

Billy the Kid is on the loose again in New Mexico's Lincoln County War

EDITOR'S MUSING: Edward J. Dalton, Esq. (he is an attorney, and an attorney is privileged to be addressed as Esquire except when "scoundrel" or "shyster" appears more appropriate) represents the Lincoln County News in Chicago at considerable risk to life and limb. When the July 11, 1982 issue of the Chicago Tribune burst upon the streets with this chronicle of Lincoln, NM, he smuggled a copy into Carrizozo, whereupon it is joyfully reprinted without anyone's permission. On a peevish note, Shirley Slater and Harry Basch, who wrote the story, might have had the courtesy to come by and say hello while in the neighborhood.

LINCOLN, NM — As late as 1877, outlaws still roamed the country around this small New Mexico town, population 63. That year they broke into the Old Lincoln County Courthouse.

"They stole all of Billy the Kid's guns and knives," said Minor Good Thomas, the receptionist at the courthouse that is now a museum. "Somehow they missed a pair of spurs. We've got those locked up in the vault now, so you can't see them."

The courthouse — from which the Kid escaped in 1881, shooting a guard and a deputy in the process — does have on display photostats of Billy's letters to Gov. Lew Wallace, protesting his upcoming hanging and asking the governor to come to his rescue. If you are a researcher, Thomas says you can see the museum's collection of old newspapers with contradictory accounts of the Kid's death.

Billy soon will make his annual appearance in Lincoln. From Aug. 6 to 8, the town will present Old Lincoln Days and stage a five-day Lincoln County War in which the Kid played a major role.

William H. BONNEY, alias Billy the Kid, was born in a New York tenement in 1859. When he was 3, his family headed out West. Billy learned how to play cards and how to shoot a gun. He was only 12 when he killed a friend with a knife.

The Kid showed up in Lincoln County in the fall of 1877 as a small, slight 17-year-old, and by the time he left in the spring of 1881, during a daring daylight jailbreak, he had shot at least four citizens. Before his death on July 13, 1881, he claimed to have killed 21 men, one for each year of his life. Some historians put the number at 8 to 10, chalking up the rest of the killings to the Kid's penchant for boasting.

Billy is buried more than 100 miles from Lincoln in Ft. Sumner, where one of Sheriff Pat Garrett's bullets put an end to the notorious outlaw's career. (There is a Billy the Kid Museum in Ft. Sumner which claims to have the Kid's last gun, which he got after breaking out of the Lincoln courthouse.)

In 1962 a judge denied a motion to move the body to Lincoln, saying that from his actions in the jailbreak, "Lincoln is the one place where he least desired to live and die."

But the memory of Billy the Kid, Sheriff Garrett and all the other locals who took part in the famous shootout remains alive in Lincoln, not only because the scenes are reenacted in the annual celebration but also because the town itself is preserved by historic trust.

You can walk along the street from one end to the other, past the old county courthouse and the Tunstall Store, the restored adobe dwellings and the cemetery. The only 20th Century intrusion is an occasional automobile speeding on its way to Hondo or Carrizozo.

If you spend the night in the old Wortley Hotel, an exact reproduction of the original one owned by Garrett, you easily can get lost in another time. Each of its eight rooms is furnished with brass beds, marble-topped dressers, braided rugs, lace curtains, kerosene lamps and a wood-burning fireplace.

After an early family-style dinner in the old-fashioned dining room (offering local quail with blackeyed peas, mashed potatoes and gravy, cabbage, carrots and thick slices of homemade bread), you may stroll in the quiet twilight or sit on the verandah-like front porch in a wooden rocking chair, admiring the Capitan Mountains in the distance.

Some of the town's other buildings have been turned into museums of the period. The Tunstall Store has the original display cases and furnishings, ledgers dating from 1887 and a full collection of general-store merchandise. Another museum is the Montano Store, part furnished as a store, part as living quarters for the storekeeper's family.

The house and office of Dr. Woods look very much as they did in the doctor's lifetime, with his examining table, appointment books, medical instruments and medicines of the period. The annex to the east once housed the Lincoln Independent newspaper, edited by James Kibbee, father of Guy Kibbee, a character actor in the movies in the 1930s and '40s. (Ironically, in the 1920s it was the town's movie house.)

A stone fort, just past the Tunstall Store and originally much higher, protected the early residents of Lincoln from frequent Indian raids.

Over the years, tiny Lincoln has had its share of illustrious visitors, from Lew Wallace, author of "Ben Hur" and territorial governor of New Mexico, to Douglas Fairbanks Sr., who was researching a movie about Billy the Kid.

Besides the Billy the Kid reenactment, the Old Lincoln Days celebration features a fiddling contest, demonstrations of

Carrizozo FFA members to meet President Reagan Tuesday

Representatives of Carrizozo Future Farmers of America will meet next Tuesday with President Ronald Reagan in Washington to receive his personal congratulations for the chapter's achievements in energy efficiency and conservation.

John Hemphill, FFA chapter president, made the announcement at the meeting of the Carrizozo School Board Tuesday night.

Hemphill told the board that 10 FFA members, advisor Mike Gaines, a woman chaperone and Supt. James Miller will leave Sunday, July 25, for Washington. Only three of the 10 will be presented to the president. Sen-

Pete Domenici has arranged for the others to tour Capitol Hill.

Before returning to Carrizozo the group will visit the National FFA Center, the Smithsonian Institution and other points of interest.

The National FFA Leadership Conference, which will be held while the group is in Washington, will include the presence of all 50 state FFA presidents. The local group will attend a banquet scheduled by the conference.

In addition to the plaque given the local chapter by the president, it will receive $500. The four winning chapters in the contest will also be eligible for an additional $1,000 from the Estech

Corp. of Chicago, sponsors of the awards.

The board also announced employment of three persons. Bill Vitany is the new 5th grade teacher and will also coach girls volleyball, basketball and possibly track. Recently married, Vitany comes from Michigan. Mrs. Vitany is an audiologist (hearing specialist).

John Harris of Forsan, TX, has been hired as the school's music and band instructor. Mr. and Mrs. Harris have two children of elementary school age.

Pat Jiron, Carrizozo, was hired to fill the custodial position. He worked previously under Henry Vega, former superintendent at the Carrizozo Recreation Area which includes the golf course.

At a special meeting on Aug. 3, 5 p.m., the board will consider other employment recommendations. Still to be hired are a high school science teacher, an adult education instructor and a part-time speech therapist.

At the June meeting, Susan Thornton of Bloomfield, NM, was employed as a home economics teacher. She will also serve as FFA-HERO advisor. She replaces Laura Jones, who has been hired by Capitan Schools.

In other business, the board adopted a Student Policy for the school. Teachers Jim Florian and Wini Wilmore, who serve on the board policy committee, attended the meeting. Others on the board are Dr. Miller and Don Wall.

Among new provisions appearing in this year's Student Policy Handbook is a student code of ethics which states that "respect and reverence for the uniqueness of each individual shall be the hallmark of the educational environment."

The section on discipline clarifies responsibility for students.

"Corporal punishment should normally be a last resort. However, some students, especially in the lower grades, respond best to this form of punishment," the policy states. Board President Sterling Spencer announced "with regret" the resignation of Sister Gail Stackpole, and presented her with a plaque in appreciation for service to the children of Carrizozo 1978-1982.

Wall was appointed to serve as board secretary, filling the vacancy created by Stackpole, who is leaving Carrizozo.

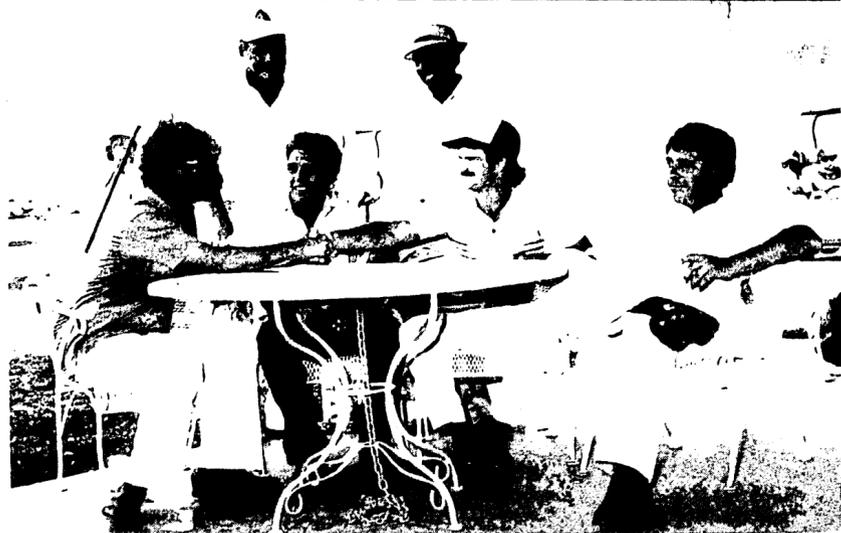

Spencer swore in Mary V. Chavez as a new board member. She will serve until March 1, 1983, when Stackpole's term expires.

A policy was adopted providing for reduction of the teaching and/or administrative staff in case of financial emergency caused by a decline in the number of students enrolled.

The Ancho bus route was changed, eliminating the Gallacher portion of the route, and naming Sam Roper to assume again responsibility for the full route, mornings and afternoons. Rider times will remain the same.

Miller told the board that physical examinations for fall and spring sports can be handled at Carrizozo Health Center. A lower rate of $10 is effective until Aug. 1, after which time the regular fee of $25 will be charged.

SIX top golfers of the Billy the Kid Tournament last week pause for refreshments and congratulations. Above: Ken Means, Carrizozo; Louie Herrera, Tularosa; Carlos Griego, Socorro; Howard Hassell, Ruidoso; Kimo Ortiz, Cloudercroft (low net winner); and Ryan Hamilton, Carrizozo (low gross champion). Nineteen golfers competed in the two-day tourney sponsored by the Carrizozo Golf Assn. Next tournament will be sponsored by Carrizozo Knights of Columbus on July 31.

McSwane resigns

James C. McSwane, deputy in charge of criminal investigation for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Dept., has resigned effective Aug. 1.

In his July 16 resignation letter to Sheriff Ernest S. Sanchez, McSwane said his resignation was based upon an investigation that was requested of him into the honesty of an employee of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Dept. Upon confirming that the employee was a dishonest person, he was requested to write the termination papers and it would be signed by the sheriff.

McSwane went on to say that the person has not been terminated, and feels "that I can no longer work in a department that would keep such a person employed."

Sheriff Sanchez declined comment on the resignation other than to say that McSwane has been with the department for 31 years and has been a good officer.

According to other informants, there have been several instances of theft in courthouse offices involving money.

Sanchez indicated that the evidence against the employee was insufficient for dismissal.

McSwane told the NEWS his future plans are uncertain, but is considering entering the field of private investigation.

Two murder cases are consolidated

Two inmates of Camp Sierra Blanca charged with the killing of another inmate will be consolidated, and accused killers Felix Martinez and Richard Lujan, will go to trial Sept. 7 in 12th District Court here.

Attorneys for the two agreed to the consolidation although they previously opposed it.

The case began with the Aug. 1, 1981 stabbing and beating death of Scott Wayne Thompson of Alamogordo, who was serving a sentence for armed robbery. Martinez, Lujan and David Sedillo were charged with the slaying, but Sedillo pleaded no contest to second degree murder and was sentenced to six years in prison. Martinez has been tried twice, both trials ending in mistrial.

Although the trial date is Sept. 7 there is no assurance it will come off until a host of motions are heard by the court on Aug. 24.

One motion to be argued is one to remove the possibility of a death penalty for either of the two. Argument will be based on a recent US Supreme Court case in which a man was convicted of murder because he participated in an armed robbery during which someone was killed. The court ruled that the defendant didn't kill or even intend to kill, and overruled the death penalty.

Cobb injured, Weaver fight called off

A painful thing happened to Randy "Tex" Cobb on his way to Las Vegas to fight WBA boxing champion Mike Weaver.

He got 22 stitches in his lip and a postponement of his scheduled July 25 fight.

Cobb suffered a cut upper right lip while sparring with Tony Perera, a former linebacker from the University of Texas (El Paso), at his training quarters in Las Vegas.

This is the second time the Weaver-Cobb fight has been postponed. Originally, the fight was set for June 2 at Atlantic City, NJ, but was delayed when Weaver suffered shoulder injuries.

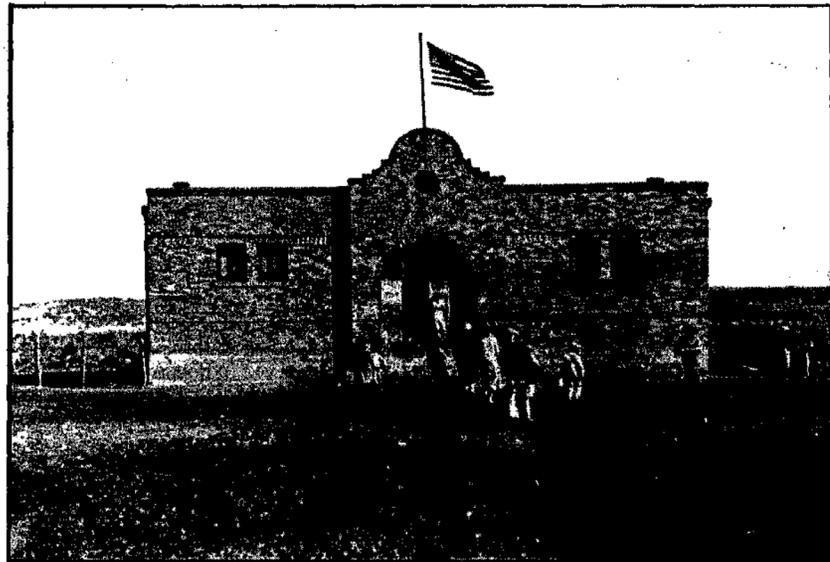

Doctors say it will be 30 days before Cobb can do any sparring and six weeks to two months or more before he can resume fighting.

ANCHO SCHOOL . . . in its heyday

Drive to restore old Ancho School

By WOODY SCHLEGAL
The pitter-patter of busy little feet has not been heard in the Ancho School for many years.

During the Depression years of 1930-36, approximately 110 children attended the eight classes taught there. However, because of declining student enrollment all classes were moved to Carrizozo around 1955.

Originally built of Ancho No. 1 brick by the Phelps-Dodge Brick Co. of Ancho in 1919, the school house now is in serious need of repairs. At one time, in addition to teaching children reading, writing and arithmetic, the building was also used for square dancing, weddings, polling place, and an intermittent stopping place for a variety of circuit preachers who passed that way. Today it is being used primarily by Ancho area Presbyterians who hold services there.

Walking over the beautiful hardwood floors and through wide doorways into the large rooms one can easily feel the presence of history. If the walls could talk what tales could be told of the Straleys, Coopers, Hightowers, Wilsons, and many others who learned their 3R's there!

Some of the teachers who taught there, and who readily come to mind, are Carl Craig and Jean Berry, who were married while teaching; Mary Crawford, who married a local man named Jim Dale; Miriam Hightower and Ivy Payne were both teachers and married; Elva Wilson, mother of Walt Wilson; Bill Nickels, who was a principal at Ancho School, and his wife Betty.

Perhaps the saddest memories might well belong to Mrs. Ticer, who was teaching when the school closed.

Now a happier time is at hand. There are a number of people in the Ancho community, especially younger people, who are interested in repairing and preserving this beautiful old building.

Since the building was turned over to the Ancho Community Association a number of small but vital repairs have been made. Presently, however, the building needs a new roof, a new ceiling in two rooms, replacement of all window frames with double-pane windows all around, and sealer over the entire brick outer wall.

To help pay for all this, members of the Ancho community are having a "Any and Everything" sale at the area Presbyterian Manse at 806 G Avenue, Carrizozo, on Friday and Saturday, July 20-21.

The sale will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and this reporter saw a number of good buys, so get there with your checkbook.

If anyone would like to make a tax deductible contribution to this cause, please send check to Mrs.

Howard Harkey, Star Route No. 1, Box 35, Carrizozo, NM. Make checks payable to Ancho Community Association. Any size will be appreciated. Also appreciated would be letters from any former teacher or alumni of Ancho School, as a history of that old building is now being compiled.

Mailing letters by Pony Express

The 14th Annual Pony Express Race from White Oaks to Lincoln, Aug. 7, has been dedicated "To the memory of Pat Dunning, John LaMay, Truman Spencer Jr. and Ronnie Eldridge, who in past years have contributed their time, energy and love to this event," according to Ruth Hawk, manager, White Oaks Casino & Museum.

The race will be the same as in past years. Riders will leave White Oaks at 8:30 a.m. and will arrive in Old Lincoln Town at approximately 10 a.m. Participants will carry US mail with a special Pony Express stamp.

The Pony Express stamp will be a collector's item for the longest event of its kind in existence. The Pony Express Race was started in 1969 under sponsorship of Lincoln Development Assn. as a part of the Centennial of Lincoln County. It has grown in popularity and participation since that time. The mail will not be carried in connection with the endurance race, which is a separate event of Old Lincoln Days festivities.

Letters to be carried by Pony Express may be addressed to Pony Express, Lincoln, NM 88338. For the public's convenience, mail drop boxes have been placed at the Smokey Bear Museum in Capitan; Roy's Gift Gallery and Four Winds Restaurant, both in Carrizozo; Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce, Ruidoso; Bonito Stables, Bonito; and White Oaks Casino & Museum, White Oaks. Letters may be deposited no later than Aug. 4 at all locations except White Oaks, where mail will be received only until 8 p.m. Aug. 6, for inclusion in Pony Express saddlebags. Cost of mailing a letter by Pony Express is $1. Directions for mailing are posted on the mail drop boxes listed above.

Cheerleaders back from NCA camp

Carrizozo High School Varsity Cheerleaders have returned from NCA Cheerleading Camp in Albuquerque.

There were about 25 squads attending from around New Mexico and Texas. The girls had four evaluations. They received one outstanding rating, one excellent and two superior ratings. They also received a Spirit Stick for outstanding display of spirit and a ribbon for being a Super Squad.

While attending the camp they learned new cheers and chants as well as stunts and pompon routines.

This year's varsity cheerleaders are Julie Vega, Lynn Gallacher, Mary Jane Ferguson, Rozanne Gable, Brenda Koller, Stephanie Saucedo and Lisa Cantrell. (Lisa was unable to attend camp because of a prior commitment.)

riders may be obtained through P.O. Box 38, Lincoln, or White Oaks Casino & Museum, White Oaks. There is a $50 entry fee, and time is short. Entries will be accepted up to the morning of the race. For further information call 653-4076.

Bill Shrecengost will portray Billy the Kid in the annual "Last Escape of Billy the Kid" pageant. The pageant portrays some of the major events during the Lincoln County War, and has been an annual event since 1940 except for the war years, when Peter Hurd played Billy.

There will be four pageant performances: Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m. Aug. 6-7; on Sunday, Aug. 8, two performances, 3:30 and 8:30 p.m. Admission will be $2 per adult and $1 for children under 12 years.

Plans are for square dancers to perform before each performance of the pageant.

While visitors wait for the mail to arrive in Lincoln, they may visit the many exhibits in Lincoln or watch the Billy the Kid Endurance Races which start and end just west of Lincoln. There will be two races; a 25-mile and a 50-mile race. These races start at 6:30 a.m. and should be completed around 2 p.m.

Also on Saturday is the Fiddler's Contest at 1:30 p.m. in the park near the gallery; music of yesteryear; living history demonstrations, adobe laying and other events.

Sunday there will be more music, a mini-parade for the children and families in pioneer costumes near the pageant grounds at the west end of town.

weaving and other crafts from the 1880's, a barbecue on the lawn of the Wortley Hotel, concession booths, a parade and a 41-mile Pony Express run from the ghost town of White Oaks into Lincoln on Saturday, Aug. 7.

Where to stay. If you plan to attend the Old Lincoln Days celebration, you may find the few rooms at the Wortley Hotel have been booked; call the hotel at 505-653-4381.

Nearby small towns — Carrizozo, Capitan and Hondo — have some small- to medium-size motels. The nearest large towns are Roswell (Roswell Inn, El Rancho Palacio) and Alamogordo (Holiday Inn, Travelodge, many others), both towns a little more than 50 miles away.

The most luxurious lodging in the area is the stunning, one-of-a-kind Inn of the Mountain Gods in Mesalero (less than 50 miles from Lincoln). This deluxe resort is owned and operated by the Mesalero Apache tribe, and its restaurants, bars and rooms are as elegant as any you'll find anywhere. Doubles are about $70; for reservations and information, call 505-257-5141.

Finally, the mountain resort town of Ruidoso, 35 miles from Lincoln, has a full range of lodges and resort motels drawing regular summer visitors from El Paso, Tex., and other southwestern cities.

Where to dine. First choice is the charming Wortley Hotel, where homestyle breakfasts are about $7 (hot cakes, sausage, thick, smoke bacon slices, eggs, toasted homemade bread, strawberry jam) and complete dinners are $7-9. (Besides the quail, you'll find pork chops, steaks, rainbow trout.)

Another very special spot is the Silver Dollar in the hamlet of Tinnie, 10 miles from Lincoln. It serves only dinner, from 5 to 10:30 p.m., and you should reserve ahead (call 505-653-4425) unless you are prepared to wait. First of a highly successful group of New Mexico restaurants operated by the Tinnie Mercantile Company, the Silver Dollar is a delightful Victorian restoration of an old general store; the lavish menu features steaks, chops and seafood.

For more information. The museums and the Wortley Hotel are open almost year-round; to check days and times for the museums and the special events of the Old Lincoln Days, call 505-653-4025. Lincoln is on US Hwy. 380, 32 miles southeast of Carrizozo and about 50 miles west of Roswell.

Camp meeting at Nogal draws 1,102

The Nogal Mesa Ranchmen's Camp Meeting was held last week in hot dry weather. Although the ranchers prayed for rain, the 1102 registered visitors enjoyed the sun and breeze that is always present at the 7,000-foot altitude of the camp.

There were fewer campers this year than last, 451 in all, but 100 young people participated in hayrides, watermelon busts and ice cream feasts.

The Memorial Service Saturday had as its theme "Gates of Heaven." The business meeting Sunday saw the same officers and committee chairman reinstated for another year.

The managers and equipment packed up and left Monday for the next camp meeting to be held at Mesa Redondo, near Tucumcari, July 22.

Richardson attended Capitan High School and received his bachelor's degree in agriculture from NMSU in May, 1982. He received the Dean's Award of Excellence for 1982, and was also selected as the outstanding senior male student by the Agriculture and Home Economics Council at NMSU.

Richardson received the Lincoln County Farm Bureau scholarship while attending NMSU. He was a member of Block and Bridle at the university, was a member of collegiate 4-H and FFA, and was elected to the NMSU student senate.

Where to go, what to see "The bear went over the mountain — to see what he could see." Hikers are climbing to the tops of mountains and peaks in Lincoln National Forest, and are still rewarded by what they see.

The Capitan Mountains and White Mountain Wildernesses have many trails which offer unique opportunities for observing diverse vegetation and wildlife, as well as the challenge of the climb. Experienced hikers like the solitude and ruggedness of the canyons and cliffs on the Guadalupe Ranger District.

For visitors who are limited by time or ability, the Sierra Blanca Ski Area Gondola is operating for sightseers on weekdays, but not on weekends, from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. Check with the ranger stations in the areas you wish to visit for maps and information.

Summer showers have lowered the danger of forest fire on the Lincoln, but visitors are urged to continue to be careful with all fires. Visitor Information Service programs are scheduled at South Fork Campground on Smokey Bear District, and at Silver Overflow Area on Cloudcroft Ranger District on Saturday nights at dark.

Camp and picnic grounds on Smokey Bear are receiving heavy use. Fishing pressure is heavy at Bonita Lake. In White Mountain Wilderness, Trails 19 and 33 have some downfalls which block horse travel, but not hikers. All other trails are open.

Capitan Mountains Wilderness trails are open. Fuelwood areas are open. Permits are required for all fuelwood areas on Lincoln National Forest.

There will be an Arts and Crafts Fair in Ruidoso this weekend.

On the Cloudcroft District, camping and picnicking use is heavy. Back roads and trails are muddy because of rains. Fuelwood areas are open, but may close due to rain — check with district before leaving home. Wild raspberries should be ripe on this district next week.

● THE Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians has concluded its findings and has reportedly recommended to Congress that Japanese and Japanese-Americans ordered out of the Western Defense Zone at the outbreak of World War II be compensated in the amount of $4 billion for their "inconveniences." Congress has not yet acted. Meanwhile, California's Assembly has yielded to political pressure by passing AB 2710 which would give Japanese claimants $1,250 a year for up to four years as a means of quieting the Japanese-American Citizens League (JACL) and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), two left-leaning pressure groups with great political clout. This is calculated to exert pressure on Congress to approve the $4 billion extortion plan. Never mind that aggrieved Japanese-Americans were fully compensated in 1948 and again in the 1950's — the JACL wants it all over again. When Congress finally acts on the commission's recommendations, be sure the US taxpayer will be whacked with another payoff to a bunch of greedy, arrogant Japanese-Americans who have never learned that Japan lost World War II, and who envision a second Pearl Harbor by which the US will suffer economic catastrophe equal to the military defeat at the first Pearl Harbor.

● FOR THOSE who are unaware of this third (and probably not final) assault on the US by Japanese and Japanese-Americans, my column of Sept. 9, 1981 is reprinted to show the brazen, unjustified and dastardly attempt to raid the US Treasury. Since the column was printed it has received nationwide attention, and neither the ACLU nor the JACL has been able to refute a single statement of fact herewith advanced. If you are not as mad as hell now, you will be when you finish this column. Here it is.

● CONGRESS IS wrestling with a disturbing proposal — whether to pay $4 billion to Japanese-Americans as indemnity for their treatment during World War II. For weeks I have ploughed through reams of testimony presented to a Congressional committee, pro and con. Indemnity is being pushed by the Japanese-American Citizens League and (wouldn't you know it) the American Civil Liberties Union. Based purely on the facts submitted, and all political and racial considerations aside, the JACL and ACLU demand is grossly unfair, mostly false, and deserves to be firmly rejected by Congress.

● THIS COUNTRY was justified in taking measures to protect the nation following Pearl Harbor and the savage Japanese invasion of the Philippines. The War Department believed a Japanese invasion of the West Coast was imminent. So did residents of the West Coast, who were in a state of near panic. Submarines were shelling the California coast. We had no way of knowing which Japanese were loyal to the US and which were loyal to Japan. You see, our intelligence service, then as now, was practically non-existent. At the start of the war we had to rely almost entirely on British intelligence.

● ONE FACT stands out. No Japanese-Americans, no Americans of Japanese ancestry, have ever been "interned" by the US military; unless, of course, they chose to voluntarily accompany an enemy alien who was disloyal to this country but loyal to Japan. Don't forget, there were 5,000 Japanese in this country who refused to swear allegiance to the US. Another 5,000 swore allegiance to the Emperor of Japan, and demanded repatriation in order to join the fight against this country. These were interned. Anywhere else, including Japan, such enemy aliens would have been shot.

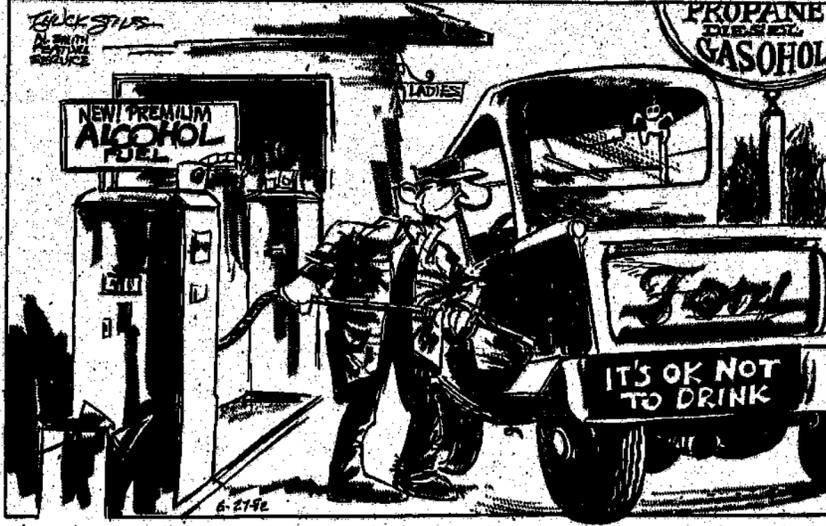

● JAPANESE-Americans were forbidden inside the War Zone (Red Zone) which extended along the West Coast from Washington State to San Diego. These people were sent to assembly centers. There they were free to move anywhere in the US freely, as long as they carried an Alien Registration Card and observed the curfew. Anywhere, that is, but in the War Zone. This prohibition didn't just apply to Japanese. It extended to Germans and Italians, too. They had it no worse than US citizens in Hawaii and Alaska. There all persons, regardless of ancestry, had to observe the curfew. From assembly centers, they were sent to War Location Centers, which were under civilian control, never the military. They were free to leave the WLC and were encouraged to do so, but couldn't go into the War Zone. Many left to live and work outside the War Zone, and in the other 45 states. The Italian and German aliens were free to do the same thing.

● FOR THE most part, Japanese in relocation centers were self-governing through elected "wardens." Families were kept together. Security was minimal. Their housing was equal to that provided American soldiers in training camps. They had recreational and educational facilities. Thousands of Japanese graduated from college while on leave from the centers. The government as trustee took over their household goods, bank accounts, crops, and other property. Receipts were issued for these possessions, and later much of it was returned to their owners at government expense.

● THE CENTERS were not beds of roses, but nobody was forced to remain in them. American soldiers and citizens had no bed of roses in the Japanese perimeters, either. And the brutal treatment of Philippine citizens by invading Japanese wasn't jolly. There were legitimate cases of ill-treatment of Japanese-Americans at the centers, caused by hasty preparations, disorganized effort, and poorly selected and trained civilian personnel. All those claims have already been heard and adjudicated, as we shall see.

● THE US Supreme Court in 1944 upheld the wartime action against enemy aliens — Japanese, Italians and German alike — and that court was composed of the most liberal judges ever to grace that bench (William O. Douglas, Hugo Black and Felix Frankfurter). Later, Mr. Justice Earl Warren, an outstanding liberal and chronic bleeder for the oppressed, was asked to apologize for his World War II actions as Attorney General of California, and he said: "Never!" There hasn't been a single lawsuit claiming "inhumanity" against any WWII government agency in connection with operation of any of the 10 relocation centers. Until now.

● THE CLAIMS of Japanese-Americans for losses and injuries suffered in World War II have already been adjudicated. Surely, astute legal eagles at the ACLU should recall Public Law No. 888 of July 2, 1948 which said: "The Attorney General shall receive (Continued on page 8)

Editorial Comment

The Rising Sun?

Why is it that Japan, defeated in World War II and its military outlawed, now ranks 6th among all nations in defense spending and boosts its military budget at a faster rate than any West European nation?

Art. IX of Japan's postwar constitution renounces war as an instrument of national policy and states that "land, sea and air forces, as well as other war potentials, will never be maintained." Yet by 1972 Japan had an army of 268,000, 800 military aircraft, 46 destroyers and 44 submarines. Why? Coincident with this return to militarism in Japan, why are Japanese-Americans waging a political "Pearl Harbor" to raid the US Treasury in the name of "reparations" for injustices allegedly inflicted upon them — especially when they have already been compensated twice for everything from a missing picture to a broken fishing rod? (See OPINION, this page.)

The most popular movies being made in Japan today, the Manchester Guardian reported last week, depict the attack on Pearl Harbor as a legitimate act of self-defense; glorifies wartime Prime Minister Tojo, executed as a war criminal in 1948, as a man of peace; shows Japanese soldiers behaving very decently toward their prisoners of war, and its conquest of East Asia as purely self-defense. Why?

Why is the Japanese Government through its Education Ministry trying to force its school teachers to accept rewritten textbooks which glorify and justify the nation's past military atrocities?

Why are Japanese agents and businessmen trying to bribe FBI agents, and have been caught stealing or attempting to steal US technological secrets?

This revival of militarism and aggression, in Japan and among Japanese-Americans in the US, goes largely unnoticed by the American people, probably because no mention of it appears in the media.

Is the revival of militant nationalism in Japan and the resurgence of animosity toward the US by Japanese-Americans just a coincidence — or the opening wedge for future military conquest to avenge a World War II defeat?

The US has been taken in before by Japan. Let us hope these events are not going unnoticed in Washington. While many things change, the basic character of a people cannot be changed by the loss of a single war.

New Mexico in Washington

Domenici, Skeen--Wildlife suit is 'overreaction'

By TOM & LESTER KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — The National Wildlife Federation is planning a legal suit to block a recent decision by the Justice Department curbing federal rights over water supplies in New Mexico and other western states. The Wildlife Federation claims the ruling will have a devastating effect on streams, wildlife and scenic areas. During an interview with this newspaper, Senator Domenici said: "I just don't believe that. I think that's assuming that the states will let that happen just because they are in charge of deciding who has rights to the streams and to the water." Domenici said the Wildlife Federation is overreacting and exaggerating with regard to the water ruling, which he believes will give "orderliness" and "appropriate priorities" to water usage in New Mexico. "We'll see to it, everybody combined, that the interest that they are concerned about will be appropriately taken care of," he said. "But we don't have to give the federal government this kind of smashing right to take over and hold all of water law kind of in abeyance for decades, while an unvested federal right just kind of hangs around." Rep. Joe Skeen agreed with Domenici and called the Wildlife Federation's stand on water policy "totally wrong." "I think we've provided for water in the most adverse conditions already," he said. "We've maintained the wildlife refuges in New Mexico; as a matter of fact, we've added to them." Skeen accused the Wildlife Federation of being overly concerned and not based on facts in their opposition, which he said is laced with emotionalism.

He said the Justice Department is reversing a "very dangerous" water policy started by the Carter administration. "If western states, and I would think along with that all other states, don't have control of their water and the water supplies within their state, without the encumbrance of more federal regulations placed on top of it, you're going to design more disasters than the National Wildlife Federation could ever draw suit on," he said. We also asked Skeen about Agriculture Secretary John Block's opposition to a recent House bill that provides additional funds for organic farming research. Was this the influence of the multi-billion dollar fertilizer industry? "Absolutely not," he replied. "That's another false assumption we've trapped ourselves into, that anything big, anything multi-corporational is bad. That's the Jane Fonda and Ralph Naders talking and they're blowing smoke out their own ears." The concept of segregating organic agriculture production from chemical or fertilizer-type production is, in his words, "patently ridiculous." "They're one and the same!" said Skeen, "and what the Secretary, I think, is saying is that they should not have been separated from the beginning, that organic is not a different kind of agriculture from that practiced today to a large degree in the United States." Skeen supports the Agriculture Department's opposition because of what he calls the "inanity" of trying to contrast organic agriculture practices from those utilized by large producers. "They all have to practice it to some degree or another," he added, "and there should not be any of this business of separating one kind from another. That's cultism, and we've been practicing down that road for quite too long a time." Though Sen. Domenici conceded he was not sufficiently informed about the organic farming controversy, he commented: "I know that the Department of Agriculture still has a significant research and development budget and is one of the premier 'R and D' institutions in the United States." "Unless it is budgetary, that there just isn't enough money to go around, I would have no reason — I don't know the breadth of the proposal — if it's something that makes sense, I see no reason why it shouldn't be studied also, just speaking personally, and researched along with others."

Inside Religion

Handling reporters, Dr. Falwell style

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING
Cal Thomas is Moral Majority's vice-president in charge of communications. Increasingly over the past few months, when reporters try to reach his boss, the Rev. Jerry Falwell, it is Thomas who provides them the comment — often in a manner that makes good reading or which sounds effective on the air. For Cal Thomas is one of the more media-wise FR people among the religious right wing. Almost always, he is wary and usually he is clever. But there have been exceptions where he has bombed as badly as his boss — as for example when Falwell denounced the Reagan nomination of Judge Sandra Day

O'Connor to the US Supreme Court. (And her Senator, Mr. Conservative Barry Goldwater of Arizona, urged every good Christian in the nation to "kick Falwell's ass.") One of Cal Thomas's Waterloos took place when he was addressing a Moral Majority seminar, entitled "Understanding Government," in the Washington suburb of Springfield, VA. This seminar was closed to the press — to whom Thomas referred in telling the 75 people assembled: "Most of them (reporters) are dumber than you. If you can't convert them, you may be able to silence them." This behind-closed-doors training session, to understand the (allegedly) open government of the United States, had been infiltrated — by one of the supposedly dumb writers to whom Public Relations Expert Thomas was referring. Perry Deane Young has reported the Thomas Treatment For Reporters in his new book, "God's Bullies: Power Politics and Religious Tyranny" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston). Thomas explained to the (not-as-dumb-as-reporters) audience that in the event of reportorial hostility, one can go to the reporter's editor or station manager and say: "I'll talk to anybody but him." Writer Young decided to investigate Mr. Thomas' professional media credentials. He reports as follows:

"Thomas describes himself as a man with 21 years in broadcasting — seven and a half years of that with NBC Network News." This, notes Young, "is an important gap in the man's resume. Thomas did local television reporting in Houston and local radio in Washington that got him on the late night radio network news, but he never specifies that fact. If anyone wants to interpret his frequent references to 'broadcasting' and 'network news' as being up there with John Chancellor, that's his or her problem. Thomas is not lying." Perhaps the word "never" is as overblown as Young's book title of "God's Bullies." In any case, on both occasions on which this column has contacted Thomas as Falwell's FR man, we were informed of this NBC Network Connection. Cal is exceedingly more modest when asked about the amount he is paid to serve as flackman to Falwell. In fact he refuses to disclose this salary, despite the national ecclesiastical trend away from such concealment. (This is not a practice confined to the far right, however. For the Rev. William Sloane Coffin also sought to conceal his salary at Manhattan's Riverside Church.) One of our contacts with Thomas took place after a new organization called "People for the American Way" (PAW) (Continued on page 8)

Lawmen seek rapist

A 68-year-old Carrizozo woman was assaulted and raped Monday night in her home.

The act occurred about 11:15 Monday night as the woman, alone in her home at the time, was watching television. She answered a knock at the door, and a man forced his way inside the house, struck the woman and raped her.

The assailant could not be identified by the victim because he was wearing a stocking over his head. He was shirtless and wore denim trousers.

He escaped by taking the victim's car, later found abandoned near the railroad tracks. The woman was given emergency treatment at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital and returned home.

Dave Vermilion, investigator for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Dept., said fingerprints had been taken from the abandoned car, and that a search warrant is being requested for service in Roswell in connection with the crime. He also indicated there are "minor suspects" in Carrizozo who are undergoing investigation.

decided to air some rather bland, even inane, commercials, showing people expressing different opinions, as the American Way. These were sent out in the hopes of obtaining free time as a public service. They might have passed far more unnoticed but for Falwell & Co. threatening to demand equal time — since media expert Thomas decided they were "a thinly veiled attack."

Thomas is unquestionably more adept in dealing with the media than his boss. But the never-ending strain of having to be on guard, or ready to rescue the movement from catastrophic Falwell miscues, has apparently taken something of a toll on Thomas, who, on occasion, reacts in a manner not altogether appropriate to the evangelical image of a soul-saver.

For example, a Methodist minister-editor from Texas named Spurgeon Dunnam III challenged Falwell to debate the issue of the O'Connor nomination — and was turned down.
"He has debated William Sloane Coffin on the Donohue Show," explained Thomas, who added: "We don't debate just anybody."
(Only important people, that is. Nobody obscure; from small towns, for example, like Nazareth.)
Thomas went on to recall that Dunnam had called a press conference to give this letter of challenge to the media "before Falwell had even had a chance to read it. Dunnam claims he has had a call from God to do this, but he forgets the Biblical admonition that one should consult with one's brother about differences, in private, first."
Did Dr. Falwell consult with Presidential Nominee Jimmy Carter prior to going on the air and denouncing his brother Baptist for the Carter PLAYBOY interview?
Thomas had no other reply than: "I wasn't working here then."

claims (of Japanese, Italians and Germans) for a period of 18 months from the date of enactment of this act . . . all claims not presented within that time shall be forever barred on this subject."
Claims settled were reparation for personal injury, inconvenience, physical hardship or mental suffering. The money was paid. Settlement was final and conclusive. Justice was denied to none. Yet, more than 30 years later, the JA CL and ACLU press claims for alleged violations of their constitutional rights!

● THERE HAS never been a war in which nationals of a hostile nation were treated with more kindness, compassion and concern than were Japanese-Americans in World War II. By contrast, consider the brutality, cruelty and humiliation visited by the US Government upon the civil population of the Southern states during and after the Civil War. And these were brothers.

● PEOPLE are being invited to remember Tule Lake as a typical center for Japanese-Americans, with its barbed wire fences, armed guards, and machine gun platforms. Indeed!
Beginning in 1943 Tule Lake was turned over to the military to house the hard-core, pro-Japan trouble makers who declared their loyalty to Japan. They were collected from all other relocation centers, as wartime enemies unfit to mingle with other Japanese-Americans. In Japan, such people would have been shot, not interned. True, the innocent families of these wartime criminals were permitted to be with them if they requested it.

● TODAY WE have a bunch of the "me" generation, Japanese-Americans, half of whom were not even born at the time of World War II, demanding indemnity for suffering they never endured.
They are the militants of the Japanese-American Citizens League who follow the plunder patterns used successfully by blacks, hispanics and Indians to "get something" for alleged past grievances. They are a disgrace to the thousands of loyal Japanese-Americans, and they dishonor those heroic Nisei who volunteered from location centers and fought so bravely for the US.

● IF WE submit to this blackmail now, what is to prevent each succeeding generation from reopening claims? When do we say,
"Hold, enough is enough"?

Golf Scramble added to Fiesta

The Carrizozo Knights of Columbus will again sponsor a Scramble Golf Tournament at the Carrizozo Golf Course Saturday, July 31. Registration starts at 9 a.m. and tee off time 10 a.m.
Registration Fee is $5 plus green fees. Trophies and other awards will be awarded. Following the Golf Scramble will be a putting contest with women's and men's divisions.

Sunday, Aug. 1, is People's Market Place, co-sponsored by the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce and Santa Rita Parish at Spencer Park in Carrizozo. It features the Hondo Dancers, a chili cook-off, games, pony rides, arts and crafts, clowns and fun.

In a Golf Scramble players are teamed up, men and women, top flight players and not-so-top-flight players. After teeing off the best ball is chosen and then players play from that ball. The best ball on any round may be hit by the best player on the team or perhaps the not-so-best-player.

The Carrizozo Santa Rita Fiesta Golf Scramble is part of the three-day Santa Rita Fiesta which begins with vespers Friday, July 30, the Golf Scramble Saturday, July 31, and the mass to crown the Fiesta Queen and the Fiesta Dance.
