Boys find body on Corona Ranch

The body of a ranch worker missing since 1977 may have been found on the Adams Ranch, 17 miles east of Corona. The as yet unidentified body was discovered Aug. 5 by two boys on a camping trip, Charles Dean III and Ben Adams III, both 11. Indications are that it was a homicide. The body had been thrown into a crevice and rocks stacked on top of it. The Bernalillo County Coroner at Albuquerque is performing an autopsy to identify the man and the cause of death. The ranch worker had been employed on the nearby Heit Ranch. Neighbors recall that the man, who was from El Paso, had been taken to a doctor in Albuquerque for an injury to his right arm. The doctor placed a cast on the arm, and the cast was found intact at the scene.

Robbie Runnels wins Pony Express ride

Pony Express rider Robbie Runnels, 14, was the first to cross the finish line at Lincoln Friday morning carrying US Mail over a 41-mile course that started in White Oaks at 8:30 a.m. His lapsed time was 2 hours, 18 minutes.

OTHER PONY EXPRESS PHOTOS ON PAGES 2, 5

He was far ahead of his fellow express riders, who crossed the line 40 minutes later in a dead heat. Second place in the ride went to Jamil Hindi with a time of 2 hours 58 minutes and 30 seconds. Close third was the team of Joe Armstrong and Kenneth Crenshaw, each rode half the race with a time of 2 hours, 58 minutes and 35 seconds.

The three carried 900 letters addressed to 45 states and six foreign countries. It beat the US Postal Service between White Oaks and Lincoln by "about 24 hours," according to one spectator.

Money prizes and trophies went to the winners, Robbie Runnels and Chris Peralta, Jamil Hindi, Joe Armstrong and Kenneth Crenshaw.

Chris Peralta, 14, son of Isidro and Patsy Peralta of Capitan, rode the first lap of the race, White Oaks to Encinoso, then Robbie carried the mail to the finish line in Lincoln on Black Betsy, a feisty mare that was bucking and pitching just before crossing the finish line.

Owner Robert Runnels said about everybody on the Runnels place rode Black Betty before the start of the race to make sure "all that pitching and bucking was out of her" before turning her over to son Robbie for the race. Robert and Donna Runnels are parents of the winning rider. "We're very proud of our son," Mrs. Runnels told the crowd of several hundred people gathered on the outskirts of town to witness the end of the ride.

The winning riders were sponsored in the race by Runnels Riding Stable in Bonito. It was the first Pony Express ride for both first place winners.

There were three teams in the race. Runnels, Crenshaw and Hindi; Each team had four horses and two riders for the 41 mile run. Jamil Hindi rode the distance.

Chamber finds a home; gets unexpected bill

Chamber members learned at Tuesday noon meeting that the town council had allowed them to maintain an office in the building known as the "old city hall." The building had previously been rented to house Mary Rich Real Estate and Taeria Foundation, who are in the process of vacating the building.

Scott Shafer, chamber vice-president, had made the request at a town hall meeting the evening before. He gave Mayor Harold Garcia a statement signed by 48 individuals who petitioned the members of the council to allow the chamber to rent the building for a nominal fee or no rental, "for the good of Carrizozo."

Shafer told the council that concerned citizens have volunteered to do minor repairs to the building. The chamber will pay all utilities.

The passage of the Lodger's Tax "ties hand in hand with our program, which is to promote the town," Shafer said. The funds "free chamber money for other purposes." Dues will be used for maintaining regular office hours. The mayor said Tuesday evening that three people in the motel industry have declined to serve on the Lodger's Tax committee. The mayor at a later date will appoint people-at-large.

Chamber President W.A. Schlegel encouraged members at the luncheon Tuesday to express to the mayor their interest in serving on the Lodger's Tax committee. The town plans to share the tax money with the chamber for tourism purposes. Because of the chamber's involvement in programs like the Economic Development Committee, 50 percent of monies invested for the promotion of the town is returned.

Meanwhile, chamber members were informed that Roy Dow, Gift Gallery owner, had billed them for $800 for past due rent. The statement showed a 50 percent donation decreasing the amount to $400. The rent charge began in November of last year when Fields Accounting Service moved to the J.G. Moore Agency Building. Fields had handled chamber business along with her own when she rented Dow's building.

Dow is charging the chamber storage fees from November 1981 to July of this year, when the chamber moved their brochures out of the small frame building. The building is near the Gift Gallery, both of which are owned by Dow. Schlegel was not aware that Dow had expected to be paid rent when Fields vacated the building.

Guests at the chamber meeting were Dennis Sidebottom, Carrizozo school principal; Guy Brown, town policeman; and two young women, cast members of "Up With People."

A $100,000 project to fill street pot holes

At Tuesday's town council meeting, Trustee Betty Fields presented Mayor Harold Garcia with the final paper work on the town's street project. The cooperative agreement between the New Mexico State Highway Dept. and the Town of Carrizozo is the result of efforts by Fields and representatives of the highway department to repair all of the town's streets.

The mayor's signature puts the final "go ahead" on the project. The total cost comes to $100,372.44. The town agreed to pay $50,372.44 and the state the remaining $50,000.

Work to patch existing streets and the application of chip seal material begins after bid advertising. The project will kick off by repairing the town's worst streets — 12th, Drexel, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and B streets.

The housing rehab portion of the CDBG program is nearing completion. Nineteen houses are finished and four are presently under construction. Hubert Quintana of Roswell, project administrator, informed the council that the contract with Bob Hill has ended. Quintana will now be coming to Carrizozo to work on the project a minimum of two days per week. When necessary he will be here as many as three or four days per week.

Quintana has talked with Dennis-Wright Engineering about the 3rd Street drainage work and they have assured him that a preliminary engineering report will be available next week for review by the council. All surveys and soil sampling has been conducted so that alternative solutions can be studied.

The final engineering work will begin as soon as the documents have been reviewed by the council. The district has sent out a memo to the mayor dated Aug. 2, encouraging the town to start preparing a new CDBG application for future rehab work. The council approved the employment of a new relief officer for the police department. Jim Carpenter moves to Carrizozo from White Sands Proving Grounds. He is a certified officer with 22 years experience in law enforcement. Carpenter, a retired Army MP, is currently employed by the civil service.

Town officer Dave Vermillion informed the council that two cases have been closed. The youth involved in the criminal damages to the Malpais Grocery windows and Carrizozo Hardware fence has been sent to Springer, a reformatory for boys. No (Continued on page 3)

Green fined for killing doe deer

SANTA FE, N.M. An employee of the Harkey Ranch near Carrizozo has been fined $300 and assessed $200 in civil penalties for killing a doe deer near the ranch house on the property north of the Jicarilla Mountains.

One hundred dollars of the $400 fine and a 60-day jail sentence for Bob Green, 36, were suspended by Lincoln County Magistrate S.M. Ortiz on the condition that Green commit no further game law violations. The Department of Game and Fish assessed Green the additional $200 in civil damages for the loss of the deer.

Game and fish officer Joel Pafford cited Green on July 16 following a six-hour investigation. He said Green had taken the hindquarters and backstraps of the deer after killing it.

Green appeared July 20 before Magistrate Ortiz.

presentation will be held in the old gym on Aug. 19. The cast arrives Aug. 17. A parade complete with police and fire department escorts will be provided on the arrival of three buses transporting the 120 performers. A community potluck picnic will be held on Aug. 18.

The two young ladies are staying at the vacant Methodist parsonage. Host families will accommodate the cast. A host committee meets this Friday at 6 p.m. in the old gym to discuss plans with host families, some of whom will take in from two to 10 people each.

A percentage of the gate money will be donated to Amber Langley, 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Langley. The child, seriously ill, has been hospitalized and medical expenses are extensive.

Officer Brown, who also is the town's airport manager, gave chamber members an update on the airport. Brown told them that if the town supports the facility, it in turn will help the community.

Aircraft traffic on weekends has been as high as 16. Brown said that for a community this size a 5,000-foot runway is very good. He said that feedback from the chamber-sponsored ad in the NEWS has results in several phone calls, many from California.

Shafer reported to the chamber that the town council at their monthly meeting the previous evening announced that the town had given the airport money for fuel, maintenance expenses, supplies and insurance from separate funds.

Shafer said the mayor would re-appoint an airport committee. Those named as willing to serve include Shafer, Dale Good, Ruth Armstrong, Hoot Gibson, Eddie Bob Hemphill and Guy Brown.

"Our intention is to run it (airport) profitably," Shafer told the trustees and the mayor at their monthly meeting.

Supt. James Miller informed the chamber that an Adult Basic Education program is scheduled for fall and spring semesters. The legislative funded program will be restricted to 13 to 15 students per 11-week sessions, starting Sept. 7. There will be evening classes twice a week. An adult learning center will be established three days per week in Clegg Hall.

Applications for teacher and aide have been advertised.

Miller asked local business people to encourage their employees to take advantage of the program. He said incentives could include release time and pay increases for employees interested in pursuing G.E.D. certifications. There is no charge for those interested in participating in the program. State law prohibits high school students from dropping out and joining the program.

Raylene Greer, New Horizons Group Home supervisor, announced that the center will sponsor a flea market this Friday and Saturday. Those wishing to sell items of their own may do so at $3 booth space fee for both days.

New Horizons have a shipment of brand new shoes for sale. The footwear is for all members of the family. Baked goods, hot dogs and beverages will be available.

The Bar W Ranch has given permission for the chamber to use a standard size advertising sign located on his property for "plugging" the town. School art teacher, Joe DeTevis has volunteered his services for a sign which will include the message, "1,500 friendly people." Chamber members quoted varied population figures — 1,223, 1,400, 1,217.

Joe Orsak suggested that the old slogan about the "friendly people" was not catchy enough and suggested a change: "Carrizozo — Western Gateway to the Southern Rockies."

No response was made to his idea. Schlegel tabled the matter.

Meanwhile, another horse race was being staged. Bill Schreengost Jr. won the 25-mile endurance race Saturday by beating second place finisher David Cunningham of Roswell by a couple of yards. Twenty-five riders and horses competed in this race. It was followed by a 50-mile endurance race, results of which are not available.

While all this was going on, the 1st New Mexico Volunteers were parading in their colorful Civil War uniforms, an Old Fiddler's Contest held forth in the park, and there were square dancers from Roswell, living history demonstrations, Black Powder Turkey Shoot, concert by the 62nd Ft. Bliss Army Band, children's pioneer costume parades, cake walks, and the 42nd production of "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid." Participants in the pageant, many of whom are descendants of people who engaged in the Lincoln County War and events leading up to it, have roles in the presentation.

The pageant is hailed as one of only a few folk-plays made up entirely of local players without any outside or professional help.

Autograph party for Louise Coe

An autograph party honoring Mrs. Louise Coe will be held at Gibson's Discount of Ruidoso on Sunday, Aug. 15, 2 to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Coe will be autographing copies of her latest book, "Lady and The Law Books."

The former Louise Holland became active in the politics of Lincoln and of the state following her marriage to Wilbur Coe. She served in the state legislature and in 1941 ran for Congress against eight men. She promised her husband that if she lost the congressional race she would retire from active politics and "git for home" to become a fulltime ranch wife. She lost, and she did.

The public is invited to visit with Lincoln County's "grand lady" at the autograph party.

restitution was made for the damages as the youth's guardians are unable to do so.

Former golf course employee Ruben Chavez complained about work on the greens, Chavez said that he has volunteered his services and advice to the town employee in charge, but his recommendations are not heeded.

Emilio Beltran, town superintendent, said his worker at the golf course is doing the work to the best of his ability and added that the Chamber of Commerce had earlier relayed a compliment from out-of-town golfers.

Trustee Jim Payne suggested rotation of employees, which Beltran did not think would work out. Fields suggested that the Golf Association make a job priority list for Beltran, who would see that the work is carried out.

Garcia backed the efforts of the town employee, who had volunteered to work in the area when the park was "dumped in our laps." Garcia expressed appreciation for Chavez's enthusiasm and concern for the golf course. Garcia told Beltran to ask the town employee if he would like to be switched to another department.

Officer Vermillion offered to lend a helping at the golf course. Vermillion was an assistant greens keeper in Phoenix, AZ, at one time. He also has knowledge of machinery breakdowns.

In other business the town:
— accepted the bid of Frank M. Olmstead, CPA, to audit the town records at an estimated cost of $2,600.

— re-appointed Wayland Hill to the Capitan-Carrizozo Natural Gas Assn.

— agreed to let the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce use the old city hall on a trial basis until further notice.

Student gets a taste of college

A Carrizozo student has completed a special one-week session on college life sponsored each summer by the University of New Mexico.

Lisa Crenshaw, a 1982 graduate of Carrizozo High School, recently attended an orientation for graduating New Mexico high school students sponsored by the UNM College Enrichment Program (CEP).

Dr. Dan Chavez, CEP director, said "This special program helps students get information on college financial aid and orients them to the demands of college life. What's special about the program is that it really helps students prepare for college. Some of the most outstanding students in the state participate in CEP."

Crenshaw was president of all four of her classes at Carrizozo High. She was also a member of the student council, 4-H and a Girls State delegate. She played basketball, volleyball and track as well as participating in National Honor Society.

She is interested in studying physical therapy at UNM.

VACATION TRAVEL TIME

Editorial Comment

They got what they deserved

Last week was the first anniversary of the air traffic controllers strike. One year ago 11,400 members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) decided their grievances had priority over the public interest.

President Reagan fired them all, decertified the union as controllers' bargaining representative, and put a bunch of Air Force sergeants in control of towers to keep planes flying.

Only about 40 of the controllers ever got their jobs back. Another 200 have found jobs overseas, in Australia, Saudi Arabia, Switzerland and Nigeria. Their union, facing $40 million in lawsuits, has gone into bankruptcy. The rest have taken jobs unrelated to the one they were trained for.

"We've been sentenced to never again work in our chosen profession," one striker is quoted in a UPI dispatch from Washington.

"Rapists, burglars, even murderers can get a second chance, but they say we cannot be rehabilitated."

We think he, and all the rest, got exactly what they deserved. We think their punishment is slight compared to their conduct. First, they violated their sworn oath not to strike; second, they defied the President of the United States in striking against the federal government; and third, they deliberately planned to hold the air transportation industry hostage until their piddling demands were met.

Meanwhile, 12,380 air controllers will be doing the same work of 17,000 controllers before the strike. Efficiency of the system is good and the safety record of a reduced controller force is excellent.

We are delighted to observe the first anniversary of the death of one union whose members put their greed above the interests of the American people and their government.

New Mexico in Washington

White House favors Big Media; NM group doesn't

WASHINGTON — None of New Mexico's delegation of four Republicans in the Congress have discriminated against me because I write for comparatively small newspapers. In fact, Doug Thompson, press aide to Rep. Manuel Lujan, once told one of the many imperious reporters for the Washington Post that, in Lujan's rating, that mighty newspaper was behind and under every newspaper in New Mexico. (Saludo Amigo.)

It is too bad, however, that New Mexico's two other elected officials in Washington — two more Republicans named Ronald Reagan and George Bush — continue their outrageous favoritism towards Big (media) Business.

Vice-President Bush, through his press secretary Peter Teeley (whose wife is a reporter for the Washington Post), repeatedly refuses requests for an interview — while allowing himself to be interviewed by larger and more affluent media.

President Reagan, on the day he announced his candidacy (at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in Manhattan) promised to bring an end to the discriminatory practice of reserving all of the front row seats at presidential news conferences for the Big Media. (Candidate Reagan said he wasn't aware that this was done — understandably, because the networks never show the public those reserved seat cards. These cards are placed on those front row seats, and for three or four rows back, by the White House press office, now headed by Deputy News Secretary Larry Speakes.)

Reagan as a candidate asked: "How about catch-as-catch-can?" And I asked "What about a lottery?" He had no objections to that, and they tried it — once.

That news conference was one of the smoothest Reagan ever had (even though he drew both my name as well as Sarah Mc-Clendon's, that fearless Texas reporter who has interrogated eight presidents, and, when disagreeing with them, has usually been proven correct.)

Mr. Reagan at this lottery news conference did not have to waste time saying: "I'll call on you right after her" or "Not you, him." Larry Speakes quotes Mr. Reagan as saying: "My finger must be crooked. Everytime I point at somebody, Lester Kinsolving starts asking questions!"

Mr. Reagan tried this lottery system once — and the Big Media people, especially the network stars — were absolutely furious. Before the next news conference, News Secretary Jim Brady was shot. And Speakes decided to give in to the Big Media.

At President Reagan's last news conference, reporter Barry Cunningham of Independent Television, which represents 14 TV (non-network) stations, thought he had been recognized when Reagan fingered him. Immediately afterwards, the President explained that he meant to call on CBS's Leslie Stahl, a reporter who is recognized at nearly every news conference.

Speakes flew into a rage, and after the news conference shouted threats at Cunningham, including banishing him from future news conferences. But when Speakes tried pressuring Cunningham through his boss, Hal Levenson, Levenson wrote back asking why Speakes had not dared to discipline Sam Donaldson, the irrepressible White House correspondent for ABC News. Donaldson, an irrepressible and thoroughly amusing man, so regularly defies Speakes' edict against asking questions during a "photo opportunity" of the president, that Speakes finally suspended this asinine rule.

It is regrettable indeed that Mr. Reagan, who is trying hard to lose the reputation of favoritism toward big business, allows his press aides to engage in just such discrimination. This also applies to granting special interviews, as well as selection of those reporters who ride with the President on Air Force One.

New Mexico's hard-working Congressional delegation have far more serious concerns than worrying about how the press is treated by the White House — except that it is, after all, a Republican White House.

I have been lucky (and aggressive) in being recognized five out of twelve times by Reagan, four times by Carter and three times by Ford. (I covered two news conferences of Nixon's and tried holding up a sign "MR. PRESIDENT;" in royal purple and Old English. But that huge reporter Clark Mollenhoff jumped up right in front of me, so that the wire service photo all over this country mentioned "Unidentified reporter with a sign.")

I am equipped with a voice trained in the pulpit, the stage, as an Army sergeant and a former football coach. And when the presidential finger is pointed anywhere in your direction, you must very quickly shift your baritone into overdrive and proceed; or you will be lost.

None of this would be necessary with the lottery system. But in the meantime, as a writer for New Mexico weeklies, I do not intend to defer to even the Biggest Media, if there's any doubt about who is recognized. And I like to think that this is what my readers in New Mexico deserve in their Washington correspondence.

Letters to the Editor

Trash up

EDITOR — Evidently Dennis Evans of Roswell (Letter to the Editor, Aug. 5) doesn't read many good newspapers or he would know the Lincoln County News is not only typical of all newspapers, but is superbly and eloquently written, with a touch of humor thrown in to ease us over the brutal facts the News comments upon.

Perhaps Mr. Evans is not able to absorb the facts which are plainly conveyed. He should take heed. We in the USA are being used and abused from many sources — or isn't he a taxpayer?

I would charge Mr. Evans to brush up on World History and current events, whereas the nicely edited articles in the Lincoln County News would be within his comprehension.

'Life and the times'

EDITOR — We have enjoyed your editorials as they have appeared in the Brewery Gulch Gazette over the years. Recently Bill Epler reprinted your prize-winning "How We Lost Our Republic". We are both moved and impressed by your lucid statement. There have been other reprints, over the years, that have pulled us through the gamut of emotions, from hilarity through pride to anger and disgust. For the most part, we agree with you and have relished your sometime acerbic disclosure of the foibles of the notorious and unknown, alike.

When we moved to California nearly five years ago Epler urged us to journey to Sebastopol and meet you. Like a great number of good intentions, it made another paving block for the Road to Hell. We are sorry, now, that we didn't give Bill's suggestion a higher priority. But we have not done a 10th of the things we had planned when we first knew we were moving to California. That is life and the times.

Because of editorial constraints, we know that all of your writing does not get reprinted in the Brewery Gulch Gazette. We would like to subscribe to the Lincoln County News. Neither of us are strangers to New Mexico and still maintain ties throughout the state. Also, having no longer an obligation to remain in California, we are looking to move back to a more pleasant and healthful locale, either in Arizona or New Mexico, at the first reasonable opportunity. We would like to know what is going on and your comments on the California Funny Farm and its inmates gave a better insight than the larger metro dailies. Please let us know what your rates are. Thank you.

A new standard of priestly celibacy

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING

When Pope John Paul II made his recent visit to England and, among other gestures, hugged the Archbishop of Canterbury, many of the world's 50 million Anglicans were thrilled by this suggestion of Vatican acceptance and ecclesiastical recognition.

In Springfield, MO, one of Pope John Paul's bishops, the Most Rev. Bernard F. Law, told reporters:

"The Roman Catholic Church remains deeply committed to Anglican unity with Rome."

That such "unity" really means a form of submission was painfully evident in what Bishop Law had just done. For he re-ordained an Episcopal (Anglican) priest named James Parker — in the presence of Parker's wife!

Father Parker says he requested a conditional ordination, which in posing the question if the ordaind is not already ordained, at least leaves open the possibility that his previous (Episcopal) ordination might be valid.

But in Rome, the Sacred Congregation of the Doctrine of the Faith refused to allow a conditional ordination. And Bishop Law noted the 1896 encyclical of Pope Leo XIII which declared Anglican orders are invalid.

Parker's submission to a second ordination to the priesthood would seem to indicate that he assents to the ugly idea that for one quarter of a century he was a counterfeit priest. But during a telephone interview, he said: "I do not consider my former priesthood invalid. I believe the Episcopal Church has changed radically since the time I was ordained an Episcopal priest."

Bishop Law's reordination of Parker seems patently unfair to some 12,000 U.S. Roman Catholic priests who have married. These men are presently denied the right to function as priests because they are married — as is Parker. This suggests that the Vatican is more interested in raiding the ranks of married Episcopal priests than it is in bringing back 12,000 of its own men, many of whom have served the Catholic Church devotedly and for many years.

"They made a promise and I didn't," explained Father Parker. But he himself made several vows a quarter of a century ago when he was ordained for the first time. Now, in conscience, he has transferred churches. Can it be said that all 12,000 of the married Roman Catholic priests did not also act in good conscience when they married the women they loved?

Priestly celibacy is a relatively modern discipline, first imposed on secular (non-monastic) clergy in the 12th century. There is New Testament evidence that no such celibacy was practiced by St. Peter (since Jesus healed his mother-in-law); moreover, 1 Corinthians 9:5 suggests that all of the other Apostles were also married.

The Second Vatican Council recognized that celibacy "is not indeed demanded by the very nature of the priesthood, as is evident from the practice of the primitive Church and from the tradition of the Eastern Churches . . . There also exist married priests of outstanding merit."

In Chicago more than 1,000 married Roman Catholic priests have organized CORPUS (Corps Of Reserve Priests United for Service, P.O. Box 2646, Chicago, IL 60690). This organization doesn't believe in demonstrating or other kinds of protest action.

It would be interesting indeed if Chicago's liberal new Archbishop Joseph Bernardin were to decide that the married priests of CORPUS deserve at least as much opportunity for priestly service in the church they have served as does that married Episcopal transfer down in Springfield.

The summer Festival, Horse Show, Play Day, Class reunions and family reunions made it a big weekend in Corona. The Keelin 64th wedding anniversary luncheon added to the festivities when many friends stopped by to congratulate the couple and remained to visit with the family and other friends.

The community thanks Cheryl Hiltsey, general chairman, for all her hard work, and many former residents were heard to express gratitude for the opportunity to renew acquaintances, some after more than 50 years of absence. Mrs. Hiltsey says "Thank You" to the many who helped, especially Beatrice Chavez, John Tracey, Benalyn McKibben, Carmen Romero, Patsy Mulkey, the Bob Byrds, the State Police, Sheriff's Department and the State Highway Patrol.

Sharon Kimball, Albuquerque, spent the weekend with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Pfeiffer. She will leave soon for NMSU where she is a sophomore. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hine stopped by Sunday afternoon. They had been to a reunion of Marjorie's family at Ruidoso and were returning to Las Vegas where Frank is superintendent in charge of construction on the 90 bed state hospital. He is the son of the late Elaine Simpson Courson.

Tom Livingston took Tipper and Matthew Stubblefield to Amarillo Thursday to take a plane for their home in Durant, OK. Inez "Babe" Sorrell came home with him Friday. Her sons, Jim and Jerry, came Saturday and the three went back to Amarillo Sunday.

Myron Wayne Yancey's summer job with EPNG Co. ended Friday, and he came home to prepare for his freshman year at NMSU.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Collier, Terry, Angela and David, left Monday for their home in Albuquerque after the weekend with the Lee Mulkeys. Jerry will teach math again this year at Los Lunas.

Mrs. Jim Hiltsey took her nephew and niece back to Albuquerque Monday. Scott Condrey and Kim Tanner always enjoy their stay in Corona.

The Paul Romeros were called to Alamogordo by the death of Carmen's father, Quirino Antunez, a former resident here.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Burke and two daughters, Kelly and Laurie of Trinity, TX were guests of the Ernest Luerases for several days. The oldest daughter, Stacey, was vacationing with friends in Colorado.

More federal funds for highways

U.S. Sen. Harrison "Jack" Schmitt has announced that the Federal Highway Administration will release $17,862,000 in additional highway funds for the State of New Mexico.

The funds were recently added to the Urgent Supplemental Appropriations bill as the result of an amendment offered by Schmitt, who serves on the Appropriations Committee.

A meeting for footballers

There will be a meeting of all junior high school prospective football players and their parents at the high school gym, Aug. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

All young players and their parents are urged to attend. All information concerning equipment, procedures and practice sessions will be explained at this meeting.

President Reagan signed the Supplemental Appropriations measure last month.

Schmitt said, "The additional funds in the bill mean a 27 percent increase in the funding available to New Mexico this year. The new bill provides a total of $84.4 million for FY 1982 in urgently needed funding for our state's highways. Now that the funds will be released tomorrow, it is my hope that the State Highway Department, in conjunction with the Federal Highway Administration, will move quickly on many important projects currently pending."

We Are Pleased to Announce the Organization And New Location Of

CHAMARI, INC.

Chamari, Inc.

Chamari Builders

Mary Rich Real Estate Co.

Heritage Farms

The Golden Rule Trading Co.

NEW LOCATION

Chamari, Inc. has moved its offices from the former location of Mary Rich Real Estate Company at 404 South Central to new offices at 311 South Central Avenue. This office building, which was previously occupied by attorneys Archie A. Wilham and Donald J. Wall, is across the street from the Lincoln County Court House and next door to the new Citizens State Bank.

So remember our statistics!
New telephone: (505) 648-2326
New Location: 311 South Central Avenue
Same mailing address: P.O. Box 98, Carrizozo, NM 88301.

CHAMARI, INC.

Our firm is a resource development company with four divisions having business interests and investments in real estate, housing development, livestock and agriculture, contracting, and building materials.

In addition to the specific projects of its various divisions, Chamari is engaged in the development of a 150-room luxury hotel with convention facilities in southeastern New Mexico and a 250-unit condominium retirement community near El Paso. Planning for both projects is complete, and they are currently in the financing process.

MARY RICH REAL ESTATE CO.

To date, the flagship of Chamari, Inc., has been Mary Rich Real Estate Company, which is qualified as a real estate broker in both New Mexico and Texas.

The real estate company has specialized in land and residential real estate in Lincoln County but has recently sold two ranches and some commercial property, as well.

At present, its own listings include homes from $10,000 to $155,000, land from $100 to $2,500 per acre, and ranches priced from $50,000 to $30,000,000.

HERITAGE FARMS

The agricultural division of Chamari presently operates Heritage Farms, a 34-acre experimental orchard and livestock operation, west of Carrizozo on Eighth Street.

The orchard contains approximately 900 fruit trees representing more than 75 varieties of apples, pears, plums, cherries, peaches, nectarines, and apricots. Some varieties are so new that they do not yet have names, but all are being evaluated to determine which varieties can best adapt to the soil, water, and environmental conditions in Lincoln County.

The farm has asparagus for retail sales and is experimenting with Kocchia weed, Jerusalem artichokes, and different varieties of squash for livestock feed.

Visitors find a wide variety of ducks, geese, chickens, and turkeys at Heritage Farms — each being evaluated for different purposes: The turkeys have proved excellent for insect and grasshopper control and last year reached dressed weights up to 35 pounds by Thanksgiving. Certain breeds of ducks are expected to excel in egg production — out-producing chickens in some cases with eggs superior in size, nutrition, and taste.

Heritage Farms is helping introduce to the United States a large, white, Turkish predator-control dog called the Akbash. At present, there are only 100 such dogs in the U.S. — including two adults and a new litter of five pups at Heritage Farms.

In Turkey, the Akbash is a highly prized guardian dog and is an effective deterrent to wolves, bear, jackals, and mountain lion. At present, Heritage Farms has the only Akbash kennel in New Mexico; however, its dogs will soon have the opportunity to prove themselves against coyotes, wild dogs, and mountain lions on some of New Mexico's largest sheep ranches.

Chamari operates Heritage Farms in cooperation with Lambert Adams, Inc. and the Taeris Foundation, Inc.

CHAMARI BUILDERS

A special interest in innovative building concepts is the heart of Chamari Builders. Its planning includes uses of solar and wind energy systems for structures built with alternative materials and methods. It is also developing a capability for the use of pre-built and prefabricated structures using traditional materials and methods.

Special emphasis is presently being placed upon the creation of "expanded living areas" as additions to existing homes. A low-maintenance example of this concept was recently completed at 401 Ninth Street, using patio and porch space, fencing, rock landscaping, and extensive flower beds and sod lawn with care-free trickle irrigation and underground sprinklers.

Of keen interest to the staff of Chamari Builders is the planning being done for the construction of small homestead or retirement villages to make the prospect of "self-sufficiency in the country" a more realistic and satisfying possibility.

Chamari Builders holds New Mexico contractors license No. 19228 and is qualified to engage in general (GB-88), electrical (EE-88), mechanical (MM-88), fixed structures (GF-88), and road building (GA-88) contracting.

THE GOLDEN RULE TRADING COMPANY

Although conceived to be a general purpose business in lumber, hardware, and ranch supplies, The Golden Rule Trading Company currently is selling only submersible pumps and truckload lots of lumber and fencing materials. Its general business will be resumed when the remodeling of the lumber yard and hardware store is completed at 304 Twelfth Street.

Planning is also underway for several new dimensions of the business and expanded facilities to be located on recently acquired property across the street where the vacant lots and the old City Garage building now stand. Demolition of these buildings and the clearing of the land is expected to begin this winter.

OUR STAFF

New to Chamari are Orv and Pam Perry, who recently moved from Albuquerque and now reside in Capitan. Orv's background has been in sales management, and Pam brings super secretarial and bookkeeping skills to the firm. The Perrys will be trying their hand at homesteading a 40-acre tract near Capitan while working with Chamari and its various divisions.

Their special interest is to breathe life into The Golden Rule Trading Company; however, Orv will be getting his real estate license and will be working with Chamari Builders, as well.

In Mary Rich Real Estate Company, Mrs. Patsy Sanchez and Mr. Pat Vigil both serve as real estate sales agents. Besides real estate sales, Patsy serves yeoman's duty on a new ranch she and her husband acquired near Cedarvale, New Mexico. Pat Vigil combines real estate sales with his principal business in insurance at Lincoln County Insurance Agency.

Charles Adams serves as chairman of the board and chief executive officer, and Mary Rich Adams is president and chief operating officer of Chamari, Inc.

How to keep from being killed by lightning

Lightning storms are active during middle and late summer in New Mexico. With more thunderstorms ahead, precautions should be taken to minimize the risk of lightning accidents.

"From 12 to 15 percent of the lightning strike deaths reported every year are people who sought shelter from the rain under a tree," said Charles Hohn, Extension agricultural engineer at New Mexico State University. "Another 10 percent of the deaths occur on open water, and persons on tractors accounted for another 10 percent. The safest place to be in a lightning storm is inside a building or an all-metal vehicle, such as an automobile," Hohn said.

Hohn suggests some simple precautions to cut the risk of being struck by lightning in the open.

"The most important thing is to avoid anything that acts as a natural lightning rod, such as a tree. Stay away from wire fences, clothes lines, metal pipes, rails or anything that can carry lightning to you over a short distance from where the lightning bolt actually strikes," he said.

Get out of and away from open water. Avoid tractors and all other metal farm equipment. Get off and away from motorcycles, golf carts and bicycles. Avoid small sheds in open areas, but in the open forest seek shelter in a low area under a thick growth of small trees. "If you are caught in an isolated flat area, sit down or drop to a crouch on one knee. The human body acts like a lightning rod if it happens to be the tallest thing in the landscape," Hohn said. "Inside the house, don't use the telephone and stay away from plumbing fixtures."

If a person is struck by lightning, he can often be revived by applying cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) techniques. This involves mouth-to-mouth resuscitation plus external cardio compression. CPR should be administered within four to six minutes to prevent brain damage.

To avoid property damage, Hohn recommends lightning rods be installed on houses, and television and radio antennas should be grounded. Large appliances should be unplugged during an electrical storm to avoid power surges if lightning strikes an electrical power line nearby.

"Keep a battery powered radio on hand, with fresh batteries, to get storm information if the house's electrical power is interrupted," Hohn said.

REMEMBER this scene during the half-time entertainment at Super Bowl XVI last fall? Up With People, 400 international students, combined four casts for the show seen by 110 million people. They will perform in Carrizozo, one performance, Aug. 19.

'Up With People' show here Aug. 19

Super Bowl XVI, the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville, and Carrizozo all have one thing in common—the "Up With People" show, filled with the exuberance, musical and dancing talent of 120 young people chosen from all over the world.

The international cast will put on its two-hour extravaganza at Carrizozo High School beginning at 7 p.m., Aug. 19.

This will be the only New Mexico appearance of "Up With People" this year, according to Betsy Blackburn and Lisbeth Clatsen, who handle promotion and publicity for this performance.

The spirit and energy of the "Up With People" show has been hailed by millions of people in the 42 countries where the show has been presented. The show has appeared at three Super Bowls, at St. Peter's Square in Rome, Carnegie Hall in New York City, before the combined Senate and Congress of Venezuela, at the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich, Germany, and in Cracow, Poland.

Characterized as a "festival in music for the whole family," the cast and its band involve the audience directly in the production.

Featured in this year's show is a musical look at the 1960's, taking the audience back to sights and sounds of Motown, surf music, the hootenanny and the Beatles. "Uncle Victor and Auntie Oia's" Victrola machine even goes back to the Roaring 20s and the Swing era.

Efforts are being made to add something "New Mexican" to the Carrizozo show. Advance people were scouring the area for authentic clothing and props for a skit on Billy the Kid, a salute to Old Lincoln Days just concluded.

There's more to the show than music and dancing. Incorporated in 1968 as a non-profit, independent, international, educational program, "Up With People" is chartered to build bridges of understanding and communication among peoples and to give young people a learning experience that not only broadens the intellect, but matures the person.

Cast members must be students and between the ages of 18 and 26. Each one accepted pays an initial tuition fee of $5,300. They come from 16 countries. This year they will spend 35,000 miles on the road learning firsthand the diversity of cultures and customs of peoples around the world.

In each community cast members stay with "host families" in order to share their lifestyles and interests. Host families in Carrizozo are badly needed for the 120 young people who will arrive by bus on Aug. 17. Residents of Carrizozo who would like to open their homes to one or more of these talented students are asked to call Betsy Blackburn at the school, 648-2451, or at her Carrizozo home, 648-2846. "I promise the host family will enjoy sharing experiences with members of our cast," she said.

The students need housing from Aug. 17 through Aug. 19.

The cast will visit in the community it visits. An average day includes visits to schools, hospitals and institutions, plus a tour of local points of interest. They often meet with the heads of industry and government in an exchange of questions and ideas.

The performers do their own stage work, promotion, day-to-day logistics, and may also receive college credit for independent study assignments they undertake on the road.

Betsy is a student at Auburn University in Alabama; Lisbeth Clatsen attends a gymnasium, equivalent of our college, in Denmark.

Tickets for the performance are available at Ruidoso State Bank and Citizens State Bank, $2 for students and $3.50 for adults.

There will be a meeting of "host families," those who have opened their homes to house the 120 members of the cast, Friday, Aug. 13, 6 p.m., at the Old Gym.

On Aug. 18 at 6 p.m., a community potluck dinner will be held at Spencer Park to allow residents to meet and mingle with the international cast. Those attending should bring lawn chairs and food. On Tuesday, Aug. 17, probably between 4 and 6 p.m., buses carrying the cast will arrive in Carrizozo and given a parade down Central led by the sheriff's department, the Carrizozo Fire Dept., Grizzly cheerleaders, and other groups. Time of the parade will be announced later.

Najar heads CF drive in Carrizozo

Peggy Najar has been named chairman of the fall campaign for cystic fibrosis in Carrizozo to be conducted Sept. 19-25.

The announcement was made by the president of the New Mexico chapter, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Joel Cooperman.

"The purpose of the campaign is not only to raise money to support cystic fibrosis programs, public awareness, patient services and research, but to inform the community about cystic fibrosis," says Cooperman.

Cystic fibrosis is the number one genetic cause of death of children and young adults in the United States. Every day, every five hours, a child is born with CF; every day, every eight hours, someone dies from CF. At present, there is no cure or long-term control for CF and an estimated 10 million people — one in 20 Americans — are unknowing, symptom-free, currently undetectable carriers of the CF gene. CF, a disease involving the lungs and digestive system, is often misdiagnosed; delaying treatment which can prolong life.

Najar and local volunteers will be contacting the business and residential community asking for donations and talking about cystic fibrosis. Anyone wanting to donate time or money should contact Najar at 648-2126.

SUNDAY DRIVE

Members of this household drove over to Capitan and Lincoln Sunday. In Capitan we stopped to view the arts and crafts in the fair building. This year's event had a variety of arts and crafts. Capitan's Chamber of Commerce sponsored the event. A tip of the hat to them.

In Lincoln we heard the delightful music of the 62nd Fort Bliss Army Band. They played under shade trees behind the court house museum. In years past they marched in the annual Lincoln Days parade, but due to a recent New Mexico State Highway Department ruling the parade was cancelled. The ruling has to do with a $1 million insurance policy for traffic to be closed for a parade.

A "mini" parade for children 12 and younger was held on the pageant grounds. Best Cowboy awards went to Eric Pitman of Canyon, TX and Randy Baron of Lincoln. Ginney and Katy Whitaker of El Paso were named Best Cowgirls.

Casey Kerns of Ruidoso won an award with his pioneer costume. Valarie Henderson of Roswell and Callie Gnatkowski of Ancho were dressed as pioneer women and won in that division.

The parade was also for families, but there were no entries in that category. Sue Graham of Roswell and Lincoln was parade coordinator.

HANDSHAKING TIME

Politicians who were in Lincoln to enjoy the weekend events also took time to shake hands here and there. John Irick, GOP candidate for governor of New Mexico, was seen listening to the army band Sunday. Sitting with him on the court house lawn was Larry Sheffield, who is on Irick's staff, serving as coorinator for the southern counties.

During a break in the outdoor concert, Sen. Harrison Schmitt was given an American flag to fly back in Washington. The Ruidoso Noon Lions Club made the presentation.

BILLY ESCAPES AGAIN

The exploits of William H. Bonney, better known as Billy the Kid, have become a legend of the New Mexico frontier. In 1877 he became one of John Tunstall's cowboys. The killing of Tunstall, which touched off the Lincoln County War, became a matter of personal vengeance to the Kid. The war ended with a three-day battle in the town of Lincoln.

A movie starring Robert Taylor as the Kid was shown to Lincoln tourists at the Heritage Trust Visitor's Center. The old film, which was not based on history, was interesting, but not as exciting as the live action witnessed on the pageant grounds. The 42nd presentation, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid," featured Bill Shrecengost Jr. in the lead role.

Many of the players are descendants of the War's participants. The folk play is made up entirely of local people who gladly donate their time.

The folk pageant centering around the life of the Kid was first presented in 1940. The episodes of the pageant are based on historical facts of the notorious Lincoln County War.

NEW NEIGHBORS

Lisbeth Clausen and Betsy Blackburn, who sing and dance with "Up With People," will be our neighbors for several days. They are here to prepare for the arrival of 120 cast members who will put on a how for our community. The cast includes a 12-member band. Music and songs of the 20s and 30s and 60s will be among the selections. The cast represents sixteen countries. The goal of the group is to build bridges of understanding between people and to learn of the different cultures. The group is non-denominational and non-profit.

Lisbeth and Betsy are staying in the former David Lynch residence. They are looking for host families for cast members. If any local people would like to have these performers as their houseguests, contact the school administration office for information.

UP WITH CHILE

Lisbeth chatted with our family last Saturday. She joined us in the kitchen where I was broiling green chile in order to remove the peelings. Lisbeth was intrigued with my favorite green vegetable. She broke a chile in half and barely touched her lip with it. Her eyes widened and she gladly drank the glass of milk I offered her. (She comes from Denmark.)

She would love to mail her mom a chile. She would also love to challenge cast members to nibble on the "green peppers" with a sting.

Lisbeth is in her 2nd year with "Up With People." She is a college student majoring in languages. As a high school student she was an exchange student to the US. Her father is a policeman and her mom works as a cashier at a supermarket in Denmark.

Betsy, who comes from Alabama, has a degree in speech pathology. This is her first year with the musical group.

"The NEWS is on its way to take a photo of my special award."

I SURVIVED

I spent the 31 days of July organizing and participating in fundraising projects to help my daughter, Christetta, take part in the Santa Rita's fiesta queen contest. Christetta's cousin, Neina of Capitan, was one of the candidates. A third candidate Liz Beltran was crowned 1982 fiesta queen by '81 Queen Kelly Vigil.

The church queen project was educational and fun as well. Our home was turned into a mini-bakery. I can now make cookie dough in 3 minutes, 23 seconds. We can mass produce store window posters in 15 minutes.

We were always seeking crowds to sell our goodies to. One morning at 6 a.m. we heard the fire engine sirens. We decided it would not be in good taste to follow with a batch of cupcakes.

I am offering a reward to anyone who has information that will lead to the identity of the person who stole Christetta's money jar at the Nike Bar. The reward is in the form of cookies—M & M or Oatmeal. What makes us mad is that we heard the jar had folding money in it.

People still ask me if I am resting up after the month-long fiesta queen candidate activity.

I don't like to sit around twiddling my thumbs. I am preparing to write my first two books, "Raising Mosquitos in Your Spare Time" and "Train Soot: Where to Find it, How to Collect it."
