Return to basics is parent's plea

A plea for a return to basic education and the initial steps in building an administration building occupied most of the time of the Carrizozo School Board Tuesday night.

Mrs. Connie Morales appeared before the group to discuss educational problems locally and statewide. Equipped with magazine and news articles concerning the falling college entrance scores and inability of high school graduates to function in the commercial world, Mrs. Morales asked the board to find some way to improve the reading, spelling and writing skills of Carrizozo's youth.

She said it appeared to her that too much emphasis was placed on athletics and extra activities. Referring to a $1200 score board discussed at the meeting, Mrs. Morales asked if the money would not better be spent on basic education. She also complained about the attitude of some school staff members, saying that they should be more receptive to the requests of parents and to the needs of children.

School Superintendent Jim Steinepreis, noting that Town Marshall and Mrs. Morales had seven children in school and wide contact with the youth of the town, asked that she serve on the newly formed committee studying school needs and doing a general evaluation of the system.

Earlier the board reviewed the construction program and investigated the possibility of completing it with existing funds.

Board president Ray Wells noted that the delay in construction had earned the building fund a $17,956.39 interest boost but increased inflationary building costs had eaten deeply into planned funds. Of the $484,024.14 in the building program fund only $60,454.62 remains to construct the administration building.

Bob Watson and R.A. Cox were present to discuss the possibility of a metal building. Both men indicated that it would be possible to build the 4000 sq. ft. structure for that money but interior finish and furnishing would have to be held at a minimum. In addition to a warehouse the building is to have two offices, a meeting room and a reception room.

The board authorized the superintendent to continue with the feasibility study.

The purchase of water conditioners for several departments was discussed but it was decided to rent conditioners for the cafeteria and the home ec department temporarily before deciding on a capital outlay.

The initial phases of budget preparation were discussed. Steinepreis said that it appeared the school would receive a 12.1 per cent hike in funds this year. He said that the salary schedule called for what amounts to a 12.4 per cent increase in teacher pay, raising the base from $8300 to 9000. Anticipated enrollment next year is 362 in all grades. The board was to begin consideration of next year's program. The budget hearing is in April.

Principal Larry Wilkerson presented a tentative 1976 football schedule which put Carrizozo in a District with Animas, a AA school, Capitan and Reserve and had a nine game schedule. It was noted that the first three games, against Ruidoso, Animas and Hatch, would make for a rough beginning.

The Board voted to renew the contract of the School Superintendent.

Gate on county road to be unlocked Commissioners endorse three projects

Lincoln County Commissioners Roman Nunez, Bud Payne and John Sudderth disposed of a knotty locked gate problem during a morning of serious business in the commission room Tuesday.

Leonard Morris who works for T. D. Wood of Marfa, Texas taking care of their ranch property in the Tinnie-Arabella area, was present at the meeting to ask that road from ranch house south to the Tinnie-Arabella road be put back on map, the road needs grading and regular maintenance. This road had been viewed but not enough. Commissioners will meet Friday at Hondo and go look at the possibility of alternate route, with expectation of satisfying Morris' request.

Next up was A. E. Davis who had received letter from commission asking they he removed lock from gate T35, R14E, Sec. 33, Code E-009, on a county road. The letter was sent Feb. 3.

It was brought out by chairman Nunez that the commission has problems with locked gates all over the county and the policy of the commission is not to permit locked gates on county roads. The county will not do road maintenance work where gates are locked.

Davis told the commissioners that he had been losing cattle, that no one lived down the road, that only the Freeland and himself used this road. After he locked the gate his livestock losses ceased. He would gladly give key to Freeland but he'd never been asked.

The commissioners held firm on policy of no locked gates. Maintenance of the "old original road" was discussed, Davis agreed to unlock gate.

One bid received on plumbing repairs at courthouse, amount $1154 from Polaco Plumbing at Ruidoso. Bid accepted.

County Manager Les Olson started to open bids on new copier, found they would take some analysis, discussion of these bids was put off until after lunch when Olson would have time to go over them.

Atty. Bill Payne presented letter, from New Mexico Research Institute to the commission. The letter states that NMRI has asked Atty. Payne to be its representative at the commission meeting.

The first paragraph reads: "During its meeting on 17 July 1974 the Lincoln County Commission, in presence of Dr. Mark Jones, chairman of the board of the NM Research Institute, Inc. (NMRI) set aside an amount of $3750 to meet its share of the Federal Government requirement, stipulated by the office of budget and management that federal grants for the development of water resources have to be shared locally on a 1:1 basis."

Atty. Payne was there to ask the commission for answer — yes or no — on the $3750 which had been budgeted but never approved for payment. Payne said the Town of Carrizozo had paid $3750, that the survey was completed, he thought Steinhoff had acted in good faith in completing the project in expectation of the county paying the $3750. Sudderth suggested resolving the problem at the next meeting after a legal opinion has been secured from DA, which will be done.

Payne then asked the commissioners for endorsement of three new projects proposed by NMRI.

One is research in underground gasification of Carrizozo coal for methanation and liquefaction with local water. The project is highly technical, expected completion date September 1976.

Some facts from the project brochure: New Mexico is 49th in US per capital income. Energy produced in the state leaves the state, with state need in gaseous and liquefied fuel unsatisfied. N.M. has plentiful energy resources, their utilization is inadequately explored requiring pilot facilities. Regulations, impact statements, etc. take long lead time. Coal gasification is limited by availability of water. Shortage of water is mainly due to lack of water resource data.

A second project is titled 'Feasibility of measuring surface water contours and subsurface water evaporation with ERTA-LANDSAT. Since satellite photographs of the near-infrared Band 7 see soil moisture, as do multi-spectral false-color photographs of Bands 4, 5, 6, 7 of the project, the determination of the evaporating near-surface ground-water areas will facilitate this task. After all the technical data in the project, it states: "The amounts of water expected to be saved by evaporation suppression and impoundment of all available floodwater of the Tularosa Basin is expected to amount to from 160,000 acre-feet minimum to form as much as 200,000 to 400,000 acre-feet."

The third project carries the title "Research and field work toward reduction of salinity of irrigation and livestock water caused by intrusion of highly saline water into Tularosa Basin groundwaters near Tularosa and Carrizozo."

By resolution the commissioners endorsed these three projects.

Bids were opened for repeater on Capitan Mountain. Bid of $3650.87 from Southwest Electric in Ruidoso was accepted. Discussion brought out that power source would be either wind or sun in near future, also that this repeater could be located on Carrizo Mountain.

Adjournment for lunch.

$50,850 for Smokey

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has awarded a $50,850 grant to be matched by the state. The money is going to the NM State Planning Office, the office of US Sen. Pete Domenici announced.

The state will use the funds to purchase a 1.5 plus acres of land for development of the Smokey Bear Historical State Park at Capitan. Development of this park will include irrigation systems, interpretative trails, landscaping and boundary fencing.

The park will be located at Capitan on Highway 380.

Special meetings ahead in Zozo

by Paul Payton

Mayor Floyd Siegrist had Trustees C.D. May and Roy Harman for backup on town business Tuesday night. One ordinance was delayed because there was no way the trustees could have voted a majority.

Two special meetings will be needed to complete some town business — the first will be on Feb. 17 to complete action of bids for garbage truck and containers. Two bids were received and opened at the meeting. The low bid came from Bedford Enterprise Corp. of Albuquerque in amount of $50,361.00. Larry Bedford and Paul Steadman were present representing this company. The next bid was $50,599.00 for truck and containers, from Eberling Mfg. of Plainview, Texas. Michael Richardson was present representing this company.

Town officials were working without service of utility manager Johnny Johnson who is in California attending a meeting; they did not know about financing so postponed purchase or acceptance of either bid until the 17.

This new garbage system is a one-man operation but is not expected to put any town worker out of a job, some men will just be shifted to other work.

The need for a public town meeting developed during discussion of franchise ordinance which would allow Tularosa Cable TV to put a system in Carrizozo. The question councilmen felt they could not answer is — do Carrizozo people want another cable TV system. A special meeting will be called to give people a chance to discuss and make known their desires about cable TV service in Carrizozo. This meeting date will be announced soon.

Coach Henry Paul asked the town to spend $200 on baseball pitching machine, total cost $295 and he had the other money committed. School does not want to pay this amount as it does not want responsibility of care for the machine. Town will buy. The machine is expected to save wear and tear on pitcher's arm.

A new water line will be run out in the Matthew Apgar neighborhood to serve three customers right now. Cost of $1176.60 will be paid by J. S. Stearns. Town will start this line immediately. Several occupation tax items passed, no discussion of amounts paid. Bills were paid.

The Cable TV franchise came up under "old business". It was pointed out that the town would profit, somewhere between 2 and 5 percent of the gross take of the TV company on such a franchise. That the town does have control of such a business — which it has not exercised in the past.

Polly Chavez was present to make two requests, the tree be removed in her area and that bulb be put in street light. The council had had experience over removing tree out in town property, cost the mayor at that time. Will do this job if possible.

Fred English and Marcus Barela examine the safe door that underwent surgery when a safe cracker decided to remove about $600 from Carrizozo Hardware the past weekend. The locks on both the outside and inner safe doors were knocked off. Only cash and checks were taken from the store. The burglar is still at large.

Moon walker to be here

One of the twelve men who have walked on the moon will describe his adventures to Carrizozo School children Feb. 17.

Harrison Schmitt, a scientist and astronaut, will show the children his space suit, samples of moon rocks and show films beginning at 9:30 a.m. All children will be given an elective free period to attend.

At noon Dr. Schmitt who is a candidate for Republican nomination to the U.S. Senate will be introduced at a "dutch treat" lunch at the Four Winds. The public is invited to attend.

Sudderth in County race

John F. Sudderth, recently appointed to the Lincoln County Commission to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of Bill Hart, has announced his candidacy for election to that position.

Mr. Sudderth who has served on a number of state and local commissions was formerly chairman of the State Highway Commission and Director of Highways for the State of New Mexico for four years.

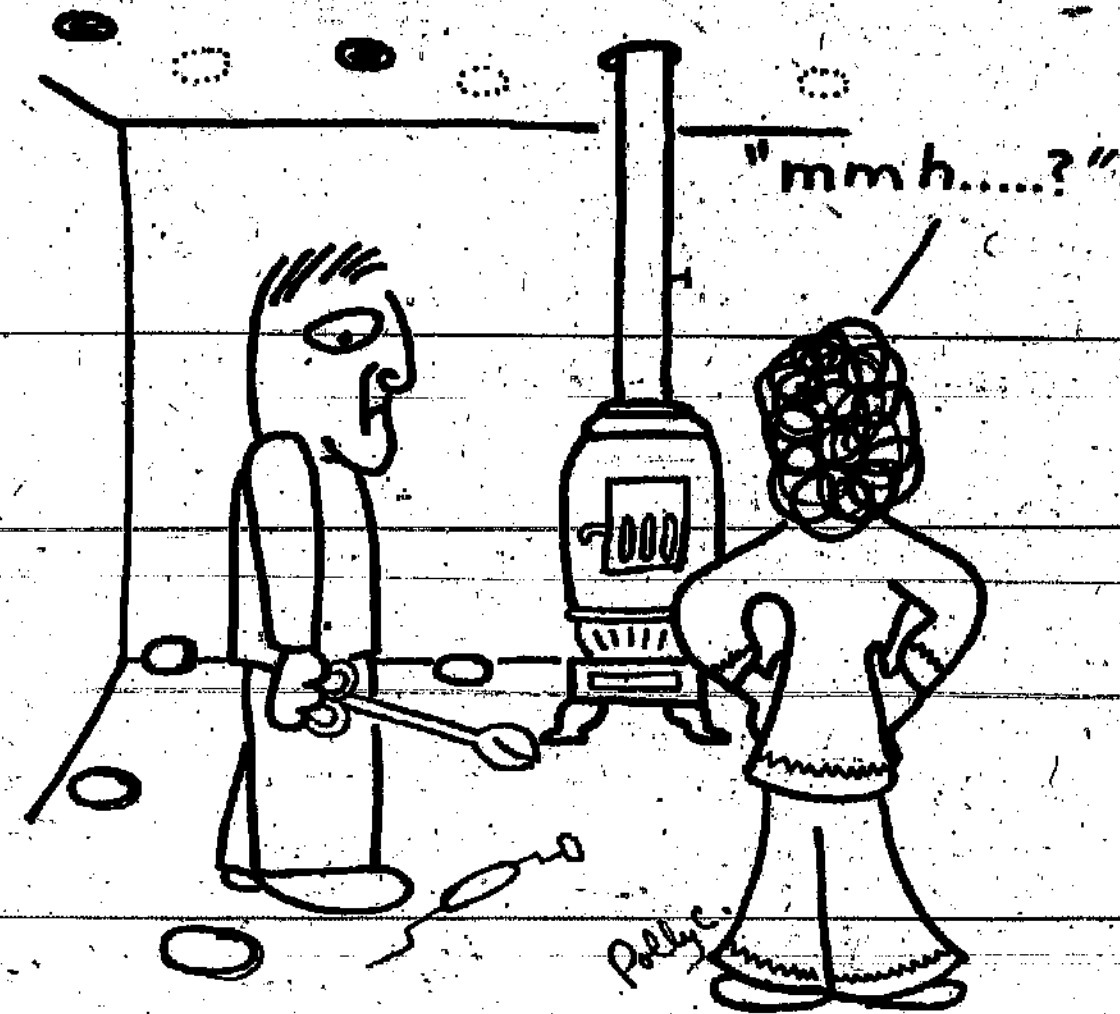

He has been president and principal owner of gas companies, construction companies and is a member of the board of Great Western Assurance. He and his wife live in Ruidoso.

In making the announcement, the commissioner said, "In running for office to represent District III, I will make no promises other than to represent all the people of Lincoln County."

Commissioners endorse three

In the afternoon session the commissioners devoted most of their time to financial reviews and other money matters.

Evidently there had been some question in the state about annual leave and sick leave for elected officials. An attorney general's opinion was read which said that all elected county officials received a fixed salary and were not entitled to any other fees.

It is up to the officials to determine their vacation and leave times and is not subject to any other authority. It was explained that in event an official failed to fulfill the duties of his office, there were legal procedures available for removing that person from office.

The commissioners transferred $10,000 to the predator control fund. The program is funded through fees returned to the county from the federal government out of Taylor Grazing Act range fees. The program is operated by New Mexico State University.

There was a $37,413 balance in the fund and the increase had been requested for this year. So far $17,000 has been spent. The new budget calls for $21,078 for five trappers salary, $4,650 for mileage and $2700 for horse hire.

County manager Les Olson announced receipt of a $40,266 program for road safety work on Carrizo Canyon Road, Bonita Road and Gavillon Canyon road. Signs, striping and a 100 foot geared rail on Bonita approaching the lake were included.

Commissioner John Sudderth said that the county should reach some agreement with the Apaches on signs at a bad curve near the Inn of the Mountain Gods on Carrizo Canyon road. The maximum speed possible for making the curve is 35 mph he said and there have been 34 accidents on that road.

The county must have the agreement of the Apache Tribe to mark the curve since it is on the reservation and is owned by the tribe.

The commissioners asked that county treasurer Veta Allen be present next meeting to review the treasurers report and to study the county investment program.

Sudderth who was appointed by the commission as their fiscal advisor, said that it is vital that investment in county financial institutions was required by law and in a county such as Lincoln, where capital was a problem, it was important to see that this program was enforced. School funds must also be invested locally and Sudderth said that he understood that some Hondo School funds were invested outside the county.

Looking forward to budget preparation this spring, the commission ended the meeting with a work session which considered the problems of the road department on replacing and maintaining equipment.

It was agreed that the policy of the county would be to maintain equipment in top condition and to sell equipment that was so damaged as to be unfeasible to maintain.

Special meetings

The street light is another matter. Mayor Floyd Siegrist said he had learned from the light company that bulb had been replaced three in one week at total cost of $120 and that the company would not put up any more. Siegrist said the people in that neighborhood surely knew who was shooting out the bulb but that they were not helping themselves and would have to put up with the dark. He advised Mrs. Chavez to see the light company, saying "I wish you more luck than I have had."

Assist. Police Chief John Works noted the town just had one officer per shift and it was hard for the officer to be everywhere at one time. He said that law enforcement takes cooperation from the people.

Most folks have left Christmas and beginning of the year festivities off memory lane and returned to more ordinary joys and trials.

Organizations began their second half activities; schools take a deep breath and plunge in; funds need raising; the government needs report and money, money, money. So by the first week in February, it's grab hold and off we go on another year.

For those of us in the news business all of this means a lot of extra meetings to attend and, in a presidential election year, quite a hunk of political gatherings and announcements.

I was stirring around this weekend trying to catch up enough to start getting behind again when I happened on a page of partially used note pad that had a note in hand writing other than mine.

"Fill every other day so full of optimism and faith that it shines through with a happy smile like stars in the night on Carrizo Mountain."

Thank you, dear soul, whoever you are, for that message.

W-W
With that in mind, I left the work to simmer a little and went over to look at Mrs. John Harkey's fine antique furniture. Over the years, she has acquired a house full of furnishings that are beautiful and remind one of the changes in the past two hundred years.

We moved around so much now, and seem to build both our homes and our furniture to be discarded after the "new" wears off. Automobiles and appliances are built to wear out just as the last monthly payment is made.

Look at Mrs. Harkey's bedroom set. There is no way that beautifully carved, heavy wood bed is going to fall apart. It must have taken months to construct and it will take many more generations to wear out the workmanship that went into its making.

My grandmother used to say that silver got more beautiful with each year of use. And the ladies always knew that pearls must be worn to retain their luster.

Good wood needs years of loving use to make it glow.

W-W
While I was making my visit, John Harkey told us about his favorite fund raising adventure. John, as most Lincoln County people know, has done a lot of trading in his long life. He has been quite a politician and also found time to be the head of a large clan.

Not everybody knows, though, about his fund raising abilities and the time he has given to his community.

This may seem like the same old story, but there was a time when Carrizozo and this end of the county did not have a hospital. (We do at least have the building now.)

I guess Doc Turner delivered babies at home and did operations on the kitchen table.

The people in Carrizozo decided they wanted a hospital and they were told it would take $15,000 to get it started. That was a lot of money in those days and there were no federal funds floating around. It was do it yourself or do without times.

So the town people had street dances and cake walks and pie sales. But the money was just nickel and dime in.

John Harkey said that Mr. Huntsinger was president of the bank and Vernon Petty was mayor. They called in a few men to discuss the progress.

It was pretty obvious that they were never going to build a hospital off of street dances so they asked him if he didn't think he could raise some money some other way.

What about the ranchers living around Lincoln County?

John figured the ranchers would help and he decided to take a couple of weeks off from the store and go ask for that help. But first he got a big board. Up at the top he wrote $1000 and under that he put the names Frank English, Petty Brothers, Dutch Reil and John Harkey.

The men met again and he told them that he would start out when that money was in the bank.

The next day he and Mrs. Harkey started. They decided not to take less than $100 from any person and they didn't—except for one time.

They were eating in a cafe in Corona when a woman who worked there came over and put a $5 on the table. "Mr. Harkey, I know you are trying to get us a hospital and I want to help," she said. "Rule or not, Mr. and Mrs. Harkey had a quick vote and decided not to turn down that contribution."

John says only one person refused to give him the contribution. He had put down every rancher's name on that board and some gave a lot more than $100.

One day the Harkeys were at the Juan Arramoupe ranch. They got there about dinner time and were invited to the table. Afterward, according to John, he said, "Now Juan, that was a real fine meal and we thank you but I want you to get out your check book and give us $250 for a hospital."

Mr. Arramoupe didn't say a word. He just wrote out that check. Later, John tells, his boy was hurt and was taken care of at the hospital. He told John that he sure felt repaid.

One day, the sheriff, who was then Nick Vega, offered to help. Sheriff Vega was a Republican and an active politician. John Harkey was a Democrat and a real party worker.

The Sheriff told John that he would take him out to raise money for a day and use the county car if John would promise not do any campaigning that day.

Well, in that two weeks, only one lady turned him down and he is still unhappy about that. Ray Lemmon was at the bank then, and someone (John to this day doesn't know who) told Mr. Lemmon that he would put up any of the $15,000 that John Harkey didn't raise. John says he doesn't know whether the man had a lot of confidence in him or was just real generous.

He raised over $11,000 on that two week's drive. Doc Turner had been away on a trip, and when he got home he put his arm around John and said, "I didn't think it could be done."

So that is a part of the story about how the hospital was built.

Now we are told it will take over $50,000 just to put the operating room up to federal regulations. Wonder how John Harkey would feel about taking two weeks off and making a tour of the county?

There is a part two to this story and maybe next week we can tell it.

Letters to the Editor

God's country is cold this time of year

Paul,
Only 25 years on a good all wool shirt? Of course the only wear is on the elbows. That's easy to figure. Some of those sajons down that way have some awful rough bars. Easy to wear-out a shirt that way. Better invest in a new shirt, but have Danny put leather on 'em right away. You should get 40 years easy.

Just to stop your bragging I have a pair of all wool trousers and shirt bought in Cheyenne in '46. Still good cold weather gear, but, mostly for below zero weather. The rest of the pants ain't shiny and the elbows are O.K. Neck band worn a little, but then I'm a roughneck.

In this country anything above zero is shirtsleeve weather.

It sort of separates the men from the boys, and most of the boys have moved to the south west. They are kinda softies, thin skinned chickens. Really tho, the clothes back in those days were really made. The price seemed high but when you consider quality it was cheap. The trousers were 37.50 and shirt 17.50. Today they can't be found at any price.

Good to hear you didn't lose your sense of humor in the hospital. It helps in making a sure cure.

Will look you up when next in that neck of the woods. Next summer or fall when I visit my daughter Becky Howard out at White Oaks. Stick Around.

Judge Payne will attend academy

Judge Bill G. Payne of the Magistrate Court in Carrizozo, New Mexico, was selected to attend the 1976 Specialty Academy on Evidence, conducted by the American Academy of Judicial Education, a non-profit continuing judicial education organization, headquartered in Washington, D. C.

The program to be held February 11-14 at Arizona State University in Tempe is part of an annual series of Specialty Academies which offer experienced trial judges an opportunity for in-depth study of current topics in civil and criminal law.

While attending this program, the Judge will hear lectures and participate in discussion sessions, using videotapes extensively, on the following subjects: Relevancy, Authentication and Judicial Notice.

The American Academy of Judicial Education was founded in 1970 by the American Judges Association and the American Judicature Society to provide continuing education for state court judges—the judges most directly affecting the largest number of citizens. The Academy's programs are presented in cooperation with the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. Department of Justice.

School study gets started

A well-attended meeting of parents, teachers and students began the needs assessment study of the Carrizozo school Monday night.

The review, similar to a governors evaluation program of several years back, is required by the department of education. The parent-teacher-student committee will explore the teaching programs, the physical plants, books, moral, teacher-student rapport and any other item of concern to committee members or the public.

The committee divided into three groups. Paul Saigado will chair a high school study committee. Mrs. Saigado's groups will study mid-school and Vic Sisnerio leads the elementary committee.

From reading about Diane Bigbee we can see that a lot of females have not been making good use of their lives and/or the back 40 of their property. Diane is student at NMSU with hopes of someday combining her accounting and management interests by operating a cattle feedlot. Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bigbee at Encino.

Been thinking for years that we'd heard about all the pranks guys (with little to do) can think up — we were wrong. Won't even tell you where this one came from but it's true. The rascals put sack over a cat's head then threw cat on back of horse. Cat didn't know where it was and dug in to hang on. Horse did not know what hit it and was clawing its back so the horse pitched like mad until the cat finally flew off and headed on a fast journey away from those parts.

We count it real strange that some of the best reading in a lifetime should come along, at least on the bottom of a tall stack of books. We finished reading "Death Comes to the Archbishop" by Willa Cather last week, a book containing some of the very best descriptive writing in our experience, besides being a moving and interesting story of life in New Mexico. This book also helps one's understanding of people here, long before Anglos arrived.

A good friend of other years up in Kansas is retiring after 40 years in same job on main street. He's been town clerk for over 30 years, registrar of the cemetery, a job that kept him pretty dum-gum busy fully as long. What interested Payton must in writeup about this guy is that he remembers good times of the 50s when lots of banjo playing and singing was going on — as some of the best in his life.

Rich Little was doing a spoof on western-country singers with their gaudy clothes and long hair — which sure needed spoofing. Lincoln commissioners were wrestling small matter of credit or credibility for their county Tuesday. It had to do with water survey of the Tularosa basin by N.M. Research Institute. Dr. Ernest A. Steinhoff, president. This good doctor has two strikes against him. 1) It is near impossible to understand what he says in normal conversation. 2) he does not know when to quit talking. Nevertheless, Steinhoff made his pitch to our county commission about three years ago for money to match other funding, the commissioners did budget money and Steinhoff went ahead and completed the survey — now the commission is being asked to pay and it seems the only honorable thing to do.

Capitan Coach to head drive

Richard House, Basketball coach of Capitan High School today was named Special Events Chairman for the New Mexico Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society in Capitan. House's appointment to head the special events was announced by Cynthia Dixon, Chairman of the New Mexico Chapter's Board of Trustees. Because multiple sclerosis is a crippling neurological disease of the central nervous system, most often attacks young adults between the ages of 20 and 40, this year's campaign is built around an "Athletes vs MS" theme. The idea, according to football coach Ara

Parseghian, National Campaign Chairman of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, is to involve athletes at all levels — professional, collegiate, high school and junior high schools — in a comprehensive program designed ultimately to raise millions of dollars for MS research and patient services.

Mrs. Dixon said the response from the sports world so far has been overwhelming, with help coming from such stars as Hank Aaron, Lee Trevino, Billie Jean King, Bobby Orr, Muhammad Ali, John Havlicek, Jimmy Connors, Joe DiMaggio and many others. Nevertheless, he pointed out, the bulk of the money raised this year, must as in past years, come from the local areas of the country. During 1975, expenditures for MS research and patient services reached a record high for the Society. Yet, as scientists get closer than ever to finding an answer to the puzzle of MS, even these sums are not nearly enough.

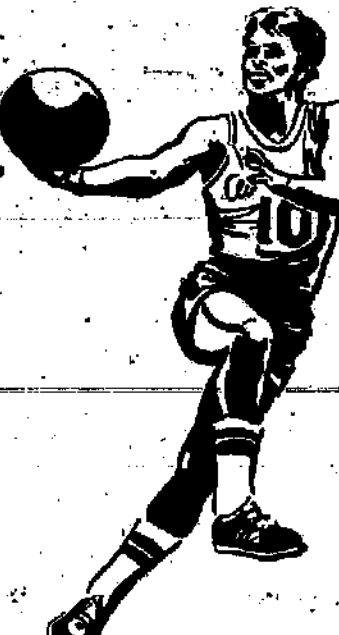

Convention call issued

Calls have been issued for precinct county and state conventions of both political parties. With a total of 4000 voters thus far registered the Democrats have 2184 and the Republicans show 1566 party members with 178 independents. The Republicans lead off with a county convention and precinct conventions all set in the county courthouse on Feb. 26 at 7:30 p.m. They will carry 12 delegate votes to the state convention which is called to order at 10 a.m. March 27 at the Hilton Inn in Albuquerque. The Democratic precinct conventions are March 1 at 7:30. Carrizozo precincts meet at the court house. Nogal meets at the store. Capitan at the magistrate office; all Ruidoso and Angus at the magistrate office; Corona at Town Hall; San Patricio at the Tom Baber home and Hondo at the Hondo school. The Democratic County Convention is March 11 at 7:30 in the County Courthouse. The State convention is March 27 at the Albuquerque Civic Auditorium beginning at 10 a.m. Lincoln County will have 9 delegate votes.

Caves of the Fort Stanton Area, NM

The caves of the Fort Stanton Area, New Mexico are both well known and almost wholly unknown, and are worthwhile studying because of the diversity of their present development, as well as their past and present usages. The caves of this area are developed in the San Andreas Limestone and appear to have a locally developed base level on the underlying Glorieta Sandstone. These caves display a slight alignment along joint patterns.

The history of the caves of this area appears to have a four-fold series of events:

1. Origin after the development of the surface drainage.
2. Filling of the caves with clay rubble.
3. Re-excavation of this fill in the lower levels.
4. Human habitation and subsequent vandalism.

The filling of the cave with formations has apparently taken place both before and after the clay fill was deposited.

Because of the irreplaceable beauty of the caves, it is strongly urged that visitors in the caves be cognizant of and follow a few simple conservation practices—removed nothing but pictures and leave nothing but foot prints.

History of the caves:
It is the purpose of this paper to describe the more recent history of the caves of the Fort Stanton area, with a very brief synopsis of their development and decoration. Because of space limitations and the fact that the subject will receive much discussion on this field-trip, I will refrain from discussing the geologist history of the area.

The pre-human history of the caves begins shortly after the origin and major development of the present surface drainage. At that time, all of the studied caves were developed. It is commonly stated that caves are developed by waters in the phreatic or in the vadose zone. Such sweeping statements are meaningless. In the study of presently visible landform, and caves are a type of landform, geologists are concerned with a study of all factors acting on these landforms from their origin to the present. There has been both phreatic and vadose development of the caves under discussion.

It is obvious that most if not all caves have had a phreatic origin. Whether or not the present size and shape are due wholly, in major part, or in small part to the action of phreatic conditions, must be studied for each cave physiographic province and in some areas for each individual cave. From a study of the caves of this area, the action of vadose waters, with some emphasis on erosion, has had a dominant effect on the present development of the caves. This is pointed out by the following facts:

1. The passageways, although somewhat affected by joint systems, appear to conform to the presently developed surface drainage patterns.

2. One domal room of considerable magnitude may be observed in Fort Stanton Cave. This room has a characteristic heap of rubble, derived from the ceiling. This breakdown is cemented at its base by the ubiquitous clay fill found in the local caves. This fill appears to have been deposited subsequent to the excavation of the major parts of the caves. Several pieces of this "breakdown" shows signs of speleothem development on the ceilings prior to breakdown, and thus prior to the deposition of the cave fill. Also, many of the lower blocks show the marks of erosion, not solution. These marks are buried in some cases by the clay fill, suggesting that prior to the deposition of the cave fill, the process most actively removing the blocks of "breakdown" and therefore most actively forming the cave itself, was erosion.

3. Several curtains of speleothems developed in water are present in Fort Stanton Cave, all of which predate the clay fill.

4. Several of the main passageways in Fort Stanton Cave exhibit the features of a passage developed by moving water. Several distinct water levels are indicated, with each succeeding lower one having removed more of the wall rock than the preceding. This creates the typical inverted step appearance of the walls. These features predate the cave fill.

5. In two of the few places where bed rock is visible on the floor, there is a slight bend in the passageways. The development of a terraced mound superimposed on the bed rock, with the highest development of the mound at the inside of the bend, along the wall. The mounds slope down towards the outside of the bend, just as a meander scar would develop.

These facts show that the major portion of the cave's passages were developed prior to the deposition of the cave fill. They also indicate that the decoration had started before the deposition of the clay fill.

The second step in the development of the present caves was the filling of the passageways with clay and gravel. The composition of the gravels indicated that at least one surface stream emptied into Fort Stanton Cave, for a significant number of pebbles are of igneous origin being derived from nearby igneous bodies. Some passages were filled completely while others were only partially filled.

The third step in the development of the present caves was the re-excavation of the passages by surface draining streams. The surface origin of the streams is shown by the many igneous pebbles found in their stream beds. These pebbles exhibit a greater degree of rounding than the pebbles in the clay and gravel fills.

The caves found in the hills surrounding Fort Stanton Cave were filled completely and have undergone only partial re-excavation. The passages of Fort Stanton Cave have for the most part been re-excavated by surface drainage. Today, the cave is essentially dry, but occasionally streams are reported in the back of the cave. It has been reported that in the early 1900's it was necessary to use a boat to visit the middle part of the known Fort Stanton Cave. This drying up of the cave may be a reflection of the regional lowering of the water table.

The last and most interesting and destructive step in the development of the present caves, is the influence of humans. The earliest record of human habitation is found in Feather Cave and the several shelter caves nearby. Feather Cave has been partially excavated by the University of New Mexico archeology students. In the literature published by this group, the cave was given a new name, Den's Cave, in honor of one of the researchers. Prior to that time, the people in the area know this cave as Feather Cave, or to some, Outlaw Cave. This cave is a perfect example of the problem confronting cave explorers. The cave was studied for an entire summer by the UNM students, and was subsequently visited by many hundreds of people. In spite of this apparently most careful scrutiny of a room barely 200 feet long and 50 feet wide, this last spring, a new addition was discovered behind the breakdown found at the end of the cave. This new addition has many Indian artifacts and will be published by the discoverers in the near future.

There are several small shelter caves in nearby bluffs which show signs of human habitation. This habitation is shown by pottery shards found in the rubble at the mouth of the shelters and by a few faded pictographs on the walls of the shelters. It is of additional interest that at least one of these shelter caves is the recent home of cave swallows, a bird of somewhat restricted range in NM.

There is some evidence that Fort Stanton Cave was known and frequented by the Indians. In 1962, a company of the U.S. Cavalry chased a group of Indians into the mouth of Fort Stanton Cave. The troopers pitched camp outside and decided to starve the "redskins" out. A few days later, the same Indians were soon stealing the troopers' horses. These Indians knew of a second entrance, something which the more recent explorers of the caves have failed to find.

In the last year several additional caves have been found in this area. All have had to be partially excavated, and some have not been fully opened yet. All of the newly discovered caves, as far as they have been explored to date, are above the level of Fort Stanton Cave, and like Fort Stanton Cave show the same drainage alignment as that of the surface. This may indicate that they are genetically related.

How many additional caves remain to be found is unknown. There is at least one more cave to be found in this area, the back entrance of Fort Stanton Cave, the second entrance used by the Indians.

Wool producers capture awards

Lincoln County sheep producers again captured the major awards in the National Western Stock Show at Denver, Colorado.

The champion sweepstakes exhibit—a group of five fleeces comparable to a "get of sire class"—came from the Twin Butte Sheep Co., Picacho. Tony Treat, Picacho, won the reserve champion sweepstakes award.

Missy Jones, Captain, claimed the reserve champion junior fleece.

In the territory range fleece division, New Mexico producers placed first in seven out of the ten classes they entered.

The placing in the territory division of New Mexico producers were as follows:
FINE EWE: (1) Phelps White, Roswell; (2) Tony Treat, Picacho; (3) Cooper Bros., Tinnie; and Twin Butte Sheep Co., Picacho.
1/2 BLOOD EWE - 62's: (1) Cooper Bros., Tinnie; (2) S. P. Johnson, Jr., Roswell; (3) Twin Butte Sheep Co., Picacho; (4) F. V. Cauhape Ranch, Hope; and (5) Tony Treat, Picacho.

1/2 BLOOD EWE - 60's: (1) F. V. Cauhape Ranch, Hope; (2) Fernandez Ranch, San Mateo; (3) Goodrum Bros., Picacho; (4) S. P. Johnson, Jr., Roswell; and (5) Ramon Perez Ranch, Inc., Vaughn.

3/4 BLOOD EWE - 58's: (1) Tony Treat, Picacho, and (5) Fernandez Ranch, San Mateo.

The trip will begin at 10:00 a.m. at the Small Missile Range Road intersection with U.S. Highway 70. The small missile range road intersection is 25 miles west of monument headquarters. Rangers and military police will brief the group on regulations that will apply during the trip. The caravan will proceed over paved roads through the missile range to Lake Lucero. Compiled by Paul Payton

Twenty Years Ago

From Lincoln County News and Carrizozo Outlook Feb. 10, 1956.

Carrizozo town trustees voted Tuesday to submit a sewerage bond issue to the town's 806 registered voters.

Winter was keeping a tight grip on Lincoln County this week. Snow falling at Carrizozo school bus from Pine Lodge stalled; traffic from Capitan to Carrizozo halted; meat truck overturned east of Capitan, several cars in ditch from ice slick roads and snowdrifts.

Zozo Grizzlies go to Moriarty to play in the Bean Valley Tournament, other teams are Corona, Mountainair, Estancia, Moriarty, Vaughn, Encino and Stanley.

Dorothy Cline, head of health, welfare and education for NM Dept. of Public Health, advised the town to abandon building of a swimming pool at the present time and instead set up a five-year recreation program, spending the available tax money to hire a full or part-time director. "A successful recreation program is difficult without being in charge of a person trained in recreation work," she said.

The second annual county music clinic and festival is to be held in Carrizozo Feb. 15. Approx. 200 students from Hondo, Ruidoso, Capitan, Corona and Carrizozo are expected to take part in the all-day clinic. Leon White, Carrizozo bandmaster states that last year's clinic gave students new ideas and an incentive to work harder.

News from EPNG Station- During our shut-in days because of deep snows, many of the couples have trod across the 3-ft. drifts to play "42" with their neighbors.

Skipper Harkey again led the Grizzlies in 7-48 victory over Ruidoso. Between A and B games the Carrizozo high school pep club performed.

Grage news by Selma Geague - We all appreciate the nice parties and refreshments which our home room mothers have given this year. The children and teachers say "Thank you" to each of our room mothers.

Mrs. William McDonald came down from Santa Fe and will remain some time at the ranch home and visiting her daughters, Mesdames Rolland and Spencer.

Group dances for children

GILGAMESH, a production of the Albuquerque Dance Theater under the direction of Paul Hinde, is being presented to Carrizozo High School students Feb. 11 and 12. Carrizozo High School drama students will also attend the sessions and participate with the GILGAMESH group.

One session, beginning at 11:00 p.m. Thursday, will be open to parents. Performances will be held in the old gym.

Carrizozo was one of six schools in the state to receive an offer of no charge performance from this group. Normally the fee is $1800 for two-day lecture-demonstration visit.

Lincoln County News, Feb. 12, 1976, Page 7

The patrol units traveled 12,901 miles, took 4 prisoners to the State Penitentiary, 1 to the State Hospital, and 1 juvenile to the Girls Home in Albuquerque, checked 4 traffic accidents, and recovered $2,150 in stolen property.

Tiger Talk

by Bern Nadette Gomez

February 4 was the opening date of the District Tournaments in Dexter. The Tigerettes and Lake Arthur met on the court at what turned out to be an exciting game. Throughout the entire game both teams kept in close scoring range of each other. The Tigerettes were led to victory by Lisa Lamb with 11 points. Following Lisa were Becky Renfro 9, Susie Abercrombie 5, Mary Ann Gutierrez 5, Bern Nadette Gomez 4, Debbie Castilla 2, and Donna Cooper 2.

The following night, Feb. 5, the Tigerettes faced rival Weed Bulldogs. Unfortunately, the Tigerettes didn't do much scoring or even played one of their better games. The score showed it. Weed 50 and Capitan 17. This game was the last of the season, but even worse, the last for the two seniors, Susie Abercrombie and Bern Nadette Gomez.

Saturday, Feb. 7, Hondo and Capitan met on the Hondo court. The Capitan Tigers won both games which were equally exciting. Ray Staggs led the B team to their victory with 17 points. Behind Ray were: Adam Aldaz 11, Andy Coleman 10, Robbie Richardson 9, Tim Watkins 5, Kelly Lamb 4, Danny Chavez 2, Ricky Hilton 2, John Deweber 2, James Wooley 1.

During the A game, Hondo was ahead both quarters in the first half. The third quarter ended with the score tied at 46 all. Finally, the Tigers won 63-57. Kirk Phillips was the only Tiger scoring in double figures. Kirk had 33 points. Other Tigers were: Kenny Cummins 8, Pat Griego 8, David Granger 6, Joe David Cummins 4, and John Taylor 3.

Basketball notes by Bradley Smith - The Grizzlies and the Hondo teams staged a battle here at the community hall Wednesday. The Grizzlies got ahead in the 3rd and 4th quarters to win by score of 22-13. Big crowd out to see Carrizozo trim the Vaughn fast sleepers 25-16. The curtain raiser that night was Carrizozo vs. Corona. Zozo trimmed them 34 to 5.

Mr. John Black, teacher at Lincoln, purchased a new 1936 Pontiac from the City Garage at Capitan last week.

We are not hearing so much nowadays from the Republicans about the political significance of the recent local elections.

Mrs. Jimmie Lee and Murph Muirhead were hostesses at an elaborate bridge party in the spacious dining room of the Carrizozo Eating House Saturday.

A telegram from Sen. Dennis Chavez was received stating that a warrant has been issued in the amount of $4,834.00 and donated to the Lincoln County Board of Education to cover cost of labor and salvaging of bricks from the old Southern Pacific round house here which is to be raised.

The "Club Recreativo" met Friday at home of Mrs. Marshall St. John with Miss Margarite Martinez acting as hostess.

D. F. Sawyer of Bingham became owner of the Valley Store formerly operated by R. L. Shamon 30 miles out on Highway 380 this side of Adobe.

Mr. W. R. Dean, new owner of the Bingham store, was a visitor in Carrizozo Tuesday. Mr. Dean resides at Lovington and his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dean are running the store and postoffice at Bingham.

The assessor will visit the various school districts as follows: Nogal, Encinosa, White Oaks, Rabenton, Corona, Lon, Ramon, Ancho, Jack's Peak, Jicarilla, Bethal, Asperos-Erwin, Oscuro, L. H. Dow, assessor.

County CONVENTION

A call is further issued for Lincoln County Convention to be held March 11, 1976, at 7:30 P.M. in the Lincoln County Commissioners room of the Lincoln County Courthouse for the purpose of electing 9 delegates to the State Convention.

Sixty Years Ago

Lincoln County's Prospering Schools- A marvelous change has been made in the remodeling of the old building of Hondo district. Picacho directors hastened the work on their new building, the most complete one-room school building in the county. It has been proposed to add a room and bring the children from the Sunset ranch neighborhood to the town two-room building. The people at Tinnie are not behind their neighbors in progressiveness for they have added a well built room with new equipment and are employing two teachers this term. All five school buildings on the Ruidoso have been put in good condition.

San Patricio - Buzz-z-z-z. Do you hear it? It's the political pot beginning to boil. We have several candidates for various office and if the rest of the county is as well represented there will be a "hot time in the old town" later. Higinio Lucero is driving the mail hack now. He lost his watch somewhere on the road a few days ago.

On March 10 at Capitan the Lincoln County High School and the Carrizozo High School will debate the question: Resolved, that an illiteracy test should be employed to restrict immigration. The Carrizozo Bar offers all bonded whiskey at $1.75 per quart. Old Kingdom blended whiskey at $4.00 per gallon.

Ladies! See Spirella and Barclay Corsets, before buying. Accurate measurements taken in your home. Mrs. G. T. McQuillen.

William H. Sexton was here from his Mesa home disposing of a load of apples. Mr. L. C. Sexton has a very productive orchard, and the novelty is that it has been grown without irrigation.

Clark Hust was in Monday from his ranch across the rocks and reports stock conditions are good.

The E. P. & S. W. basket ballers will be in Carrizozo Saturday for a game at Real's hall with the Carrizozo delegation of stars.

A HANDFUL OF ANOTHER TYPE OF ART! Last week I told you I would tell you what MASI is—So here it is Masi, a rich, intricately patterned tapestry, is Fiji's unique contribution to the world's art forms. It isn't only beautiful but practical too.

It is cloth made from tree bark and is utilized all over this South Pacific nation of islands for table mats, bags, mosquito netting, and wall hangings, also room dividers.

Masi was only made for High chiefs years ago. Fijian women literally beat the plant white inner bark of paper mulberry trees into the leather like Masi. Using heavy wooden mallets and singing a traditional song. Masi makers "tenderize" a strip of bark four inches wide until it stretches into a piece 20 inches wide. These strips are then fused together by more pounding to the desired size. In its natural state, masi is white. They use red or black dyes in decorating the cloth. The red dye is made from local clay or the juice of mangrove trees. Black dye is obtained from the soot of burnt Kauli gum. In applying the colors they use banana leaf stencils or bamboo rollers. The bamboo has designs burnt into its shiny surface. Patterns are formed by applying the paste-like dye to the stencils or rollers and pressing them on the Masi. This hand-craft keep the wooden mallets beating for days and days throughout the Fiji islands—where the skilled artistry is a tradition. ADD A CUP FULL OF FLOWER IDEAS

How about making a dish garden—it will be fun! Find a good round mixing bowl (porcelain) for drainage. Place stones or pieces of broken clay pots in bottom of dish—then good potting soil made with 1 part sand, 2 parts loam, 1 part humus 1/2 part dried cow manure. Then add a cup of bone meal. Then use a tiny geranium cutting—a petunia plant—in the center you could put a unicorn plant—others you might think of. Experiment a little.

ROBY'S BOX
A pinch of ideas and jokes.
Dear Roby,
If you want your plants to bloom—add a little vinegar a very small amount mixed with water. R.C.
Dear Roby,
What do you do with a sad Kalanchoe plant? I have one that I have had 4 years—I cut all the stems real short—fed it some plant food—and it is coming out again, I put it outside when it is real warm—and it will be happy again. Roby-

Dear Roby,
Blessed are they who have nothing to say and who cannot be persuaded to say it. P.T.

Dear Roby,
When some people talk about their family tree, they trim off a branch here and there. C.D.

When a Vancouver librarian retired, her colleagues presented her with a beautiful silver bracelet-bearing this inscription: "Shhhhhhhhh."

A dash of hand work for the week!
If you have an old wash board—paint it—the wooden part—in some color, and the metal part with silver or gold. Use it as a bulletin board—its fun to put it in your bath-room—write every-one notes—and jokes.

Ben and Rosa Sanchez celebrate 60 years of happiness

Lincoln County News, Feb. 12, 1976, Page 12

Ben and Rosa Chavez have a love story that is more than sixty years old but it was sixty years ago that they were joined in matrimony at St. Rita's in Carrizozo. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Najjar were their first witnesses.

Feb. 5, 1976, Ben and Rosa cut their 60th anniversary cake after a special mass in their home. Friends and family gathered to remember the years that had passed and to wish them many more.

Sixteen years after their wedding, Ben and Rosa pose with another bridal pair. They are Loure and Jose Otero of Capitan.

A Granddaughter talks to her grandmother who might well have the secrets of a happy marriage. Ben says the marriage has always been a happy one, full of love and trust.

Ben has been friends with Roy Harman for many years. They recall the years of growth and prosperity, the years of hardship and the years of hope. Ben worked for Carrizozo Trading Company and for Zeigler Bros. for 23 years. After that he practiced his trade of sign painting.

Some could not come but quite a delegate of the Sanchez family did attend the services and party with Mr. and Mrs. Sanchez are George and Gerald; Larry, Eileen and Adrian Moya; Ben Arabelle and Brian Miller. The couple count four children, 20 grandchildren, and 14 great-grandchildren as their reward in life.

Johnson Stearns brought his mother, Mrs. Pearl Stearns. They talk to Ben and Father Sys after the reception in the Sanchez' home Thursday.
