Long struggle for medical care in Lincoln County

By POLLY E. CHAVEZ
The history of medical and hospital care in the Carrizozo area goes back to White Oaks where Dr. M.G. Paden practiced before moving to Carrizozo in 1906. At this time a railroad division point was set up here and Paden was the railroad doctor.

Dr. Paden first worked out of the small building behind the drug store which bears his name. This building at one time faced Main Street. He built the lower half of the Paden drug store (now the Gift Gallery) in 1909. The second floor, a hospital, was constructed in 1913.

Paden died in 1943. Laura Sharf worked for Paden as a registered nurse and also later for Dr. P.M. Shaver.

Dr. F.H. Johnson first homesteaded north of Capitan when he came to Lincoln County around 1915-16. He apparently came to Carrizozo in 1917 and set up a hospital in the apartments that J.G. Moore recently converted into modern offices. Johnson later made a permanent hospital behind the Piggly Wiggly store in the house where Pat Moore now lives. He spent the rest of his life here, dying in 1936.

Dr. Rathmann ran a hospital in the house now owned by Mrs. Bannie Belio. In 1937 "Rathmann's Hospital Notes" in the Lincoln County News reported a steady stream of business.

Dr. P.M. Shaver started a practice in Carrizozo in 1918 and used the present Al Seay home as his hospital.

The Lane Sisters' dwelling and former store was believed to have been a hospital. The authenticity of this story, or the name of the doctor who ran a hospital there, has not been established.

When Dr. J.P. Turner first came to Carrizozo he used the Johnson hospital building until the new county hospital was constructed in 1950. Turner came to Carrizozo in 1937 and left in 1967. Dr. A.N. Spencer joined Turner in the new hospital in 1954. After 19 years of practice, Dr. A.N. Spencer was forced to retire in 1973 for health reasons.

Carrizozo's medical care continued without interruption because Dr. Amy Burton arrived in town in 1973. She worked out of Spencer's offices, which now houses the Carrizozo Health Center. The lady doctor worked long hours.

Bills exceed income
Laboratory work in the Lincoln County Municipal Hospital (LCMH) was continued. Medical emergencies were being met. The annex at LCMH was being utilized as a rest home. It was well-known that the good graces of the A.N. Spencer family was actually keeping the facility open.

Financial problems at the hospital surfaced in 1974 which caused Carrizozo and surrounding area residents to do some serious thinking about their medical situation. In March of that year, cost of operating the hospital was about $10,000 more than the income.

The NEWS told readers: "Problems at Carrizozo Hospital are such a nature that people need to know and understand, if possible, that the institution may be one we cannot afford, or because of state and federal regulations, cannot manage."

Lincoln County Municipal Hospital board of directors in 1974 included Johnson Stearns, president; Dimmit Bond, secretary; Mrs. A.N. Spencer and A.P. Sitton, members. Those on the staff included Marjorie Whittaker and Eloise Rowin, RNs; Rea Lee Sidwell, Mary Flores and Lorena Chavez, LPNs; Clarence Milligan, lab technician; Virginia Curtiss and Mary Hernandez, secretaries. Alton Whittaker was business manager.

LCMH was closed Aug. 8, 1974, by action of the board of directors. An active search for a doctor was initiated by the Hospital Auxiliary and Dr. Amy Barton, with approval of the hospital board.

Barton's general practice included patients from all areas on the county and many from out-of-county. It was determined that the territory and number of people could use the services of another doctor.

The outcome of the Lincoln

County Municipal Hospital board meeting was that emergency facilities be established in the hospital. Barton was to take care of as many emergency cases as possible. The matter of securing another doctor for Carrizozo and possible reopening of the hospital became an on-going business.

A representative from the National Health Service Corps (NHSC) arrived in Carrizozo to look over the situation. The goal of NHSC is to improve or provide health services to persons in areas of critical need and to assist the community in developing an economically viable health service program which will retain or attract private practitioners.

LCMH Auxiliary received official word from NHSC that Carrizozo had been designated a "critical medical shortage area," and that the population to be served for medical purposes was 4,773. As the result of the designation, Carrizozo became eligible to file an application with NHSC for the services of a second physician to establish a private practice in this area, thereby relieving Dr. Amy Burton.

It was suggested by NHSC that an organization be formed to funnel all information to and from NHSC. Thus began the project of incorporating "Med-We-Care" as a go-between group for county.

Scholarships given to outstanding graduates

At last week's graduation ceremonies at Carrizozo High School, thousands of dollars in scholarships were presented to graduating seniors, former Carrizozo High School graduates currently enrolled in vocational schools or in their second, third or fourth year of college, and to school employees to further their education.

These scholarships were from colleges, universities, community organizations, businesses, individuals and churches.

Dr. James P. Miller Jr., superintendent, said each donor set up his own application criteria and the method by which a recipient is selected.

"Each recipient was selected for various reasons," Miller explained, "with each donor setting the guidelines. For example, study in a specific field; general assistance for a student in a chosen field; to recognize certain qualities; or in recognition of specific academic achievement."

Many local people were involved either in providing scholarships or by participating in committees of selection. Those wishing to provide scholarships next year may contact Dr. Miller.

In the following list of scholarships given last week, the name of the donor is given, followed by the amount, the recipient, and the person presenting the scholarship. Some local groups have given more than one scholarship.

Carrizozo people and NMSC. Med-We-Care, Inc., a non-profit organization, was made up of Lincoln County residents interested in health care. Application to NHSC included letters from clubs and individuals in the area, pledging support of a second physician.

The initial directors of Med-We-Care, Inc., were Barbara Ward, Nancy Knight, Joan Means and Archie Witham. On receiving incorporation papers these four appointed a permanent board.

On Nov. 14, 1974, Congressman Runnel's office advised that the Med-We-Care, Inc. application submitted to NHSC for help in finding a physician for the Carrizozo medical trade area had been approved. NMSC informed Runnels that they would work further with Med-We-Care to recruit for a second physician. It was now possible for Med-We-Care to refer physicians to the NHSC, thereby being able to take advantage of a government subsidy to insure salary for a physician who would serve the area.

The Carrizozo Health Center was formed in September 1974 and was under management of Med-We-Care, Inc. The town got its physician, Dr. Marie Cortelyou, on April 15, 1975. The center worked in cooperation, not competition, with Dr. Barton. She continued seeing patients until the summer of '76 when she decided she needed a rest. Today, Barton is semi-retired and sees patients in her home, and only those she knows well.

Med-We-Care in business
It became the responsibility of Med-We-Care to pay back the federal government all of Cortelyou's salary, in addition to paying all the office expenses, the salaries of its staff, and to purchase supplies and equipment to assist the physician.

An estimated $10,000 were needed during the first three months of the physician's practice. Additional funds were required when a second physician, Dr. Havi Bhasker, arrived.

To defray these sizable expenses Med-We-Care collected and allocated the doctor's fees. It requested that all people think of the great advantage of having adequate health care services and give to this worthy cause. Funds solicited were to be used to defray expenses and procure necessary supplies and equipment.

All donations, large or small, were asked to be sent to a savings account established at Citizens State Bank for Med-We-Care, Inc. Additional information could be obtained by contacting the group's president, Joan Means, or project coordinator, Barbara Ward.

Meanwhile, the rest home in the annex at the hospital had seven clients. The board authorized widespread newspaper advertising to increase the number of clients.

The main portion of the hospital was the original Carrizozo Health Center. In addition to Cortelyou and Bhasker, the staff included Lorena Kauppinen, LPN, and Glenda Trölinger, receptionist/bookkeeper.

In March, 1975 the LCMH board approved the filing of an application for an infirmiry license, adopted a set of personnel policies and procedures for the LCMH and annex. The Hospital Auxiliary and hospital board raised in excess of $30,000 for improvements.

The infirmiry license would enable Carrizozo to provide inpatient and outpatient service, provide for the delivery of babies and other needed medical services. The project tied in with Med-We-Care's link up with NHSC. Med-We-Care conducted a fund drive.

The rest home in the annex did not survive the year. Cortelyou and Basker were moved into that part of the hospital. The Carrizozo Health Center open house attracted 300 guests. Hostesses for the occasion were Hospital Auxiliary members. An exact cake replica of the LCMH was created by Ramona Ortiz.

Med-We-Care members were lauded for their work in getting two new doctors in Carrizozo and in setting up facilities at the hospital.

Enter St. Joseph's

After a while, Med-We-Care became aware of the need to seek assistance in the management of the facility. The group approached the Lincoln County Commission, which solved the financial problem by leasing the facility. Negotiations for the operation of the hospital by St. Joseph Hospital of Albuquerque were "in the mill" for several months. The reopening of LCMH got underway in June 1976 when the Catholic hospital agreed to accept responsibility for the Carrizozo hospital.

Changes in the lease included an agreement that no abortion or euthanasia would take place at the hospital. Commissioners John Sudderth, Roman Nunez and Bud Payne signed the lease which turned the operation of the local hospital over to St. Joseph's. On the signing of the contract Med-We-Care responsibilities dissolved immediately.

St. Joseph's Hospital agreed to operate the center as an outpatient clinic and would place special emphasis on improving existing laboratory and x-ray services.

Sister Celestia, administrator at St. Joseph, said the contract was the result of several months study and negotiations with county and Carrizozo area residents. She added, "We are looking forward to a long and beneficial relationship with the people of Carrizozo. The health needs of New Mexico's smaller communities are of special interest to St. Joseph Hospital."

Ken Moore of the St. Joseph management-lease division was named administrator of the health center in Carrizozo.

St. Joseph Hospital was Albuquerque's first general hospital, and has served the Albuquerque area residents since 1902.

Tax levy passed

In January 1977 there were 11 items on the agenda of the Lincoln County Commission, but the large audience was there to hear the first report on the Carrizozo Health Center. The big question concerned St. Joseph's Hospital opinion, after six months of operating the facility, on the possibility of re-opening the facility as a hospital.

Mike Brown, St. Joseph's assistant administrator, said that while the center was almost breaking even, he felt the operation of a hospital would mean financial disaster. Carrizozo Health Center figures for the first six months were excellent, he said, in fact, the small deficit was much smaller, percentage-wise, than that of the Albuquerque hospital. Betty Howell, then Carrizozo's business manager at the center, told the county commission that the center had done well financially in the past six months.

Brown said that after their contracts ended in July, both Cortelyou and Bhasker had indicated that they would leave the area. Bhasker said he would not want to practice medicine without use of a hospital.

St. Joseph's experts thought it would cost $55,000 to get the hospital plant in operating condition to pass federal and state regulations. However, he said NHSC would provide another doctor for Carrizozo and probably would recommend a nurse with obstetrical training. NHSC had indicated a willingness to send a dentist to the area and to provide the necessary equipment for a dental clinic.

In the long run of clinic operations, Brown felt use of the hospital plant was not economical. He believed a smaller, more compact building would reduce costs. An $850 monthly gas bill and high insurance costs were cited in this regard.

Questioned about the use of $23,000 in funds which local people had contributed to be used toward reopening the hospital, Brown said St. Joseph's had decided the greatest need was for new x-ray equipment. This would be necessary for a hospital and was needed immediately for good clinic work. Contributors consented that money be used in this manner.

At the end of the hospital report, Commission Chairman John Sudderth told Brown that the only funds the county had available for the clinic or for a hospital would come from the mill levy passed in the last election. This would mean about $22,500 for Carrizozo and an equal amount for the Ruidoso hospital.

Advisory council formed
St. Joseph's Mike Brown and members of the newly appointed Carrizozo Health Center Advisory Council met for the first meeting on July 13, 1977 to discuss staffing and future facility plans.

The council became the community group liaison between St. Joseph and the local center. The council was formed to advise on the operation of the health center, health care needs of the local residents, and to help plan the future development of the clinic and the facilities of the Lincoln County Municipal Hospital.

Serving on the advisory council were Dr. Lee Straley, Dr. David Howell, Jack Magee, Jean Gray, Aileen Lindamood, Robert Burns, Vernon Petty, Joe Adams and Mary Rich.

With the departure of Drs. Cortelyou and Bhasker Carrizozo was left without any medical help, outside of a medical nurse, Dr. David Howell of Capitan consented to come to the center three times a week to do what he could. He reportedly wasn't there for long. His position was temporary, but he felt he had to do what he could handle in the interim.

"Doctor Howell's name" read the headline in the June 1977 issue of the Lincoln County News. A full hospital would handle serious medical cases on a 24-hour basis.

and two nurse practitioners in a lovely, rural community. Climate ideal, plenty of outside sports and a very cooperative community. Nearest competition over 60 miles away. Modern equipment and well-staffed clinic. Apply at Carrizozo Health Center - IMMEDIATELY.

The NEWS stated with a little luck, St. Joseph's through their sources, will be able to turn up at least one doctor and two nurse practitioners in a very near future.

One of the speakers, a doctor, said he would like to see Carrizozo as a hospital.

Ursula, a nurse practitioner, said she had been in Carrizozo since 1974. She said Carrizozo was a very good community. She said she would like to see Carrizozo as a hospital.

St. Joseph's hospital, which in 1977 advised Carrizozo that Carrizozo was a very good community. She said Carrizozo was a very good community.

Marie, a nurse practitioner, said she had been in Carrizozo since 1974. She said Carrizozo was a very good community. She said she would like to see Carrizozo as a hospital.

It was unused space in the hospital building. She felt such a move would not come after a while. She said she would like to see Carrizozo as a hospital.

The hospital building was leased to the Zia School in Alamogordo for use as a center and training facility for the mentally handicapped. Under this arrangement the Carrizozo Health Center retained control of laboratory equipment, x-ray equipment and the rest of the hospital.

The advisory council recommended that the county purchase the building next to the hospital. The building was formerly used as offices by Dr. A.N. Spencer and then by Dr. Amy Burton.

County Commissioner Lee Straley said he believed funds the county had in the hospital mill levy would enable them to purchase the building for a future health center.

Rich reported to the group that the western part of Lincoln County had been declared a dentally deprived area. The council made application for an NHSC dentist.

Services expanded
The Carrizozo Health Center project received its final blessing from the county. The $74,620 project was funded from the hospital mill levy voted in the last election. Office space for a doctor, a nurse practitioner, examination room, an emergency room and lab were located in the existing building and remodeled, and 1,000 square feet of space was pre-built and added to the rear of the existing building to house a dental clinic.

The new clinic officially opened for business on Nov. 27, 1978, with Dr. Nelson, DO; Nurse Practitioner Hansteen; Dr. Goad, DDS, his wife and assistant, Cheri; business manager, Betty Howell; and Mary Hernandez, receptionist.

On March 1, 1979 Nancy Guck joined Nelson's practice as a "Medex." Guck had just completed the first of Medex (physician's assistant) training in Salt Lake City. Nelson served as Guck's preceptor for the second phase of the program. Robert L. Bernard, physician's assistant, joined the staff at the center, replacing Hansteen. Sister Adele Stommel became the center's medical technologist.

The Clinic today

Mary Hernandez of Carrizozo is the center's business manager. Born and raised in Carrizozo, she became a nurse's aide at Lincoln County Memorial Hospital while still in high school. She continued to work there following graduation in 1967. When Dr. Spencer retired in 1973 she went to work in the hospital's business office, later working under Drs. Cortelyou and Bhasker.

Kathleen Williams lives near Corona at the El Paso Natural Gas Plant, where her husband is employed. She, along with other Corona and area people, helped to establish the Corona medical and dental clinic in 1979.

Williams volunteered her services, serving as receptionist, medical assistant and janitor at the clinic located at Corona's Village Cafe. Today she is part of the staff at both the Carrizozo and Corona sites.

Blaney and Sadowski are names that longtime Carrizozo people remember as the town's resident dentists who served the area many years ago. Dale Goad, DDS, was assigned to Carrizozo by the National Health Service Corps in August, 1978, but due to delays in receiving equipment, did not start until January, 1979.

Goad has a BS degree from Abilene Christian University in Abilene, TX, and a DDS from the University of Texas Dental Branch at the Houston Medical Center. Goad's dental assistant is his wife, Cheri, who has a degree in that field.

Sheila Zunwalt of Nogal is employed at the dental department at the Carrizozo Health Center. While working as a receptionist she is being trained to assist Goad.

Rosemary Zink became Carrizozo's fulltime nurse practitioner in 1980, working under the supervision of Ruidoso physician Dr. Michael Stone, who commuted to the center several times a week. Zink holds a bachelor's degree in nursing from Gwynedd-Mercy College, Gwynedd, PA, and a masters in public health from Tulane University, New Orleans. Zink is a certified EMT and a qualified instructor in cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Prior to coming to Carrizozo, she had been employed by People-to-People Health Foundation (Project Hope) for more than 10 years.

Carrizozo had been without a resident doctor since June, 1980 when Sergio Huerta, DO began work here in August, 1981. (Zink had been providing health care under the supervision of Stone.)

A native of El Paso, Huerta is a 1980 graduate of Michigan State University and completed his internship at Lansing General Hospital in Michigan.

With the addition of Mary Funk, x-ray technician, Carrizozo patients do not have to travel out-of-town for this service.

Carrizozo Health Center expanded its medical and dental service to Corona in early 1979.

St. Joseph's ended its management contract at the center as of June 1, 1982. Lincoln County Commissioners agreed to assume temporary management of Carrizozo Health Center, hoping to place the facility under management of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital.

The Albuquerque hospital's withdrawal from the management contract followed months of effort to educate the public as to the benefits of utilizing local medical facilities, and predictions that the center would be closed unless more support was forthcoming.

EACH YEAR on Memorial Day visits are made to the Nogal Cemetery to honor the dead. Epitaphs on tombstones usually consist of the name, dates of birth and death, and perhaps a few words of commemoration. This gravestone simply says "Unknown." But someone left a bouquet of flowers.

CARRIZOZO Mountain is the background for Nogal Cemetery. This elaborate turn-of-the-century wrought-iron fence surrounds a headstone inscribed: "Louise H. Hockradle, died May 28, 1899, aged 38 years and 9 months."

By MARGARETRENCH

No moisture to date. It gets warmer in the day but nights very cold. Lots of wind. But there has been lots of travelers who are enjoying this cool and pleasant atmosphere.

We have enjoyed having the Mini State Rally of Good Sams all of last week from New Mexico and Texas. Various clubs were represented. There were 147 vehicles parked on the fairgrounds. Approximately 300 people enjoyed it with us.

The Smokey Bear Museum had 496 visitors last Sunday, Saturday there were 396. There has been to this date this month 3661 visitors. We are happy to report this.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnson donated another duck to the New Mexico State Park. They now have three, which is good, for they have water and a growth in the park to roam in. It is now beginning to look like a forest. Let's keep it beautiful. I am proud of it and I do know you are.

The Capitan Junior Rodeo will be held at the fairgrounds June 5-6, 1 to 5. A Western dance will be held Saturday night. Music will be furnished by the Wheeler Band.

Kenny Parker of the Mountain Wood Craftsmen is planning to attend "Venture In Wood" Symposium being conducted this summer by the Berea College Industrial Arts Department, in Kentucky. "Venture In Woods" is composed of two symposiums: Woodturning in June; wood-jointing in July. Instructors are Dave Ellsworth and Rude Osohik, internationally known wood-turners.

Julie Graves, District No. 278 Avon manager of Roswell, held an Avon sales meeting at K-Bobs, May 25 with a good attendance and excellent information. Those who attended were Joan Means, Shirley Furness, Cora Sweeney, Margaret Rench, Gail Barnett, Jo Ann Ames, Cathy Pruitt, Patti Malone, Cathy Ames and Sherri Hobbs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ramsey of Groves, TX, former residents of Capitan who moved away four years ago, were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer-Burch. Monday they all picnicked at White Oaks.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan, Sarah and Billy of Alamosa, CO, were last weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pew. Monday they visited the Smokey Bear Museum and State Park.

Mrs. Joyce Glazner of Han, TX, arrived in Capitan Friday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCarty. Sunday she returned to her home and took her mother Golde with her to make her home, as the climate is lower there. The family talked to her Sunday night and learned mother is much improved and was taken off from oxygen. She has been ill for so long and unable to leave, but they took the chance and to date she is better. Mr. McCarty will join her soon. I wish her a good recovery.

Ernest Hammett of Lubbock, TX, and Bonnie Hammett, of Roswell spent last weekend with their father, Cliff Hammett.

Jack McGarry of Los Angeles, is spending a month with Grandpa and Grandma Alton Whittaker.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cox last weekend were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cox of Carlsbad, and his brother, Terry Cox, and family of Salt City, UT, who moved some of their possessions as they are going to build a home here. They left to finish their moving.

Linda Wright underwent surgery in the Ruidoso Hospital last Wednesday and returned home Sunday. Is doing nicely. I wish you the very best recovery.

MARK J. AGUILAR

Aguilar to US military academy

Mark J. Aguilar, a graduating senior from J.M. Hanks High School in El Paso, has been selected to attend the United States Military Academy Preparatory School in New Jersey in August.

The USMAPS assists selected members of the armed forces and high school graduates to qualify for admission to the US Military Academy at West Point, NY. The Preparatory School currently is located at Fort Monmouth, NJ, about 50 miles south of New York City. The school complex includes its own classrooms, living quarters, dining and athletic facilities. In addition, the customary conveniences found on most Army posts are available to all USMAPS students.

Aguilar will be one of 450 graduates comprising the first-ever crop of seniors at the four-year-old East El Paso school. While at Hanks, he lettered in football and wrestling. He is the son of Carmen and Pat Aguilar of El Paso.

Letters to the Editor

Message received

EDITOR—Many thanks for your recent letter regarding the need for a safe airport and for the copy of the editorial.

As you may know, the discussion of a new airport has gone on for some time. You may want to visit with Fred Heckman who is chairman of the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission in order to obtain some of the background information. He can be reached at (505) 257-9095.

The study by the National Academy of Sciences to evaluate research being done at the mesa was requested by a group including the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission, New Mexico State University, and other interested parties. After the study is completed, public meetings will be held.

Ernest, let me take this opportunity to welcome you to the area and to wish you the best in your new endeavor. Please do not hesitate to let me know if there is any way I can be of assistance. HARRISON SCHMITT, US Senate, Washington

Prepare for visitors

EDITOR—We live in a 5th wheel trailer and my office space is far from efficient. Your billing notice was mislaid and it should have come up sooner or later, but it didn't.

Your column is terrific. I've sent them to Jim Eason (Radio KGO, San Francisco) and to Cong. Don Clausen's nice lady lieutenant.

We have a small motorhome. Conceivably, it might take us to Carrizozo this summer. Keep it up.

HARLON GILBERTSON, Hornbrook, CA.

(ED. NOTE—Come if you can and let us show you beautiful, historic Lincoln County.)

We goofed

EDITOR—In regard to the ad I bought from you to sponsor a Capitan graduate, I did not get anything for the $15.64 I paid you. This was paid by personal check No. 3598 on May 20, 1982.

MAXINE WRIGHT, Capitan.

(ED. NOTE—Sorry. Your refund is on the way. We also left out Tom Sullivan, for which we have made amends. It was our error. The offending varmint has been given 20 lashes with a rolled-up LCN (last week's big edition).

She'll be back

EDITOR—I'm a Pennsylvania native and after being married to a Carrizozo native for 33 years, last summer I got to visit his hometown.

We took a motorcycle trip to New Mexico which was a lifetime experience. We spent a few days with Ramona and Paul Ortiz.

Through reading your paper for many years your town and names have become familiar to me, so actually visiting made a picture in my mind come true.

I enjoyed seeing the Malpais, White Oaks, Lincoln, Capitan and most of all, Three Rivers, which my husband had told me about many times.

Now I hope to return to New Mexico another day to see the other sights that I didn't get to see last summer.

Cleaning house in the House

By TOM and LESTER KINSOLVING

WASHINGTON—Rep. Manuel Lujan has called upon one of his House colleagues Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., either to resign or to be expelled from the House.

"Decency would dictate that he resign," Lujan told the Lincoln County News during an interview in which he added:

"I have urged the members of the House Ethics Committee to take up this issue and make their recommendations."

Richmond, a Congressman from Brooklyn, was arrested by Washington's Metropolitan Police in 1978. Acting on complaints of Richmond's neighbors, who are parents of a 16-year-old boy, police sent a young undercover agent whom they wired for sound, after the Congressman asked the first youth to help him obtain other young boys for sexual purposes.

Richmond admitted having committed this felony, for which he was allowed to enter a rehabilitation program instead of jail. But he is now being investigated by a New York grand jury for having obtained a US Capitol job for a long-time acquaintance who was an escaped convict from Massachusetts, who is now back in prison, after being arrested in New York and charged with homosexual prostitution.

This fugitive, Earl Randolph, alias John McLaughlin, has also been charged with assault with intent to commit murder and possession of heroin. Cong. Richmond rented an apartment for him, and provided him his (Continued on page 8)

"WILL IT HELP THE ECONOMY...?"

Editorial Comment

The Post discovers New Mexico politics

The Washington Post in its May 30 edition carried a story by reporter Dan Balz in which he described the political situation in New Mexico as a "case study of the low road in American politics."

When our Washington bureau chief Les Kinsolving called yesterday regarding the Post story, our reply was, "So what else is new?"

Undaunted, he reported the Post reporter's statement that "the most serious fight is not between candidates, but between former governor Jerry Apodaca and the Albuquerque Journal." The article cited Aubrey Dunn's charge that Toney Anaya, while on Gov. Bruce King's staff, "sold pardons to people," and that King has been quietly supporting Dunn.

Comes Tom Udall and Lt. Gov. Roberto Mondragon to charge that Bill Richardson urged them to quit the race for the new congressional seat, promising them "support in 1984 when he would run for the Senate."

Then Richardson had to amend some of his campaign literature which said he was Hubert Humphrey's "top foreign policy adviser" to read he was just "an adviser." He is also on the defensive about a $100,000 loan from a Santa Fe bank. Pretty dull stuff, for New Mexico.

"Things are so out of hand in New Mexico that the Democratic State Chairman went on television Thursday night calling for a cease-fire among the candidates," Balz wrote, then added: "Apparently, no one was listening."

Sure we were. We just happen to enjoy the dirty, underhanded, lying accusations of the candidates more than we do the Democratic chairman's exercise in futility.

We are delighted to find that New Mexico politics haven't changed much in 60 years. Candidates and voters all seem to enjoy a good, lowdown, dirty brawl with lots of namecalling and groin-gouging.

So the Post broke no new ground. New Mexico takes her politics like her poker, down and dirty, and has no reason to apologize. Somehow we manage to get good representation in Washington if not in Santa Fe.

Inside religion

Dr. Billy Graham preaches to KGB

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING

The Rev. Billy Graham's visit to Moscow has attracted such worldwide attention as to suggest that the public would be equally interested in a Graham meeting with the world's best-known Russian Christian, Alexander Solzhenitsyn.

This Nobel prize-winner now lives in exile in Vermont, which is much closer to Dr. Graham's home in Montreal, N.C., than is Moscow.

It is interesting indeed to imagine Solzhenitsyn's reactions to:

— Dr. Graham's enthusiastic comment that the Russian churches he visited were "packed to capacity" and "You would never get that in Charlotte, North Carolina." (Even the Washington Post, hardly a conservative newspaper, reported: "The churches in which Graham preached were filled with security agents. Only about one-third of the congregations were local believers. Persons attending the same religious conference on disarmament also made up about one-third of the congregations.")

— Dr. Graham's comparison of the KGB to US police forces who, he said, have removed disturbers of the peace from his US Crusade. The disturber of the peace in Moscow was a young woman who quietly, and for two minutes, held up a banner:

"We have more than 150 prisoners for the work of the Gospel."

She was taken away by the KGB and is still imprisoned. By contrast, I have seen far worse disturbances at Graham Crusade services in the US which did not result in any such arrests or imprisonment.

— Dr. Graham's citation of the Soviets as our allies during World War II—and now, against "another common enemy, the possibility of nuclear war." (The Soviets and the US are also against cancer and killer whales.

But the famed evangelist mentioned nothing about either Afghanistan or yellow rain.)

— Dr. Graham's being chauffeured about in a Chaika limousine, while fellow delegates at the Russian Orthodox-sponsored "World Conference of Religious Workers For Saving The Sacred Gift of Life From Nuclear Catastrophe," were bussed.

— Dr. Graham's bubbling enthusiasm about his meals in Moscow: "The meals I had are among the best I ever had. In the United States you have to be a millionaire to have caviar, and I have had caviar with almost every meal I have had here." (Right. And the Post's Moscow correspondent notes that a four-ounce jar of caviar sells for $65, or roughly one-fourth of the average worker's monthly wage.)

— Dr. Graham's describing religious freedom as "a relative term"—by way of evading reporters' questions—and observing: "I have experienced total liberty in what I wanted to say." (Ground Zero Week in Moscow lasted no longer than it took the KGB to drag away the demonstrators.)

What he wanted to say was so beneficial to the Kremlin that Dr. Graham seems to have provided a whole decade's worth of fulfillment of Comrade Lenin's famed prediction about "useful idiots."

Dr. Graham also declared that chief Soviet American expert, George Arbatov, is "wonderful" and that he left Moscow with his heart "strangely warmed."

This strange warmth may, of course, have really been gas pains and heartburn, from all that KGB caviar.

At the White House, when asked by reporters about President Reagan's reaction to the Graham statements, deputy Presidential news secretary Larry Speakes initially tried to evade the question. When this didn't work and reporters persisted, Speakes dismissed this Mission to Moscow with a withering disclosure:

"He didn't have anything to say about it."

"We have a problem, David—they want to change it to a basketball match."

OVER THE weekend I nearly went nuts because I couldn't get an old song out of my mind, "The Best Things in Life Are Free." I don't know how long it's been since B.G. DeSylva wrote that song, but it's rendition today must have him gyrating in his grave. The Best Things in Life that used to be free, aren't. You go to the grocer and buy for 49 cents a package of book matches with somebody's advertising splashed across their covers, the same ones every store used to throw at you by the dozens, free. When gasoline was 29 cents a gallon there was always an attendant to clean your windshield, side windows and rearview window; check tires, oil, battery and radiator; sweep out the floorboards with a whisk broom and changed the oil for only the price of the oil itself. Then you got a free road map to anywhere in the USA, the state of weather ahead, and current road information. Now that gas is $1.29 a gallon you get none of these goodies, and have to pump the gas yourself.

REMEMBER WHEN the butcher gave you all the liver, heart and soup bones to take home to the dog and cat? When the grocer delivered all your orders to the kitchen sink, along with candy for the kids and a "church key" for papa? Are you old enough to remember the baker's dozen, when you bought 12 of anything and got the 13th one free? When shoe stores gave away free shoe horns? When admission to the zoo was free? When a shopping bag with the store's name on the side was free instead of costing $2? When come December you got so many free calendars the house could be papered with them? When apples, oranges and bananas were priced by the dozen, not the pound? When every third drink at the bar was free—a "tin roof"—on the house? When a Sears, Roebuck & Co. catalog arrived free at every home in America? When you got a free fan at church? And every lumber yard, furniture and hardware store gave away cords of yardsticks, along with key chains, billfolds and coin purses? When the town constable caught you drinking in public and took you home instead of to jail? And a bank account was free and could be opened for one dollar?

THE BEST Things of Life cost a lot today. Even fresh air isn't exactly free anymore, if you consider how many billions of our tax money is being spent to improve it. If you think the Best Things in Life are Free today, try going to a public toilet without a fistfull of dimes and quarters. We hear about "freebies" today, but always in connection with Members of Congress and other underpaid public servants with salaries in six figures. Now and then some entrepreneur advertises something "free"—and we all wonder what's wrong with it! I saw a sign beside the highway the other day reading, "Free Kittens." Maybe kittens aren't the best things in life, but thank God something is still free.

NOT ONLY are the Best Things in Life no Longer Free, but you have to allow 6 to 8 weeks for delivery, plus $2.50 for postage and handling, and don't forget to add the sales tax. Even Free Love went out the window with the Lee Marvin palimony case, and they still call it "free public education" when it costs $2,000 a year to teach children how not to read, write, and balance a checkbook.

MOST OF us have been raised to believe the super-rich Rockefeller Foundation is a hierophant for democracy, capitalism, free enterprise and all those good American things. Thus, firm in our faith, let us ponder this paragraph taken from the Rockefeller Foundation's Task Force on Land Use Controls: "We need to change the policy of allowing Property Owners to think they can do what they want with their land, merely because it is theirs. Property Owners must come to realize whatever rights they have in land they happen to own are rights accorded them by society, not rights they grudgingly permit society to abridge." Farmers, ranchers and homeowners should re-read the paragraph. It is in keeping with the foundation's basic socialistic policies. Readers should also know that the recent Ground Zero attempt to create mass hysteria at the prospect of nuclear war was in part financed by the Rockefeller Foundation. Ground Zero's objective is to force the free world into an accommodation with the Communist World, on the latter's terms of course.

THE BIBLE for dictatorship, whether of the left or right, was written 500 years ago by Niccolo Machiavelli, who laid down the rules for kings and princes in his book, "The Prince." Every world ruler knows the book and its formula for gaining control and perpetuating it. But one of Machiavelli's admonishments goes unheeded: "But above all, a prince must refrain from taking property, for men forget the death of a father more quickly than the loss of their patrimony."

UPDATING MACHIAVELLI'S warning is economist Friedrich Hayek, who also wonders at the tendency of the super-rich to abolish land ownership. "What our generation has forgotten," Hayek said, "is that the system of private property is the most important guaranty of freedom, not only for those who own property, but scarcely less for those who do not."

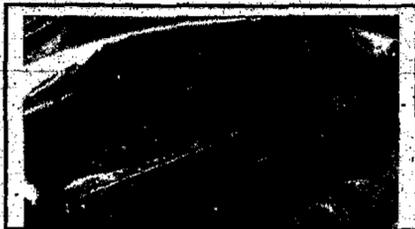

THE BASIC property is the land. Once that is lost to private ownership, other property follows—the right to own homes, businesses, the clothing on one's back and the Wheaties on the kitchen shelf. For where is it written that land ownership is a right "accorded them by society" and a home or a box of Wheaties is not?

PERHAPS YOU too have wondered that the biggest supporters of socialism are not the poor but the rich. Those who have used free enterprise and capitalism to amass huge fortunes are foremost in advocating an end to a system that made their fortunes possible in the first place. You will find few socialists among farmers and ranchers, and all those who work close to the land. Those who labor in mills and factories to support their families and to own property are among the strongest supporters of capitalism. But the rich, the Rockefellers and the Armand Hammers, lend their energies and money to socialist causes which, should it happen here, would consume their fortunes. If a study of this strange phenomenon hasn't been done, it should be.

THANK YOU for not getting yourselves killed over Memorial Day weekend. There is no substitute for a live subscriber to the Lincoln County News!

A PRINTER friend of ours had some application for employment forms brought back to him to be updated. The company found that where the application says "SEX: M or F" some applicants thought it meant Moderate or Frequent.

Hemphill to attend computer workshops

Robert Hemphill, Carrizozo teacher, is among 50 middle and high school teachers from New Mexico, southern Colorado, eastern Arizona and El Paso, to have been selected to attend "Computers in the Classroom" workshops at the University of New Mexico this summer.

The two courses (Intermediate, June 7-18, and Introductory, June 21-July 2) are being given by the Southwest Resource Center for Science and Engineering (SWRCSE). SWRCSE is one of four regional centers funded by the National Science Foundation to increase opportunities for minority and low-income students in the sciences and engineering.

"These teachers were selected from over a hundred applicants on the basis of the impact they will have on their schools or school systems in making and implementing decisions involving the use of computers in teaching," said SWRCSE Director Richard Griego.

Participants in both sessions will be on the UNM campus for two weeks of intensive instruction in programming. They will also be reviewing what the marketplace offers in educational computer programs (software) and equipment (hardware). Emphasis will be on the effective use of computers in the classroom.

4 to attend science programs

Three Carrizozo School students and staff members have been named to 1982 Summer Science and Mathematics Institutes at New Mexico colleges and universities.

CHS senior Tim Vega has been selected as a resident special student at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology. As such, he will enroll for up to six hours of college math and science on the Tech campus, and have the various college facilities available to him for the summer session.

Sophomore Robin Beltran has also been named as one of 40 sophomores from throughout the Southwest to attend a three-week institute in math and computer sciences at New Mexico State University.

Sponsored by the Southwest Resource Center for Science and Engineering, the session will provide advanced instruction to talented sophomores in mathematics and computers. Beltran, who has demonstrated a special aptitude for computers, will be interested in the Apple II computer, which the district plans to purchase this summer.

Carrizozo Mid School math teacher Bob Hemphill has also been selected as one of 25 teachers from throughout the Southwest to attend a classroom microcomputer workshop at the University of New Mexico June 21-July 2. Also sponsored by the Southwest Resource Center, the workshop will instruct science and math teachers on classroom applications of computers. The center will be picking up all expenses for Hemphill, Beltran and Vega.

Veterans' graves are decorated

Flags were placed on graves of veterans in Capitan Cemetery Saturday in observance of Memorial Day by American Legion members. Half the graves are those of World War I veterans. Gold Star Mothers were: Mrs. Hipp, Margaret Biggers, Eva Leslie and Ethel Pepper.

There are only three living charter members of the Capitan American Legion Post. Anyone knowing the location of "James A. Hipp" Legion Post are asked to notify Commander O.R. Lamb of Capitan. Lamb thanked Panama Caréchough for assistance in locating names of veterans; and to Maggie and Benita Trujillo, Mrs. Morgan, Dolly Jackson and Rachel Lacy for help in placing the flags.

RECUPERATING

Dr. Amy Barton of Carrizozo is recuperating at home after undergoing major abdominal surgery in California. On April 22, Dr. Barton traveled by plane to San Diego, where daughter Emily Barton and grandson Joshua reside.

Before her surgery at an area hospital, Dr. Amy was the honored guest at a birthday dinner hosted by relatives. The celebration included a serenade by a singing waiter.

Dr. Barton's oldest son, Charles Blodgett, and his wife Barbara of Seattle, WA, were in hand for the event. Dr. Barton was pleasantly surprised because the last time she enjoyed such a reunion was Christmas of '76.

HOUSEGUESTS

Visitors in the Carrizozo home of Tive Jiron were two daughters and other relatives. T.J. Carey and T.J.'s granddaughter, Latrishah of Alamogordo, stopped during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe McCoele of Clovis visited this past weekend. Their children, Bobbi and Patrick, accompanied them.

WHITE OAKS VISITORS

Recent overnight guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Acker were Mrs. Helen Avant and daughter, Connie. A nephew, Milton Gray of Big Lake, TX, was also a visitor in the Acker home in White Oaks.

ATTEND GRADUATION

Many out-of-town relatives and friends of graduates were here for commencement exercises in Carrizozo. Among them were Tino Lopez Jr. of Espanola and James Lueras of Albuquerque. They were here to see Margaret Lueras receive her diploma.

Joe Portio and wife Tammy of Albuquerque were also at graduation exercises. They came to see Joe's brother, Robert, graduate.

REMEMBER WHEN

March of 1973 I began pushing a pencil in an effort to put out a weekly column for the NEWS. The illustrated column consisted of household hints, recipes, crafts, news tidbits and jokes. The humorous side of motherhood was a weekly feature.

Between diapering and dusting, I managed to read, "Memoirs: 1892-1969" by William A. Keleher. The book includes his re-collections of early day Albuquerque and his experiences of early day news reporting.

Keleher's story encouraged me, just-a-housewife, to learn more of the newspaper business.

Keleher, an attorney, confessed that after he had tried to practice for a few months he felt the impact of the difference between the hustling, aggressive active life of a newspaper reporter and the "hum-drum, day-to-day life of an embryo lawyer."

He continued: "Following serious reflection and perhaps an indulgence in self-pity, I concluded that a newspaper reporter's life, hurrying after items of news, pounding out on the typewriter exciting stories about people and events seemed greatly to be preferred to the drab-like existence of a struggling young lawyer."

Keleher was warned that he would make the mistake of a lifetime if he pursued a career as a newspaper reporter. He was informed that newspaper reporters were heavy drinkers as a general rule. That in fact, several Albuquerque reporters drank too much. Keleher was told that if he became a reporter, he would likely wake up to find himself "dead drunk, rolling in the gutter in a few months."

Keleher went on to become a well-known writer and historian.

AGENDA SURPRISES

Nine years ago when I began writing "Polly's Bulletin Board," I was a busy wife and mother. Somewhere along the line I learned to type (sort of); to take, develop and print photographs (I'm no threat to Ansel Adams, master eye). I tried my hand at feature stories and public meeting reporting.

I remember one town hall meeting when the lights went out during a thunderstorm. The engineer who had the floor was instructed to continue his presentation (he was pointing out sites on a blueprint of the industrial park.)

"To smoke or not to smoke" was the lengthy topic of another town hall meeting. The issue "at hand" caused heated debate among council members.

It was rumored that one school board member was prejudiced against bra-less teachers. One superintendent was warned by the school copk to keep his distance when she had a skillet in her hand.

Then there was the time I read through the police log and the clerk had abbreviated the word "assistance" in a most unusual way. It took me a while to figure out exactly what the chief-of-police wanted when he called in for help.

CYCLE TRAVELER

Troy Turner of Las Vegas, NV, was a week-long visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roley Ward last week. Troy, who drove a motorcycle, made stops in Los Lunas and Oklahoma to visit other relatives.

MEMORIAL DAY

Several former White Oaks residents were in the little town Sunday, traditional Memorial Day, to visit the gravesites of relatives buried at Cedarvale Cemetery. Sunday's trip also included a stop at the White Oaks schoolhouse, where ladies of the White Oaks Historical Association served lunch.

Among Memorial Day travelers were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Van Schoyck of Walsenburg, CO. Wayne's parents owned a general store at White Oaks. Mrs. Van Schoyck is the former Leslie Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper of Ruidoso were in White Oaks Sunday. Roswell visitors were Mrs. Ida (Cleghorn) Keller and Mrs. Ada (Corn) Grey. Ada is a sister of Dollie Ward.

Ferguson wins DeKalb Award

Matt Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wally Ferguson of Carrizozo, was recently named winner of the 1982 DeKalb Agricultural Accomplishment Award.

This award is presented to the senior agriculture student attaining the highest degree of proficiency in scholarship, leadership, and who has a supervised agricultural program.

Ferguson attends Carrizozo High School where he has been president of the FFA chapter, "C" Club, student council and senior class. His agricultural program consists of Hereford cattle, swine and agricultural mechanics. Following graduation he plans to attend New Mexico State University and major in agriculture.

As this year's DeKalb winner, Ferguson receives a pin and certificate, and his name will be inscribed on a special plaque displayed in the agriculture classroom.

Previous winners of the award include Philip Payne, Billy Bob Shafer, Rex Wilson and Phil Straley. The award, often considered the highest honor a vo-ag student can receive on the local level, is presented in more than 4,000 schools annually.

DeKalb is a leading supplier of hybrid seed, poultry and swine breeding stock, irrigation equipment and grain and livestock marketing services. The company operates the largest commercial genetic research program in the world.

$1.6 million budget for school year

The Carrizozo Board of Education has adopted its 1982-83 school district budget totaling $1.6 million dollars for district operation, building construction, and student transportation.

The budget includes an average 7.7 percent increase in salaries for all employees, and program expansion in recreation and Mid School classes.

State approval of the budget came on May 28 at a hearing conducted by capital outlay council director Bonnie Brock-

Wood. Wood announced that average teacher salaries in Carrizozo amounted to $22,600 or 12th among all school districts in New Mexico. A pupil-teacher ratio of just over 13 to 1 was also noted.

Wood also commended the board of education for its building program and a well-prepared budget. She also noted the declining student enrollment and the subsequent reduction in the number of staff. Selected federal programs have not been entered into the budget at this time due to late action by the Congress.

automobile with Congressional plates — in which vehicle Randolph offered to perform a sexual act with a plainclothes New York City police officer, who arrested him.

Rep. Richmond has also been reprimanded by two judges in connection with his $100,000 a year "pension" arranged by a company which he controls. New York State Supreme Court Justice Martin Stecher termed this "an illegal gift of corporate assets."

"He (Richmond) was, in effect, convicted for the crime of soliciting sex," added Lujan. "There are further charges he hasn't been convicted of. But he should be expelled from the House if he doesn't resign."

Lujan's call for this housecleaning in the House is in striking contrast to a number of House members who are renowned for their strong conservatism, such as Georgia's Larry McDonald, a member of the John Birch Society, and Long Island's John LeBoutillier, who has attracted numerous headlines as a House freshman by his strong criticisms of Speaker Tip O'Neill. Neither McDonald nor LeBoutillier, nor California's Barry Goldwater Jr. have been willing, when asked, to request Richmond's resignation, or even to ask for an official investigation of his conduct.

Lujan made his statements about this case during our first interview with him. His answers to this and other questions were as polished as an ambassador's, without any of the diplomat's tendency toward evasion. He is courteous and is equipped with a smile that would melt case-hardened steel. He deals with hard questions with candor and grace.

New Mexico's other member of the House provided us a striking, yet not unwelcome contrast. For interviewing the Hon. Joe Skeen for the first time is an experience almost beyond description.

Skeen is hugely hospitable, enormously colorful and, on occasion, as subtle as an approaching express train.

For example, there is the following dialogue in his Congressional office when we asked him what he had done by way of concern about the conduct of Congressman Richmond:

SKEEN: Nothing.

QUESTION: Why?
SKEEN: The question's never been put to us in the House. And I've got plenty to keep me busy without becoming my own investigator of these kinds of questions. There are groups that are doing that.

QUESTION: Who?
SKEEN: Every law enforcement group in the world. Plus the House Ethics Committee.

QUESTION: Is the House Ethics Committee actually doing something?
SKEEN: Oh, I think they are. They work all the time and they are kept very busy.

QUESTION: We have called them two or three times and they won't say anything.

SKEEN: That's not their job to tell you anything. That's none of your business until they get through with it.

QUESTION: We wonder why it isn't our business as citizens and reporters when there's this kind of thing going on in the House?
SKEEN: It's none of your business until they've made their determination. Then it becomes your business. How are they going to work and keep you apprised of what's going on from moment to moment?

QUESTION: All they'd have to say is "We are conducting an investigation" similar to a grand jury, and there would be no problem.

Ferrises of Tularosa
mark 50th anniversary

Observing their Golden Wedding anniversary on June 6 will be Charles and Dorothy Ferris of 608 Encino, Tularosa. They were married June 3, 1932 in Roswell.

The couple has resided in Lincoln and Otero counties their entire married life. Ferris was a civil service employee at Fort Stanton before coming to Tularosa in 1954 where they operated the Taster Freez for 20 years.

They had two sons, Charles Melvyn who lives in Albuquerque, and Gary Lee, who was killed in 1964 at the age of 5. They also have two grandchildren, Michael, who is in school in Denver, and Anna, who will be a senior in high school in Albuquerque next fall.

A reception is planned in their honor at the Tularosa Woman's Club, 609 6th St., 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 6. It will be hosted by their son and a close friend, Mrs. Evelyn Omev.

All friends of the Ferris's are invited to drop in during the hours of 2 and 5 on Sunday and help Charlie and Dorothy celebrate this occasion.

Summer rec program in place

A much-expanded Summer Recreation Program for area youth has been announced by Carrizozo Schools.

The three-part program—swimming, weight lifting and conditioning, and general evening recreation—will begin June 1 at various school and community locations.

The swimming program, directed by Pool Manager Jerry Koller, will offer a variety of youth and family swimming opportunities each week. Lessons will be available for all ages, including infants.

Special times have been established for senior citizens and New Horizons groups, as well as youth groups from Corona and Capitan.

The weight lifting and conditioning, and general evening recreation begin June 2 at various school and community locations.

The weight lifting and conditioning program will be available to student athletes at scheduled times during June and July.

The evening recreation program begins June 2 under the direction of Frank Gallegos, and runs five days a week from 6 to 9 p.m. for 4th through 12th graders and their parents and families.

Each student will pay an initial one-time registration fee of $2 to be applied toward recreation equipment. Supervised recreation activities such as basketball, volleyball will be taught to interested students. Jazzercise will also continue for high school girls and Carrizozo ladies in the New Gym throughout the summer. The summer band program will begin the third week in July.
