Carrizozo school board

Principal Dennis Sidebottom rehired

Carrizozo School Principal Dennis Sidebottom was re-hired and offered a two-year contract at Tuesday's board of education meeting.

The board had previously reviewed Sidebottom's evaluation which had been made available to them by Supt. Dr. James P. Miller. Miller recommended to the board that Sidebottom be hired on a two-year contract.

The board recounted statements of approval expressed by community members concerning Sidebottom's performance. Among accomplishments cited was the principal's "better overall discipline as compared to prior years" and how this contributed to the learning process. Good rapport with the faculty was another plus quoted by board members.

It was announced at Tuesday's meeting that Helen Lock, administrative aide to the superintendent, would retire in June. Lock has worked for the Carrizozo school system more than 20 years.

Sidebottom said participants "will come to grips with anti-social behavior," and that "tutorial help" will be available.

Hollis, a substitute teacher, will offer tutoring and counseling help. The key factor is to make GOETA program participants aware of vocational opportunities. Special counseling material will be available to Hollis.

Sidebottom said participants "will come to grips with anti-social behavior," and that "tutorial help" will be available.

The school plans to manage the swimming pool again this year

Miller and the board discussed a pool opening timetable, swimming program, funding sources and capital improvements. An agreement between Arriba, Inc. and the district will be drafted and ready for the next board meeting.

District-owned land located near the school has been graded in preparation for developing into a "running area" for elementary students, and practice and P.E. purposes for other grades. Miller commended Everette Greer for volunteer work on the piece of land.

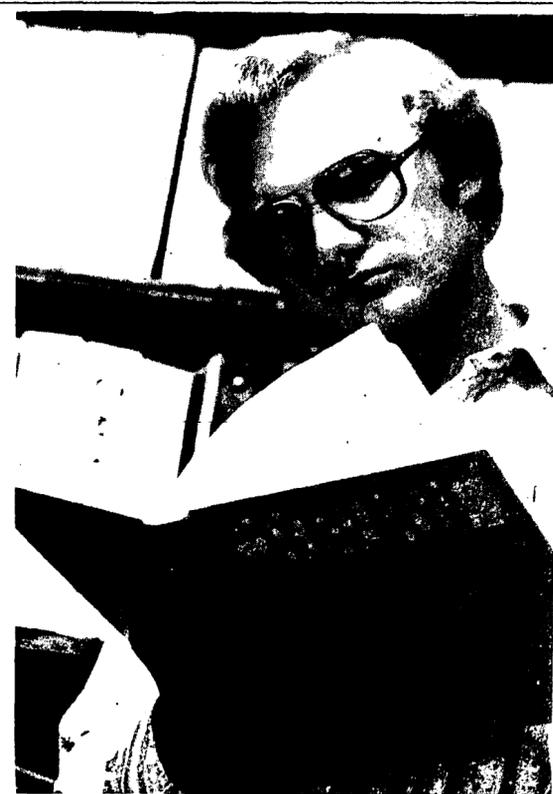

The board moved to increase school facility rent from $15 to $20 per month because of energy costs. Eventually the charge will be upped to $25. One or two-time users will not be charged a fee. The charge is only for non-youth organizations.

Miller said the fee is low to encourage people to use the facilities. "If nominal rent is an incentive, then that's what we ought to do."

In other business the board was given the Friday itinerary of the visit of Mrs. Bruce King. The main purpose of the governor's wife trip to Carrizozo is to recognize the FFA chapter's work in the construction and installation of solar panels. Mrs. King will also officiate at a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the FFA barn.

Board member, Wally Ferguson has been named to a seat on the State Vocational Advisory Council. He will serve as agricultural representative, a two-year position.

Board members were informed that the Dist. VII Association Meeting will be held April 6 in Capitan. Dist. VII includes the southwest section of the state.

ROBERT RICHARDSON, a New Mexico State University student from Nogal, recently won the Zone 3 division of the nationwide Daniel W. Mead Paper Contest for civil engineers. He will present his paper, "The Ethics of Serving Two Masters," at the April 26 national convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers in Las Vegas, NV. He is the son of Philip and Helen Richardson of Nogal, and a 1978 graduate of Capitan High School.

FFA's Red Barn

Laboratory going up

A red barn has appeared on the horizon a mile west of town providing a place where Carrizozo citizens' children or grandchildren will learn animal husbandry.

What are they going to learn here?

They will learn how to cut up a beef, raise a lamb or wean a pig. It won't matter whether their names are Kelli, Rozanne, Mary Jane or Adrian, Johnny Bob or Dickie. Both sexes will have to do their share and go through the same learning process.

This solar heated barn is being constructed by Ken Wells, general contractor of Carrizozo. The barn, 2400 square feet, cost the Carrizozo Public School system $64,300. The seven acres of land upon which this barn stands were acquired in July, 1981. The barn construction began last month.

Ned Pieters is in charge of the plumbing contract and Gary Lovelace, the cement work. By far the greater percentage of the work on the barn is being done by local workmen, and as a result the economy of Carrizozo is benefitting by these additional finances being pumped into it.

"Why is this barn called the 'FFA Barn'?"

Because FFA students are doing a great deal of the work in completing the barn. The barn will also be a future classroom. Plans call for FFA students to build 10 calf pens and 10 hog pens, all outside. This will allow the town students, who do not have facilities at home to raise and to take care of animals, to learn through the experience.

In addition to the outside pens there will be indoor farrowing, lambing and calving pens and even room for a mare to foal. One side of the building will feature a walk-in cooler and freezer, meat cutting room, bathroom and feed storage area.

Plans are on the drawing board for the construction of a sales ring, Auction sale of pigs and lamb are now being planned for the 1982-83 school year. The school Vocational Advisory Committee is currently working on a program of donations to acquire material and tools in order that students can be taught how to quick-freeze, cut and wrap hanging carcass. Any person interested in contributing money, tools or material to this program should contact Scott Shafer at 648-2377 or Dr. Jim Miller at 648-2451.

When completed, the barn will have room for approximately 20 animals. About 40 FFA students will be transported to the barn every day. Necessary chores will be taken care of and vocational-agriculture classes will be taught.

"If you son or daughter (or grandchildren) comes home talking about 'scours in calves' or 'docking lambs,' you will realize that the red FFA barn is worth every penny the school system spent on it," said Woody Schlegel, president of the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce.

Columbia might land at White Sands Range

The odds may be against it, but if any situation causes the space shuttle Columbia to land at Northrup Strip, White Sands Missile Range, will be ready.

While the Columbia undergoes pre-launch testing on the pad at Kennedy Space Center, FL., preparations continue quietly but actively at WSMR for a possible landing on Northrup Strip.

Although a landing here is unlikely, the strip and personnel of NASA's White Sands Test Facility, White Sands Missile Range and Holloman Air Force Base will be prepared as they were for the spaceship's first two flights, STS-1 and STS-2.

The Columbia will be piloted on its third flight by Jack Lousma and C. Gordon Fullerton. The pair completed their pre-launch practice landing approaches at Northrup on March 5, part of a continuing program for all shuttle pilots and backup pilots.

NASA technicians at Kennedy will push the button for the Columbia's third flight into space at 6 a.m. EST Monday, March 22. That will be 8 a.m. MST at WSMR.

Near-perfect flights and a preliminary countdown for flight three have been little more than routine, so NASA officials believe the shuttle will not land anywhere but as scheduled, at Edwards Air Force Base, CA.

Dates set for fair, rodeo

The Lincoln County Fair Board has set the Smokey Bear Stampede for July 2-3-4 and the Lincoln County Fair for Aug. 18-19-20-21.

Forty persons attended the board meeting in Capitan Monday night to hear how directors proposed to conduct the two annual events in the face of inflated costs. Mrs. Eleanor Jones, treasurer said the board had about $600 in the bank and owed about $13,000 on a new building. There were donations of $2100 to help defray the cost of last year's fair.

Directors voted to impose a stall fee of $2 for cows and steers, $1 for sheep, lambs, pigs and goats, and 50 cents for chickens and rabbits. There will also be a $1.50 entry fee for the Open Youth Horse Show. Admission to the rodeo will remain the same as last year, $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Adm., to dances, however got a boost from $3 to $3.50.

Stationary weighing scales will be installed in one of the fair buildings, with most materials and labor donated. Ernest Copeland proposed that trophies be awarded, not just to championship stock, but to reserve champions. He will attempt to get these trophies donated, and they will be awarded depending upon the number that will be available.

Another economy measure was a decision not to print fair books, but to mimeograph them as was done last year.

Prestone Stone was chairman of a nomination committee to name a vice-president and three directors. Elected by acclamation were Walt Jones, vice-president, and Gene Parker, incumbent. Ralph Dunlap and Hoot Gibson, directors.

Among other business, the board discussed affiliation with the New Mexico Rodeo Assn for the July 4 rodeo. Members of the board will meet with association representatives tonight (Thursday) for further discussion.

It was announced that FFA members will put on the barbecue. Linda Ponder will head a drive to find a girl between the ages of 16 and 21 to be Lincoln County Queen. The annual parade will be held in Capitan on Sunday, July 4, at 11 a.m.

President Charlie Jones observed that churches had agreed to shorten their worship hours to permit attendance at the parade. Pete Ponder will handle parking and traffic at the events.

Rich Richardson of Nogal, NMSU student-teacher, and Mike Gaines, vocational agriculture teacher and FFA adviser, stand in the vo-ag barn. Construction has started on a walk-in freezer and cooler area and a processing site.

FFA solar project

Governor's wife to present award

Mrs. Alice King, wife of New Mexico Gov. Bruce King, will arrive at Carrizozo Airport at 2:45 p.m. Friday, March 19, to present a plaque to the Carrizozo Future Farmers of American chapter for its outstanding solar project, the swimming pool at the Recreation Center.

School will be dismissed at 2:15 p.m. so that students may greet Mrs. King's plane at the airport. Also present will be an FFA delegation in their distinctive jackets, and FFA sponsor Mike Gaines; Mayor Harold Garcia; W.A. Schlegel, Chamber of Commerce president; and a contingent of the state police.

There will be a reception for the First Lady of New Mexico at the administration building at 3 p.m., hosted by Dr. James Miller, school superintendent; and Stirling Spencer, school board president. Also receiving Mrs. King will be Larue Wetzel, Julia Hollis, Nenna Vega, Helen M. Lock and Jane Erwin.

Following the reception, Mrs. King will be presented with a corsage and gifts from the FFA, along with the key to the city.

The presentation by Mrs. King will take place at the Recreation Center at 3:45 p.m., outside (weather permitting) where the solar panels can be viewed. Charles Wood of Appropriate Technology Small Grants Director, Santa Fe, will be master of ceremonies at the presentation.

The response will be by Matt Ferguson, president of the FFA.

The group will then tour the vocational agriculture department at Carrizozo Schools, after which there will be a ribbon cutting ceremony at the new vocational agriculture barn. Wallace Ferguson, of the state vocational advisory council, will be master of ceremonies.

Mrs. King is expected to depart from the airport at 5:45 p.m.

State slow paying utility bills

The Low Income Utility Assistance program is a state and nationally funded program to assist low-income families and senior citizens in paying their increasingly high utility bills.

It doesn't seem to be working.

Barbara Ward of the Zia Senior Citizens Center and project director for Corona, Capitan and Carrizozo, says that a number of families have received notices from Otero County Electric that their electric service will be discontinued.

Ward advises people receiving such notices to mail them to Santa Fe in the envelopes provided. The money is there, she said, and is just bogged down in the state political process.

Sister Cecilia, who has handled the program for Lincoln County, is in touch with Santa Fe and she has been assured that these bills will be paid. The payments are for natural gas, propane, and wood vendors.

Anyone with questions about these bills are asked to call the Zia Senior Citizens Center, 648-2121, during normal working hours.

Around Corona

Pallie Dishman has a party

By GERALDINE PERKINS

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lindsey, Wayne and Mike, hosted a delightful party in the recreation room Saturday afternoon. The honoree was Pallie Dishman, grandmother of Helen Kay. Pallie wore an orchid corsage and was lovely in a blue pantsuit. Her great granddaughter, Waynette Lindsey, presided at the guest book and greeted guests coming in out of the stormy weather. A daisy theme and colors of yellow and green were used. An arrangement of daisies and mums centered the refreshment table which was covered with a daisy cloth.

Johnnie Erramouspe and Patsy Mulkey assisted in serving cake, punch, coffee, nuts and mints. Mrs. Mulkey made the cake decorated with the March lion and lamb. The green and yellow napkins bore the inscription, "Happy Birthday Pallie, 1892-1982." Some of the tables held decorations made by Pallie from buttons, seeds, bois d'arc, etc.

Mrs. Lindsey had arranged a bulletin board with pictures of hobbies and family. This proved to be very interesting to the guests. There were pictures of tables made by Mr. Dishman and showing an arrangement of arrow points collected and formed into pictures by Pallie, some of her necklaces made from rattlesnake vertebrae, and other things.

There was a picture of the Hester family taken in 1913 showing Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Hester, their five sons and three daughters, a picture of Pallie and Wilbur taken in 1911; one of their old homestead east of Corona; pictures of the Dishman son and daughter, Ernest and Zelfa; of the two granddaughters, Joanne Stewart and Helen Kay Lindsey; and of the four great-grandchildren, Will and Amy Stewart and Michael and Waynette Lindsey.

And there were pictures marking the 15th and 64th wedding anniversaries and others from the time when Beta Sigma Phi chose Pallie as Corona's Woman of the Year.

The Virgil Owens were here from Farmington for the weekend.

Dan Teague was here from Thoreau last week looking for a spot to buy for a mobile home if he accepts a transfer to the Transwestern station here.

Mrs. Barley is the daughter of Mrs. Robinson and a niece of Mrs. Burner. They will be present Saturday when Robin Barley and Robert Cunningham are married. The newlyweds will make their home in Denver where Robin attends college and Mr. Cunningham is employed.

Mrs. Pallie Dishman has expressed again and again her appreciation for all the nice things being done to make her 90th birthday. She has enjoyed cards and telephone messages from many friends who are too far away to drop by for a cup of coffee.

Among those seen visiting at the Dishman birthday party were the honoree's son, Ernest Dishman; her daughter, Zelfa Atkinson; a niece, Jane Johnston and husband, Butch, of Mancos, CO; a long time friend, Edith "Dee-Dee" Atkinson Sloan of Claunch; and the Wayne Lindseys. Others present include Walter Cochran, Friona, TX, who brought the red roses placed on the table with the guest book; Dorothy Kerr, Bloomfield; Dorothy Ryberg, Clovis; Helen Sloan, Claunch; Lorena Radcliff, Tinnie; Lou Boyd and two granddaughters, Capitan; John Thomas, Lincoln; Sue Hughes, Estancia; Jo Hanlon and Dorothy Ruth Thomas, Mountainair; Ruth Wilson, Barbara Harkley, Vernelle Hightower, Janice Gnatkowski, Sally Jackson and Martha and Debbie Bond, all of Ancho; and Minnie Bea Chappell Ewing, Sue Callahan, Elmo and Babe Tracey, Mary Dudley and two daughters, all of Albuquerque. These people braved the snow and rain for an enjoyable afternoon of fellowship.

Temperatures for the last two weeks as registered at Lincoln Station show a low of 5 degrees on the 5th and a high of 67 on the 10th with total moisture 0.41 and wind gusting to 33 knots.

● THERE ARE ways to tell if your first week in Carrizozo is going to be a bad one. Your first visitor at the New office is a 350-pound, 6' 6" mean-looking hombre who minced no words: "I always wanted to hang an editor." Noting he carried no rope, I inquired if I had to provide both the neck and the rope. I've had this kind of proposition before but always after I had been settled in the editor's chair and published at least one edition. Turned out he thought I was somebody named Mike Swickert. Then you inquire about how to get a phone installed in your residence and this joker says I have to go to Albuquerque to make application, and I was half-packed for the trip before enlightenment set in. Then the phone was installed, and I was seeking a plumber in the phone book and found that my new number was also assigned to this plumbing outfit that no longer existed and didn't answer because my own phone was ringing off the wall and I wasn't there to answer it. Again, while wrestling with unpacked boxes of household goods, a cheerful guy from the cable TV company banged on the door and I opened it and he announced loudly and cheerfully: "I'm Hoot Gibson!" Being Tom Mix myself, I let him in. I know how this friend of mine felt. She said she knew she was in for a bad day when she put her bra on backward, and it fit.

● I LIKE the lead paragraph in a story in the Alamogordo Daily News: "More than 300 area residents turned out at the Planetarium in the wee hours of the morning today to see the world come to an end and lived to tell about it." The event was the alignment of nine planets, a phenomenon that occurs about once every 180 years. Those people must have been disappointed. We have a lot of calamity howlers who never give up. Every so often some "prophet" leads his faithful to a mountain top somewhere in this country to await Armageddon — usually after persuading them to sell or give away all their money and possessions. No matter how many times the world falls to come to an end, the true believers hang in there, and lead the pack to the next mountain top. There must be an emotional catharsis involved in such humbuggery. When things get dull in the Department of Calamity and Catastrophe, the faithful can wax hysterical about nuclear energy and the possibility of everything being blown to smithereens. If it weren't nuclear energy it would be a new type of hives, fire ants, lack of automobile seat belts, or the thought that Reagan might actually succeed in detaching the population from its dependence upon the public tit. We have some good news and some bad news for the calamity-prone. The good news is that they will have another shot at being obliterated in 1999 when the planets line up again. The bad news is that the world isn't going to disappear in a nuclear blast. But, keep the faith.

● I VENTURED into what's left of the Wild West Monday night by attending a Lincoln County Fair Board meeting in Capitan. It was also installation night for village officers elected earlier this month. That election must have been a cliffhanger, for Don Stark won by two votes. It should be called to national attention that the local election had a 98.9 voter turnout. If any town or city in the US can top this, the drinks are on me. There was no trouble locating the energetic village clerk, Leon Eggleston, who has been rated second most highly qualified village clerk in the United States by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks. Eggleston is working on his certification by the institute, and believes he is the only one in New Mexico to do so. Don Hutchinson, president of the Capitan Chamber of Commerce, informed me wryly that Capitan is the only town in New Mexico that Billy the Kid never visited. He also volunteered that Capistrano and its swallows in California is small potatoes because Capitan has its Buzzard Tree. Allowing for some leppulling, I learned that each year about this time a tree in Capitan fills up with buzzards. Nobody knows where they come from, why they choose Capitan, or why they do it. But if they're waiting around for the town to die, they can forget it.

● STUFF and nonsense: The federal government owns 35 percent of the land in Lincoln County and the state owns another 10 percent. If the cities own 5 percent, that makes government owning half the land mass of New Mexico. And half isn't enough. The IRS wants its share, and even has a prayer of its own: "Give us this day your daily bread." ... If you are a handyman and earn more than $7,200 in one year, you may be found guilty of not having a state license and clapped in irons. The state's excuse for this law is that it "protects the consumer." Sure ... Agnes Head is still running the Hobbs Flare, just as she was when I saw her back in 1938. ... I was interested to note that Fern Sawyer has a rancho in Lincoln County. I was a college classmate of her's. At that time she could whip any three men I knew, even fighting fair. No wonder she went on to become a world's champion cowgirl ... Mrs. Alice King, wife of Gov. Bruce King, will be in Carrizozo tomorrow. It may be a good time to ask her to use her influence on her husband to release those funds in Santa Fe to pay utility bills for needy area families who were promised payment and didn't get it. ... Ah, memories! Oliver LaGrone was the only black on the UNM campus back in 1938. Now a sculptor, poet and educator, I see where he worked, studied and taught on 21 Penn State campuses ... The Arkansas Supreme Court has ruled that a doctor who performed two unsuccessful vasectomies on a man doesn't have to pay for the care and education of a child the man fathered. Close call ... There is no substitute for higher education. I know a fellow who can explain in six different languages why he can't find a job ...

Editorial Comment

Whose road is it?

It was an interesting, if disturbing, letter to the people of Lincoln County written by Robert W. Lietzman in this newspaper last week.

According to Lietzman, there is a road on his O Bar O land which is being used as a public access road for people entering Lincoln National Forest. He says he bought and paid for the land on which the road is located, that it is a private road, and that he has the right to close the road because people who use it have committed vandalism, stole or damaged property, and caused land erosion.

Lietzman put a chain across the road to prevent further vandalism. The county manager instructed the sheriff to remove the chain and open the road, maintaining it as a county road.

If Mr. Lietzman's account is correct, the county has claimed ownership of a road on land Lietzman bought and paid for. If it is indeed a county road, then it is odd indeed that Mr. Lietzman has a deed to it.

We understand the trend in this nation is toward a "public ownership and enjoyment" of other people's property. There is ancient law to the effect that if people are permitted access to private property over a period of time, such trespass becomes legal. Which is something like holding that if a man robs a bank successfully for 20 years or more, he may legally continue to rob it.

Commissioners claim that the road has been in the county's inventory since 1938, and has been maintained by the county. They say they are willing to make a satisfactory exchange, a matter in which they believe Mr. Lietzman has been uncooperative.

The case will be heard Tuesday at the Lincoln County Courthouse. Regardless of the outcome, we suggest that any land deed hereafter granted identify any road on the property claimed by the county so that the owner will have knowledge of it.

'A soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains'

The Domenicis christen the USS Albuquerque

GROTON, CONN. — U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici (R-NM) Saturday praised efforts to modernize the armed forces of the nation in a speech delivered at the christening of the USS Albuquerque, the 23rd nuclear attack submarine in the naval fleet.

Domenici's wife, Nancy, christened the warship in ceremonies in this shipbuilding town.

"In a world of increasing repression, the light of freedom that shines in America is a beacon to the world — and an awesome responsibility to all of us," Domenici said. "We are meeting that responsibility as we must. No one wants peace more than the sailor who may be called to give his life in battle. But no sailor wants America to be too weak or too indecisive to stand up for what is right."

Domenici pointed out that recent polls are showing that Americans are becoming more and more concerned with military preparedness.

"As President Eisenhower noted, 'A soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains,'" Domenici told the crowd, which included many New Mexicans.

Domenici also stressed the safety and reliability of nuclear submarines and their great worth to military preparedness.

The USS Albuquerque is the 23rd nuclear attack submarine to be delivered to the Navy. Congress has authorized 39 such vessels. Two more have been requested for 1983 and a total of 17 new requests are envisioned through 1987.

"They are all part of a comprehensive plan to modernize and maintain our armed forces at the required level of readiness. I have no doubt that Congress will continue to support the goals of this plan — a sustainable re-arming of America. The cost will be large but it will be worth it," Domenici said.

Letters to the Editor

High cost of potholes

EDITOR: — It's no secret that it costs motorists more to drive over bad roads than good ones. But until The Road Information Program (TRIP) of Washington, DC, recently detailed the sad condition of New Mexico's rural road network did we know just how much we were being gouged.

The state's 750,000-plus drivers should be shocked and outraged to learn they're wasting nearly $150 million a year for the privilege of bouncing over broken, rutted and chewed-up pavement. That's a staggering $195 per driver, per year, being thrown out the window at a time when all of us are faced with tough financial decisions.

New Mexico — like most western states — is heavily dependent on its rural roads. Drivers here logged almost four billion miles over these roads last year, accounting for one-third of all driving miles. When the rural road conditions are put together with the sad state of our city streets and the deplorable stretches of the interstate system, an ugly picture of New Mexico's road network is painted.

But the fact is, until more money is pumped in to maintenance, our roads will just keep getting worse. It's time for the state's driving public to wake up. Our representatives in Santa Fe should be told to enact legislation to make up the highway revenue shortfall now. We can't afford to wait any longer.

We've taken for granted too long our freedom of mobility and now we're literally paying for it.

MARVIN BROCE, President, Associated Contractors of New Mexico.

Try Carrizozo

EDITOR: — We are in the business of selling at auctions: saddles, bridles and related items for horses and horsemen. We have been in this business fifteen years and have been bonded for U.S. Department of Agriculture, State Bond in New Mexico, livestock board. We have conducted auctions in all major and most small cities and towns in this state. We are licensed and incorporated in the state of New Mexico.

For the last fifteen years all we have ever been asked to do is to buy a permit or occupation license for the city in which we are going to have an auction.

Recently we made arrangements to come to Alamogordo and have an auction, as we have had many requests from the area. We find out how that your fair city apparently does not need the business we would generate, as we usually have 150 to 300 people at our auctions. Many that are from out of town that purchase motel rooms, gasoline and meals. Your city fathers informed us you have an ordinance requiring us to purchase a $5,000.00 bond for the City of Alamogordo. We determine this to be silly, stupid and unnecessary. 1) We are not selling on commission; 2) We do not take consignments; 3) We own all the merchandise that would be sold; 4) We allow ample time to inspect the merchandise before the sale.

We just wanted to point this out to you and your readers as we are sure there is bound to be businessmen in Alamogordo whom need the business.

We spoke with your city attorney about this.

ANDY SNIDER, Spear Cross Ranch, Tijeras.

(ED. NOTE — Next time try Carrizozo. We might even pay YOU to do business here!)

Remembers the slots

DEAR SIR: — Sure enjoyed your column re: Gov. Clyde Tingley. There was a rookie highway policeman who was stationed at T or C (then Hot Springs, NM). He, knowing no better, proceeded to pull in all the slot machines. He immediately got called on the carpet at Albuquerque and was rewarded for his diligence by a very long stretch at janitorial work.

Old man Tingley set him straight on the matter. It wasn't until Ed Mechem came in that the slots vanished. Best of luck, and stop by to see us.

I opened the Dohrmann Hotel Supply branch in Stockton, CA, in 1936, coming there from San Francisco.

E. W. MITCHELL, Roswell.

'Pleased'

EDITOR: — First of all, I want to tell you that we are pleased to have you here and I am looking forward to meeting you and your family.

Would you like to have me send in news of Old Lincoln Town, as I have been doing, and how much space will you have for it?

I enjoyed last week's issue.

MRS. J.E. (HATTIE) PHILLIPS, Lincoln.

(ED. NOTE — Thank you. Yes, send us your news. We'll run all of it space permits.)

Last rites for Walker Abe Leslie

Walker Abe Leslie of Denver, CO, died March 10 in the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Denver following a long illness.

Funeral services were held March 15 at the First Baptist Church of Carrizozo with the Rev. Cleve Kirby officiating. Interment was in White Oaks Cemetery, with full military honors.

Pallbearers were Charley Leslie, Zane Leslie, J.O. "Bud" Payne, Bill Fitzpatrick, Joe Fitzpatrick and James Fitzpatrick.

Mr. Leslie was born Jan. 3, 1917 in White Oaks, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lish Leslie. He lived in White Oaks until he was 17, when he enlisted in the US Navy. He was wounded at Pearl Harbor and had a 100 percent disability due to leg injuries. Following a medical discharge he lived on a ranch north of Capitan with his Uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Rob Leslie, now deceased. He was a resident of Colorado for the last 25 years.

Survivors include his sister, Laura Hopkins of Nogai, NM, and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

Funeral arrangements were under direction of Clarke's Chapel of Roses, Ruidoso.

FFA sweeps contest

The Carrizozo Future Farmers of America chapter brought home $200, won seven trophies out of seven events, and finished second in the Judging Sweepstakes at a regional judging contest at Aztec, NM, Saturday.

Ten schools participated in the contest hosted by the Aztec chapter and the Coronado chapter of Albuquerque. Judging in crops and poultry were held Friday evening. In crops, the Carrizozo team of Stephen Payne, Kelli Vigil, Gray Gallacher and Debbie Najar took third place. Payne rated third high individual of all participating schools. The poultry judging team consisting of Daryl Lindsay, Carlos Sanchez, David LaMay, Adrien Sanchez and Joe Candelaria placed third overall.

The livestock judging team — Mary Jane Ferguson, Roxanne Gabel, Joe Candelaria and Mike Curtis — placed second, with Gabel earning second high individual honors. Other livestock judges were Lynn Gallacher and John Rouche.

Entomology team members included David LaMay, John Rouche and Carlos Sanchez. The team placed third, with LaMay rated third high individual. Carrizozo took the top three in every event, took seven trophies out of seven events, won first places in agricultural mechanics and horses, and earned $200 in prize money.

The Lincoln County Manager's Office today announced that its phone number will be changed to 648-2337 as of Monday, March 22.

Ruidoso man a hit and run victim

Funeral services for Barry Otis Joyce, 60, of Ruidoso, were held Jan. 24 at Colorado City, TX. The former resident was killed in a hit and run accident the night of Jan. 21.

Services were conducted by the Rev. David McNary, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lorraine, assisted by the Rev. Homer Salley, retired Methodist minister. Cremation was in Dallas, TX.

Mr. Joyce was killed on Interstate 20 about a mile east of Colorado City. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Mary Lee More. Sheriff Wendell Bryant of Mitchell County said Joyce apparently had driven his vehicle into a highway sign and stopped on a nearby bridge to check for damage. As he stepped out of his vehicle he was struck by the hit and run driver.

Mr. Joyce was born Nov. 28, 1921 in Mitchell County. He was reared in Colorado City and attended schools there. He graduated from Southern Methodist University, was a Navy veteran of World War II, and a member of the Masonic order. Survivors include his mother, Gladys Joyce of Lorraine, and a sister, Hilma Joyce of El Paso.

Education

LAS CRUCES — The dollars spent on wages during the 1981 calendar year at New Mexico State University were just shy of the $68 million mark with more than half going to faculty and staff.

A recent report on wages paid to both on the off-campus units showed that the university's financial impact by wages alone was at $67,991,061 with an additional $16 million in federal and state taxes withheld.

The faculty and staff received $35.4 million with non-students in Cooperative Extension Service, Agricultural Experiment Station and Physical Science Laboratory accounting for $21.6 million.

Attend Funeral

Mary Monrreal and Lolly Lueras of Carrizozo were in Mountainair last Saturday to attend the funeral services of their uncle, Ignacia Chavez. Their sister, Ofelia Hicks of Alamogordo accompanied them to Mountainair. Mr. Chavez was buried in nearby Abo.

Other Carrizozo relatives attending the funeral services were Luciano Gutierrez, Marcelina Chavez and Lucilla Osoria. Former Carrizozo residents, Mr. and Mrs. Luis Chavez of Alamogordo visited in Carrizozo on their way back to Alamogordo after attending the funeral.

Men's Club Notes

The Lions Club, whose president is Joe DeTevis, contributed $50 to the Carrizozo Boxing Team. This donation and others from merchants in the community enabled the boxing team to attend and participate in boxing events this year.

The Lions meet this week to elect new officers for the '82-'83 club year.

Rotary members and their wives were treated last Thursday evening to a steak dinner at the Four Winds, compliments of three charter members. Albert Roberts, Fred English and Johnson Stearns planned the event on the club's 23rd anniversary.

Charter night was March 17, 1959. The men held their weekly meetings back then in the Village Cafe, once in operation in the building now occupied by the Lincoln County News. Ralph Peity was Rotary's 1959 charter president; the late Joe Sargent was vice-president and Johnson Stearns was secretary-treasurer.

"To create good will and friendship among businessmen," continues to be the club's motto, according to Johnson.

Jail Guests

Our new town council may be interested in knowing that a news item the Oct. 12, 1986 Lincoln County News and Carrizozo Outlook reported that jail "guests" helped the town: "Labor from the town jail was doing Carrizozo a good turn this week. They were painting the town hall and removing sand and dirt from in front of the building."

What's Baking

In 1948 Lincoln County Agency (now called Citizens State Bank) sponsored a cookbook published by the Rebekah Lodge. "What's Cookin' in Carrizozo, N.M." was comprised of recipes contributed by the Lodge. Among the recipes was Lillian's Coffee Drop Cookies. Lillian Swift is employed at Citizens State.

These are the ingredients for Lillian's cookies: 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup shortening, 1 egg well beaten, 3/4 cup cold coffee, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1 teaspoon cloves, 3 cups flour, 1/2 cup chopped raisins, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg, beat vigorously. Sift flour, measure, resift with soda, salt, baking powder and spices. Combine these dry ingredients alternately with coffee and shortening-sugar-egg mixture.

Add nuts, raisins and vanilla. Drop by teaspoon on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degree oven for about 15 minutes.

Magazine Highlights

Post Script readers near and far who read my request for magazines, told me that they were glad I had asked for them. Among the various magazines given to me were several issues of the New Mexico Stockman.

Of special interest in these publications were the back page Worley Mills ads which featured four area ranchers. The color photographs included: Preston Stone, wife Willa and young children, Tracey and Troy, on their Edgar Ranches near Capitan; Ronnie Eldridge, wife Janice, son Grady Lee and daughter, Shelly. The Eldridge family runs a commercial cow-calf operation near Capitan. Grady and Shelly are active in high school athletics and FFA and rodeo activities. R.A. "Hap" and Farall Canning operate the Canning Ranch near Capitan. Their registered Brangus herd is widely known and most of the top Brangus cattle in the county carry the Canning's Bar 6 breeding somewhere in their pedigree. Fletcher Hall runs a cow-calf and racehorse breeding operation near Capitan.

Ideas Shared

March 10, members of the Santa Rita Quilting Group visited in Capitan with Sacred Heart parish women in their new hall. The Capitan women are interested in starting a quilting group. The Carrizozo quilters showed the Capitan women some of their quilts and patterns.

A noon potluck luncheon was enjoyed by the two groups. Those who went to Capitan were Corrine Sandoval, Helen Serna, Mable Vigil, Arsenia Narvaez, Patsy Sanchez and Cecilia Ortiz.

Common Bond

The state of New Mexico and the American Girl Scout movement share a common bond. For New Mexicans, 1982 is a year in which to celebrate the 70th anniversary of statehood. March 7 through March 13 was Girl Scout Week. Seventy years ago in Savannah, GA, the first American Girl Scout troop, made up of 18 girls, was started by Juliette Gordon Low.

At their weekly meeting last Monday, Carrizozo Girl Scouts planned their 'investiture'. At this event in two weeks the girls will receive their pins and badges.

The Girl Scouts will have a final cookie sale at Citizens State Bank this Friday after school. The girls' door-to-door cookie sales project has been completed. The two top cookie salesgirls were Lisa Hightower and Yvonne Vega, both fourth graders.

Raphael Chavez, 7, 45-pound member of the Carrizozo Boxing Team, won over Jaime Lopez of Dexter at Saturday's matches. The event was sponsored by the Police Athletic League (PAL) of Dexter. Other local boxers who participated were Gabriel Chavez, Paul Herrera, Michael Chavez and James Silva Jr.

Leandro Vega in sheriff's race

Leandro Vega Jr., who served as Lincoln County Sheriff 1968-69 and 1972-74, has announced his candidacy for Lincoln County Sheriff on the Republican ticket.

Vega has more than 17 years' experience in law enforcement, all served in Lincoln County, many in conjunction and cooperation with the FBI. He also has been officially certified by the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy to serve as a law enforcement officer as required by New Mexico statutes.

Vega is presently in the building-construction business in the Carrizozo area.

He holds advanced certificates in criminal investigation, homicide investigation, advanced latent fingerprint, fingerprint classification, burglary, armed robbery, case preparation, courtroom testimony and narcotic investigations. Also included in Vega's law enforcement experience is having served as special investigator for the 12th Judicial District Attorney's Office in Lincoln and Otero Counties under Dist. Atty. Frank Wilson in 1960.

Vega told the Lincoln County News: "As I have stated in the past, from the very beginning when I decided upon a career in law enforcement in 1961, I made a pledge to myself to attend every possible law enforcement training school and seminar so that I would be both aware and qualified to put into effect every possible modern and current method of law enforcement and keep abreast of changing criminal laws."

"The same applied when I was elected four terms as Lincoln County Sheriff, training of personnel was the main objective. It is my belief that in order to enforce the laws of our land, adequately protect our people and their property, and solve crime, this can only be accomplished through proper training and a sincere desire and insist upon good and impartial law enforcement. Sincerely, it is a matter of having the right attitude towards all people and adequate training for today's needs."

During his terms as Lincoln County Sheriff, Vega stated he established night patrols and was very successful in curbing burglaries, larcenies, telephone wire thefts and cattle rustling; was successful in establishing and putting into operation the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department Substation in Ruidoso.

The sub-station was the first of its kind in the history of Lincoln County, providing facilities for a secretary-dispatcher and three deputy sheriffs to serve and protect the people and property of the Alto, Ruidoso, and Ruidoso Downs area.

Vega established the civil division of the Sheriff's Department. In establishing the civil division, it released sheriff's deputies from time-consuming processing of civil matters and permitted deputies to concentrate full-time on criminal and related county needs.

Vega feels that his four terms as Lincoln County Sheriff fully qualifies him to carry out the sheriff's duties consisting mainly of being in charge of the county jail, housing, care of prisoners, transportation and extradition of prisoners; to serve the civil process of the Magistrate and District Courts and provide security for the courts and its officers. The sheriff is the chief law enforcement officer of the county and conducts investigations of all crime.

Vega said he feels that his 17 years' law enforcement experience, all served with the Lincoln County Sheriff's Dept., both as deputy and sheriff, provide him with valuable experience.

Vega of Carrizozo is a lifelong resident of Lincoln County with the exception of his time in the military during the Korean War. He is a longtime member of the National Sheriff's Assn., a member of the American Legion and Knights of Columbus.

He and his wife Delfinia have two sons, Lee and Gary, both attending New Mexico State University in Las Cruces.

LEANDRO VEGA JR.

Hightower in race for re-election

John A. Hightower has announced his intention to seek re-election to the Lincoln County Commission from District II.

He has served part of a term by appointment and was elected to the position in the last election.

Hightower is a life-long resident of Ancho, where he has been in the ranching business since returning from military service in 1946. He has served on many boards including: Carrizozo Board of Education, Selective Service Board, Soil Conservation Supervisor, and other boards and committees. He is active in the United Presbyterian Church.

"I have worked well with the present commission and believe that we have made a record to be proud of. I appreciate all suggestions, criticisms, and compliments, and strive to treat everyone the same in a fair and impartial manner.

"We have rules and regulations and limitations to work within, and this I do to the best of my ability. I believe we have initiated some programs which will increase the service to all the people in Lincoln County, and also which will allow us to better maintain our roads.

"There is always room for improvement and I intend to help Lincoln County grow better for all the people who have chosen to live here," he said.

Nosker will run for commissioner

Kenneth Nosker of Glencoe, a 58-year resident of the county, has announced he will seek the office of Lincoln County Commissioner, Prec. 1, which is being vacated by Cotton McKnight. He will run on the Republican ticket.

Nosker served as commissioner before, 1962 to 1966, in what used to be Prec. 2.

plan which his son, Dennis, assists in managing.

He and his wife Irene have two other children; Ralph is a student at New Mexico State University and their daughter, Mrs. Renee McCoy, lives in Guymon, OK.

Nosker served as commissioner before, 1962 to 1966, in what used to be Prec. 2.

LISTEN IN!

It's Robie's Party-Line!!

Hot off the Wire:

GEE! MABEL! I have a good one for you!

Ruth Burdett—Viola Bolen—Leta Key—Effie Dickenson—Jessie Shan.

This chain letter was started by a woman like yourself in the hope of bringing relief to tired, discontented wives. Unlike most chain letters, this one does not cost anything. Just send a copy to five of your female friends who are equally tired. Then bundle up your husband and send him to the woman whose name appears at the top of the list. Add your name to the bottom of the list. When your name comes to the top, you will receive 18,748 men. Some of them will be dandies. Have faith and don't break the chain. One woman who broke the chain got her own husband back. So watch for your new life—have fun—

In the fashion department don't forget to buy colored hose—they are really in now.

How about your health? I did a little research on foods and it seems that the most valuable ones for you are the following:

- These are the most nutritional foods.
- 1.) bananas
 - 2.) breast milk
 - 3.) brown rice
 - 4.) pinto beans
 - 5.) eggs
 - 6.) mushrooms
 - 7.) onions
 - 8.) tomatoes
 - 9.) whole wheat bread
 - 10.) cantalope

These are super foods essential for keeping the body young—

Eat more of them. Parts taken from the Readers Digest. Mabel, I know you love chocolate, so here is a little information about it.

In 1519, conquistador Hernando Cortes introduced chocolate to the world by bringing the original recipe out of Mexico's royal Aztec court to Spain. Aztec ruler Montezuma II toasted Cortes in chocolate and permitted him to watch it being made. Montezuma was known to drink 50 golden goblets of chocolate a day—thinking it gave him energy. Statistics prove that the average 1.5-ounce milk chocolate bar contains 4 percent of daily allowance of protein, 2 percent of thiamine, 4 percent of riboflavin, 6 percent of calcium and 2 of iron. Napoleon took chocolate with him on campaigns. Scientific tests prove that chocolate does not cause acne—sugar does but not chocolate. Also it has been found that it does not cause tooth decay as badly as other sugar food.

The bitter choc that Cortes brought back from Spain was not well received until they added sugar. The Spanish tried to keep the recipe a secret, but in 1606 Italy used the recipe, then in 1763 England founded the first chocolate factory in Dorchester, Mass. They named it Bakers Choc, from Dr. James Baker who financed the venture.

Magic chocolate starts with a tree named Theobroma (food of the gods) cacao, and grows close to the equator in Ghana, Nigeria, Brazil and Mexico. The cacao tree is very beautiful with yellow-white and pink blossoms, blooming continuously. Cacao is found in the seed pod only harvested two times a year. It takes 400 almond shaped cacao beans to make 1 lb. of chocolate. One tree yields only 20 to 30 pods a year. The beans are dried roasted and cracked into pieces. These pieces are called "nibs". They contain the cocoa butter, the bases of all chocolate. Grinding, refining and blending takes place—thus you have the chocolate we eat today.

Say Mabel if you want a baby gift, you need only $10.00 then just phone this toll free no. 800-627-8452 to order Baby Bottle kits to make. You must order $10 worth to make the phone call—but that isn't bad—really! Did you know?

- 1.) The four teenagers (in their late 60s) who went to the movie last week (from Nogal).
- 2.) That Sarah Jackson is home and feeling better but take it easy Sarah.
- 3.) That Katie Mae's family will be visiting this week?

You might like these chocolate chip bars:

- 4 cups graham cracker crumbs
 - 1 cup chopped pecans
 - 1 (12 oz.) pkg. chocolate chips
 - 1 can of Eagle Brand milk
- Mix ingredients thoroughly

-Pour in 13x9x2 pan which has been greased, bottom lined with wax paper, greased again. Bake at 350 about 40 min. or until brown. Remove from pan immediately. Remove wax paper, cool, cut into bars.

Mabel! I'm hanging up now because I need to get busy!

Robie.

Spring tree planting begins on National Forest

Hand planting of 220,000 trees has begun on Lincoln National Forest, with the first 40,000 trees to be planted on the Mayhill Ranger District.

Reforestation of 75 acres in the Cridebring Canyon area west of Sacramento, NM, with ponderosa pine seedlings, should be continuing for the next few weeks. This area was part of the Spring Fire which burned in 1974.

Later, tree planting will include an additional 150 acres on the Mayhill District, and 450 acres on the Clouderoft Ranger District. This is an annual effort by the Forest Service to reestablish trees on areas of the National Forest that have been burned or that still lack sufficient trees from early logging activity before the land was national forest.

How do you plant 220,000 trees on terrain that is unsuitable for machine planting?

A Forest Service spokesman explained that hand planting is done either by Forest Service personnel or a contract crew. Bareroot trees, packed in moist material are carried by the planters in waterproof sacks to the planting area. Mattocks or augers are used on the Lincoln to dig the holes, because the terrain is rocky.

Trees are not thrust into the ground at random, but the planters try to select spots close to downed logs, or on north sides of stumps or rocks as protection for the seedling. These areas are more protected from the sun and wind, and will also retain moisture longer; they constitute a microclimate that helps the small trees survive.

A lot is said today about disappearing forests, but the people on the Lincoln are doing their part to grow future forests.
