Pete Domenici to speak —

Belco Has 5th Anniversary

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici will speak in Carrizozo Oct. 16th at a luncheon celebrating the fifth anniversary of Belco, Inc. in Carrizozo.

The affair is being sponsored by the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce with the assistance of the other service organizations in the town. The Carrizozo Woman's Club is preparing the food and decorations.

The industry which manufactures portable arc welders moved to Carrizozo from the Dallas area five years ago. The arrangements for the move and for settling the young company into the area became a community project and the opening was celebrated with a community dinner much like the one planned for this fifth anniversary.

"Belco's first five years in Carrizozo have been a real success story," Mary Rich, Chamber president said. "Welders go out from Carrizozo over the nation and to many foreign countries. We are happy to have proved that the right small industry does bring prosperity to a community. Jim and Carolyn Cantrell have become community leaders and all of us in Carrizozo believe we have real cause for celebration."

Also expected for the luncheon are Bill Kundrat, director of the New Mexico Department of Commerce and Industry, Bob Boyd, director of the Department of Industrial Development, Nick Pappas, director of the Southwest New Mexico Economic Development District.

Sen. Domenici will be introduced by Bob Hoffman, president of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce and vice president of the Bank Securities, Inc.

NM highway commission holds public meetings

The New Mexico Highway Commission will hold two days of public meetings in Ruidoso on October 18-19, 1978. Both meetings will be held at the Inn of the Mountain Gods on the Mesquero Apache Reservation.

Wednesday's session will have as its principal business a briefing of the Commissioners by Chief Highway Administrator Fred O'Cheskey. It will begin at 2:00 p.m.

Town Meeting —

Do Carrizozo People Want The Town Cleaned Up?

The Carrizozo Town Council appointed Phillip Ortiz to fill the unexpired term of Robert Luna. Mr. Luna moved out of town causing the vacancy. Mr. Ortiz was emmerced into the problems of the town immediately.

Problem number one was the clean up of Carrizozo. Mary Rich, representing the Chamber of Commerce commented that she "took a lot of people on tours of this town and unless you do that you sometimes forget what the town really looks like." The town council was reluctant to pass an ordinance without more participation from the people as to what they would like to do. The question seemed to be "Do the people of Carrizozo want the town cleaned up and will they abide by the ordinance."

So that all views can be heard, the problems of abandoned cars, abandoned houses, junk, stray dogs, litter and skunks will be discussed at a special meeting of the town council, Tuesday October 17th. The public is urged to voice their opinions at this meeting.

The council has said they will pass ordinances then and also appoint some kind of a dog catcher to clean up the stray dogs.

The NEWS goes on record as saying that the clean up is very painful, people get very angry at being told to do something and much protest will be heard from people getting fines for letting their dogs run loose, but if we don't do this step toward a clean attractive community, our future growth will be hampered. If the town as a whole doesn't care what it looks like to visitors, and doesn't care that roving dogs spread litter every day, doesn't care that the old buildings are a hazard in many ways, then we, the town should go on record as stating this and spend no more time on the subject of clean up.

If instead we, the town decide we want a clean, safe town, we shall have it. The NEWS hopes to see everyone concerned at the meeting Tuesday the 17th at 7:00 PM.

Letter from John Hightower

I regret that Lee and Dorothy Straley have found it necessary to be out of the county for a few years. They have been our good friends and neighbors for more than 30 years. Our community will miss them and we wish them well.

As reported in the Lincoln County News last week, Lee has made known his intentions to resign as commissioner at the end of his present term. He is running unopposed for a second term in the November election. Lee approached me and suggested that I seek his second term position by way of a write in campaign. I have decided to accept the challenge and hereby announce my candidacy for his position by way of write ins on the November ballot.

I, along with my wife Vernelle and my two sons, Gary and Bill, and their families, am engaged in the ranching business in the Ancho area. I am 54 years old having been born on this ranch. I am a member and elder of the United Presbyterian Church and a WW II veteran. I am a registered Democrat and have voted in every election since my eligibility. I have served on various boards including the Board of Education of the Carrizozo Schools during a large part of the time my children were in school there. I have many long time friends scattered over Lincoln County and I invite there participation in this effort by telling your neighbors what you know about me.

John A. Hightower

I would welcome the opportunity to serve as a Lincoln County Commissioner. I admit that I would have a lot to learn. I don't know all the problems much less all the answers, but I have never been afraid to make a decision after having been informed of the facts. The only pledge I make is for fairness, honesty, and equal consideration for all who I come in contact with.

If you see fit to support me for this position please do so by writing my name on the ballot instead of pulling the lever for Lee.

MY TIME

by Mike Swickard

A friend gave me this article that bears repeating. The author is unknown, but seems to drink coffee in the local shop.

"A little town is where you don't have to guess who your enemies are...your friends will tell you.

A little town is the only place on earth where people past middle age are still called by their first names when they saunter down the street.

A little town is where everybody knows everybody else's car by sight...and also where and when it goes.

A little town is where people with various ailments can air them properly to sympathetic ears.

A little town is where, when you get the wrong number, you can talk for 15 minutes anyhow.

A little town is where it is hard for anybody to walk for exercise because it takes too long to stop and explain to people in cars who stop, and offer a ride.

A little town is where city folks say there is nothing to do, but those who live there don't have enough nights in the week to make all the meetings and social functions.

A little town is where everyone becomes a "neighbor" in time of need.

A little town is where businessmen struggle against city stores and shopping centers.

A little town is where those same businessmen dig deep many times to help countless fund-raising projects.

A little town is where it's nice to be when rearing a family.

A little is where many teenagers say there's nothing to do — then are surprised to learn their big city friends are saying the same thing.

A little town, when all is said and done, is a very nice place to live."

Congratulations to Belco on their 5th. and many more. The town probably doesn't realize fully the monetary benefit. Their payroll is in the order of a half of a million a year. It is said that money cycles itself seven times before leaving the community, so the benefit is in the order of 3 and a half million.

The singer John Denver's dad was the commander of Walker in Roswell, in the 1940's. The name then was H.J. Duechndoff. Well anyway, this commander as I have heard the story was upset at the business community for their lack of appreciation of the Air Base and so payed his men one time in silver dollars. The merchants went wild because they didn't have any place for all of the silver dollars. The commander made his point, since all you saw for a couple of months was silver dollars, you could see how the money benefited the community. The same is true here. Everyone benefits from the money that Belco generates. The Lincoln County News is doing a two part story on Belco starting this issue. The first part will concern some of the starting of the industry and will have pictures of some of the employees. In the next issue the rest of the employee pictures will be shown along with more about the biggest private employer in Lincoln County. MS

Carrizozo PHA-HERO Chapter members attended the District J meeting in Cloudcroft Wednesday, Oct. 4. The theme of the program was "Grow Your Own Tree" which symbolized the uniting of all generations through better understanding. The theme was presented by Alamogordo Mid-High with a huge wall poster and family members from pre-schoolers through grandparents standing in front of it throughout the reading of an inspirational poem.

Carrizozo Chapter had charge of roll call with a big tree for all nine chapters to pin a leaf on as they told the number of members, advisors and visitors in attendance.

Two talks were presented, one on nutrition for the elderly by Miss Brewster of the Texas Dairy Council from El Paso, and the other on attitudes toward old age by Sister Jan of Carrizozo. Her presentation was highly successful. Members came home from the meeting motivated to really work on the state project which is bringing about understanding among the generations. Carrizozo is going to help on the Senior Citizens Center here as well as selecting individual "grand-friends."

Those in attendance from Carrizozo were Charlotte Gallegos, Margaret Lueras, Monica Herrera, Shirley Simmons, Barbara Means, Sandy Hobbs, Yolanda Zamora, Lucy Lueras, Rosie Lueras, Elisa Montano, Debbie K. Gallacher, Mary Ann Padilla, Brigitte Sandoval, and Louise Montano.

Mrs. Emma Catherine Lawson, advisor, drove her car and a special thanks to Eileen Serna for driving the van.

The Agriculture Energy Situation and How it Could Affect you, will be discussed by Charles Hohn, Extension Agriculture Engineer next Wednesday October 18th in the Fair Building at Capitán starting at 7:00 p.m. the present energy situation and what we could expect in the future as well as energy research will be discussed.

Also on the same program is Charles Glover, Extension Agronomist. He will discuss irrigated Pasture management - varieties to plant and how to get the most out of your pasture.

Suggest Controls for "Casual Invaders": With the first cool weather of late summer crickets, beetles, boxelder bugs and other insects are starting to look for winter quarters in your home. Here are some tips for keeping them out.

First make the house as tight as possible to keep the insects outside. That will offer double benefits, since weather stripping and other devices to seal cracks also will help in energy saving. Next insecticides may help in some cases. But in most cases they have to be sprayed directly on the bugs. Spraying a strip across the doorsill is ineffective, since the insects will cross it readily with little bother. Spraying around the foundation of the outside of the house will sometimes help.

Further control of these nuisance insects can come from a thorough cleaning of the garage as well as decaying organic matter near the house. They often gang up in accumulations of trash or firewood. Then, there the garage is attached to the house it's an easy trip to the living room anytime the connecting door is open. Remove any garden leftovers, any accumulations of grass clippings, tree trimmings and the like from near the house. Even the compost pile, where it's close to the house, can harbor the insects.

Those Who Dream The Impossible Dream,

Now and then in this country we need to sit down and take inventory. Not of property, equipment, stock... but of the American way of life. We live in a country so big in our esteem that we do not even have a word for it. You might be a New Yorker, but not a United Statesian or whatever. So big in our minds that we call ourselves Americans, to absently ignore Central America and South America. Now and then we need to ask ourselves what did we do to become such a worthy human being. Do we remember the road we traveled to this, the top of the mountain. I want to tell you a story about a little girl who almost couldn't believe she might one day climb that road. Lincoln, at Gettysburg, said, "It is for us the living rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work..." This nation was founded on "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights... that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of happiness." That was a short two hundred years ago. Now not one person out of a hundred believes he can hold the government responsible for anything. Let's glance back to a nation who couldn't.

Ursula Martha Wolters was born in Bremen, Germany, July 11, 1933. Bremen is located on the Weser River, 46 miles from the North Sea. Founded in 788 by Charlemagne it soon became a major trading center. In 1830 the modern day sea port of Bremerhaven began to be developed. A major industrial city of half a million, with air base and sea port, it was a must for the Allies to destroy it in World War II. As a little girl Ursula was overwhelmed by its beauty. As a young girl she ran for her very life from its rubble. Then as a young woman she searched through the ruins... ruins of houses and people. Ever so slowly a dream began to form. A dream of turning things around and dedicating her life to something good and lasting. Of finding peace in a land where peace and human rights prevail. As long as there has been a United States there have been good German people coming across the ocean to build a new home.

Ursula was born to Herman and Martha Riebold Wolters, who had married in 1931. She was the first of three children. As a small girl she saw her father work at accumulating property and position. Her home was a three story building in a commercial area. The first floor was a shop for house furnishings. The family lived on the second floor and her grand parents lived on the third floor. Her father often kept furniture on the second floor which he refinished then returned it downstairs. She still has a deep love for the small of varnish and polish and prefers old pieces of reclaimed furniture. Close behind her came a sister, Margot, and there has always been a very special bond between these two people.

By the time things should have become adventurous for her, the beginning of school days and the world outside her home, bad things began to happen. A bomb shelter was built in the basement. This coincided with the Munich Conference, in which England and France appeased Germany for "peace in our time." As a matter of cold reality Germany was ready for war and the western world was not. September 1938, she was five years old. The cold fear is still with her when she remembers a small Jewish boy being beaten in the street by two men. Her father rushed her inside so she couldn't watch. He would have been in deep trouble had he tried to stop it. It was impossible to understand why the nearby store was vandalized simply because it belonged to Jewish people.

Ursula remembers fondly the beautiful package she received when it was time for her to begin school. Shortly it was off-set by her mother fitting she and Margot out with gas masks. This was horrifying enough but then her mother began to suffer from TB and was put in a sanatorium. During the year there Ursula and Margot were sent to an aunt and uncle's house in the country, near Hellingst. It was here her life-long love for the land and nature was to begin. The grandfather had died and the grandmother went along with the two girls. Her father was drafted into the Luftwaffe, the German Air Force, as an officer. Having been a business man he was put in administration. When his wife was to be released by the sanatorium he was granted leave from active duty to provide for her. Knowing all forms of furnishings, pictures, statues, treasures, he would be called back later to go to Paris to advise on such items. When the father was relieved from duty the girls came back to Bremen from Hellingst and the family again lived under one roof. School was continually interrupted by evacuation drills, marching, and all too soon the real bombings came. It became a case of education being readin', writin', 'rithmetic and runnin' from bombs. One day a teacher came by to pick up the two children and take them to the country for work, education and safety. Ursula hid under the bed and cried. Her parents relented and the two sisters went back to Hellingst. It was an awesome sight to look back to the sky at Bremen, where her parents were, and see all the eerie lights as the city was being destroyed. One day school was turned out to take a little field trip and see a bomb which had not exploded.

Once again the magic world of the land was home to Ursula. Spinning, clothes knitted, gardening, butchering, the farm not only became self-sufficient, all sort of things were sent along into the war effort. Hellingst was the area where her father had grown up, the brother remaining on the land. School was a one room affair with one teacher. Among other things each student had a garden plot to care for. Her great love for travel began to grow as she took long bicycle trips with her Uncle Fritz. In 1944 she took and passed the test for middle school. She had been enrolled in the Volksschule, people school. In Germany no one got social promotions, if you didn't seem to want a higher education they certainly didn't try to give it to you, you simply began to look for another way to gain a livelihood. Uncle Fritz and Aunt Gertrud... those were happy days. They had no children of their own. With the entering of Middle School she was back near Bremen where her dad had purchased some land and built a modest home.

In middle school this girl with the casual walk had troubles with all the flamboyant marching of the Bundesverein, the bond, Hitler's Youth Group. The Heil Hitler didn't come easy for this little girl with a mind of her own. Disenchantment was rampant in Germany now as not only was the bombing persistent but the invasion was a reality also. It was tough for a 12 year old girl to hear the oncoming conquerers described... the Russians, the British, the Canadians. Some humor remained as they nicknamed the lone straffers from the air the "lame ducks." You simply hid as best you could. Then came the artillery and a little later the hand grenades. She didn't get a purple heart for the grenade wound she suffered, remaining alive was the great prize.

Her mother had never regained health and her condition was complicated when she became pregnant with the third child. This child, a boy, was in poor health from the beginning. Diphtheria, cholera, couldn't eat, and medical attention was not possible. Her father took some of the few remaining items of value he possessed and walked into Bremen to try to trade for some drugs. It took a day to carefully approach the city and a day back. The boy died. Ursula rode her bicycle into a nearby village, obtained a wooden coffin, attached it to her bicycle and returned home for the funeral. This was early 1945. The war was in its final stages. Her mother now began to fail badly and for two years it was go to school, keep house, nurse to her mother.

The war ended. Devastation, poverty, the ravages of war were very very real although the shooting had stopped. Her dad was able to obtain some streptomycin from American officers who were searching through Germany for the many valuable pieces of art which had been brought in from conquered countries. Herman Wolters was an authority on art. But the medicine came too late and in 1947 Mrs. Wolters died.

For Herman Wolters life became too many battles he had lost. He began to drink too much, too often, and to Ursula it was easier to follow him until he had had too much to drink and take him home, than it was to hunt for him also. She would gain enough of it as to be able to begin work in the United States the second day she was here.

Early in 1951 she applied for papers to go to the United States. An aunt and uncle in New York sent her money for passage. In 1952 the big experience began. It is good to see Ursula laugh at some of this... she went to Cherbourg in France to catch the ship. At the dock who was ushered on to an unimpressive boat. She wondered at it being capable of crossing the Atlantic. But she was determined to go. When they hadn't gone very far out to sea there sat the Queen Mary, bigger than Dallas! Now she was on her way. Upon arriving at New York she was lost. The phone book was frustrating and was as big as three catalogues. Finally she was alone on the dock. Alone except for two elderly people.

Sister Margot, also a nurse.

They ventured, "Are you Ursula?" And so America began.

After Ursula had rested up the rest of the day and a night, her auntie took her on a little look-around and bought a copy of the New York Times to look through the classified ads for employment. Sure enough there was one, with a chemical firm, making medicines. To work she went only to find herself in a small room doing piece work in an assembly line sort of an operation. From this job she went to a Bank operating an NCR machine. This wasn't it either. But it served a purpose. She worked enough to pay her aunt and uncle and send back to Germany and bring Margot over. It is funny to hear her talk about working at Chase Manhattan Bank in Rockefeller Center.

One day a young fellow, back from a tour of duty in Germany, began work driving a taxi during the summer before entering Columbia that fall. Bob Hansteen, an American boy. His father, Henry Hansteen had headed up the Engineering School at both Cornell University and City College of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Hansteen were of German descent and spoke German fluently. Bob handled the language commendably. Ursula, the dreamer wanted to be married in Germany, so her father could attend. So off to the continent, marriage and a motorcycle trip . . . over some tall mountains and deep waters. Then it was home again, Bob to Columbia and Ursula at Macy's, working at the cosmetic counter.

When Bob got out of college it was off to Philadelphia for them. Linda, the oldest was born in New York, Henry and Bobby in Philadelphia. It was here that Ursula became active in causes she felt deeply about. The Viet Nam war . . . the release of Strontium 90 into the atmosphere . . . discriminations . . . This young lady who lived through Germany taking itself to ruin has a genuine and unrelenting fear of people in this country not taking the time, interest, and effort to hold the government responsible for its actions.

Hemingway said something to the effect that in every war a few sparrows must fall. The marriage between Bob and Ursula failed. In picking up the pieces of her life she turned back to a girlhood dream. Medicine. Back to the land. She went back to New York, purchased a farm and made plans to enter Corning Community College of Nursing. In 1972 she became a Registered Nurse and began work at Schuyler Hospital where she worked as a nurse until September of '75.

It was at Schuyler Hospital that Ursula met and worked with Doctor James Norton. Dr. Norton was to Ursula the doctor of all doctors. He made the practice of medicine as real and wonderful to her as her fondest dreams imagined it might be. Then one day a new dream was born. She heard stories of a program whereby nurses became a Nurse Practitioner. She held her breath as she asked Dr. Norton if he would sponsor her. He solemnly walked down the hall, picked up the phone and put the program into operation. Now it was off to Upstate Medical School at Syracuse, New York for a year. Then in '76 she returned to Schuyler Hospital this time to work under Dr. Norton's guidance and direction. She began to take to the field and work in rural nursing and medicine. Now the secret little dream she had allowed herself, began to appear possible. She had wanted to go to the southwest, to be in the vastness of its expanses and be of service to people. To spin, weave, to meditate. One day a doctor with the National Health Service heard of her and her wishes and got in touch. Spring of '77 . . . the paper work began. August of '77 . . . a trip to New Mexico to visit Ft. Sumner, Carrizozo, and Lordsburg. Carrizozo struck her a place where she could be worthy of the trust Dr. Norton and others had in her. It seemed to be a place where she could spin, weave, hike the mountains, be close to the land. And so, Carrizozo began.

The memories are still there. Remembering back to when young children were brought into Bremen by the load, and you could go down and pick you out one and take him home with you. He would be lucky to be treated nice and gain food, clothing, and shelter. If he was real lucky one day he might get to see his people, if not he would still be lucky . . . being alive and staying alive. Memories of watching her mother die way too soon . . . of watching her father become the broken image of what he once was and even seeming to be relieved by an early death. Such was the aftermath of Hitler's dream which turned out to be the world's greatest nightmare. It is like a bad dream to remember to the man, woman and two children who went for a walk in the forest and four shots rang out. He had been an S.S. agent. The war had been lost.

But the real beauty of her story is in the picture of Linda, her 23 year old daughter. Linda is a graduate from college, right now she is in Israel. She will return home and begin work on her Master Degree. Henry is a machinist and lives on the family farm in New York. Bobby is in Carrizozo, a junior in high school. Ursula is close to what she set out to be a long, long time ago. It was a long ago day when she arrived in New York and had trouble adjusting her system to eating three meals a day.

This has been a hard story to tell. We kinda don't like to hear stories like this. Ursula doesn't tell it very readily. This comes from parts of many conversations. When she first came to Carrizozo I somehow sensed "the institution the women is. I was raised in a little German community, a place proudly named Brandenburg. During World War I it changed it's name to Old Glory, in honor of our flag. Some of the German kids I went to school with didn't come back from World War II. Last week when we entered a remote little village in Sonora, Mexico, Ursula wanted to stop and see if everyone was alright, see if anyone needed a little medical help. Such is the woman who is my wife.

Out on a Limb: You can almost make bet right now that when the poll-takers put their figures together for the New Mexico Gubernatorial contest, they'll call the contest between Republican Joe Skeen and Demo Bruce King "too close to pick."

Gov. Jerry Apodaca figures that 50,000 new voters will be going to the polls this November -- that means 50,000 voters who did not cast ballots in the Governor's race four years ago.

A good portion of the New voters will be young people just coming of age, but the biggest percentage should be newcomers to the Land of Enchantment and it's just about anybody's guess whether they will go Democrat or Republican.

Do You Listen or Watch?: Round House wall-leaners are buzzing about the possibilities tied to the proposed television debates between Gubernatorial hopefuls Joe Skeen and Bruce King.

The question most frequently asked is "whether the people will merely watch the physical presence of the candidates or will they listen attentively to the remarks offered?"

The wall-leaners are trying to ascertain whether the TV viewers will simply go for candidate charisma or will they heed the answers to complicated queries and responses.

The answer to that question could hold much for Bruce King and Joe Skeen -- like their political future!

Don't say We Didn't Tell You.

Still Packing 'Em In: Once before, this column chided the State Transportation Department for a big paper waste in the preparation of press releases.

Well, it's happened again.

The agency recently mailed out nineteen--that's right, nineteen--separate press handouts in an envelop.

Just about every newsmen at the Round House agrees the material contained in the nineteen releases could have been boiled down to three pages at the most.

But--why fret? It's only taxpayer money.

Early Lobbying: Rep. Sam Vigil of San Miguel County, according to our sources is going to make contact sometime this week with present House Speaker Walter Martinez to get in an early plug for a major committee chairmanship.

Rep. Vigil is openly interested in the chairmanship of the House Taxation and Revenue Committee, which is being vacated after January 1 because of the primary election loss of Rep. Eddie Lopez of Santa Fe.

Other lawmakers are interested in the key chairmanship and our "birdies" still say Rep. Adele Cinelli Hundley of the Big Duke City is the frontrunner. If Speaker Martinez again wins the Speakers race.

Sidelight: Insiders figure Santa Fe County residents will really miss the Legislative power they had in the person of Lopez.

A veteran of many sessions, Lopez chaired both the House Taxation and Revenue Committee and the powerful Legislative Finance Committee. It will be years before Santa Fe county gets that much muscle again.

New Legal Beagle: Youthful attorney Bill Royer is the legal counsel for the State Corporation Commission. A veteran at the Round House, Bill constantly gets ribbed by his cohorts when they introduce him at Legislative interim meetings as "Lawyer Royer."

Time for a Review?: Some key New Mexico lawmakers and leaders of the State Corporation Commission are in apparent agreement that the State's Insurance laws need updating and rewriting.

One of the more interesting suggestions tied to that proposed revision involves the role of age, sex or marital status as it is related to insurance premiums.

Some wall-leaners suggest that a special blue ribbon committee should be named to study the insurance changes. Others feel an interim committee of the Legislature should draw the assignment.

The corridor talk says fiscal leaders among the legislators are wincing at even the thought of additional expensive interim committee cost.

Looking Back: Months and months ago, this column predicted that the proposed sale of the old St. Vincent Hospital building in downtown Santa Fe would be big headline maker.

And despite protests to the contrary, we consistently warned the proposal would run into snags, primarily because of some serious personality conflicts among those involved in the sale negotiations--and some downright serious communications problems.

The "bad communications" have escalated and right up until the time this column was being prepared for print the situation has worsened.

Each of the installing officers, offices, and color stations were corsages of the same colored daisies.

The theme "Love One Another" has been chosen for Ramona's term. She chose "If you are filled with light within, with no dark corners, then the outside will be radiant too, as though a flood-light is beamed upon you." Luke 11:36 and "His life is the light that shines through the darkness and the darkness can never extinguish it," John 1:5, as her scriptures. Her honor stations are Faith and Love. Ramona's installing officers were; installing officer, Andrea Haddix, installing chaplain, Laurie Voss, installing marshal, Brenda Lindsay, installing recorder, Lisa Ferguson, installing musician, Neva Rae Ventura, and Bible bearer, D'Rese Aguilar. Elected and appointed officers are; Maurita Lovelace-Worthy Associate Advisor, Sally Abercrombie-Charity, Melissa Bohks-Hope, Debbie Kay Gallacher-Faith, Brigitte Sandoval-Drill Leader, Barbara Means-Chaplain, Geneva Maxwell-Love, Kim Payne-Religion, Debbie Castillo-Nature, Lisa Ferguson-Confidential Observer, and Roby McDaniel-Recorder.

Juanita Abercrombie will serve as Mother Advisor for the upcoming term. Howard Abercrombie will be Dad Advisor.

Ramona was attired in a floor length gown of yellow crepe that featured an empire waist and full gathered sleeves. White lace embroidered with yellow designs highlighted the high waist and front panels of the skirt.

After the formal installation, refreshments were served in the adjoining room. A lace covered table was centered with a cake decorated with a Rainbow and Dove. The cake was made by Ramona Ortiz. Margo Lindsay served the guests.

Sunday was a very special day to many people in the area served by the Mountain Ministry. The Reverend and Mrs. W.P. Lytle returned to the field after an absence of sixteen years. Dr. Lytle is now Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. After the morning worship service there was a dinner in the school recreation room, a time for visiting and a question and answer period after which the Reverend and Mrs. Bill Scholes took them to Albuquerque to take a plane for Los Angeles from where they flew to Germany and Africa, arriving in Ethiopia Tuesday morning. They will visit eight countries in a four weeks period. It was a day of inspiration for all of us, and we wish the Lytles well in this year of special ministry.

A Bowl of Activities

from Nogal - by Robie Burk

The most outstanding young man in Nogal is Roger Hubert, born Kansas City, grew up in several different towns in Kansas and attended College at the University of Kansas. He majored in Fine Arts, and when he finished, he traveled for 5 or 6 years, then settled down to serious sculpturing, Sarasota, Florida. There Roger became a professional sculptor. He was very busy working and selling then all of a sudden, he looked up one day and could see nothing but condimiums, the city had built up around him-fencing him in, with a bad cast of cloister-fobia, he wrote his friend David Rouleau in Capitan to look for a place for him.

In no time at all Roger was established in the most unique house in Nogal, high up on one of the beautiful hills. His house is decorated with old Indian rugs-all kinds of folk lore items and antiques. Roger is a dark haired, leanly built fellow with warm gray green eyes. He is a true radical for nature and primitive Art, his cup runnith over with ideas and western hospitality. The first thing you will see is a select old covered wagon sitting near his front door, and beside it is an authentic adobe pueblo ladder, you might climb if you dare. He has many other surprises including his naughty Donkey, named Gabby. He is a man that lives life with the zest; and feeling, and lackadaisical cahm that we could all take a lesson from.

He has many out of town famous guests and does many things that I haven't mentioned at all. We are delighted to have him in Nogal.

A Cupful of Health
What is Acidophilus, we have all heard it, but what is it? Well, some would say it is the same as yogurt. It is a little like yogurt. Acidophilus is a soured milk product that despite its name, is less sour than yogurt. However, for many people who have developed a taste for yogurt, eating Acidophilus milk is a difficult chore, because it is not quite as pleasant. However it is more effective than yogurt because the acidophilus bacillus has the power of affixing itself to the wall of the stomach and for a much longer time. The intestines are kept free of bacteria that is harmful.

A Bit of Wisdom
Capitalism is the unequal distribution of blessings. Socialism is the equal distribution of misery.

Ideas are like beards; men do not have them until they grow up.

Belco Industries In Carrizozo

The NEWS will present a two part story on Belco starting with this issue. This first part is an introduction to some of the employees. Jim and Carolyn Cantrell talk about the company as a family which it is. Anyone walking around Belco can feel the group as a whole. Two employees are still with the company that also started with them in 1973. Ruben Samora heads the machine shop and has been in the Lincoln County area for a long time. He worked ten years with the State before working two years with the McBride Propane Company.

Patricia Moore is the other employee with five years in. She worked at the Sheriff's office for five years before Belco came along.

The production supervisor is David Cantrell. He is responsible for the actual final assembly of the welders. David is the son of Richard and Mary and is the nephew of Carolyn and Jim Cantrell.

Mary Cantrell is the unit assembly foreman. She is in charge of the putting together of the units from parts, such as the winding and electrical connections. Tom O'Dell is the production purchasing and scheduling director. It is his job to match the output of all of the departments. Richard Cantrell functions as a special projects foreman and development director.

Carolyn Cantrell is the Marketing Director and General Manager of the operation. Jim Cantrell is the President. The job of the President is to do whatever jobs don't get done and oversee generally everything that happens. Carolyn and Jim are the first to point out that their management style can best be described as a joint effort.

Other people that should be mentioned are Audrey Coca, the bookkeeper, Michael Barela the final assembly foreman, and Al Whitaker the unit testing and repair person.

The Belco story will continue next week with the how and why the company was formed and what they plan for the future.

Monday, Oct. 16th., the public is invited to tour the facilities and see what Belco is all about. As the news article on the front page says, Senator Pete Dominici will here for the luncheon and the tour of the facilities.

It should be an interesting tour, seeing the insides of the industry which provides half a million a year to our community. We will talk more about the inside story and show more employees next week. It is not only enlightening, but gives a very deep pride to a small town to be part of it.

The Cricket Predicts . .

Take me out and show me a game was what fans in Carrizozo said last Friday against Melrose, and that is what they saw. Carrizozo did the "all but one" routine, beating Melrose in every category except in points scored. With the score 6 to 0 for Melrose, the football contest was won by Joe Ortiz, the only one with the correct score. Joe says his daughter Judy picked the card up at Jackie's Cafe and helped him guess.

If we at the NEWS had had the time we would have added up the score differences in the guesses, since 80 percent of the guesses came in for Melrose, and by big scores. Seems some of the fans don't believe in the Grizzly Defense. Anyway, congratulations to Joe Ortiz, winner of $25 and good luck to all of the guessers this week with the game being Carrizozo vs. Hagerman, in Carrizozo. Rated number two, Hagerman had last Friday idle and may score several times in the first quarter. If they don't score in the first quarter, things may be close.

Capitan hosts Texico for their Homecoming celebration in Capitan, and the Tiger Defense will see a lot of running. Texico had a fellow last year named Turner who against Corona ran the ball 57 times for 380 plus yards. Seems they build runners there. Now their fastest runner, Williams, is tied for second on the New Mexico total rushing yards roster, being beaten by a boy from Mountainair.

The cricket predicts tough times in Carrizozo as it is anywhere that Hagerman plays, and the game to watch to be the Capitan contest. They knocked off number one rated Tatum 19 to 14 and should be charged up for Texico.

It should be mentioned here that even though Carrizozo got beat Friday, several players put on a good near 100 percent performance..

First on the list is Doug Whitaker. It was Doug's pass that was intercepted for a TD, but his inspired play kept them in the game or the score would have been 28 to 0. He would seem more effective if people would catch his passes. Several were dropped on their way to being a TD. Bruce English has blossomed out to be a fine runner, no blaze of speed or finesse, but just hard hitting aggressive ball carrying. We can tell he doesn't mind the give and take of hitting and being hit. That is the running attack that Carrizozo needs, a runner that wants to just flat run over anyone that gets in his way. Probably the most pound for pound impressive football player on the Grizzly squad is little Orlando Samora. Number 25 looks like he should be playing with the Junior High team, size wise, and plays like he should be playing for Dallas. Kind of reminds me of Marcus Barela, one of the best defensive players to come from Carrizozo. The line also did well last week and all of the players were fired up as much as the fired up "C" burnt right before the game. The contest for this week is the Carrizozo vs. Hagerman game and we started receiving cards Monday morning.

Corona 6-man Football Game

The Corona Cardinals defeated the Roy Longhorns in a six-man football game in Corona on Saturday, Oct. 7, by a score of Corona 49, Roy 46. The Cardinals were behind 37-46 with five minutes left in the ball game and they scored three touchdowns within three minutes and intercepted two Roy passes within the last two minutes to earn a victory.

Corona gained 253 yards, passing, and 240 yards rushing for a total of 493 yards in offense.

Ken Gibbs was the leading pass receiver with 158 yards on pass receptions and he rushed for 142 yards for a total of 343 yards.

Troy Yancey completed 12 of 20 passes for a 200 yard total and he also was responsible for four pass interceptions.

Ken Gibbs intercepted two passes and Glenn Trujillo intercepted one pass. The Cardinals had a total of seven passes. Roy had no pass interceptions.

Leading defensive play for the cards were Glenn Trujillo, Michael Chavez and Herman Alirez.

Best Blocker was Michael Chavez who also had five quarterback sacks.

Bruce English will step on your head if you get in the way. He sure does have the attention of his team. "Hey guys, who's blocking?"
