Stackpole Sworn Into School Board

The February Carrizozo School Board meeting saw a new member sworn in. Gail Stackpole was sworn in as a replacement for the outgoing Wes

Lindsey. Ms. Stackpole will take her place in the March meeting. Before the meeting was over the members of the school board expressed their gratitude to Lindsey for his faithful service to the community.

Other items on the agenda included the convening of a hearing concerning some of the parent complaints and the setting of the schedule of interviewing superintendents.

The council saw several styles of Band Uniforms from Mr. Hogeboom. Multi-purpose uniforms were thought to be best, and the request for funds will be considered with the rest.

Doug Whittaker, Phillip Payne, and Gina Sedillo presented an idea to the board for a student lounge study hall. The area that the students have in mind is not being used much right now and the students plan to use their own money to fix the place up. The move for a lounge area is prompted by the kids being near the roads at lunch-time, which is dangerous. The Board took no official action but expressed approval for this idea if some of the problems, such as keeping the area clean, and policing the activities. Whittaker reported that these problems were already anticipated and the students were getting several teachers to volunteer to "be in the area" during their activities.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Carrizozo School Board is March 13th, at 7:30 p.m. in the school board room. The public is invited to attend.

New Judge

30 year old Bob Doughty was selected for the vacancy in the second judgeship of the 12th Judicial District by Governor King last Friday. He will be sworn in this Friday in Otero County.

Carrizozo Town Council To Acquire New Police Car

The Carrizozo Town Council has decided to upgrade their police force with a new patrol car. Town Marshal Morales reported to the council that his unit had gone 300,000 miles and was starting to cost more than it was worth to maintain. The town has started the process of bids.

the water needed until the pressure of the water to the residents there and the water pressure to the rest of the town could be assured. Mayor Jesse English stated that there would be some change in the pressure but he could not tell just how much there would be.

With Spring coming, the town is set to start on the never-ending project of fixing pot-holes in the streets.

The state audit was discussed with the council being informed that the $18,000 figure was reduced to $12,000, with the first $6,000 now being due. The council passed a resolution to pay the $6,000.

Town foreman Emilio Beltran brought up the subject of the purchase of a back-hoe for the town. Estimates on the cost for one ranges from $13,000 for a used one, to $25,000 for a new one. Beltran advised the council to act on this as soon as possible, as prices have been sky-rocketing, and would probably continue to do so. The motion was passed to advertise for bids.

In final action, the town adopted a joint resolution with the Village of Ruidoso to go before the County Commission to ask for assistance in funding of the two public swimming pools.

My Time — By Mike Swickard

In Lincoln County, we are very close to a pre-1776 American status. We have taxation without representation. Not even token representation.

We in Lincoln County have no (0) legislators of our own, no (0) district judges, no (0) district attorney, or even any of our very own social services. The other county, (Otero), gets all of their own, and ours to boot. They get things first, we get what is left. In programs, or money, it is them first, us second.

People point out that we have a vote. Sure we get to pull the lever, much like in Russia, for the deck is stacked against us. Oddly enough, it is the exact same situation with the state of New Mexico and the rest of the union. All of the heavily populated Eastern states rape New Mexico for our fossil fuel, paying less than we do for the fuel, and make us do it with the "one man, one vote" theory.

Lincoln County is sparsely populated, compared to Otero County, and so the game of one-man, one-vote goes on. They get things first, we second, they get what they want, we get what is left, (if anything).

This situation reminds me of the time that an old Georgia farmer and his helper took a load of horse manure from Pensburg to Torrville, a distance of about thirty miles. Now all of you who come from that neck of the country know that there are three toll bridges between Pensburg and Torrville.

Well, when the farmer came to the first toll bridge he stopped and asked the gatekeeper the amount of the toll. "Whatcha got in the wagon?" asked the gatekeeper.

The farmer told him, "I got a load of horse manure and a helper."

"That'll be twenty-five cents," said the gatekeeper.

The farmer paid his two bits and went on. A couple of hours later he came to the second toll bridge. Once more he asked how much the toll was, and once more the gatekeeper asked what was in the wagon.

"A load of horse manure and my helper," replied the farmer.

Twenty-five cents said the gatekeeper.

The farmer paid his bill and went on. A little while later the farmer came to the third toll bridge and the same conversation took place.

"How much is it to cross?" asked the farmer.

"Whatcha got in the wagon?" replied the tollgate man.

Before the farmer could answer, his helper piped up loudly from the back of the wagon, "Hey, boss, would you mind putting me first before that big pile of horse manure for a change." MS

One other thing to mention about Otero County in the same breath. First the reader should know that there is never any appreciable competition between a daily newspaper such as the Alamogordo Daily News, and a weekly newspaper such as the Lincoln County News, so these remarks are merely observations.

I have watched with amusement at the attempts of the Alamogordo Daily News to move into Lincoln County. Alas, they have one major problem. They don't even cover Otero County adequately, much less Lincoln County. It is an American Legacy that we Americans tend to try to sweep our neighbors walks, before we sweep our own. What makes it more unbelievable that the Alamogordo Daily News would try to expand into Lincoln County is that the area is already being well served by the Roswell Daily Record, an award winning newspaper in every aspect. The Roswell paper is far superior which is why it is already so heavily read in Lincoln County, (including me). Nice try (almost) Alamogordo Daily News. MS

Rumble Bars Entering Carrizozo Aids Drivers

The situation is very common. You are driving on a long stretch of road on a hot afternoon. There are no turns for 45 miles and you find yourself nodding a bit and suddenly you are on top of a potentially dangerous situation, almost faster than if you were subjected to many of these situations because you have become road hypnotized.

Coming into Carrizozo from Tularosa is just one such situation. The driver has almost no turns for 45 straight miles, and then a real sharp 25 mph turn in town. The critical speed for this turn is 35 mph. The approach to the curve is provided with advance warning signs with 25 mph advisory and legal speed posted. There are two legal speed zones with speed breaks from 55 mph to 45 mph, and then the 45 mph to 25 mph.

However this approach is slightly downhill and may drivers, especially interstate truck drivers may be inattentive, due to being tired, or the road hypnotism of driving 45 miles in a straight line or drug usage, or alcohol, or is the real case, a combination of all of these factors.

When someone is inattentive, or road hypnotized, the normal sign and flashing lights at the curve are not effective because he really can't see them. The town residents of Carrizozo have witnessed many accidents at their doorstep, but finally someone has done something that seems to be the answer.

J&J Plastic Company of Artesia have developed a product that is being used by the State Highway Department called Rumble Strips. Anyone that has used that road recently probably has noticed them.

Jerry France of J&J Plastic stated for the NEWS, "We needed something that alerted more than one of the senses. With signs and flashing lights you only get people that are visually alert. With rumble strips, you have an audible sound, a visual message, and most important a vibration that easily attracts a straying mind back to the situation."

These strips of which there are three sets just south of the turn, are also set in a spacing that if the driver maintains his speed or speeds up, the driver has a psychological feeling that he is speeding up. In other words, the strips are a certain distance apart in the first group of strips, and then are closer together in the second and even closer in the third set. This gives a rising tempo to the sounds and feelings of the drivers that don't slow down, causing them to feel as if they were in fact speeding up.

Most drivers will be surprised to find that these rumble strips are actually not as high off of the ground as were the conventional buttons. The strips are approximately 3/8 inch in height and 6 inches in width. The buttons that have been on the turn have been twice as high and a danger to motorcycle riders. This seemingly very slight elevation is sufficient to produce the desired effect because it is not high enough to activate the hydraulic shock mechanisms in cars. The shock although slight is therefore transmitted directly through the springs and steering column to the driver. This is effective with large trucks as well as the cars because the 60 to 120 lbs. of air pressure in truck tires transmits the effect as well as the softer tires on smaller vehicles.

These strips are easy to see day or night, easy to hear, and easy to feel. If it snows, the only thing that can cover up the strips, the drivers most likely won't be speeding into town.

These strips are the first in New Mexico to be applied in advance of a particularly hazardous location.

The material that these are made of is an epoxy-aggregate strip which is bonded to the pavement surface with an Epoxy-aggregate mastic.

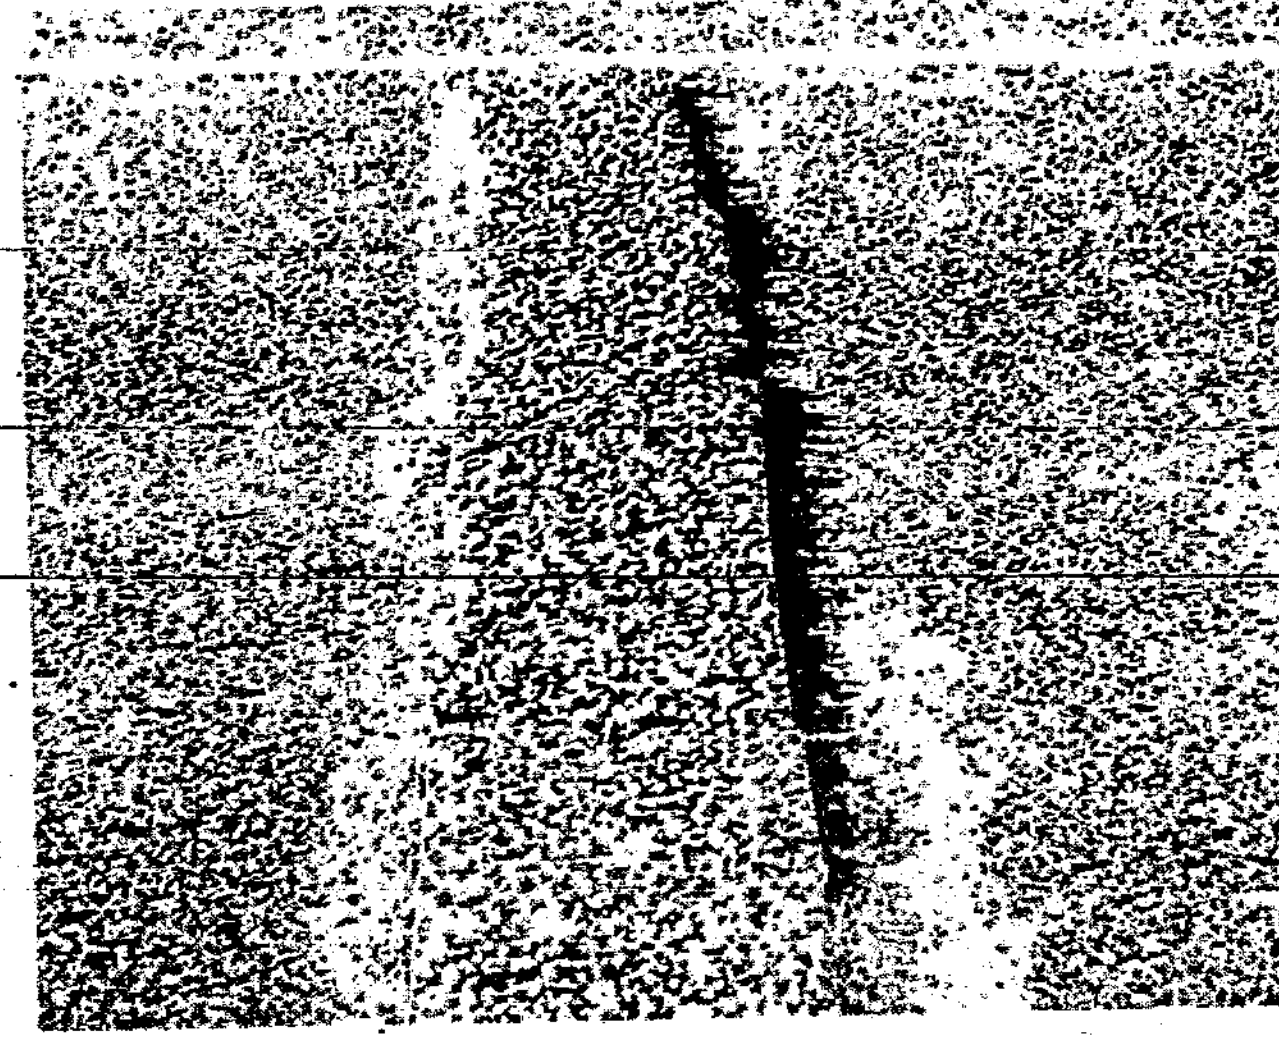

The effectiveness of the bars can be seen by the skid marks well out of town as these inattentive drivers wake up. Through the combination of the sensory signals, audio, visual, and tactual, the driver should be alerted even though he is inattentive, tired, or under the influence of alcohol or drugs, or as is the case most often, all of the above.

The application of these systems by J&J Plastics working in conjunction with State Highway Department District Two traffic supervisors, is economical in comparison to other systems and is applicable in remote areas where no electrical power is available for flashing beacons.

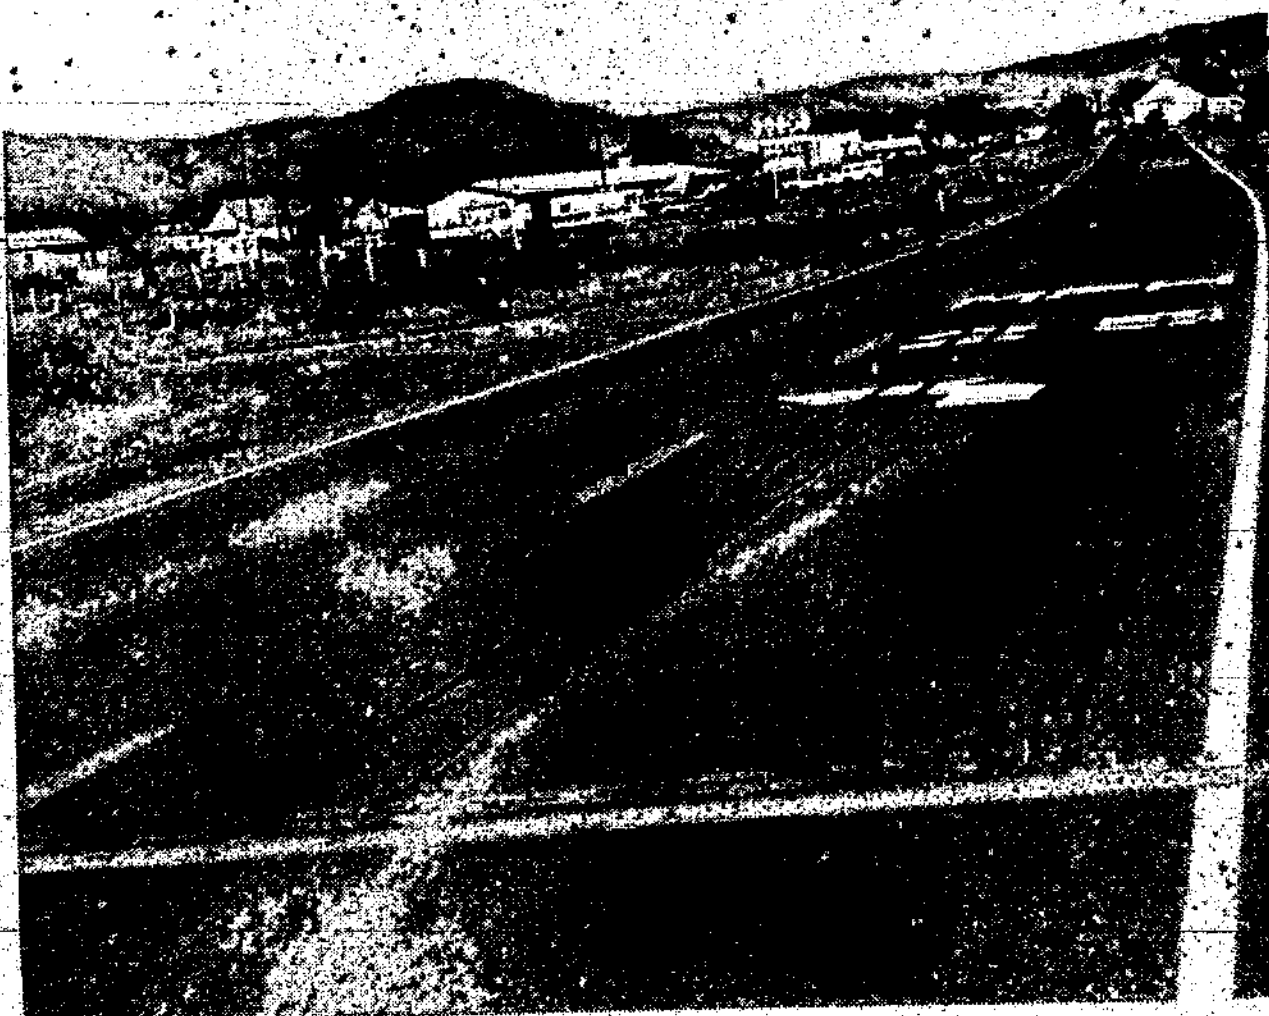

The system is still experimental, but as Jerry France says, "All short term indications are that this system is very effective in meeting design objectives."

The installation at Carrizozo along with other planned locations will be monitored closely by the State Highway Department Traffic officials for effectiveness in slowing down and waking up drivers to potential hazards, as well as reducing accident frequency and severity in high accident locations.

3/8 inch high and literally a lifesaver. The Rumble Strip.

A truck driver seems to have awakened mid-way through the second set of rumble bars, long before he has an accident.

The question of banking the curve was never considered. The curve could be banked, but then the excessive speed and driver inattention problem would end up at the children's crosswalk in town. "Better at the edge of town than in the town, but no longer the problem it was, now that the Rumble Strips are in place" says Jerry France.

Families In Crisis Offered Services

The Volunteer Shelter Bed Program (VSBP) is offering a new approach to a continuing problem: how to deal effectively with runaways, youth "beyond control" of their parents, and other troubled adolescents. The youngsters and their families receive immediate counseling from specially trained personnel. The goal is to improve communication among family members thereby keeping the child in the family unit, to send the youngster home rather than to court or a detention facility, and to deal with the problem at the time of crisis rather than days, weeks, or even months later. The counseling is immediate, intensive and short-term.
Local juvenile probation and law enforcement officers are participating in the program by referring children and their families to the VSBP coordinator immediately upon the youths contact with the officer. In this way children and their families are not involved with formal court proceedings and the officer knows that constructive intervention is taking place. It is intended that this intervention will help prevent additional offenses from being committed by juveniles and concurrently reduce court related costs. Children who have committed a status offense (an act that would not be a crime if committed by and adult) or a minor delinquent offense are eligible for the program.
Family crisis counseling service began in January in most of the areas served by the Volunteer Shelter Bed Program. The other service offered by the VSB is to provide licensed foster care to status offenders and abused and neglected children in need of shelter. Eighty-seven New Mexico families are currently offering their homes, care, and attention to children in need and have already housed over two hundred children. Placements are short-term, usually no more than ten days. The VSB coordinator maintains daily contact with the family and child while the child is in placement and is available to the family on a twenty-four hour basis. Non-foster parent volunteers are also helping the program by providing services such as transportation, after school supervision, and participation in recruiting.
Services are provided in the following locations: Alamogordo, Carrizozo and Ruidoso. For more details write to:

Letter to The Editor
Mr. Mike Swickard, Editor
Lincoln County News
Dear Mike:
Would you please put this following article in the Lincoln County News on my junior varsity girls basketball season. I believe the girls would appreciate some coverage and I want to thank you for your interest in Capitan basketball.
"The Capitan junior varsity girls ended their season Saturday night, Feb. 17, on a winning note, by walloping the Corona Cardinals 54-9. Valarie Luna led the scoring with 16 points, followed by Claudia Brannum with 10 points, Jana Parker 6, Lynda Townley 5, Cathleen Story 5, Karen Morerod 4, Regina Lobb 4, Debbie Womack 4, plus Patti Huey and Delois Hobbs.
The Capitan J.V. had a fine season, winning 9 and losing 5. The girls were very effective on defense this year by allowing opponents only 23 points a game. Outstanding on offense this year were Jana Parker, Valerie Luna, Regina Lobb and Claudia Brannum. Leading rebounders were Lynda Townley and Jennifer McCarroll. Karen Morerod did an outstanding job directing the offense.
"I was very pleased with the play of the J.V. girls this year, even though most of our practices lacked enough players. The main thing I like about this group was their team play and their attitude of never giving up."
Sincerely yours,
Richard E. House
Basketball Coach

Looking Back Through Our Files

— by Jackie —

1969 — TEN YEARS AGO

Miss Luellen Harkey was presented at a student recital by Mrs. Jane Shafer Tuesday evening in the multi-purpose room of Manire Elementary school. A guest performer during the evening was Dolores McBride who played the electric guitar and Mr. and Mrs. Barry Wahrmond who sang three selections. Mr. Bud Ward and children spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ward. Mr. and Mrs. Miles Waldon and son Neal of Mountainair spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hefker. Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Waldon of Corona joined them for dinner and visiting Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gallacher and Wally and Ann Ferguson went to Roswell Monday. James Lueras, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony L. Lueras was the lucky winner of a 24 inch bicycle at St. Rita Parish Sunday. Dee Ann Jackson was home over the weekend from ENMU at Portales. She had as her guests Mary Margaret Brown, Sherry, Canady, and Lana Schultz. The Jacksons and their guests accompanied by Leeland Jackson attended the basketball game in Carrizozo and the dance in Corona Saturday evening. Donna Jo May of New Mexico State University visited with her parents over the weekend. Student Council Convention delegates returned from Carlsbad Saturday and reported an especially good convention. Thursday evening 1200 high school students and sponsors toured the Carlsbad Caverns.

1959 — TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Carrizozo High School band, 28 in number, will be in Socorro Saturday, attending an invitational all-day band clinic. Bands from Belen, Grants, Magdalena and other schools will attend. Mrs. John Allen Hightower and Mrs. Walt Wilson were in El Paso for two days last week. Friday Sherrill, Vernon Petty and Roy Shafer attended Masonic Grand Lodge in Roswell.

The Carrizozo Woman's Club is sponsoring Miss Opal McBrayer for Queen of the Apple Blossom Festival. A fascinating telephone exhibit on wheels will be in Carrizozo. The displays trace the development of the telephone in America, from its invention through today's miracles in communication. Mrs. George Creel won the first prize of $25 in merchandise at the opening of Olma's Style Shop in Ruidoso. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Petty and Mr. and Mrs. Wenzell Rickerson entertained the Carrizozo basketball team, cheerleaders and coaches Tuesday evening at dinner.

1939 — FORTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walker of Carlsbad are the new managers of the B & M store.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Walker purchased the Stewart residence. Dink Myers of White Oaks accepted a post at Ft. Stanton. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Zumwalt left for an extended trip through the Southwest. Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Turner were in Minneapolis for a few days' visit. Lt. T. A. Spencer Jr. stopped in Carrizozo en route to his duties in the Army Air Corps in California. Coach Caton left with the Grizzlies for the divisional basketball tournament at Roswell.

Mrs. Wayne Van Schoyck left for Tucumcari where her husband opened a Whites Auto Store. H. Hoeness, jeweler of Tuscon, located in Carrizozo. R. G. Crisp of Ft. Sumner opened a pool and billiard hall in a portion of the Carrizozo Trading Co. R. L. Howell reported bringing in a good water well near Gran Quiyira at a depth of about 700 feet. The well was located southwest of the Corn's headquarters. A Camouflage Jazz Ball was being planned at Ft. Stanton on St. Patrick's Day. Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Campbell, Ed C. Monroe, M. B. Bulla and F. W. Gurney were in Chicago on business concerning a patent for an automatic railroad stop. Joe R. Adams came in from Douglas, Arizona. Roman St. John wrote from Germany that he expected to be home soon but Marshall St. John was still assigned with the Army of Occupation.

1919 — SIXTY YEARS AGO

Eclipses of the sun occur when the moon is perfectly aligned between the Earth and the sun. Partial eclipses are observable somewhere on Earth on the average of twice a year, but another total eclipse visible from North America won't occur until 2017. According to New Mexico State University astronomy department head Herbert Beebe, nearly all of the continent will experience at least a partial eclipse of the sun. The total eclipse will be confined to a 175-mile-wide corridor starting in the Pacific Ocean, passing through Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, parts of Canada, and ending in Greenland about 80 minutes later. Observers just east of Lake Winnipeg in Manitoba will experience the longest period of total eclipse: 2 minutes, 52 seconds. In New Mexico, the eclipse will take place 8-10:30 a.m., reaching its maximum at 9:15 a.m. when more than 70 percent of the sun will be blocked by the moon. Beebe warned that observing the sun directly or through unsafe filters at any time can cause painless but permanent eye damage. The eclipse itself holds no special danger, he said, but people are more likely to look at the sun during an eclipse and the hazard is no less even when most of the sun is covered. The astronomer advised several safe methods for viewing the sun. One can look through a shade No. 13 arc-welder's glass, available from welding supply firms, or through several layers of totally exposed and developed black-and-white photographic film. It is not safe to use smoked glass, polarized material, color film, sun glasses, or improperly filtered binoculars or telescopes. Another safe way to observe an eclipse, Beebe said, is to project the sun's image. This is done by allowing the sun's rays to pass through a pin hole in a piece of cardboard to fall on a second piece of cardboard or paper. The viewer then observes the projected image about one-half inch in size some four feet from the pin hole on the side opposite the sun. The pin hole can be one-sixteenth to one-eighth inch in diameter; the larger the hole, the brighter but fuzzier the image. Although 70 percent of the sun will be covered by the moon, Beebe said, light reduction probably will not seem unusual unless the day is perfectly clear. Then the darkened sky, resembling early evening, will be noticeable. Although partial eclipses are interesting phenomena, Beebe said, they do not have the research value of total eclipses and the NMSU observatory staff plan no research-oriented observations of the February eclipse.

Total Eclipse Monday, Feb. 26

A Dash of Fact!!
 Like television's Dr. Marcus Welby, there are more than 11,000 certified F.P.'s. They will do everything from delivering babies and setting bones to patching up family quarrels. In emergencies, they will even make house calls. These Doctors must pass tough exams before certification by the American Board of family practice.
A Pinch of Humor!
 For travel to be delightful, one must have a good place to leave and return to.
 Having put on a good deal of weight since graduation, I couldn't decide whether I wanted to go to my class reunion or not. A note from a long ago best friend gave me the courage to go. She signed off "Dieting to see you again."
A hint about Plants
 The plant of the month — Pansy: They are wonderful to plant in February they can stand very cold weather. You may start them in the house—but it isn't to cold to put them outside.
A hint of Fun to make!!
 Pack an old glove almost full with filling material. Place a metal canning lid on top of stuffing (at cuff) and sew the edges securely, driss-crossing across the lid; glue a screw lid over cuff end. Cover with fabric and decorative braid trim. These can be used to hold rings, pins, car keys, etc.

 I heard through the grape vine that I left something out of the "four" recipe the last time I put it in the paper. So here it is again.
 1 box of brown sugar
 2 1/2 cups sugar (white)
 2 1/2 lb. butter
 1 bottle of light or dark caro
 1 quart of cream (thick)
 Mix all the above ingredients together in a pan stir on stove until it comes to a boil, then add the other pint of cream while the candy is still boiling. Cook until it comes to a soft firm ball (238 F.).
Around the Bowl
 Opel Greer is being missed in the post office, however Linda needs a good hand for taking over so well? We had a few visitors this week. Mr. and Mrs. E. Brieger's son Randy and Daughter-in-law came for a whirl-wind weekend from Colorado.
 The Marlo Sharpe's aren't visitors anymore, they are snug in their little home in Nogal quite often, it was nice to see Paula also this week-end. We hope May Sharpe is doing well and that we will see her this summer.

NOTICE
 If you have visitors please call me, phone 354-2389, and let me know, any time night or day. "Your visitors would enjoy reading about their visit."
FLASH! FLASH!
 The Carrizozo Health Center will sponsor a health and diet program on Monday night at 7:00 at the Old Hospital in Carrizozo. This is a public meeting to work out details. Ursula Hansteen (nurse) will be there to answer any questions and to give it a good start. See you there—come on lets lose some weight. By now till next week—Robie.

Close Encounters Of A Special Kind

-- by Gail Stackpole

The major structures of the program at the Zia School for Developmental Services have appeared in the Lincoln County News for the past six weeks. In any program, there are many elements that cannot be neatly categorized, yet they add a great dimension to the program. This last article will deal with these elements. Belinda Hernandez is the "Girl

Friday" of the staff who keeps her eyes and ears open to discover the tempo of the students. Belinda was raised in Durango, Colorado, and came to Carrizozo in 1971. In her years before coming to work at Zia, Belinda was a waitress at the Central Cafe, a clerk at Paden's Drug Store, and a bookkeeper receptionist at the Carrizozo Health Center. She has a son in kindergarten in the Carrizozo Schools. Her husband works at Fort Stanton and knows the students with whom Belinda works.

The moment the students arrive in the morning, the lobby of the school hums. All the staff greet the students and hear the tales of woe or joy that happened since they left the previous afternoon. Roy gets a signal from Belinda if her plants need watering. He has named her plants Rufus and Cuddles. Sometimes Ella wants her hair combed and Belinda becomes a beautician. Belinda has a definite gift for working with the mentally handicapped student. When Janet cut her finger in the kitchen, Belinda bandaged it. Special care is high on the students' value list. Suddenly, everyone had a small cut or scratch that they felt needed a bandaid -- Belinda said some looked a week old!

The office demands her energy, too: filling out school lunch program reports, preparing student payroll envelopes, typing, answering the phone and tracking down the staff person called -- these are some of the "regular" tasks that fill her day. Her office is in the mainstream of traffic and so she frequently gets interrupted. There are questions from the students that never seem to end; the students will stop just to see how she is; students come to get her to go see how they are doing. A ready smile or laugh, a bubbling personality, and a warm spirit make Belinda one of the students' favorites.

Part of the "normalization" process discussed in the first article in this series takes place as students learn what is socially acceptable behavior. The students have an opportunity to practice this when they go to Jackie's Cafe each week for lunch. Jackie Martin says, "I think the program has been real good for them. We really look forward to their time with us. They are well-mannered." The women who serve the students had comments also. Rita Barcala says, "They are all very nice and behave very well. They are well-mannered." Quirina Jaramillo smiled and said, "They are very friendly. They always say hi!, and wave to us." With much enthusiasm in her voice, Margaret Nickason said, "I think they're wonderful. They're just great!"

While funding was available, the students also got to go to the Carrizozo Recreation Center for bowling each week. Marcos Villescascas says, "I wish everyone who came here behaved as well as your kids. They are real polite. They really enjoy bowling, too. I wish more people in town enjoyed it that much." Lola Villescascas confessed, "I get nervous when they come because I don't know what to say to them. But they are real nice and I feel bad when they can't come. I always make sure I'm here when they do come."

At Christmas time the students took monies they had saved and went shopping in Carrizozo. Some bought presents for their families; some bought presents for themselves. The merchants were marvelous during this experience. One of the boys bought himself a good tape player at Gamble's; then he did not have enough money for a tape. Ken Means gave him a tape that he had. Connie wanted a necklace for her sister and came up two dollars short; Carrie Magee gave it to her anyway. After lunch, Connie had some money left and went back and paid her.

The art of conversation is developed at informal times. Besides the arrival time for sharing, the students get a coffee break in the morning and the afternoon. The staff takes a break then, too, and visits with the students, discussing families, football games, and summer camp. The family-style lunch also teaches the students how to ask for something to be passed to them and teaches the other students to be attentive to requests. A lot of teasing goes on at these times. Some of the students can take it very well; for others, it is a social grace they still have to learn. The staff teases each other and allows the students to tease them in order to model this behavior.

The art of conversation not only serves the socialization process; it also helps the students to develop clearer speech habits. The school is fortunate to have a volunteer who has come forward to work on basic communication skills with the students. Elinor Olson comes on Friday morning and has selected four students with whom she will begin to work. The objective is to make their speech more intelligible so they can be understood by everyone and not just by those who have "learned" to understand them.

Helping with this language development for one student is a reading program. Russell wanted to learn to read. The technique being used with him is the Laubach Literacy, Inc. method. It is a 0-5th grade reading-writing program for adult students. Gail Stackpole attended a workshop in late October at La Junta Ranch in Alto to learn to use this method. It is proving very successful. Russell's progress is limited by the time Gail must spend on articulation because Russell has very poor speech habits.

Besides the reading program, Gail has been involved in teaching the students about the working world. Trying to translate words like "reliability", "cooperation", and "punctual" into visible realities takes creativity and repetition. Learning to associate the written symbol for a number with the spoken name of it is a preliminary to learning to tell time. Some students grasp it quickly; others never will.

Staff development is also part of Gail's job. She directs the staff meetings several times a week, leading the staff through exercises which help them to know themselves better, like themselves more, and enjoy being together as a staff. She finds this a very rewarding part of her job because the staff have been open to share of themselves and open to receive what others share.

The third part of Gail's job is public relations. She enjoys the chance to talk with people about the program. She has visited a wide variety of clubs showing a film on the training of mentally handicapped adults. She has even been invited back by a few of the clubs for a second presentation on the prevention of retardation. She has also visited the Carrizozo and Capitan High School with the slide presentation on the prevention of retardation. She hopes to visit Corona, Hondo, and Ruidoso in March which is Mental Retardation Month. The series of articles which have appeared in the Lincoln County News has been an attempt by her to inform the community about the school. Gail hopes the Campbell's Label for Education Campaign will profit the school not only materially but also in the area of community relations.

Gail came to Carrizozo in 1976 and quickly became involved in the community through participation in the woman's club. She loves Carrizozo and is delighted to have found a job here that allows her to use many of her skills and talents. Her background in education as a teacher as well as a director of a program for education makes her an asset to the training aids. Her experience and training in personal growth and development as well as group dynamics keep her sensitive to what is happening at staff meetings and able to direct the staff through fruitful meetings.

The program structure plus the many extra elements make being a part of the Zia School a rewarding experience for students and staff. If a staff member is absent, the students will tell her him, "I missed you" when they return. Each staff member is special to the others. So to borrow the theme title from the southwest regional conference of the National Association for Retarded Citizens, you could say that the Zia School is a "Close Encounter of a Special Kind."

Sense & Nonsense. — U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Auto makers these days seem to be continually recalling their products to correct defects.

Likewise tire manufacturers and a number of other businesses suffering the malady of supplying rapid demand with defective products.

I believe Congress should take a page from that recall primer.

Members of Congress are often afflicted with "legislationitis," or "rush-to-legislate," maladies that contribute to the burgeoning laws, rules, and regulations that dominate our lives.

Because of the escalating number of bills, quality control is a stepchild in hand-me-down apparel.

The United States Senate, as envisioned by the Founding Fathers, was established as a deliberative body to enhance, modify, or even axe legislation proposed by the House of Representatives.

As we're all well aware, the upper chamber has evolved into much more than that.

We are besieged by legislative proposals from all corners. Great ideas hatched by brilliant minds.

But those great ideas that result in legislation are often later amended by their own authors. In the real-world the laws were simply unworkable. And, worse, they have often harmed the very people they intended to help.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, has proposed a "sunset" provision for various types of legislation. But I wonder how well even this good idea will work in the chaotic world of the Senate, where we have little time for a good first view of the programs, let alone effective "oversight."

Now comes proposed Senate rules changes that would make it easier for laws to be passed, through debate limitations and amended cloture rules. What we need are fewer laws, not more.

And I intend to fight rules changes that will make it easier to add to the glut of legislation.

The American Council of Education's Higher Education Panel has recently completed a study which shows that 46 percent of colleges and universities that award professional degrees, or degrees above the master's level, have at least one formal program specifically designed for female or minority graduate students.

A report entitled "Special Programs for Female and Minority Graduate Students" is available from the Higher Education Panel, American Council on Education, 1 Dupont Circle, Washington, D.C. 20036.

This item recently appeared in the Washington Post. I pass it on to give you an idea of how things function here:

Overheard on a House subway car: Sen. Paul E. Tsongas, D-Mass., visiting with a former House colleague, was asked how he had missed the assignment he had sought to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"I had the commitments. I just didn't have the votes," replied Tsongas.

"I didn't know there was a difference," said colleague.

"Neither did I," signed Tsongas.

Now is the time to start watching your livestock for poisoning from spring weeds. The moisture we have received lately is going to start them growing with the first warm weather. One of the first plants to watch for is Peavine or annual locb. It is sometimes called Texas Filarice. The red stemmed peavine is the most common plant in the area. Livestock do very well on this plant for two or three weeks and then suddenly fall dead. Generally other animals will show poisoning symptoms. One of the first noticeable symptoms is lack of coordination when they first get up. It is sometimes called "clicker's disease" as the hind legs and dew claws hit or click as the animals start walking. The poisoning is caused by an alkaloid.

There is no cure, but livestock owners need to either move the animals or feed them heavier to avoid the poisoning problems. Feed sheep up to two pounds of hay and cattle up to six pounds hay per day. Control of peavine is not practical as the seed can lay out several years before the good winter moisture causes the seed to germinate and grow. If you catch you animals early, you can often prevent any losses.

I have had several people ask "what are calves going to bring this fall?" This is a very hard question to answer; but I expect both lamb and calf prices to be strong for 1979. The Livestock Weekly has some fall contracts for some 750 pound yearling No. 1 okie steers at 75 cents per pound. I expect calves in this area to be 10 to 15 cents above that.

The feeder calf sales for the last few weeks has been extremely good. Reports are that these calves are going to Arizona-California - where the spring weeds are good and these calves will gain well until about June 1st.

The Epilepsy

Chapter of South

Eastern New Mexico

The Epilepsy Chapter of South Eastern New Mexico met recently in Roswell at the Roswell library. The purpose for this meeting is to promote general welfare of epileptics.

To encourage research related to Epilepsy and its consequences, to counsel toward the solution of their problems and problems of their families and to coordinate their efforts and activities, and to develop a better understanding of the problems of the Epileptic by the public. This corporation is a non-profit, non-political, non-sectarian organization. Epilepsy is not a contagious disease. But is a symptom of a brain disorder.

The next meeting will be March 1st at 7:00 p.m. at the Pioneer Savings and Loan in Roswell.

Bigbee's Legislative Report

Tax relief continues to be the most important question facing the Legislature. I still maintain that selective exemptions such as food is not the most equitable approach and will hurt the cities, all of whom are highly dependent on gross receipts taxes. Property Taxes is the area showing the most problems statewide and it is here we should address relief first.

Speaking of taxes, I have a bill to give the employer the option of withholding income taxes on his employee's wages. This would not only give the businessman one less form and responsibility to fill out, but would also give the worker the money due him.

I have been working on a bill that would give smaller school districts facing consolidation the authority to ask for contract education services to be based on student performance. The State Department of Education has now decided they have the authority to do this when requested by the local board.

On Education, I am also pushing a bill that would make Bilingual Education available to anyone who wished to participate instead of only the culturally deprived and linguistically different children.

There is a hearing scheduled this Friday for the opponents of Right-To-Work. I would anticipate that the Bill will be reported to the House sometime next week. In answer to the hundreds of cards I have received, I can assure you I will support Right-to-Work.

I should like to invite any school classes who are able to do so, to plan a day at the Legislature. Please call me at 827-3131 or write me at the State Capitol, Room 316-B if you would like a tour arranged.

Basketball Season Comes To An End For Tigerettes

The Basketball season is coming to a quick close this week as the Tigerettes enter the Girl's District Tournament beginning Tuesday.

The Tigerettes finished regular season play Friday against Weed and Saturday against Corona. They lost to Weed 33-44, but Sally Abercrombie led all scorers with 15 points, and Donna Cooper had 10.

Saturday's score ended at 40-37 culminating a 26 point 4th-quarter to catch-up and pass the hard-playing Cardinals. Abercrombie again had 10 high points for the Tigerettes.

The Tigerettes are seeded in fifth place after a 3-way tie with Weed and Carrizozo and Capitán in first place and they will automatically advance to the finals with their 6-0 record in District competition.

Second place is held by Cloudcroft with a 5-1 record and then Weed at 3-3.

Dental Service For Corona

The Dental Clinic will hold an all day dental prevention program in Corona Tuesday, March 6. Dr. & Mrs. Dale Goad will be at the Corona school speaking to the children in grades 1-6 from 10:00 - 12:00. The afternoon will be spent at the health center with Ursula Hanstien. Dr. Goad will be there to screen patients and answer questions.

Capitan Board OK's Elementary Building

The Capitan School Board, following recommendations from faculty and the superintendent, agreed to plan construction of a new elementary building.

The agreement was based upon the amount of money for the project. The $870,000 Bond addition to 2 mill levy money will be sufficient to cover the cost of an elementary building but will not be enough to cover the cost of a high school complex. The high school would include grades 7-12, the elementary Kindergarten through 6.

No word on Capital Outlay had been received, so the board proceeded with the scheduling of the bond money. Superintendent Clifton told the board that Quinn and Co. has published the sale of the bonds and the actual sale would begin soon.

Clifton also reported he has contacted Senators Bigbee and Conway about the Capital Outlay as well as the Capitol Outlay Committee. He was told by the committee, Capitan School was still "in the pot."

Architect Jerry Lake told Clifton the quicker the school gets the bid out, the better the school will be. He cited the rising costs of building.

A discussion on the present high school expressed the concern about the condition of the building. Board member Richard Phillips asked what will happen if the school does not receive Capitol Outlay. "Do we leave the high school the way it is?" he asked. Clifton replied with a report concerning the insurance claim on the burned gymnasium. The latest figure to remodel the gym is about $104,000. This included architect fees.

Small Town Development Workshop To Be Held In Carrizozo March 6

Carrizozo will be playing host to an interesting group of people on March 5, 6, & 7. The people making up the group are all interested in formulating a strategy on Small Town Development. The Workshop will include specialists from several Western States. They are all a part of the Western Rural Development Center. The Chamber of Commerce is asking the Community to help this workshop by visiting with the people attending. They will be meeting in the Ruidoso State Bank, Carrizozo Branch, Conference Room.

The workshop will officially begin on Tuesday at 7:00 a.m. with a Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting. The first session will begin at 8:30 at the Bank. Visitors from the town are welcome at any time, including lunch at the 4-Winds.

The Western Rural Development Center is one of four centers nationwide established through the Rural Development Act of 1972. The Western Rural Development Center covers 13 Western States, including New Mexico. The broad charge of the Center is to encourage application of research results to rural communities throughout the west. To accomplish this objective, the Western Rural Development Center funds several projects each year which address problems of small communities. Recent projects have included health care, tax problems, community water and sewer services and economic development. The model used by the Center is one that requires multi-state cooperation in the project. Thus, a project must directly benefit small communities and have more than one state involved in implementation of the project. The project scheduled to have its first meeting in Carrizozo on March 5-7 will involve research and extension personnel from several states, including economists, sociologists, and other disciplines with expertise to offer small towns. Research and extension specialists from Colorado and Montana have accepted the invitation to be in Carrizozo, California, Arizona, Washington, and Oregon may send representatives as well. The purpose of the Carrizozo meeting will be to investigate the possibilities of development in small communities. Current efforts are to focus on improving the economic development potential of small towns. Mary Ellen Payne, Chamber of Commerce President is asking all citizens to take part in this workshop. "It could mean a lot to Carrizozo and its future," she said.

Community Ed Center Sets Stage For Classes

A Pot Luck dinner and a film will set the Lincoln County Community Education Center moving toward the first series of classes. The dinner will be held March 7, 6:30 p.m. at the Capitan School Cafeteria. The film "A Sense of Community," describes community education programs and processes, and is intended to give a clearer view of what community education can do. Anyone interested in the dinner should call Marlene Lohs at 251-2264. Classes scheduled for March will be first Aid, Lincoln County Historical Roundtable and Income Tax Preparation.

First Aid will be held March 27, April 3 and April 17, 7 - 10 p.m. The class is open to all ages and the instructor requests students either wear jeans or bring a blanket. Co-ordinator Mary Allred can be contacted at 354-2274. March 11 will be the first meeting of the Lincoln County Historical Roundtable. At 2 p.m., the Roundtable will serve as a voice for older citizens of the area. Income Tax Preparation will be March 13 and 20, 7 - 9 p.m. at Capitan School. This will be a class on basic tax preparation. All classes are free. A $50 donation from Joseph Donahoe of Capitan was received to help defray the cost of mailing and publicity. The organizational group plans to publish a newsletter. Organizational meetings are open to all persons in the area. Aluminum can collection was agreed for a money project at a recent meeting. The Community Education Center has been in the planning for three months and now has expanded to a sizeable group with three classes scheduled. Lorraine Sanchez, who was instrumental in the formation of the Center will be attending an all-day workshop in Albuquerque. She has been nominated secretary to the New Mexico Association for Community Education. The workshop will be in conjunction with the election of officers for the association. Workshops presented by the Community Education Mobile Training Institute have attracted four persons. A March workshop in Fort Worth will train Community Education Co-ordinators and personnel. Shop Rite Foods, Inc. Moves To Duke City

Shop Rite Foods, Inc., which owns and operates 42 Piggly Wiggly supermarkets in New Mexico and West Texas including Lincoln County's Carrizozo Store is moving its corporate headquarters to Albuquerque from Grand Prairie, Texas, next month.

The number of people to be employed in the main office is estimated at 45 by Aubrey Jones, executive vice president of Shop Rite Foods. Altogether, some 1,324 people are employed by Shop Rite throughout the two-state area.

With its purchase of Boston Stores in the Amarillo area in 1958, Shop Rite acquired Piggly Wiggly stores in Clovis and Roswell, and the company's merger with Food Mart of El Paso in 1965 brought stores in Silver City, Carrizozo, Alamogordo, and Truth or Consequences under the Shop Rite-Piggly Wiggly banner.

Dr. Craig Nelson announced today that Nancy Guck will join his practice as a Medex. Medex Guck has just completed the first phase of Medex (physician's assistant) training with the Utah MEDEX Project at the University of Utah Medical Center in Salt Lake City. She is one of 17 members of the ninth class the project has trained to assist overworked physicians in the intermountain area.

Completes MEDEX Training - Nancy Guck

Dr. Nelson, who is a member of the Clinical Faculty of the College of Medicine's Department of Family and Community Medicine, will serve as Medex Guck's "preceptor" or teacher for the second phase of the program. During the next 7-9 months, Medex Guck will work under Dr. Nelson's direct supervision, performing part of physical examinations, taking patient histories, suturing minor lacerations, performing laboratory tests, assisting at surgery, and completing numerous other medical tasks for which she has been trained.

All Medex must have had extensive previous medical training and experience, in military or civilian settings, before they can be considered for the program. Prior to her selection, from more than 500 applicants for MEDEX training, Nancy spent six years in the medical field as a practical nurse. In addition to her nursing training, she has completed an Emergency medical technician course and has received training in laboratory procedures. For the three years immediately prior to her selection, Nancy worked for the Carrizozo Health Center. She will reside with her husband Tom and their two children in Nogal.

At the conclusion of preceptorship, Medex Guck will likely join Dr. Nelson's practice on a permanent basis, thereby extending his capacity to provide high quality health care to increased numbers of patients. The Utah MEDEX Program, sponsored by the Department of Family and Community Medicine and the Utah State Medical Association, was established at the University of Utah Medical Center in June 1971. The program is fully accredited by the American Medical Association as a program to train primary care physician's assistants. To date, over 135 Medex have been trained by the program and over 75 percent are located in intermountain region communities of less than 25,000 population.

Letter to The Editor

Editor
Lincoln County News
Carrizozo, N. Mex.

Dear Mike,
I am very concerned about the frequent visits to Carrizozo by the young people of Mr. Moon's Unification Church. Maybe the people of Carrizozo don't realize that when they buy the candy, flowers and other things they sell, they are helping Mr. Moon in his work. We have Churches in Carrizozo that would welcome the money that is given to the young people and certainly a donation to New Mexico Boy's Ranch would be better spent. I urge the people to quit buying from any one that has a Unification Tag on their lapel.
Sincerely,
Elizabeth Mae Veigh

I got a response from last week's editorial about Otero County. The note advised that I should get some "Tar and Feathering" insurance for the next time I am in Otero County. I asked about this from the Pat Vigil Agency (Farmers) and the J.G. Moore Agency, both of Carrizozo but both Pat Vigil and Bob Stearns didn't have any, so I guess I will just have to take my chances when I am in Otero County. MS
