LINCOLN County News

VOLUME 68, NUMBER 36 THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1975 P.O. DRAWER 458 CARRIZOZO, N.M. 88301

After thirty three years of intermittent service as a public observer of local, state and, once, national events, it is a pleasing but momentarily shaking experience to be back at the desk again. Certainly every newspaper reader (ex-reporters included) has at times had a yen to tell it like he sees it. It would be a rare person who has not thought he could tell a better or at least more exact truth than the pro.

However, neighbors, when the job of telling is actually yours; when you are really at the task of taking scribbled notes, assorted impressions, history, cuts, comments and putting them all together; when it is yours to assemble on a typewriter, send to the typesetter, read for corrections, put together on a news page, headline, send to the camera, thence to the press, fold, address and occasionally ring 15 cents on the cash box; then, old bossy, your perspective is likely and ought to change a bit. While these printed words may never be immortal, none the less, they do end in bound volumes, often read years hence by learned historians. More important, at the best, words can effect and assist the people of our town and country, and, at the worst do harm to one of your fellow passengers on spaceship earth. Finally, if your words are impossibly boring, no one will read them and if you have a publisher, he'll fire you; or if you are the publisher, the bank will foreclose.

It is a matter of point of view, and when seeing a situation from all sides, it is sometimes complicated. For instance, the other day, while on drive through the Lincoln County country, a casual comment about the green plants just starting to flower, produced a resounding "Ha, rabbit weed!" from a friend who has spent his life in the cow business. So, let's try opening the same news story from about three view points: "The Lincoln County countryside, gloriously alive with bright green plants and frosted with golden flowers so typical of the early fall is attracting artist from over the nation", according to Mrs. Annie Artist, spokesperson for the Chamber of Commerce.

"Cowman Willie Feedbill told the NEWS today, that a couple of his neighbors ought to be horsewhipped for either being stupid or secret-Red agents. He showed this reporter pastures covered with bright green weeds that he said were proof of deliberate over grazing designed to discredit the American rancher and bring federal intervention."

"The prevalence of a bright green weed, sometimes known as rabbit weed, in Lincoln County this fall is an indication that local ranges are slowly recovering from severe drought damage," announced Ollie Optomist, visiting soil-conservation authority. He explained that the weed holds down soil while the gramma grass slowly regains its natural place in this area. So, my fellow critics, who is to be blamed if the story in the NEWS says "The beautiful bright green Lincoln County countryside observed this fall is a sign of hope and probably of Russian origin, according to heretofore reliable authorities."

Neighbor, Bud Crenshaw, and his fine son, Bobby Dan, have been experimenting with irrigated permanent pasture on their Gallegos place just northeast of Zozo. According to the family, education left a few scars on Bobby Dan and he is subject to bouts with a disease known as farming. It must be infectious because the other day Bud said, "You never would have believed it, but I've been out plowing up the good earth." Then he added, "Whenever I came to an exceptional stand of gramma grass, I just naturally made a little curve. If this experiment doesn't work, then the good lord and that seed patch of gramma will put things back to their natural state." (Note to out-of-the-area readers: The Crenshaws come from a long line of ranchers who probably originated in the garden of Eden and mostly believe that the plow is a sure sign of original sin.)

Last Saturday's dance at White Oaks was a happy lively occasion and preserved in memory with a coat of nostalgia. Yes, all you poor folks in Houston, New York and Los Angeles, there really was a baby in a basket sleeping in the kitchen. The old folks and the very young mostly sit watching but once in a while try a bit of "Put Your Little Foot". And there were families that spanned several generations of White Oaks living and loving. Ever so often a line of young bucks would parade through the hall inviting the inspection of pretty Lincoln County maidens, and the worried glances of a few mamas and papas, overheard father: "What is our Mary doing out in the school yard with that no good Johnnie?" Mother: "Probably the same thing we were doing twenty years ago, honey. Where are you going, now?" Father: "To get my shot-gun!"

We will always welcome your active reminders that consideration rather than castigating improves the ease of living in the human family.

-Mary Rich

Bradley named new Lincoln Deputy Sheriff

Quill Bradley, the son of former Deputy Sheriff Glenn Bradley, has been appointed Deputy Sheriff and will serve as a dispatcher. He replaces Frank Knoblock.

LaMay resigns as County Super

An "in-depth" study of county road problems and progress slated for airing at the County Commissioner's regular meeting Friday fell by the wayside when the County Road Superintendent Jack LaMay opened his scheduled late afternoon segment of the meeting with the announcement that he was resigning to take a better job.

The commissioners reluctantly accepted the resignation after receiving LaMay's promise to stay on the job for two more weeks.

Although the planned study session was cancelled, roads, and the lack of roads, had come in for considerable attention earlier in the meeting.

Bill and Louise Payton appeared before the commission to ask that the county road in front of Bonito Lou Cafe on Bonito Road be fixed. Mrs. Payton said the county had built the road two years ago above the safe level causing water damage to the cafe during rain storms. She said there had been no problem before the road work two years ago.

After discussion of methods of correcting the problem, the commission voted to employ an engineer to find a solution.

Roads in old subdivisions presented another problem for the commissioners Friday. Roy Shamburger and Bill Elliot, residents of Pawn Ridge Subdivision in Ruidoso, brought in a request from the subdivider, Sam Montgomery, be required to establish usable roads as indicated on the subdivision plat. Commissioner Bill Hart said he had inspected the area and found the roads in bad shape.

County Manager Les Olson told the commissioners that the District Attorney says subdivision plats constitute a contract. "We are going to have to make a massive effort on enforcement of these subdivision road requirements," Olson said.

A letter will be sent to subdividers requesting completion of roads on plats and asking for a projected completion date. If there is no answer or the answer is unsatisfactory, the matter will be referred to the District Attorney's office, the Commission decided.

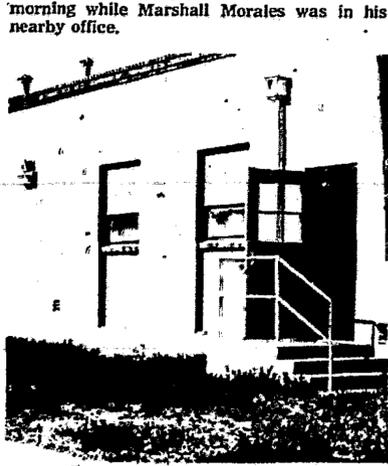

Also appearing to request subdivision assistance was Mrs. Reba Extor of Valley Heights Subdivision in Ruidoso. She said that her area had a road problem and in addition, a water problem. She said the subdivider had failed to provide water according to the understanding held by some residents. The Commission told Mrs. Extor that the road problem would be looked into but the water problem appeared to be a private matter.

In other areas concerning roads the commission decided to meet with the state highway engineer in an effort to get a commitment on Gavilan Canyon Road. Commissioner Hart said it was necessary to seal the road with oil before winter in order to preserve the work already done. Commissioner Bud Payne appeared reluctant to spend the estimated $5000 unless the state would confirm plans for a future black topping. Olson was instructed to request a meeting with the state for this week.

It was decided to postpone further work on the Bonita road job until an investigation of the possibility of dam damage by proposed dynamiting could be investigated.

Shot leads to arrest

A Carrizozo man has been charged with aggravated assault on a police officer following a shooting at the Town Hall early Thursday morning.

Marcos Barela, Jr., 22 years old, was arraigned before Judge Bill Payne on the charge and bond was set and made in the amount of $1500.

According to Sheriff Leandro Vega, Barela is charged with firing a high powered deer rifle through the front window of the Carrizozo Town Hall on August 28 at about 2:35 a.m. At that time, Town Marshal Conception Morales was working in his office in the same building. The shot evidently was fired from the alley near the school, a distance of about 150 yards.

Sheriff Vega said that earlier, around midnight, Marshall Morales had arrested Robert Schlarb and Donnie Sedillo for disorderly conduct. Also present were Barela and two other unidentified friends. Barela was not arrested at that time.

Sheriff Vega says that Barela alleges that Marshall Morales hit him and another party with his night stick and sprayed him and two others with mace. In a trial before Judge S.M. Ortiz, Schlarb pleaded guilty and Sedillo was found guilty of disorderly conduct.

Sheriff Vega said that Barela alleges that Marshall Morales' actions during the arrest of Schlarb and Sedillo caused him to decide to frighten the Marshall by firing a shot at city hall.

Barela has applied for Public Defender representation. Preliminary hearing has been set for Sept. 8 at 2 p.m.

County funds medical care

The County Commission, in a two to one vote released $12,500 of revenue sharing funds to the Lincoln County Municipal Hospital Friday.

The money will be used to back up the Health Delivery System that is under Med-We-Care, Inc.

Members of the Hospital Board with Nancy Knight as spokesman, appeared at the Commission meeting to request the fund release. Mrs. Knight said that the Board anticipated the following expenses in the coming months:

Salary expenses for a lab technician, nurse, office staff and custodial staff. Lab remodeling - $2000 plus.

Portable Heart defibrillator - $3450.
Emergency room supplies - $400 monthly.
Water pump repairs - $ 500.
House repairs - unknown.

Hospital administrator - $30 a day for two days a week.

Mrs. Knight said that these expenses and other were necessary for the operation and had been anticipated in the hospital budget but that some of the anticipated revenue in the budget would not be forthcoming until next January. She reminded the Commission that $25,000 in revenue funds had been earmarked for the hospital.

County Manager Les Olson recommended that the funds be released as a loan until the revenue was received. Mrs. Knight and other board members objected to the concept of a loan, saying that the $25,000 had been earmarked over and above the regular $58,000 budget.

Lengthy discussion produced a motion that $12,500 be released to the hospital for use during the next three months. Commissioners Nunez and Payne voted Yes and Commissioner Hart voted No.

Mrs. Knight announced that a new lab technician, Doris Mix, had been hired and would begin work immediately. Mrs. Mix is, in addition to being a technician, experienced in many phases of nursing and therapy.

Welcome planned for new doctors

The public is cordially invited to attend open house at the Carrizozo Health Center, Annex section of the Lincoln County Municipal Hospital, 804 E. Avenue, Carrizozo, New Mexico, Sunday, September 7, 1975 from 2:00 to 4:00 pm.

The open house is to introduce and welcome Dr. Marie Cortelyou and Dr. Ravi Bhasker, two new physicians to the area.

The arrival of the doctors culminates months of effort by Med-We-Care, Inc. Being instrumental in having part of Lincoln County declared a critical medical shortage area, Med-We-Care then made application to the National Health Service Corps for the services of 2 physicians to serve in the area. Prior to the arrival of Dr. Cortelyou and Dr. Bhasker the area containing some 4,773 people, was served by Dr. Amy S. Barton. Dr. Barton will continue her practice and is a member of the Med-We-Care, Inc., Board of Directors.

Med-We-Care is a tax exempt organization that will be required to pay back, to the federal government, all of the Doctor's salary in addition to paying all of the office expenses, the salaries of its staff, and purchase supplies and equipment to assist the physicians.

Come and help celebrate this Community effort - a true red letter day for the entire trade area.

Republican Women to meet at Joe Skeen residence

The Lincoln County Republican Women's Club will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Skeen in Picacho. It will be Sept. 9 at 7 p.m. This will be a family affair so everyone come and bring a covered dish.

Capitan rated No. 1

Schoolboy football kicks off

Three new coaches will be fielding Lincoln County teams when the grid season opens Friday night.

Sportswriters have put Capitan in the number one slot for district and the team should have a fairly easy time of it against Corona at Corona.

Capitan's coach is Billy Henson who has previously coached at Eastern New Mexico and at Clayton High. Henson told the NEWS, "I think we will take district. The kids have worked hard and learned a lot. If we do win, it will be because of an entire team effort."

Corona has a new coach this year. He is John Warfield who will also be industrial arts teacher. Warfield was coach at Santa Fe High for several years.

The Carrizozo Grizzlies are led by Henry Paul who brings 27 years of classroom experience on college and high school levels to the school. Coach Paul says his team is real scrappy but small compared to other teams in the area. He has only three seniors on the starting lineup. The first game is Friday in Carrizozo against Ruidoso. Coach Paul will probably start Jimmy Samora as quarterback in the game which may be a little rough on the Grizzlies.

Before-the-Game Dinner

An enchilada dinner will be served from 5:00-7:00 p.m. in the high school cafeteria on September 5, this Friday, prior to the Carrizozo-Ruidoso football game.

The cost is $1.50 per person and will include enchiladas, beans, salad, dessert and drink.

Support the Grizzlies with dinner and the game.

Coach Henry Paul says his Grizzlies are small but spunky. First game is at home against Ruidoso Friday.

A PINCH OF WISDOM - from Rev. Mr. Clew. Every Sunday morning in the summer, about 30 carloads of worshippers pull into a drive-in theater in Ozon Hell Md. for church services. Ushers guide the congregation members to parking places at 7:30. The speaker is mounted on the window. The sermon is spoken through the speaker system, and popcorn boxes are passed around for collection. The drive-in idea came to Rev. Clew after working in several churches, with no attendance. This idea was a great success. The people enjoyed dressing as they wished on summer evenings. The only problem the minister faces is the weather, at times.

A CUPFUL OF FACTS ABOUT RATTLESNAKES!

1. The rattlesnake is 4 centuries old.
 2. They are known as the-pit vipers which include the copper head cottonmouth.
 3. The largest diamond back can reach a length of eight feet.
 4. The best temperature for one is 80-90 degrees.
 5. They seek dew in the fall and come out in the spring.
 6. Females mate at two years, have a dozen or so babies.
 7. A rattler is added everytime the snake sheds his skin, which is about 4 times a year.
 8. They have good vision, but are short sighted.
 9. The pits on each side of the eyes contain a heat sensor to determine the temperature.
 10. Their fangs work something like a hinged hypodermic needle. When not in use they go back against the roof of the mouth.
- An interesting fact is that the venom enzyme has thus far defied precise chemical analysis. The venom itself produces pain, swelling, nausea, shock, hemorrhaging, circulatory difficulties and unconsciousness.

New rules for aircraft crossing Mexican border

All private aircraft crossing the U.S.-Mexican border will have to follow new guidelines announced today by the U.S. Customs Service. Customs Commissioner Vernon D. Acree said the new guidelines are made necessary by a "soaring" increase in air smuggling of narcotics and other contraband.
In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1975, Customs' Air Support Units accounted for 188 arrests, seizures of 46 aircraft, 70 vehicles, 114,443 pounds of marijuana, and more than 8,500 rounds of ammunition as well as scores of weapons.

Since then, the units seized three aircrafts, three vehicles, more than 3.5 tons of marijuana and arrested 9 persons.
Effective September 8, 1975, Acree continued, non-commercial pilots must report to Customs or the Federal Aviation Administration at least 15 minutes prior to entering the U.S. air space along the border the following information:
-Their point and time of penetration.
-The airfield adjacent to the border where they will land to undergo Customs inspection and their approximate time of arrival there.
-The commander's full name and the registration number of the craft.
-The number of U.S. citizens and aliens on board.
-The aircraft's point of departure.
Multiple entry exemptions--requests for several over-flights--may be obtained by applying to U.S. Customs 30 days in advance. Fifteen days notice is required when applying for a single entry exemption. The exemptions are good for a one-year period. A record of all exemptions, approved or denied, will be maintained.
Special permission to overfly designated border airfields will also be granted when weather conditions do not permit landings; when an aircraft develops engine trouble or has navigational problems; when a particular airfield is congested, or when the size of the airfield prevents a craft from landing safely.
Failure to notify Customs or failure to arrive at an airfield within a stated time will result in follow-up investigative action.
Violation of the aircraft reporting requirements will also subject plane commanders to a $500 civil penalty and possible seizure and forfeiture of their craft.

Customs inspections will be carried out at the following designated facilities:
--Brownsville International Airport, Brownsville, Texas;
--Calexico International Airport, Calexico, California;
--Del Rio International Airport, Del Rio, Texas;
--Bisbee-Douglas International Airport, Douglas, Arizona;
--Eagle Pass Airport, Eagle Pass, Texas;
--El Paso International Airport, El Paso, Texas;
--Laredo International Airport, Laredo, Texas;
--Nogales International Airport, Nogales, Arizona;
--Brown Field, San Diego, California;

--Tucson International Airport, Tucson, Arizona; and
--Yuma International Airport, Yuma, Arizona.

Billy the Kid and

The Case of the Missing Opera

A glory of purple and gold wild flowers found on the roadside near Sierra Blanca and photographed by David Muench make the cover of the August issue of New Mexico magazine.

Inside that cover are feature articles on the dramatic history of Lincoln County including a pleasant piece of whimsy by Nora Henn.

Mrs. Henn recalls the time when Zo Elliott, best known for his song "There's a Long, Long, Trail a-Winding" lived in the village of Lincoln and worked in the community church composing an opera based on Billy the Kid.

Polly's Bulletin Board

A little of this that and the others!

Rolling Stones leader, Mick Jagger, spent his 32nd birthday on stage at Indiana University in Bloomington. Jagger bounced across the stage, tossed buckets of water on the crowd and himself and grabbed a hanging rope and swung out over a crowd.

I recently also celebrated my birthday but not with that much gusto. Sunday morning (Aug. 24) we went to mass, came home and packed a lunch, diapers, sweaters, wash cloths, umbrella, extra training pants, 1st aid kit and teething biscuits. We were on our way to spend my birthday enjoying the Lincoln County Fair and very anxious to see the many ribbons our craft exhibits 'may' have won.

When we arrived on the grounds it was deserted. No cars, no pigs, no horses, no popcorn! This being the first time our family participated in a fair, I had been so excited. The dates, time and all information were carefully read weeks before. It was all there in black and white between two red covers. The mistake was that I was the only one that read the Fair booklet and I was the one that suggested the family outing for Sunday instead of Saturday.

So for my birthday we spent it tracking down our exhibits, but the good fair ladies had it all together and we thank them.

Our picnic lunch we ended up eating at our kitchen table. My best present that day was the kidding I got for being so "smart" and for having such a patient family. I wonder who first said the phrase "older and wiser"???

was one of several that Payton took. Mrs. Henn says that Elliott completed his opera and left Lincoln with plans for a summer production between shows of the Billy the Kid pageant that year.

Shortly after, however, Elliott died and as far as anyone in these parts knows, the opera was never published and the manuscript is lost to the world.

Mrs. Henn, a charming and accomplished woman, is the wife of artist Walter Henn. The couple live in a beautifully restored adobe on the edge of Lincoln. They have been active participants in the restoration of the village.

The history of Lincoln and the restoration effort of the town, first called "La Placita del Rio Bonito-The Little Village of the Pretty River", is told by John L. Sinclair in the same issue. The article is illustrated with a watercolor by Edmond DeLavy and photographs by Magazine Editor, Sheila Tryk.

Sinclair came to New Mexico from Scotland in 1923 and at one time lived in Lincoln. He is a cowboy, novelist and museum curator.

A third piece by Stephen Ressler Neary concerns the Wortley Hotel in Lincoln and Bill and Cecil Ware. The author mentions the fine food served at the Wortley much of which comes from the Ware garden.

New Mexico Magazine is an asset to the state and the staff is to be congratulated on its consistent quality.

Word has been received by Carrizozo friends of the death of Mrs. Eva Karlin in El Paso on August 27th. Mrs. Karline taught in the Carrizozo schools in the late 1940s.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gibson and daughter, Jonna who have been living in Dexter are moving to Carrizozo and will live in the house on 11th St. recently occupied by the Payne Law Office.

Mrs. Wally Ferguson will be hostess to the members of the Carrizozo Bridge Club Friday afternoon.

The young people of the CIO are planning a sidewalk sale at the Methodist Church on Saturday, Sept. 13. They plan to have a variety of second hand items for sale so stop around on Saturday the 13th. You're sure to find something you can use.

Dan and Glenda Armstrong spent the weekend in Carrizozo visiting Dan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Welcolm Armstrong. Their daughter, Kristi who had been visiting her grandparents for a week, returned home with them.

Composer Zo Elliott in a 1961 photograph by NEWS Publisher Paul Payton. The picture was taken in the Lincoln Community Church which was made available to Zo during his stay in that village.

Canners should note altitude

LAS CRUCES—Home canning is popular for many reasons. Some people want to cut the supermarket bill. Others enjoy being creative or saving excess home garden produce.

Home canning produces safe, inexpensive, quality products only if the food is carefully selected and prepared for canning, says Mae Martha Johnson, Extension nutrition specialist at New Mexico State University.

Because of New Mexico's high altitude, proper canning requires a longer boiling water bath when processing fruits and tomatoes.

Water's boiling point, depends on the atmospheric pressure. Since this pressure decreases as altitude increases, the boiling temperature also goes up.

Most canning directions give processing times for sea level. For a boiling water bath lasting less than 20 minutes, increase the processing time one minute per thousand feet of altitude. For processing times over 20 minutes, add two minutes for each thousand feet over sea level.

When using a pressure canner for low acid foods, increased pressures are needed at high altitudes. About 240 degrees Fahrenheit will destroy botulism causing spores in low acid foods. At sea level, 10 pounds of steam pressure develops the required 240 degrees. At higher altitudes, add one pound of pressure for every 2,000 feet over sea level.

Therefore, home canners living from 2,000 to 4,000 feet above sea level should use 12 pounds of pressure, while those at 4,000 to 6,000 feet should use 13 pounds. Use 14 pounds when between 6,000 and 8,000 feet, and use 15 pounds when between 8,000 and 10,000 feet.

A small pressure sauce pan can be used for canning if it is deep enough to hold the rack and pint jars. However, since a small pan reaches the processing temperature faster and cools swiftly, increase the processing time by 20 minutes.

Some pressure sauce pans and small cookers use a weight gauge with only 5, 10 and 15 pounds of pressure rather than a continuous dial gauge. In weight gauge cookers, use 15 pounds of pressure when canning foods at altitudes above 2,000 feet.

All good canning books give altitude adjustments. "Pressures and Processing Times for Home Canning," Extension circular 441, is available at county Extension offices and is an excellent free guide, says Mrs. Johnson.

Streets get gravel, oil

by Margaret Rench

Thursday night there will be a pot luck dinner at the School Cafeteria sponsored by the Capitan Athletic Club for the purpose of the community to meet the new teachers. Do come and bring the food for you and your family. Drinks will be furnished by the Club. Cups, silverware, etc. will be furnished there.

Our streets received their second coat of gravel and oil last week. So pavement is progressing. They are this day working on them. We are so proud of this. Makes such a big difference.

Many weeds have been cut and that certainly does help too.

The horses are being moved now from Ruidoso since the races have closed for this season. This morning there has been so many trailers and trucks going through that it made us feel like a much larger village. It is just three years ago today that the horses were being moved and a jockey was killed and Sam Hammons was seriously injured. But luckily Sam did recover after several months in the hospital. He and his lovely wife Ellen Faye are now residents of Capitan. They are employed at Cummins Store. Sam also works at the Boys Camp.

Guests Sunday evening of Mrs. Maude Kingston were two of her nephews who she had not seen since they were very small boys. They were Lloyd Bryant and J.H. Bryant. They each have a big truck which is hauling gravel on this project in Capitan. It was a very happy meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. L.J. Daniel of Abernathy, Texas, visited Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hobbs Labor Day weekend. Also all three of their grandchildren were there.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Hobbs and son of Wilcox, Arizona are visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hobbs.

Eleanor Hughes and friend Ruth of El Paso spent the weekend of August 23, 24 and 25 with Zona Creap in Capitan. They visited various points of interest and the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Mrs. Jessie B. Gullon and grandson Richard, of Long Beach, Calif. spent the 26 and 27 of August with Lenchie Dnahaoh in Capitan and they made the same tours as of above.

Mrs. Ethel Pepper moved back to her home last Friday-the Bert Chaney residence-where she had recuperated for two months after her return from the hospital. I do wish her happiness and contentment in her home.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Huse and family last week were his mother, Mrs. J.W. House of Carrizo Springs, Texas and her parents Mr. and Mrs. M.S. Schaefer of LaPryor, Texas.

Etha Merrell returned Sunday night from three weeks vacation in Hawaii. She and Melissa Coffman went together to visit Melissa's sister, Mrs. Laura Critcher, who has lived there for several years. They visited many points of interest that many tourists do not get to see. They had a grand time. Melissa will remain there for another few weeks. It was one great vacation.

Mr. Morey Beddoe passed away in Wm. Beaumont hospital in El Paso Monday morning after several weeks serious illness.

Margaret Linda Trujillo is home two weeks from Highlands University where she attended the summer session. She is enjoying her parents and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marguerito.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spohn of Kouts, Indiana is now visiting his brother Mr. and Mrs. Earl Spohn and family for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Lucy Padilla returned last Sunday night from three weeks good vacation visiting her children. She was met at Flagstaff, Arizona by her daughter Cecilia, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Yulano of Grand Canyon where she spent three days. Joe's mother joined them there. Then she went on to Bakersfield, California where her son Mr. and Mrs. Richard Padilla and family met her and took her to their home in Kernville, California. She visited her son Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Padilla and family in Ojje, California. She reports a grand vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pratt and son of Henderson, Texas visited her aunt Mrs. Bess Van Pelt last Sunday while enroute home from their vacation in Colorado. Where they had visited his sister and family.

Mrs. Pearl Marie Coor and Patsy enjoyed supper with Mrs. Van Pelt last Tuesday night, Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lealand of Ruidoso enjoyed dinner with her.

Albert Gallegos is spending three weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gallegos. He just completed a voyage on a chemical tanker SS Meadowbrook. Called on ports Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Panama, Ecuador, Puerto Rico, and finally the voyage ended in New York.

The Buddie Garcia home has received a new coat of white paint trimmed in gray. It is very pretty.

Vera Beall is visiting her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gesting in Tularosa.

Labor Day, Mrs. Clara Snow and Nellie Lee Baker visited Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson at their ranch home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ferguson of Ventura, California arrived Sunday night at the home of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson. They will spend three weeks here visiting relatives.

Sunday evening they all visited Mr. and Mrs. Miles Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Ned Sanders and Claire in Nogal.

Mrs. Mollie Bosh of Nogal enjoyed her 99th birthday last Sunday, August 31. I do wish you many more very happy and healthy birthdays, Mollie.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Anderson returned home from six weeks vacation in Sedillo, Mo. visiting their daughter and other relatives and friends.

Ethel Merrell visited Mrs. Champ Ferguson at her ranch home Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ruby Dunn of DeKalb, Texas spent last Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. H.Lee Miller. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Dunn worked together for the Army at Holloman AFB for a number of years before they retired.

Last Thursday Pat Flatley, Amelia McKnight, Vera Beal and Louise Fersugon enjoyed lunch and canasta at the home of Lorene Ferguson for the day.

Tuesday, Aug. 26, Miss Beverly Cornelius was united in marriage to Mr. Gary Goudy by Rev.

Elvis Werden of Ruidoso Downs. In a beautiful garden wedding at the Cow Ranch. At 1 p.m. the reception was also held there.

Beverly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hammons of Capitan. Her grandmother Mr. and Mrs. Crawford of Tatum were present.

The bride wore a floor length white dress and carried a bouquet of pink and burgandy carnations. Her maid of honor was her sister, Kay, who wore a floor length dress of burgandy. Her bridesmaids were Kim Goudy and Pam Payne.

The young couple will make their home in Austin, Texas.

The living is easy — the opportunities are great — in Carrizozo, New Mexico

Living Good Year-around

CLIMATE — Year around Carrizozo is an ideal place to live. Summers are moderately warm with maximum temperature exceeding 80 degrees only about half the time from June through August. Hundred degree days are rare. Humidity is minimal. This information based on Weather Bureau records for the past 30 years. An elevation of 5420 and generally dry, clear air favor rapid cooling at night; summer minimums usually fall to the low 60's in the warmest months. Over 60 percent of the yearly precipitation normally falls during June-October — most of it coming during brief but occasionally heavy thundershowers.

Winters are mild and considerably dryer than summers. November through May an average of only two days a month gets as much as 0.10 of inch of moisture. Freezing temperatures at night can be expected from early November to the latter part of March, but only 12 days in 30 years had readings of zero or below. Relative humidity average in Carrizozo is about 45 percent for the year. Sunshine is expected more than 75 percent of the daytime hours during a year. Fall and spring months are especially sunny, with many months having sunshine more than 90 percent of the daylight hours. Average hourly wind velocity is around 12 miles per hour. Spring months are windiest. Carrizozo has an average growing season of 192 days.

Season's first beef sale draws keen interest

LAS CRUCES--Beef producers, buyers and a film company expressed keen interest in the 14th Annual Mescalero Cattle Growers Sale held Aug. 16, says William Ljungdahl, Extension livestock specialist.

The average selling price of 1975 steer calves was $18.65 per hundred weight, 750 heifer calves averaged $30.90 and 30 old bulls brought $25.50.

The 200 old cows claimed the lowest dollar, averaging $18.60.

Lot sizes were 125 for calves, 50 for cows and 30 for bulls.

Tom Dunlap, Encino, was the volume buyer, purchasing 875 steer calves. He established the day's top price at $40.75.

A tour of the pasture cattle preceded the sale at the Mescalero-Indian-Reservation community center. The day's activities were filmed for television by a British filming company.

Buyers from New Mexico included J.D. Hance, Clovis, H. Nicholas, Kenna, and D. Johnson, Roswell. Texas buyers were Black Estate, Granbury, Bill Bradley, Littlefield, Buck Jackson, Pecos, B. Draper, Tahoka, and H. Belcher, San Angelo.

The big sign goes up in front of the new J.G. Moore Insurance Building. Margaret and Bob Stearns have built this attractive addition to Carrizozo in Southwestern Spanish style.

The Hollemans were in Denver recently and Lon entered the junior team roping for those seventeen and under. There were 180 teams coming from Hawaii to Illinois and included several girls who did a good job. New Mexico boys made a fine showing with Ken and Wes Smith of Eunice winning the five steer average and Sid Price, Tatum, and Ken Smith having 6.85 for the fastest time.

What Is Lane Blocking?

By Andrew H. Stuart
Manager of Equipment Testing and Research
American Bowling Congress

NOTE: The following presentation was given by Andrew H. Stuart, manager of equipment testing and research for the American Bowling Congress, at the 1975 WIBC Annual Meeting in Indianapolis, Ind., in April. It is being reprinted because it is of interest to all bowlers.

Years ago lane blocking was a matter of sanding and "dishing" the lanes. There were many ways to do it—but all were detectable by physical measurement.

Today it is much easier to block lanes and more difficult to detect.

The "blockers" now use the lane dressing.

First, I would like you to know the prime function of lane dressing. It is not to control the hooking of the ball—but, of course, it does.

The reason for lane dressing is to protect the plastic film or lane coating. It serves as a cushion to absorb the impact when the ball is delivered. It also prevents the burning (that dark brown coloration you sometimes see), caused by the heat from the skidding action of the ball for the first several feet.

One more thing before we get to "what is a blocked lane," as it does have a bearing on the path of the ball. A perfectly-delivered ball will skid for 20 feet, spin and start turning for 20 feet, and start to roll out in the last 20 feet, with the ball striking the pins with the thumb and finger holes every time.

Now with a common understanding of what takes place out on the lane, let us consider a practice that is slowly degrading and choking our game to death.

In order to block a lane, all you need is a four-inch sponge or mop, or up to a 20 to 25-inch towel.

You simply soak the sponge in lane dressing, wring it out so it doesn't drip, set it down at the foul line on the center four boards and run it down to a few feet in front of the headpin.

You do not have to do anything else to the lane and you have what I refer to as a "hard block."

A hard block is a dressing-stripped condition that will last through two evening league sessions. The towel treatment is the same except the oil or dressing line can be set at the second arrow or 10th board from the gutter—right and left side.

As you can readily recognize, there are apparently degrees of blocking all the way down (on a severity scale) to what I call a "soft" block.

Some of you may have bowled on such a condition! Can you remember when you may have started on the second arrow on a league night and it seemed you had exceptionally (actually, unbelievable) control and you couldn't miss the pocket the first game? Then, for no apparent reason, the ball started to hook into the headpin and you couldn't stay in the pocket as you had in the first game and the second game started to be a scoring disaster until you moved inside a board or two or speeded up the ball. The third game was more or less an average game.

Well, if you've had this experience you have bowled on a soft-blocked condition.

What does blocking do? It forms a barrier which can either prevent the ball from crossing over (in a hard block) or guides it toward the pocket.

For example, with a hard block you can drop the ball behind the foul line; it rolls on the dry lane and hooks, hits the oil line and drives into the pocket.

Or if you pull the ball or put it too much, it will once again hit the oil line and settle back into the pocket. At the very least, on an extremely poorly-delivered ball—where you might expect to get three or four pins—you wind up with seven or eight pins.

What really happens? Several things which you can see from the foul line.

1. Bowling balls which you may feel have been pulled or pointed too much, will either be in the pocket or solid in the cross over.

2. With a severe block or in the initial stages of the soft block, you will be able to see your ball skid out in the dry area, start to half skid and half turn and then when it hits the oil line, the ball will actually try to reverse its direction or delay its roll out and strike the pin setup with tremendous force. It really blows the setup apart.

3. The cross deck pin action is unbelievable! The reason is that the ball roll out has been retarded and therefore reaches the pins at its apparent maximum point of roll out.

Does lane blocking help all bowlers? No! The biggest beneficiary is the better bowler—130 and over—those bowlers who can consistently hit their spot and deliver the ball the same way each time.

Not all good bowlers are helped either. Those shooters who put a lot of fingers in the ball or get a lot of lift are at a disadvantage because their lift on the ball drives it through the dressing barrier. While they get some help stopping the ball from hooking once it gets into the heavy oil, it does not stop in the pocket.

The real benefactors of a block are those bowlers who can stroke the ball smoothly, with little or no lift. The soft shot. Place it on the edge of the oil line, keeping the ball straight down the boards and right in the pocket with unflinching consistency.

Results: big games, big totals. However, the better bowler must make some adjustment for the spare shot. But before we consider that, let's take a look at the lower average or so called "forgotten bowler."

The lower average bowler is ignored and, more often than not, frustrated by a block.

First, she does not have the ability to get to the foul line the same way each time. While she may get some help (extra pinfall on a badly delivered ball), her getting to the pocket consistently will not happen.

I mentioned the need for adjustment in the spare shot. Well, the better average bowler is more attuned and more readily adjusts to lane conditions.

To illustrate, we have a 4 pin leave. Okay, the teaching procedure has been to tell the bowler to move slightly to the right (right-handed bowler) and angle the ball across the lane at the pin. So we do this. What happens with that oil barrier? The ball hits it and starts to hold or even back up and misses the 4 pin—more often going through the 5 pin spot.

Now if this happens to the good bowler, she may try that angle one more time and if the ball reacts the same, she will move over to the left side and roll the ball at the flat angle to make the spare.

The lower average bowler shrugs her shoulders. She doesn't have the know-how to make the necessary adjustment and spends a miserable bowling session.

Is the problem of blocking really that bad? How about 11 300s in one three day tournament or seven 300s in another three day tournament. One league of 10 teams—five bowlers per team—in one night rolled: one 300, one 299, three 800s, one 3631, three 3560 or better series, 14 700s, 27 games of 250 or better. They shot the highest total score for a 10-team league in the American Bowling Congress history at that time. Needless to say, the scores were not approved.

It's like putting a spring board in front of the high jump standard or bar. Anyone should clear at least seven feet or more under such a set-up but it's not quite the same high jump event—is it?

There are 100 yard dash records, as you know, but if a record is broken the course is measured and if it is found to be only 97 yards or less than 100 yards, the record time is not recognized. Really the poor runners have absolutely no signs to warn them but it's no record regardless!

Of course, there must be a purpose to my being here today. Not just to inform you of this malignancy in the game we all love and enjoy, but I'm really here to ask for your help.

We've tried to do the job quietly and diplomatically, but we ask you now to help stamp out this practice by expressing your individual distaste about lane blocking in the centers where you bowl.

Nick Mormando, president of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, said it for me. Here is what he told ABC's delegates about a small core of proprietors who are bringing discredit to the sport by blocking lanes: "We deplore it and we apologize for it, but it's not all their fault. Many proprietors tell us their customers demand that shot (blocking) and if we don't give it to them they say they'll go to a place down the street that will give the shot to them!"

He went on to say: "Go back to your proprietors and tell them... 'We don't want that shot. If you don't stop blocking your lanes we'll go down the street where they won't do it!'"

Well, I guess that says it all. Do we as bowlers accept the challenge to clean up the game which has given us many happy hours and friendships? I sure hope so... because you must be deeply interested in preserving the integrity and plausibility of the sport or you wouldn't be here. You are a driving force in the game and I ask for your voice and support to stamp out this practice that can make the game of bowling a farce.

Andrew Stuart, manager of equipment testing and research for the American Bowling Congress, answers questions of delegates following his presentation on lane blocking at the 1975 WIBC Annual Meeting in Indianapolis, Ind.

'Zozo Rec happenings

by Jim Valdez

Next week will begin a new season of bowling. I would like to personally welcome all of the people of Carrizozo to come to the Recreation Center and participate in one of our fall leagues. There are several good reasons for participating in bowling leagues:

1. People like ourself who live in a nation of convenience like the United States should take time out to take in a little exercise. After all, our bodies are like a machine and exercise is it's only nourishment.

2. Bowling in leagues gives one a chance to meet and socialize with people who have lived in the community for several years and have never had a chance to really know one-another.

3. Bowling in leagues once a week helps break the monotony of a "long week."

So here are three good reasons why people should participate in leagues. So until next week when this column will appear again, this is Jim Valdez saying "keep 'em out of the gutters."

Atlantic Reveals Secrets of Monitor's Grave After 111 Years

IRONCLAD U.S.S. Monitor lies upside down in this mosaic of undersea photos pieced together by Navy technicians. The Civil War vessel was found by a National Geographic-Duke University team. Identifying features include: 1) distinctive anchor well at the bow; 2) armor belt around the hull; 3) the revolving gun turret, which slid off as the wreck sank and rests partly under the stern.

Site of sunken monitor preserved as sanctuary

WASHINGTON—The United States will dedicate its first National Marine Sanctuary, 16 miles off Cape Hatteras, in January.

Seamen may think "sanctuary" an odd term to apply to the storm-tossed currents around Hatteras, but the site marks the final resting place of the U.S.S. Monitor and 16 crewmen lost when an Atlantic gale sank the ironclad 113 years ago.

In the January National Geographic, John G. Newton, the Duke University scientist who found the Monitor in 220 feet of water on August 27, 1973, tells how the historic wreck was located after more than a century.

A special fold-out page in the magazine contains a mosaic of hundreds of underwater photographs, pieced together by United States Navy technicians to form a complete view of the shattered warship lying upside down on the ocean floor.

Nearly Eluded Searchers.
The Duke University research ship, Eastward, engaged in a submarine geological survey and a search for the Monitor, nearly sailed past the wreck, Mr. Newton relates.

The scientists, who included Dr. Harold Edgerton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Robert Sheridan of the University of Delaware, and Gordon P. Watts, North Carolina state archeologist, wasted three days probing what they thought to be the Monitor.

It proved to be a sunken trawler whose curved wheelhouse resembled the circular gun turret of the iron clad.

When the search was resumed, Eastward's sonar picked up a faint echo that almost went unnoticed. But Fred Kelly, chief of the vessel's oceanographic party, walked past the echo recorder and spotted the slight variation. At his suggestion Eastward reserved course—and its sonar locked onto the Monitor.

Dr. Edgerton, inventor of the strobe light for photography, directed lowering of a side-scan sonar he had helped develop. It showed the clear outline of the wreck, from bow to stern.

"We also discerned a circular structure that could be Monitor's rotating gun turret," Mr. Newton writes.

Identifying Features Filmed
A television camera lowered to the site made videotapes of other distinguishing features: the Monitor's flat-bottomed hull ringed with its protective armor belt, iron deck plates with their clearly visible rivet holes, and the large cylinder that was the turret, protruding from beneath the overturned wreck.

The Eastward's search, supported by grants from the National Geographic Society and the National Science Foundation, and by the United States Army Reserve, who supplied two craft to aid the expedition, successfully pinpointed the Monitor's grave.

But equipment problems prevented the team from photographing all of the wreck, and more identification was sought. A second expedition, supported by the National Geographic Society and the Navy, returned to the site in April 1974 aboard the Alcoa Seaprobe.

The Seaprobe is an oceanographic research vessel equipped with special propellers at its bow and stern, permitting it to hover over a precise spot on the ocean floor like seagoing helicopter.

A camera pod lowered from a well amidships enabled researchers to obtain more than 2,000 photographs of the Monitor, disclosing additional details that dispelled any doubts about the wreck's identity.

Deck Plates Recovered
Subsequently, Dr. Sheridan brought to the surface some of the Monitor's deck plates and an encrusted two-layer disc that when cleaned was revealed as one of the warship's distinctive iron decklight covers.

Mr. Newton observes that the depth and treacherous currents at the site rule out attempts to dive to the wreck. And he concludes: "The remains are in such a badly corroded and fragile condition that the ship may never be raised intact."

The Monitor won her place in history on March 9, 1862, when she repulsed the Confederate ironclad, Merrimack, in a duel at Hampton Roads, Virginia, and prevented the South from breaking the crippling Union blockade.

But the Monitor did more: Its revolving gun turret forever altered naval warfare. The Merrimack, built on the burned hull of a Union frigate and later renamed the C.S.S. Virginia, had conventional batteries of guns on each side of its deck. This required more maneuvering to bring the cannon to bear on a target. Within a few years, the world's navies had adopted gun turrets like the Monitor's.

As a National Marine Sanctuary, the famous ship will be safe from underwater vandalism. Any archaeological expeditions to the site in the future will require government permission and will be carefully scrutinized to insure the Monitor's preservation.

FHA News

FHA Leadership Camp was held at Glorietta Baptist Conference Center in the beautiful Sangre de Cristo Mountains on September 25 through the 28.

From Carrizozo, Delores McBride and Annette Chavez attended the camp. Mrs. Angeline Provine of Capitan provided transportation and also attended the camp along with three Capitan FHA'ers. They were Lily Montes, Reeba Hardy and Monsalisa Griego. Stella Chavez of Tularosa, Cheri Lane of Alamogordo and Cathy Barnette of Corona who are also from District J made the trip also.

There was never a boring moment for as soon as the girls arrived there were various workshops to attend, nature hikes, volleyball intramurals, a scavenger hunt and a talent show. The girls returned with many ideas on leadership and ready to start a new and better FHA year.

limited time, I was not able to obtain all the information that I need. Could you please pass this letter on to a local historian or print it?

James Curry moved to San Antonio, Socorro County, in the 1880's and ran the Mountain Queen Saloon there for many years. He later was the engineer at the Homestead Mill in White Oaks.

On February 21, 1888, he stabbed a friend, John W. Foley, in a fight. The man died two days later and Curry was taken to Lincoln where he was later found guilty of murder in the third degree and sentenced to six years in prison.

Many residents of this area took part in the trial and later asked the governor for a pardon. James Curry was pardoned in March, 1891, and left the state for good.

I would like to know if there is anyone who knows where Foley is buried in the cemetery in White Oaks. Also do the descendants of Jefferson D. Grumbles, Edwin R. Bonnell, J.P.C. Langston, George Curry, Nathan Jaffa, John W. Riley, Dr. Alexander G. Lane, Dr. B.F. Wilson, Dr. Ivey, or others remember anything of this man or incident?

I would also like to know if you have any historical editions or centennial editions of White Oaks that would give me background material.

Thank you,

Letter to Editor

8-27-75

Dear Paul & Eleanor,

We are finally settled and our work is before us. We are trying to become acquainted with the community and learn where everyone lives. The community is much like Carrizozo, but we certainly miss the people of the Carrizozo area. Our school is about the same size, but we do not have a new Gym. It has definitely been around for a few years. The kids are adjusting and seem to be doing well in their studies thus far.

David is playing Junior High Football and he's learning the pain it takes to play. Gina is taking a little longer to really fit into things but the boys are trying to help her!!

Paul, we would appreciate it if you would send us the newspaper. We can keep up with the news, and Gina would especially like to keep up with the girls basketball games.

Well, the best to everyone and we'll keep in contact.

As always,
Dan & Ann

The NEWS goes dancing at the White Oaks School House

Mary Rich

Lincoln County News, Sept. 4, 1975, Page 15.

Saturday night the music was provided by Calvin and Betty Boles with Bob Wolfe of Carrizo doing a fine job on the fiddle. The dancers ranged from 8 months to 80 years and at least one family, headed by Preacher Dobbs, spanned four generations. The activity outside (not pictured) was just about as active as that on the dance floor. We know what the youngsters were doing. Yes, the same courting that their parents did years back. And as usual, there was conversation and refreshments around the car fenders.

It is a good feeling--knowing that some nice things continue unchanged for generations of White Oaks families and their friends. The old timers say the dancing at the White Oaks School hasn't changed much over the years. The ladies mostly wear pants instead of skirts but other than that, the lively evenings are about the same.

Pat Dunning, Brian Vigil and Bud Taylor were watching the dancers.

Mike Points found a dance partner who was light on her feet--4 year-old Suzy Pilley.

Zane and Bessie Leslie do a lot of work and a lot of dancing at White Oaks.

Fred LeMay is talking to some one on other side of the stove.

Bob Wolfe's fiddling added considerably to the western music of Calvin and Betty Boles.

Bessie takes a turn with Zane Jr.

Jackie and Dick Bradley saw some of the floor action.

Years of international detective work unlocks secret of 18th century treasure

Washington — In the best Robert Louis Stevenson tradition, the chests of silver lay for more than two centuries in the sandy cove of a small island off Africa. The markings on a missing drinking cup the only clue to their location.

Then, after years of research, perseverance, hard work, and good luck, the fortune was found — only to be stolen by underwater thieves and, as in all good stories, finally recovered.

In the August National Geographic, professional diver Robert Stenuit spins a rare yarn of how he unlocked the riddle of the treasure of the Slot for Hooge, a Dutch East Indiaman lost in a gale in 1724.

Hunted Through Archives
"In the national archives at The Hague, Netherlands, I had come across a report of the Slot ter Hooge wreck made by her first lieutenant, Baartel Taelinck, to the Dutch consul at Lisbon," explains the author, a professional salvor.

"The report gave details of the wreck and listed the ship's precious cargo: 15 chests of silver bars; others containing Spanish pieces of eight and Dutch silver coins...."

The galleon, whose name means "Castle of Hooge," had sailed from the Netherlands for Batavia (now Jakarta), where her three tons of ingots and four chests of coins would buy coffee, tea, sugar, pepper, indigo, rare woods, and other products of Asia.

Driven off course by an Atlantic gale, the ship grounded in an inlet at Porto Santo and broke up. Only 33 of her 254 passengers and crew survived.

The company hired John Lethbridge, an English diver, to retrieve the vessel's cargo. But there the records stopped. Lethbridge had invented a "diving machine," a wooden barrel with a glass face plate and two leather-sleeved armholes, in which he could descend 60 feet.

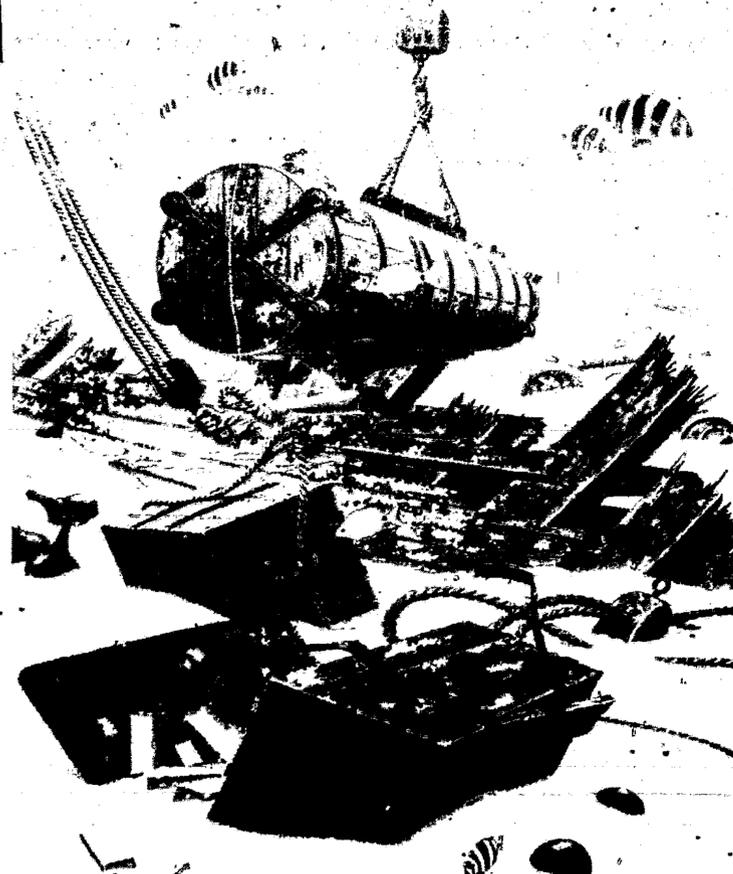

Lowered from a boat, the diver would work until his air grew stale and water seeping into the barrel became too high. Then he would be pulled up, the barrel drained, and he could go down again. But had he recovered the treasure?

Drawings Provide Answer
In London, friends of the author found a report of a learned society that met in Devonshire, Lethbridge's home. Written in the 18th century, the paper bore Lethbridge's coat of arms and drawings copied from a silver tankard that had belonged to the diver.

One drawing showed the "diving machine" suspended from a boat. The other showed a map of Porto Santo, with the inlet and a ship. Mr. Stenuit had his treasure map. Further hunting through the archives disclosed the diver had brought up more than 1,200 of the 1,500 silver bars and much of the coin.

Mr. Stenuit was able to identify the island as one of the Madeiras, now named Porto do Guilherme. With support from the National Geographic Society, he organized an expedition that found stacks of coins fused into a lump and dozens of ingots, some still in their chest.

But before they could be photographed, another diver secretly made off with the contents of one chest. Warned of possible prosecution, however, he returned them to the expedition.

CASK with arm holes and glass face plate enabled an 18th-century diver to recover chests of silver from a sunken Dutch ship. The rest of the silver remained lost until a recent expedition used scuba divers with air hoses to scour the old wreck site.
