Fiesta, Peoples Market Place mean weekend fun

The combined People's Market Place and Santa Rita Fiesta will be reeled off this weekend as it has each year for the past four years.

Santa Rita Fiesta Queen will be crowned at the fiesta mass Saturday at 7 p.m. in Santa Rita Church. The candidates are Liz Beltran and Christetta Chavez, both of Carrizozo, and Neinfa Chavez of Capitan. The 1982 queen will be crowned by last year's queen, Kelly Vigil. The winner will be presented with a set of luggage. Runners-up will receive gold chains at the fiesta dance Saturday evening at Nike Hall. The dance will feature the Starliners, and there will be an admission charge of $5 per person. Children under 12 will be admitted

The queen contest has run the month of July with activities held to promote the fiesta. Candidates have sponsored quilt shows, bake sales, Mexican dinners, a teen dance in Capitan, cake walks and, perhaps the most unique, a sparring exhibition by heavyweight boxer Randall "Tex" Cobb. According to Fr. Dave Bergs, this year's queen contest is among the best in the posole, frito pie and chile bowls will be served in Santa Rtta Parish Hall.

The vesper service and benediction to be held in Santa Bita Church on Friday, July 30, at 7 p.m., will feature the queenrandidates in the entrance procession. Present also will be the Spanish Dancers of Capitan to perform following the service, as will the Santa Rita Choir.

The Knights of Columbus' 2nd

Annual Golf Scramble will be held Saturday, July 31, at the Carrizozo Golf Course. Registration for this event starts at 9 a.m. with tee off time at 10 o'clock. Trophies and other prizes will be awarded at this tournament.

The fiesta began in the winter of 1979, and later was held in conjunction with the People's Market. The fiesta and market have grown to where more than 50 exhibitors have taken space for People's Market Place, coming from Roswell, El Paso, Las Cruces and other cities.

This year's People's Market Place will be held at Spencer Park and will feature the Hondo Dancers performing after the 11 a.m. fiesta mass at Spencer Park. In addition to food and crafts booths, there will be a Pretty Legs contest at 1 p.m., the Spanish Dancers of Capitan at 3:30 and the raffle drawings at 4 p.m.

A lot of money will be spent in Carrizozo this weekend at the Fiesta and People's Market Place, especially if people enjoy nachos, egg rolls, burritos, frito pies, sun tea, snow cones, popcorn, cakes, lemonade, tamales, fresh produce, new and used clothing, oil paintings, children's toys, pottery, weavings, watercolors, flea markets, wood art, jewelry, leathercraft, quilts, antiques - and pretty legs!

'Communication needed at county level'—Fran Hill

"One of the critical problems is communication to the county levels." said Fran Hill. GOP candidate for secretary of state.

Speaking at the July 20 meeting of Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County in Carrizozo, Hill outlined the duties of the office, what she sees as the major problems and how she would handle them.

"The secretary has many duties, the most important of which is running state elections." she said. "The secretary is also third in line of succession to the governor." Other major duties include handling a million-dollar budget, registering lobbyists. opening the House of Representatives until a speaker is selected. and "a lot of record-keeping."

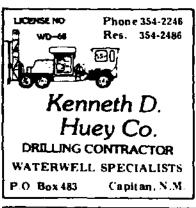

When asked how she would deal with communication problems between the secretary's office and county clerks. Hill suggested a Hot Line and better

if canned zucchini went bad last year, try this method

The abundance of zurching produced in home gardens has led to many new recipes using the vegetable. One of these recipes is a home canned product that looks and tastes like pineapple but is made from zucchini squash. In the last year, some variations of the recipe were found to be potentially

As a result, a recipe has been developed which has sufficient lemon juice, is cooked long enough, and has an adequate processing time to be safe. Canners should discard any old recipes and try the following recipe which has been tested for safetv.

ZUCCHINI-PINEAPPLE 4 quarts zucchini, grated or

11/2 cups bottled lemon juice (standardized acidity) 1 can (46 oz.) unsweetened

pineapple juice 3 cups sugar

Coarsely grate or cut small cubes of zucchini after removing peel. Mix all ingredients thoroughly and simmer for 20 minutes. Stir frequently. Fill clean hot jars with hot zucchini mixture, leaving 12 inch headspace. Be careful to distribute evenly the solids and liquid among the various jars. If there is a desire to add pineapple flavoring. it may be done in the mixture before simmering.

- TWO OLD friends who have contributed so much to America have met tragic ends. Last week Dave Garroway, originator of NBC's "TODAY SHOW" back in the 1950's, committed suicide. A few weeks before, Max Rafferty, former Superintendent of Public Schools for California, a scholar and historian who lost a US Senate race to Alan Crauston because he wouldn't campaign, died in a car accident in Alabama.
- BACK IN the 1950s I was a look-alike for Dave Garroway. People were always mistaking me for the star of the TODAY Show, About 1958 I flew to New York to be on Garroway's show. He was a warm person, and he knew his job. On the show I told of the time my wife and I were having dinner in a Mexico City restaurant when a man rushed over with hand extended, crying "Dave Garroway!" I had to go through the routine of denying it. He said he had worked with Garroway at KDKA, Pittsburgh, several years before and was sure I was he. I told my wife that I was through explaining my likeness, and from now on (in Mexico at least) I would admit to being Garroway. We went to the Monteleone night club after dinner, and word quickly ran through the crowd that Dave Garroway was there. A bottle of champagne appeared on our table, compliments of the orchestra. The dinner was on the house. People started coming by for autographs. More champagne appeared. For the first time in my life I was a famous public figure and I was savoring it to the hilt. The champagne was taking hold. The last thing I remembered was dancing with some old gal from New York. The next morning my wife wasn't speaking to me. It wasn't until that afternoon she finally told me what happened. Somebody had come to me with a menu to be autographed, a request to which I acceded (according to my wife) with courtly elegance by seizing the menu and writing "Ernest V. Joiner" across it with large script. El gato was out of the bag. She said we made it to an exit two jumps ahead of a flying wedge of enraged waiters intent on collecting for the dinners and whatever else. Fortunately, a taxi was standing outside with motor running, and we sped into the night with half the night club patrons in hot pursuit. Fame is fleeting, but we were fleeter! Garroway loved it. Following his wife's suicide later, Garroway left the TODAY Show and never again achieved the success he enjoyed then. The public forgot him. He once told a friend he felt like an old shoe that nobody wanted. But he started the first talk show and established the format which continues. His trademark was horn-rimmed glasses and polka-dot bow tie, along with his closing each show with palm extended toward camera, uttering one quiet, sincere word, "Peace." Peace to you, Dave Garroway.
- MAX RAFFERTY was an intellectual giant, a fervent patriot, writer, and columnist whose hard-hitting, pungent columns made editors cringe. He used the figures available through his office to prove public education to be a national scandal and disgrace. He tried to upgrade curriculumn, eliminate incompetent teachers protected by tenure laws, and bring a love for America to public school students. In doing so he enraged the education bureaucracy, state and national. He was more than a match for them all. He decided to take his battle to the US Senate, and after winning the Republican nomination handly, he felt he had the battle won. He was upset by an obscure non-entity with leftwing connections that made Teddy Kennedy look like Herbert Hoover. He left California to become Dean of Education at Troy State University in Alabama. but continued his column and lectures until his death at 65. He was my friend, and the first to open my eyes about the sorry condition of our public school system that graduates 50 percent of its enrollment as "functionally illiterate." Peace, Max Rafferty.
- A GOURMET, opined the late Lucius Beebe, is one who can tell from the flavor whether a woodcock's leg is the one on which the bird is accustomed to roost. The French originated and perpetuated the fallacy that the great chefs are French. In fact, the French are terrible cooks. Having suffered malnutrition and stomach disorder in that hopeless land, my kindest thought on French cookery is the chef's ability to concoct wondrous sauces which they slosh over rotten meat to quell the stench and taste so that $50 may be extracted from the diner. Elsewhere, cooks can construct a coq au vin, steaks diane and pheasant under glass. None of them can soft-scramble an egg. After having sought softscrambled eggs in 45 of our 50 and in 17 foreign countries, I am convinced there exists a worldwide conspiracy against softscrambled eggs. Even the most accomplished cooks have two ways of scrambling eggs - hard, like concrete; and dry, as in sun-cured adobe bricks. But persistence paid off last week. I went into the Black Range Restaurant in Truth or Consequences and, from nostalgia, ordered soft-scrambled eggs. I mused that since I wasn't hungry, the eggs would fill my need for a doorstop at home. The waitress brought perfectly beautiful soft-scrambled eggs! I went to the kitchen to meet this unique cook and get his autograph. His name is Rudy. He understands eggs. Stop in and savor his eggs before he's done in by the Gourmet Masia.
- AS OF today we have laws against drunk driving, drunk horseback riding, drunk bicycle riding, drunk flying, being drunk in public, being drunk at home, drunk roller skating, drunk bull riding, drunk running and jogging and drunk bus riding. Now comes the National Safety Transportation Board with plans to eliminate drunk railroading. A poll, according to the Wall Street Journal, shows that 19 percent of railroad employees are "problem" drinkers. Take heart. It is still not illegal to get drunk and go swimming until you step out of the water. Oh . . . it's still okay to die drunk. Do you get the feeling that Prohibition is back with us?
- CITIZENS of Sanford, Michigan, pop. 875, tired of being taxed. recently voted to abolish their town . . . The Old West had stalwart women who ran their ranches single-handedly. Today 5 percent of the nation's 2.5 million farms and ranches are run solely or principally by women, if you can believe the US Department of Agriculture . . . In 1928 President Herbert Hoover said: "We in America today are nearer to the final triumph over poverty than ever before in the history of any land." In 1982 the Associated Press reported that last year 2.2 million Americans joined the poverty ranks to bring the total number of poor to 31.8 million - in spite of the hundreds of billions of dollars spent to banish poverty. Which brings us to Joiner's Law: The number of poor people is in direct proportion to the billions of dollars spent to overcome poverty." . . . If you don't rend the National Examiner you missed this piece of information in foot-high type across the front page: "Hitler is Alive" and in more modest type underneath: "At age 93, Nazi madman masterminded Argentina's invasion of the Falklands." Shucks, and all this time we thought Hitler was running the Internal Revenue Service . . .
- THE MARK STEINE family of Ohio were lucky to be in Carrizozo last week. The small plane piloted by Steine and carrying his wife and two children, lost oil pressure and had to be landed on Highway 54 three miles north of Carrizozo. There were no injuries and the plane was undamaged. It will remain at Carrizozo Airport until the engine can be repaired and certified by FAA inspectors. The Steine family, which was enroute from Ruidoso to Santa Fe, continued the journey in a rented car. Country highways make great landing fields. Back when I was flying planes I frequently used highways for taking off and landing, particularly in wet weather. The highway patrol didn't approve, but it had a hard time pulling us over to the curb for a tongue-lashing!

"THAT'S FOR LABORATORY ANIMALS... WE'RE FIELD MICE!"

Editorial Comment 'Jezebel found not guilty'

(Mr. Rick Hahn is paster of the Sebastopol (CA) Christian Church, and wrote the following for the church newsletter, The Good News, following John Hinckley's "not guilty" verdict.)

Jezebel was a wicked woman. She arranged the cold-blooded murder of her neighbor Naboth so that she could take his vineyard for her husband, King Ahab.

God's judgment was that Jezebel would die for her premeditated murder and stealing. This sentence was carried out a short time later, the Bible says.

But what if Jezebel had committed the same crime today in 1982, and had been tried by a court in the USA? Let me suggest a likely scenario.

The court, after considering the expert testimony of some of the nation's most eminent psychiatrists and psychologists, would arrive at the following conclusion:

"WE, the court, after much deliberation, have reached what is a fair and reasonable verdict. Whereas, on the surface it appears that Jezebel is a corrupt, scheming, hard-hearted woman worthy of severe punishment, the following testimony must be taken into consideration:

"(1) Jezebel was a worshipper of Baal and therefore did not have the benefit of the teaching of the Ten Commandments against stealing and murder. She cannot be held responsible for crimes of which she was ignorant. If anyone is to blame, it is her parents for failing to raise her in the right religion.

"(2) Ahab, her husband, was a spineless, passive man, if he had taken charge of his marriage as he should have, Jezebel would never have become so domineering. Also, he enjoyed the women of his harem more than his own wife, and we all know what happens to a woman when her husband scoms her.

"(3) Naboth had not conformed to a recent zoning ordinance which prohibited the planting of orchards, vineyards or other commercial gardens within 1,000 yards of the palace grounds. Even though the vineyard had been originally planted by Naboth's great-grandfather more than 200 years ago, he' had been given the sufficient 39-day notice to remove it. Thus, Naboth was guilty of placing undue temptations before Jezebel.

"(4) Being queen, Jezebel dined sumptuously every day. Upon examination of a recent blood sample, it was found that her blood-sugar level was way above normal, leading to delusions, hot flashes, and other mental disorders. We assume that it was during such a time as this that the murder was conceived and that she did not recover until it was too late.

"The court recommends the apprehension and immediate incarceration of the palace chef and kitchen staff.

"In conclusion, WE, the court, find dezebel not guilty by reason of insanity on all charges. We recommend that she be admitted to the state hospital until she is found to be sane and is able to reign once again as our Queen."

How far we have "progressed" from the primitive ways of the Bible!

Inside Religion

Mark Lane's dubious clients: Peoples Temple and the PLO

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING

Attorney Mark Lane of Memphis has founded a new organization which is calling for the United States to cancel all aid to Israel until that nation recognizes the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Lane organized the National Council on the Middle East, he told "Cincinnati Enquirer" religion writer Ben Kaufman, "because I'm a Jew, and you can't be in the Jewish tradition and oppress others."

Lane maintains that Israel's Prime Minister Menachim Begin is a "traitor" to this tradition, "while the PLO represents the Palestinian people — about that there is no question."

Indeed not. Any Palestinian who dares to question those who have the guns is very likely to be added to the PLO's extensive list of civilians it has murdered.

Attorney Lane initially won national attention by raising doubts about the extensive investigations of the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

His book "Rush to Judgment" was itself bardly regarded by a bulk of the American public as any kind of model of unrushed judgment, so much as unencumbered sensationalism.

After such postmortem false alarms, it might have been expected that Lane would have lowered his profile. But he soon found a large and financially well-heeled church client.

This large local congregation was a member in good standing of the Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, which denomination is a member of the National Council of Churches. Name: The People's Temple. Pastor: The Rev. Jim Jones

Only weeks before this congregation's mast suicide-murder in Jonestown, Guyana, Lane held a press conference in Georgetown, Guyana. He charged the United States government with conspiring to destroy the People's Temple. He also threatened to file a lawsuit against the Attorney General of the US as well as the Department of State, the FBI and the CIA, Within days, Lane repeated these charges during a press conference he called in San Francisco. Here he added the Treasury Department, IRS and even the US Postal Service to his list to be sued by this church.

Lane then began conducting a media blitz to defend Jonestown and to report how really happywere all of Pastor Jones' flock. He strongly objected to the visit to Jonestown of Congressman Leo Ryan (D., CA), which he termed "a witch hunt."

Then, just before the beginning of Jonestown's mass suicides and murders, Lane and his fellow attorney, Charles Garry, crept away and hid in the bushes—instead of trying to stop the slaughter, even at the risk of their lives.

Now that the PLO and Mark Lane have found (and deserve) each other, it would seem appropriate for him to go back into the bushes — and preferably to crawl back under a rock.

New Mexico in Washington

Differing opinions on a second memorial to FDR

By TOM & LESTER KINSOLVING

WASHINGTON — Both of New Mexico's members of the US House of Representatives have voted against a multi-million dollar memorial to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, which was supported in a voice vote by their fellow Republican, Sen. Harrison Schmitt. (Sen. Dominici's office has no record, at this writing, as to how he voted on this resolution.)

The proposed memorial, to be built around the western edge of the Tidal Basin near the Jefferson Memorial, consists of a 14-foot high wall which is 800 feet long—at a cost of $38,750 per foot, according to Congressional Budget Office estimates.

This memorial, which includes waterfalls, pools, gardens and sculpture, will be the second memorial to FDR. For on Pennsylvania Ave., adjacent to the National Archives Building, is the memorial which Roosevelt told Suprement Court Justice Felix Frankfurter he wanted: a simple marble slab no larger than his deak.

This memorial was erected, having been paid for by private donation, in 1965, 20 years after his death.

The proposed second FDR memorial is designed by San Francisco architect Lawrence Halperin and is a modification of a $50 million memorial proposed in 1978 and criticized by Secretary of the Interior Cecil Andrus. (The proposal included a 1,200 foot wall as well as a visitors center. It would have cost the taxpayers $1.2 million a year to maintain.)

In addition to the $31,000,000 cost to build this second FDR memorial, the maintenance is estimated to cost three-quarters of a million more dollars every year.

When asked during an interview with this newspaper why he had supported this multimillion dollar proposal for a second FDR memorial, Sen. Schmitt replied: "I didn't agree in retrospect with a lot of FDR's policies. And I think he misrepresented what he accomplished - actually what World War II accomplished - as being his accomplishments. But when you look at a president who served four terms; who clearly had the broad support of the vast majority of the American people; who served wisely in the years preceding World War II in foreign policy and in the early years of the war; he has to be ranked as one of the great presidents. There's no question about it."

As to the cost of this second FDR memorial, Sen. Schmitt added: "Remember, those are these year dollars: If you compare them with the dollars spent on memorials to other presidents, they wouldn't amount to very much. We don't seem to be able to get as much out of a buck these days as they did back in Lincoln's time."

Completion of the second FDR memorial will, if the joint resolution is signed by President Reagan, take an estimated three years. It may have one benefit in bringing an end to the 25-year-old FDR Memorial Commission (four liouse members, four Senators and four private citizens) which, in addition to its regular expenses, has spent more than half-a-million dollars trying to produce an acceptable memorial plan.

On another issue, Sen. Schmitt was asked about the reports that members of Congress have been using both cocaine as well as male and female Congressional pages for sexual favors — and what he believes Congress should do about this.

"I have no personal knowledge that this is true," he answered. "If it were true, it is obviously reprehensible. And if the allegations can be proved, appropriate discipline should be considered — including expulsion."

On the issue of the nuclear freeze proposed by his fellow Republican, Sen. Mark Hatfield (R., OR), and Sen. Edward Kennedy (D., MA), Schmitt said this is "an important concept as long as it is qualified to assure that there is not in any way a unilateral movement away from our responsibilities as the only champion of freedom in the world. That if there ever is a freeze, it be a freeze first - but clearly a commitment to reduction later from a position of parity which does not exist today - and that it. can be verified."

When asked how it can be verified, the New Mexico Senator replied: "The Soviet Union would have to agree to whatever technical measures would be required, on-site or otherwise, in order to verify that such a freeze is effective."

Concerning reports that there is a possibility — mentioned by Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker (R., TN) at the White House—of loading PLO personnel abound US Navy ships, Sen. Schmitt was asked if he believes the PLO should be allowed to retain their weapons aboard our ships.

Schmitt replied that while this is up to President Reagan, "It would surprise me if the United States would agree to the PLO evacuating with their weapons on a US vessel. I would not expect that to happen."

As to the vestibility of States

As to the possibility of State Department personnel being able to order any Marines landing in Beirut to hold their fire — as Marine embassy guards have been ordered to do by ambassadors—Schmitt said, "I have no idea whether an ambassadorial position would fit into that structure or not. But I suspect it would not."

Diary describes life in Lincoln County at turn of the century

County who remember the Hall Family, Howard Brown Hall wrote a lengthy narrative describing his childhood in this ares so that his family would have details of life on the frontier at the turn of the century. The account is of the hardships, joys and sorrows that marked the lives of frontier folks in Lincoln County and elsewhere in the West. It is a poignant story of how a boy was a man at age 5, and how good folks at Angus, Alto, Carrizozo, Ft. Stanton, Capitan and White Oaks

all of Lincoln County their dams on the river which ran through the place. This was Ruidoso River. My older sisters also helped with the gardening, and so forth, with all the duties that go with a ranch.

My father had to seek work at a place across the mountain at Ft: Stanton, which was a Marine TB Hospital, still in force, to help supplement the income for the family survival. He went to work as a general laborer, farm hand, and carpenter helper for $1.00 a day and room and board in the mess hall. We worked 80 days a month. We, the family, still lived on the ranch for about a year and Dad would come home every two or three months. It was on the ranch that I used to ride with the cowboys on the cattle roundups and drives, and I was only five years old.

While Dad was working at Ft. Stanton, he, with some of his friends who worked with him, built a small house for us to live in. After about a year and a half of working at the fort, Dad decided to move the family from the farm to a place owned by one of his good friends. It was a small cattle place, but much more convenient and closer to the family. The place was and still is Alto, New Mexico. It was just a Post Office and grocery store.

While we were living on the ranch, two of my sisters worked for a good neighbor, a Mrs. Peebles. They did not receive any money for their services but were paid with a cow and an old mare and her colt. The cow got rattlesnake bit and died. My sister next older than I rode the mare and colt to school across the mountain to Angus, New Mexico. The teacher was a blind man with his wife. I at that time was five years old, approximately.

A year after living at the ranch. Dad had the house at Ft. Stanton in condition to live in, so we moved again. This move was over mountain roads by horse and wagon. When we got located at the fort, my mother went to work as a cook for the officers in the officer's mess hall. My two sisters, who are twins, went to work doing house work for the officers' wives.

Another sister and I rode horseback to school at Capitan, New Mexico, approximately 7 miles across the mountains, just a short cut trail, and we nearly froze on numerous occasiors. But, we survived.

sister would stop and I would take the horses to the livery stable for the day and then walk back to school, 11/2 miles. Then in the evening I would have to walk back to get the horses and ride 7 miles and when we got home I took care of the horses, so I had quite a full

When Dad was working at the fort, he took a Civil Service Exam for the Department of Agriculture in Indian Service. He passed and was accepted and assigned a job in Laguna, New Mexico, on the Navajo Pueblo Reservation. We moved there from the fort and lived there for 3 or 4 years, when Dad decided the schooling was not sufficient for his children, so he gave up that job.

We moved again, this time to White Oaks, New Mexico, where he went to work at a tungsten mine, The McCormick Mine was the deepest dry mine in the world at that time, approximately 5,000 feet deep and not a drop of water in the mine. Dad was a hoist man at the 8,000 foot level. He did not care for that so, after 2 years we were on the move again. But, while we were at White Oaks, the next to the oldest girl ran off and got married to a neighbor's son, Roy Watson.

Roy was one of two brothers who were very nice young men, sons of a very prominent and well thought of family, who were mining people. Sister Georgia and Roy Watson were married in Globe, Ariz., where he was employed in a mine. When my sister was about to become a mother, she came home to my mother to take care of her baby, but the baby was stillborn and was buried in the Carrizozo, NM, cemetery.

At that time my mother was running a hotel for mostly railroad men as it was the first division point on the E.P. & S.W. Railroad, mid-way between El Paso and Vaughn, NM. I remember that burial quite well, as the casket was made of a decorated shoe box.

When the Hall family moved from Laguna, NM, to White Oaks, we moved into an empty building which had been a doctor's office and drug store with a big basement used for a storage room and in the room were numerous bottles and jars that had toes, feet, and hands in preserving fluids. It was quite a gruesome place to live. especially to a boy of 8 years of

We moved from there as soon as we could find a house to live in. My father continued his work at the mine for a year before he went to Arizona to take the miner's course in mining engines. He took care of the mine stationary gas engines. He was already a qualified mechanic, After being in the mine in Arizona for 6 months or so, having completed his work on the engines, he returned to Carrigozo, NM, to the hotel Mother was running,

The hotel was owned by a man named Vincent Real, who also owned a garage next door. When Dad returned he went to work as a mechanic and service car driver, When he was driving, he would drive mostly for traveling salesmen to all the surrounding towns. The roads were mostly Glorified Cow Trails.

After a try at this work, Dad decided to change places of employment and he being a farmer and rancher, took the job for a Mr. Jim Nabors at Three Rivers, NM. about 20 miles from Carrizozo. My sister Clara and her twin sister Mary, who was now Mrs. Jim Morris, and myself stayed with Dad at the ranch and they kept the house. Jim was quite ill and they thought it best to go back to the hotel with Mother. In a short time Jim passed away, leaving my sister and her bables without a means of support. My sister stayed at the hotel for a period of time doing domestic work helping Mother. Later she remarried a very good man, W.E. Elliott, who was a master painter, and also a master of numerous professions. I remember he made the first radio the Hall family owned, a quartz

After a couple of years at the hotel, Mother decided to take leave and take a job as cook for a Mrs. Johnson on the upper Ruidoso, who operated the White Mountain Inn, a summer resort which catered to high class people of El Paso, Texas, and other cities. Mr. Johnson was a United States Senator from NM at the

My duties at the Inn were to run errands for my mother and I did the light chores at the inn. Mostly I rode up and down the country roads to pick up the butter and eggs from people who had them to sell. My means of travel was a moon-eyed quarter horse, a palamino, and a beautiful nice blood red bay. As there was no work at the inn for my father, he obtained work at Capitan for the largest store in the country. The owner was Mr. George Titsworth. My father's job was to haul crude oil used for fuel at a wild cat drilling company based in the lower Hondo Valley in Picacho, NM. The rig Dad drove was a new white truck with carbide lights.

While Mother was working for Mrs. Johnson at the inn, my sisters Vera, Virginia, Marjorie, Ina, my brother Gail and myself and later my sister Elsie all lived with Mother at the inn.

When Elsie left the emplayment of the Western Union Telegraph Co. at Carrizozo, she stayed a short time with Mother, then she went to El Paso, TX and resumed work with the Western Union Telegraph Co. handling the Mexican line. While there she stayed at the Y.W.C.A. She met and later married an Army man. Alka T.A. Heitz. He was a soldier from New York, stationed at Ft. Bliss. After the marriage, they moved to New York, near the town of Walden, his home town. To this marriage was born four girls and one boy, who at this date is 46 years of age and I have not had the pleasure of seeing him.

Before we moved to the White Mountain Inn, while we were living at Carrizozo, my sister Elsie and myself and Ina attended the public school where Elsie. graduated before she went to work for the Western Union. She later became manager of the office at Carrizozo.

I was just a little brat getting into all kinds of mischief and devilment. A Mr. Conway was the school professor, a Miss Humphry was my teacher, and me being such a brat I had to sit at the back of the room by myself. One time I made a dart out of a needle and a wood match and a guide of paper placed in one end of the match, the needle in the other end. I heaved this missile across the room hitting a Mexican boy named Sylvester in the side of the head above the ear. For this the teacher put me under her desk, where I ate up her lunch from her lunch box she had under there, For that act she sent me to the hall for the remainder of the aay.

Our room being on the second floor, I had a ball sliding down the bannister until I got caught and was sent to the Professor's office where he took me to the Domestic Science room and proceeded to use his belt on me.

When finished, he sent me back to my room and Miss Humphry told me to sit on the front seat so she could watch me. I stuck my tongue out at her and she jumped up from her chair. grabbed me by the hair and let me have it in the face, blacking both my eyes, which cost her her job as a teacher. Also, Sylvester, the Mexican boy that I hit with the dart, gave me a whipping every day that he could catch me, which was quite often.

After a year at the inn, Mother decided to quit as the work was too hard for her, so we moved to Capitan where we stayed for approximately a year, until Dad finished at the wildcat well, an oil (Continued on page 6) drilling 5,000 feet.

Dad contacted Senator Albert B. Fall of New Mexico, who owned a beautiful ranch and farm at Three Rivers, NM, He was hired to manage the farm portion which was in alfalfa for hay and some fruit and a fine pecan orchard.

When we moved from the inn to Capitan, I was at that time 12 years old. I drove our milk cow (which Mother had purchased from a neighbor). When I got the cow to Capitan we put her on a pasture which was a mile from town, which was a twice a day task for me plus the well on the place was at the back and that place was an additional one-half mile which Lhad to walk and draw up the water with a bucket and rope, a tub full every day so the cow could have water to drink. Approximately 5 miles per day was the distance I had to travel by foot as I had no horse at that time.

Dad went to the Fall Ranch a couple of months before the family moved. When the time came to move I rode the train from Capitan to Carrizozo, then on to Three Rivers. On arriving at Three Rivers, I had to walk 3 miles to the ranch to borrow a horse so I could drive our cow.

I spent the night at the Fall house and early next day after breakfast, walked another 2 miles to get a loco Mexican cow horse which I rode 56 miles from Three Rivers to Carrizozo to Capitan. J nearly rode that horse to death, but made it. After a night's rest to get that loco horse and cow on the road to Three Rivers, The first day I made it to Carrizozo, approximately half the way, and I put the cow in a wagon yard owned by the brother of the teacher that blacked my eyes. I milked the cow, took the milk to sister Mary (Mrs. Elliot) who

I was dead tired when I got there. The family had moved into the house that was formerly lived in by the former sheriff of Lincoln County, Pat Garrett, the man who shot Billy the Kid. He was the same man my Uncle George Coe had ridden and fought with in the Lincoln County War between the cowboys and Mexicans, when Uncle George had one of his fingers shot off.

While we were on the Fall place, we had quite a nice place to live. I used to help with hat harvesting and hay balling, which was hard work for a 12 year old to do. Senator Fail had a beautiful ranch home. Also, he and his 2 sons-in-law owned Hatchett Cattle Ranch, located in Three Rivers and Tularosa, NM. Senator Fall had beautiful cattle, sheep, horses, Persian and Clydesdale draft animals and also Kentucky gaited horses, which I rode. He had the first Guernsey cow in the country. I remember throwing a rock at a ram, missed the ram but hit a register heifer Guernsey calf in the head and killed it.

The sheep were penned up at night in a corner next to the milk cow lot. One evening Mrs. Fall was at the corner talking to one of the men who was her cook and the ram got the gate open somehow and was in the pen with the cows. He charged Mrs. Fall and knocked her down a couple of times before I could get her rescued and get her out of the pen. Mrs. Fall was very grateful for what I did, so they did not make me pay for the calf I had accidently killed.

Senator Fall owned the water from the White Mountains. A concrete ditch had been built from the mountains to the railroad which he supplied with water. The water was also used for his own personal use in irrigating his alfalfa farm and irrigating his pecan orchard. Mother was a wonderful gardener, so she raised our vegetables plus vegetables for Mrs. Fall.

My sister Ina and I walked to school to Three Rivers for 3 years, which was hard in the winter. I finished grade school at Three Rivers.

On the farm we had an old Model T chain drive truck on which I learned to drive. One time while cranking the truck, it kicked back, dislocating my right wrist. Dad was close by so he just grabbed my arm and jerked it hard and it popped back in place. but it was swollen for several

Another time I took the truck and went to the lumber mill on the Mescalero Indian Reservation for a load of lumber. On the way back with the load, I crossed a small dip in the road. The load was quite long, so when I started up the opposite side, the front wheels reared up and I had to sit until a couple of Mexican cowboys came by and stood on the front end to hold it down till I got up the bank. I was nearly scared to death, but made the trip without any more mishaps.

Another time I took the truck and went up the river to where there were ten or twelve bee hives of bees that were to be moved. I got them loaded quite easily, but the bumpy bed truck jostled the hives so much and angered the bees that they were all over the truck so I took to the hills leaving the truck and bees for someone else to take care of. The next day Dad sent a couple of Mexicans in the early morning to finish the job.

After Senator Fall was found guilty in the Tea Pol Dome Oil scandle, Dad decided to find another place to live. He went to Texas to visit his brother Wade. who was the minister. Wade now owned a half section of farm land in West Texas, Lubbock County. Dad went to see about renting the land. There was a family living on the farm, so Dad decided to move to the farm in September of 1920.

The Hall family loaded up lock, stock, and barrel in a box car, and all the personal belongings, and bade faree belongings, and bade farewell to New Mexico. We were Texasbound again.
