A few of us are fortunate enough to wander daily among human kind in its most exposed state. I am of course referring to intellectually and emotionally exposure—the full scope—ecstatic, sorrowful, generous, selfish, uncertain, proud, and all of those marvelous, ebullient, everyday feelings we enjoy.

Not too long ago, our super diagnostician Dr. Amy Barton, was feeling a little tired and certainly down. She discussed the emotional drain on people who constantly are with the sick, the troubled, the disturbed. Dr. Amy said she truly missed her obstetric practice—that wonderful way helping create new life.

When Red Cross exec. John Rogers was in town he talked about a career that dealt mostly with disaster. After a while angels of mercy seem to live constantly on the brink of tragedy.

Reporters, shopkeepers, preachers and beauty shop operators see people at their best and their worst. We are on hand to witness the shambles of life; that twisted tortured creature who leaves the court rooms declared guilty of being unable to live in peace with his fellow man. But we are there when the awards of valor, of superior service to mankind are made.

W-W

All in all, we meet more nice people than not nice and thus have our faith in the future of the human race confirmed daily. And it is necessary.

For instance, after two years of constant reminders of the pitiful condition of the body politic; after a lifetime of hearing the protests from so called average citizens about the ineptitude of Washington bureaucrats, state house pols and county road crews; after two hundred years of demands that government be returned to the local level (remember 1776 and 'no taxation without representation'), it was a mite mood making to realize that less than twenty Lincoln County Democrats attended all of the county's precinct conventions.

High Court to review wild burro case

ALBUQUERQUE —The U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to review a three-judge federal court ruling in New Mexico which struck down the 1971 federal law protecting wild horses and burros from slaughter.

The Interior Department has told the high court it feared the lower court ruling could set an interpretation precedent under which other wildlife laws might be ruled unconstitutional in the future. Specifically cited were the laws establishing sanctuaries and protecting endangered species.

The laws protecting the wild horses and burros was passed by Congress after the number of such animals had dwindled to only a few thousand from an estimated two million that roamed the Southwest in the early part of this century. It forbids capture or slaughter of any wild horses or burros on federally owned land, and requires owners of private land to contact federal officials if an unbranded wild horse or burro wanders off public land onto their property.

In January 1974, rancher Kelly Stephenson of Carrizozo, N.M. found 19 wild (Ed. note - Lincoln County ranchers consider these burros as unbranded rather than wild) burros on his private property and on public grazing land he was leasing for livestock. Stephenson claimed the burros were eating the feed supplement he was providing for his cattle.

On the basis of this claim and under the state brand laws which give control of estrays, the New Mexico Livestock Board rounded up the burros and sold them under the state's law for handling wild beasts.

The Interior Department in turn sued the state, contending the federal law required return of the burros to public lands.

A three-judge court of Albuquerque ruled the federal law unconstitutional, saying the Constitution only gave Congress power to pass laws protecting "the territory or other property belonging to the United States."

What the court was saying is that Congress would protect only the land it owned, not the beasts that use it. Since Congress failed to state that protection of the horses and burros was also a means to protect the land, the court said, the law went beyond the constitutional limits of federal powers.

Dinner balloting is innovation

The romantic magic of a Spanish guitar; the tantalizing taste of authentic Mexican food; a ballot on a cantina table.

The set apparently incongruous ingredients are being put together by Carrizozo Community Association of the Performing Arts for the annual membership dinner and elections of officers.

Antonio Mendoza, one of the nation's outstanding classical and Flamenco guitarists, will perform for the dinner at the Carrizozo Country Club November 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Mendoza lives in the artist colony of Taos where he has his own art and music studio. He is a well known painter, particularly acclaimed for his oils of the Pueblo Indians.

A composer, Mendoza is a lecturer at Southwest universities and colleges and is an authority on Spanish and Indian Music.

His recordings reflect vitality and creativity and his concert performances are outstanding.

The dinner preparations are under the direction of Lucia Vega. Her committee is planning to serve some of the more unusual Mexican dishes as well as the old favorites.

CCAPA itself is an unusual organization for a small town. It was organized to bring performers to Lincoln County and to support local artists. After a successful season, the group achieved its first dream, when Mr. and Mrs. Alva Sitton gave the old Lyric Theater for use as a community theater.

Funds are being raised now to renovate the theater in an authentic early 1900 style. CCAPA President Tom Ward said he expects to have it ready for use in the spring. (See Page 8)

Thursday, Oct. 30 suggested for trick-or-treat night

Friday, October 31, is a big football night with the Capitan Tigers coming to Carrizozo and many families of both towns wanting to attend this event.

Mayor Floyd Siegrist and Supt. Jim Steinepreis are recommending that parents have their youngsters out trick-and-treating on Thursday instead of Friday this year, so they will find folks at home and can go to the game the following night.

Lincoln Democrats expect quiet meet

If the attendance at Lincoln County precinct conventions is any indication, the County Democratic convention will hardly be a roof raiser.

Neither issues or candidates appear to be of concern to Democratic party members who have been called to convene Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln County Court House.

Last Thursday's precinct conventions were sparsely attended where they were convened at all. The two Carrizozo precincts together drew three party members. Capitan did little better with three attending one convention. There were nine people present for a joint meeting of Ruidoso's four precincts. Corona did not have a convention and the NEWS has no reports from the Valley conventions.

Fern Sawyer, long time county chairman, has announced that she will not be a candidate for chairman. Instead, Fern is supporting Pinky Jones, Ruidoso insurance man. Jones is a former Lovington banker. He said that he is a life long democrat.

Asked about Democratic apathy in the county, Jones said that people should be encouraged to work on the precinct level, that there was a need for a return to "grassroots" democracy.

Mentioned as a possible candidate is County Commissioner Ramon Nunez who has been active in Democratic county affairs for many years. Commissioner Nunez appeared to have considerable support among Capitan and Valley party regulars.

In Precinct 3, Carrizozo, Johnson Stearns was elected chairman. Ten delegates were elected to cast the precinct vote. They are: Benny Coker, A.N. Spencer, Basil Lawson, Margo Lindsey, Louis Montoya, S.M. Ortiz, Nick Serna, Floyd Siegrist, J.S. Stearns, James Steinpreis, Rachel West and Veda Lou Stephenson.

Mary Rich was elected chairman of Precinct 4. Delegates to cast the precinct's single vote are Bill Payne, Mary Rich, Charlie Castillo, Orene Crenshaw, Bob Means, Eddie O'Brien, Lee Straley, Joe Ventura, Walt Wilson and Mrs. B.W. Wilson.

In Ruidoso's four precincts, no delegates were elected leaving the chairmen to carry the votes.

They are Bill Elliot, Charlotte Jarrett, Carl Jorren and Mel O'Reilly.

Corona's Precinct Chairman Ken Fuller said that no delegates had been elected but either he or a representative would attend the county convention.

In Capitan, Juanita Abercrombie and Dick Beck were named delegates to the convention.

Jackpot money goes to $20

There was no winner on the two Lincoln County News jackpot football games played last week and the cash money goes to $20.00 for games played this week. See your favorite football publicity sponsor for a contest card and get in the game—it's all free and the winner gets cash.

Strange thing. Both games ended with lopsided scores. Reserve 32-Capitan 12, and Hagerman 36-Carrizozo 6. Yet, quite a lot of football fans picked both Carrizozo and Capitan to win.

A half dozen or more knew what the outcome of the Zozo-Hagerman game would be but could not quite pin it down. Ralph Delgado Jr. had it 36-0, Jimmie Lucero Sr. 38-6, Henry Ray Luna 34-6, Ricky Luna 36-12, Mary Ann Lucero 36-13. A full team of fans gave Zozo the 6 points but missed bad on Hagerman's score.

Believe it or not, there was one 36-6 score card turned in, this by Bernadette Zamora on the Reserve-Capitan game.

Capitan game fans were giving Reserve 24-26 points, but not 32 and a good many fans were right on the Capitan score of 12 points.

You could be both right and lucky this week and get yourself a $20.00 Christmas gift in the News Jackpot football contest.

Property values up $4 million

Lincoln County property values increased $4,437,533 over last year according to Tax Assessor, Julia Samora. The tax rolls have just been completed and delivered to the County Treasurer.

1974 rolls gave a county value of $47,889,872. The 1975 total is $52,327,405.

Ms. Samora says this big increase represents something of a record in the county.

"We are pleased to have the roll completed. This is the first time it has been ready this early," Ms. Samora said.

Tax notices will be in the mail by November 1 according to Treasurer, Veda Allen.

The tax roll, in main, is based on the reappraisal completed in 1973. The county appraiser is in the process of re-checking property for next year.

In Lincoln County the tax levy is different, for each of the many school districts, complicating the Assessor's work.

Eleven or more diamond back rattlers came to life in Monday's sun on the country club drive in Carrizozo. One Casper, Henry Vega and Reuben Chavez game them a nudge or two for the NEWS. Paul snapped the shot and Mary ran in terror. The longest was better than five feet. They were sacked on the Phil Harvey ranch for Dan Trice who hails from Minor, N.D. and makes necklaces decorated with the snake vertebrae. If supply was everything, Lincoln County could sure have a going industry.

The Rock Art of Three Rivers

Words and pictures by Alex Apostolides

New Mexico Magazine, November, 1975

(Ed. Note: The following article is reprinted from the November 1975 issue of New Mexico Magazine. Our thanks to the staff of this fine publication for their permission to use the story and pictures.)

Once upon a time the hand of Man picked up a rock and patiently pecked a message on a boulder. Sun came, and wine — and rain. Sandblasted, frozen in the winter chill, baked in summer sun, that message is still there on boulders and in caves, on flatlands and high ridgetops across the length and breadth of the Southwest.

Three Rivers Petroglyph Site is one such gallery of the ancients, a mile-long ridge where petroglyphs pecked a thousand years ago reach out across the span of time to touch the visitor.

Why these designs pecked and painted in the rock? No man today can say for sure, but it's certain they were the product of no random doodling. Some of them are directional signs, and other glyphs may be found by following their directions. Some were sympathetic magic signs, wherein one wishes for a successful hunt, pecks a symbol of his desire, (a deer, a mountain goat transfixed by accurate arrow or atlatl throw) — and then goes out, knowing good magic will travel with him on his hunt.

There are symbols of the sun and stars — the stars, a far-off mystery in the sky; the sun, a blessing bringing warmth after the cold sleep of a desert night.

And Man himself, an ever-walking mystery, is pictured on the rocks: Man rejoicing, reaching out across the years to you who stand there looking now, listening to the message, and wondering what it was meant to say.

Some of it seems obvious. Here's a man with twin-pronged headdress and what seems to be a wand or an atlatl (a spear-throwing device that predates the bow and arrow) in his hand. He's facing what seems to be a mountain lion, while another lion is attacking him from the back. Was this a shaman, a medicine man, and was that a wand? Had he, indeed, been hunting, and did the lion's mate come to the rescue? Or — is that first lion, the one with the strange designs inscribed along its side, a "spirit" lion?

You can sit for hours in front of one of these designs and make up your own stories.

One recurring feature at Three Rivers is a cross, sometimes plain and sometimes Maltese, enclosed in a circle made of dots. Morning star or noontime sun or with a special meaning now lost to memory? Take your pick.

And — fish. Fish drawings in every size and shape and form are found on the rock ridge of Three Rivers. Memories of a time when there was a lake out beyond, where now white sands and lava bed make up the valley floor? Probably (See Page 14)

the New Mexico Dept. of Agriculture, study plans for the New Mexico Department of Agriculture solar energy building. Three hundred and thirty sun collectors will provide solar heating and cooling to the facility.

A solar heating and cooling demonstration house, "Casa Del Sol of the Future," is located south of New Mexico State University, in Las Cruces. Designed as an average-sized, three-bedroom house Casa Del Sol is a laboratory

Solar heated house opens Oct. 24

Federal and state level energy development and agricultural experts will join New Mexico Governor Jerry Apodaca on the New Mexico State University campus Oct. 24 for dedication of the solar heated and cooled New Mexico Department of Agriculture Building.

Dedication of the 25,000 square foot facility is scheduled at 12:52 p.m. (Solar Noon, MDT). Featured speaker will be John C. White, commissioner of agriculture for the state of Texas. Dr. John Teem, assistant administrator of solar, geothermal and advanced energy systems, will represent the federal Energy Research and Development Administration. Gov. Apodaca will lead a delegation of state officials and legislators.

Members of the New Mexico congressional delegation are expected to attend. Invitations have been issued to congressmen and senators from throughout the nation. The invitation list represents as well a "who's who" of scientists and engineers in energy related fields.

The new building for the New Mexico Department of Agriculture not only will house the state regulatory and consumer service agency, but will serve as a research facility.

The solar energy system is designed to provide performance monitoring of the entire system and of individual components. New types of solar collectors will be included in the system from time to time for evaluation.

Tours of the structure will be conducted on the dedication date. Also available for inspection will be NMSU's solar demonstration house, Casa del Sol of the Future. It is a Department of Mechanical Engineering project under NMSU's Energy Research and Development Institute.

Designed as a 1900 square foot contemporary home, the structure is in reality a heavily instrumented laboratory. It is intended as a facility to evaluate and develop solar energy heating and cooling systems and components and to demonstrate feasibility of application to residential construction.

The Oct. 24 dedication will highlight a weekend beginning Oct. 23 with a solar heating and cooling conference and continuing through Oct. 25 and 26 with the annual meeting of the New Mexico Solar Energy Association. New Mexico State University's 1975 Homecoming is scheduled the same weekend, with events beginning Oct. 23 and continuing through Oct. 25.

The completion of the solar heated and cooled new Mexico Department of Agriculture Building and New Mexico State University's solar demonstration house represent a milestone in energy research which is already affecting today's consumers throughout the United States.

As the first commercial building of its size in the United States to be both solar heated and cooled, the building will not only provide housing for the routine functions of the New Mexico Department of Agriculture, but it will also serve as a center for research activity studying the uses of solar energy in large commercial buildings.

Solar energy researchers at the university, aware of a history of using solar energy to heat residences, will use the solar demonstration house as a laboratory to further perfect the concept of solar cooling as well as newer developments in solar heating.

Dr. Robert San Martín, associate professor of technical engineering and director of NMSU's Energy Research and Development Institute, said the technology for solar heating is already well in hand, but more research is needed in the area of solar cooling.

"Solar heating has been used successfully for years, but the least proven technology is in solar cooling. There have only been about three solar cooled residences and none have worked well," he said.

While study continues at the two solar structures at New Mexico State University, research will be conducted in campus where different heating and cooling systems can be developed, tested and evaluated. Its purpose is to demonstrate to the public and building industry the feasibility of solar energy to effectively heat and cool a home.

laboratories and in several academic disciplines.

Results of research is not limited to scientists, however, and courses have already begun to inform the public of the value of solar energy to their future.

Noncredit community courses have been offered to survey solar energy applications and discuss such topics as domestic hot water heating, swimming pool heating, home and building heating, solar cooling and electric power production.

Workshops include construction and maintenance of small auxiliary heat with coursework enabling the consumer to evaluate quality of solar heating and cooling devices now on the market.

In addition, a technical shortcourse on residential and light commercial applications has been scheduled in November for architects, contractors, consultants, engineers, heating and air conditioning specialists and administrators of solar energy programs.

The workshop will walk participants through the decision process facing each professional involved in solar heating of buildings.

The shortcourses, seminars and workshops are just a beginning, as are the research efforts in solar energy application made possible through the New Mexico Department of Agriculture building and the solar demonstration house.

But the implications of the activity at New Mexico State University are far-reaching—touching the lives of scientists, businessmen, housewives and consumers.

Mighty Inca ruler formed a unique state

Law and order, womb-to-tomb care, and make-work projects helped forge one of the most powerful empires in the New Worlds.

By the time Columbus set sail, the mighty Inca Emperor Pachacuti and his son Tupa Inca had created an unprecedented universal state—without benefit of money, iron, the written word, or the wheel.

Yet the Incas impressed their rule, their law, their religion, and even their highland tongue, Quechua, on almost a hundred nations whose peoples' lives they regulated to the last detail.

"They called their empire Tahuantinsuyu, the Four Quarters of the World. At its peak it stretched 2,500 miles from central Chile into southern Colombia," points out Loren McIntyre in the National Geographic Society's new book, "The Incredible Incas and Their Timeless Land."

The march to empire began about 1438 when a young prince led Inca slingers to victory over a powerful force of Chanca warriors attacking the town of Cuzco in present-day Peru.

He became Pachacuti, first emperor, and during the next 25 years expanded the Inca domain outward from Cuzco. Eminent historians have proclaimed Pachacuti the greatest of American Indians.

Pachacuti could call on vast reserves of manpower to keep his growing empire under control. Accountants determined how many could be spared from agriculture to take a turn at public works, mining, or military service.

Forced labor kept subjects out of mischief, but they had ample time for festivities and ritual drinking. Commoners enjoyed a large number of holidays. But they could not enjoy ordinary idleness; the Incas invented work to keep them busy. Strict law enforcement, accompanied by harsh punishments and a lack of want, made crime rare.

Though allowing some local autonomy and worship, Pachacuti attempted to control every aspect of the behavior of his subjects. To establish the census and assess taxes, lifetimes were divided into 12 stages from infancy to old age.

Laws were enforced to regulate travel, dress, marriage, worship, and proper behavior. Among Pachacuti's many edicts: mourning for the dead must cease on the twentieth day; women must not touch weapons or musical instruments in time of war; marriages must be ordained and performed in mass ceremonies.

Outside his immediate realm, the powerful emperor shifted conquered populations and stirred them into the Inca mixing bowl to unify speech and customs. The great Inca's prestige grew so much that subjects entered his presence barefoot, with downcast eyes, and bearing token burdens on their backs.

Although honored more in songs and poems than any other Indian king before or after, Pachacuti died quite humbly. As he lay on his death bed about 1471, the creator of the Inca empire recited in a low voice: "Like a lily in the garden I was born, and like a lily I grew up. Years passed, I grew old, I withered, and died."

Evangeline haunts Nova Scotia

Ghosts of a long-dead colonial era linger in the lush fields and apple-blossom-country-of-Nova Scotia.

The present-day Canadian province has been home to generations of Acadians, the first French people to settle the region. The most flourishing Acadian community in early times was established in the area around the Minas Basin about 300 years ago, the National Geographic Society says.

Nobody knows exactly what Acadia means. One guess is that it's a corruption of Arcadia, the pastoral region that existed in ancient Greece. Another is that it comes from a Micmac Indian word. In either case, the connotation seems to have been "Place of plenty."

Just as their ancestors had farmed marshy parts of France, so Acadians in the New World reclaimed hundreds of rich acres that had lain dormant under sea tides. Their elaborate and ingenious dike network is still used to control 40-foot tides in the Bay of Fundy.

Bumper crops of wheat, rye, oats, peas, flax, and hay rewarded the settlers. Fruit trees blossomed on the uplands, and rows of willow trees, the progeny of plantings brought from France, grew everywhere in orderly rows adding a distinctive touch to the countryside.

But things were too good to last. In 1710, the British gained control of Acadia, leaving the peaceful Acadians briefly to themselves.

By 1755, however, relations between Britain and France had deteriorated. The governor of Nova Scotia ordered the Acadians to pledge full allegiance to the British Crown.

Fearing they might be forced to fight fellow Frenchmen, the Acadians refused. The governor ordered them expelled.

In September 1755, the first of 14,000 Acadians to be uprooted were separated from loved ones and scattered throughout British colonies to the south. Only among the French in Louisiana were the Acadians able to form a permanent and prosperous settlement.

Poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow told the melancholy story of the Acadians in his poignant poem, "Evangeline."

Within a decade a few thousand Acadians began to return to Nova Scotia, only to find their fields occupied by Scots, Englishmen, and former New Englanders. They contented themselves with settling on less fruitful acres.

Today, a modern highway takes visitors from Yarmouth through the land of Evangeline. Clapboard houses and antique storefronts line portions of the road. Grand Pre, a national historical park near the town of Wolfville, recaptures the appearance and atmosphere of the old Minas district.

A statue of Evangeline in the park was cast in bronze by Philippe Hebert, a Canadian sculptor who was a direct descendant of one of the first Acadian families to settle at Port Royal, founded in 1605.

An unusual work, one side of the statue shows Evangeline as a young girl, the other presents an old and saddened face.

Something good happens at 5 p.m. weekdays.

Long distance rates go down.

A Bowl of Activities

OK! HOLD YOUR HATS! AND HIDE YOUR BROOMS! THERE WILL BE WITCHES AND GHOSTS UNDER THE MOON!

How about a party on Halloween Night—Get all the Pumpkins together and ask them the following questions! Just for fun!

1. Q.—Are introverts less susceptible to the charms of women than extroverts?

A.—Yes.

2. Q.—Are men more vain than women? (about their sex)?

A.—Yes.

3. Q.—Does a woman's reaction to exciting music provide a clue to how warm and feminine she is?

A.—Yes.

4. Q.—Are blondes preferred by men?

A.—No, it is equally divided.

5. Q.—Are women more easily swept off their feet than men?

A.—No, women tend to have a definite edge over men.

ROBY'S BOX

A CUPFUL OF HINTS

Just in case you were too busy last year to freeze your fruit properly—it's not too late. Just put your unthawed sack into another sack of water with two tablespoons of Fruit Fresh and let it thaw slowly. It won't turn brown.

Apply pure honey to burns. It soothes and heals.

If you have some blooming plants and the buds are drooping their heads and dropping buds, you need acid in your soil. Drop a little vinegar in some water and water it in about once a month.

When a drain is clogged with grease, pour a cup of table salt and a cup of baking soda in the drain. Then pour a kettle full of boiling water down the drain. This will usually dissolve the grease.

DEAR ROBY,

Dear Roby,

Who smiles to see the summer go, the bright leaves fall, the chill winds blow, the hoarfrost on the stubbled soil: The dealer who supplies our oil!

M.C.

Dear Roby,

Here is a Fun philosophy—

As I went home from a day's hard work in the vineyards, (in Germany) the old farmer used to say to me, "Life is so short, we have to make the best use we can of each moment, so we do it fast—never waste a moment with idle drink or breaks.

Then in Spain a few months later, I helped some men plant a tree that took three days, with many pauses, soft drinks and watching butterflies and girls and they explained that "Life was short not to enjoy every moment while working."

Beth Burns

Dear Roby,
Hardening of the heart ages people more quickly than hardening of the arteries. C.W.

Dear Roby,
To err is human; to blame it on the other party is politics.

DO YOU KNOW?

1. That blonde gal, who works all day and all night? (She is doing a great job at the newspaper.)

2. That the New Persimmon Hill (The Cowboy Hall of Fame Mag) has a great article about Prairie Dogs in it, very informative.

3. What book the Book Club is reading? Ask Debbie Bhasker.

4. That Roby and Polly finally met each other and it was great?

5. That Jackie Spencer is riding the wagon in more ways than one on Weight-Watchers?

AROUND THE BOWL!

Sorry, Roby is in Lubbock with her daughter this weekend and she couldn't visit around the bowl.

But, there is a good recipe for Halloween!

Gingerbread cookies

½ cup butter (real butter)

½ cup sugar

cream together

½ cup sour milk

½ cup molasses

1¼ cup flour

1 tsp. soda

1 tsp. cinnamon

2 teas ginger -- salt

Grease and flour pan a rather large shallow pan.

Cut ginger bread with cookie butter—then pour lemon sauce over them.

Lemon Sauce

½ cup sugar.

2 tsp. cornstarch

1 cup water or fruit juice.

2 tsp butter.

1 tsp lemon juice

1 tsp. of grated lemon rind

6 marshmallows

Happy Halloween!

Bye Now, Roby

School is out for convention

Corona Cardinals will play A.I.S. on October 22.

School will be dismissed for Teacher's Convention from October 22 at 3:30 to October 27.

The Corona Board of Education held their regular monthly meeting on October 14.

A barbeque was held last Saturday at the El Paso Natural Gas Company. It started at 1:00.

Senior pictures were taken on Friday, October 17.

The FFA held a roping Sunday, October 19.

Lon Holleyman and Willis Brunson won 4th in the average and 1st in the 3rd go-round in the 3 steer roping. John D. Holleyman won 1st in the calf roping.

Corona Homecoming will be October 31, 1975.

The senior candidates for Homecoming Queen are Shirley Lueras, Deluvina Chavez and Maria Chavez. Junior attendant is Kelly Gibbs, sophomore attendant is Cynthia Nalda and freshman attendant is Laura Stewart. Corona will play Melrose in a game that starts at 7:30.

Thursday night, a snake dance and bonfire will be held, starting at 7:00. There will be a Homecoming Dance after the game.

The Halloween Carnival will be November 1.

The candidates for queen are: Susan Williams with escort Mark Sultemeier, Nadine Chavez with escort Luciano Chavez, Roe Ann Icenogle with escort Joe Salinas, Sammy Davis with escort Steve Warfield, Jackie Merritt with escort Ricky Huey, and Bredha Miller with escort Michael Alirez. The Carnival will start at 6:30. Each class and organization will have a booth, with the Parent-Teacher Organization having the food booth. Prizes are needed for the Bingo, which will benefit the athletic fund, and the Roulette Wheel, the proceeds of which will go to the Pep Club.

Fourteen FHA'ers and their two advisers attended the District FHA meeting held in Alamogordo Mid-High cafeteria recently.

The Carrizozo chapter was responsible for making the programs which were in the shape of the FHA emblem and in colors of red, white, and blue since the theme of the meeting was "Our Country: Let's Make It A Better Tomorrow".

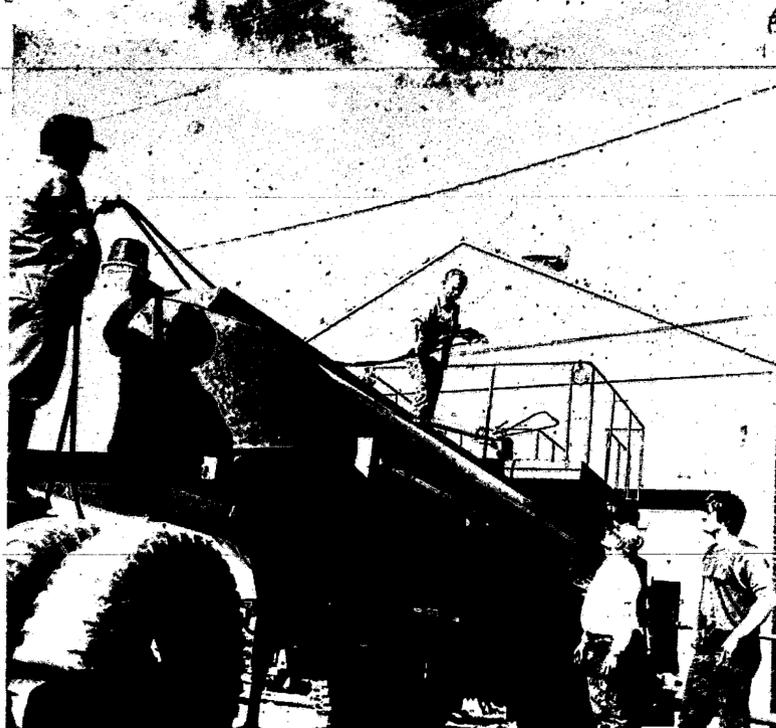

Annette Chavez and Delores McBride conducted the workshop which explored the jobs of president and vice-president.

They had hand-outs and activities planned for their workshop session, and it was proclaimed a success.

During the business meeting Annette Chavez was elected National delegate to the convention which will be held in St. Louis this next summer.

The main speaker of the day had as his topic the problems of child abuse in our immediate area--Alamogordo and vicinity. This talk brought many questions from the floor as the members learned of some of the very common ways in which children are abused as well as the more notorious means which the newspapers usually spread for all to see.

After lunch a report was given on the FHA Leadership Camp which was held at Glorieta in August and the state officer and national delegate reported on the convention which they attended in Washington, D.C. The meeting closed with a beautiful installation ceremony for the 1975-76 officers. Annette Chavez was the outgoing officer from Carrizozo and Lois McBride was installed as the new officer.

Three months of work by Dick and Ben Bradley of Carrizozo Crafts have gone into this big red foam-sprayer built for the army by Belco Industries. Jim and Carolyn Cantrell said it is the only such machine Belco will build and was quite an undertaking. Working with the Bradleys were Bill Lawrence, Ruben Zamora and Frank Vallejos.

Around Corona

Monday Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McCord were showing their dining set of table and six chairs they had made entirely of used horseshoes. In the collection are shoes from Italy, Japan, and Australia along with those gathered in this area.

Ricky Keelin, Segoville, Texas, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Keelin.

Mr. and Mrs. E.H. McCloud, Jr. announced the marriage of their daughter, Shirley, and Mr. Phil Dix, Saturday, October 11, at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Horace Fisher, in Mountainair.

As a Retired Citizen, you can now have a unique opportunity for a more carefree retirement in the years ahead. You can have fewer worries about the safety of your pension checks.

- * You can guard against theft from your mail box which is a growing threat these days.
- * You can ignore bad weather which makes it difficult to deposit your checks.
- * Take vacation trips and know your income will continue to be in your account to meet expenses.

To all Retired Citizens in our area, Citizens State Bank is offering a free checking account by having your retirement or pension checks mailed directly to us for deposit to your account and also we will furnish checks for your use free of charge.

If this seems as good an idea to you as it does to us, please drop by one of our banking offices either at Carrizozo, Vaughn or Estancia and we will make the arrangements and fill out the application forms for your pension or retirement check to be mailed directly to the bank for deposit. This is our way of saying "Thank You" to all of our retired citizens who have done so much.

Legion plans Poppy Day

The Benjamin L. Berry Unit 11 of American Legion Auxiliary met in the REA Building Oct. 16. Mrs. Marvin Rowin, Unit President, presided with the main business being the ordering of the Poppies for Poppy Day.

District 5 of the American Legion and Auxiliary had the fall meeting in Alamogordo Oct. 11. After a joint meeting in the morning, a luncheon was held in Desert Aire honoring A.P. (Tony) Benta, New Mexico American Legion Commander. In the afternoon separate meetings were held. Mrs. Mary Johnson of Carrizozo, Unit 11, is District President.

At the District Legion and Auxiliary meeting, Aileen Lindamood was pointed out to Jeter Bryan, Alamogordo Daily News, by Murray Morgan, as being the daughter of the late John A. Haley who "Newspapered" in Alamogordo. His

Baby sitting Co-op is one year old

One year this month, several mothers in Carrizozo formed a babysitting co-op. Today there are 10 active women with youngsters ranging in age from 7 months to 5 years who swap time and children for several hours a week or month. This mutual exchange of time and children at no cost is essentially what a mother does when she joins a babysitting co-op. The Co-op has rules and guidelines and a mother accepts a "sit" only when she has set aside the time and really wants the other youngsters in her home. The babysitting co-op concept is very practical and definitely popular in surrounding areas.

The co-op provides, by careful consideration of its membership, competent, loving and no-cost babysitting services. In addition the children involved in the co-op can be placed in unique learning situations. A ready-made playgroup is automatically available for each "sit." Almost all early childhood educators agree on the importance of such properly supervised play groups for children in the pre-school age.

If you are a mother of a pre-school child, why not mark the last Monday in November on your calendar now and plan to visit us at our next meeting. It just may be the best thing to happen to YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN! Look for the exact time and location in this paper at a later date. All interested persons invited and bring the kids!

Corona PTA organized

The Corona teachers and parents have organized with Mrs. Clay Crist as president, Mrs. George Lightfoot, Vice-president, Mrs. Bob Byrd, Secretary-treasurer, Bill Bryan, High School representative and Mrs. George James, Elementary representative.

The PTA's first project was a potluck supper and auction which netted over three hundred dollars and was considered a big success.

The next project is the school carnival, Nov. 1, where they will have the food booth. Each class and organization will have a booth.

Med-We-Care, Inc.

The Annual Med-We-Care Inc., general membership meeting was held on October 20th for the election of Board Members and Officers.

Officers elected to serve throughout the coming year were Joan Means, President; Leandro Vega, Vice President; A.W. "Nat" Gnatkowski, Secretary and Dorothy Straley, Treasurer.

Those elected to serving on the Board of Directors were: Dr. Amy Barton, Barbara Ward and Carolyn Cantrell.

Members are reminded that it is time to send in their $1.00 yearly membership dues to the attention of Med-We-Care Inc., P.O. Drawer 8, Carrizozo, New Mexico.

Mental Health counseling is club topic

Help for people with mental problems is available in Lincoln County, according to the Carrizozo Woman's Club.

An explanation of the services available for families with mental health, alcoholic and drug abuse problems will be offered at a special evening meeting of the organization Thursday, Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m. at the Woman's Club building.

Edwin Garcia, a counselor for the Southwest Mental Health Center, and Paul Gallegos, an alcoholic abuse counselor with the Center will speak to the group.

Mr. Garcia is available once-a-week-in Carrizozo for counseling. Mr. Gallegos has moved to Carrizozo and has offices in the old Town Hall.

Carolyn Cantrell, club president, and Veda Lou Stephenson, program chairman, have invited the general public to the meeting. Mrs. Stephenson said, "If one person is helped as a result of this meeting, our purpose will have been well served."

Sorority holds meeting

Xi Beta Epsilon-Gamma Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their model meeting on Monday Oct. 6 at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Rand Perkins.

The meeting was opened by Xi Beta Epsilon president, Mrs. Ken Anderson, who then gave her program "The Voices Behind Us" which included a skit with Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Royce Washburn, Mrs. John D. Holleyman, Mrs. Geraldine Perkins, Mrs. Bill Kilgore and Mrs. Rand Perkins assisting.

Following the program the chapters held their business meeting. Mrs. Wayne Fish explained Beta Sigma Phi to the guests and invited them to join Gamma Theta. Xi Beta Epsilon pecan sales are reported going well. Mrs. Mullins expressed her gratitude for the ten pounds of pecans given to the school lunchroom.

Guests for the evening were: Miss Sandra Downing, Miss Debbie Thomas, Miss Darlene Henley, Mrs. Vernon Shelly and Mrs. Emery Owen. Xi Beta Epsilon members present were: Msdms. Robert Williams, Archie Perkins, Kenneth Anderson, John D. Holleyman, Royce Washburn, Bill Kilgore, Rogene Alford, and hostess Mrs. Rand Perkins. Gamma Theta members were: Msdames T.E. Mullins, Lerry Bond, Wayne Fish, John Knipps and Travis Johnson.

The next meeting, Oct. 20 will be held in the home of Mrs. Wayne Fish at 7 p.m.

DAR schools have received $7 million

DAR supported schools for the needy have received $7,000,000 over the past 60 years, Marge Bodwell—old Sierra Blanca DAR Chapter members at an Oct. 16 meeting.

Mrs. Bodwell, guest speaker for the evening, is a member of the White Sands Chapter in Alamogordo and is State Vice Regent.

The speaker discussed the work of the DAR in support for schools for needy and underprivileged children. Schools requesting aid are investigated and when approved as a learning institution receive support.

The meeting was held in the home of Eve Ball with Dorothy Farnell, Chapter Regent, presiding.

The November meeting will be in the ranch home of Leota Pfingsten. A covered dish supper will be followed by a program on American Heritage presented by the hostess.

Mrs. Bodwell, guest speaker for the evening, is a member of the White Sands Chapter in Alamogordo and is State Vice Regent. She was accompanied by Mrs. Bert Ray, also of the White Sands Chapter.

Here, there and yonder!

by Aileen Lindamood

Mrs. Fred Chavez, Cristine and John Chavez and Paul Baca were in Albuquerque last weekend to see Gabe play for the Lobos in the most exciting game of the year so far. Needless to say the winning of the game made it the most exciting one. Following the game they went to the complex near the stadium to visit with Gabe. This is a privilege granted to parents and friends of the players. They returned home Sunday and report the trip was well worth it.

The special Bicentennial edition of the Roswell Record of Oct. 20 gave a native Lincoln Countian a great thrill. Aileen Lindamood was overjoyed to read that her grandfather Frank Lesnett was elected as a trustee in the first county election in Roswell, July 6, 1891. This she knew but was pleased others will know now too.

Visiting in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ravi Bhasker are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clapp of Independence, Kansas on their way to visit another daughter in California.

The Book Club met at 513 12th Tuesday at 1 p.m. Oct. 21. This is the regular meeting date—the third Tuesday of each month. The book reviewed was "That Quail Robert" by Margaret A. Stanger. Ruth Wilson of Ancho gave an interesting review. So interesting that a person would want to read the book after hearing it.

"Christmas-in-the-Home Show" planned

The Extension Homemakers Clubs in Lincoln County will hold a "Christmas in the Home Show" on Saturday, Oct. 25, at the Fire Hall in Carrizozo. The show will feature craft demonstrations, recipes, food specialties, Christmas decorations, and much, much more. The public is invited and urged to attend. The doors will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There will be something for people of all ages.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

I have been granted an order extending date of Delivery of Property Tax Schedule, and date of preparation of Abstract of information contained in Property Tax Schedule from October 1, 1975 to October 20, 1975 by Cecil J. Pickett, Director of Property Tax Department, Santa Fe, New Mex. The extension was necessary for the reason that the preparation of the Property Tax Schedule in Lincoln County has been delayed by the unavailability of Lincoln County's Data Processing Program for the Preparation of the Property Tax Schedule. Julia Samora Lincoln County Assessor First published in the Lincoln County News October 9, 1975, last published October 23, 1975.

Eastern Star has excellent meeting

by Margaret Rench

Frances Shaw accompanied by Margaret Rench enjoyed a bright happy vacation by attending Eastern Star Grand Chapter Tuesday Oct. 14 through 19, returning home Sunday. It was held at the Masonic Temple in Albuquerque. All of the work was beautiful and everyone was certainly busy all the session. Helen Pfingsten and Gladys Knox also attended. Ruidoso and Alamogordo was well represented. The last day there were some from Tularosa. We met lovely and happy people.

We really did enjoy every moment. I do thank all of my very loyal and wonderful friends for their help so that I was able to go. Each one had duties of their own choice to take care of my home and items of liveliness. That was certainly sweet of everyone of you. I do appreciate everything and I am ever ready to help all of you. Again thanks.

Thelma Appar is in the University hospital in Albuquerque and has been for two weeks. She underwent back surgery, and was learning to walk when we left her. Her room is 222. She expressed her appreciation of all of the kindnesses, flowers and everything that anyone had done. She is happy and working hard to get on her feet permanently. Her 69th birthday was Thursday, Oct. 16. She had many happy surprises for that happy occasion. I wish you may more happy and healthy birthdays. Get well fast. We do miss you. Remember, you are loved and needed.

Mrs. Ethel Pepper fell and broke her other leg last Wednesday evening. She had been home nearly three months. She is now in St. Mary's hospital and underwent surgery. She has lots of pain in this break. Write and give her cheer. I do wish her a good recovery.

Mrs. Bessie Cummins recently underwent surgery at St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell. Her daughter Mr. and Mrs. Donald McClung of San Jose, Calif. are here. I wish her a good recovery. Allie Taylor spent a few days in Alamogordo under care of her doctor. I do hope you continue to improve in health.

Keith Durham and Patricia Pierce were united in marriage in a beautiful home wedding at her mothers, Doris Pounds, in Capitan by Judge Gertrude Huey Friday Oct. 17 at 10 a.m. Only the family were present. The couple will make their home in Albuquerque.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Dobbins and Doris Pounds accompanied Bob Yankee to Albuquerque and attended the Opera "Rigoletto" at the auditorium. They returned the same night.

Mrs. John Wright in Quileene, Washington celebrated her 84th birthday Oct. 11. Her daughter Pearl Soderback baked her 2 cakes. All of the children called her with their wishes. She is well and happy. I do wish you many more happy birthdays.

I was happily surprised by a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Ray Martin of Milasand, N.M. Monday afternoon. Mrs. Martin was the former Ethel

Mrs. Truman A. Spencer

Services were held Friday at 2 p.m. for Mrs. Truman A. (Mattie) Spencer, 73, of Ruidoso. The Rev. Jack M. Washington, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church officiated.

Burial was in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Sanders Funeral Home.

Mrs. Spencer died Wednesday in Ruidoso Memorial Hospital. She was a native of Durant, Okla. She lived in Lubbock, Texas from 1948 to 1964 when she moved to Ruidoso. She was a member of the Episcopal Church.

She is survived by her husband, Truman; a daughter, Mrs. John Rogess, Lubbock; two brothers, H.E. Settles, Escondido, Calif., and Don Settles, Paris, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Lila Stewart, Sunland, Calif., and Mrs. T.N. White, Austin, Texas; and seven grandchildren.

Palbearers were Dean Shuman, Stanley Williams, Ed Merkt, Bob Scribner, Jimmy Dunn and Winston Watkins.

Lynn Preuit daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Preuit who were here 16 years ago teaching in our school. Her brother Otis (Bunk) is basketball coach in Lovington. Dale is in Las Vegas, Nevada working.

Mayor and Mrs. Jay Johnston spent Tuesday through Sunday in Las Vegas, Nevada where they visited his brother Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Johnston.

Pauline McGarry has a day nursery. She teaches the fundamentals of pre school. The children do love her. Hours are flexible.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Strickland last weekend were Orville Trammel, Ronny Trammel and Joe Strickland of Humble City, Kansas. Strickland of Lovington and his brother in law of Hobbs enjoyed the Musket and Bow hunting.

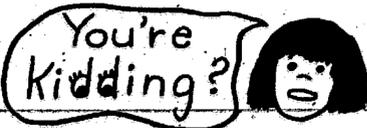

A.R. "Buck" Hamilton

Services were held Saturday in Albuquerque for A.R. "Buck" Hamilton, 82, of Truth or Consequences who died in an Albuquerque hospital following surgery.

Mr. Hamilton came to Corona in 1922 where he was a rancher and a farmer. He drove the school bus and was a sports enthusiast. He and his wife, Lucy raised their nine children in Corona.

Survivors include his wife, Laura; four daughters, Maude E. Rinker, El Paso, Mabel Welderman, National City, Calif., Mary M. Becokel, Longview, Wash., Rosalie Holman, Odessa, Texas; four sons, Paul and J.W. of Albuquerque, William J. of Paradise, Calif., and Jack C. of Tollhouse, Calif., all of whom were present for the funeral. Also a sister, Anne Jackson, Mercedes, Texas; a brother Walter Hamilton, Truth or Consequences; 23 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. He was a member of the Assembly of God and the Masonic Lodge.

Interment was in the Corona Cemetery with the Rev. D.B. Chunev officiating. Pallbearers were his grandsons, Curtis G. Hamilton, Johnnie P. Hamilton, Berland W. Rinker, Gary V. Rinker, Marvin A. Hamilton, Robert J. James and Edward Holman.

Polly's Bulletin Board

Went to see "Jaws." What a horrifying experience! What suspense! What mental torture! What tension!

And that was just while standing in a block long line waiting to buy a ticket! (Ha!ha!)

I don't think I'll eat a tuna fish sandwich for a year and it will be years before I will be able to look a sardine in the eye!

The fishermen in this household won't be cleaning trout in our kitchen sink.

I think I won't have the courage to pass by the pet department in the 5 and 10 again. The kids have been wanting a gold fish or angel fish for a pet.

If they think I am going to fish-sit for them while they are in school they are badly mistaken!

And now some hints for the holidays ahead: Zippy dress-up for creamed vegetables is dehydrated onion soup mix. Add one or two tablespoons to each cup of white sauce. Especially good on carrots and green beans.

For crisper cut-out cookies, when rolling lightly dust board and rolling pin with mixture of half flour and half confectioners sugar.

When cracking nuts, place in a thick sponge, fold over. Place sponge on hard surface, crack with heavy hammer. This method keeps pieces of shell from flying. Have you ever stepped on a piece of walnut shell while barefoot? Ohhhh!

Meat prices hold

The American housewife should not be misled by USDA forecasts that meat prices will fall in the next 60 days, according to Ted Bonnell, president of New Mexico's Bank Securities, Inc. Bonnell stated that there would probably be a short-term reduction in meat prices due to anticipated heavy movement of cattle to the market; however, historical market patterns will result in normal increases in late winter.

Try to prove you were born

Have you ever asked yourself, "How do I prove I was born?" At some time, each of us will be faced with finding the answer to this question. Tim Hassen, social security field representative said that proof of age will be required for nearly all types of benefits payable under social security. The best proof is a birth record or hospital record made during the first five years of your life. The next best record is a church baptismal record made before you were five years old, and showing your date of birth and the date recorded. If you were born in New Mexico before 1920, there will not likely be a recorded record of your birth. A few births were recorded before that date, but most were not. Even after 1920 some births may not be recorded.

If you do not have a birth or baptismal record, try to obtain a record established early in your life. Records that may be available are: a school record, family Bible, insurance policy, state or federal census record, marriage record, child's birth certificate, voting record, employment record, military record, a passport, driver's license, or a delayed birth certificate.

"The time to start obtaining proof of your age is now. If you have records available when you apply for social security benefits, your check will not be delayed," Hassen stressed. Hassen stressed.

New Mexico poetry solicited

All poets who are residents or former residents of New Mexico are invited to submit poetry to be considered for inclusion in SANDSCRIPT, the second anthology of verse sponsored by the New Mexico State Poetry Society. This book is being made possible by a grant from the New Mexico State Arts Commission, as was the society's first anthology, TURQUOISE LAND.

The New Mexico State Poetry Society wishes to present a cross-section of the best poetry being written by state poets of university age and over which is representative of the state's cultural background. The editors are seeking the best in traditional and contemporary forms of poetry. No certain "school" of writing will be favored over another.

Interested poets should submit no more than three poems, typed in triplicate on 8 1/2 x 11 white paper, no more than one poem per page. Poems should not exceed 32 lines and, if previously published, the poet should be prepared to furnish a release from the previous publication. Entries should be sent to Jeanne Bonnette, New Mexico State Poetry Society, 8901 W. Frontage Rd NE No. 235, Albuquerque, N.M. 87113 no later than No. 15, 1975. A self-addressed, stamped envelope must accompany your submissions.

The NEWS goes to a company picnic

by LaNell Fish & Mary Rich

The sun was shining, the beef barbequing and the beer flowing Saturday for a happy day of dancing, eating and talking at the El Paso Natural Gas Company's Lincoln Station in Corona.

It was a company picnic at its best and most fun. The occasion began with the donation of a beef by John Nalda and his wife, Nancy. Then Rogene Alford and his wife, Sandra, threw in a goat. It was beginning to look like a picnic. Jack and Betty Donohue, complex superintendent rounded up the rest of the groceries and the beer.

Robert Williams, top hand with a pencil and pen, cartooned invitations which went out to friends around the county. The sun decided to put on a show as usual. Waymon and George Lightfoot who have a way with hot coals spent the night barbequing the beef and goat. Corrine Mullins, the cook at the Corona School, did most of the other cooking.

The kids played basketball and after the food settled the men pitched horseshoes. When the talking played out and the beer took hold, someone found a music machine and the dancing commenced, to cap off a perfect day in Corona.

A certain degree of past elegance still remains in the dusty hall of the old Lyric Theater. CCAFA President Tom Ward looked at the walls, inspected the seats this week. Following the gift of the theater by Mr. and Mrs. Alva Siltton for community use, the Citizens State Bank handed Treasurer, Archie Witham, a check for $250 to go toward the renovation of the building. Johnson

Stearns recalled for the NEWS the days when the picture show was called the Crystal Theater and John Wells, a Western star acting under the name of Ted Wells was seen on the silent screen. The boys would hoot and later tease the actor who lived in White Oaks, about kissing the gal at the end of the movie.

recently retired from the Department of Employment in Idaho and is now in the real estate business. He would be delighted to hear from anyone who remembers his mother or grandmother—quite a person back in the days when New Mexico was the Wild Wild West.

Our light bright remark of the week comes from a guest in the home of Nancy Miller, our Baptist preacher's wife. Nancy incidently is a pretty good guide on the paths of righteousness herself as evidenced by her monthly inspirations at the Carrizozo Woman's Club. At our always interesting Spanish class, Nancy said "She said they lived so far out in the sticks that they had to have their own tom cat."

We welcome Aileen Lindamood to the News staff. She will be writing "Around Carrizozo" in the future. It is entirely appropriate that the daughter of the first Carrizozo newspaper should have that task.

Eleanor Payton is retiring from news gathering but we have a secret project awaiting her and you.

Old Buddy John Youse bought coffee the other morning and said he enjoyed Way West, though there might be an over abundance of adjectives.

Which brought to mind an old newsroom story about beverity in words. Two strangers, a man and woman, traveling on the Siberian railroad, found themselves sharing a compartment. At the end of the first day on that over 4000 mile journey across Russia, he said "Good night, comrade."

The second night he said "Good night, comrade. Sleep Well." The third night he said, "Enough of this bourgeois lovemaking. Off with the clothes!"

Our third and final observation of the wonderful ways of the world comes from Mrs. John Harkey. We don't know the paper from which this was clipped nor the many journals through which it has passed. The message, however, is eternal and a reminder that we are precariously perched on the very edge of understanding:

Our of the Past Mrs. Zilpha Heid, 8564 North Loop, write: "Dear Bill: "Am enclosing a copy of Mother Shipton's Prophecies, which seem to be nearly all coming true. I remember my mother quoting these many years ago.

"Thought you might like to see a copy I was cleaning out some old boxes the other day, and ran across this."

Here's the enclosure, which obviously came from this column of some time ago: PROPHECIES

Nat Campbell dropped in the other day and said he had received many requests for copies of Mother Shipton's prophecies which he had read on his KROD program. It seems that the prophecies are again receiving wide publicity and are the subject of much discussion over teacups and whatnot. On the theory that the readers of this column do not have a copy of Mother Shipton's Prophecies, written in the 14th Century, here they are:

A carriage without horses shall go, disaster fill the earth with woe. In London Primrose Hill shall be, its center hold a Bishop's See.

Around the world men's thoughts shall fly quick as a twinkling of an eye. And waters shall great wonders do-how strange, and yet it shall come true. Then upside-down the world shall be, and gold be found at root of tree; Through towering hills man shall ride, nor horse nor ass move by his side. Beneath the water men shall walk; shall ride, shall sleep and even talk. And in the air men shall be seen in red, in black, in white and green. A great man then shall come and go, for prophecy declares it so. In water then shall iron float easy as a wooden boat. Gold shall be found in stream and stone in land that is as yet unknown. IN LAND THAT IS AS YET UNKNOWN. Water and fire shall wonders do, and England shall admit a Jew. The states shall lock in fiercest strife and seek to take each other life. The North shall then divide the South, the eagle build in Lion's mouth. Then tax and blood and cruel war shall come to every humble door. Three times shall lovely, sunny France be led to play a bloody dance. Before the people shall be free three tyrant rulers shall she see. Three rulers in succession be each sprung from different dynasty. And now a word of uncouth rhyme of what shall be in future time; For in those wondrous far-off days the women shall adopt a craze To dress like men and trousers wear, and cut off all their locks of hair. They'll ride astride with brazen brow as witches do on broomsticks now; Then love shall die and marriage cease, and nations wane as babes decrease. The wives shall fondle cats and dogs, and men live much the same as hogs. In nineteen hundred and twenty-six build houses made of straw and sticks, For then shall mighty wars be planned, and fire and sword shall sweep the land. And those who live the century through, in fear and trembling this shall do; Flee to the mountains and the dens, to bog and forest and wild glens, For storms shall rage and oceans roar ere Gabriel stands upon the shore; And as he blows his wondrous horn, old worlds shall die and new be born.

prophecy declares it so. In water then shall iron float easy as a wooden boat. Gold shall be found in stream and stone in land that is as yet unknown. IN LAND THAT IS AS YET UNKNOWN. Water and fire shall wonders do, and England shall admit a Jew. The states shall lock in fiercest strife and seek to take each other life. The North shall then divide the South, the eagle build in Lion's mouth. Then tax and blood and cruel war shall come to every humble door. Three times shall lovely, sunny France be led to play a bloody dance. Before the people shall be free three tyrant rulers shall she see. Three rulers in succession be each sprung from different dynasty. And now a word of uncouth rhyme of what shall be in future time; For in those wondrous far-off days the women shall adopt a craze To dress like men and trousers wear, and cut off all their locks of hair. They'll ride astride with brazen brow as witches do on broomsticks now; Then love shall die and marriage cease, and nations wane as babes decrease. The wives shall fondle cats and dogs, and men live much the same as hogs. CHARGING full tilt, a "knight" spears a ring at a jousting tournament in Virginia. A serious training exercise for battle in medieval times, jousting gradually became a sport which spread over Europe and Colonial America. It enjoys a new surge of popularity in the United States.

Shades of the Middle Ages! The Joustiers are at it again

Zounds and forsooth! A new flowering of knighthood is blossoming in the land. From California to Maryland, jousting tournaments embellished by pageantry, fair maids, and knights in medieval garb have never been more popular, the National Geographic Society says.

Many of the contestants will come from nearby Maryland and Virginia where jousting has been popular for some times. Jousting on horseback, or tilting the rings, a carry-over from colonial times in Maryland, has been the official state sport since 1962.

Virginians claim their main jousting tournament, scheduled each August at Natural Chimneys, is the nation's oldest continuously held sporting event. Legend says that a jousting tournament first took place there in 1821, when two young gallants competed for a lady's hand. At most jousting tournaments in the United States, knights and ladies aim their lances at a series of small rings hung from arches along a measured course. The object is to spear the rings while galloping full tilt through the raches.

The sport requires a keen eye, an unwavering arm, and a steady seat in the saddle, skills even Sir Lancelot would have cheered.

The knights of old would, however, look on the modern contests as child's play. Early tourneys where men in armor clashed on horseback new few rules, but lots of mayhem. Sixty contestants died in one medieval free-for-all, and a knight slew his own son in another.

King Richard the Lionheart's brother Geoffrey was thrown from his horse, trampled, and killed while jousting in Paris in 1186.

Popes eventually banned the bone-shattering sport. "Those who fall in tourneys," railed a monk, "will go to hell." Few heeded.

To be ready for war, taught one text, "a knight... must have seen his own blood flow, have had his teeth crackle under the blow of his adversary."

The manly art of combat intoxicated France's King Francis I. "You chiefly delight, sire," said a courtier, "in... taking part in tourneys fully armed with sharp lances."

Heavier armor, blunt weapons, and rigid rules finally tamed the tourneys. And few, died as knights gradually levelled their lances at rings on poles instead of each other.

At their best, the tourneys served to channel warlike passions into courtly display. Linked with them was the chivalric ideal of romantic love. This put woman on a pedestal, where she was worshipped from afar by knights who broke lances in her honor.

Today, women are respected as contestants. Rivaling the skill of many medieval knights, one Maryland woman won the state championship three times.

Mother Nature is a remarkable woman, but she still can't jump from summer to winter without a fall, nor from winter to summer without a spring!

Then why didn't I...

Bass and browns hitting in lakes

Big bass and battling brown trout, in synergistic action with October's generally gracious climate, create a combination of hard-to-beat outdoor recreation, according to the N.M. Department of Game and Fish.

The department's Fisheries Division notes that winter trout management has begun in some of the state's warmer waters, meaning that anglers fishing designated winter trout waters can catch trout—and must also have a trout stamp.

Both bass and trout, as waters cool, are becoming more active; fat from summer's feeding, they are generally of good size as well, say the fisheries biologists.

Good brown trout waters are Laguna Larga, the lower Red River, the Rio Grande box, the Cimarron, Los Pinos, Pot Creek, Rio Chiquito, the Pecos and Guadalupe Creek.

In southern New Mexico, Quemado, Snow Lake and Lake Roberts have begun cooling to temperatures at which trout are more active. Trolled rapallas, Mepps spinners, flatfish and red and white spoons are proving effective at McAllister and the other lakes. Black or brown wooly worms are also enticing trout.

Elephant Butte Lake is producing the most fish for the most bass fishermen, according to the department, although Conchas and Ute Lakes are also yielding catches to skilled anglers. Navajo Lake, often ignored as a bass water, is difficult to fish, but recently produced a 10-pound largemouth that places high in the state record books.

Top-water plugs, fished along trees or rocky shores early in the mornings or late in the afternoons should produce results; diving plugs and blue or plastic worms are the lures for the middle of the day.

In addition to providing good fishing, October also is the month of a number of changes in open waters and the need for trout stamps, which are required in designated winter trout waters Oct. 1-March 31.

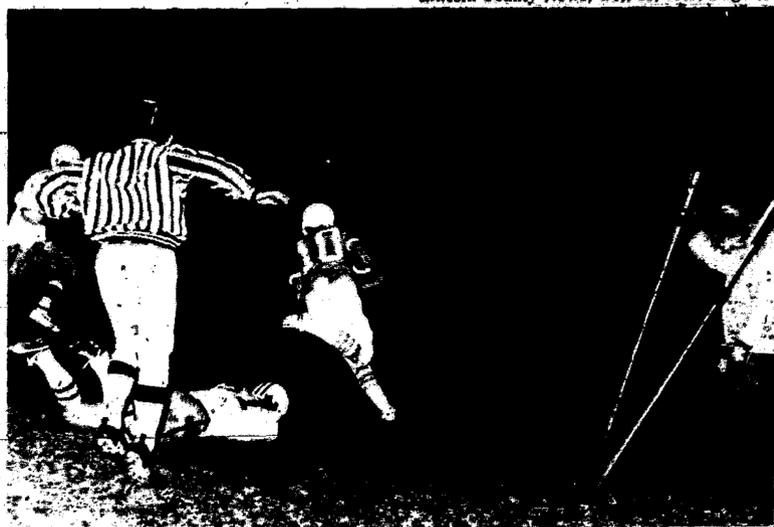

Winter trout waters are Alamogordo Lake Stilling Basin, Bataan Lake, Bear Canyon Lake, Belen Riverside Drain, Berrendo Creek, Bill Evans Lake, Black River, Higby Hole, Bosque Redondo (West Lake), Bottomless Lakes, Burns Lake, Carlsbad Municipal Lake, Carrizozo Lake, Chaparral Lake, Conservancy Park Lake, Corrales Drain, Del Rio Drain, Escondida Lake, Eunice Lake, Green Acres Lake, Green Meadow Lake, Jal Lake, Lake Van, Oasis Park Lake, Pecos River, Bolling Springs (One half-mile each side), Peralta Drain, and Tome Drain.

Waters closed to fishing after Oct. 15 are Bitter Lake, Charette Lakes, Clayton Lake, Jackson Lake, Maxwell Lakes, McAllister Lake, and Springer Lake.

Lake Alice, Lake Maloya, Santa Cruz Lake and Santa Cruz River are closed to fishing after Oct. 31. Abbott Lakes and Bonito Lake are closed after Nov. 30.

The waters are waterfowl resting and wintering places, and are closed to fishing to prevent undue harassment of migratory birds.

(The NEWS Editor spent all day Sunday on Silver Lake and brought home not one trout.)

Reserve drops Capitan

The Reserve Mountaineers took one step closer to the district 3A championship and a perfect season by clipping the Capitan Tigers 32-12.

The Mountaineers took control early as they scored in the first and second quarters. The third quarter was once again controlled by the Reserve club as they took the ball at kick off and drove 70 yards for a 20 to 0 lead as the fourth quarter began. The Tigers were not out of it though as Robby Richardson took an intercepted pass back 60 yards for a score and Kirk Phillips caught a 50 yard pass for 4th quarter scores. However, in addition to Capitans two fourth quarter touchdowns they also gave up two costly touchdowns as a result of two fumbles. One being recovered on their own two yard line and the other on the ten yard line.

The Tigers will try and renew some of their pride as they face Mountainair in their last home game of the year

FFA sponsors roping events

John D. Holleyman and Royce Washburn furnished stock to the Corona FFA chapter to holdroping events last Sunday at the Corona arena.

In the daily team roping, three steer average 1st go: Tommy Shipworth and Gary Armitage, 2nd go: John D. Holleyman and Moon Mullins and in the 3rd go: Lon Holleyman and Willis Brunson were the winners.

The average on 3 steers was: John Wilken and Ben Penrode, 45.3; John Wilken and Mike Thomas 47.2, Gerald Tully and Jerry Tully, 52.9 and Lon Holleyman and Willis Brunson 54.6.

In the 2 steer average, 1st go: Lefty Wilken and Mike Thomas; 2nd go: John Wilken and Lefty Wilken. Average: John Wilken and Mike Thomas 23.5; John Wilken and Ben Penrode, 26.9; Gerald Tully and Jerry Tully, 31.4.

Calf roping events, 2 calves, 1st go: Mark Shaw, 2nd go: Ralph McKinley. Average: John D. Holleyman, 31.8; Gary Armitage 37.1; Norman McKinley, 40.6.

The second calf roping 2 calves, Ralph McKinley won both go rounds and the average, second Gary Armitage 29.0 and Royce Washburn, 33.9.

Game birds provide sport

Game birds provide double pleasure -- the sport of hunting a new variety and flavor of table meat, says D.W. Francis, Extension poultry specialist at New Mexico State University.

To enjoy the distinctive flavor of game birds, you need to give them proper care in the field. Following correct cooking methods also enhances the bird's flavor. Too often, game birds develop an off-flavor from improper handling.

As soon as possible after the kill, remove the bird's entrails and crop (crop). Allow air to circulate in the body cavity. Cool the bird as quickly and thoroughly as possible. Keep the meat cold until it is cooked.

Tiger Talk
by Bern Nadette Gomez

The Capitan Tigers had an upsetting loss Friday night, October 17, as they met the Reserve Mountaineers. The Mountaineers came to the Tiger Field and won 32-12. The scoring went as follows.

- 1st quarter - Reserve td.
- 2nd quarter - Reserve td.
- 3rd quarter - Reserve td-2 point conversion.
- 4th quarter - Capitan td; Capitan td; Reserve td; Reserve td.

The coronation ceremonies were held prior to the game. The 1974-75 Homecoming Queen was escorted by Seniors, David Granger and Ricky Richardson. Queen Candidates, Susie Abercrombie, Kandie Huey, and Jenann Kline were escorted by King Candidates, Kirk Phillips, Kenny Cummins, and Pat Griego, respectively. Princesses and escorts were Laura Hardy and Ray Staggs, Mary Gutierrez and Robbie Richardson, and Becky Renfro and David Hightower. Before the announcement and crowning of the Queen and King, Student Council President, Bern Nadette Gomez, presented the girls their beautiful arm bouquets. Student Council Secretary, Megan LaMay, presented the Queen's crown and King's scepter. The 1975-76 Homecoming Queen and King were crowned by 1974-75 Homecoming Queen, Debbie Dalton, Susie Abercrombie and Kenny Cummins reign as 1975-76 Homecoming Queen and King.

On Saturday, October 18, the second Round Robin was held at Capitan.

Carrizozo's Manager is on the way up and over as Claud Harding and Jim Dixon demonstrate the Litter Lift Solid Waste System for town officials. The proposed garbage system would use 90 gallon roll containers for residences and 300 gallon containers for businesses and area accessible by 14 foot alleys. The lift method prevents scattering of debris and would drastically reduce annual sanitary wages.

The Southern Pacific didn't run through Lincoln County for eight hours last week when the SP Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks went on strike across the nation. It was the second strike of the union in Carrizozo in thirty years, according to member, Rick Coca.

Mayor Floyd Siegrist, a Brotherhood committee member for 17 years, was out doing picket duty early in the morning. A few hours later, attorneys for the railroad obtained an injunction from a San Francisco court ordering the clerks back to work. Negotiations continue this week. The Clerks are protesting what they term a contract violation when the company closes down jobs of retired or deceased employees instead of keeping the positions open, according to Siegrist.

Report from Jayhawk land

Bob Means is in trouble and does not know just how bad yet. Paytons back from Ellsworth, Kansas and other places Monday week ago, Paul went to Bob's place Tuesday to return tool. Asked Bob what he'd been doing, "Just working" was the answer. Then Bob asked Paul the same question, "Just back from Kansas" was the answer. Said Bob, "That's worse than working isn't it!"

Bob's trouble is going to develop fast when Kathleen and Marian, a couple of Kansas gals of Irish ancestry, read their Lincoln County News, then start burning and head for Lincoln County to do a gun job on Bob.

While up there in Ellsworth County on the Smokey Hill River and between Wilson and Kanapolis Lakes we became more aware of the lateness of the News in getting to distant states. In Ellsworth it arrived Monday or Tuesday. There may be a couple of things that can be done - we'll try.

We're seeing an out-of-focus blur ever since we sat on our glasses. The strange affliction that hit us after cataract surgery on both eyes, last November and again this past July, is rare enough that surgeon doing our work had never experienced such. You go along with beautiful 20-20 vision for exactly two months then - wham - pain starts for no good reason and your eye starts to blur. That goes on for about a month leaving you with less vision than right after the operation. Sure hope we're over the pain bit and can go ahead with our work. After being in Kansas a week with misery most days, we quit reading, watching TV and playing piano from music - may have been that the right eye was ready to settle down, anyway no more pain and we see pretty good, much better out of the right than the left. Have not been doing much reading since coming back to the office but will increase that activity as days go by.

One of the minor differences between this area and Ellsworth County is that they've been having a rash of farm sales for several years as people age and move to town, usually selling out everything they had used for years on the farm. We went to three, spent nothing at first auction, spent $80 at the second and $4 at the third. That $80 bought three antiques we admire a lot, one an old rubber-bubb auto horn, says peacock on the reed and sounds about like a wounded peacock. Next project is to find out what auto this squawker came out on. The third auction started at 9:30 a.m. and went on up to 6:00 p.m. and after - we left. An iron horse, about four feet high, which came off top of barn brought $200, iron rooster off windmill brought $75, some carnival glasses (look terrible) went about $6 each, set of four. People we talked to thought the tools went high, took four hours to sell them off three hay racks. We thought they were reasonable for person who needed saw or such. Newspaper in that town will have as many as 4 auction bills in one issue - means that people are moving out of the country and into town - probably true all over the farm country. May be that newer generations are starting to move back but not the 60-70-80-year-old people.

John Getz, publisher of the Curry County Times at Clovis, has one place where there is no phone and people don't bother him - the job-at-home. He does all his heavy editorial there.

One dandy speaker at N.M. Press Convention - Helen Thomas of U.P.I., she told of LBJ being on military base and getting ready to leave. A young soldier said, "Mr. President, there is your helicopter." LBJ replied, "Son, they're all my helicopters."

We don't care much anymore what people call us, haven't since that female up in Kansas said, "You tall, skinny sonofabitch." Anyway, we went by name of "Wienie" for first 17 years of our life. There you get Wienie Roast.

Over use of the credit card is part of our economic problem-if the money we spend for interest were spent for a new product we would be able to create more work for the people of this country.
