Mobile Theatre Company Here

Members of the Greer Garson troupe, cited Carrizozo as their most pleasant stay of their tour. After the second performance, members went over to Mary Rich's house for a few hours of singing and fellowship. Glen Ellison and Jack Richardson brought guitars and everyone sang, much as the troupe did last year at the Recreation Center.

The Zia Senior Citizen's Center sponsored a theatre group in Carrizozo Tuesday.

The Mobile Troupe of the College of Santa Fe (CFSF) Greer Garson Summer Theatre Company, formerly the College's Mobile Theatre Company, presented the play "La Loma de la Pintura China" (The Hill of the Chinese Painting) in Carrizozo Tuesday, at 1:30 and 8:00 p.m.

The bilingual one-act play was written by Donald R. Wadley, who directed CSF Mobile Theatre Company productions in 1976-77. Wadley, who holds a Ph.D. in Portuguese literature, is

The cast of "La Lomma de la Pintura China", in alphabetical order, are: Linda Bearman; Michael J. Evans; Mark Granito; Carol Parry; Wayne Sabato; and Deborah Sandoval. Linda Bearman and Wayne Sabato also directed the play.

The 1:30 p.m. show was staged at the Carrizozo Senior Citizen Center, and the 8:00 p.m. show was at the Carrizozo Spencer Park Recreation Center.

Music before the 8:00 show was provided by Glen Ellison and crew.

Betty Martin New Chiropractor

Capitan has a new Chiropractor, Betty Martin, a new associate of already practicing Dr. Ferris.

Originally from Roswell, Betty received her Doctor of Chiropractic, in Kansas City in 1977.

When asked about Chiropractic treatments she answered, "Most people have a misconception about Chiropractic treatments. It is simply keeping the nerve system free from any interference due to misaligned spinal bones. This allows the body's natural healing ability to function at its maximum."

She added, "I moved here because I like the blending of the cultures, the mountains, and especially small towns."

Dr. Ferris and Dr. Martin are partners in the Lincoln County Chiropractic Center, which is open 6 days a week by appointment at 354-2585.

Newly elected, New Mexico Future Farmers of America State (FFA), President, Rex Wilson, met with New Mexico's senior senator Pete Domenici, while in Washington, D.C. recently

Wilson and FFA State Secretary Gary Ligocky were in the nation's capital for the National FFA State Presidents' Conference. Rex is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walt Wilson and graduated this year from Carrizozo High School.

MY TIME

by Mike Swickard

Editorial: An article, as in a newspaper, giving the views of the editor or publisher.

Monday someone came to my office and I definitely looked forward to it for one reason only. To prove that the Editorial of July 20th was a fair and accurate account and was representative of how the school has a dictatorial and superior attitude of intimidation for anyone that questions their practices

Principal Larry Wilkenson came to my office, tape recorder in hand, objecting to my "fabrications" in Editorials of July 20th, and June 15th.

The first three minutes were just like the rest of the hour, but space does not permit the total transcript.

I was subjected to harassment, intimidation, was badgered while trying to answer, and was constantly interrupted. I allowed this only to prove what others have said, that these things happened to them when they had conferences with the school. This defensiveness on the part of the school was proven by Wilkenson.

I could only feel compassion for the students that may have been subjected to this type of verbal abuse.

Below is a verbatim transcript of the first three minutes of the hour:

Wilkenson: Lets start with July 20th Editorial, My Time by Mike Swickard (mis-pronounced), and I am referring by paragraphs numbered, do you want a copy of this?

Swickard: No I wrote it.

Wilkenson: Paragraph 6 you said in reference you were speaking of Wells, Lindsay, Ferguson, Steinepries, and Wilkenson, you said "all five men are good husbands and fathers." My question is what gives you the right to make such a gratuitous remark about me? On what basis do you make those remarks? I figure I am a grown man, a responsible citizen of the town, and by what right and on what basis do you print these fabrications?

Swickard: I don't see them as fabrications, what the Editorial was all about, I think you are questioning with a vast amount of paranoia to what I am saying. What I am saying is please read this Editorial to be only this meeting, this situation, these towns people acting as a board. Do not view Wes Lindsay's performance as a board member as reflection upon him as a father, as a husband, as a telephone man, as a Christian, the only thing I want you to view is his performance at the meeting.

Wilkenson: Well, I would like to state to that specific sentence, "All five men are good husbands and fathers," that has nothing to do with that meeting. Now you don't know if I am a good husband, you don't know if I'm a good father. That is a gratuitous remark, in my opinion, you have no right to make it. If you want to comment on my performance, that one thing. If you want to comment on my personal life, that is something else, entirely different, and in my opinion out of line. Do you have any comments regarding that?

Swickard: No, I don't follow your viewpoint at all. If that...

Wilkenson: My viewpoint is exactly that you do not have the right to make personal comments about me.

Swickard: If that...

Wilkenson: In your paper.

Swickard: If that was a news story, your objections might be held as valid. As it is...

Wilkenson: No sir.

Swickard: As it is an Editorial...

Wilkenson: No sir, no sir.

Swickard: The point is...

Wilkenson: You don't have the right to attack people personally, editorially, or in news articles, that is my opinion, that is my position, and I resent that. You have no basis on which to make that judgement, and no basis to make that statement.

Swickard: Which was favorable to you?

Wilkenson: Not in my opinion.

Swickard: Okay, well, I don't want to get into your personal life.

Wilkenson: Well, I do, because you are talking about me personally. I want to get into it very personally.

Swickard: Well your performance at the meeting I definitely indicated that I thought your performance at the meeting was not particularly correct, but...

Wilkenson: Is there a place in an Editorial for the statement, "Larry Wilkenson is a good husband and father"?

Swickard: Well...

Wilkenson: Does that have anything to do with my job at the school? What gives you the right to make that statement?

Swickard: What I am saying there...

Wilkenson: Well, just answer the question what gives you the right to make that statement?

Swickard: What I am saying there is do not confuse the personal life with the public performance. What I was reaching for in writing that was do not confuse how you live your personal life with how you perform your professional activities.

Wilkenson: In my opinion in closing on this matter, I think what you were reaching for is not what you said.

The visitor who came to my office came to tell me a number of things, but the punch line kept ringing through the entire conversation, "That I better sit down and shut up or I'm gonna wish I had". Larry didn't say it just that way, but it was the message that I kept getting. It is the message that many people get when they talk to the school. Some listen, some don't. This form of verbal abuse is in store for anyone that questions their practices. Mr. Wilkenson accuses me of fabricating (a polite word for lying) in the paper. His words were recorded on a tape recorder and are presented verbatim. He had a tape recorder, so did I. He, on school time, came to my office and wasted a hour of my time and verbally abused me to boot.

I am always happy to discuss any problems with concerned readers; but there was not discussion, there was harassment, there was badgering of my answers, there was not letting me finish my answers, there was rudeness, and intimidation of myself by Mr. Wilkenson. In the middle of a work day, he was harassing someone that was paying his salary. For someone making as much money as he is, kicking the banker seems stupid.

My roots are deep here; my Grandparents dug out a small place in this community that I have always wanted to come back to. With the grace of God, one day I may have children in school here.

I didn't come to Carrizozo on a contract and a guaranteed salary, I came to nurture the roots of my raising and I have dreams of being here a long time. I may fall, but it won't be because I wasn't an Editor who watched carefully the people of this area; or listened to these people's concerns. And it won't be because I did not say what I thought. The school cannot intimidate me into silence, just as they cannot intimidate a whole community into silence with dictatorial practices.

We, the community pay the bills, and elect the Board of Education, we have our roots here, we have planted our lives here and nurture our future. The children are our future, in their hands rest the world that will be.

Dan Watson Is Promoted

Lincoln County Sheriff Bill Elliot announced Tuesday that he was eliminating the designation of under-sheriff. In the place of an under-sheriff, Elliot was promoting Dan Watson to the position of Lieutenant.

Deputy Sheriff Guy Bowers is the Lieutenant in the Ruidoso area, and Watson will be the Lieutenant in the Corona, Carrizozo, and Capitan areas.

Elliot commented, "It is obvious that I cannot be in both Ruidoso and Carrizozo at the same time, so this way there will always be someone in direct charge when I am not there."

The Sheriff continued, "Watson will be in charge of Corona, Carrizozo, Capitan, and the Sheriff's office and Jail in Carrizozo."

Watson joined the Sheriff's office in November of 1976, and became a certified police officer in November of 1977.

Dan served two years in the Army in the Signal Corps after graduation from Socorro High School. His parents are Max and Zillah Watson of Carrizozo.

Dan and his wife Pam reside in Carrizozo, and Dan is known on the CB Radio by the handle of "Deputy Dan".

Billy the Kid Pageant Set

A graduate of New Mexico State University is directing the Lincoln County "Billy the Kid Pageant" this summer, paving the way for possible future NMSU drama department direction of the historic annual play.

Nancy Bruner, a 1977 graduate in creative writing, is directing "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid", slated to run Aug. 4-6 in the Lincoln County amphitheater.

Now sponsored by the Lincoln County Heritage Trust, the pageant has been mounted since the 1940's by Lincoln County residents themselves. The script has been created and rewritten over the years by local people.

At the request of officials of the trust, NMSU's drama department chairman Mark Medoff arranged to have Miss Bruner assist this year's production. He also is discussing possible future direction of the pageant by the NMSU drama department in cooperation with local residents, many of them descendants of those depicted in the pageant about the Lincoln County War.

The cast numbers about 30 with a backstage crew of about 15, Miss Bruner said.

Meanwhile, a new theater is to be built after this year's pageant, part of the overall restoration of historic Lincoln, NM.

Miss Bruner, whose play "The Trailway Lines" was selected for last year's Plays-in-Progress program at NMSU, is a candidate for a master's degree in technical writing at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, NY. She also is a summer employee of NMSU's Information Services as a publications assistant.

Performances are at 8:30 p.m. Aug 4 and 5 and at 3 P.M. Aug. 6. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12.

The Day The World Champion Came To White Oaks

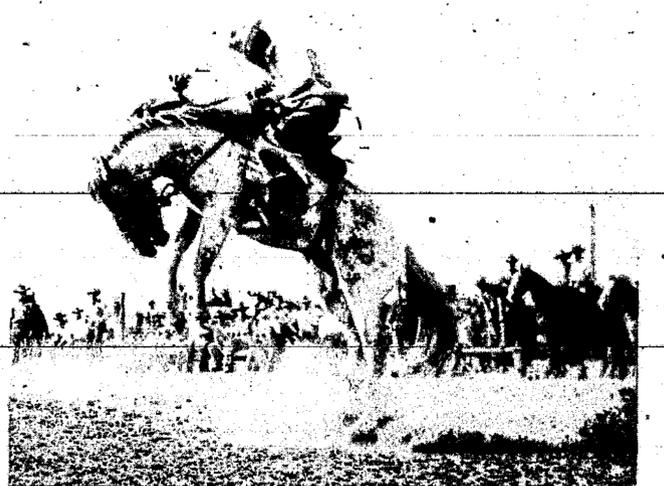

Bud Crenshaw and I were running off the White Oaks Rodeo. Me and Bud and Old Pat. Early in the morning I noticed a very handsome fellow, white levis, blue shirt, boots, neat hair and something like thirty-five. Some six-four, two hundred...I couldn't help but be a little envious, told myself someone's brother-in-law came to the rodeo.

During the morning he was up on a horse and I told myself he was gonna "git his pitcher took." After lunch he showed up in the box on a horse with a rope in his hand. I was looking forward to this...when the barrier went down & the horse took off, good-looking would do a back-somersault to the rear. But alas...he was learin' over the horses' head and looking right down the calf's backbone. One last time I smirked... when he throws that rope the horse is gonna set up and out goes good-looking for a front-somersault. But he threw the rope, quit the horse and was there to catch the calf on first bounce, threw two wraps and a hoey on him and walked away blowin on his hands to keep rope burn from setting up. I knew I had been taken. Along about this time a fellow whose face was coming to me out of a magazine had climbed up into the box. He leaned over and asked me if I knew who that was...I replied no and that I was sorta wondering. "That's Jack Roddy, World Champion Bull Dogger" I relayed the message to Bud and Old Bud was not awed beyond words: "I'll challenge you to a matched steer wrestling." Jack took him up. At the close of the day this added extra attraction was to take place. They were to haze for each other. Jack went first, and in a clammer of thunder and cloud of dust he came up without his steer. I knew we had him...he had tried to dog the steer in about five seconds and had missed. All Bud had to do was to run his steer to Raventone and back, wait for him to trip on his tongue, dog him & we had the World Champion beat. Sure enough Bud came out a hundred miles an hour, missed his in an attempted five seconds & came up out of the dust saying, "It's a draw." I came home feeling real good for having been in that day. It was a good day for Lincoln County. Bud tells me Jack got hurt earlier this year...in sorta the same situation.

Up at Bud's Mama and Daddy's place on the Fourth of July, around a campfire, about quarter to eleven Bud was laying on the ground propped up against a bale of hay. The song went "Mamas don't let your babies grow up to be Cowboys." and Old Bud called out "Why not?" For the life of me I couldn't think of a good reason. (continued on page 2)

First money, Carrizozo, 1947 just two years off the Franklin.

The Porter Day story points out how if we don't gather material when it is available it is often lost. In telling a story about Bud Crenshaw, I can be like Ernest Key, "I know that happened 'cause I was there."

Paying Tribute A Little Bit Late . . .

I was a long way from home but I was about to do something very important to me. This was Fort Bayard, established in 1863. The signs told of the days of Victorio and Geronimo. And that old cemetery had grave markers of young soldiers listed as "killed". It is a very moving experience to walk through rows of young men who gave their lives opening up New Mexico, beautiful young lives which were never allowed to blossom out...or go to seed. Then when you remember a hundred years later, the 1960's, when young American men went to Sweden, Canada, wherever, to keep from going to the service...then came back home after the war and live on as if nothing happened...it makes you want to offer a small apology there beside the austere grave. It was a very rewarding experience to me to share with Truman our military service. Fact is I am beginning to have serious doubts about the generation we are turning the country over to. Not all of them, but a lot of them. I am proud of my generation, I am prouder yet of the generation that went before me, and I have a deep rooted hope that one day I will be proud of the generation following me. Fort Bayard was a good day for me.

The caretaker showed us a copy of the official register to look over. You could look at a notation dated 1872 and knowing this was 1972, reminiscing a quick hundred years makes for being solemn. The sign had also mentioned that in 1965 Fort Bayard was transferred to the state by the Federal government. Now the state of New Mexico began to use the old establishment. We went down to the southwest corner of the grounds to visit the newer cemetery. The crosses were made of a four-by-four, cut in two pieces, each piece notched then crossed back together. It was a white grave marker, with a name printed in black paint. Sometimes the state does reduce things down to plain necessities. All the graves were alike and all the crosses were alike. Maybe that's the way it should be. There were some new graves dug, ready and waiting. One of the old timers would be coming down soon.

I wasn't even sure this was the place. I walked from the first row up towards the higher end. It is times like this when a person feels very small. You know the old saying: "There but for the grace of God goes Me"

"All men are born equal", when you are young those sayings are very philosophical...when you get older they are thought provoking to the point of becoming frightening. They say there are no professionals at dying, that it takes experience to be a professional, so we all enter that final contest as amateurs.

When I saw the little white cross which carried the name Porter Day it was a very important moment for me. It is good to accomplish something you have asked yourself to do.

Porter Day never knew or even thought I might one day visit his grave. He never knew until very near the end where he was to be buried. I don't think he wondered much about it. He just lived day by day, and mostly in the past.

Porter had a past. Very often we get used to who has a past for others tell us. When we get to know who someone is whom we have seen many times and no one has told us about him...we just get to assuming he is a more or less nothing.

I used to watch him coming across the vacant lot, between the Franklin store and Gambles. He would walk a little ways, stop and rest, make sure he gained his breath. He would take a little extra time on the sidewalk before he crossed over to the barber shop. Sometimes he would stop in the middle of the street. Then he would ease into the barber shop. He seemed to like the northwest corner, with his back to the street. He liked to visit, to read the magazines and papers, and just to look and listen. Most of us prefer to have a vantage point from which to look out. Porter seemed to know what was out there.

Porter would look at you out over the top of his store-bought glasses. There was a time when stores carried a variety of glasses, when you found a pair you could read with you took them up front and paid for them. It was a time when folks didn't read much and the eye strain didn't develop such immediate problems as we worry about now-days. Then too, there was a problem of a day or so off, a trip, and a bill to pay. The past generations didn't have it just real easy.

His clothes were always plain and I never thought Porter had money for anything more than just the bare necessities.

I think to Porter the barber shop was his La Fonda or Harvey House. I had known for a long time he was Porter Day before I found out who he was. One day if you happen to get a chance, look at Sonnichsen's book "Tularosa", under Sources. You will find Dr. Sonnichsen saying thank you to...Porter Day of Three Rivers. After I saw his name listed there I began to try to get his opinion on some things. He never wanted to talk much and I think he just didn't want me in his little world. I had waited too long to knock on the door.

Porter had worked for A.B. Fall. He had been to see him shortly before Mr. Fall died. Porter had known a lot of people up and down the Tularosa Basin and had listened to a lot of stories. There wasn't much you could bring up that he seemed not to have heard about.

One day in the barber shop I was asking him about John Prather, and whether or not he thought the government could have put him off his land without killing him. Another person wanted to tell me about it. All about it. He was coming right out of Gibson's "The Life and Death of Colonel Albert Jennings Fountain", and I knew that story. I kept turning back to Porter. Finally the remark came out that "You're supposed to be a school teacher, you ought to be smarter than that." This was a little rich for my blood and I invited the man to get out of my conversation, that I hadn't been talking to him in the first place.

That shot the barber shop for that day. I guess Ray had seen people fuss a little before, the old fellow riding me had been here a jillion years and had become mad at me for not recognizing true and profound knowledge. A couple of things came out of that bad day, one, while the fellow was telling me all a out it, Porter kept looking over the top of his glasses at him, then at me. Porter could see trouble coming a long way off. Later on when I calmed down I was very sorry I hadn't had the poise and presence of mind to listen more closely. The old fellow wouldn't talk to me after that, I had scared his horse out from under him and he wouldn't forgive me it.

The other, more important thing, was Porter seemed to be impressed by my becoming almost violent over someone interrupting our conversation. He told me a lot of things after that.

Something I began to notice, way back yonder, was when someone came out just sure he knew what happened, someone else would take the trouble to tell him he was full of this or that or something else. So now and then you could come out on a story and get a fellow to fire back whereas you could not get him to talk otherwise. Then too, sometimes they would add a little story which would support the point in discussion. It was sorta like getting thrown in the briar patch...it was a method.

One day I tried my number one, theory on the White Sands biggest mystery and Porter looked up over his glasses to say, "Old Man Hunter told me that..." Suddenly I had sneaked into a conversation that took place a long time ago. Porter said when he asked Mr. Fall some touchy things about the basin the Old Man would reply, "You don't need to know about that..." Porter knew it wasn't an answer, it was advice. I never gave up that Porter was telling me all he knew. When you spend years practicing keeping your mouth shut it don't fly open just real easy.

Porter used to tell me about working at Three Rivers. It was a little spookie to listen to him tell about finding some unidentified graves opened up after a rain and a wash. The period from 1850 to 1900 was a hard time in New Mexico and a lot of times the nice formalities were dispensed with. Unmarked graves were not unusual.

One day Porter even told me about being a young man back in Texas, and how he read the sheriff off over how some people were being treated. There was that fire and determination in his face, eyes and voice that made the story more than a tale. It was one of those situations where often someone dies. I never knew if Porter was letting me know he would have killed a man in his younger day...or whether he was telling me he still would. I really felt he was telling me he is proud of his heritage, of having been a man in the old days of the basin. He was proudly on the side of Old John. Maybe in a round-about way he was telling why he did shoot someone one day. I enjoyed seeing the fire in the eyes of the old man. I enjoyed knowing Porter Day.

I used to ride Porter a little. You had to or you couldn't get him to talk, and it's my nature anyway. Mainly it was because I liked him. He had been a lot more man than he tried to let on or would ever admit to. What had happened in the Tularosa Basin and back in his youth in Texas was his world. Without it he would have been the nothing that many people who noticed him thought he was.

Porter Day was a proud man. He lay down to die knowing he knew alot about things that many well educated people would like to know. The breeze that carried his spirit away also carried away an irreplaceable chapter of the Tularosa Basin. But he left behind a man proud to say, "Porter Day told me..."

I mentioned this is another story, but please let me tell it again as it has been a part of this story for a long time. Porter used to tell me he wanted to be buried in the Cedarvale Cemetery in White Oaks. He always said that when the moon was in a certain position all the people got out, sat on their graves to talk. Porter would grin and say, "I want to be there to listen". I bet if that happens where he is, that they gather around and listen to Porter.

I was in Silver City that early March day in 1972 for the Regional Basketball Tournament, the day Reserve slipped by us and went on to win the state championship. I wrote that basic story back some time in the spring of 1972 and set it aside. I bring it out now for a number of reasons. One, it has been one of my great pleasures to talk with the generation facing the sunset. Another reason, I have not one picture, one newspaper article...not a single thing other than my personal involvement. I wonder how many people remember who I am talking about. One day when Dr. Sonnichsen had talked to a joint meeting of the Rotary Club and the Womens Club, Mr. Thornton told me "I heard all them old stories thirty years ago!" Immediately I was intrigued, and began asking questions. Mr. Thornton is a fine man and I have valued my conversations with him. No where does a community have a finer Senior Citizenry than Carrizozo. Mike and I talked about this series a long time before we started it.

Mamas, go ahead and let your babies grow up to be cowboys.

Capitan

By Margaret Rench

Only a trace of rain Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. Just cooled the atmosphere and then became hot all thru those two nights. We did feel encouraged to receive those drops of moisture as we feel surely our hopes and dreams of rain will follow soon. We have not given up. None of us can remember such a long season of heat as we have had and are having. We truly will appreciate a chance to receive moisture.

The Capitan 4-H Club had a car wash at Olin's Quick Stop last week. The club-made close to $50. A hayride was also held at the Baca Camp last Friday night. Several of the parents and lots of members had a good time eating, playing games and then riding from Baca Camp down to See Proctor's house.

Jeanne Wilmet and Betty Joiner took the 4-H baking group to Alamogordo last Tuesday to visit a cake decorating shop "Sugar & Spice and Ice Cream Shop". They were shown how to make and decorate cakes and all of the utensils needed. They were also told about Baskin-Robbins icecream and each one got to make their own parfait. Afterwards they had a picnic in the park. Those who went were Glenda Bohrer, Renita Trujillo, Yvonne Montes, Bryan Wilmet, Ronald, Audrey, Della and Donna Joiner.

The Capitan Jr. Riding Club was held Sunday July 16th. The new CJRC 1978 Queen was crowned by the 1977 Queen Shelly Eldrige. Melody Hefker was named the 1978 Queen with Sandra Lacy first runner-up and Marcia Hefker second runner-up.

The high point winners for the day were - 8 and under age group, Dusty Beavers and Marcia Hefker; 9 thru 12 years, Dean Shear and Rebecca Barber; 13 and over - Gib Allen and Sandra Lacy.

Smokey Bear Museum had 4500 visitors up to Monday July 17 for this month. Just one more state to represent all 50 states and that is Delaware.

Saturday July 15 from 4 PM thru 8 PM the B & L Pizza Place held their grand opening. Their menu was beans, spaghetti, cold slaw, hot homemade rolls and beverage all free. They had orders for pizza but would not interfere with their plans to make this opening a huge success by just visiting with people and getting acquainted. 200 attended from this area and tourists. The tourists did not understand how it could be free but they did enjoy it and told the owners so, and expressed their appreciation.

The owners, Jim McEuens and the Chuck Pankeys appreciated the good turnout and hope they will return for pizza. It certainly was a very happy festive occasion. They have a good business and we do want that to continue. I do wish you continued success and happiness.

The Eastern Star Picnic was held at the Jack Shaw home July 23. More will follow on this later.

Our Western Store is having good business of which we are happy to report. That is another good business added to our community which we do appreciate.

The Jack Laniers and family sold their property and returned to North Carolina where he had a Government contract. He bid on that before they left there and heard nothing until now. Therefore, they returned to take care of it. He did not find anyone interested in the Malco Station therefore he just closed it and left. They intend to return someday. They do like it here.

Mrs. Thelma Wright of Kent, Wash. and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Steele of Hurley visited Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hobbs Thursday. Mrs. Wright is Mrs. Hobbs sister in law. She and Willie toured Capitan and Lincoln Friday, had lunch at Smokey Bear Museum and dinner at the Wortley Hotel in Lincoln. They thoroughly enjoyed it all. They came by for her Saturday and continued their vacation on to Mountainair and other places. Thelma loved the climate at night though found it hot in the day time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Langford, Sheri and Ramona of Roswell spent last weekend here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Strickland and family.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stone of Post Texas spent last weekend with their daughter Mr. & Mrs. Gerald Dean, Jr. and family. Grant returned home with them for a nice visit.

Those who attended were Bud and Dorothy Payne and grandson Wes Mierae of Phoenix, Gilbert Archuleta, Zane and Bessie Leslie, Curtis and Beverly Payne and three children, Steve and Kathy Chapman, Charlie and Joy Leslie and Rusty Leslie.

Pauline McGarry has leased her Barn and will give possession August 1. She will continue her business there until that date. Then she will have moved her Mds. inside the Hitchin Post where that will continue nicely as she has some very good plans.

The Corkey McEuens yard sale at their home Saturday July 15 was a success.

Fifty-two persons attended the Wright Family reunion on the Bonita last Friday thru Sunday. They had a good happy time.

Mrs. John Whitaker and two daughters Melinda and Melanie of Tucson, Arizona spent some time with her parent Jack Mayfield. They left last Thursday as her husband flew home from Germany for 30 days. He is in the Air Force.

Annie McInnes passed away at her home in Roswell Friday July 14 at the age of 82 years. Laid to rest in South Park Cemetery. Pall Bearers were Ned Allen, Richard Crandall, George McBride, Ed Roberts, L.D. Sparks and Joe Winkler.

She was born July 9, 1896 to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Purcella and married Winfield McInnes February 1917 in Encinoso. Both her own and her husbands families were pioneer ranchers. One brother Mart Purcella and two sons preceded her in death. Survivors are one son Willie McInnes, of Roswell; three daughters, Nettie Fuchs of Brush Prairie, Wash., Patricia Payne, Thelma Temple both of Farmington; two brothers, John Purcella of Roswell and Bill Purcella of Compton, California; Six sisters, Allie Taylor of Capitan, Peggy Roberts and Viola Winkler of Roswell, Mittle McBride of Mesalero, Jocie Sparks of Hagerman and Ruby Hammett of Costa Mesa, California; 18 grandchildren, 28 great grandchildren, and two great great grandchildren.

If you have been looking for a large pot for an indoor plant, why not use a colorful plastic wastebasket? They come in many sizes and colors for very low prices. Simply cut a drainage hole in the bottom and use the bottom off a plastic laundry basket. (BL)

When darning multicolor material choose a long eyed needle, and use the various colored threads in the material - it will mend beautifully.

A bit of humor!

We predict that exact reproduction through cloning will not become popular. Too many people already find it difficult to live with themselves.

A dash of facts.

It seems medical costs continue to climb - physicians fees rose half again as much as other prices last year.

According to projections made by the American Federation of Teachers, teachers jobs will be scarce for the next several years but each year to 1981 schools will need 30,000 new teachers who are trained to deal with handicapped children.

First of all the Sunda Tennis camp is over for another year and Mr. and Mrs. B would like to thank: Mr. Miller for his delicious milk, Mr. McVey and staff for their consideration, and the two beautiful cooks and their husbands for letting them be with us the last two sessions. We of Lincoln are happy to have Mr. and Mrs. Gary Miller, who have moved to Lincoln to work for the Heritage Trust. Mr. Miller will replace Walter Henn who has resigned, much to our regrets, to pursue other activities.

Mrs. Mabel Terrell of Roswell and Mrs. Ethel Wright of San Jose, Calif. were house guests at Mrs. McGirlin's home last week. They had lunch at the Inn of the Mountain Gods one day and I was invited to. We had a lovely day.

Dr. and Mrs. Middleton and son also visited Mrs. McGirlin one evening and took her to the Tinnie Silver Dollar Restaurant for dinner.

The Middletons will be living in Albuquerque.

I'll have more next week as we're having two weddings in Lincoln this Saturday.

Hoofbeats By Karen Halloran

HOPEFUL JOURNEY, a top money-earning thoroughbred with a tendency to get out of the gate at top speed, outdid herself on Friday. The flashy filly, who chalked up her second win at the meeting against allowance company in the feature race, set such a burning pace she was never stronger challenged. She crossed the wire in an extremely impressive 1:05 3-5 seconds, a seasonal record for 5/2 furlongs. That misses the track record by only 2-5 of a second. Carlos Rivas was up.

JOCKEYS IN THE JIM SMITH MEMORIAL race on Saturday, contributed their total jock mounts of $440 to a trust fund for the late rider's son. A benefit dance at $5 a ticket was also held at the Chaparral Motor Inn Monday to beef up the fund.

THE SEASONAL RECORD FOR 400 YARDS resulted from the Zia Stakes on Saturday as Madam President engineered a strong come-from-behind rush to cross the wire in 19.95 seconds. That's 1-10th of a second faster than Vespero's top qualifying time for the Rainbow Futurity.

APPRENTICE BOBBY ROLLER took second victory at the meeting in Sunday's first race and did it in style. The young rider guided W.C. No. 6, a freshman-colt-who-went-off-at-20-1, to a breezing wire-to-wire victory in a 5/2-furlong maiden test. Returns were $42, $14, and $9.40.

MAKE IT ME, a filly who'd shown tremendous potential at the current meet, had to put away after a rough spill in the 11th race Friday. The sophomore tried to jump the outside rail after throwing rider Gilbert Villegas early in the race and apparently broke her back. The filly had notched three victories and a third in the Peter Hurd Handicap this season. Villegas was shaken up but uninjured.

AU VIN became the "winningest" claimer at the Ruidoso meeting in Thursday's ninth race when he captured his fourth straight victory. The gelding, owned by Alma Miller of Anthony, N.M., came strongly from behind in the six-furlong test to win by a head margin at 5-1 odds. Charles Mueller was in the irons.

BETTORS WHO CLAIM NUMBER SEVEN as their lucky number had an easy time of it on Friday when that post "finished" in the money seven times. The winning Daily Double combination paired Ciente (27-1) with Silver Bon Bon (6-1) for a huge return of $443.20. And both horses had the No. 7 post. Ciente's win return was $57.20, while Silver Bon Bon gave back $14.80. Greccin Jeannie, another No. 7, finished on top and returned $7, while Lucky Clay left seven post, finished and returned $23.20.

RIP RUSSELL, the well-known businessman who's also part-owner of the Redman Club in Ruidoso Downs, is a familiar figure around the mountain track. And his namesake, a two-yr.-old gelding owned by Mack Yates of Ruidoso and trained by Bill Leach, made the fans sit up and take notice after his performance on Thursday. The freshman, an 11-1 outsider, nabbed his maiden win by a near four-length margin after leading the entire 5/2 furlongs. Gary Sumpter was up.

NO WINNING TICKETS TURNED UP IN THE BIG Q Friday and the payout had to be split. The 10-3 combination of Bay Signal (2-1) and Amber Cat (30-1) in the eighth race had to be matched with the 9-7 combination of Silver Vamp (10-1) and Lucky Clay (30-1) in the ninth. Eight with any number returned $326.80, while seven with any number returned $1,423.6.

TUNNEL OF LOVE, who looked outstanding early at the Ruidoso meet when he breezed to an easy 6 1/2-length maiden victory took a successful trip to La Mesa over the weekend. The colt, the property of Marvin Warner of Cincinnati, Ohio, snatched the top qualifying berth for the rich Land of Enchantment Futurity.

STEWARDS' RULINGS: Apprentice Don Howard and Jockey Walter Hodges each received a three-day suspension for careless riding (July 27-29). Hodges was astride Rare Mist in the first race, Friday, July 21, when he was disqualified for interference and placed second. Howard's mount, Saucy Sammi, was disqualified for interference in the 8th race Thursday, July 20. Trainer Gerald Rich was fined $25 for being late to the paddock for the second race, Sunday July 16. Assistant-Trainer John Joseph was barred from the track grounds pending an appearance before the Board of Stewards for "financial obligation and pending charges by the Lincoln County Magistrate."

AFTER 42 RACE DAYS, the total handle is $17,359,659, and the daily average is as solid $413,325. After 42 days last year, the average stood at $385,244. The current figure is a gain of 7.29 per cent. Fans are currently betting an average of $33,129 per race. Last season's final daily average was $417,196. That record is expected to be easily topped by the strong mutuel now in effect.

Ward-Leslie Reunion Held At White Oaks

The second annual Ward-Leslie reunion will get under way at the White Oaks school house Sat. July 29, as soon as folks can be there. The morning will be spent getting acquainted and organizing the various activities. At 3 p.m. there will be a business meeting at which one member from each family who are present, will introduce the other present members of his or her family.

At this time the awards and presentations will be made, also the drawing for the quilt top and pillow top. The pillow top is made each year by the current hostess and each member (female) makes one block to add to the quilt.

The afternoon will be spent with more visiting and we will have a dance in the evening, the music provided by some of the family members by way of records and tapes. and perhaps some live music. There are some talented musicians in this family. At least one fellow who plays the violin, another who plays the fiddle, (there is a difference), and 4 or 5 who play piano. One fellow we know has a beautiful singing voice.

We have received word from a number of folks who will be here this year that were unable to attend last year, we hope everyone will come out and meet these relatives and renew old acquaintances.

Stopped by at the Senior Citizens (Zia) last week. I asked Beatrice to show me 'the' quilt top. The combination applique and patch work top is very pretty. As a quilt lover, I enjoyed seeing the boat and bird squares with the signatures of the people who made them.

Visiting in the home of Mrs. Sabino Vidaurri recently were her daughter, Carmen, and her husband, Patrick and their sons, Mark and Mathew of Kingsfield, Texas.

Sabino Vidaurri, Jr. of Hampton, Virginia was also here. He first arrived in Albuquerque where he visited with his son Steve and wife, Christina who were celebrating their first wedding anniversary. Steve and Christina were in Carrizozo, too, but returned to Albuquerque leaving Sabino, Jr. to visit with his mother and sisters.

Last week's article on Pearl Stearns brought memories of the time when I lived in Nogal Canyon. One of my young brothers, Raynell and I did some small jobs for Mrs. Stearns one day at her home behind the Nogal post office. I still remember the noon meal she fed us, which included creamed corn.

Mrs. J. Gertude Catlin of Sun Valley, California, is visiting her sister, Elva Wilson. Mrs. Catlin plans to stay three weeks before returning home.

Charley Wilson, of Roswell stopped in to see his mother, Elva Wilson, Tuesday, July 18.

Mary Rich enjoyed the company of her sons last week: Chris Wilson is from New York and Mark Wilson from Austin, Texas.

It has been a goal of the Archdiocese of Santa Fe to provide an opportunity for its youth to experience a program in a camp setting. Boys' Camp was held June 18 to July 7, Girls' Camp July 9 to July 28, at Camp St. Robert.

Three girls left for Camp St. Robert on July 16 for five days and nights. They were Brenda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baroz; Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ortiz and Christetta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nat J. Chavez.

Camp St. Robert is nestled in the rugged mountainous area of the Pecos Wilderness about three miles Northwest of the quiet ranching community of Rociada, NM. It is within hiking distance from many of the most popular and spectacular areas of the famous Pecos Wilderness.

WOODBURNERS

When was the last time your chimney was clean?

The soot and creosote that accumulates in your chimney hangs there like a time bomb waiting for that chance spark to ignite it.

The chimney fire spews burning balls-of-fire-out-the-chimney-onto your roof and yard.

A small crack in your chimney due to settling or thermal shock is all a chimney fire needs to enter your home.

In a Fire-Marshall's survey of 8 Northern states, 1 out of every 20 fires were the direct result of chimney fires.

Last Day At Camp

Sunday, the last day of the 1978 Nogal Mesa Ranchmens Camp Meeting, the rains muddied the grounds and roads, gave competition on the tin roof of the barnacle to the preachers' voices, and brought smiles to the faces of the ranch people.

The ranks of the 'Sunday-only' attenders were a bit smaller due to the weather, but the total encampment was large. There were 550 campers and more than 1100 registered. Total receipts of donations will cover the building expenses of more than $4,000, 5,000 for food and the many smaller items of expense.

Volunteer youth groups from Corona, Carrizozo, and Alamogordo did all the dish washing. Cowmen served the vittles, and the cook's crew handled equal to 6 or 8 heaves, a couple sacks of beans, 7 or 8 sacks of potatoes, 350 loaves of bread, 50 lbs. of rice, 20 gallons of tomatoes, along with many other foods. This year, for the first time, dried fruits were deemed too expensive, but the 6 cases of 'uncheap' coffee kept the pot full all hours of the day.

Since the Camp Meeting was organized in 1940, the growth has been phenomenal. In the 1950's, $2,000 maintained a working sufficiency. Today, expenses run more than 5 times that much. Now, self-contained campers have replaced the tents; beef is purchased rather than butchered and donated by ranchers; floral shop flowers and plants decorate instead of local garden bouquets, but the camaraderie and religious spirit are still as evident.

All officers, Walt Wilson, LaMoyné and Opal Peters, Johnson Stearns, and Bob Shafer, and committee chairmen were reelected to serve in 1979. They voiced special thanks to the workers who readied the camp and made the 4 days enjoyable. The preachers, John Evans and John Keefe, delivered messages of great inspiration. Singers, under the direction of Paul Biggs and Jane Shafer, were exceptionally talented.

The Southwestern Camp Meeting trucks and Manager Rick Steele, pulled out Monday to head for the Four Corners Camp Meeting to start July 27 near Mancos, Colorado. They will be back in Lincoln County again July next year.

Claims Must Be Recorded

Unpatented mining claims -- claims on federal lands in southeastern New Mexico -- must be recorded with the federal government, an official of the Bureau of Land Management said.

Allan Schmidt, a geologist with the Roswell district of the BLM, said the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 requires that anyone who filed an unpatented claim must refile with the BLM by Oct. 21, 1979. He said although the law has been in existence for some time, few claimants have complied.

Owners of unpatented claims, mills and tunnel sites are affected by the regulation, according to the BLM. Claims will still be recorded with county recorders, as well as with the federal government.

To refile unpatented claims of file new ones, claimants should contact the BLM's state office in Santa Fe.

If the claim was located on or before Oct. 21, 1976, it should be recorded with the BLM by Oct. 21, 1979. New claims must be recorded within 90 days of being located.

According to BLM regulations, a copy of the notice or certificate of locations and any maps, papers or other documents required by state law must be included in the claim file. To keep a mining claim, the claimant must file either written evidence that assessment work is being done on the claim or a written notice of intention to hold a mining claim. For new claims, these would be filed by Dec. 31 of the year he claim is recorded with the BLM.
