Carrizozo FHA tops in New Mexico

The FHA-Hero chapter of Carrizozo was named the outstanding chapter in New Mexico for 1981-82.

The announcement was made at the State Convention held March 18-20 in Albuquerque.

Selection as "top dog" was based on the local chapter's yearly activities report and on a slide show presentation at the convention by members Carol Baum, Belinda Bragg and Gladys Hobbs.

The chapter also placed first in the scrapbook competition. In the banner contest they topped all chapters, having the most original one.

At the event Lisa Cantrell was elected as a member of the vice-president's team and was installed in a formal ceremony following Thursday's banquet at the Albuquerque Convention Center.

Cantrell, a junior high student, is president of the Carrizozo chapter and vice-president of the New Mexico FHA-Hero State Assn. She will be attending the National Convention in Atlanta, GA, in July.

During the convention, Robert Montano of Carrizozo, District J president, organized the district's penny drive, in which District J came in first. The money will go towards the chapter's project of raising money for the National Building Fund.

Carrizozo FHA-Hero accomplishments on record include a cramp to advertise the National Building Project; catering the grand opening of Citizens State Bank, with part of the proceeds going to a vocational scholarship; their meeting programs on aging and child abuse; and a door-to-door systic fibrosis drive.

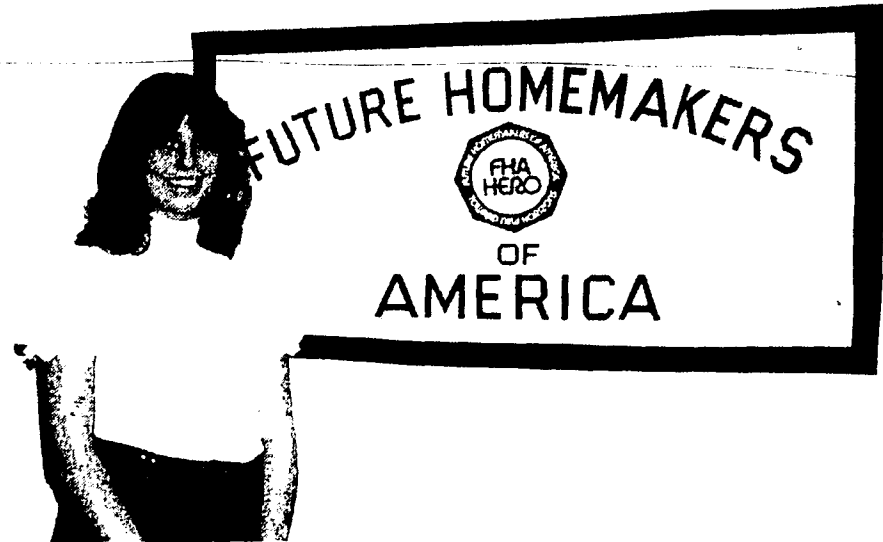

Fourteen local members attended the convention and participated in workshops, general sessions, and business meetings.

FHA-Hero adviser Laura Jones and sponsors Darlene Scott and Robby Hollis accompanied the following members to the convention:

Stephanie Saucedo, Susana Chavez, Liz Beltran, Kay Zumwalt, Julie Vega, Jonette Hicks, Margaret Lueras, Monica Herrera, Rosie Lueras and Robert Montano, Carol Baum, Belinda Bragg, Gladys Hobbs and Lisa Cantrell.

The second session on home repair and maintenance will be held at the REA Bldg., Monday, April 5, 6:30 p.m. Bill and Mary Lu Nickels are shown here performing a simple home plumbing problem. The subject of Monday night's session is plumbing repair and maintenance. Sessions are for both men and women.

LISA CANTRELL, local FHA-Hero chapter president and vice-president of the New Mexico State Assn., was installed in a formal ceremony in Albuquerque.

The chapter placed first in the banner contest, and also brought home first place award in the scrapbook competition.

Bell named 'Cowbelle of the Year'

Betty Ann Bell, a member of the Crown Cowbells of Corona, was named "Cowbelle of the Year" at an awards presentation Tuesday morning at the general assembly of the New Mexico Cowbells and New Mexico Cattlegrowers Convention in Albuquerque.

Mrs. Bell was cited for her many original ideas and activities for the promotion of beef and consumer education.

She has been a member of the Cowbells for 10 years and has served as her local chapter president, historian, parliamentarian, and is currently serving as secretary.

Committees served on by Mrs. Bell are Local Ag Day, Farm City Week, Bank Week, Beef Poster Fair, Father of the Year, Cowbelle of the Year, yearbook, gratuities, fair booth, entertainment and Boys Ranch.

While serving on the cookbook and napkin committee, as vice-chairman and chairman, Mrs. Bell reorganized the bookkeeping system, using triplicate copies of brands and names. She is currently state Beef Poster Fair chairman and was chairman of the 1980 Dist-

ric Cowbelle Leadership Workshop

Some of Mrs. Bell's beef promotion ideas include a Madam Hornfly Auction and Ag Day Birth-day Cake made from cow cubes, wheat, corn and milo. Other projects include a "Seasons of Beef" apron style show and beef caps for livestock inspectors and vocational ag teachers. School cooks were given beef emblem aprons.

Mrs. Bell is the originator of the Tri-Chapter Hawaiian Luau and "Welcome Back" packets for teachers which included recipes, cuts of beef charts and beef jerky wrapped in Cowbelle napkins.

A chain made up of 200 links of round steak bones connected with rawhide was made by Mrs. Bell and used to illustrate the interdependence of consumer and producers in the chain of beef promotion.

Other activities of Mrs. Bell include the writing of a Barnyard Mini-Drama which furnished entertainment for the Region VI Cowbelle meeting in Albuquerque in 1981 and installation services for Cowbelle officers in 1980-81.

Mrs. Bell helped organize the Lincoln County Ranch Tour which included a short talk on the Cowbelle organization and beef door prizes. She was responsible for the organization of the Beef Annual Show, the distribution of beef jerky to school students and gave talks on the history of the beef industry and cattle brands.

In 1978 she co-hosted the May Year Cowbelle meeting and designed and made a cover for speakers stand which continues to be used at all state conventions.

After being a member of the wagon, where she has spent several years, Mrs. Bell helped organize the Cowbelle wagon in 1978 and has kept the organization actively involved in beef promotion.

Ortiz seeks reelection as Magistrate, Div. I

S. M. Ortiz has announced plans to seek reelection as Magistrate, Div. I Lincoln County, Carrizozo, on the Democratic Party ticket.

Ortiz has served in all three branches of government: executive, legislative and judicial. He was Sheriff of Lincoln County for eight years, served one term in the New Mexico State Legislature as 3rd and 12th Judicial District Court bailiff, interpreter and office of the Court Magistrate Judge for more than 13 years, served as 12th Judicial District Children's Court Referee (the referee conducts children's detention hearings in the absence of the Children's Court Judge) and has been certified as a police officer by the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy.

He has attended more than 14 yearly judicial schools in compliance with the statutory requirement.

"I am bilingual, he said, and I find it very important, with the influx of the alien population, and the number of aliens that become involved in our court system on all types of criminal activity, felonies and misdemeanors.

"As a public servant I have always maintained an open door policy. I understand people. I give proper advice and assistance trying to solve their problems.

"I am a strong supporter of law and order and I hope so reflect. I want a representative of our society and I think that individual who attaches importance to good judgment to decide on things about such priorities, and ability and experience to be able to have that judgment.

He and his wife Cecilia have five children, all of whom have received degrees from the University of New Mexico.

VA medics a pain to 'Columbia'

ALBUQUERQUE - It was mystifying at first.

There was interference on a frequency to help guide space shuttle Columbia to a successful landing March 29 or 30 on Northrup Strip.

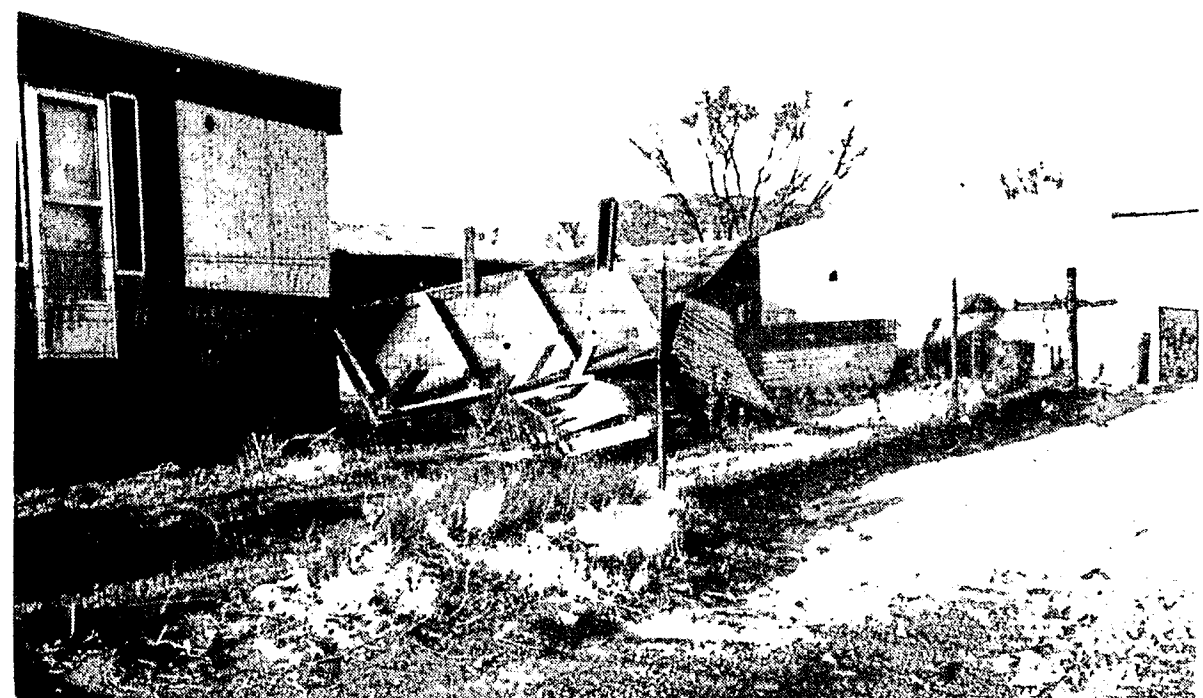

Quickly, space-mission technicians at White Sands traced the interference to the Albuquerque Veterans Administration Medical Center.

VA biomedical engineering technician Danny DeFord then tested the hospital's beeper system for physicians. Sure enough, he confirmed to Director Joe Birmingham, the frequency assigned to the beeper system was the same as one aiding the Columbia landing.

White Sands officials then asked the VA Medical Center to reduce the beeper system to 40 watts — half its normal power — until the mission was completed.

Violent winds at White Sands Missile Range forced Space Shuttle Columbia to cancel its scheduled landing Monday. It was able to land shortly after 9 a.m. Tuesday. NASA officials weren't the only ones worried about high winds and duststorms. Johnson Stearns, president of Citizens State Bank, had some wind problems of his own — flying bricks and tile. Teacher June Caster arrived home after school to discover high winds had put her porch into orbit.

Temperatures last week show a high of 60 degrees on the 24th and 28th and a low of 23 on the 22nd and 23rd. Winds gusting to 80 mph, and moisture at Lincoln Station measured only 0.05".

The Corona Extension Club met March 25 in the school auditorium with 18 members and one visitor, Marietta Powell of Ignacio, CO. Coffee hostesses were Veda Cordova, Susie Kelly and Barbara Worley.

President Denise Byrd called the meeting to order. Betty Russell read the club creed. It was reported that Denise Byrd, Margaret Lightfoot and Linda Ponder attended the arts and crafts show at Carrizozo. Several Corona women placed in the winning circle. At the district convention in Clovis, Loretta Proctor won first place with her hook and latch rug; Allene Sultemeier first with her oil painting, "The Tree." Linda Ponder second with her quilt and first on her knitted tablecloth.

The cookbooks and chances on the quilt are available from all club members.

After a turkey lunch at the school cafeteria, Allene Sultemeier demonstrated making love knots. Thanks, Allene, for sharing with us your time, talent and wisecracks.

The next meeting will be April 22. The program on Graphic Fine Arts will be presented by Ann Hutchinson of Albuquerque.

Coffee hostesses will be Kay Sultemeier, Denise Byrd and Linda Ponder.

Janet and Rusty Franklin left Saturday for their home in Tyrone after spending several days with the Davidsons. Also here to help with the shearing were Carol Lynn, Tod and Jaime Carroll of Roswell.

Marietta and Ross Powell of Ignacio, CO, were here with the Sultemeiers during Ross' spring break.

Mrs. W.T. Tyree made a business trip to Alamogordo Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dimmitt Bond and Mack Bell were in Belen on business one day last week and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Atkinson at their home there

In the State Cowbelle Poster Contest Becky Washburn won third in the high school division and Matilda Miller won third in the junior high school division. Congratulations to both.

The Chaparral 4-H Club netted $300 with their dance and concession Saturday evening. This leaves them only about $500 to reach their goal to send the three members to Washington, DC, in late July. Now they are making plans for a volleyball tournament.

Sherrill Bradford was here meeting. Mrs. Holleyman reported that her granddaughter, Kasi "Kibbe" has been enrolled as a legacy member of BSP.

An invitation from the Mountainair chapter was read and accepted. We shall join them in the Founders Day observance the afternoon of April 25.

The theme for next year is Golden Key to Friendship. The mayor of Corona, Tim Cancilla, will be asked to proclaim April 20 "Beta Sigma Phi Day."

The scholarship committee will report at the April meeting to be held at the home of Kathleen

She stated that what women are good at, the world needs more of, and what women are good at is the business of heart, compassionate service, caring, insight and "soul temperature control." This last led to a lively discussion.

We learned that the shamrock folds up and sleeps during the dark hours.

Auto registrations now on staggered, 2-year basis

SANTA FE — The Transportation Department's Motor Vehicle Division is announcing the implementation of a new staggered, year-round registration program. The program will become effective April 1, 1982.

New Mexico motorists purchasing a new or used vehicle will become a part of the new system at time of title application. Newly titled vehicles will be issued a new style license plate and a sticker indicating both month and year of registration expiration. All motorists will be registered for 12 months.

The new program will shorten waiting lines which occur at field office level during the current renewal period from November to March. It will take approximately five to eight years for 1.1 million vehicles to become part of the new system. Once a vehicle owner is under the new program, he will receive a registration renewal statement thirty days prior to the last day of the owner's assigned registration month. The vehicle owner must renew the registration within the assigned month. No grace period will be allowed and required penalties will be charged after expiration deadline.

Until a motorist buys a new or used vehicle, the owner shall remain part of the current renewal system requiring annual registration by March 2.

The following parents have offered to accompany Mr. Cooke as chaperones: Mrs. Charlotte Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Huey and Mrs. Jan Mayor. Students will attend clinics to help them build skills in various areas. After the clinics they will perform a concert for the Santa Fe High Winds Ensemble. They will also attend a Broadway musical production of "West Side Story."

They will also get the opportunity to ski or sight-see. People of Capitan, get ready to hear this group when they return. They will be great.

And someone backed into the front door of Olin's Bookers Quick Stop, broke the glass in one door, and took merchandise. These last three happened Sunday night. Never worry, they will be caught.

Forest fire burns over 5 acres

A fire burned over five acres Wednesday night near Pine Lodge and Boy Scout Mountain, according to Ouida Curtis of Lincoln National Forest.

The fire was reported Wednesday night by an employee of Trans-Western Pipeline Co. to the State Forest Service of Capitan. Fifteen firefighters from Ruidoso and others from Capitan and Mayhill fought the fire, which was contained about 9 a.m. Thursday.

Curtis said indications are the fire was man-made. An investigation continues in an effort to identify the guilty party.

Curtis warned that the forest is very dry, and high winds such as those experienced here Thursday would make it almost impossible to contain a forest fire before it destroyed a wide area.

"All the bad fires we have had in Lincoln National Forest have occurred in the spring during the high wind season," Curtis said in cautioning all travelers in the forest to be aware of the potential danger.

Tom Guck of Nogal told the News Tuesday that four men from Roswell have been cited by the New Mexico Department of Fish & Game in connection with the incident. The men could face federal charges as a result of the fire.

Things get lively in Capitan, gunfire, robbers and vandals

When officer Randy Spears was called to the home of R. Roybal in Hideaway Hills at Capitan last Friday evening, he found that an intruder had run from the house when the Roybals had driven into the driveway.

Entering the Hideaway Hills subdivision, Officer Spears heard several shots fired in rapid succession. He said he thought them to be from a highpowered rifle or possibly a Magnum handgun.

Although state and county police were called in to assist the Capitan officer, and a thorough search was made of the area, neither the mysterious gunman nor the would-be burglar were found.

Spears said the intruder had apparently been surprised while trying to remove a stereo set from the main house, but nothing of value was missing.

Sunday morning on his way to church Butch Allen stopped as usual to check on his laundromat.

He found the inside door leading to the room behind the dryers forced open. He was not alarmed because the room contained only the tools and equipment needed to maintain the washing machines and dryers.

However, once inside, it was obvious that vandals had built a camp fire of sorts in the center of the large room. Fortunately for Butch, the room was sparsely furnished and the floor was of concrete and the only casualties was the paper scraps used

THE advance guard of the annual "Buzzard Fly-in" arrived in Capitan March 18. They came as always, within three days of the Spring Equinox. They will roost in the branches of the "Buzzard Tree" that grows tall on the front lawn of Joe Bert Cheney. Buzzards first started coming to his tree in 1962. No one knows why they chose his tree. There are only 15 buzzards in the flock at present, but their number will steadily increase over the next three weeks until around Easter, when there will be about 60 buzzards roosting in his tree. They remain "at home" in Capitan until the first of October, at which time they head for warmer climes until next year when they, like the robins of the East, will become Capitan's harbinger of spring.

SMOKEY REMEMBERED—Some little girl left these plastic flowers on the grave of Smokey Bear last week. It is not unusual for people to pay floral tributes to the original Smokey Bear, whose grave is in Lincoln National Forest. Smokey was rescued during the disastrous 1950 forest fire and went on to live a long life and to become the national symbol of wildfire prevention and wildlife conservation. — Photo by Don Hutchinson

Funeral services for a former Carrizozo resident, Marion Pherigo, will be held in Claunch, NM, Saturday, April 3. Mr. Pherigo died March 30. Arrangements were incomplete at presstime.

Town in good condition

The financial condition of the Town of Carrizozo was found to be in "good" condition by Albert Romero, chief of local government, Santa Fe, who attended a special meeting of town trustees on March 28.

Romero discussed policies and procedures regarding the town budget for fiscal year 1982-83. He said he would send a representative from his staff to help the city clerk prepare the budget.

Other local projects were passed over until the April 12 meeting of town trustees, which will allow for greater discussion and public input, according to Mayor Harold Garcia.

● IT IS generally agreed that former US Sen. Harrison Williams is the crook he was found to be. He is one of the figures found guilty of accepting a bribe in the Abscam affair. But a lot of people are questioning the manner in which Williams was proved to be a crook. According to one rule of fair play, Williams should not have been convicted because he fell into a trap that had been deliberately laid to snare him. It's called "entrapment." In the Abscam case, the Federal Bureau of Investigation went to some length to get Williams to take the bait. Civil liberties advocates, along with people who don't want to be lured into a trap and also proved to be crooks, are opposed to entrapment of people suspected of being dishonest.

● THIS NOBLE sense of fair play that would have allowed Williams to continue as a US Senator probably stems from the fictional Old West Code wherein the challenger in a gunfight always allowed "the other guy" to draw first. Which accounts for so many "challengers" wading up on Boot Hill. This code of fairness flowered in Vietnam where US soldiers were admonished not to fire at the enemy until the enemy fired at them. This proved embarrassing, since a dead US soldier didn't get the pleasure of returning the fire. But he died according to "the code," and that's nice.

● I DISAGREE with the civil libertarians and apostles of fairness. On the contrary, I believe there should be more well-executed entrapments, especially among crooks-in-good-standing in high government positions. A man is no less a crook simply because nobody knows about it. Where is it written that a crook should legally remain a crook until exposed according to set rules? Any method that exposes a person as a crook is morally correct and should be made legally correct. An honest person has nothing to fear from entrapment because an honest man is honest under all circumstances.

● ENTRAPMENT is the Abscam plan served two worthwhile purposes: (1) It got rid of some crooks in government; and (2) it provides a deterrent to others who may be tempted to commit a felony.

● THOSE WHO deplore the principle of entrapment are certainly selective in venting their outrage. If Williams suffered entrapment, what's to be said of the drug pusher who sells heroin to a narcotics undercover agent? Isn't the IRS guilty of entrapment when it audits only one out of 100,000 tax returns, thus instilling a false sense of security in the tax chiselers? If I drop a $20 bill on the sidewalk and somebody grabs it, have I entrapped an honest person? When a police officer poses as a "john" and gets solicited, is the prostitute a victim of entrapment and entitled to go free?

● ENTRAPMENT is a lot like stealing—the severity of the act depends on whether you're a skidrow bum or a US Senator. It is apparently a legitimate law enforcement tool to entrap a drug pusher or a prostitute, but ethically and morally wrong to use the same tactics to catch a crooked politician.

● IT IS a relief to know that the Lincoln County News is going to prosper. The news came Monday morning from Hortense Kirksey of Santa Rosa, CA. "All my life," she writes, "when I like something very much, it sweeps the country. Gallup could hire me and save all the time and money spent questioning people. I loved Valentino in his first tiny bit part, also Marilyn Monroe and other big successes." She said she liked me and this column very much, so there. "Not only people did I make big, I hate to admit it but I bought the first Pet Rock I saw." Thanks, Hortense. I feel a lot better about the career I'm launching in Carrizozo. And if you ever stop liking me, for Pete's sake, don't let me know!

● WHAT PEOPLE want is a life free from all hazards — guaranteed good health, guaranteed income, guaranteed jobs, guaranteed protection from germs and viruses, guaranteed protection from the neighbor's wrath and his dog, guaranteed recreational facilities, guaranteed loans for education, homes, vacations and businesses. In short, we want guaranteed government protection against any and all risk and hazard. Somewhere there must be a government agency whose function it is to instruct people in such a manner that they will not trip over their own clumsy feet, and fall and injure themselves. All of which brings me to a piece that appeared in The Saturday Evening Post for Aug. 13, 1921. It attempts to comfort the fearful, as follows: "The airplane is as safe as the dirigible, but the dirigible looks safer. There will be accidents to both of them forever, just as there will always be accidents to automobiles, oil stoves, baby carriages and Sunday canoes; but the person who refuses to travel on them because they're unsafe should, to be consistent, refuse to walk down his cellar stairs or stand on one leg to pull on his trousers." To which, a hearty "amen."

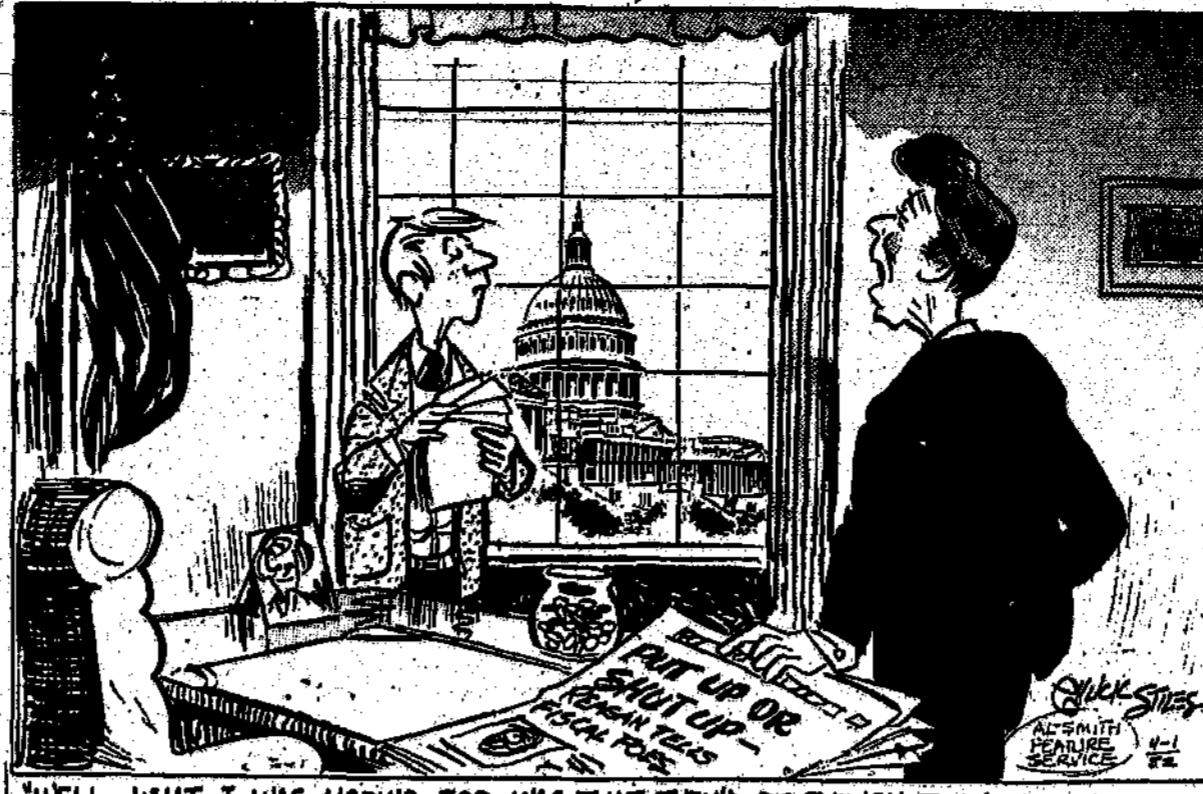

● THE OUTSTANDING social event of the year thus far in Washington, DC, was the Feb. 19 "National Condom Week Rubber Disco" dance sponsored by Planned Parenthood of Metropolitan Washington. The entertainment included a condom-blowing contest with a $35 prize. The dance hall was festooned with multicolored condoms. Signs enlivened the affair, one reading: "Help Make Washington Safe for Loving." This glittering event was paid for by the Department of Health and Human Services, with our tax money. This should serve to remind us again that government is not to be trusted with our money.

● THE FEDERAL government is one trillion dollars ($1,000,000,000,000) in debt. Few people can comprehend this figure. A trillion is a thousand billion, and here's how to understand the enormity of a little old billion. A billion seconds ago Pearl Harbor was bombed. A billion minutes ago Christ walked the earth. A billion hours ago man had not yet walked upon the earth. A billion dollars ago was yesterday in Washington, DC.

● WHOEVER is in charge of weather in New Mexico is fired. The Columbia had to cancel its Monday landing at White Sands Missile Range in the face of blowing dust and 50 knot winds. It was safer in outer space than it was in New Mexico. At noon Monday I thought the Columbia had overshoot Northrup Strip and was landing in Carrizozo, but it was only a pair of 30-gallon garbage cans on low-level reconnaissance. Over in Three Rivers the wind blew the horns off a billy goat. This Corona cowboy allowed too much space between his seat and the saddle while mounting up, and took off without his horse. He was last seen at 500 feet over Socorro. Anybody reporting for work Monday is entitled to hazardous duty pay.

● YOU HAVE been deluged with news accounts by the "un-biased media" claiming that President Reagan has "declared war on the poor," that he is lacking in compassion for the needy, and that he is building up a gigantic war machine on the backs of the poor and helpless. Let's compare federal budgets under John F. Kennedy with Reagan's budget. Under John F. Kennedy the defense budget was 47.3 percent; human resources 25.1 percent. Under Reagan the defense budget is 26.2 percent; human resources 33.2 percent.

● THE Internal Revenue Service recently announced it would eliminate tax assistance service, except to "the blind, the illiterate, and members of Congress."

City has pothole problem

The US Supreme Court has ruled that New Mexico has the power to tax contractors operating federal facilities within this state.

The ruling releases about $100 million which has already been earmarked for highway improvements.

The money comes from such facilities as the giant Sandia Corporation, which challenged the state's right to tax them. An estimated $20 million a year in extra revenue will revert to the state, and it is hoped that it will all go toward upgrading streets and highways.

Carrizozo in particular is badly in need of street and highway repairs. The pothole problem is almost unbelievable on city streets, and even extends to the highways through town.

Marvin Broce, president of the Associated Contractors of New Mexico, pointed out in a letter to the News, March 18, that potholes cost New Mexico drivers $150 million a year — a staggering $195 per driver per year. That kind of money will fill up a lot of potholes in Carrizozo.

All around the country the story is the same — streets and highways are filled with potholes and chugholes. A severe winter, coupled with less money for road repairs, has made driving a real hazard.

The pothole problem was dramatized this month in Illinois, where a state jury awarded $1.25 million to a woman who lost a leg after being struck by a car that had been thrown out of control when it hit a pothole. The City of Chicago was found to have been negligent in not repairing its streets.

The possibility of such a lawsuit should not be taken lightly by the Town of Carrizozo.

We realize Carrizozo is short of funds to repair the potholes. But a concentrated effort should be made to get a fair share of that $100 million windfall to improve the town's streets before we share Chicago's misfortune.

The sad saga of Horace the Mule

Now that interest is picking up over the sheriff's race in Lincoln County, the News deems it in the public interest to recount the following story.

Nobody seems to know where the story originated. Some say it was the work of Vernon Sechrist of the Rocky Mount (NC) Telegram who told the story about a Victorian friend of his, Mrs. Grace Wood. No matter. Whoever spun the tale must have Mark Twain chuckling, wherever he is. It goes like this:

Mrs. George Wood, now deceased, of Chowan County, had a mule named Horace. One evening she called up Dr. Satterfield in Edenton and said to him,

"Doctor, Horace is sick and I wish you would come and take a look at him." Dr. Satterfield replied, "Oh, Fannie Lamb, it's after 6 o'clock and I'm eating supper. Give old Horace a dose of mineral oil, and if he isn't all right in the morning, phone me and I'll come and take a look at him."

"How'll I give it to him?" she inquired. "through a funnel," "but he might bite me," she protested. "Oh, Fannie Lamb, you're a farm woman and you know about these things. Give it to him through the other end." So Fannie Lamb went out to the barn and there stood Horace with his head held down, and moaning and groaning. She looked for a funnel, but the nearest thing she could see to one was her Uncle Bill's fox hunting horn hanging on the wall. A beautiful golden-plated instrument it was, with gold tassels hanging from it. She took the horn and affixed it properly. Horace paid no attention.

Then she reached up on the shelf where medicines for the farm animals were kept. But instead of picking up the mineral oil, she picked up a bottle of turpentine, and she poured a liberal dose of it into the horn.

Horace raised his head with a sudden jerk. He let out a bawl that could be (and was) heard for a mile. He reared up on his hind legs, brought his front legs down, knocked out the side of the barn, jumped a five-foot fence, and started down the road at a mad gallop. Now, Horace was in pain, so every few jumps he made, that horn would blow. All the dogs in the neighborhood knew that when that horn was blowing, it meant that Uncle Bill was going fox hunting. So out on the highway they went, close behind Horace.

It was a marvelous sight. First, Horace—running wide open, the hunting horn in the most unusual position, the mellow notes

Inside Religion

Treasurer of the US is a convert to Mormon Church

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING
Mr. Kinsolving is Chief of the Lincoln County News Bureau in Washington, DC, who also writes a syndicated religious column.

The word "missionary" has become either archaic or even anathema among the liberal social activists who dominate many of the national headquarters of the nation's main line denominations.

The opposition to missionary activity is based upon the kind of relativism which makes it easy for a church to die of broadmindedness. It is also motivated by an urge to channel funds to radical social activism.

By contrast to these dwindling denominations, the rapidly growing Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints continues its spectacular dedication to preaching the Gospel in all the world, as Jesus commanded. In addition to tithing, all Mormon young people have an obligation to serve a two-year period of missionary service, overseas or at home — which is financed by their families.

Anyone underestimating the importance of this missionary emphasis and service might care to talk to the Treasurer of the United States, who is the youngest to hold this office in US history. She is a convert to Mormonism from the devout Roman Catholicism of her family, including her brother, syndicated columnist Pat Buchanan.

During an exclusive interview with this column, Angela ("Bay") Buchanan was asked:

"When your fellow conservative, Claire Booth Luce, left the Episcopal Church for the Roman Catholic Church, there was a great deal of news coverage.

Since you are in the public view, what was the reaction of the devoutly Catholic Buchanans when you converted to the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints?"

BUCHANAN: There was concern. They were upset. I took some time doing it so they would adjust and become accustomed to the idea; and that it wouldn't be such a radical departure. It took about nine months before I actually converted, told them about it and talked about it. But they have accepted it.

Q: How did you get involved in this? Did a couple of Mormon missionaries come by and see you, or what?

A: No, I was living in Australia at the time. I immigrated to Australia some years ago and I was dating an American who was a Mormon. He introduced me to the Church, and we used to talk about his beliefs. I started reading myself and became interested that way.

Q: Did Brother Jack Anderson have anything to do with your conversion? (Syndicated columnist Anderson is a Mormon Sunday School teacher.)

A: Nothing.

Q: Has he welcomed you into the fold? Do you know him?

A: I know him — not well — but I have seen him in church and said hello to him. But that is the extent of it.

Q: When do you plan to go on a mission?

A: Mormons generally go on missions at the age of somewhere between 18 and 23 for a year and a half to two years. I didn't become a Mormon until I was 27 or 28. So I don't expect to be going on a mission, especially concerning my issuing therefrom, the tassels waving, and the dogs barking joyously.

They passed by the home of Old Man Harvey Hogan, who was sitting on his front porch. He hadn't drawn a sober breath in 15 years, and he gazed in fascinated amazement at the sight that unfolded itself before his eyes. He couldn't believe what he was seeing. Incidentally, he is now head man in Alcoholics Anonymous in the Albemarle section of the state.

By this time it was good and dark. Horace and the dogs were approaching the Inland Waterway. The bridge tender heard the horn blowing and figured that a boat was approaching. So he hurriedly went out and uncranked the bridge. Horace went overboard and was drowned. The dogs also went into the water, but they swam out without very much difficulty.

Now it so happened that the bridge tender was running for the office of sheriff of Chowan County, but he managed to poll only seven votes. The people figured that any man who didn't know the difference between a mule with a horn up his rear and a boat coming down the Inland Waterway wasn't fit to hold any public office in Chowan County.

Voters may change rules for selecting judges in New Mexico

By JAMES BROOKS

In the next general election the voters of New Mexico will decide whether or not to add three amendments to the state constitution. One of these amendments would change the method of selecting judges for district courts, the court of appeals, and the supreme court.

At present, the constitution provides that judges for these courts are to be chosen by the voters in popular, partisan elections. But the constitution also gives the governor the power to appoint judges to fill vacancies for unexpired terms. This has encouraged the practice, on the part of judges who decide not to continue, to resign before their terms of office end. This gives the governor the power to name a replacement who will take advantage of incumbency in seeking election to a full term. This has resulted in most of the judges who serve on these courts getting their positions originally through partisan appointments, not popular elections, as the constitution contemplates.

Many people who oppose changing the current methods of selection are apparently unaware of this fact. Their statements of support for the status quo tend to be characterized by such proclamations as "I trust the people," and "This isn't democracy when you take effective offices away from the people."

They fail to realize that most of the judges whose positions would be affected by this proposed amendment were not initially the choice of the people. In most cases there was no spirited, competitive, political quest for votes. It is of course true that all of these judges must eventually stand for reelection. But, so must judges appointed under the Missouri Plan be approved directly by the voters if they are to serve beyond their initial probationary period.

Today, for staffing some or all of their courts, 24 states use popular elections (12 partisan, 12 nonpartisan), 16 states use appointment (by governor in six, by legislature in four), and 16 states use the Missouri Plan that combines unique appointment and election practices.

The 16 adoptions of the Missouri Plan have occurred since 1940, the year that Missouri voters approved this method of selecting judges for the three courts of appeals and the supreme court. The basic ingredients of this plan include the nomination of candidates by a multi-member board or commission that includes lay representatives, lawyers and judges; appointment by the governor of one of those nominated; the serving of a probationary period by the person selected; and a retention-rejection election in which voters decide either to deny or grant the incumbent a full elected term of office. The objective is to achieve the optimum combination of representatives and neutral competency in judicial performance.

If the New Mexico proposal is approved, the following actions would occur. Whenever a vacancy occurs in any district court, the court of appeals, or the supreme court, the Judicial Standards Commission would meet and nominate two or more persons to fill the vacancy.

Commission has nine members: five laypersons appointed by the governor for staggered five-year terms; two lawyers appointed by the board of commissioners of the state bar; and two judges or justices from the supreme court, district court, or court of appeals, appointed by the supreme court. The lawyers and judges serve four-year terms. The Judicial Standards Commission would act as a recruiter or reviewer of applicants as the situation demanded. It is thought to be particularly significant and desirable to have the nominations made by such a body that represents a variety of interests.

The governor appoints one of the persons nominated by the Judicial Standards Commission to fill each vacancy. That person then serves a probationary period lasting a minimum of three years. At the first general election held after serving three years, the new appointee must be approved by the electorate in order to continue to

Back Home

Eleanor Lynch is back home after two weeks in Santa Rosa, CA. The unplanned visit was to see her brother, G.L. Hill, who underwent emergency surgery. While in Santa Rosa, Eleanor stayed at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Odell, who also required hospitalization during Eleanor's stay.

Remember When

I came across "The Grizzly," published monthly by the 1950 journalism students of Carrizozo High. In that year I was just beginning elementary school, but I recognize many of the names mentioned in the school's newspaper. Jake Herrera was circulation manager of the newspaper. Angelina Sandoval, Jo Ann Straley and Sally Monreal were among reporters bringing in school and club news.

The publication included ads, of course. Local merchants of years past were listed. The Lane Sisters sold "Doris Dodson" sweaters; Southern Pacific Hotel and Dining room phone number was simply "3"; O.V. Moore offered expert barbering at the Elite Barber Shop; Albert Roberts was proprietor of the Monte Vista Service Station; and "Friday" Sherrill ran the Nu-Way Cleaners. The Steak House had good food; "Dutch" Bell had excellent service at his General Motors place; Nutrena, hay and grain were sold at Vega's Feed Store; and warm clothes for windy days could be purchased at Vidaurri's Gen. Merchandise. Those were the days.....

The school newspaper had a cutesy, snooty column called "Have you wondered," which was very popular with the juvenile set: "Whose lipstick was on Jimmy's shirt one morning? What four girls got in trouble for going to the Capitan-Ruidoso game? Who Janie's new crush is? Hint Gerald??? Why Roberta doesn't want anymore dead carcasses dug up?"

Attached to the newspaper with a clip was a message from Mr. Gadow, school newspaper sponsor: "A successful newspaper depends upon mechanical perfection, imaginative layout, clever story handling and hard, enthusiastic work from each member of the staff. The difference between a good paper and an excellent one is imagination."

New Grandbaby

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bragg are bragging about their newest grandchild, a girl named Beth Ann. Born March 21, she weighed 6 pounds and 15 ounces. She is the daughter of Thomas and Debra Bragg who reside near White Oaks. They have a son Michael, age two and a half.

Countdown

For this week's Post Script, I tried in vain to locate Zozo people who had cared to brave the traffic jams, blowing sand and portable johns at White Sands Missile Range.

Last Sunday, Kaylene Brown prepared goodies, suntan lotion and sunglasses in preparation of the family outing she and her family had planned for a week. Winds strong enough to knock over porches and fences and a very tired sleepy husband were factors involved in the cancellation of the field trip. The space shuttle landing, adventure plan didn't get off the ground for the Brown family.

Kaylene's husband is Guy Brown, officer on the town's police department. He was on duty Sunday evening and Monday morning. A weary, bone-tired Guy arrived home at 6 a.m. when his shift thankfully ended. There was no way that the town could have planned to enlist more than one police officer for traffic control.

Guy witnessed the steady stream of about 150 cars, trucks, vans, campers, and cycles while he was on duty in the wee hours of the morning. He only managed to cite 11 of the motorists "flying" through town on their way to Tularosa to join the long line of people waiting to enter White Sands Missile Range.

No Way

Erlene Hoxie was a weekend visitor in the home of Betty Fields last weekend. Erlene is an executive of Bishop's Lodge, a resort hotel in Santa Fe.

Last Sunday I ran into Betty and Erlene who were out for a stroll. Several Albuquerque Red Cross units were headed for Tularosa to help temporary residents of the second largest city in New Mexico — White Sands Missile Range.

I asked Erlene if she was planning to go next day to White Sands and she replied, "No way." She preferred to watch history in the making from the comfort of her living room.

Last Laugh

Passenger on bus (to man smoking a cigar): "If you were my husband, I'd give you poison!"
Smoker: "Well, ma'am, if you wuz my wife, I'd take it."

Hundreds of cars, campers and recreation vehicles streamed through Carrizozo Sunday and Monday enroute to Northrup Strip to observe the Columbia landing. Among them were these five units operated by the American Red Cross, which stopped to gas up. William W. Pearson, division director for safety programs, said they were headed to Northrup to provide emergency assistance to an estimated 20,000 spectators.

Ranchers can handle the elements, but crime?

CLOVIS, NM—It used to be that ranchers had a life and death struggle with the elements.

Now there's another element that has joined in the struggle—the criminal element.

On April 16, 1981, someone set fire to the headquarters of the Lone Pine Ranch near Glencoe in southeastern New Mexico. The fire was the second in a space of several weeks at the ranch. Total loss was estimated at over $100,000. Roswell Crime Stoppers is offering a $1,000 reward in the case.

Back on Oct. 9, 1978, someone broke into the George "Dusty" Ray ranch house west of Roy and took some $5,000 worth of property. The State Crime Stoppers Commission offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the solution of the burglary.

One of the latest victims of the criminal element was Kit Pettegrew, who has a ranch 25 miles east of Santa Rosa.

On March 2, someone broke into Pettegrew's ranch house and took several guns, some saddles and a microwave oven. Apparently the crooks enjoyed the experience so much that they returned on March 6 and took a dining room set, another saddle and a portable welder.

Among the weapons taken by the burglars were a 30-06 rifle, a 12-gauge shotgun, a Browning 22-caliber rifle and an MX-15 carbine rifle.

Sanchez to run for state legislature

Ernest S. Sanchez, who is serving his 4th term as Lincoln County Sheriff, has announced he will seek the Republican Party nomination for the newly-created Legislative Dist. 56, which includes parts of Eddy, Chaves and Lincoln counties.

Sanchez, a life-long resident of Lincoln County, has more than 21 years of experience in public service. He worked with the New Mexico Bureau of Revenue, School Tax and Gasoline Tax Division, for five and one-half years. He was assistant security chief at the Ruidoso Downs Race Track for two years, and has been with the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department for 14 years, including four terms as elected sheriff.

"All this experience," Sanchez

ERNEST S. SANCHEZ said, "provides me with knowledge of our laws, our courts, and the needs of the people."

hold office. But this is not the usual kind of election. The incumbent has no opponent, the voter's choice is to either retain or reject the judge.

Before the election, the Judicial Standards Commission evaluates the performance of each candidate, and its recommendation to retain or reject is shown by the name of the candidate on the ballot. If retained, this amounts to election for a four-year term. If rejected, a vacancy occurs and the cycle starts again. The Judicial Standards Commission will meet to nominate candidates to fill the vacancy. The governor will appoint one of these nominees. The probationary period is served, and the voters will decide to retain or reject the incumbent.

Where the Missouri Plan has been adopted, most voters have been satisfied with it. The expectations of increasing the number of participants in the selection process and the kinds of input into decisions to select judges have been realized in practice, and the role of the general public in evaluating judicial performance has contributed to the attainment of responsible and representative judicial actions.

Long-term dissatisfaction with partisan elections for selecting judges also reflects the feeling that a judge's chief concern in presiding over cases and making decisions should not be the real or imagined political repercussions that the case might produce for the judge. Too much deference to political ill-winds is likely to be emphasized when judges are selected in popular elections.

On the basis of more than 40 years of experience with the Missouri Plan in other states, the voters of New Mexico have the advantage of giving their approval to a judicial selection method that has lived up to the original expectations of realizing a better combination of representativeness and neutral competence in judicial performance.

Old Lincoln Town Stuff

Mrs. Harriett McGinnis had a birthday dinner March 25. Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh hosted the dinner at El Paisano in Capitan. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pfingster and Hattie Phillips were among the guests. The party finished off the evening with coffee and cake at the McIntosh home.

Mrs. McGinnis' daughter, Nancy Vassar, and granddaughter Mindy came from Big Spring, TX, for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dunlap have partially rebuilt their home, which burned while they were on a trip abroad. They are living in it now, and it's nice to have them home again.

A lot of things around here are not where they were today. They have, as the saying goes, "gone with the wind."

immediate future.

Q: In other words, you are past the age where that is an obligation.

A: Yes.
Q: Have you given up tobacco, alcohol, tea and coffee?
A: Yes.

Q: Will you be baptised for Pat Buchanan? Let me say at this point that you have been an absolutely marvelous interviewee, and if you want to say "no comment..." But you can understand my position as a religion writer and reporter, I have to ask about these somewhat unusual beliefs.

A: Pat Buchanan is alive and well, I am pleased to say!

Q: You mean there is hope you may get him?

A: We do not get baptised for individuals who are alive.

Q: It's for those who are deceased?

A: Yes.

Q: Then have you been baptised for any of your ancestors?

A: No, I have been baptised for myself only. I have not been baptised for any of my ancestors.

Q: Have you checked into that enormous LDS Church genealogical file?

A: I have started. Actually I have found — Pat and I both work a little bit on genealogy out of interest.

A: Since there are reports that the LDS has most of the money in the West already, did your conversion create any stir in religio-economic circles?

A: It didn't affect it at all. Surprised my brother — the tithing factor surprised my brother substantially.

Q: It did?

A: Anyone who would convert to a church and pay 10 percent!

John Irick, Republican candidate for governor, will speak at the Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County meeting on Tuesday, April 13, at Nottingham's Pub, Ruidoso.

The public is invited to attend the business meeting which begins at 11 a.m., and stay to hear Irick's address at noon.

"Eventually we hope to hear from all candidates," said Rhonda Johnston, president. "This is in keeping with our policy of endorsing no one before the primary."

Although regular meetings are usually held the third Tuesday of each month, this meeting is being held the second Tuesday to accommodate Irick's schedule.

In the March meeting, members discussed a major fundraising project which would feature a cabinet-level speaker.

Utility assistance cutoff

Utility Assistance Program bills will be paid only up to, and including, March 24, according to Sister Cecilia Schmidt of the Utility Assistance Program and Barbara J. Ward, project director, Senior Citizens Center.

The unexpected number of people applying for the assistance, plus some "gross mismanagement of the program" is responsible for the curtailment, they said.

Natural gas bills from March 1 to April 1 may be sent to Santa Fe for payment. However, Santa Fe will pay for the service only from March 1 to March 24. The rest of the bill is the responsibility of the customer.

Propane fuel purchased and billed before or on March 24 will be paid by the state. Send those bills to Santa Fe. Bills received from March 25 is the responsibility of the customer.

Electric bills will be paid up to and including service through March 24. The customer must pay for electricity used on March 25 and after. For wood vendor, checks will be sent for wood only for those requests mailed on or before March 24.

How to store your winter clothing

As the weather gets warmer, you'll want to store your winter clothes.

"Remember to always clean the clothes before you store them," says Mary Ellen Payne, Lincoln County Extension home economist for New Mexico State University. Soil will weaken fibers over a period of time and will tend to attract insects.

Launder washables and have non-washables dry cleaned, but don't take time to iron or pay for pressing until clothes are taken out of storage. Put hanging garments in garment or plastic bags. Fold items and pack with tissue in between to reduce wrinkles. Use moth crystals or moth balls when storing woolsens.

Label all boxes for easy access. Keep sweaters and jackets handy for the first cool weather or fall.

Wash accessories made of manmade materials, such as shoes and handbags, with a sudsy sponge. Rinse and dry well. Use leather cleaner and polish on leather.

Stuff shoes and handbags with paper to help hold their shape and store them in boxes.

Carrizozo's Municipal Airport fuel and insurance problems were discussed at a special meeting Friday by Al Romero, director of finance and administration, Santa Fe. Shown here at the airport is a vintage 1946 Taylorcraft 2-seater belonging to Tom Tracey of Nogal.

Don't throw out fishing proclamation

When you clean out your fishing tackle box this spring, don't throw away the fishing proclamation along with rusted hooks and dried-out salmon eggs.

Although anglers need new fishing licenses beginning April 1, they may continue to use the same fishing proclamations through the end of the new license year — March 31, 1983 — according to Norma Ames, head of the Game & Fish Department's publications section.

Mrs. Ames said the two-year proclamations were issued after the State Game Commission adopted two-year regulations — April 1, 1982-March 31, 1983. Use of the two-year proclamations saved about $15,000 in printing costs, she said. Anglers saving their current copies, instead of picking up new ones, will help prevent a second printing and a loss of the savings.

There have been a few amendments since the regulation was passed and these are not reflected in the proclamation. Changes include:

La Joya and Bernardo waterfowl areas will be open to fishing April 1-Aug. 31 and frogging July 24-Aug. 31. Use hours are 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., and boats without motors may be used. No trotlining allowed.

Trotlines are no longer allowed in Bataan and Carlsbad Municipal Lakes.

Heron Lake is included in waters open during the special kokanee salmon season Sept. 1-Dec. 31.

Rio Chiquito and Rio Frijoles, both in Taos County, remain open to fishing through July 31.

Automatic hook-setting devices, popularly called yo-yos, are legal for use if closely attended by the angler.

Roe, viscera and eyes of legally taken game fish may be used as bait.

A person fishing with a trotline at least once every 24 hours, unless severe weather conditions prevent his doing so.

Move to ban the 'killer bullets'

Sen. Harrison "Jack" Schmitt has co-sponsored the Police Officers Protection Act of 1982, a bill which would ban the so-called "killer bullets."

Schmitt said: "I firmly believe that a bill outlawing 'killer bullets' is long overdue. We cannot afford to continue putting our law enforcement officers in grave danger simply because their protective vests can be pierced by these bullets."

Law officials have told me that although the bullets are supposed to be available only to law enforcement personnel, the bullets are readily available to the public in New Mexico. It is time we take some action to protect our policemen."

The Police Officers' Protection Act would make it unlawful for any person to import, manufacture, deal, receive, or sell restricted handgun ammunition fired from a handgun with a barrel five inches or less in length and capable of penetrating vests that have at least 18 layers of kevlar (body armor).

Under the bill, the Attorney General would determine which ammunition would be banned. The bill would not restrict rifle ammunition used by hunters for legitimate sporting purposes.

Yes! Mabel I hear you. It's April again -- did you have a fun April Fools day?

This month there are some exciting things to look forward to. On April 2 the children have "Book Day," April 4 is Palm Sunday, and Good Friday falls on April 9. Then all of this includes this special season named Easter. I might remind you that on the 25th your clocks should be turned forward.

Now! Bulbs are trying to speak to us and apricot trees have budged. Spring is trying to communicate in many ways. I heard on the party line that the cold weather is not over, so just in case let's plant an avocado plant. You can plant one avocado seed with pointed end up, just under the soil, in a pot of good garden earth and water regularly. Within a few weeks a small stem should appear and grow.

Since we have only two weeks before Easter, I thought it would be nice to lose 10 pounds; particularly, when you would like a new Easter dress one size smaller. This Diet will help you lose up to 10 pounds in seven days.

FIRST DAY -- Breakfast, 1/2 of an orange, egg boiled or poached, melba toast, coffee or tea.

MID-MORNING SNACK. All week -- raw vegetables, sesame seeds, water and diet drinks, and tomato juice without sugar.

LUNCH. Seafood of your choice, raw vegetables, any kind. Coffee break.

DINNER. Fresh diet fruit cocktail (canned), two small boiled or baked chicken breasts without skin, cooked (very little) cabbage, turnips or zucchini, coffee or club soda with lemon.

BEDTIME SNACK. Tomato juice.

SECOND DAY, BREAKFAST. Grapefruit, cottage cheese, coffee.

MID-MORNING SNACK.

LUNCH. Sliced roast beef (no fat), lettuce, celery and tomato.

DINNER. Tomato or veg., juice or broth, broiled hamburger meat, cooked slightly -- spinach, cauliflower, celery; coffee or tea.

BEDTIME SNACK. Light diet drink (not a dark one -- it keeps you awake).

THIRD DAY, BREAKFAST. 1/2 orange, puffed wheat, lowfat milk. Coffee break. Diet cola. A dark diet cola gives you a little pep.

LUNCH. Fresh fruit salad, cottage cheese, coffee.

SNACK. Tomato juice.

DINNER. Fish of your choice -- celery, radishes, carrots or cabbage, coffee or tea.

FOURTH DAY, BREAKFAST. Grapefruit, shredded wheat, low fat milk, coffee.

LUNCH -- Canned fish, any kind, lettuce, cucumbers, celery. Diet soda or coffee.

DINNER. Roast veal, green salad or minute steak, strawberries or other berries, coffee or tea.

BEDTIME SNACK. Low cal milk.

SIXTH DAY, BREAKFAST -- 1/2 orange, 1 rye cracker, egg boiled or poached. Coffee break.

LUNCH. Chicken or turkey slices, lettuce, celery and tomatoes, coffee or tea.

DINNER. Steak or pork chop without fat; cooked vegetables, any kind.

BEDTIME SNACK -- Tomato juice.

SEVENTH DAY, BREAKFAST -- 1/2 grapefruit, shredded wheat, low fat milk.

LUNCH. 6-sliced hard-boiled eggs, mixed green salad, coffee.

DINNER. Shrimp or other seafood, spinach, broccoli and carrots.

NIGHTTIME SNACK -- light diet drink.

Girls if you go on this diet you have one week to shop for a neat dress with three or four ruffled petticoats -- they are the latest thing to wear. The layered look is in; as many ruffles as possible.

Now! It's time to put those red shoes on, step into your automobile and visit all the old junk shops. Look for old dresser sets, perfume bottles, and pretty glass to go on your dressing table and doll it up. Lace and crochet is very popular today, so give yourself a lift with these exciting ideas.

BACKING IN — Sometime Saturday night a small car was backed through the double glass doors of Olin's Quick Stop grocery store in Capitan. The occupants of the car then proceeded to "requisition" some canned hams, candy bars and a single deck of cards from the store before driving off undetected. The forced entry was discovered by Capitan Police Officer Randy Spears, who was on routine patrol about 6 a.m. Sunday morning.

PORK TENDERLOIN WITH ORANGE SAUCE

- 1 pork tenderloin (about 1-1/2 pounds)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1/3 cup dry white wine
- 3 oranges
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

Season tenderloin with salt and pepper. In an oven-proof skillet saute meat in butter until brown on all sides. Push to one side; add onions and cook until tender. Pour wine and juice from 2 oranges over meat. Stir in sugar and bay leaf. Cover and bake at 350° for 1 hour, or until meat is tender. Peel remaining orange and section. Cut peel in very thin strips. Boil in a small amount of water until tender and drain. Remove meat from pan; discard bay leaf. Mix cornstarch with a tablespoon of water. Add to liquid in skillet. Cook, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Add peel; slice meat. Place on platter of fluffy rice. Pour sauce over meat. Garnish with orange sections. Makes 6 servings.
