CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO

ESTABLISHED IN 1905

Too many people think the government should not only guarantee them a chance to pursue happiness but should also run interference for them.

First Full New Commission Meets

The Lincoln County Commission was at full membership Monday with the seating of John Allen Hightower in the seat vacated by Lee Straley.

The meeting was highlighted by a tour of the Lincoln County Jail facilities by Sheriff Ernest Sanchez for the Commissioners and any other interested parties.

The tour included explanations as to the procedures used by the Sheriff's office in handling prisoners such as the completely separate facilities for the handling of juvenile offenders. Woman prisoners also have completely separate facilities.

In other actions by the commissioners, the names of Ben L. Hall, Thomas P. McKnight, John Allen Hightower, and Ernest Sanchez were approved as Lincoln County's appointments to the Council of Government. Alternates were Les Olsen, R.C. Nunez, Ruth Armstrong, and Don Stark.

Those appointed to the Board of Registrars were Emmadiar Jones, Billy Stephenson, and Bill Elliot. Alleen Lindamood and Gary Mitchell were named alternates.

The commissioners started the paperwork for Disaster Relief with a resolution naming Les Olsen as their representative in the filling out of the various forms.

State Police Sargent Jack Johnson gave a report to the Commissioners concerning the various Mental Health and Crisis Counseling activities. A new Mental Health Center has been set up as of February first in Ruidoso and another in Carrizozo at the Zia Center. These are being set up with a Government grant of $140,000.

The commissioners decided to try get together with the Village of Ruidoso on several matters within the next few weeks. The first is a grant from the county for $12,000, the Village had decided to not use, and of late decided they wanted, and also the maintenance of road around Ruidoso. The Cedar Creek Road is within the Village of Ruidoso, but commonly thought to be a county road, while the opposite is true of the Carrizo Creek road.

Dr. and Mrs. Russ are shown at the Zia Senior Citizen's Center where a Pot Luck Dinner was well attended. Dr. Russ and Lewis Stratton were interviewed by the Carrizozo School Board for the position of Superintendent. The School Board has stated officially that they will not make any decision until the April meeting.

My Time — by Mike Swickard

A young man lived with his parents in a public housing development. He attended public school, rode the free school bus, and participated in the free lunch program. He entered the Army, and then upon discharge retained his national service insurance. He then enrolled in the State University, working part time in the State Capitol to supplement his GI education check.

Upon graduation, he married a public health nurse and bought a farm with an FHA loan, and then obtained an RFC loan to go into business. A baby was born in the county hospital. He bought a ranch with the aid of the veterans' land program and obtained feed from the Government storehouses.

Later he put part of his land in the soil bank, and the payments soon paid out his farm and ranch. His father and mother lived very comfortably on the ranch on their social security and old-age assistance checks. REA lines supplied electricity. The Government helped clear his land for him.

The county agent showed him how to terrace it; then the Government built him a fishpond and stocked it with many fish. The Government guaranteed him a sale for his farm products at highest prices.

Books from the public library were delivered to his door. He banked money which a Government agency insured. His children grew up, entered public schools, ate free lunches, rode free school buses, played in the public parks, swam in public pools, and joined the FFA. He owned an automobile, so he favored the Federal highway improvement program.

He signed a petition seeking Federal assistance in developing an industrial project to help the economy of his area. He was a leader in obtaining the new post office and Federal building, and went to Washington with a group to ask the Government to build a great dam costing millions to give the area "cheaper electricity."

He petitioned the Government to give the local air base to the county. He was also a leader in the movement to get his specific type of farming special tax write-offs and exemptions. Of course, he belonged to several farmers' organizations, but denied that they were pressure groups.

Then one day, after hearing that the per capita income tax bill in 1961 averaged out to $251.49 for every man, woman and child, he wrote his congressman:

"I wish to protest these excessive governmental expenditures and attendant high taxes. I believe in rugged individualism. I think people should stand on their own two feet without expecting handouts. I am opposed to all socialistic trends and I demand a return to the principles of our Constitution and of State Rights."

Do you know him?
Johnson Stearns gave me this and I think it is something that needs to be said.

Janitorial Work, Never Ending Job For Zia

Janitorial work is a job that never ends — especially in Carrizozo. Dust and mud are realities familiar to town residents all year long. This is fortunate for a job skill training facility because every day the opportunity to clean it all again is there. Cleaning is a job that can be drudgery or it can be something a worker takes pride in, a job that you do and others are happy to live or work where you have cleaned. In the Zia School for Developmental Services, the training to janitorial services would like to produce workers that take pride in their work.

Sabino Sandoval is the training aide who works with some of the students in janitorial services. Sabino was born in Carrizozo and attended St. Rita Grade School before moving to Alamogordo. After a tour of duty with the Air Force, he settled in Carrizozo. He has five children; three have graduated from Carrizozo High School and two are still in the school system. When Sabino applied for the job at Zia School, he did not know exactly what he would be doing. He says, "I didn't know what I would be doing. It has not been hard and I really enjoy working with the students now."

Sabino's job has not been an easy one. "He must begin training a job skill from the beginning, taking nothing for granted. A student must learn to tell a bottle of window cleaner from a bottle of toilet bowl cleaner or drain opener. When you cannot read, this is quite a task. One of the students in the program showed us what a task it is! Gordon was given a job to clean windows and when he finished, they looked worse than when he started. It was discovered that Gordon had used degreaser instead of window cleaner. Both were blue liquid and the correct cleanser was hard to detect.

Once the proper cleaning agent is identified, how to measure the needed amount is taught. Pails of water foaming over is a good clue to a student that he has used too much soap! One student was to clean the bathrooms and was given the proper can of cleanser. When he was done cleaning, the can of cleanser was empty. Sabino checked on him and discovered that the student was dumping huge amounts of cleanser in the sinks as he cleaned them. Now, that student has learned what is the proper amount to use.

Recognizing when a cleaning tool is dirty and needs to be rinsed or changed is a difficult decision to teach. If a student has lazy habits and does not want to change a pail of water or if there is a visual handicap and the student cannot see the need, the task is even harder. Sabino must be constantly checking on students as he trains them to good work habits.

We have one "reverse" motivation problem that we must also deal with. Russell does not want anyone to step on his clean floor until it is dry. Either he stands guard over the part he has washed or he re-mops whenever someone must walk on it (sometimes doing a floor as many as four times!). Sabino tries to convince Russell that the buffer will remove the footprints, but Russell is not easily convinced.

Of all the training areas, the janitorial services area has the highest demand for self-motivation. Other training areas have a certain amount of variety of are producing services visible outside the school and this visibility serves as a motivating factor. Those in the janitorial services have the same building to clean each day and do not produce services to people outside of the school. Keeping the "Janitors" motivated is demanding. Yet the very

"sameness" that places demands on people in this training area is also a bonus because the students become familiar with their tasks and can move toward independence sooner. It is the very repetition which makes a job boring for most people that gives a sense of confidence to the mentally handicapped.

Those who work in the school building are not totally removed from the community. The Health Center still has their X-ray unit in the school building. As the medical staff travels through the building, the students are eager to engage them in conversation; and the staff have provided a friendly

So they did. We do appreciate this. That's what keeps our

Bill Stowe Attends Workshop

Bill Stowe, Corona High School Principal, was one of a seventeen-member group of educators for the first of a three-part career education in-service workshop in Cashmere, Washington, financed through a federal grant from the Office of Career Education, U.S. Office of Education. The participants engaged in a 10-day workshop which began Monday, January 15th and concluded Wednesday, January 24th. The workshop brought together educators from Washington, Alaska, California, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, New Mexico, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, and Nebraska. The participants included teachers, principal, superintendents, guidance counselors, college professors, vocational education and career education coordinators.

Purpose of the workshop was to train participants in conducting similar workshops for fellow teachers, administrators, and community personnel in their rural school systems throughout the nation. Training modules, each accompanied by specific project activities included Introduction and Orientation to Career Education; Resource Centers; Games, Bulletin Boards, and Teacher-Made Activity Kits; Recognizing and Eliminating Race and Sex Bias in Behavior and Materials; Involving the Community; Writing and Developing Curriculum; Evaluation Strategies and Techniques; Workshop Planning; and Developing a Comprehensive Program.

Participants spent a half day in each of Cashmere's three schools visiting the media centers, guidance counseling programs and talking to teachers and principals. The visiting participants observed an outstanding career education program in a rural school. Trips were made to several areas of local interest including a power producing dam on the Columbia River. This gave participants the opportunity to observe community resources the Cashmere schools use in their career education program.

A note of special interest to people who have never had the opportunity to visit Washington state, Cashmere is in the foothills of the Cascade mountains. These mountains catch the Pacific storms and have five feet plus accumulations of snow on the ground. Cashmere is the heart of Washington's apple growing regions. A delicious fruit nut candy made from fresh apple juice called Aplets and Cattlets is made only in Cashmere. The region surrounding the town is a four season paradise for outdoor recreation.

Tooth Tales

By Dale Goad, D.D.S.
An adult man or woman may have 32 teeth: 16 upper and 16 lower. Too many young adults have a fourth to all of them missing before they are 40 years old. This is a sad realization when one thinks of the importance of teeth. Teeth are primarily used for chewing food and for speech. However, no one will argue their importance in appearance and the way one looks. Also they are necessary to maintain proper relationships among the muscles of the lips, cheeks, and tongue. What are the reasons for tooth loss? In children and adults both, dental decay or "caries" is responsible for much damage, however, periodontal disease for pyorrhea (as it was called in earlier times) is the major cause of tooth loss in adults. It begins as a mild inflammation of the gums (gingivitis) which indicates itself by bleeding during tooth-brushing. If this continues, it will progress and worsen causing periodontal pockets and bone loss which then causes the teeth to loosen.

Fortunately, both caries and periodontal disease can be prevented. The solution is in taking some time each day to really clean your teeth. The cause of the problem is "plaque". Plaque is sticky material composed of food debris and bacteria which adheres to teeth and can only be removed by brushing and flossing. If plaque remains on the teeth it hardens into calculus or tartar which can only be removed by dental instruments. This is why it is necessary to visit your dentist semi-annually for an exam and cleaning.

Plaque and calculus harm your teeth and gums by providing the protection for the colonies of bacteria which produce toxins or acids. These acids eat away the surface of the teeth and irritate the gingiva. The bacteria thrive on carbohydrates (sugars); therefore, diet is very important as is the number of times one eats in a day. For example, if you eat three meals a day with snacks in between and at bedtime, you will double the exposure to acid-forming foods and your teeth will be bathed in the acids twice as much. If you must snack, choose fibrous fruits and vegetables which also help clean the teeth. When buying products for removing plaque, choose soft-bristled toothbrushes with polished bristle ends. Also choose one which is small enough to maneuver around all the teeth. Floss should be unwaxed. Flossing is necessary to clean between the teeth where the toothbrush bristles cannot reach. With good hygiene, teeth will last a lifetime.

News From

Senator Harrison Schmitt

Senator Harrison Schmitt (R-N.M.) Thursday introduced legislation designed to eliminate unnecessary federal regulations and simplify those deemed necessary by Congress.

Schmitt introduced a Regulatory Reduction and Congressional Control Act in the last Congress. He termed his new legislation "a revised and improved version" of his previous effort.

"Recent years have witnessed an unprecedented eruption of regulations and regulatory bureaucracies which have impact on almost every facet of American life," Schmitt said.

"The American citizen, the small businessman, and government itself are staggering under an increasingly heavy load of regulations. People have a general perception that the regulatory bureaucracy is out of control. There is a mandate to the Congress to do something about reestablishing control of the regulatory process and to reform existing regulations," he added.

In the 95th Congress, the Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Process.

Schmitt's legislation reestablishes congressional control in the area of regulatory rulemaking by executive branch agencies. It allows a 60-day period in which there would be an opportunity for Congressional disapproval of proposed agency rules. The legislation also provides for impact analyses and for expansion of public participation in the rulemaking process.

In the 95th Congress, the Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure of the Committee on the Judiciary held several days of hearings on Schmitt's legislation. During these hearings, testimony was received from economists, constitutional law experts, State legislators, a former Director of the National Commission on Paperwork, the American Bar Association, representatives from consumer groups, the Administration, and many others.

There are 44 independent regulatory agencies plus 1,240 boards and commissions. These organizations employ over 100,000 individuals. The cost to the taxpayers to finance these Federal bureaucracies has grown from just over $2 billion in 1974 to an estimated $3.5 billion in 1977.

Schmitt said he is confident that hearings will be scheduled for his new legislation. "Regulatory reform is long overdue; and the American people are demanding their day in court."

A Bowl of Activities

From Nogal

Remembering those good old days at home when you have a cold or the flu!

With the appearance of the drippy nose, you try everything, like aspirin, nose-drops, throat sprays, lozenges, mouthwash and syrups. You drink gallons of juice and water double your vitamins and still feel rough. Then you remember that Mother always cured a cold and the aching muscles, with jars of vicks, by rubbing gobs of vicks on the chest, using hot cloths from the steam from the teakettle, on the chest every 15 minutes then the last cloth was tucked under your clothing so that you could smell it all day and night. Having a beet red chest you trail Mother to the bath room for a hot epsom salt bath—and warmed clothes to wrap up in, then Dad fried onions in a pan adding a little sugar—and water to make it taste putrid!—Then he strained it through a cheese cloth, and demands that you drink it in a few gulps. While mother is hunting a cap for your head and warm footies—Dad tucks you in bed under 6 or 7 quilts—and later on they bring you a hot toddy to help you rest and sure enough you fall asleep with all this tender loving care and the cold leaves you in about 8 days anyway.

Flash!!! If you suffer from Migraine headaches!! You may find relief by changing your diet. When you have a migraine, the large arteries and veins in the brain dilate while small cerebral blood vessels constrict and the blood vessels constrict and the blood flow to the brain is reduced. The narrowing of the blood vessels is followed by enlarging of the vessels and this causes severe pain.

Some foods that trigger a headache are: Hot dogs and luncheon meats, too much sugar, chocolate, sometimes red wine. Watch your foods, you can eliminate the ones that bother you. Too many preservatives (poisons) causes headaches. (taken from the digest) early 1900's along with the photographers flash bulb.

"Deeper than the deep blue sea" This is true because oceans cover some 140 million square miles or 70 percent of the earth's surface.

"Higher than a kite" Pretty true, for the highest recorded kite rose 28,000 feet a little over 5 miles.

"A dash of Gardening" It is a good time to test seeds saved from last year: Roll at least 20 seeds in a moistened double paper towel; tuck the towel in a plastic bag and keep in a warm place for 1-2 weeks. Re-moisten as needed. 15 seeds sprout no problem, 10 seeds plant more thickly than usual. 5 seeds you will still get some good plants, if you start seeds indoors.

Give beauty to your yard this spring and furnish food and protection for the birds, with ornamental trees: American holly, crab apple, mountain ash; Shrubs: autumn or russian olive, pyracantha, bittersweet, and Boston ivy.

The plant for January is Ornamental Pepper—it likes a cool room, sun and water several times a week.

Now here is your special new Soup recipe!

Onion Soup: You start with beef stock, and add 4 large onions 2 tablespoons of butter and 2 tablespoons of worcestershire sauce, garlic salt and pepper, then taste, and add a speck of soy sauce, Simmer for 30 minutes. You could add 2 bouillon cubes, taste again then before serving add 2 tablespoons of Brandy—this is warm and good.

Rabbit Fever is an infectious disease occurring in wild rabbits as well as other wild rodents. Rabbit Fever is also known to occur in domestic rabbits. Wild rabbits should be cooked and never eaten raw. Cooking will kill the disease.

Bubonic plague can be contracted from the fleas on rabbits as well as other rodents. When fleas are found on a rabbit or other rodent, they should be killed using an insecticide such as Seyfin Dust.

I just received some estimates of the population change in the counties of New Mexico. Lincoln County had a 35.5 percent increase in population from 1970 to 1977. Only Sandoval County with 37.5 percent exceeded Lincoln County. The population in Lincoln County has grown from 7,560 people in 1970 to 10,300 in 1977. If this growth rate continues, Lincoln County will have a population of 11,900 by 1980.

There is federal assistance available to repair irrigation ditches that were damaged by flood occurring December 19-22, 1977 in Lincoln County.

These are divided into ditches serving one to two users and those community ditches having three or more users.

If you need help with your ditch you need to fill out a notice of interest form to the Federal Disaster Assistance Authority. They have an office in the City Hall in Ruidoso. Tom McCalmont and Charles Northington are in that office.

There are several different ways the assistance can be given so if you are interested, visit the office in the Ruidoso City Hall.

In Great Britain, children sing special Valentine's Day songs and receive gifts of money, fruit or candy. In the U.S., school children decorate their class rooms with bright red hearts. People send greeting cards to friends, members of their families and sweethearts, and also gifts, candy or flowers. The FHA members at Zozo High have been taking orders for Carnations and on Valentine's Day they will be delivered. The Carrizozo Womens Club members will have Home made candy for sale at local stores Feb. 10-11.

Historians disagree about the identity of St. Valentine. One St. Valentine was a priest who lived in Rome during the 200's under Emperor Claudius II. The Romans jailed him for aiding persecuted Christians. People believed that he cured his jailkeeper's daughter of blindness. Another St. Valentine was a bishop of Terni, about 60 miles from Rome. One source says that he was persecuted for converting a Roman family to Christianity.

Read any good books lately? The Carrizozo School Library is there for you 5 days a week. New books are always coming in, for example "Tisha", the story of a young teacher by Hobbs and "Midnight Express" by Hayes. I am always interested in the craft books. I am a quilting fanatic. Your book is waiting for you too.

Studies have shown that 80 percent of the people stop engaging in sports or exercise after they leave school. Some people prefer not to sweat, be out of breath and pound their feet to bloody stumps, but some exercise should fit into your daily life. Ex-governor Jerry Apodaca, a well known figure believes in jogging. Another well known person Pope Paul II, spiritual leader of the world's 700 million Roman Catholics, was said to have been unhappy about putting weight for lack of exercise during his first months in office. He used to enjoy canoeing, camping and skiing. The love of outdoor life and sports has stayed with him.

Carrizozo School Library has books on jogging and other forms of exercise. Jog on down there. The book will tell you the "do's and don'ts" of jogging.

Flood Disaster Victims Receive Assistance

Las Cruces, N.M. - Farmers and ranchers in five New Mexico counties were receiving letters from the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration Wednesday outlining disaster assistance programs available under federal and state law as a result of the Dec. 19-22 floods.

Meanwhile, all local government officials in the five-county area have been briefed on how to apply for FDAA funds to repair flood damaged public facilities and, in addition, federal and state engineering teams entered the field earlier this week to perform detailed engineering surveys of these facilities.

The letters were prepared by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration and carry the signature of Joe D. Winkle, federal coordinating officer. Winkle heads the FDAA field office, established here Feb. 2, to aid victims of the floods that struck Lincoln, Catron, Sierra, Hidalgo and Grant counties.

A toll-free "hot line" - Telephone No. 1-800-432-3653 - also was set up to enable flood victims to call into the field office and inform personnel there of their needs. This information is recorded and then forwarded to the proper federal state or private agency handling that particular item. In turn, the agency contacts the flood victim for follow-up.

"As expected," Winkle said, "response the first two days was very slow - only three or four inquiries each day. As the word gets out - it takes time to get the word around - we expect a greatly increased response."

The letters - more than 1,000 are being mailed Monday by Agricultural, Stabilization and Conservation offices in the different counties - make the following points:

The USDA Farmers Home Administration and the Small Business Administration - which has a four-man staff and office in the FDAA office here - is responsible for long-term, low-interest loans to repair or replace homes, furnishings, businesses and farm-ranch operations.

Internal Revenue Service furnishes assistance in filling our casualty loss statements or income tax refunds. Various USDA programs provide assistance to farmers and ranchers for debris clearance, fence repair, land and water conservation structure repair and other areas.

Special unemployment assistance programs are available for those out of work due to the flood, including self-employed, business owners, farm and ranch owners and farm workers.

Food stamps are available for families needing food assistance.

Legal assistance and emergency is available through the American Bar Association, the American Red Cross and other private agency.

Corona Reading Skills Class

Jim Jenkins began his teaching in Corona in the fall of 1978, and as a reading teacher he teaches his students reading and comprehension skills. This reading lab did get some new material last semester to help them work more efficiently.

The class also has the control readers, with which the students can work; listening skills material and has some new reading books as well. They have some new material to supplement the present math program. If the students are interested in mechanics, there are materials available in that subject.

Mr. Jenkins stated that some field trips for this semester are in the planning stage.

Predator Calling Recreation

LAS CRUCES - "Predator calling is an excellent form of off-season hunter recreation," says Phil Zwank, Extension wildlife specialist at New Mexico State University. "In addition, winter coyote pelt prices have turned this into a lucrative sport which may also help reduce livestock losses."

Before you attempt predator calling, there are a few pointers to keep in mind, Zwank says. For example, choose an area where there is a good chance of finding coyotes. Areas with plenty of brush and arroyos are the best bet. Coyotes also like to hunt for food in grassy areas close to brush.

Your site should also have plenty of rabbits or rodents, such as rats and mice. Coyotes depend on these for their food.

When you choose your hunting site, consider the wind and your visibility. A called coyote will attempt to get down wind so he can smell what is making the sound. Therefore, choose the site so you can see the animal as he attempts to circle you from up wind. For this reason, it works best to hunt with a buddy so each person can cover 180 degrees from up wind to down wind.

Always try to sit behind or in front of something to camouflage your outline. Coyotes can see any movement and hear whisper sounds at extremely long distances. "So sit still and keep quiet," Zwank says.

The weapon you choose will depend on your hunting area. In mesquite brush, choose a shotgun because your visibility will be limited to about 30 yards. In more open country, select a high-powered rifle in one of the popular varmint calibers. If your caliber is too large, your pelt will be worth much less on the market.

After you choose your location, allow yourself about a minute to familiarize yourself with the area. Begin calling with short calls. Quickly increase the intensity and length of the call and then let the pace drop again. The entire call cycle should last about two to three minutes.

One of the most popular calls imitates a distressed rabbit. However, other callers prefer distressed bird calls.

After you call, keep silent for about five to 10 minutes. If you still haven't seen a coyote after 15 or 20 minutes, both hunters should stand up together. "But be ready to shoot," Zwank says. "The coyote may be just a few yards away, watching your general area."

After you have worked one area, go to a new site. "Just be sure it is at least one and one-half miles from the area you just called," says the wildlife specialist.

"In conclusion, just use your common sense," Zwank says. "Don't slam your car doors. Get permission before you hunt on private lands and keep away from areas with high concentrations of livestock."

The latest statistics on athletic injuries have taken a jump upwards. Five Capitan area youth have recently suffered injuries ranging in seriousness from requiring surgery to a week on crutches. All of the five injuries occurred during a one-month period. Three of the accidents eliminated players from the girls' basketball teams — one junior high, and two varsity members.

Those suffering knee injuries included Terri Womack, Debbie Castillo and Lisa Lamb.

Terri was injured during a junior high basketball game at Carrizozo just before Christmas vacation. Her knee swelled just after the holiday began prompting her parents to take her to a Roswell doctor for a check. The diagnosis was torn ligaments on the inside of the left knee and cartilage damage in the front. Surgery was required with a 10-week recovery period, including three-and-half weeks in a leg cast and the remainder in a straight brace. Terri claims the most difficult part is going up and down steps. The outlook for her recovery is good. The scar will eventually fade says Terri and with diligent exercise she will have full use of the knee. Terri may be out of basketball but she still carries on cheerleading duties for the junior high with the help of a high stool.

Debbie Castillo also has a knee injury. She sustained her initial injury during the Smokey Bear tournament, but the final blow came at a later practice. Her kneecap is "loose" as Debbie puts it and painful to bend. The doctor has given her exercises to strengthen the knee and at last report surgery was still in question. Debbie was also on crutches for an extended period and says that her half-cast splint makes walking tiresome. The kills around school have been very helpful. Thirdly, in the knee injury category, is Lisa Lamb. Lisa's downfall was also the Smokey Bear Tournament previously to which she was scoring a high 20 points per game average.

Lisa's doctor's diagnosis is pulled ligaments with an indefinite period for recovery. She wears a plaster cast and until recently used crutches as well. Lisa hopes to have recovered fully and be able to play some college basketball. Although she has not made her final selection as to where to attend, scholastics are first in line. Her high grade average along with high point average will be a hard-to-beat combination for some lucky college team.

Two boys at Capitan school have also made the injured list. Eight-year-old Mike Shanks has a plastic cast from just above the knee down to the tip of his toe resulting from a skiing accident three weeks ago. Mike and mother Mary Shanks were taking advantage of Capitan's Wednesday Ski Club when Mike broke his leg. The two did not know it was actually broken until they got to the hospital. Mike's story of how the fall came about was that he was skiing down Box Canyon when a "Texan" skied in front of him causing him to fall. When asked how he knew it was a "Texan", Mike replied that as the guy skied away he told Mike "Saw-reee."

Mike will have the cast on about 5-6 weeks.

Finally, on the list of injured, is Mike Sullivan who was not playing basketball or skiing but feeding his horse on a Saturday when he walked between the mare and a stud. The mare was bit by an upset stud and kicked just as Mike walked between the two horses. The pain was drastic enough that he could only crawl up hill to his house. The Sullivan's live in the Capitan subdivision, and only his younger brother Brian was home as his parents were on an out of town trip.

Brian drove Mike into town looking for some help. The only people they could think of to go to were not home so as a sure bet the younger Sullivan drove to Allen's Western Wear.

Sure enough Butch Allen called the ambulance and Mike was rushed to Ruidoso. After X-rays, it was determined that Mike had a bruised hip. He was put on crutches for a week followed by two days with a cane. The Sullivan's want to thank Tommie Allen for her special assistance during Mike's trip to the hospital and return home.

Mike is now walking with only a very slight limp and hopes the injury will not affect his track season.

In conclusion, the rash of accidents seem to be slowing down, but take heart parents — basketball has another month and skiing maybe two months and horses must be fed!!!

Game & Fish News

The low temperatures we New Mexicans have been experiencing lately may not be any indication, but believe it or not, spring is just around the corner. NOW is the time to get ready for spring.

Spring is a beautiful time of year in this state, and when it comes each year it brings with it, besides strong winds, any forms of life.

If you are one of the millions of people in the world that like to have plants and wildlife around your dwelling, you can have both with just a little pre-planning and by following a few guidelines.

First though, let's consider the variety of wildlife in our state and the basic needs that wildlife require.

If you have spent any time in New Mexico at all, you have probably observed a variety of wildlife ranging from a tiny kangaroo rat to a large, impressive bull elk, or black bear.

Our variety of life forms can be contributed to the wide variety of climatic zones in the state's 121,666 square miles. Elevations range from a low of 2,817 feet above sea level at Red Bluff in Eddy County to the high of 13,160 feet above sea level at Wheeler Peak in Taos County.

The higher elevations are accompanied by cooler temperatures and damper conditions than are the lower elevations.

All of these climatic varieties enable New Mexico to brag of having six of the seven life zones found in North America. These are the Hudsonian, Arctic, Canadian, Transition, Upper Sonoran and Lower Sonoran Zones.

Our geographic location allows us to share the biotic communities of the Rocky Mountains, the Great Plains, the Mexican Plateau, the Chichuahan and the Sonoran deserts.

The wildlife, regardless of size and stamina, that live in these various environments all require four basic elements in order to survive. These are food, water, cover, and shelter.

The need for the first two elements, food and water should be obvious. However, you might be confused as to the difference between cover and shelter.

Cover can generally be thought of as an element which provides wildlife protection from natural enemies and weather. Shelter often refers to the areas where wildlife can reproduce and bear their young in safety.

Each species requires its own combination of these four elements, but a given habitat usually provides enough of an assortment of these combinations to support several species in a common environment.

If you have been wanting some of those animals that live near you to come into your yard, think about the four requirements — food, water, cover, and shelter — that the species you are interested in needs.

Provide their needs in a comparable form as to what they require and you will be pleasantly surprised with your own refuge.

Should you need help in planning for wildlife around your house, contact me and I will try to provide you with a copy of the National Wildlife Federation's "Invite Wildlife to Your Backyard".

Sense . . . . . & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Bureaucracy's tentacles are once again tying each other in knots, to the detriment of the hand that feeds the octopus.

A recent Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Department directive has prohibited the use of adobe in government-financed housing projects.

HUD based that directive on the contention that adobe is not energy-efficient.

That is patently absurd, as most Southwesterners and all Pueblo Indians can attest.

But the irony in this situation is that the Economic Development Administration has granted $800,000 to the San Juan Pueblo adobe factory to produce that material for government-sponsored housing projects.

That money has been granted, issued, and used to produce the required adobe. But the government now says adobe can't be used.

So what happens to the already-manufactured adobe and, more importantly, the future of the San Juan Pueblo adobe factory?

The folks directly affected by that directive probably have some unprintable suggestions as to what the government can do with the adobe and the directive, but that would give them only brief satisfaction.

Currently, a Santa Fe architectural firm is preparing a proposal for a study to verify the thermal performance and energy conservation characteristics of various sun-dried adobe brick.

Armed with this study, if it is funded and when it is completed, we can perhaps convince the bureaucracy of the folly of prohibiting adobe in housing projects.

But one would think that the study shouldn't be necessary.

The Library of Congress is full of books on Southwest and Pueblo Indian history.

Just cursory reading should convince anyone that the Pueblos in the Southwest functioned quite well in their energy-efficient dwellings.

But Washington, of course, thinks it knows better.

President Carter's "austere" budget proposal for fiscal year 1980 reminds me of the gentleman who fell from a 30-story building, shouting to people on each floor, "All right so far."

Although he is rethinking that optimistic outlook at present, the President should be applauded for his attempt to trim some fat and reduce the federal deficit.

Now we see if Congress can improve on the "lean, and austere" proposals, or if obesity overrules.

Although I welcome mail and visitors in the Washington office, often more immediate attention to New Mexicans' problems can be attained through my field offices in the state.

Those offices are located in Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Roswell, and Las Cruces. Their addresses and phone numbers are:

Fed. Bldg. & U.S. Courthouse Room 10013 Albuquerque, N.M. 87103 Phone: 766-3481

New Postage Building Room 3004 Santa Fe, N.M. 87501 Phone: 988-6511

Fed. Bldg. & U.S. Courthouse Room 140 Roswell, NM. 88201 Phone: 623-6171

116 East New Fed. Bldg. Las Cruces, N.M. 88001 Phone: 523-7433

Word has reached me that I won an important election in January.

Fourth graders at St. Francis School in Santa Fe last month pitted me against President Carter in a mock election.

I won, I'm told, by a 14-9 count.

One wonders what the outcome would have been if President Carter were also a New Mexican.

Overheard in the Senate dining room: "See that Senator? He's a little on the sentimental side. He has a framed dollar bill on his wall. It's the first dollar he ever taxed."

Tiger Tales by James Burch

The Capitan J. V. lost a close one to the Clouderoff Bears, by the score of 46-52. The leading rebounder for the Tigers was Deke LaMay. David Hooks led the Tigers in scoring with 14 points and Lee "Shotgun" Coleman had 6 points.

The Tigers varsity looked good Friday night, but came up short as Clouderoff defeated the Tigers 47-59. The Tigers were led on both ends of the court by Harvey Martin. Harvey Martin led all Tigers in scoring and rebounding as he had 11 points and 11 rebounds. Mike Stone and Tim Proctor also had 9 points a piece.

The Tiger varsity played the Powerful Hagerman Bobcats and lost by the score of 83-56. The Tigers were again led by Harvey Martin as he had 13 points and 11 rebounds. Tim Proctor helped Martin out with 12 points and 9 rebounds.

The Tigers next game is at home February 9 as they host the Hondo Eagles.

The Tiger J. V. faced the Goddard freshman and came out victorious with a 51-35 win. The Tigers were paced to victory by Johnny LaMay, David Hooks, Shelby Helms, and Deke LaMay. They controlled the Rockets on both ends of the court. Mike Stone was the Tigers leading rebounder. The J. V.'s next game is February 8 as they host the Tularosa Wildcats.

Inside The Capitol

By FRED McCAFFREY
SANTA FE—The day could have marked the end of an era. As the announcement was made to the assembled press in the impressive chambers of the State Senate by two sad-eyed friends, it felt that way: the last old-time boss of New Mexico politics seemed to have fallen from grace and power after a felony perjury conviction. But things are not always what they seem. Even as he went down to defeat, resigning from the Senate because "I must not stand in the way of effective representation in the New Mexico Senate for my warm and personal friends, neighbors and constituents," Emilio Naranjo still showed his muscle: the man whose appointment he had arranged as his replacement is his son-in-law.

The announcement, made to us by Senate majority leader C. B. Trujillo of Taos and Senator Ted Montoya of Sandoval, Bernalillo and Rio Arriba counties, was exact and precise. We were even told that Naranjo's resignation had been delivered at exactly 3:13 p.m. and that the Rio Arriba county commission had convened to select a successor at exactly 4:00 p.m. All neat and clean, and in exact compliance with the law.

But a charade, nevertheless. Emilio, still predicting his eventual exoneration, a prediction in which both Trujillo and Montoya joined, was still in power—indirectly now, rather than directly, but in power all the same.

If this is the meaning of the ruling by Judge Ray Hughes—that he must release his hold on Rio Arriba politics, there is little meaning to those words. Oh, yes. The Name of the new Senator from Rio Arriba? Abedon Lopez, Jr., if it makes any difference.

Obviously the belief is that he will only be keeping the seat warm till his father-in-law returns to frank and open power.

Other things which kept the capital city buzzing last week were bills, bribes and ballots.

BILLS: This year's legislative session will probably set a new record for number of bills introduced. Never before have there been so many introductions of what is essentially the same bill—sometimes as many as seven, all but identical. Maybe Senator Ray Sitta has a great idea. He would limit each member to a maximum of six bills in any regular session. If each member could put in only six, the thinking goes, they'd choose more carefully.

BIBES: It seemed to take David

King seven years to remember he had had a bribe offer from Tucson Gas & Electric, and only about eight hours to change his mind. Once reporters started asking why he hadn't reported such an offer, the story changed. It had been very subtle, there wasn't any real proof, and, come to think of it, he wasn't sure it really happened. What did they think a briber walks in with a sack of money and hands it over to the bribee?

BALLOTS: A strange impotence on this important topic. The FBI says categorically of voting machines in Bernalillo county that they were "intentionally misprogrammed"—that is, bolted up—but no action is to follow. A Catron county grand jury says absentee ballots were clearly abused, but there will be no indictments. Was 1978 open season for ballot-tamperers? If so, what can we expect in 1980?

BSI Reports Growth

A record score was marked in 1978 by Bank Securities, Inc. whose final figures for the prior year released today revealed that earnings showed a 32-percent gain over 1977.

BSI's President, Malcolm Petree was elated in reporting the figures for their record year. He said that New Mexico's growth and pace in attracting new citizens has been revealed in their growth figures.

The net earnings, as reported by Petree were $2.155 million during 1978, a 32 percent increase over the $1.625 million in 1977, resulting in earnings per share of $1.22 in 1978 compared to $.94 in 1977.

The preliminary figures also indicate that total assets grew by 4 percent to $387.675 million compared with $373.180 million in 1977.

BSI is a statewide bank holding company with 31 locations in 8 cities and 10 counties throughout New Mexico. The members of the BSI group include: Security Bank & Trust, Alamogordo; Citizens State Bank, Carrizozo; First State Bank, Rio Rancho; American Bank of Carlsbad, Carlsbad; Security Bank, Ruidoso; Ruidoso, American Bank of Commerce, Albuquerque; Security Trust Company, Albuquerque; First National Bank of Fortales, Fortales, and First National Bank of Roswell, Roswell.

Tigerette Sports

The weekend was a hard one for the Tigerettes as they suffered losses from Cloudercroft and Hagerman.

The Friday night game against Cloudercroft was a fourth-quarter scoring spree for the Bears with 20 points where Capitan had six, making the difference in the game. At the beginning of the fourth quarter the score was only 31-32.

Kathy Rodolph for Cloudercroft scored 12 of her 18 points during this time period to put the game away.

For the Tigerettes, Donna Cooper scored 12, Beth Long had 8 and Sally Abercrombie and Becky each had 5.

The Hagerman girls are picked as the team to beat in District, and the Tigerettes found the going against Nelda Miles a tough route. Miles threw in 26 points of the 49 total for the Bobcat girls.

Donna Cooper had a total of 16 points for Capitan and Sally Abercrombie had 9. The final score for the Tigerettes was 33. The difference came in the freethrow percentage as Hagerman was awarded 29 bonus shots to Capitan's 6. Miles made 12 of her 26 points at the line.

This weekend, Capitan hosts Hondo and travels to Lake Arthur in two District contests.

Janitorial Work

opportunity for the students, stopping long enough to see a new picture or hear about a phone call.

Once, three accident victims from Corona were brought by ambulance to the X-ray unit. The entire medical staff as well as the E.M.T. personnel who brought the ambulance were in the corridor of the school. All the students were given a coffee break and told to remain in the coffee room. Their compassion for the victims revealed itself in various ways — Benny retold a story of an accident he saw, Gordon just sat in silence, Janet tried to get all the students to be quiet so as not to scare away the lady (one of the victims).

Besides the work in janitorial services, Sabino has recently acquired the task of supervising one of the Belco contracts. The task is relatively simple for the student, but close supervision is still important to be sure proper habits and skills are developed. The contract is a short-term contract; fixing heat sinks (there are several hundred to do), for Belco Industries. This contract will continue as long as Belco uses this type heat sink. When they do change the heat sink, Sabino will then train a student to screw twelve diodes into each unit. Belco may need as many as seventy-five units per week. The job involves more time than the regular employees of Belco can give to such a routine task. It is these kinds of tasks that the mentally handicapped adapt to well.
