VOLUME 77, NUMBER 34

CARRIZOZO, NM

THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1982

EST. 1905

A CAPACITY crowd of 600 enthusiastic, cheering spectators jammed the old school gym Thursday night for the only New Mexico performance of "Up With People." By the time this grand finale number was underway there wasn't a dry shirt in the house.

120 college students who made up the the "Up With People" show last week had the audience toe-tapping, singing, clapping and swaying with this song and dance skit from the "Roaring 20s."

INTERMISSION — Two "Up With People" cast members, Anita Liberty (center) and Susan Travis, have a chat with Johnson Stearns at last week's performance. Anita is from Ft. Lauderdale, FL. and Susan is from Ruidoso, NM.

Hondo lawsuit dismissed

A lawsuit filed in July 1980 against the Hondo Valley School system was dismissed in US District Court last month, according to Ernest J. Booker, superintendent.

The suit was filed by a group of parents and students in the Hondo Valley in which they charged the school system did not maintain adequate bilingual educational facilities.

Dist. Judge Howard C. Bratton, Albuquerque, had ordered last January that plaintiffs must pay all court costs of the defendants. In June, defendants asked the court to dismiss the suit on grounds that plaintiffs had failed to pay the court costs as ordered.

On July 19, Judge Bratton dismissed the case "with prejudice," meaning the charges cannot be brought up again. Plaintiffs had failed to respond to the motion for dismissal of the suit, signifying their consent to such motion.

Man gives Bibles to Visually handicapped

A man in Alamogordo has been performing a generous and valuable service for many years, all at his own expense, for persons who are near blind or have severe visual impairment.

E. B. (Tiny) Sloan, longtime operator and owner of a tire store and service there, has for many years given away large-print Bibles to people with afflicted eyesight.

He has given away thousands of these beautifully illustrated Bibles, all paid for out of his own pocket. He doesn't worry about the cost, saying, "I don't worry about money — the Lord has plenty of it."

Persons in this area, particularly senior citizens, can explain their reading problem to Mr. Sloan and apply for the large-print Bible by writing to him at 2315 N. White Sands, Alamogordo, NM. 88301.

Cowbelles busy at the fair

The Carrizozo Canyon Cowbelle "Windmill Quilt" was raffled at the Lincoln County Fair in Capitan on Aug. 21, and the winner was Rusty Leslie of Carrizozo.

The quilt was designed by Ruth and Stacy Wilson, and has been on display at the Citizens State Bank and at several quilt shows this summer.

Cowbelles were busy at the Lincoln County Fair working in their food booth, selling hot dogs, doughnuts, coffee, iced tea. Cowbelle napkins, and the new cookbook. The food booth and quilt raffle are two of the annual money-making projects of Canyon Cowbelles.

The NM Cowbelle Cook Book, "Enchanted Eating," are all new recipes compiled by state members, including a section in microwave cooking. The book is now available from any Cowbelle member or the Family Pharmacy in Carrizozo.

Cowbelle napkins were donated for the "Up With People" potluck picnic and the Farewell Breakfast for the cast and host families. The napkins, with cattle brands and names, made a big hit with members of the cast from other states and nations. Many of the napkins, used and unused, were mailed back home to family and friends.

Bike-a-thon to benefit children

A Bike-a-thon will be held in Carrizozo Sept. 11 to raise funds for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital, according to Morgan Maxwell, chairman of the event.

Money raised by riders will help continue the hospital's life-saving study of childhood cancer and other diseases of children. Morgan said

The "Wheels for Life" ride starts at the school gym at 8 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 11. A two-mile course has been laid out around the Industrial Park. Many prizes, including a 10-speed bicycle, will be given to winning riders.

Riders will be calling on Carrizozo citizens to back their efforts by pledging a contribution for each mile they ride.

The Bike-a-thon is being backed locally by Maxwell, Margo and Wes Lindsay, Dr. Jim Miller and Dennis Sidebottom. Such organizations as the Rotary Club, Lions Club and FFA are expected to assist.

What do you think of those kids?

Phyllis Schlegel, who coordinated the housing for the international cast of "Up With People," is anxious to get comments and reactions of residents to the performance, and especially reactions of host families who had the students as houseguests during their stay here.

Mrs. Schlegel asks that comments be delivered to her directly or mailed to her at Box 758, Carrizozo. To appear in the Lincoln County News, comments should be delivered or mailed not later than Aug. 31.

Candidates favor Right to Work, hit gambling

Urging voters to go to the polls, four of the five GOP candidates for State Representative Dist. 56 spoke to Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County Tuesday in Ruidoso.

Dist. 56 includes Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, Capitan, Hondo and Lincoln. The election is Aug. 31.

Fred Pool, Thomas McKnight, Ernest Sanchez and Fred Collins addressed the group's regular monthly meeting. Each candidate was given five minutes, after which they addressed questions from the floor.

McKnight urged all to vote because of the projected light turnout.

Pool touched on the educational system and said, though he "didn't have all the solutions" he had "ideas for those solutions."

Sanchez stressed his lifelong residence in Lincoln County and his career in public service.

Collins emphasized his previous political experience and voiced his support of the president's economic program.

Questions from the floor dealt with the candidates' positions on legalized gambling, especially cockfighting, and Right to Work. All candidates said they were opposed to legalized gambling but that they would support it if a recognized majority of their district's voters approved it. All supported Right to Work.

Holiday driving safer

It is not true that more bloodletting and accidents occur on the nation's highways over holiday weekends. In fact, highway travel on holiday weekends may even be safer than on "normal" weekends on which no holidays are being observed. Furthermore, the grim predictions about the anticipated death tolls on holiday weekends "could have an adverse effect on highway safety since they tend to perpetuate the myth that holidays are more hazardous than normal weekends," said Dr. Jerome Hall, a University of New Mexico civil engineering professor who recently completed a study on highway safety on holiday weekends.

"Despite the attention focused on the holiday accident experience by agencies such as the National Safety Council, which attempt to predict highway fatalities for Labor Day and other holiday weekends, the fact is that the rate of accident occurrence is no greater than for other weekends," Hall said.

He said his study "examined the New Mexico accident experience for 1978 through 1981 and the nationwide fatal accident experience for 1980."

On a nationwide basis, Hall said the study revealed that "a normal weekend period from noon on Friday through noon on Monday averages 65 fatal accidents per hour, while the corresponding rate for seven major holiday weekends was only 58 fatal accidents per hour. A similar pattern was observed for New Mexico.

Hall said the results of the study also revealed that in 1981, the hourly rate of fatal, injury and property damage accidents on normal weekends all exceeded the corresponding rates for holiday periods. "Over the past several years, no particular holiday period had a significantly higher accident rate than any other," he added.

Another finding was that the national hourly fatal accident rate is 60 percent higher on holidays and weekends than on weekdays.

"In one sense, the findings are surprising," Hall said, "because one would expect higher amounts of travel on holiday weekends. It is reasonable to believe there is more travel on holiday weekends."

However, he said, "our analysis of both New Mexico and the national data shows that holiday weekends are no more hazardous than typical weekends and may even be safer considering the hypothesized higher amounts of travel on holidays." Hall declined to speculate whether increased driver awareness on holiday weekends was a factor. "Engineers are like Jack Webb, they want the facts," he said.

He said he has "doubts that the holiday fatality projections made by the National Safety Council influence accident experience." And just how are such projections made? "They probably look at what happened on the preceding weekend."

In addition, Hall said he doubts the effectiveness of warnings which urge safe driving and use of seat belts. The warnings, which include highway signs and public service announcements, apparently go unheeded since "only between 10 to 15 percent of people wear some type of restraint," he said.

A fellow of the Institute of Transportation Engineers, Hall has conducted extensive research on a variety of traffic safety issues. Since 1978, his research has been sponsored by nearly a quarter of a million dollars in grants from the New Mexico Traffic Safety Bureau and the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. In addition to those agencies, his findings also are reported to others such as the New Mexico Highway Department, State Police and the Transportation Research Board in Washington, DC.

Hall also has served as a traffic or transportation consultant to a number of private firms and public agencies. He is a member of several professional organizations, including the Transportation Research Board, the American Road and Transportation Builders Association and the American Society for Engineering Education.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID LONG

Cindy McIntosh, David Long wed in Ruidoso

Cindy Anne McIntosh and David F. Long were married July 31 in the First Christian Church, Ruidoso, NM. The Rev. Jay Greaves officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McIntosh, Lincoln, NM. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Long, Midland, TX.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory organza gown with venice lace and schiffley lace around a keyhole neckline and Queen Anne collar, bishop sleeves with crystal pleats at shoulder-tight cuffs of schiffley lace coming to a point at wrist-A-line skirt edged with wide lace over a deep crystal pleat flounce at hemline - entire skirt edged with alencon lace - large semi-cathedral train. Her bridal veil was a papal cap covered with venice lace and embellished with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses with dusty rose carnations and white daisies.

Marcia DeBorde and Merry Jones, sisters of the bride, were matron of honor and bridesmaid. They wore dusty rose, lace trimmed gowns with matching flowers in their hair. Heather DeBorde, niece of the bride, was flower girl, wearing an ivory gown with matching flower basket.

Steve Long, brother of the groom, served as best man, and Mike Long, also a brother of the groom, was groomsman.

Bill McIntosh and Scott Long ushered. Jenifer McIntosh, niece of the bride, stood at the guest book.

The bride's mother wore a midnight blue gown and the groom's mother wore a floral gown. Both wore corsages of white roses with pink carnations.

Music was by pianist Hattie Phillips, Lincoln, NM.

A reception, hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Howard Smith in their Ruidoso home, followed the ceremony. Webbie Vaughn and Rhonda LaRue served.

Cindy and David will reside in Alpine, TX, where they are attending Sul Ross State University. David is majoring in biology and Cindy in agri-business.

Monday night, Aug. 16, we received 30 of an inch of rain. None since, though Ruidoso has had several good heavy rains. Alto Lake is full, which is great, and the pond for the ducks and geese is full. That is wonderful, for that has been dry nearly all summer. It was great seeing the stream running from the Alto overflow. Perhaps we will get more moisture. We hope.

Willie Hobbs has leased the Smokey Bear Museum for three years from the city, as of Aug. 20, 1982. Her husband Wayne has the garbage contract, also for three years. Cathleen Massey is helping Willie. Willie will do just great as she has been operator for many years and did a wonderful job. She will succeed with flying colors. Last Sunday there were visitors from four foreign countries, England, Indonesia, Saudia Arabia and Japan. For this last week there were 2,124 visitors.

The Lincoln County Fair was a bigger success than ever. There were many more entries. Livestock was the best ever and netted big sales for the kids.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Payne of Carrizozo visited their son, Curtis Payne, and family, Saturday and to watch their two grandsons, Guy and Lee Payne, sell their animals in the auction. Both did well. One had the champion hog.

Ronald Joiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Joiner, had the champion cake which he sold at the auction.

The Capitan School started Monday morning, Aug. 23, with all of the buses reporting and the happy children and teachers at school for another season. It is always good to see the children going by.

Many Capitan citizens attended the Up With People show in Carrizozo at the old school gym. It was excellent, and truly appreciated by a capacity crowd. A wonderful experience.

The Capitan Extension Club held a meeting Aug. 16 at the Fair Building. The club discussed the Lincoln County Fair and the booth it was to have. Due to a mixup between the Extension Club and the fair board, their participation in the fair was withdrawn.

The next meeting for the club will be held Sept. 16 at 10 a.m. at the Fair Building. Hostess for the meeting will be Jan LaRue and Pat Huem. The club dined at Smokey Bear Restaurant to welcome Jan LaRue as the new president and thank the outgoing president, Sharon Horton, for a job well done. The agenda for the September meeting will include "How to make the perfect pie crust."

The Roundtable Club met at the home of Hattie Phillips, Aug. 19. Nine members were present. Mrs. McIntosh and Danielle Riska were guests. Winifred Cozzens won the raffle. The next meeting will be Sept. 18 at the El Paisano Cafe with Lorene Ferguson as hostess.

Lydia Hall resigned from her duties at Capitan City Hall after several years of faithful service, Aug. 20. The employees and friends gave her a farewell party Friday afternoon at city hall. I wish her a quiet and peaceful retirement.

Dr. Rouleau is remodeling the home he purchased from Mrs. H. Lee Miller several years ago on West Fifth Street. A raised roof has been added and the outside reinforced and changed. When finished, he will have his office there.

Lorene Ferguson spent two nights and one day in St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell last week. She is at home now. I wish her a good recovery.

Panama Carvajal entered Ruidoso Hospital last week, very ill. I wish him the best recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Wersham and grandson Robby of Pecos, TX, were weekend guests of Bessie Jones. He brought some good Pecos cantelopes and water-melons.

Dean Fredekind and Ray Montgomery have composed a cookbook, "Poor Folks Cook Book," which is now at press and will be available in a few weeks. It consists of old hand-me-down recipes. Bread, mayonnaise, sourkraut, pickles, etc. It centers around the garden. There are illustrations and stories about each recipe. Some came from Germany and other countries. It is of great interest, and many have been spoken for. Watch for it. Mr. Fredekind has been one of us since 1965, therefore is a home town boy made good. We are happy for them and just know this will be a big success.

The Capitan Bad News Soft Ball Team won a trophy for First Place in the tournament held at Ft. Stanton Sunday, Aug. 15.

Richard Zamora of Pasadena, CA, and Roland Zamora of Ft. Hood, TX, joined their brother, Rudy Zamora, for a visit while he was here for two weeks. He left Aug. 21.

Confident Tigers open football practice

The Capitan Tigers started football practice Aug. 10 with 19 boys out this year. Coach Mel Holland, in his third year at Capitan, has 11 returning lettermen to head up a team hoping to better last years 7-2 record.

In an interview recently, Holland stated that escaping the injury jinx will be the key to the Tigers' success. Holland would not make any firm predictions on his own team; however, he figures Reserve as the team to beat again this year. Texico and Tatum are also expected to have good ball clubs this season.

The Tigers open at Cloudcroft, Sept. 3. Schedule is as follows:

Letters to the Editor

Kudos from the east

DEAR CARRIZOZO: We are now "on the road" again looking forward to a 12-hour travel day to Snyder, Texas, which will give us a lot of time to think about Carrizozo. We had a wonderful and exciting time here and we would like to thank all the helpful people we got in contact with.

To mention a few of the highlights: The welcoming parade Tuesday night turned out to be very successful. Thanks to the sheriff, the fire department, city police, Smokey the Bear, the Grizzlies Cheerleaders, the FFA (No. 1, right?), Girl Scouts, and Bud Crenshaw for lending out his horses to Billy the Kids, as well as Dr. Jim Miller, Carrizozo Schools and Phyllis Schlegel.

Another great event was the "community Potluck" at Spencer Park Wednesday night. We have never before seen so many people in line for food, and best of it all was that we all ended up filled with lots of delicious goods from pots and pans brought from people in Carrizozo. We hereafter consider Carrizozo the Potluck Capital of the World.

After eating and visiting everybody got involved in games and races. In the pool "Coach Jerry" was competing with a lot of great swimmers. Won first prize in getting his nylogons on in record time. A great relaxing fun evening for our "Up With People" cast.

Finally we are thankful to all the people who opened up their homes, and we appreciate the support from Lincoln County News.

Danke, Kiltos, Tack, Thank you, Merci/Beaucoup, Tak, and Gracias.

Inside Religion

A Methodist Keystone Kop investigation

By LESTER KINSOLVING

The United Church of Christ (Disciples) provided the following Lenten Devotion for March 13, in a book entitled The Fellowship of Prayer:

"Commune-ism
"In 1949, Mao Zedong (Mao Tse Tung) with both Christian and Marxist influence in his background, attempted to institute this vision in the People's Republic of China, and with remarkable success. . . Where only a generation ago there was rampant starvation, disease and illiteracy, it was a miracle that no one was hungry. Everyone had a job. Everyone had health care. And children had seven to nine years of free public education. . . Prayer: We thank you, God, for precious fruits of the Gospel, especially when they come inognito. Amen."

"Very incognito," commented the Institute on Religion and Democracy.

The Rev. Lucius Walker of the Interreligious Foundation for Community Organizations utilized his familiar Mau Mau rhetoric in a fundraising letter, in which he linked President Reagan, the Rev. Jerry Falwell, US Senators Jesse Helms and Jeremiah Denton with a Ku Klux Klan leader, in a "plan to kill Black People."

Commented the IRD: "Could Lucius be slipping into neo-conservatism?"

The IRD is only one year old. Its executive committee, however, is not only blessed with a croll sense of humor but with such people as make it impervious to any big church board efforts to smear it as right wing. For one director is David Jessup, the Methodist layman who wrote an extensive report detailing his denomination's national headquarters contribution to Marxist and terrorist organizations.

Not only has Jessup's diligence driven the hierarchy up the wall but so has his occupation. For Jessup is with the Political Action Committee (PAC) of the AFL-CIO — hardly an organization of the far right.

Another director of IRD is Penn Kemble, who belongs to Social Democrats USA. Then there is Roman Catholic lay theologian Michael Novak, who in 1972 campaigned for Sen. George McGovern.

Within six months of its organization, IRD received such a bonanza as could only be approximated by an author's first novel being banned in Boston. For two of the Methodist Church's largest and most radical leftwing national boards, Global Ministries and Church and Society, joined with the Homeland Ministries board of the United Church of Christ, to conduct a secret investigation of the IRD.

They hired a former Congressional aide named Eric Hochstein and a former Congressional intern named Ronald O'Rourke. For $6,000, these two people produced a 52-page "investigation" of IRD, which in the realm of historically significant fiction will find a niche somewhere between the Keystone Kops and the proverbial mountain which labored and brought forth a mouse.

For these two stealthy Hawkshaws never bothered to talk to anybody on the IRD board. "We would have been glad to provide the information free," writes Novak, who refers to it as "The Snoop Report" compiled by "Junior G-Men."

Among other sizzling sensations in this six-thousand-dollar dud is the red hot disclosure that there are IRD members involved in the Coalition for a Democratic Majority. This organization was founded by admirers of such right-wingers as Senators Hubert Humphrey, Scoop Jackson and Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

The Hochstein-O'Rourke Report also mentions, repeatedly, that the IRD is actually "anti-Soviet" (1).

This is understandably shocking to the leftwing bureaucrats in Methodist and UCC headquarters who paid for this investigative joke. But across the nation there are many Methodists and UCC members who have for years been searching for some significant anti-Soviet leadership in their denominational headquarters.

Editorial Comment

'Let's buy a study!'

Joiner's Law: "When a legislative body meets it must commission a study of something."

A couple of years ago the State of California financed a costly study of the use of propane gas to power automobiles. Never mind that cars and trucks have been successfully running on propane for 40 years in Texas and New Mexico, and there was nothing left to study.

In another town, the city council dutifully spent from $10,000 to $15,000 every year for a "study" on ways to build a highway to route traffic around the town. In 20 years those "studies" filled a bookcase. They were never read. There is still no bypass, either.

New Mexico Cong. Joe Skeen has killed a House bill that would have spent $2 million a year for five years to study organic farming. Again, what's to study about organic farming? As Skeen pointed out: "Every farmer in America who makes his living as a farmer has to know and use the basic tenets of organic farming. We don't need to throw away $10 million for more study. This thing has been studied to death."

In a rare display of common sense, the House agreed and defeated the bill, in spite of 189 Congressmen's opposition — proving how deeply ingrained in legislators is the "study syndrome."

Thousands of studies cost US taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars a year. Town councils, county commissions, special regions and districts, state and national legislative bodies seem hellbent on studying everything from the Sex Life of The Sunflower to Why Criminals Don't Like Prisons. Money (or lack of it) is no object.

No matter what the study, rest assured it will not be acted upon. As Shakespeare might have said, "The study's the thing."

If we didn't already have 40,000 laws, we'd suggest a law to compel any government body to act on the basis of every study it authorizes. It would end such foolishness for all time.

Lujan goes against Reagan on nuclear freeze issue

BY LESTER KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — The debate in the House of Representatives over the issue of a proposed nuclear freeze was one of the longest of the year.

Republican Jim Leach of Iowa predicted: "The freeze will become the greatest single issue in the 1982 election."

President Reagan spent hours telephoning undecided House members, while Secretaries of Defense and State, Caspar Weinberger and George Shultz, lobbied on Capitol Hill. So did National Security Adviser William Clark, with chief arms control negotiator Edward Rowny telephoning Congressmen from Geneva to plead against a freeze resolution introduced by Wisconsin Democrat Clement Zablocki.

President Reagan won a razor-thin victory, 204-202, after Rep. Henry Hyde described the Zablocki proposal as "like freezing with the Soviet hands at our throats." For Zablocki had not proposed any reduction of Soviet weaponry to the level of the US — which, Reagan had noted, is behind the Russians.

Even House Speaker Tip O'Neill, in a rare gesture, took the floor to speak in favor of the Zablocki freeze proposal.

New Mexico's Rep. Joe Skeen voted for the Reagan-endorsed amendment offered by Michigan Republican William Broomfield, which required such parity in weapons, as well as verification.

But Rep. Manuel Lujan missed this vote, because, as he told the Lincoln County News, "I had appointments in Albuquerque the next day, and the last plane left at 4:00 before the vote was taken."

Lujan "paired" his vote with another absentee Congressman who was known to support the President. Lujan was one of only 27 Republicans who went against the Reagan Administration.

During an interview, Lujan said: "My original position on this was that we would do a token offer of freeze; say a thirty-to-sixty day freeze for the benefit of world opinion. And let's see what the response is. Coupled with the thirty-to-sixty day freeze, we could say: Let's sit down and hammer out an agreement for the mutual reduction of nuclear weapons. And I think that would be what would follow, because the world pressure would be great on both sides."

Later in the interview, Lujan conceded, however, that the Soviets have fulfilled no treaty obligations "when it's not to their advantage."

He went on to observe: "The Russians probably have more weapons than we do. But just to put it in very simple numbers, what's the difference if I'm holding one gun at you and you're holding two at me? You do have some sort of strategic advantage over me."

I declared that I would indeed prefer two guns rather than one, in a potential gunfight.

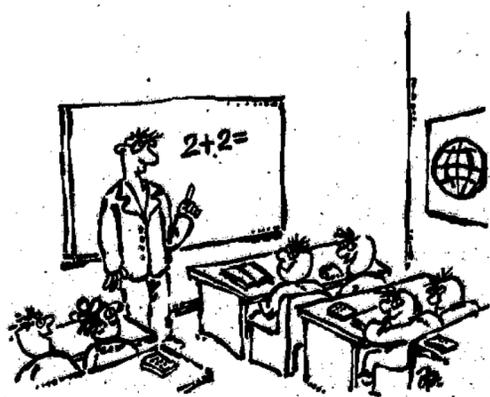

"That's absolutely correct," he countered, "but the one I have can be just as deadly as the two you have."

I agreed that this is true, unless all the guns are aimed and fired at the same time. Then I remain in the two-gun school.

"If you have two guns and I have none, what's the deterrent?" he asked. "If I have one, there is a deterrent. I think we get too involved in numbers, when we really should be looking at reductions."

Rep. Lujan said he agreed with the April 30 Congressional testimony of Jimmy Carter's Secretary of Defense Harold Brown: "We would be destroyed if there were a thermonuclear war by the weapons that exist. Therefore, freezing that situation says, 'Well, we will freeze the situation such that if there is a nuclear war, we will be destroyed.'"

Lujan said he also agrees with (continued on page 5)

"Peter, if you forgot your calculator just use your fingers."

OPINION

I AM about to expose my ignorance as to whether this country is anti-Communist or Communist. You may have had similar feelings, what with politicians and bureaucrats condemning Communism and at the same time funding it with US taxpayers' money. Every president, including the present one, has lashed out against Communism and called for sanctions against Communist-dominated nations. President Reagan tries to stop construction of a gas pipeline from Siberia to West Germany on grounds it would make Western Europe dependent upon Soviet energy. On the other hand, he approves a measure to sell millions of tons of grain to the Soviets to keep its population alive and its masters healthy. We embargo shipments of technology to Communist countries, knowing full well these shipments are merely re-routed through neutral countries to the Soviets. We refuse to discuss such important issues as nuclear disarmament with the Soviets because of human rights violations in Poland, then we loan billions of American tax dollars to bolster the Communist dictator's stranglehold on the Polish people. We conduct a war of words to discredit and defeat Communist aggression around the world while the US government and its agencies are actively providing financial and technological support to every Communist country on earth.

ARE YOU beginning to see why I am ignorant and bewildered? If not, read on.

NOT ONLY do we provide Communist countries with the goods they need but can't produce themselves, we send them our money as "loans" knowing the alleged loans will never be repaid. These billions of dollars are being funneled to Communist leaders at a time when the US itself is teetering on bankruptcy, when new and harsh taxes are being instituted, when unemployment is at a high peak, inflation and interest rates are high, and the national economy in shreds. We still have billions of dollars to send Communist leaders! Does it make sense even in prosperous times to send American tax money in the amount of $10 billion to Poland's Communist regime to finance the overthrow of the Solidarity Movement we profess to support?

I FEEL sure that any one of the many left-leaning bureaucrats in the US State Department could answer that question. So, why doesn't one?

OF THAT $10 billion "loaned" to Communist Poland, $1.9 billion was advanced by the Commodity Credit Corporation or the Export-Import Bank, both agencies of the US government. The rest was supplied by US banks that consider Communist loans a better investment than loans to US businesses struggling under high interest rates. Astonishingly, the CCC and Ex-Im Bank loan money to Communists at less than half the interest rate charged American business — this at a time when a US worker's paycheck is only a receipt for payroll deductions.

IN FEBRUARY the Soviet puppet regime in Poland renegeed on $71 million in interest owed US banks, to be followed by another $300 million later this year. Since default on these loans would wreck the US economy, the federal government would be required to make the payments for Poland in self-defense. All this money, loaned by our government and by banks whose loans are underwritten by the US, goes to the bankrupt, brutal, Communist dictatorship. Last year we wrote off $158 million in principal and interest due from Poland alone, and no end is in sight.

WHILE YOU were down at the corner bank trying to negotiate a loan at from 15 to 18 percent interest, the US government was loaning money to the following Communist nations at the specified interest rates: Soviet Union (we loan our money to the Soviet Union?) 6 percent interest; Romania, 6 to 8 1/2 percent; Red China, 8-9 percent; Poland, 6 to 9 percent; Yugoslavia, 6 to 9 percent. It's a good thing for the Communists we don't like them!

ON APRIL 27, 1982, while the Polish repression was heating up and its Communist government couldn't pay its bills, 90 percent of the Polish debt to US agencies and private banks were postponed so as "not to work any undue hardship" on the brutal Communist government! The CCC and Ex-Im Banks did, however, strike a blow by increasing the interest rate to Polish Communists from 6 to 9 percent to 13.6 and 15.5 percent, respectively — at the precise time the prime lending rate for American borrowers was 18 percent. In my ignorance I wonder: since Communist countries pay neither principal nor interest on loans, why bother to change the interest rate. Is this our way of getting tough on Communism?

OBVIOUSLY, the longer US taxpayers continue to subsidize Communist regimes, the longer they will survive. Without the food, technology and money we happily supply them, no Communist regime could long endure. If we are truly opposed to Communism, why don't we stop it? We kick the hell out of a proven friend like Taiwan the better to toady up to Red China, as cruel and merciless a Communist dictatorship as ever existed.

PRESIDENT Reagan has had a lot to say about "principles" before and after becoming president. Could we coax him into discussing the "principle" involved in bankrupting US citizens in order to make Communists comfy? Would he explain his administration's use of taxpayer money to bolster the sworn enemies of this country?

WHILE WE are doing a lousy job haling out our own troubled economy, we have a few surplus billions to alleviate the financial crisis enjoyed by Mexico, a condition induced by graft and corruption of this and preceding regimes. Last week we bailed out that country, which has been waving its hankie at the Soviets for years. It is traditional for Mexico to tweak the Yanqui nose at every opportunity and beat its benedicted chest when Uncle Sam doesn't perform as Mexico thinks he should, but when its gets in financial trouble, does Mexico go to her Soviet friends? No. She comes blubbing to Uncle Sam for "mordida" rather than to the Soviets, to whom she has been showing the garter for decades. I can understand propping up Mexico. She isn't Communist yet. She is a neighbor with whom we have strong cultural and economic ties. There is still hope for Mexico, but not much.

DO YOU know where Tanzania is? Do you give a damn? Well, it's in East Africa, just south of the equator, surrounded by some other of God's noblemen who are firmly fastened to the American breast — Uganda, Kenya, Mozambique, Malawi, Zambia, Zaïre, Burundi and Rwanda. The US government rejoiced when Julius Nyerere came to power in Tanzania and imposed a Communist agrarian economy in a once fertile, blooming agricultural climate. Today it is a wasteland. As a reward for devastating Tanzania, the US threw $1.5 billion down Nyerere's Communist rathole while the rest of the Third World deadbeats loudly applauded. Earlier this month Tanzania defaulted on its US debt, and not for the first time. A representative of Mr. Nyerere hurried to Washington to beg for more money. This time even the US government said no. Hurrah. Now, who shall we hang for having given money to that Marxist visionary in the first place?

INDIRA Gandhi, that Soviet puppet, swallowed her pride and

Rep. Broomfield's contention: "The enormous and growing Soviet lead in both intermediate and intercontinental range ground-based missiles locks NATO into a position of inferiority in Europe, where 300 Soviet intermediate-range missiles are already aimed at Western Europe, while NATO forces have no comparable weapon."

When asked if some other Congressman might have introduced his 30-to-60 day freeze amendment for him, Lujan replied: "I don't know."

Later that day, during another interview, Rep. Joe Skeen said he had no explanation for the fact that 27 Republicans had voted against President Reagan's strong plea.

Q: You work closely with Congressman Lujan, don't you? No, I don't.

Q: You don't?

SKEEN: He's the Congressman from the First District. I'm the Congressman from the Second District.

Q: I understood that there was great and wonderful cooperation, because you both belong to the same political party?

SKEEN: Who told you that? Q: He told me that he was a Republican and so did you. Now don't you two work together on things?

SKEEN: We're great friends. We have been for a long time. Long before I knew what party he belonged to.

In citing Lujan's explanation that his proposed mini-freeze might affect world opinion, we asked Skeen if, in his judgment, world opinion had been affected by the Soviets in their occupations of Afghanistan, Czechoslovakia or Hungary.

SKEEN: I can't tell you.

Q: What do you think?

SKEEN: I haven't thought a lot about it. I haven't worried about it.

Q: Has your opponent criticized you because of your vote on this?

SKEEN: Whozzis?

Q: (laughter) Your opponent; your political rival in running for public office.

SKEEN: I haven't heard anything from him. . . I took the tack that Zablocki was a unilateral-type freeze. And I just don't think that's quite the way to approach the subject.

Rep. Skeen repeatedly (and with his unique brand of volcanic vehemence) denied that there had been any "split" in the Republican Party on this issue.

"I would characterize it as a split in opinion between two individuals," he declared.

Indeed, yes. Nothing to do with politics, or Republican Party discipline, or anything like that.

Just two "individuals," in an ironic difference of opinion, on an issue about which a third individual (named Ronald Reagan) sweat blood and sent a small army of top brass to lobby on Capitol Hill.

Saving fruit from the blasted birds

Peaches, nectarines and plums are getting ripe and it's time to try and save them from the birds.

"Birds are smart. They adjust rapidly to most scare devices and then come on like gangbusters," said Dr. Jim Knight, Extension wildlife specialist at New Mexico State University.

The best advice to save fruit from birds is nylon netting. However, the nylon netting has to be supported well above the fruit and has to be secured to the ground over low plants, or to the tree trunk.

"I have watched birds survey a fruit crop covered with nylon netting for an opening and, when they find one, walk right in and help themselves," Knight said.

"Some people think nylon netting is expensive, but it doesn't cost that much in the long run," Knight said.

"It can be used to protect several crops, and works especially well on strawberries. It's easy to install and remove, and it will last a long time because it doesn't mildew or rot if someone takes reasonable care of it."

"If nylon netting isn't supported over ripening fruit, birds will light on the netting and feed through it. A light framework of wooden strips usually provides all the support that's needed. The framework can be disassembled and stored after harvest, and used again for several years.

"There are several other tricks that can be used to try and scare away birds, but most of them are short-lived," Knight said.

Stringing white strings over the canopy of a tree, or above a garden crop seems to work well. Birds apparently are afraid of getting tangled in the strings.

"I have seen this work exceptionally well over garden beans and peas," Knight said.

"One string is put above the row, from end to end, and smaller strings stream down from it to the ground alongside the row. Birds stay away from this arrangement."

"If nylon netting isn't available locally, or if there's no mail order source for it, then stringing white twine is probably the best bet," he said.

Some home gardeners suspend aluminum pie plates on strings from stakes so the pie plates can blow around in the wind. This seems to work because light reflecting from the pans, and the noise, frightens birds away.

"It seems that any movement scares birds away, at least for awhile. Large propeller devices shaped and painted like flowers or the sun have been used successfully to keep birds out of strawberries," Knight said.

Some gardeners report success by suspending pieces of green garden hose, three or four feet long, within the plant canopy.

"This simulates a snake, but how long it will keep our feathered friends out of a crop is up to speculation," Knight said.

"It may be worth the time and effort to use more than one device to scare off the birds. After all, birds are smart," he said.

came to Washington (not Moscow) last month to beg a few billions of your money. Official Washington fell all over itself in accepting the honor of advancing her money borrowed from the taxpayers so India can go back to India and keep her country securely in the Communist camp.

• THIS ADMINISTRATION is celebrating a great victory. Congress has passed a bill that will add $88.3 billion to the tax burden US citizens already endure. To raise this money, the pockets of waitresses have been picked, higher taxes added to telephone calls, airline tickets and cigarettes. Withholding is imposed on piddly interest and dividend accounts. Only the kids' piggy-banks are spared. The money raised by new taxes will just about equal the amount needed to "loan" Communist countries to keep them fat, sassy and itching for a fight with US Imperialistic Pigs— for the next couple of years, at least.

• WHAT ARE we going to do for friends when the money finally runs out?

• TO THE foolish men who squander their country's assets to strengthen their enemies, I commend this old English proverb: "He that makes himself an ass must not take it ill if men ride him." Ladies and gentlemen, we are ridden.

WHAT KIND OF AD IS THIS?

We call it a HOUSE AD. We have taken space in our own newspaper to advertise our product and policies.

It is a quiet ad.

It just sits here, awaiting your pleasure.

If you only have time for a quick glance at it right now, it will still be around for days for you to give it a more careful perusal.

It does not scream at you that you must look at it or listen to it right now or forever remain in ignorance.

It is not cleverly placed between where the hero dives his horse off the cliff and when he actually lands in the river.

It's just there to quietly and sensibly remind you of a particular product or service that may be of value to you.

Above all, it doesn't interrupt your favorite soapie or detective show just as the guy or gal is about to encounter great trouble. It also does not use these nervous interims to hit you with a "news break" you've already heard four or five times.

This kind of ad does not assume that you are so stupid that the only way you can be influenced to buy a product is by assaulting your ears and eyes with 40,000-watt guitars and sound mixers, plus a screaming announcer.

People who place newspaper ads only want to put their products and services before you and explain their qualities, features, functions and prices.

We know that we have intelligent readers because we have talked with so many of them. It is our obligation and our pleasure to say this: - We will never knowingly publish an ad (or a story) which does not meet our standards for fairness to our readers.

If we can do better than this, please let us know, as we intend to make the LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS the fairest and best newspaper in the entire Southwest.

(A Political ad paid for by the Lincoln County News, an Unequal Opportunity Employer, meaning — we'll give you more opportunity than you're equal to.)

Retire to, not from

Thoughts of retirement should be happy thoughts, but many persons dread retirement because they are afraid they will be bored.

"This fear can be eliminated by planning and preparation to use the extra time that comes with retirement," said Leo Yates, Extension family life specialist for New Mexico State University.

"Free time in retirement means different things to different persons. Some see it as a time for physical rest while others plan to complete neglected projects. Still others see it as a time for self expression," Yates said.

"For everyone, retirement should be a time for a purpose, not of idleness," he said.

The best possible plan for the successful use of retirement time is also the best plan for better living today, Yates said.

"With inflation and energy problems complicating the financial aspect of retirement life, it's important to develop some low-cost activities. Projects that bring personal satisfaction and add to the retirement income might be considered," he said.

The retired person may be able to fill some of those extra hours by working part time in a familiar line of work. It's also possible for retirees to begin entirely new careers.

"At least one activity that requires skillful work with hands and concentrated thinking can prove beneficial to both mind and body," Yates said. "These activities can provide relaxation as well as pride in achievement. If they are profitable as well, it provides a feeling of usefulness."

Plan for both indoor and outdoor activities. A variety of interests in retirement years allows a person to move from one to another, eliminating the possibility of boredom.

Bonds of this series maturing on and before July 15, 1989, are without option of prior redemption. Bonds of this series maturing on and after July 15, 1990, are subject to prior redemption, in inverse numerical order, at the option of the issuer on July 15, 1989, or on any interest payment date thereafter upon payment of the principal amount thereof, and interest to the redemption date.

Principal and interest being payable at the Office of the Lincoln County Treasurer, Carrizozo, New Mexico.

The bonds were authorized at a regular election held within the District on the 23rd day of February, 1982, for the purpose of erecting, furnishing, remodeling and making additions to school buildings and purchasing and improving school grounds.

Said bonds will constitute the general obligation bonds of the District, payable from general ad valorem taxes which shall be levied without limitation as to the rate or amount.

It is permissible to bid different or split rates of interest; provided, however, that (1) No bid shall specify more than one interest rate for each maturity; (2) Said interest shall be evidenced by only one set of coupons; (3) Said coupon rates shall be only in multiples of one-eighth of one percent (1/8 percent) or one-twentieth of one percent; (4) The difference between the maximum and minimum coupon rate shall be three percent (3 percent). The maximum net effective interest rate permitted for such issue is twelve percent (12 percent) per annum; provided, that prior to the delivery of the bonds, the written approval of the New Mexico State Board of Finance must be obtained by the District if the bonds have a maximum net effective interest rate of greater than ten percent (10 percent) per annum but equal to or less than 12 percent per annum. In the event such written approval is necessary and is not obtained from said Board of Finance within 60 days following acceptance of the bid, delivery of such bonds cannot occur and the bidder will be returned its good faith deposit. In accordance with law, "net effective interest rate" means the interest rate based on the actual price paid to the District for such bonds calculated to maturity according to standard tables of bond values.

Bidders are requested to submit a bid specifying (a) the lowest rate of interest and premium, if any, above par at which such bidder will purchase said bonds; or (b) the lowest rate at which the bidder will purchase said bonds at par. Proposals should be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked on the outside "PROPOSALS FOR PURCHASE OF GENERAL OBLIGATION SCHOOL BONDS, CAPITAN MUNICIPAL SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 28," and addressed to James K. McDaniel, Secretary of the Board of Education, Capitán Municipal School District No. 28, P.O. Box 278, Capitán, New Mexico 88316.

Said bonds will be awarded to the highest and best bidder considering the interest rate or rates specified and the premium offered, if any, and subject to the right of the Board of Education to reject any and all bids and readvertise. The highest bid will be determined by deducting the amount of the premium bid, if any, from the total amount of interest which the District would be required to pay from the date of the bonds to the respective maturity dates at the coupon rate or rates specified in the proposal, and said bonds will be awarded on the basis of the lowest net interest cost to the District. The purchaser must pay accrued interest from the date of the bonds to the date of the delivery. The bonds will not be sold for less than par and accrued interest, nor shall any commission be allowed or paid on the sale of such bonds. The District reserves the privilege of waiving any irregularity or informality in any bid.

All bids shall be sealed and made on the official bid form, and except the bid of the State of New Mexico, if one is received, shall be accompanied by a deposit of two percent of the principal amount of the bonds, i.e. $6,000, either in cash or by cashier's or treasurer's check of, or by certified check drawn on, a solvent commercial bank or trust company in the United States, which deposit shall be returned if the bid is not accepted. If the successful bidder shall fail or neglect to complete the purchase of said bonds within sixty (60) days following the acceptance of the bid, or within ten (10) days after the bonds are offered for delivery, whichever is later, the amount of the deposit shall be forfeited to the District, and in that event the Board of Education may accept the bid of the one making the next best bid, or if all bids are rejected, the Board of Education shall readvertise said bonds for sale in the same manner as herein provided for the original advertisement. If there be two or more equal bids and such bids are the best bids received (and for not less than par and accrued interest), the Board of Education shall determine which bid shall be accepted; provided, that said bonds or any part thereof may be sold to the State of New Mexico at private sale and without advertisement.

The Board of Education will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than twenty-four (24) hours after the expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of the bids. Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at a bank or trust company in Albuquerque, New Mexico, or elsewhere at the purchaser's request and expense, within sixty (60) days of the acceptance of the bid. If for any reason delivery cannot be made within sixty (60) days, the successful bidder shall have the right to purchase said bonds during the succeeding thirty days upon the same terms, or at the request of the successful bidder during the said succeeding thirty days, the good faith deposit will be returned and both the District and said successful bidder will be relieved of any further obligation.

Center Doings

My stop at the Zia Senior Citizens Center revealed several things; John Jiron is back from vacation, Rose Luera has been hired as a client service agent and the center's director, Barbara Ward, survived the month-long visit of active houseguests — her grandchildren.

John, the center's bus driver and general flunky (according to Barbara), spent a week visiting with relatives in Clovis. The previous week, he and Michael Monrreal attended fire school at Socorro, brushing up on firefighting skills. John and Michael are volunteer firemen in Carrizozo.

New on the center's staff is Rose Luera, replacing Julie Portio, who moved to Albuquerque. Rose and her husband Raymond are parents of a daughter, Anna, and a son, Junior. Both are students at Carrizozo schools. The family has lived in Carrizozo many years.

Barbara and husband Tom renewed the joys of parenthood during the month-long visit of grandsons, Sean Dowdy, 8, and Thomas Clayton Ward IV, 3. Barbara and Tom were involved in tasks of years past — peanut butter and jelly sandwich making and babysitter hunting.

The boys' parents, Thomas Clayton Ward III and his wife Rhonda and a younger son, Robert Aaron, 2, visited at the Ward home two weeks. They all live in San Diego.

The two Ward families enjoyed the Up with People program. The lively show kept 3-year-old Thomas Clayton IV on his toes and Barbara, right on his heels.

Former Pastor

The Nat Chavez family (that's us) received a letter from former Santa Rita pastor, Fr. Joe Sys. He had been in Uganda for the past two years. We have enjoyed his long and interesting letters from that country.

This past Sunday, Fr. Sys officiated at his sister's and her husband's golden wedding anniversary in Detroit, MI. After that he made plans to fly to Albuquerque and then after two days there, by bus to Carrizozo. His former Zozo parishioners may be chatting and visiting with Fr. Sys this weekend.

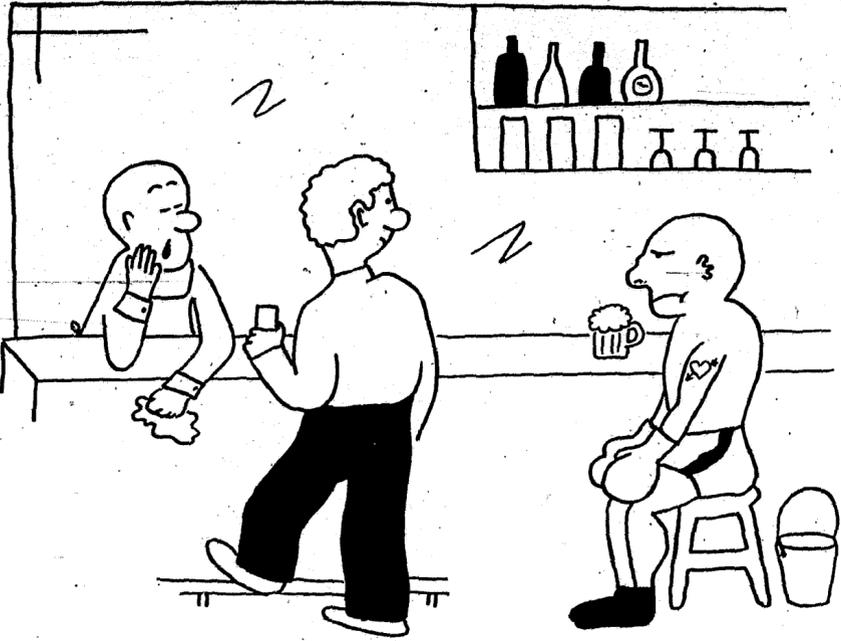

Right At Home

Rusty Leslie was the winner of the Windmill quilt made and raffled by the Canyon Cowbells during the Lincoln County Fair. Rusty, wife Melissa and son Joel are real pleased with quilt, which features a large scenic view of a windmill, a water tank, yucca plant and distant mountains. The quilt will be right at home in the young family's home, east of Carrizozo.

Person-To-Person

Personally speaking, the Up with People cast made a lot of local people, including myself, that people are more important than things. The talented young people put on a fantastic show last week in the old gym.

The community potluck held the evening before was the biggest gathering of folks I have witnessed at a potluck. Local and area people turned out at the park

"Try not to argue politics with him." P.Chavez in numbers. To quote a verse from their song, "Just People": "They come (came) from hills and the valleys and from both sides of the tracks." People from Ancho, White Oaks, Nogal, Ruidoso and Carrizozo served as host families.

Pots, bowls and pans were lined on tables set end to end. The park was filled with people of all ages — eating, visiting, playing. No one was heard trying to convince you that it is their religion that will save you and lead you to heaven.

Cast members from Sweden, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, Canada, Denmark, Japan, Norway, Netherlands and all over the US enchanted host families in Carrizozo and surrounding areas. Just ask Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rowin, Beulah Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Sims, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams, Mary Chavez, Mr. and Mrs. Hoot Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Wall, Dr. and Mrs. Jim Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hollis, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gallacher, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bohks, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Shafer, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Stearns.

Others that will tell you the same thing are Mr. and Mrs. Stirling Spencer, Dr. Amy Barton, Wini Wilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Rouche, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zamora, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Persall, Rene Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeTevis, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Means, June Caster, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hefker, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Perry, and Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Barnes.

And more host families — Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. John Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Snooks McDaniel, June Straley, Barbara Lovelace, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Koller, Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Vega Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Travis, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Pafford.

Game Time

As parents of a member of the 1982 Carrizozo volleyball squad, we received a surprising letter from our daughter's coach. He thanks us for the sacrifices we are making in allowing our daughter to participate in the sport. How very thoughtful! Coach Bill Vitany is a newcomer to the staff at Carrizozo schools.

For years I have taken over the duties of the girl and boy athletics in this household because of practice, home games, practice, out-of-town games and more practice. Dish washing, dogfeeding and woodchopping are some of the chores I have taken over — begrudgingly. During sports season I always have dishpan hands and windblown hair styles.

I have an older daughter who came home with a variety of trophies awarded at the yearly sports banquets. In her 12 years of high school she also received the coveted Greatest Grizzlie award — twice.

The first baby word uttered by our second daughter was, "Ball." All four sons are boxers and the oldest is a football player this year.

I have to admit that I don't know the difference between a dribble or a punt. This year I will try very hard to understand the action on the court, field or track.

Although I have taken both boys and girls sports pictures for the NEWS, I don't know much about sports. When I attend a game I try to sit near a mother who seems to know when to clap or yell an appropriate and encouraging word. Then I clapped when she clapped.

Once I almost headed for home during the middle of a basketball game. How was I to know that the so-called "half" is for the buying of munchies?

When the kids participated in a game, I always told them to be polite to out-of-town teams members. I would tell them to say "excuse me," or "sorry" if they offended anyone during a game. My kids and their friends laughed at my instructions all the way to the gym.

Last Saturday, my son participated in the annual Red and White football scrimmage. One third of the game was over before I realized that my son was wearing white socks with yellow and black bands, not blue and green. I recommend that a program be available for that annual scrimmage. Another suggestion would be that the people dragging a chain on two poles be told to sit on the bleachers like everyone else so that we can all get a good view.

On Sept. 2, Thursday, the volleyball team will host an evening practice session just for parents. The girls will demonstrate some of the conditioning and skills that they have been working on. This will be followed by examples of game situations and a short intra-squad scrimmage. This will come in handy when I attend the season's first volleyball game.

If you see me in the crowd with a pad and pencil, I am not writing a sports story, I am merely jotting down sports jargon and questions to ask my favorite sports people when I can catch them at home.

Understanding the game will help me be attentive. Its going to be hard, but I may even decide not to carry my quilting supplies or my drawing pencils in my shoulder bag.

If you can't beat them, join them.

Photograph home before it's robbed

While a family is away for a weekend or longer vacation, it's home or apartment could be burglarized or damaged by fire. If such an unfortunate event took place, few people can remember exactly what was destroyed or stolen.

"Authorities recommend that photographs of a house's contents be made," said Jackie Martin, Extension family finance specialist at New Mexico State University.

"This helps in filing a claim after a fire or other loss. When disaster strikes, it's usually impossible to list all the items a person owns from memory," Mrs. Martin said.

"A photo inventory of a home is one of those things that we all intend to do one day, but good intentions go astray. One way to get this job done is to use the end of a roll of film to photograph one or more rooms after you have been taking pictures of something else," she said.

Photographing one or two rooms at a time also cuts down the size of the household inventory project. Another advantage to this system is that old photos are regularly replaced with new photos that show new items in a room or other changes.

"In addition to the photographs, a family should make a room-by-room written inventory," Mrs. Martin said.

"Such an inventory helps you decide if you need insurance on specific items such as silverware, jewelry, guns antiques or artwork. Copies should be made of these room lists. One copy should be kept at home and one should go into a safety deposit box," she said.

Write detailed information about items in the photograph on the back of the photo. This could include things like date of the photo, purchase dates, serial numbers, brands and quantities.
