburn, Mrs. Archie Perkins, Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Melvin Sultemeier, Mrs. Rogene Alford, Mrs. Bill Kilgore, Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, Gamma Theta member Mrs. Wayne Fish, and hostess Mrs. W.T. Tyree, Jr.

The next meeting will be on Sept. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Rogene Alford with all Gamma Theta members invited as guests for the evening.

Carrizozo Woman's Club meets Thursday

The Carrizozo Woman's Club will hold their annual membership drive luncheon on Thursday, September 18 at 12:00 Noon.

The event will take place at the Woman's Club Building and will feature styles of yesteryears and talks given by past presidents according to program chairman, Ruth Armstrong.

Reports were given by district representatives Marie Eaves, Farmington; Becky Runer, Santa Fe; Amelia Fernandez, Las Cruces; Cleo Ricer, Carlsbad; Marie Bowers, Albuquerque. Other honored guests were Sen. Gladys Hansen, Las Cruces and Mrs. Della Montoya, wife of Hon. Sen. Joseph Montoya Pena Blanca.

A Bowl of Activities

by Roby Burke

A CUPFUL OF NATIVE FOODS!

Has any one ever tried mesquite beans. The mesquite beans are found on the plains near streams. The small shrub has divided leaves that produce pods from two to eight inches long. The Indians pounded the pods into a kind of meal. The pods consist of one-third sugar, two-thirds nutrition. The meal was moistened and made into cakes.

The Milk weed is a delicacy. The young shoots four to eight inches, above ground and can be prepared and cooked like asparagus.

Early records indicate that in Taos, housewives often put milk weed shoots with green beans.

The Wild Rose is widely distributed through the county. The hip which ripen in the fall are red and orange and are very high in Vitamin A & C.

ROBY'S BOX

1. Do you know who went to the Fiestas in Santa Fe and got in an Indian dance by mistake?
2. The man who enjoyed the fountain by the Carrizozo Hardware more than anyone?
3. That the weight-watcher girls are trying out new recipes? So be careful!
4. That they bothered Bill McVeigh on Labor Day, just as he was going to play golf?
5. The girl that visited both the republican and democratic meeting this week?

A TIP FROM MARY RICH

When cooking corn, put a very small bit of water in the pan and steam the corn instead of boiling it.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

A Recipe for Weight-Watchers from dry milk.
Potato Soup
5 potatoes, cut up in small pieces
1 onion, chopped
2 stalks of celery
4 cups of water
1 cup dry milk
2 tablespoons of oil or diet butter.
Mix and cook slowly for 15 minutes.

AROUND THE BOWL

Nogal has been very wet and it looks as if it may last a while. Flash! Next Monday, Sept. 15, at 10:00, there will be an auction, just in front of Ralph Forsythe's house. Please come, you might want a deep freeze or a washing machine or a dryer or a rocking chair.

Visiting Nogal with Mr. and Mrs. Marlow Sharpe and Paula were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Siple. They walked around Nogal and stopped in at Roberta's studio. Other visitors in the shop were Mr. and Mrs. Ned Sanders, their baby, Clair, and Phil Richardson. Mr. Richardson said he was in for a rare treat. He was on his way to see his two sons play ball at the same time. How 'bout that?

The Zumwalt's had their first visit from the newlyweds, Lisa and Ace; and Cathy Zumwalt said it was fun for all.

Here is a recipe for all from Eleanor Payton:
A Strawberry Cake that is divine.

- 4 whole eggs
- 1 pkg strawberry jello

Linda Gonce in queen competition

ALBUQUERQUE--The 1975 State 4-H Queen, Linda Gonce of Willard, has officially entered the queen competition planned at the 1975 New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque.

Linda, who is also the 1975 Torrance County 4-H Queen and the 1975 Torrance County Sheriff's Posse Queen, is a senior at Estancia High School. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Gonce of Willard, she plans to attend New Mexico State University and major in veterinary science when she completes high school.

The 17 year old miss, who has blonde hair and green eyes and stands 5'3" has been competing in rodeo for some seven years. She is active in the Tumbleweed 4-H, Drama Club, Honor Society Club, New Mexico Horsemen's Association, Estancia Quarter Horse Club and Junior Quarter Horse Club. Her eleven year old quarter horse is named "That Bay."

Candidates for new Mexico State Fair Queen must be single girls between the ages of 16 and 21, and permanent residents of the county they represent.

The new queen, to be selected 60 percent on horsemanship and 40 percent on personality, will be crowned on Saturday night, September 20 in Tingley Coliseum. The new queen will succeed the reigning one, Miss Owida Crites of Clayton.

Washington Report

From Your Congressman

billion according to the General Accounting Office and accounted for 22 per cent of all state and local government expenditures. This represented 24.7 per cent of the domestic federal outlays last year, with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare leading the list with 274 programs at a cost of $20.6 billion.

As any local or state government official can confirm, the federal aid programs have been accompanied by a substantial growth in redtape, delays, and vast amounts of paperwork. The requirements for a local unit of government to seek federal funding have become so burdensome that many cities have found it necessary to create federal grant specialists on their staff whose sole purpose is aimed at the effort of identifying, keeping informed on, and availing their local government of federal assistance.

Since the federal government has no single source of reliable and complete information on the type and availability of federal assistance programs, some 18 states (including New Mexico) have offices in Washington, D.C. to help their government officials cope with the maze of federal programs and to hand carry their applications through the various phases of obtaining approval for their projects.

A companion to the growth of the federal assistance programs for local and state governments is the matter of rules and regulations designed to guide federal and local officials on the operation of the various programs. The Federal Register is the official source of information on federal assistance programs.

In the Federal Register, which is printed five days a week, are the new executive orders, federal rules and regulations and other documents of public interest. In 1973, the Federal Register consisted of 35,591 pages of new rules and regulations. Last year it took an additional 10,000 pages, or 45,422 pages, to provide the public with the newest rules and regulations.

Harold Runnels

Johnson Stearns, president of Citizens State Bank in Carrizozo, has the original display of locations of Bank Securities, Inc. banks over the State of New Mexico. Former Lincoln Countians are scattered around the BSI Family, Scott Shafer at Estancia, Malcolm Petree and Karon Petty in Albuquerque, Sandra Lightfoot at Roswell, Ralph Petty Jr. and Carl Thornton at Santa Fe, Bill Petree at Hagerman.

In 1862 Congress enacted the Morrill Act to help states establish and maintain land grant colleges; and thus began the practice of federal categorical grants to local units of government.

The practice was expanded in 1916, when Congress authorized federal assistance to construct public roads over which U.S. mail would be transported. The Federal Aid Road Act required each state to create a highway department and match federal funds dollar for dollar. Thus began the practice of placing such strings as federal supervision on offers to provide financial assistance to local government.

For over a century the federal government has used financial enticements to local and state governments to encourage (some people say force) the accomplishment of federal objectives. Too often local responsibility has been given up for federal dollars.

In the 1960s the number and dollar amounts of federal assistance programs underwent a tremendous growth. The Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance presently lists 975 assistance programs administered by 52 federal agencies.

In 1975 aid to state and local government amounted to $51.7

VALLEY OF FIRES STATE PARK

There are forests all around, Billy the Kid's trails in history, mountains to view and lots of historic sites—but the most popular place of all, the one the most visitors want to see is the Malpais, the flow of black lava rock along US380. The only known black mice in the world (so we were told) abound in the Malpais along with various lizards, birds, snakes, deer, and many assorted varmints. The Valley of Fires State Park in the Malpais grows in popularity each year.

goes to political parties

While the grid fans were tuning up televisions sets for the fall season, state politicians began flexing their speech making muscles. The pre-election year tune-up had party leaders from Lincoln County at two meetings Saturday.

The Democratic women of the county entertained ladies from over the state at the elegant new Inn of the Mountain Gods. There were speeches, resolutions, discussions and a lot of coffee talk. The two-day affair had an overall confident relaxed atmosphere.

That night Republicans dressed up for a $100 a couple dinner at the Hilton Inn in Albuquerque. According to Senators Domenici and Bartlett, five hundred and upward folks dug deep in their pockets to attend the champagne and prime rib feed.

It was a little early in the season for much heat, and most talk at the Hilton centered around a search for candidates. As of now, there just aren't a lot of GOP'ers jumping into the ring.

According to speeches, the Parties are in agreement on the state of the nation—it could be a lot better. But from the dress, food, turquoise and bubbly, it was difficult to detect any economic or political depression in New Mexico.

Attending from Hondo Valley were Dorothy Talley and Neville Struebing.

Corona School

Corona football players played Capitan on Sept. 5. It was an exciting game, and the final score was 6-0 in favor of Capitan. In an interview with Coach Warfield, he said the defense looked fairly good, but the offense wasn't what it should have been. He said that Corona should have won the game, but too many mistakes were made, and offensive blocking wasn't good. Scott Nalda averaged 35.2 yards per kick in 7 kicks. Scott Williams played the best defense. In Coach Warfield's words, "I do expect 100 per cent improvement by the next game. The kids learned a lot in this game." Coach Warfield is originally from Barboursville, Kentucky. He attended Knox Central High School where he played football and basketball and earned the honor of being named to all-state. From there he joined the Navy and spent three years playing football and basketball. Then he came to New Mexico, and attended Highland University for four years, where he played football and basketball. After he completed this, he went to Lancaster, Ohio, where he coached for four years. Then he took the head football coaching job at Corben, Kentucky for one year. From there he went to Santa Fe and coached for five years, during which time his team was State Champion for the first time. He resigned and went to Michigan for one year, then came to Corona, where he is teaching Industrial Arts, P.E., Driver Education, and coaching football.

Corona also has two more new teachers. One is Debbie Thomas, who is from Irving Texas, near Dallas. She attended North Texas State University in Denton and has a B.S. degree in Education with kindergarten endorsement. Debbie is teaching 4th, 5th, and 6th grade level at Corona. The other new teacher is Darlene Henley from Ardmore, Oklahoma, who will be teaching in the Resource Room. Darlene is a graduate of East Central State College in Ada, Oklahoma.

A dance was held after the game Friday night and was sponsored by the eighth grade class.

Mrs. Brown and Mr. Graham will attend a testing date workshop in Albuquerque Sept. 10.

Mr. Warfield will attend an industrial arts workshop in Albuquerque Sept. 11 and 12.

News From The County Agent

With New Mexico State University

Lambs for October delivery have been bringing $40.00 per hundred weight for straight Mutton Lambs.

October calf contracts are reported from nearby areas to be $35.00 per hundred weight for reputation steer calves. Contracting activities have been very slow to develop in this area with no definite local trend developing.

Wyoming reports 600-750 pound yearling steers contracting for $33 to $36 per hundred weight and heifers for $28 to $30 per hundred weight.

RRD

Keep Bugs Out: Keep ants, spiders and cockroaches from entering the home by spraying the outside foundation. Spray or dust the appropriate pesticides around the foundation on walls, porches and steps. When fighting ants, try to find their nest. When they come from behind a wall or under the floor, some flooring or carpet may need to be removed from there before the nest can be sprayed. You can use Lindane or Diazinon.

A number of sprays are effective against spiders. Remember, however, that spiders are not only shy and retiring but are beneficial. They kill flies, mosquitoes, mites and other bothersome insects. Unless they become too numerous, a homeowner can leave most spiders alone.

Cockroaches feed on a wide range of foods. They enjoy cheese, bread, meat, garbage and bookbindings. The best prevention is a clean house. Also watch for cockroaches that may come in from outside. Many pesticides, both contact and residual types, are effective against cockroaches. Spray or dust window and door frames, around drain-boards, around and under sinks, in cracks and holes, near pipes and in cupboards and under rugs.

RRD

Insects are causing problems around the home and garden. The elm leaf beetle is causing many elms to lose part or all their leaves. This pest can be controlled with Diazinon, but control over the entire area is necessary, otherwise the beetles move from the nearby trees and you still have the problem.

Aphids, Harlequin bug and tomato fruit worms are among the pests causing problems in the garden. They can be controlled with Sevin or Malathion. Be sure to observe the waiting periods before eating any vegetables out of the garden after spraying.

Failure to submit accurate disclosure statement results in suspension

SANTA FE—The federal government ordered suspension of sales of Nevada subdivisions lots owned by Morris Shenker, St. Louis lawyer, who bought Elephant Butte Estates and Lakeshore Highlands, Sierra County, and other New Mexico properties early this year.

In New Mexico Shenker also bought Valencia County's Meadow Lakes and properties in Bernalillo County. The federal Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration ordered suspension of Shenker's Nevada properties' sales because his Sierra Charter Corp. of Nevada allegedly failed to submit an accurate disclosure statement.

The federal agency said sales of lots in Shenker's New Mexico properties would be held in abeyance temporarily until new disclosure statements reflecting their new ownership were approved by the agency. Shenker bought the New Mexico properties from D.W. Falls, Albuquerque developer, last spring.

Gov. Jerry Apodaca said he is considering Clovis as a second citizens service center site in eastern-southeastern New Mexico. Apodaca said Raton and Artesia were ruled out as possible citizens service center sites. He said Roswell was not picked as a location because Roswell citizens' consensus "is that they don't want it there."

Republican Joe Skeen of Pico, a Lincoln County rancher, swamped Apodaca nearly 2-1-9,744 to 5,068—in Chaves County in the 1974 general election for governor.

The state energy resources director "search committee narrowed its prospects for recommendation for the powerful new post to a handful of applicants. Gov. Apodaca will name the new director about Oct. 1. The new State Energy Resources Board held its first meeting. Ex-Gov. Jack M. Campbell is acting chairman.

The new board and its fulltime director will exert sweeping New Mexico energies industry authority, especially in oil-gas areas in Lea, Eddy, Chaves, Roosevelt, San Juan, Rio Arriba, McKinley and Sandoval Counties. The Jalisco area will be affected heavily.

Apodaca named Hank Archuleta of Taos to a new State Wilderness Commission to protect New Mexico wilderness areas.

Molybdenum Corporation of America and Kennecott Copper Corporation brass say a large-scale molybdenum mine may be built at Questa.

Studies to determine feasibility of building a mine will be started.

The major firms entered a partnership in the Questa area. Molycorp will contribute land, mining claims, production facilities and other assets. Kennecott Copper Corp. will provide at least $5 million in capital.

Meeting near Ruidoso at the Mesalero Apache Tribe's new $15 million Inn of the Mountain Gods, Democratic Women of New Mexico thumped the Ford administration and urged State Democratic Chairman Ben Alexander of Hobbs to stay on as party chairman. Alexander says he will not seek reelection in November.

The Democratic women said in formal action they "express dismay and grave concern at the lack of leadership of the present Republican administration in Washington on domestic issues." They also said: "We have seen inflation up and yet wages, over the same period, have not kept pace." The party women's unit abhorred what it called "the callous attitude of this administration toward American citizens who, through no fault of their own, have been thrown into the ranks of the unemployed."

Lincoln County Democratic Chairman Fern Sawyer, Nogal rancher, was among Lincoln County Democratic women who were hostesses for the meeting that drew 100. After 8 years as county chairman Fern says she will not seek reelection in October. Gov. Apodaca bumped Fern off the State Fair Board earlier this year.

Lordsburg, Deming, Silver City, Alamogordo, and Las Cruces were set to present a critical upcoming industrial natural gas shortage problem to the New Mexico Municipal League at its 18th annual convention at Taos Tuesday through Friday. Sharp industrial gas cutbacks for New Mexico customers of El Paso Natural Gas Co. are set so that EPNG can supply California residential swimming pools and home users this winter. Approved by the Federal Power Commission, the reduced industrial supply for New Mexico could spark substantial employee layoffs.

Dist. Atty. Frederick B. (Ted) Howden of Grants pleaded innocent at Los Lunas to three counts of embezzlement. Howden is chief prosecutor for Judicial District 13 (Valencia-Sandoval Counties). A Valencia County grand jury indicted Howden on charges relating to his handling of an estate's money as a private attorney.

Polly's Bulletin Board

A little of this that and the other!

Oh, boy! The 'Baby' is one year old. So far his real christian name is rarely used. He is either called "Baby" or "Ditto", (which is a long story.) Ditto is now occasionally allowed to explore the kitchen area when on furlough from the playpen. During that time the trash can sits in the middle of the play pen. Wish I had thought of that when Ditto took inventory of the egg shells, coffee grounds and potato peelings one day.

I am not looking forward to the day he will discover the fireplace hearth. Our living room walls will look like the F.B.I.'s fingerprint bulletin board after that day.

Well, it is time once again to 'help' the children with their home work for school next day. Following is a sample of the answers I come up with:

Birdie: "Mom, what is the definition of illegal?"

Polly: "A sick bird."

Go-go: "How can I use bottles in a sentence, mom?"

Polly: "By George!" said John. "I think Paul's lost his Ringo."

Twinkles: "Mom, what's black and white and red all over?"

Polly: "The Lincoln County News."

Editor Lincoln County News:

It is hard to say good-bye to our wonderful Mayor, City Officials and Fire Department members and friends of Lincoln County. I want to say that it has been a great pleasure knowing all of you.

Lincoln County has been my home for 42 years and will always be home to me, although I'm on my way to a beautiful state (Washington) and my parents who need me very much, it will never take the place I called home so many years.

Hondo School Begins

There were four new teachers employed this year at the Hondo Valley Public Schools. They are Mrs. Chris Newbill, Mrs. Henry Lopez, Mrs. Ann McKay and Mr. Lewis Stratton.

Mr. Lewis Stratton, who is no stranger to the teaching profession or Lincoln County, is our new principal. Mr. Stratton received both his B.A. and M.A. from Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, New Mexico. He started his teaching career at Capitan as industrial arts teacher and boy's coach. He left Capitan for Pagosa Springs, Colorado where he taught and coached there. He returned to New Mexico as principal and superintendent at Corona. He comes to Hondo from Dora, New Mexico where he was superintendent there.

He and his wife, Nena, reside in Ruidoso Downs, New Mexico. Their children, Jimmy and Vicki are attending college at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, New Mexico.

Mr. Henry Lopez is teaching boys physical education and Spanish. He received his B.A. from Eastern New Mexico and is continuing in the graduate program in physical education. He and his wife Juanita and six month old daughter live near Hondo.

Mrs. Chris Newbill is our new special education teacher. She and her husband, Craig, live in Ruidoso. She received her B.A. from LeMoyne College, Syracuse, New York and her M.A. from U.N.M., Albuquerque.

Mrs. Ann McKay is teaching English and coaching the girls in volleyball, basketball and track. She attended Wayland Baptist College, Plainview, Texas and received a B.S. degree and a M.S. degree in physical education from E.N.M.U., Portales. She has 11 years of teaching experience in New Mexico. She and her husband, Franklin McKay and children, Farrel, John and Lora live in Capitan.

The teachers, administrators, and school employees started the school year off with a potluck supper at the Silver Dollar Pavilion in Tinnie Thursday night. The food and fellowship was enjoyed by all that attended. This week the teachers and staff are enrolled in a first aid course sanctioned by the Red Cross and taught by Mrs. Nona Brecheisen from Ruidoso. This year appears to be an exciting one for all at the Hondo Schools.

"Mulligan Stew" back for fall

LAS CRUCES—"Mulligan Stew" will once again serve up true nourishment for New Mexico youngsters this fall in six, half-hour programs.

The famous five - Maggie, Micki, Mike, Manny and Mulligan - combine their own rock band music with animated cartoon characters. "Laugh-in" one liners, Muppets and on the street interviews to "tell it like it is" on the nutrition scene.

The 4-H television project will resume in late September, says Tiny Faye Jones, program leader for 4-H and youth development with the Cooperative Extension Service at New Mexico State University.

Almost 30,000 students viewed the show last year and at least 20,000 are expected to participate this year.

"Mulligan Stew" stresses that a balanced diet is important for a healthy, happy life.

Wilbur Dooright helps the active five by digging up some knotty nutrition problems to be solved in a "Mission Impossible" style. To discover the facts, the group talks to astronauts, famous food scientists and the "man on the street."

All youngsters, enrolled in the 4-H TV series, receive a 48 page cartoon book. The book provides projects and activities for the viewers. Register for the series at the school or any county Extension office.

The program will run every Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. and every Thursday at 2 p.m. on Channel 5, KNME, Albuquerque. The series begins on Sept. 23 and will run through Oct. 30. In addition, many students across New Mexico will view "Mulligan Stew" on films in their classroom.
