THE WAY OF THE West

by Mary Rich

Good fiction endures. It describes the eternal human condition as adjusted to a certain time and space. Western fiction and especially that of the Southwest, is a delight to those of us who, accepting that we are children of our times, have a hankering back to a previous point in history.

It is correct to say that 1875 was a simpler time to live than 1975. Most Lincoln County residents, for example, had an intimate working knowledge of the equipment used in their homes, ranches, and businesses. Most people were in control of their environment or else, could excuse any lack of control as an act of God. Now, the excuse is a power failure.

A wagon? I suppose the average man of any worth could repair a wagon, splice a rope, mend reins. More than half of us certainly cannot repair our cars and even a good many mechanics can't seem to obtain the necessary car fixin's around Lincoln County. I've been waiting on a resonator (whatever that is) for a good month.

TV is counted a necessity by many. The other day at the County Commissioners meeting at least three of us listened in amazement as the Ruidoso Cable TV manager explained why, to him, cutting through a highway, without permission, was alright because of an "emergency" condition that otherwise would have left some people without Cable TV for a while.

I'm not sure of a parallel activity in 1875, but in 1935, before TV, my family read books together, played "Authors" and checkers, told ghost stories, played croquet, tennis, sang and did a lot of talking.

News gets face lifting

The days of setting type from metal heated to 550 degrees is about over at the Lincoln County News. We have a new photo type setting machine and are selling the hot metal type setting equipment, some of which has been in use of the News for a half century or more.

It used to be that us printers would have our fingers in ink so much that after a weeks work would take until Monday to get our hands clean again and that by repeated washing and scrubbing.

When the News moved to its present location across from the courthouse we started printing by the offset process, which is a photographic operation. Four years ago in October we bought a $23,000 machine which was part computer and part photo type setter. It has been one of our best buys and allowed us to expand our newspaper field quite a lot.

Just two weeks ago we bought a smaller photo type setting machine which lets us set larger sizes of type (up to 72-point, or one-inch letters). Along with this machine we got a font strip of Garamond type which will be used for most all headlines in the News. Garamond is not a new type family but one we have always liked and will give the News a distinctive look.

Actually the Lincoln County News has had a very distinctive look for the past four years since we changed to a 2-5/8-inch wide column, the first newspaper in the state to make such a move. In the past year or more many large daily newspapers and lots of weekly newspapers have changed to the wide column format.

From the files of the Carrizozo News published by Haley & Dingwall.

The Stockmans State Bank opened for business at Corona, this County, May 7, 1913, and it has enjoyed a steady growth. It's deposits on the date it began business at Corona were $34,395.48. June 4, 1915, the books of the bank showed the deposits to have reached the sum of $171,751.65. H.B. Jones, president, was also president of the Torrance County Savings Bank at Willard.

Dr. and Mrs. F.H. McKeon entertained a number of friends at their beautiful quarters in Ft. Stanton last Friday. Dancing and cards with light refreshments were enjoyed until a late hour. Guest from outside the Post were Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Rolland, Misses Riley and Parker of Carrizozo.

Not only are there visible evidences of growth in Carrizozo but the records in the local Mountain States T & T Co. show proof of that growth. Three years ago there were 52 phones in use, now Mgr. McQuillen reports there are 104.

The Fall term of district court adjourned

Wednesday. About 20 of the 30 indictments for failure to send children to school were disposed of, the defendant entering a plea of guilty and a suspended fine of $5 imposed.

County OK's Alto water use system

Alto Villagers will soon be paying a water bill if the franchise granted by the county Friday proceeds in the expected manner through the usual legal steps.

Don Blaugrend, developer of Alto Village appeared before the Lincoln County Commissioners to request a franchise granting the Alto Village Services Corporation the right to operate a water system and charge a rate for the water.

The subdivision owners in the past has been providing water and maintaining the water lines without charge. Blaugrend says that it is necessary to convert to a business and commence maintenance and service on a fee basis.

After the necessary readings before the commission, the matter must be approved by the Public Service Commission.

The Commission delayed approval of the proposed subdivision regulations, Commissioner Hart told Zoning Committee Chairman Bill Seelbach and Jim Steinepreis that the Commission itself would need time to read the proposal.

The Commission decided to hold a special study session on the matter November 12 and called a public hearing for December 13.

The Commission thanked the Committee for the months of work that had gone into preparation of the subdivision proposal.

Two new deputy sheriff commissions were approved by the Commission. Belinda Apodoca of Lincoln will go to work as the County Animal Control Officer as soon as the new vehicle for that department arrives. There was a little friendly joking about the county hiring a lady dog catcher but the gentlemen decided to leave the matter of qualifications to the sheriff.

John R. Cupp went to work this week as Deputy Sheriff serving Corona. The people in that area have been with out an officer for some time and have vigorously complained to the commission.

The Commission voted to establish a County Parks Commission. County Manager Les Olson said he would have the District Attorneys opinion concerning the legal powers of such a group before the next meeting.

The Commissioner indicated that in the past opportunities for acquisition of park land had been missed because of the lack of a commission.

Olson told the commissioners that the State Highway Commission had requested a meeting with the Commission in Santa Fe on Dec. 4 to discuss Highway 37. Commissioner Ramon Nunez urged the members to attend, along with any interested citizens. Bill Hart asked Barbara Lovelace to prepare a list of governors since 1935, the date the county first started requesting help on Highway 37.

The meeting scheduled for Dec. 5 was postponed because of a trial involving the commission set for that date. The District Court will decide whether the road through the Stephenson Ranch, known as the Water Canyon Road is a county road or a private road.

The Commissioners asked NEWS editor Mary Rich to invite a proposed group of Lincoln County residents to serve on a Lincoln County Bi Centennial Committee. She is to report back to the Commissioners at the next meeting.

Horse charge on statement is confusing

Lincoln County Treasurer Veta Allen and staff are receiving boxes of mail each day, most of the letters containing checks for property taxes. First half of tax bill is delinquent December 1, 1975.

There are two things about the tax bills which may be confusing to people. There are two horses quartered in the block across from the Lincoln County courthouse which should be taxed. However, every tax bill has figure of $7.00 under heading of Cattle-horses which does not, we repeat, does not mean that you are being taxed for horses or cattle. This figure of $7.00 is the rate for taxing horses or cattle should you have any.

The figure just to the left under state-county-school-city is also a rate.

The rate of property taxation in Lincoln County can get real confusing if you start to compare figures with tax papers in other school districts than the one you live in, or people who live out of town and you live in town.

There are at least a dozen, and maybe several more tax rates that are used in the county. Ruidoso school district carries numbers 3-35. 3-15 means you live in Ruidoso, 35-15 means you live in Ruidoso Downs. 3-Out and 35-Out mean you live in Ruidoso school district but outside both Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs. To make the tax rates easier to understand we have

Board puts doors back

The doors go back on the stall in the Carrizozo High School Restrooms—the girls' and the boys' restrooms.

The Carrizozo School Board instructed the administration to restore all doors and install doors in the boys' restrooms as soon as possible.

The action came after a thorough airing of the subject at the Board's regular meeting, Tuesday night.

Tammy Hourigan who has been campaigning for return of the doors in her NEWS column, "A to Z", appeared to make the request in person. "I am a fourteen year old girl and privacy is important to me," she said. Tammy told the men she understood and deplored the student behavior that had led to the removal of the doors.

Tammy said Superintendent Jim Steinepreis had told her that smoking, destruction of the doors, sinks, writing on the wall had led to the decision to leave the doors off.

Larry Wilkinson, principal of the High School said that 50 percent of the stalls did have doors. Also calling for restoration of doors were Barbara Ward, Carolyn Cantrell, Jerry Hourigan and Averil Anne Johnson-Barela.

At the request of the Capitan High School, the Board set a new policy on out-of-district sports participation and voted to let two girls play ball at Capitan.

Charlotte and Sandra Chase, the daughters of Julie Painter, live in the Carrizozo School District but have been attending Capitan Schools for more than a year.

Under New Mexico Activities Association rules, students living in one district but attending school in another district can participate in athletics only by agreement between the two schools. Steinepreis told the Board that the rule was made in order to discourage recruiting.

Other youngsters in similar circumstances were also mentioned. Wally Ferguson asked why the children preferred to attend the Capitan school if the Carrizozo schools were closer.

After lengthy discussion, the men voted to consider each case on its own merits as the requests were made. In the application of the Chase girls, the Board gave permission for their participation in Capitan athletics.

In other action the Board voted to purchase $500,000 in Board Liability Insurance. The need has arisen out of a California case in which a board was held liable for failure to provide an adequate education for a child.

The group also voted to purchase a power plant that may be used for football field lighting.

Steinepreis told the men that the gym completion schedule was delayed and that

A Bowl of Activities

by Roby Burke
HERE IS A DASH OF THOUGHT!
 According to John E. Gibson "Seeing Red and Feeling Blue," is something to think about.
 1. Do colors have a physical effect on us?
 Answer: Yes, particularly red, green and blue. These colors increase your blood pressure. Excite your emotions and produce a general feeling of rest.
 2. Can the color of your surroundings effect your mood, morals, and general feeling of well-being?
 Answer: Yes, studies have shown that the difference between a drab living room and a colorful one does wonders.
 3. Can the color of an automobile really mean the difference between life and death on the road?
 Answer: Yes, studies at the University of Cal., showed that the color of an automobile really influences a driver's judgment of speed. Some colors make a car seem closer, and others make it appear to be farther away.
 4. Does the temperature effect how you respond to color?
 Answer: Yes, tests show that a person's preferred colors change sometimes depending on extreme change in the temperature. When the temp. is hot - Most people prefer blue. When the temperature is cold most people prefer red.
 Next week we will have some more questions about color.

STICK OUT YOUR THUMB++
 A good thumb is large enough in proportion to the hand, fairly slender--set medium high on the hand. The first joint is a trifle longer than the second and not too thick or heavy at the end--the thumb should bend back both at the first and 2nd joint, but not too far. The middle of the second joint should be slightly narrow-shaped like a waist.
 A well proportioned thumb--denotes intellect. If it is set high it means good ideals and honesty.
 If the first joint is longer than the second it means will power.
 If it is shaped like a waist--it means logical reasoning.
 If the second joint is longer than the first and decidedly waisted, that thumb belongs to a person who is so logical--that he can produce the best reasons why he can't do this or that.
 If the first joint is longer than the second, this person is quick with rhyme or reason.

ROBY'S BOX
 A pinch of Mild Weed (asclepias speciosa)
 This plant is not recommended for use in the raw state, but cooked, is considered one of nature's most tasty delicacies. The young shoots, four to eight inches above the ground, can be prepared and cooked like asparagus. The Indians often used the milkweed plant to help tenderize tough meat.
 Let's add "Good Morning America, (Channel 7 - a new program) to our bowl.
 They had some cosmetic hints for you today: Whip 1 egg, 1 teas. honey, 1/4 baker's yeast, mix it up and spread it on the face. Leave 15 min. then rinse off. It makes your face feel great.
DEAR ROBY,
 Dear Roby,
 Anyone can prove he has good judgment by simply declaring that you have.
 Phillip G.

Dear Roby,
 You spend an evening with some people; with others you invest it.
 J.B.
 How about this? Work spare us from three great evils; boredom, vice and need.
DO YOU KNOW?
 The lucky children going to Three Rivers this week?
 The charming lady in Nogal who may find the time to teach for the Community College?
 That Johnson Stearns always has a little humor to add to your bank accounts? I overheard one farmer asking him how to spell "Perli-near."
 That all the weight-watchers got their pins last week for losing 10 lbs or more.
 How many ladies it takes to do wall to wall slimnastics? Call Doris Mix.
 The big event happening Saturday night?
OUR RECIPE THIS WEEK is for Thanksgiving.
Ice Box Rolls
 I have made these for years. They are lush!
 Mix together: 1 cup hot water,
 1/2 cup shortening than add 1 cup milk & salt,
 1/2 cup sugar then 1 yeast cake in 1/4 cup of water.

Add it to mixture then add 5 1/2 cups flour or more.
 Let rise then put in icebox after you have kneaded it a little. You may use it in 3 or four days when you take it out roll it out on the bread board and cut in triangles. Rolling the triangle into a scroll starting with the tip. Put them on greased cookie sheet, and let rise--cook about 15 to 20 min.
AROUND THE BOWL
 Sunda is full of Tennis students from Ruidoso and Capitan. The weather is beautiful in Nogal. The steer is chasing the St. Bernard all around the orchard. Some poor cows will do anything for a friend. Christy, the female shely, is locked up with the male three-legged Dutch who is having a very hard time catthing her, because she keeps trying to get out to be with Kelly, Ma Stearns' small alert male, who stands night and day waiting for Christy to escape. This just proves that even animals want what they can't have.
 The trees are still turning so don't give up you artists, Come up and try again. Bye now til next week.

Inside the Capital.
 Albuquerque--New Mexico Democrats elected Alamogordo Mayor Mike Glover as state chairman and reelected State Sen. Connie Burrell, Santa Fe, as state chairwoman.
 Among Democrats at a state central committee meeting were James Duran, Taos; Rep. Alvin Castillo, Colfax-Union; Fern Sawyer, Nogal Lincoln County vice chairman; Roy (Pinky) Jones, Ruidoso, Lincoln County Chairman, and Gloria White, Clovis.
 Sen. Odie Echols, Clovis, State Democratic party treasurer, reported the party's balance was $5,015 Oct. 1. The SDDC directed Glover to head an effort to reactivate Hidalgo County Democrats' participation in state party meetings. A SDDC member noted Hidalgo County is not represented at state Democratic powwows.
 A delegation headed by Billie Joe Chavez of Grants was seated over a group led by John Berman Sanchez of Los Lunas in a Valencia County credentials fight. Chavez and Sanchez are Valencia County commissioners. The SDDC Credentials Committee voted 22-4 with 2 abstentions to seat the Chavez group. The SDDC concurred.
 Chavez told the Credentials Committee no group with a majority ever lost a convention. He said the county executive committee and ward chairman backed his group. Sanchez asked the Credentials Committee to send the issue back to Valencia County for another election. Sanchez said his group had the votes to win.
 Sanchez said: "If we are not recognized, we will look at all alternatives."
 Authorities were still trying to determine the original of a rash of mysterious helicopter flights in the Union-Quay County area. National Guard, State Police and other units were on alert. Since Oct. 20 more than 30 reports of helicopter flights have been made by ranch families in the area.
 Four mutilated carcasses of cows have also been found in the area. No firm evidence of a link between the helicopter flights and mutilations had been established.
 Rep. Dan Berry, D-Eunice, said a campaign reporting bill shaped by a legislative committee accommodates his objections on city and school board races. It exempts from reporting requirements candidates who spend less than $250.

Rep. Berry said: "Most of the time in a small community a well-known person persuaded to run for office spends absolutely nothing. I was very strongly opposed to requiring them to file reports." Berry is on the Election Study Review Committee that is writing the campaign reporting bill.
 Rep. Berry says: "There seems to be a consensus by most of the legislature that we should come up with something. This seems to be about the most palatable and will probably do the job adequately." The bill would require reporting of contributions of $100 or more. Berry moved to set the limit and the committee approved 3-1.
 Rep. Berry said the state liquor agency is required by a 1975 law to furnish signs for each licensed liquor business saying it is a fourth degree felony to carry a lethal weapon in a place where alcoholic beverages are sold or dispensed. Liquor Chief Carlos Jaramillo said preparation of the poster warning was started. Jaramillo said the section assigning the responsibility was not included in the interim supplement to New Mexico statutes.
 Gov. Jerry Apodaca's fourth citizens service center will be opened in Clovis. An Apodaca aide said: "We're working on a site and staff right now." A $241,900 appropriation from the 1975 legislature will finance five centers. Others are already open in Albuquerque, Carlsbad and Las Cruces. Gallup is a likely choice for another center.
 Thirty-five paintings of Nicolai Fechin, who lived in Taos about 10 years starting in 1926, arrived from Russia at Fenn Galleries in Santa Fe. Alla Aleksandroviana Butrova, head of the Western European and American Department of the Russian Ministry of Culture was in Santa Fe. Also with the exhibit was V. Titov, a curator from the All-Russian Restoration Museum, Moscow. A public exhibit of the collection will open Nov. 23. The Russian government values the paintings at $732,000.
 Fechin came to the U.S. from Russia in 1923 and moved to Taos in 1926. He moved late to Santa Monica, Calif., and died there in 1955. The collection, gathered from Russian museums, is owned by the USSR.
 The governor's gallery in the state capitol opened an exhibition of 22 works from the permanent collection of the Harwood Foundation, Taos. The exhibition will be open from Nov. 10 to Dec. 5.
 Albuquerquean Rich Sims, seeking the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, said he has received $28,000 in contributions since he opened his campaign in September, 1974. Among listed contributors: Atlas Davis, Truth or Consequences, $280; $200 each from Bill McCutchen, Ruidoso; Charlie Overton, Yesso; Ed Watson, Clovis, and Jim McDermott, Truth or Consequences.

Wienie Roast

by Paul
 Payton has been doing the chore of compiling a column from newspapers printed in 1915, 35, 45 and 55. It is a real interesting job, much more than we thought it would be. Fact is we find it hard to keep the column in usable length.
 W-R
 The routine for getting picture; printed in our newspaper was the same when we first came to Zozo as in Jan. of 1915. That newspaper shows the courthouse, map of county, McDonald home, school and Methodist church, plus a number of other pictures. After the camera took pictures, the print would be sent probably to El Paso and a copper engraving made which went on press along with type for printing. We did the same in 1961, except that engraving was made of zinc. The interesting part is that we still have many of those old copper engravings and they are valuable as collector's items now. We may find a place to display them before the bicentennial year is out.
 W-R
 That January 15 newspaper had a lot of what we call "puff" ads which are paragraphs of complimentary nature written about a business. These included Foxworth and Galbraith lumber yard in Carrizozo; Denny and Osborn, real estate; Carrizozo Eating House; Campbell's Saloon; Pety and Adams, meat market; Exchange Bank; Carrizozo Trading Co., department store; W.O. Norman, general merchandise at Lincoln; N.B. Taylor & Sons, hardware; W. J. Doering, Lights; Kelley & Sons, Furniture; Ziegler Brothers, general merchandise; Rolland Brothers, drugstore; White Oaks Mercantile; Martin & Chavez & Sons, general merchandise at Picacho; Henry Doyle Murray, general merchandise at Tinnie; Tinnie Mercantile Co.; H. Doyle Murray & Co., general merchandise at Hondo and San Patricio; M.C. Porter Company, general merchandise at Corona; Stockmens State Bank at Corona; Jim Davidson-Saloon at Corona; Corona Trading Co.; Ben F. Adams-Lands at Corona; L. R. York, Lawyer at Capitan; Welch and Titsworth, general merchandise at Capitan; G.W. Smithson, Land; E. G. Raffety, Land at Oscura.

 Gray Brothers
 Located on one of the main business thoroughfares, a few doors south of the postoffice is the Stag Saloon, this enterprise is conducted by the gentlemen named above, Messrs. Gray Brothers. For the past 8 years the Gray Brothers have been conducting their business at the same place and in the same first class and orderly manner. These gentlemen have resided in Lincoln County for the past 17 years; they are family men, known and respected by all the people of Carrizozo and Community, and their daily walks in like are clean and moral. The commodities handled at this establishment, are the standard of excellence and meet all the requirement of the drug and food laws. This place is kept clean and neat and has a general inviting appearance, in connection with this establishment they have billiard and pool tables and the devotees of this amusement gather in the evening to pass a few hours at this entertaining and pleasurable sport. There is no movement ever started for the purpose of bettering Carrizozo and community, that the Messrs. Gray Brothers have not assisted in pushing to success, they are numbered among the men of Carrizozo who are always "Boosting" for a bigger and better town and community. If we must have saloon, and the law says we may, we should be glad to have men like the Gray Brothers conduct them.

 Newspapers have not changed in 60 or 160 years. Most of them, including the present Newspeople, try to boost their town. You get a good picture of the town and who is in business from reading the newspaper. Those 1915 printers were doing a good job--except that the offset method helps pictures a lot and ours are much better, the 1915 paper is as good as the 1975 product.

Torrance County cow mutilated

Monday morning Herman Riley found a cow that had died or been killed during the night. Because of the condition of the carcass, he called the County Sheriff.
 The Sheriff, Tony Greigo, and Deputy Buster Dial, discovered that the cow had been mutilated. One ear and one eye had been removed and the tongue slit. The incisions had been made with some type of very sharp instrument. The cow had been with her calf but no trace of the calf had been found by noon on Monday.
 A search of the surrounding area show no tracks of any kind. The Sheriff noted that the cow must have died on the spot as there were no signs that she had moved or been moved after falling. The only sign of injury, other than the mutilation, was a very small hole in the upper neck.
 The cow was only 600 yards from the Riley's home, but they heard no commotion during the night. A neighbor reported hearing her dogs barking at 3 a.m. Monday morning but did not look in the direction of the dead cow.

Louis Payton came to the county Commissioners meeting on her motor cycle and the ball in her hand is her helmet. It looks like Lou is finally going to get the road fixed in front of her Bonita cafe.

Here, there and yonder!

What a delightful and gala evening it was at the Carrizozo Country Club Saturday night. The Carrizozo Community Association of the Performing Arts gave us a treat not soon to be forgotten. Everything was in keeping with the artist, Senor Antonio Mendoza, from the Spanish decoration & food on down to the friendly feeling of Spanish hospitality.

Indeed he is very talented and whatever your choice might be in music he covered it all and pleased everyone. He does indeed play like a master and was so gracious, and generous with his time.

Besides our local people there were many others here from nearby areas. Some of the people seen were: Margaret Rench and Harriet Kline of Capitan; Mrs. Paul Pacheco and some of her family of Arabela; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Capps, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Lynne, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cox and Mrs. Helen Haist of Ruidoso; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Strobel of Alto.

To add to my enjoyment my name was called for a door prize—it was a Medallion of Trinity Site, New Mexico commemorating the 25th anniversary of the Atomic Bomb.

Dr. J. P. Turner (former MD of Carrizozo), presently a resident of American Samoa, visited his son Dr. Paul Turner (Neurosurgeon) and family in Albuquerque over the weekend. His daughter Sandra Noll of Staten Is., NY visited in Albuquerque.

Dr. and Mrs. A. N. Spencer and the Bar W Ranch with Truman Jr. & Marvin and their son Stirling and wife Mary Devina Mr. and Mrs. Truman Spencer Jr. and guests, attended the 35th wedding anniversary of the Gerald Tullys of Glencoe.

Another Lincoln County Family is announcing great news that their grandson has received an appointment to West Point—He is Albert Lee Snow of Long Beach, Miss., and the proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Snow. Albert Lee will enroll in the fall on a four year football scholarship.

Hope Evans of Alamogordo was here on Sunday to see her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. Snow. Mrs. L. V. Ladd enjoyed a visit from her daughter Carolyn Ladd of Las Cruces the past weekend. Also visiting her were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Ingram of Socorro—formerly of Clauch and Corona.

Russell Ramey of Dallas, Mrs. L. V. Ladd's grandson, is here for the winter attending school. The report is that he's very happy being with his grandmother and seems very happy with his school work.

While talking with Mrs. Ladd we enjoyed discussing the plans for the old Sothern Pacific Hotel. She is so concerned about the beautiful Lilac bushes and wants to see them a part of the new plans for the old building. They are not only beautiful when they bloom but they help keep dirt and noise from the premises. Have to admit I agree with her as we had lovely Lilac bushes at the old Post Office and store building at Alto. When the buildings were torn down the bushes were also ruined and that saddened me as much as the passing of an old land mark.

While visiting with Eve Ball in Ruidoso last week an added pleasure was included in the time spent there. Callie Roselle came over and what an exciting time we had together. Callie will be remembered as a very dear Carrizozoan. She lived here for many years—in fact until her husband died—and she moved to Ruidoso to live with her sisters Mrs. Zoe Glassmire and Dr. Kathleen Doering. They have both passed away and Callie is the only one left. She is ninety years old and still going strong. She is so interested and concerned about everything and her age has only added to her extreme interest in World affairs and the Future. She had a clipping from a publication from Kansas University about her nephew William A. Conboy there. He is chairman of the Future Studies Committee of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University. He addressed the Faculty Forum Luncheon on the Future Movement in Higher Education. "Advantages for the student of these courses, William Conboy said, are a move varied employment outlook; an improved capability to grapple with future changes and a greater sense of understanding his education. This study of the future is highly valuable."

Visiting with me on Friday was Betty Neel of Albuquerque.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, District 5 president of the American Legion Auxiliary, was in Alamogordo Monday making her official visit to that Unit.

Nice to hear from Bernice Nickels the past week. She is home in T or C and improving right along. Her address there is 705 Magnolia, T or C N.M. 86901 to any old friends to contact, hgr.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Whittaker are home after spending a week with their daughter Mrs. Bobby Knight and Mr. Bobby Knight in Brownfield, Texas.

SS wages up to $15,300

Beginning January 1 the maximum amount of earnings in a year that count for social security will automatically increase to $15,300—up from this year's maximum of $14,100, Tim Hassen, social security field representative, announced today.

Also, in 1976, the maximum amount that a social security beneficiary can earn and still get all his social security checks will increase to $2,760. The 1975 figure is $2,520.

People who earn more than $2,760 in 1976 may still get some social security benefits, but every dollar they earn above $2,760 may cause a reduction of 50 cents in their social security benefits for the year. No matter how much they earn in 1976, they can get their full benefit for any month in which they do not earn more than $230 (up from $210 this year) and do not perform substantial services in self-employment.

These will be the second automatic increases to take place under provisions of amendments to the social security law passed in 1972 and 1973.

The social security tax rate, now at 5.85 percent of taxable earnings for employees and employers each, and 7.9 percent of taxable earnings for self-employed people, will remain unchanged in 1976.

Mr. Hassen may be contacted at the County Commissioner's Room in the Court House in Carrizozo on Tuesday, November 18, between the hours of 10 - Noon.

State Rep Bigbee hits land use bill

State Representative John Bigbee didn't pull any punches when he spoke to the Lincoln County Republican Women's Club Tuesday, in the Medallion Room.

His theme was the Land Use Bill and he said it appears to be a cover up for more government regulations and control.

"If we want to plan or zone our county, the local people with the assistance of the County Commissioners know more about our needs than a Federal Bureau."

At present, John said, we are protected by the Constitution of the United States and let's keep it that way. He closed his informative talk with a quote from Pogo—"We have found the enemy and he is us."

Cowbells know how Cooking style affects beef

Consumers can save money at the meat counter and get more nutritional value per dollar by knowing which cuts of beef to buy and how to prepare them.

Beef should be selected and cooked according to its position in the carcass. Meat toward the center of the back (T-bones, porterhouses, sirloins and rib steaks) are naturally tender and should be cooked with dry heat methods (broiling, frying, barbecuing or roasting). Beef toward the legs of the animal (round steak, sirloin tip roast, neck, arm pot roast and cross cut shank in beef) are not naturally tender and should be cooked with moist heat methods (braising).

Roasts should be cooked in an uncovered roasting pan from a frozen state at a low temperature, about 250 degrees.

Cooking roasts in aluminum foil or a covered roasting pan traps steam around the meat and, instead of roasting it, uses moist heat cookery, which gives the meat less flavor and increases cooking losses.

As much as 28 percent of the original weight can be lost through cooking losses using aluminum foil or a covered roasting pan.

Low cooking temperatures are the key to cooking beef correctly. It has been found that beef is tenderized when its temperature, not the oven temperature, is in the 140-degree range. By cooking beef more slowly, you can take it through the 140s more slowly and it becomes more tender.

As connective tissue is slowly broken down, tenderizing the meat, the meat's structure opens up, allowing nutrients to escape and making the meat more nutritional.

Studies have shown that very little more energy is used to cook meat at 250 degrees than at 400 degrees. The cost of the beef not lost to cooking losses more than makes up for any extra energy costs.

The fat and lean of ground beef

SELECTING GROUND BEEF—In selecting ground beef, desirable fat content depends on how the meat will be prepared. For meat loaf or spaghetti sauce, a low fat content, about 20 percent, is preferable because grease cannot escape the loaf and will mix with the spaghetti sauce.

A higher fat content, up to 35 per cent, is desirable for meat cooked in a way that allows the grease to escape, such as broiling or barbecuing.

Even though the cooking losses are greater in meat with a higher fat content, fatter meat is cheaper in the long run and more economical.

Meats should not be basted with barbecue sauce that has a tomato base. Because tomato has a low char level, it can turn meat black if applied during cooking.

Barbecue sauce should be applied when the meat is almost done and left on only long enough to get warm.

The most important price to remember while shopping for beef is the cooked price per pound. That is figured after cooking losses are subtracted and based on what is actually taken to the table. Buying beef this way can definitely save the consumer money.

Corona Unit Legion has Christmas theme

Corona's Auxiliary Unit No. 35 met Tuesday evening, with 10 members present.

The theme of the evening was "Christmas and the Gift Shop" at the Veterans Hospital in Albuquerque, which will be held December 6 and 7.

Some auxiliary members brought gifts of clothing, valued at $31.75 and others contributed cash in the amount of $17.50. Also donated was 13 therapy rolls, 5 lap robes, 51 popular magazines and 30 paperback books for use by the patients of the hospital.

Fifty ribbon bows were made to decorate packages of gifts for the families that the patients select from the gift shop.

Volunteers are needed to assist in the gift shop. Many packages have to be wrapped for mailing. 500 poppies were ordered by the Unit to be sold as Memorials to the Veterans.

You're Kidding?

Polly's Bulletin Board

If your heart has gotten over the excitement of the macaroni jewelry now you are about to learn the thrill of potato printing, which you will pass on to the kiddies:

Cut some potatoes in half with a fairly sharp knife, being very careful of fingers. (Blood is only needed if you are out of red tempera paint.)

Cut a simple shape on the flat end of one of the halves. (A pilgrim holding a turkey while shaking hands with an Indian is not a simple shape.)

Then cut shapes in the other potato halves. You now have a set of printing stamps to work with. Maybe some Thanksgiving or Christmas designs.

After stirring, pour some tempera paint into a small dish. Add a little water if it is too thick. It should be about the consistency of heavy cream.

Dip a brush in the paint and apply it to the raised surface on the end of the potato half. Then press it down firmly on a piece of white or colored paper.

You can make your own gift-wrapping paper or you can print on cloth. If possible use two or more colors for variety.

Wouldn't grandma or teacher be delighted to receive a Thanksgiving or Christmas card from little Johnny or Suzie? It is amazing what those sticky, grimy, pudgy hands can create.

Library has Bicentennial

WINDSWIFT FIRE rages through British-held New York, charring 493 buildings, during the night of September 20, 1776. The uneasy British—and even many Americans—blamed patriot arsonists, but historians believe the fire started accidentally. The engraving is one of many documents in a major bicentennial exhibit scheduled to last through 1976 at the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Thomas Jefferson, charged by the Continental Congress to write the Declaration of Independence, delivered it in 17 days. Now, some scholars spend entire careers studying the momentous document.

Jefferson's "original rough draft" of the Declaration of Independence is on display in Washington, D.C., as part of a major, Bicentennial exhibit at the Library of Congress, the National Geographic Society reports.

Scheduled to run through 1976, the show includes rare books, manuscripts, prints and engravings, maps, official notices, and newspapers of the Revolutionary War era.

Feel for the Times

"We chose the materials to show the revolution as the people of the time saw it," says Leonard Faber, the Library's assistant exhibits officer. "Everything in the show had real meaning to the tradesmen, farmers, town folk, and political figures involved in the struggle with the mother country."

One of the most curious items in the exhibit, the Olive Branch Petition, was a peace feeler written by John Dickinson of Pennsylvania and adopted by delegates to the Continental Congress on July 5, 1775. This attempt at reconciliation with the Crown was sent to England but was not seen by King George III, who refused to receive it.

Another document of special interest is the exchange copy of the 1778 Treaty of Conditional and Defensive Alliance between France and the United States, signed by King Louis XVI and his foreign minister, the Count de Vergennes.

The treaty appeared like manna from heaven to a grim George Washington, who learned of the pact on April 30 at Valley Forge. It seemed, said Washington, that "The Almighty ruler of the Universe" was "raising up a powerful friend among the Princes of the Earth"

Paine's Powerful Pamphlet

Thomas Paine's "Common Sense"—a first edition is on display—is one of the reasons that Washington and many of his men persevered at Valley Forge. The pamphlet favoring independence was that rarest of writings: words that demonstrably changed minds wholesale.

The grave Washington, who had been decidedly reserved toward talk of independence, spoke for thousands when he pronounced "Common Sense sound doctrine and unanswerable reasoning." About 500,000 colonists—proportionate to 45,000,000 Americans today in terms of total population—bought Paine's tract.

Illustrating the effects of the war on the home fronts is a letter from Charles Thomson, secretary of the Continental Congress, protesting the conversion of his home into a hospital and an anonymous pamphlet, "Written by a Black," imploring the Americans to fight for racial as well as political freedom.

The Loyalists had to be circumspect with their correspondence. On view are some letters written by a wife to her loyalist husband. They were tightly folded, hidden in buttons and other wearing apparel, and smuggled through American lines.

Throughout the conflict, the Patriots drummed Loyalists from their communities. Almost 100,000 men, women, and children fled in the largest exodus in American history.

It began in 1776 when, besieged by the fledgling Patriot army, General William Howe evacuated Boston and escorted 1,100 Massachusetts Loyalists to Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Participants in the Revolution are represented by a variety of portraits, including contemporary engravings of King George III, George Washington, Thomas Paine, Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, the Count de Vergennes, the Marquis de LaFayette, and Lord Cornwallis.

Powderhorn Shows Surrender

One of the unusual items in the show is a powderhorn depicting the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. Revolutionary artisans frequently engraved scenes, mats, and figures on their powderhorns.

Shown, too, are the first and last pages of the articles of capitulation signed at Yorktown by Cornwallis in 1781. The vanquished British marched out between rows of Americans and French as required—to a British tune.

With a touch of irony, they selected "The World Turned Upside Down." Lord Cornwallis did not attend; he pleaded illness and sent his sword by his brigadier.

The formal surrender in a cow pasture ultimately meant what Lafayette said of it in a letter: "The play, sir, is over."

Carrizozo FHA has dinner

Carrizozo FHA Chapter held an international pot luck supper last Wednesday night featuring foods from foreign countries which have merged into the culture which makes up America. Several main dishes, salads, breads, and desserts were served, representing European, Asiatic, Hawaiian, and south-of-the border cultures. Each member who brought a dish gave some remarks about the country which she represented. Some wore costumes reminiscent of the country.

This was the first program in a series to celebrate the Bicentennial Year, which is the major goal for the year.

Letters

Dear Mr. Payton:

The only way for me to express my sincere thanks to the friendly people in Carrizozo is thru your paper.

Last Thursday nite about ten miles west of town on hiway 380 my car refused to run: It was about dark and I was alone. A friendly truck driver of Ruidoso named Burke turned around and came back to my assistance. He brought me to the Crossroads Motel and from there the people of Carrizozo took over and the problem was no longer mine.

To the motel owner, tow truck driver, who made an extra trip to the motel to bring me my warm robe left in the car, Means Motor, Sheriff Department and all the local people who assisted me—again my grateful thanks.

The following day my car was repaired and my trip was continued. To anyone who has car trouble hopefully it will be near this friendly town of wonderful people.

Sincerely,
Bettie K. Neel

None of the ranchers in Lincoln County complained when the three hunters from Lake Charles, Louisiana arrive for their annual deer chase. Festivities begin the night before the hunt, this time Friday, when the men feed their guest a real Gulf Coast meal. They bring their fish from home and spend the day before working at the Worley Hotel in Lincoln preparing their feast. After the food was served there was time for a little clowning with Bill and Pat Ward. Pat is showing the proposed trophy that Pat Dunning purchased for the Pony Express race next year. The last hurrah, the pigskinnners are gone, all are now just names of the guys we go to school with, and you can bet a lot of good crackers!

The year book is gonna be the best ever. Mr. Salagado has sent fourth his disciples to spread work and sell space to all of our friends & neighbors in the greater Carrizozo area. When you see Ester Miller and Laurie Voss they're gonna sell you advertising space, then comes Les Miller, Mich Colwell and Ella Chavez, if they don't "get you" Margie Mackie or Veronica Pacheco will. Lurking in the shadows with order blanks is Ward Miller.

The year book will carry the four years of memories of all the Seniors, the hope and aspirations of the rest of us, and it is all made possible by participation of the merchants of the area. Thanks Guys!

We got a new drivers ed vehicle as the last one was lost to a cattle truck. I'm sure this will make coach Paul and all the "drivers to be" real happy! There will be an Open House on November 18, 1975 from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The teachers will be in the classrooms to meet, chat, and consult with the visitors, it should prove to be a very nice evening for all of us.

I have just been reminded that I have an overdue book in the library and I'm not the only one, let's get them back!

On Tuesday evening November 11, 1975 at 7:30 p.m. The school board met in the school library, many items pertaining to school affairs were discussed; on and among them the problem of the bathroom "stall" doors. I should say the problem is past as it was moved and seconded and then passed by a unanimous vote to return doors to all "stalls" boys and girls alike. This will be done just as soon as someone can be found to do the work. The school administration is doing their part now we must do ours. We need the help of every person in school to keep the restrooms clean and in order. If every person fails in this, the whole student body will take the blame you can bet that anything we may want or need in the future will be very hard to come by. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mrs. B. Ward, Mrs. C. Cantrell, Mrs. A. Barella, and Mary Rich for their support. Thanks!

I was asked if I were a member of the student council, I told them "no". It was then, I noticed no other students at the meeting and only four parents. I urge the council members the F.H.A., F.F.A., and any other school groups to attend the board meetings. This invitation is extended to all the parents in the Carrizozo school system. I don't think we can hollar too hard about how the school is run when we don't take an interest in it. Please attend the next meeting!

Lynn and Lloyd did most of the cooking. Curtis said he was excused since he caught all of the fish. Lynn, here, is coating the speckled trout with his mustard dip.

Lynn offers a bit of fish to his guests. The menu was lots of oyster cocktail, pots of fish marinated in a super picante sauce, coated with some magic mustard and fried to a crisp. The finishing touch was a cherry cobbler.

Trail ride is to Frenchy's

The once-postponed trail ride to Frenchy's Cabin has been rescheduled for Sunday, Nov. 23, beginning at 8:30 a.m., trail boss Tony Genta said this week.

The ride was originally scheduled for Sept. 14, but was cancelled because of heavy rains in the area which washed out portions of the trail. The trail is now reported in excellent condition.

The trail ride, which will be limited to 25 horsemen, will depart from the mouth of Dog Canyon, approximately 15 miles south of Alamogordo on Highway 54, at 8:30 a.m. Signs will be posted along the road to guide participants.

Riders wishing to rent a horse for the day ($15) are asked to call Alamogordo (437-3416) or Clouderco (682-2334) for equine reservations. Only horses previously requested will be available at the starting point. The animals, thoroughly broken, can be handled by a novice rider, Genta said.

There is no charge for riders furnishing their own mounts. Riders are asked to bring sufficient food and water for at least six hours on the trail. Cameras are welcome.

Frenchy, known as the "Bravest Man in the Southwest," raised cattle, vegetables and had an orchard on his small spread in Dog Canyon in the late 1800s. He lived alone in a rock cabin he built with his own hands. Although the native Indians left him alone, saddle tramps and stockmen who coveted his water supply and fertile land gave Francois Jean Rochas continual trouble. Badly wounded once by a local gunman, Frenchy recovered only to be killed by three intruders in 1894.

Frenchy's cabin and many of the rock fences that he built still stand today as a monument to a persistent middle-aged man who left his homeland in France to seek his fortune in the new world.

Before the dinner, the pre-hunting festivities included a drink or two at the Post Office Bar in Lincoln. Bud Crenshaw who took the "Coon Rear Enders" (see Way West) on their hunt was there, too.

Unique New Mexico plan Legal specialists are available

By New Mexico Supreme Court Specialization Board

If a company is sued for an Anti-Trust violation, it will seek to hire a lawyer who is particularly knowledgeable and experienced in Anti-Trust laws, just as you would attempt to locate a lawyer experienced in handling criminal matters to defend you in a criminal case -- and New Mexico is the only state that has a broad program to assist the public in locating lawyers who are particularly experienced in a certain field of law.

A common experience of many people is to call a lawyer only to be told that he does not handle that type of case. The New Mexico State Bar also has a program designed to assist the public in locating attorneys who primarily handle certain types of cases. For example, you can now look in the telephone book's yellow page lawyer listings and find attorneys who indicate that they handle divorce cases, criminal cases, etc.

The State's Legal Specialization and Limitation of Law Practice program, in effect since September 1973, permits any attorney to state that he limits or primarily limits his law practice to not more than three of 62 recognized fields of law. Historically, up until the adoption of this program, lawyers have been prohibited from listing the types of law matters that they handle or are interested in handling. Under this new program, all lawyers are now permitted to do so.

Further, attorneys who meet certain experience requirements may state that they specialize in one field of law. Before any attorney may state that he specializes in a certain field of law, he must have devoted 60 percent or more of his practice time to a certain specified and specialized area of the law for at least each of the immediate past five years and must continue to devote at least 60 percent of his practice time to such field of law. Where a lawyer states that he is specializing in one particular field of law it means only that he has satisfied the above experience requirements. It does not mean that anyone has certified that such attorney is an "expert" in such field of law.

The other part of this new program, permitting attorneys to state that they limit or primarily limit their practice to certain fields of law, is available for use by any attorney who has been licensed to practice law by the New Mexico Supreme Court. The term "practice limited" means that such attorneys do not take or handle any legal matters except in the fields of law specified. The term "practice primarily limited" means that such attorneys are primarily interested in handling cases in the referred to fields of law, but that they also handle other types of legal matters. A notice to the public explaining this plan is currently published in the Albuquerque, Santa Fe and other telephone books' yellow pages under the lawyer's listings. It will be published in other additional directories in the future as lawyers in a locality utilize the plan.

The program, the only one of its kind in the nation, is monitored by a Specialization Board of the New Mexico Supreme Court. Florida is also placing into effect a specialization plan modeled after New Mexico's successful program. Several other states are presently considering specialization plans based upon the New Mexico plan. California has recently adopted a specialization plan upon an experimental basis whereby that state is attempting to certify lawyers as being "experts" in one of three fields of law compared to the 62 fields of law in the New Mexico plan. Reports indicate that more lawyers in more states favor the New Mexico plan over the California plan. The American Bar Association has set up a Specialization Committee to study and evaluate the two different approaches.

"The program was set up to formalize and publicly recognize a de facto specialization system that has long existed," says Albuquerque Labor Law Specialist Leonard Pickering, Chairman of the Supreme Court Specialization Board, who was also Chairman of the Bar Association Committee that developed the program.

"The assumption of omnipotence and the ability to handle any and every type of legal matter upon the part of every member of the Bar in every field of law is simply not valid. The New Mexico Specialization and Limitation of Practice program simply makes available to the public the truth and the facts of life, which is that many lawyers devote much or most of their time to a particular area or areas of the law."

"New Mexico's program does not mean that any lawyer has been certified as an expert by some external authority," Pickering explains, "because it is difficult, if not impossible, to devise tests or other standards that can guarantee the highest degree of competence and expertise."

"Even if we could devise a method of certifying that someone is an expert in a certain field of law, it would be impossible to set up different criteria for the hundreds of narrow areas of law which exist," he says, "and most specialists earn their reputations through word of mouth and through sustained success over a considerable period of time and will end up spending most, if not all, of their time handling principally matters involving one particular field of law. For example, a lawyer becomes known as a tax lawyer, a labor lawyer, a criminal lawyer, etc."

"While most lawyers either know or, by inquiry of other attorneys, can find out what lawyers are particularly experienced and knowledgeable in certain fields of law, at the same time such information has not been readily available to members of the general public. Therefore, one of the prime reasons for the adoption of this program has been to make such information more readily available to the public, that is, to make it easier for potential clients to locate attorneys who at least are interested in handling legal matters of the type that the client needs. Another prime purpose of the program is to encourage attorneys to attempt to specialize, or at least limit the principal areas of their practice to a relatively few areas of the law and thereby become more proficient and competent in such areas of the law, rather than attempting to be a jack-of-all-trades. As our society, government and laws have grown more and more complex over the years, it is an impossibility for any one person to keep abreast and up-to-date and, thus, proficient and competent in all fields of law."

Judge Payne's office is decorated in blue.

The J. G. Moore Agency and Bill Payne are combining in an open house celebration Friday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.
Margaret and Bob Stearns who own the insurance agency, have recently completed a new building on Carrizozo's Central Avenue. The building, topped with a red tile roof combines Spanish and Southwest styles.
The interior is divided into a reception room and several offices. It is attractively decorated in rich earth tones accented by orange.
"It is our Bicentennial gift to Carrizozo," said Margaret when complimented on the attractive addition to the town.

A new sign and a new paint job went on the outside.

The J. G. Moore building has a southwest style.

Neva Ventura has an office all her own.

The law offices and magistrate office of Bill Payne is located across Central and to the West in what used to be the insurance company building.

The interior has been completely re-decorated and includes a library as well as several offices. Happily the old courtroom bench remains.

Touches of the Southwest have been used to decorate the charming old building.

All the people in Lincoln County are invited to the two open houses for refreshments and friendly conversation.

Schools ordered to halt sex discrimination

The U.S. Civil Rights Director for this region has reminded New Mexico educators of their immediate obligations in regard to the new federal ban against sex discrimination in education.

The first step for local school districts is to publish their intent to comply with Title IX, Director Dorothy D. Struck said in a recent letter to Leonard J. De Layo, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Title IX is the portion of the Education Amendments of 1972 which prohibits sex discrimination in federally-assisted education programs.

The act states, "No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance."

In addition to publishing their intent to comply with Title IX regulations, school districts are to appoint a coordinator to handle grievances and complaints. They also are to conduct a self-evaluation of their districts, and to develop an affirmative action plan to correct any discrepancies found in this self-evaluation.
The New Mexico Department of Education has no responsibility for enforcement of the federal regulations, but staff members are available to assist districts in meeting Title IX requirements, De Layo noted.

Districts should publish their intent to comply immediately.

"This initial notification must appear in a local newspaper of general circulation, in their student newspapers, and in memoranda sent to all employees and all parents," Struck said in her letter to De Layo.

"The object is to notify each employee, student and parent, as well as applicants for admission or employment, that the district does not discriminate on the basis of sex, that it is aware of Title IX and its provisions and intends to comply with them."

The purpose of the self-evaluation is to determine whether the district needs to modify any of its policies or practices to bring them into compliance with Title IX. A description of any remedial steps taken as a result of this action is to be kept on file in the district for three years.

The appointment of a coordinator is to designate someone to be responsible for investigating any complaints brought to the district under the law, and to set up a grievance procedure for students and employees.

"Because these three sections are related, we suggest that the published notification of the district's policy of nondiscrimination by sex, also include the name and address of the district's Title IX coordinator and a description of the self-evaluation committee, its personnel and purpose," Struck said.

Under Title IX regulations:

-All courses must be offered to both sexes, except for classes dealing exclusively with the subject of human sexuality.

-All facilities must be available to members of both sexes, but separate restrooms, housing and locker rooms are permitted, as long as these facilities are comparable.

-Counselors are not to advise students to take one course or another on the basis of their sex.

-In physical education classes, students may be separated by sex for contact sports—wrestling, boxing, basketball, football.

-The regulations do not require single, co-educational teams for all sports. Where selection is based on competitive skill or the activity involved is a contact sport, athletics may be provided either through separate teams for males and females or through a single team open to both sexes.

-If separate teams are offered, the district may not discriminate on the basis of sex in providing necessary equipment or supplies.

-Employers may not use different standards based on sex for evaluating applicants for school jobs.
Failure to comply with Title IX regulations could result in loss of federal financial support.

Farriers for four generations return to hunt

Among the happy things that hunting season brought to Lincoln County, were the members of the Max Seguin family. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie English in Carrizozo. Jessie and his family were their neighbors back in Baldwin County, Alabama.

As a matter of fact, Max used to shoe Jessie's horse when they were Alabama neighbors. And that is the point of this tale. The Seguin family have spent four generations of labor in the horse shoeing business. They even put in a time in Ruidoso.

But the atmosphere for making a profit as a farrier is better in the Old South than in our West.

Max says that he only has regular customers and they want new shoes every month or six weeks. Our Lincoln County ranchers would have a hard time equipping their remudas at $16 up a horse every month.

Max knows everything there is to know about his trade. He carries around three quarters of a ton of shoes on his rounds. He makes his own hot shoes and fits the cold ones.

The following is a part of his story from the Baldwin Times. The NEWS believes its readers will enjoy the saga of a family of farriers.

By Claire Hamner
Times Staff Writer

"I've never worked a day in my life," said Max Seguin, a Farrier now living at El Toro de Oro Ranch in Lottie. "Cause how can you call it work when you love what you are doing," he added.

He may not call it work, but Seguin's job of shoeing horses requires a lot of knowledge, skill, patience and a lot of working man's sweat. There are several steps in shoeing a horse and each one requires a high degree of precision.

For Seguin, horse-shoeing was something he was born into. His father and grandfather were born farriers and now his son, Mike is the fourth generation of farriers in the Seguin family. The second oldest daughter, Debbie is also part of the working team of farriers in the family.

The name of the ranch, El Toro de Oro, is part of the Seguin family history. When the first Seguins (then Seguinia) left Italy, they settled in west Texas around Pecos. The leader of the clan owned a "golden steer" which he trained to help cowboys in their cattle drives.

In those days cattle would not cross the Pecos river because the sun shone on the water and created the illusion that there was no land on the other side. The senior Seguinia trained his "golden steer" to cross the river and lead the other cattle.

When cattle drivers would come to the town, the Mexicans could not remember the name Seguinia. So when the cowboys asked for the man who could help them drive their cattle across the river, the Mexicans called Seguinia the man with the golden bull or the man with "El Toro de Oro."

Seguin, his wife, Rose, their seven children and a regular menagerie of animals were on their way to Ocala, Fla. when their truck had a breakdown near Lottie. The whole family was so impressed by the people and the land that they decided to stay in the area.

Seguin said that his neighbors were "the greatest," the land was beautiful and peaceful and the weather was "hard to beat." When he compared it with his native state, Oregon, he said he could appreciate Baldwin County even more. His only complaint was the rain, but he added compared to the Oregon snow, the Alabama rain is a "blessing."

Seguin said he didn't think he would go back to Oregon to live again although he plans to visit out west often. Even if he did go back, he said, he would have to leave his children because they like Baldwin County so well. "It's like going to heaven and not having to die," Seguin said about the area.

Seguin has had some very good luck with truck breakdowns, not only discovering Baldwin County but meeting some Indians who became good friends. While traveling through Utah on their way to Colorado seven years ago, another breakdown landed them in Aneth, Utah on an Indian reservation.

The Indians offered to help the family with repairs and while talking with the Navajos. Seguin heard about their annual wild horse chase. Each year when the snows come in the mountains the wild horses come down to find feed. Then the Navajos drive them to Teec Nos Pos in the Arizona desert and round them up.

The Navajos own the horses and sell them to the Ute Indians who pay with silver and turquoise jewelry. When Seguin heard of this, he indicated an interest and was invited along. Since then he has gone on the wild horse chase with the Navajos each year. This year he will leave Nov. 4 for the eighth annual trip. He and his guests are the only white men.

The Navajos who call Seguin "Cheatie Cloth" (meaning White Beard), are a very proud people. Seguin said they have maintained much of their culture and life style as well as their superstitions. As many as 15 Indians may live in a hogan, a house made of wood and mud, with no furniture and only a hole in the center of the roof for the smoke to escape from.

On one trip in the mountains, Seguin and his children found some ancient cave home in the sides of the mountains where Navajos had once lived. Because of their superstitions, no Navajo has been inside the caves for over 200 years but they allowed Seguin and his children to enter them. While exploring, the family found pottery and remains of the Navajo culture which were 200 years old at least.

There is a great deal of respect for and pride in, the Seguin heritage among the family. Just as they are proud of the four generations of farriers, they are proud of the gifts handed down from father to son. The equipment Seguin is now using will go to his son, Mike, when he retires, just as his father gave it to him. The anvil which they now use was once used to make conestoga wagon wheels.

The shiny beige truck, "Lucy" which Seguin has been using to pull his rig, was given to him in 1952 by his father. At the time of the gift, Seguin's father told him "Every man should have a good truck, a good horse and a good dog."

There is no generation gap in his family. Seguin said, "My children know I am their father and respect that," he said. He added that he respected their rights as individuals also. "I am old-fashioned, I've had the same wife for 22 years," he added, smiling.

Neighbors, customers, friends and young men offering to help build the corrals all gather at the ranch. Different ages, different life styles and different races all meet at the El Toro de Oro and they are welcome. Many an evening will find the seven children, Seguin and his wife, a crew of neighbors and friends talking around a fire, drinking "shepherders coffee" and listening to country music and the sounds of evening. Conversation runs a full range of topics from the problems of youth and old age to good old cowboy tales.

Customers are full of compliments both about Seguin and his work. "It beats all I ever seen," said J.J. Ammons, a frequent guest as well as customer. Ammons praised the team work among Seguin, his son Mike and daughter Debbie, as well as praising a "secret formula" used on the horses hoofs.

One of the mixtures Seguin gave Ammons helped a crippled horse get well Ammons said. Another customer - friend Kim Weaver, said he saved her horse from becoming crippled by caring for a split hoof until it grew out.

Before he applies a new horseshoe, Seguin prepares the hoof with one of his special mixtures to prevent diseases. After cleaning the foot, removing the old shoe and protecting the hoof with the mixture, Seguin fits the shoe by the horse's foot. Then he adds the finishing touches of rasping, clinching the nails and dressing the hoof with hot oil dressing. Both the protective base and the hot oil dressing keep horses from developing any problems, in their feet.

Seguin had this message for young horse-shoers, either in the profession or considering it. "The future for a young farrier is great. There are more horses now than at the turn of the century and horses are much more valuable now."

"Where the problem for the young farrier lies is that after a three month course, he comes out of school a 90 day wonder. It is extremely hard for a young horse-shoer to go out into a world where horses have many problems with their feet and try to correct them with just three months of knowledge. The horse-shoer must be patient and try to acquire all the knowledge he can from all the other men in the profession. Even with much help and study there is no way he can reach the top of his profession in just a few years.

"I have been asked by many young horse-shoers in the area how I established myself so quickly. The only answer I can give, and be sincere is that a man's reputation follows him. Whether good or bad, it'll go before and behind," Seguin said.

Yes, but what does Gordon Wimsatt say?

By Bill Edwards

It used to be that people who lived in and around Cloudcroft listened to the weather report on the radio, or watched it with reasonable credulity on the television. But now one often hears any conversation about impending weather—particularly snowfalls—laced with this kind of remark: "Okay, so that's what you heard on the weather report, but what does Gordon Wimsatt say?"

And they are dead serious. Such is the reputation of Gordon Wimsatt, this latter day Nostradamus of the Sacramento Mountains. He has so consistently predicted weather events, and with such uncanny accuracy, using only his skills in interpreting the swirls, bulges, and cloudiness he sees in jars of bear grease, that few indeed are the unbelievers. And his fame continues to spread.

Wimsatt will tell you that he started all this bear grease consultation as a joke, some 40 years ago, when a man named George Hightower, a trapper for the state game department, told him that the Indians used to forecast weather with bear grease.

Since Wimsatt's bear grease is kept in clear glass jars, enabling him to observe the formations therein, a perfectly natural question is, "What did the Indians use for glass, since they had none?"

Well, he is ready for you on that one. The Indians kept their grease in animal bladders that had been scraped thin enough to be almost clear.

What started out as a mere interesting pastime led to more serious observation when Wimsatt began noticing a correspondence of observed weather conditions, particularly the more dramatic ones, with patterns that had been apparent in the bear grease hours, days, or even weeks before. This led him to pay much closer attention to the subtleties in the patterns, and eventually to classifications of them. Now, in addition to that, he is keeping accurate logs of weather versus the patterns. All the significant correlations are catalogued, and have brought the bear grease observation from the status of a joke to what is, if not a science, then a sober study of it all.

He has several jars of bear grease, some of it rendered from the bear fat of bears killed by hunters who know of his hobby, but he has a couple of jars of bear grease from bears killed 30 and 40 years ago.

One would surmise that a dead animal, and its cells and tissues, would be just that—dead, inert, done for. All the more mystery, then, that even the 40-year-old grease still reacts just as reliably as any other he has.

Wimsatt has also experimented with the rendered fat of other animals, even those which also hibernate, but none reacts like bear grease. However, he says, some of those he had studied and dismissed are receiving renewed attention, as he had observed it to do some things, but since it was not the familiar action of the bear grease, he had rejected them as not working. Now he is taking a careful look at them again, just to be sure that their indications may not be valid—just requiring a different type of interpretation. Among these are a mixture of deer fat and vegetable oil...this does make patterns, but Wimsatt is not ready to say, yet, what they may mean, if anything.

He has furnished skeptics or enthusiastic experimenters with samples over the years. But the trick is not in having the bear grease; it is in knowing what to make out of the patterns. To this end Wimsatt has begun a serious classification of these, and from some five or six variants he originally interpreted, with closer study he has been able to categorize and classify more than twenty-five distinctions.

The Wimsatt family is an old New Mexico name. As if the fame from his weather predictions weren't enough, there are two populated places in the state bearing the family name. One is Wimsattville, in Grant county, between Hanover and Santa Rita, and the other, Wimsatt, is seven miles east of Cloudcroft on U.S. Highway 82. He moved to this place Sept. 6, 1927, and has been there ever since. Presently he and his sons are land developers there, and also have a petroleum products company at Mayhill.

Gordon Wimsatt himself is a soft-spoken, confident man, quietly religious, who has made no effort to seek publicity or otherwise, to exploit his remarkable abilities. Fame and publicity have in fact sought him out and he, if anything, is not outwardly affected by it, and takes it all in stride. He has plenty to keep him busy in addition to the many calls and visits he receives from persons from all over the country who come to meet this unassuming businessman. They find him unfailingly polite and a gracious host.

Wimsatt's father was George G. Wimsatt, and it was he who founded Wimsattville. Gordon is one of six children, three boys and three girls. Examining the various jars of bear grease Gordon Wimsatt keeps, one notices variations in consistency and in color. Wimsatt explains this: "There are two factors that determine the color. One is the kind of food the bear had eaten and thus accumulated as fat, just before he was killed, and the other is the temperature at which the grease was rendered off. A low temperature will result in a clearer grease, while rendering at a higher temperature yields a yellowish color."

Both types are useful. The yellow variety, Wimsatt finds, is a better indicator of moisture, while the clear variety is most useful in predicting winds, particularly tornadoes and hurricanes.

For the cynic who has bothered to read this far, a word on the hurricane predictions. In August, 1970, Hurricane Celia, perhaps the costliest storm in United States history, struck Corpus Christi, Texas so violently as to cripple that city for weeks, causing an insured loss of 500 million dollars, not to mention losses not covered. Wimsatt had predicted a major hurricane "in the Corpus Christi vicinity" weeks before the event.

Wimsatt does not ask anyone to believe in his predictions, and he goes quietly about his business, high in these Sacramento mountains, unperturbed by all the discussion, pro or con, about bear grease weather forecasts. But his believers are legion.

And why not? One year, Sept. 21, at a Chamber of Commerce dinner, Gordon Wimsatt predicted it would snow in Cloudcroft on Oct. 17. Since this date would be rather early for snow, there were many scoffers, private doubters, and others who placed bets that it wouldn't snow. Some gave two-to-one odds against it. They were even chortling when, after two weeks of warm, pleasant, dry weather, Oct. 17 dawned like the many days before it.

But by midnight, Oct. 17, almost a full month after the prediction, the doubting gamblers were digging deep—one, to get out their money, two, to get their cars out of the snow.

It snowed again two days after that, but then there were more than two weeks of warm, dry. How do YOU explain it?

Three years ago, Mr. Wimsatt noticed a floating glob in the bear grease jar. It co-incided with an earthquake. Never ones to underestimate the predicting power of their jars, the earthquake watch was on. Sure enough, the glob repeated itself along about earthquake time. Gordon discovered that the glob appeared on the side of the jar that was pointed in the direction of the earthquake. He obtained some geological maps that indicate the major faults in the earth to assist in locating the forecasted quake.

This month a list of 75 earthquake predicted in the past year went off to Esquire Magazine in answer to its query. Gordon just completed an explanation of his method to the geology class at the Alamogordo Branch University. AM-LA a popular West Coast talk show flew Gordon to the Los Angeles for an interview two weeks ago.

For an up-to-date weather preview: A darkening indicates two fronts on the way. Moisture content low and no indication of severe cold yet. A hurricane is building in the Gulf of Mexico. Should have information in the next 12 days. Land tornadoes due East of Cloudcroft. Earthquake soon due West, probably Los Angeles area. This winter dryer than usual with regular but light precipitation. Not a good year for skiers.

It will may be that the bears will keep their secret for a long time. But in the meantime, it is not only interesting, but also pleasant, to have a personality like Gordon Wimsatt around to make life in the mountains interesting.

Gordon Wimsatt holds in one hand a jar of his famous bear grease. In the other, a chart he drew years ago showing some of the typical patterns he sees and interprets in the form of weather predictions. In the lower right hand corner is his good-natured nickname, "The Bear Grease Kid."

Sheriff's report

Texan injured near Capitan

Jerry Plemons, 23, of Lubbock, Tex., was shot in the kneecap in a hunting accident Saturday. The accident occurred on the Hank Lacy Ranch north of Capitan.

Plemons was hunting with Dennis Bristow, also of Lubbock, when the rifle carried by Bristow discharged as they walked through the rugged country.

Plemons is listed in good condition in the Roswell Hospital. The incident was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Dennis Cleaver.

A human skull was found late Sunday evening by two deer hunters in Littleton Canyon near Bonita Dam. The hunters turned the skull over to George Martinez, Range Officer, who called in Ralph Romero, Criminal Investigator of the Sheriff's Department.

Monday, Agent Romero led a search party composed of Sheriff's office personnel, Ruidoso Downs Police and White Mountain Jeep Club members on an extensive search of the area. Items of clothing and other bones were recovered.

Tuesday the clothing and remains were delivered to the Chief Medical Examiner at Albuquerque by Sheriff Leandro Vega and Agent Romero.

Curry Reynolds, represented by his attorney, Albert Rivera, entered a guilty plea to residential burglary and receiving stolen liquor.

The guilty plea stemmed from a burglary on August 22 at the Pete Ponder Ranch north of Capitan.

Formal sentencing was delayed pending the results of a 60 day diagnostic evaluation of Reynolds at the State Penitentiary.

Charles Mespelt, 45, Carrizozo, was arrested Saturday and charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Mespelt posted a $200 bond and was released pending his appearance before Magistrate Judge Bill Payne Nov. 12.

Tommy Nevarez, 30, Ft. Stanton, was arrested Saturday on battery charges by Sheriff Officers on a warrant issued by Judge Huey of Capitan. Nevarez posted a $200 bond to appeal before Judge Huey to answer the charge.

I would suggest that you take your vehicle to a reputable body shop, because if one little tiny parking ticket can clutter up your windshield you are in bad trouble, and driving may be hazardous!

Wonderful entertainment Saturday

Mrs. Rench accompanied Doris Pounds to the Membership Dinner of the Carrizozo Community Association for the Performing Arts at 7:30 P.M. November 8, at the Carrizozo Country Club.

Antonio Mendoza played Classic, Flamenco and Folklore music.

Jim Grant accompanied him on the bongos drums, in several selections.

It was two good hours of the wonderful entertainment which everyone did enjoy.

Senor Mendoza is an excellent artist and a select number of his paintings were displayed in the Country Club Lounge. His records were for sale there, too.

A delicious spanish dinner was served before the performance to a very large crowd who later did enjoy everything.

There were door prizes and many held a lucky number. It was a grand evening which should draw new members.

We certainly should join them to bring such grand entertainment to our area. It is needed. It is good environment. Let's join them and help them reach their goal of enjoyment.

The Republican Women's club met in the Carrizozo REA Building, Medallion Room at 7 P.M. Tuesday evening November 11, 1975.

Our State Representative, John Bigbee spoke on the "Land Use" bill and how we as private land owners can be affected.

The delegates who attended the State Convention were Opal Butts, Lorena Redcliff, Helen Pfingsten, Hazel Arthurs, Aileen Lindamood, Shirley Atwood, Gladys Knox and Myrtis Pfingsten.

The coming events are: Regional Meeting at Carlsbad, Nov. 9, 1975 at the Holiday Inn. This is no host luncheon meeting but if you plan to attend, please let Opal know so the group can plan to go together. Try to go. These meetings are always helpful.

The State Central Committee will meet in Albuquerque on Nov. 15 at 10:00 a.m.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pearce of Las Cruces, his sisters, Gertie and son, Alice, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hobbs and son of California enjoyed dinner at the El Paisano Cafe and renewed old acquaintances. They grew up in Capitan and are well known here. Many of us would love to have seen them. Gertie taught school. I have not been able to recall her last name. Do come again and visit your friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw accompanied by Doris Pounds and Mrs. Rench attended the regular meeting of Eastern Star Thursday night at the Masonic Hall in Carrizozo. Remember the Eastern Star School of Instruction to be held Friday, Nov. 14 at the Masonic Hall in Carrizozo at 4 p.m. We need you. Help us make this a success.

Reports on health of Bessie Cummins, Ethel Pepper and Travis Werner are very encouraging. Just keep up the good work on getting well. Your friends have good prayers and sincere wishes for your good recovery. They are at St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell.

Leo Powell returned to Capitan to make his home after seven months in Alaska with his son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Powell. He lives 80 miles north of Fairbanks. Due to his health he could not take the severe cold weather. There was two surprising snow storms that left three feet of snow. 45 below zero. There is no sun and will not be until next April. He felt he should fly south with the birds which he did Monday, Nov. 3. There was a delay at the starting point at Fairbanks Airport due to the snow. It had to be cleared of snow to get started and soon they arrived in Seattle, Washington. Then to Denver, Colorado and to Albuquerque, N.M. He spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rogers. Mrs. Rogers brought him via car to Capitan Tuesday morning where he will make his home. His health is much better and he is getting around good. We are enjoying his reminiscing of Alaska. He spent his birthday Aug. 5 in the Fairbanks Hospital Nine days in all. A bone siver high in his nose severed a vein. He had to be given two pints of blood. He is to date doing O.K.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee Traylor report that their daughter, Kathy, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Vinyard became proud parents of a sweet baby girl October 31, Halloween morning. Her name is Shawna Jann. Her five year old brother, Ricky, is very proud of her and so are her grandparents. Herbert Lee returned to Roswell Sunday but Mrs. Traylor remained for a week and then joined him.

Mrs. Elmer (Florence) Ham returned home from six weeks vacation in Germany visiting her son, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ham and Shirley. She enjoyed every moment. She stated that Shirley has finished two years training in nursing and is nursing and studying to finish her training. She said the country is very pretty and green. That she enjoyed the countryside. That buildings were so tall in the cities, she felt shut in but the country was beautiful. I am happy you had such a nice vacation, Florence.

Mrs. Gordon Barham and son Brett of Las Cruces spent several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Randle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greene of Las Cruces are spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones.

Mrs. A.L. Barber sold her property to some people in Tularosa recently and moved to Portales to live near her daughter. She has a trailer home. She had been ill and needed to be near her children. I wish her good health and happiness in her new home. We miss you but realize it is best for you.

Last week a hunter was shot by his partner thru the brush, and shot his knee cap off. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital. The bullet came out of the calf of the leg. I do wish him a good recovery. Dr. will have to give him a new knee cap.

The water was frozen in a beautiful house trailer home this Monday-morning. That means the weather has been and is cold. It was 16 degrees last night. We had a couple of days very high winds otherwise the skies have been clear and cold. Leaves are nearly all gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard House and family moved from the Engelking house in the subdivision to the Young house on east Second street. That will mean less driving to get to their work.

Mrs. Mike Pumphrey and two children and her friend Mrs. John Hancock of Houston are spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hobbs and his mother, Mrs. Joan Pumphrey and visiting friends as well.

A History Class of 40 from the University of Carlsbad, N.M. visited the Smokey Bear Museum last week for the history of Smokey Bear. Glad to have them. Mr. and Mrs. James McFarland of Roswell (correspondents for the New York Times who had written articles about Smokey and the origination of the Museum) also were visitors to see if there was anything new to be discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jenkins and daughter, Dara Genice and his brother, Bobby, of Clovis are visiting their mother, Amelita Jenkins.

Mrs. Rench and Mrs. Maude Kingston made a business trip to Ruidoso last Sunday. It was a beautiful drive even though the wind was blowing and it was cold. This is one great country which we do love.

Again it is the time of year our town is like a city due to the influx of hunters. We have lots of traffic and every business is flourishing. It will be a while the hunters are here. We do enjoy having them but do feel sorry for the deer. We have not seen a deer in some time.

Beef may hit $50 in spring

With the cow numbers expected to peak in late November, cow-calf producers may be extra thankful this Thanksgiving. Fewer steer slaughters are expected during the next nine months and by March or April beef producers may again receive over $50 for their choice steers.

Yearling numbers have already peaked. With fewer cattle over 500 lbs. the steer slaughter rate should go down while the price goes up.

The one million additional calves born in 1975 will be more than offset by increased calf slaughter during the year. Feeder cattle producers with cow-calf operations are still losing money at the current feeder prices and will probably continue to lose money in 1976.

Cattle feeders can improve their situation by utilizing as much drought-damaged corn as possible for corn silage. The feeding value of this drought-damaged corn silage, is at least 90 percent as good as regular silage.

Don't delay buying feeder animals too long. Although the calf prices may decrease some next month, feeder prices will increase as corn prices come down this winter.

Finally, carefully compare different feeder cattle buying opportunities. Remember that a wide margin between choice and lower quality slaughter cattle will continue through most of 1976.

Navajo Lake Salmon start

The early weeks of November not only herald the opening of the New Mexico deer season, but also spur the kokanee salmon run in Navajo Lake and Pine River to begin their annual spawn run.

Department of Game and Fish fisheries biologist Jim Grasnack has reported fair success by anglers fishing at the southern corner of the dam last week, and contact with anglers this week seems to indicate some exceptionally good catches were made along the dam. A few have been snagged from the boat ramp at the Pine River Recreation Area just above the dam.

This year, the run is a couple of weeks early, according to Warren McNall, assistant chief of the department. Fisheries Division, but he expects good kokanee snagging until mid-December. The best time to fish, he added, is in the early morning.

Fisheries personnel expect the peak of the run within three weeks, unless several days of cold, windy weather occur, which will set it up.

Special regulations for the kokanee run allow snagging, bow and arrow, spears and gigs, and the bag limit is 24 fish per day, with no possession limit.

Outlining the most productive method of angling for the salmon, McNall said the best tackle includes a six-foot stiff action rod, with a 12-14 in. butt handle, a fast-retrieve reel with at least 15 lb. test line and a treble snag hook with about two oz. of weight.

The kokanee are a Pacific salmon that mature in four to five years in reservoirs. The salmon making the run are mature, and will die shortly after spawning. This year the fish are ranging from 15 to 20 inches, and tipping the scales in the two-pound category.

While snagging for salmon, McNall suggested that sportsmen might also take advantage of the good waterflow hunting on the San Juan River below the dam, and the deer hunting in the vicinity of the dam.

The special salmon snagging season closes Dec. 31.

Tiger Talk

by BernNadette Gomez

Once again the time for basketball has rolled around. Both girls' and guys' high school basketball teams are hard at practice. Coaching the boys will be Mr. Charlie Boaz while Mr. Jack Mayfield coaches the girls. First game of the season for both Tigers and Tigerettes will be Friday and Saturday nights, respectively. On Friday night the Tigers meet Encino. Game time is 6:30 p.m. in the Capitan Gymnasium. Saturday night, November 15, the Tigerettes meet the Weed Bulldogs at 5:30 p.m., also in the Capitan Gymnasium.

We urge you to continue your support to each and every Tiger and Tigerette game.

Also, the Seniors of Capitan High School will present their annual Senior play on November 21, 1975, at 8:00 p.m.

"We 'Dude' It" is a comedy that will surely be enjoyed by all, young and old alike. The story deals with a mother and her son, from the East, who have inherited a ranch in Texas. Along with the ranch comes any and all kinds of situations that the Easterners are not prepared for in the Wild, Wild, West. One must see this play to enjoy the humorous lines and the "clever" acting of cast.

Included in the play are: Jim- the smart and modern Indian who is the caretaker of the ranch.

Maria- Jim's pretty Indian wife who is also the cook on the ranch.

Charlie Mudd- an elderly gentlemen and Indian fighter.

Bud Meachem- the young Easterner who learns and copes with the problems of the west.

Doris Meachem- Widow from the East who inherits the ranch in Texas and is determined to act as a Texan.

Donna Logan- 'Thousand Barrel Logan's' cute and young daughter.

Pete Logan- the gentlemen who is worth a million dollars but doesn't look like it.

Calvin Hinkley- the professor who wants to always measure cranial indexes.

Zeb Lewis- the fast talking and good looking "con man"

Stinkey- the impossible host who is disliked by all.

Miss Padgett- Carla Wayne's tired but efficient secretary

Yvette- Carla Vayne's French maid.

Carla Vayne- Old and wrinkley-faced movie star who has seen better days.

Be sure to come to this play on November 21. It is a play worth coming to. See you there.

Artist Named-Peter Hurd, left, was named a lifetime honorary member of the Eastern New Mexico University Alumni Association Nov. 8 during the ENMU homecoming activities. Making the presentation is Gary Blakely, president of the Alumni Association. Hurd's contributions to art cover more than four decades during which time he has produced murals, lithographs, temperas, and water colors. He has also authored many articles relating to art. (ENMU Photo)

Hamilton paid up. And it sure paid off.

The War of Independence had put us in the red for $27 million in securities.

It would have been easy to shortchange the public by paying them off at depressed market value. But Hamilton said no.

You see, he had pretty definite ideas about keeping the people's trust. After all, he was the first Secretary of the Treasury.

So he insisted that every debt be paid in full. And they were.

Over the years, it's paid off. Today, over 9 1/2 million Americans buy U.S. Savings Bonds through their Payroll Savings Plan at work.

They know Bonds are safe, secure and pay off at a good rate of interest, 6% when held to maturity in 5 years.

Here's a tip that's guaranteed to pay off.

Take stock in America. With the specially designed Bicentennial Series E Bonds. Don't shortchange your future.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. If 3% the first year. Just stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are available. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
