Chamari Inc. has an open house

About 75 persons attended the opening of the new offices of Chamari, Inc., at 311 S. Central last Thursday. The company combines Chamari Builders, Mary Rich Real Estate, Golden Rule Trading Co. and Heritage Farms as divisions of Chamari, Inc. Heritage Farms operates several low technology experimental projects west of Carrizozo. The parent company, Mary Rich Real Estate, has been doing business in Carrizozo for almost 10 years.

MARY RICH Adams, president of Chamari, Inc., greets her first client upon the opening of her real estate business here, rancher Bud Crenshaw of White Oaks.

RENE Burton, teller at Ruidoso State Bank, and Charles Adams, chairman of the board of Chamari, Inc., chat in Adams office. Mrs. Burton was secretary-bookkeeper for Mary Rich Real Estate before going to the bank.

ORV PERRY, member of Chamari Builders, left; Pam Perry, secretary; and Eileen Lambert, partner in Heritage Farms, in the new reception room. Mrs. Lambert is Charles Adams' mother.

SALESPeOPLE Patsy Sanchez and Pat Vigil enjoy refreshments with rancher-county commissioner John Allen Hightower and attorney Don Wall. Wall once had his law offices in the renovated building.

ROTARY International Dist. 552 Gov. Marvin Trembley of Belen was in Carrizozo last Thursday for his annual visit. Shown here are Earl Fenter, president of the Rotary Club of Carrizozo, Trembley and Bob Bohks, club secretary-treasurer. The governor met with club officers and later spoke to Rotarians and their wives on "Mankind is One: Building Bridges of Understanding." During the meeting three charter members, still active in the club, were recognized — Albert Roberts, Johnson Stearns and Fred English. Roberts was also presented with a "senior active" badge. The local club was formed 23 years ago.

Tour to Trinity Site where first

The public will get an opportunity to tour Trinity Site, where the first atomic test operation was carried out on July 16, 1945, on Saturday, Oct. 2.

Tours will be strictly supervised by the military.

Individual cars will be used. They will gather at the Tularosa gate at 8:30 a.m. and at Stallion Range Camp Gate on US 380, 12 miles east of San Antonio and 53 miles west of Carrizozo at 9 a.m.

The caravan of cars will be escorted by military police. All cars must be at one of the gate entrances to White Sands Missile Range promptly at the above times. No one will be permitted to enter the gates after the caravan has passed through.

The tour is six hours long. There will be no departures on an individual basis. There is no charge, no reservations are necessary. Visitors should bring a picnic lunch, spare tire, drinking water and a full tank of gas for a trip that will average 150 miles.

There will be no pets except guide dogs, no motorcycles, no weapons, no alcohol, and cameras must be placed in glove compartment or trunk of car. Visitors must stay on marked roads.

Visitors must not dig or pick up Trinitite, a glasslike substance

Alamogordo Bombing and Gunnery Range in New Mexico. The test site became a part of the 4,000 square mile White Sands Proving Ground (renamed White Sands Missile Range in 1958), established by the Army just one week before the explosion.

The site for the Project Trinity test was chosen for safety and secrecy. This was a region of public grazing land that had always been sparsely populated. During World War II it was even more deserted and remote since being withdrawn by the War Department for use as an aerial gunnery and bombing range.

Final preparations for the test explosion began in earnest four days before July 16, with the McDonald ranch house situated on the range serving as a site for assembly and tests of the active nuclear materials delivered from the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory. The "thing" or "gadget," as it was called, was placed on top of a 100-foot steel tower on Saturday, July 14, and installation of the detonators was started. The 100-foot tower was designated Zero. Ground Zero was at the foot of the tower.

Meanwhile, other technicians went about installing seismograph and photographic equipment at

Food and cold drinks may be purchased from the range's mobile food service van at the site.

Dr. J. J. Wechsler, retired from the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, Los Alamos, NM, who was involved in the Manhattan Project, will give a short presentation.

The first atomic test operation, known as Project Trinity, took place early in the morning on Monday, July 16, 1945, in the north-central portion of the varying distances from the tower. Other instruments were set up for recording radioactivity, temperature, air pressure and similar data required by the project scientists.

Three observation points were established at 5.7 miles each from Ground Zero. These were wooden shelters protected by concrete and earthen barricades. The observation point lying south of the tower served as a control center. Here Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, head of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, took his position.

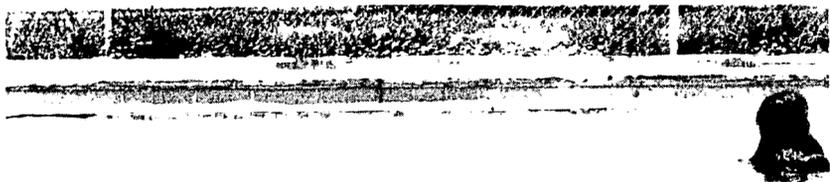

A fourth observation point was at Base Camp, 10 miles from Ground Zero, and a fifth was on Compania Hill, 20 miles away. Most of the scientists and observers present for the test were stationed at this last point.

The test was scheduled for 4 a.m. July 16, but rain and lightning early that morning caused it

White Oaks coal fields attracting interest

The New Mexico State Land Office is including 1,601 acres in Lincoln County among a number of coal mining leases for sale in the state.

Jack Kennedy of the State Land Office recently stated that the old coal fields near White Oaks are attracting the interest of mining firms.

The lease sale will be held at 10 a.m., Oct. 20, at the State Land Office in Santa Fe.

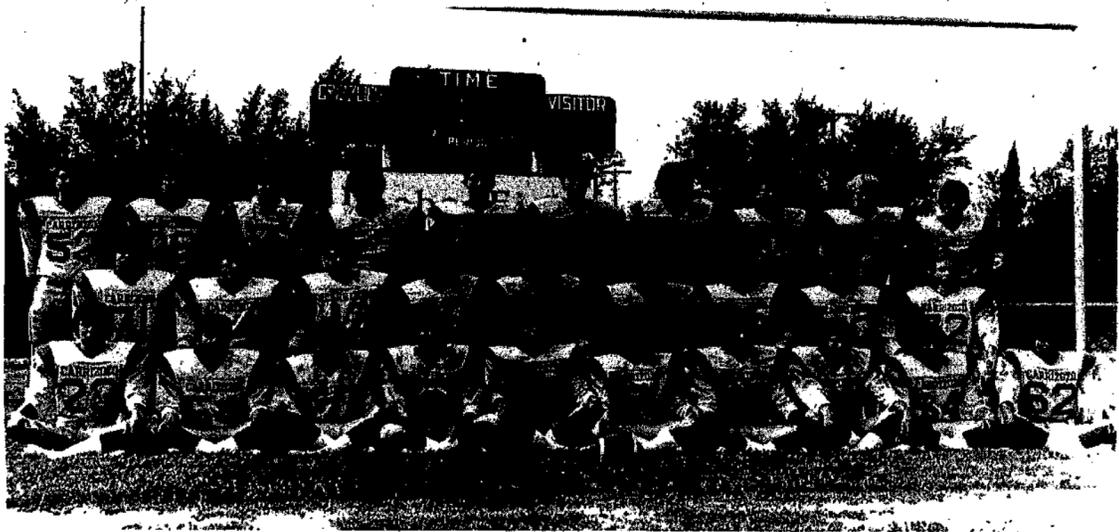

Most tracts being offered for lease are in Northwestern New Mexico, but 13 of them are in Lincoln County, mostly around White Oaks.

Kennedy said Northern Lincoln County had seen coal mining in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, and that there are some good coal resources in this area, development of which "would be good for the area economically."

He indicated that most of the coal in Lincoln County is suitable for strip mining because it lies close to the earth's surface.

A total of 89,366.41 acres of state trust lands will be offered for coal mining leases at the Oct. 20 sale. Sealed bids must be delivered to the land office before 10 a.m. on that day. Each tract is offered separately. Bidders are required to pay $1 per acre advance rental, $3 per acre advance royalty, and meet or exceed the minimum bonus bid set for each tract if their bid is to be considered.

GRIZZLY SQUAD — Carrizozo's 1982 squad took the field Friday night at Texico and came away with 29-0 loss. Sept. 17 they play Estancia, and are expected to show marked improvement. Texico shuts out Grizzlies, 29-0

The Carrizozo Varsity Grizzlies lost their season grid opener Friday, 29-0, to the Texico Wolverines.

The tough Wolverines jumped to a 8-0 first quarter lead over the Grizzlies as Earl Bibbs of Texico ran into the end zone from the one yard line where the Grizzlies had fumbled on the play before. He also ran in the extra points.

The Wolverines dominated throughout the game. In the second quarter Texico went on to score another 7 points, with Bob Johnson running in the touchdown and Lloyd Williams scoring the extra point. Johnson also scored another 6 points in the third quarter when he recovered a fumble in the end zone and Williams added another point

Fourth quarter points came from Billy Bibbs, running 40 yards for a touchdown and Williams again adding the extra point.

Leading rushers for the Wolverines were Billy Bibbs with 92 yards, Earl Bibbs with 67 yards, Brad Steward with 29, and Lynn Tubbs with 29.

Brian Vigil led the Grizzlies in rushing, with 84 yards on 12 carries. Also, John Roueche with 17 yards on 5 carries and Alex Serna 17 yards on 6 carries. Roueche also completed one of 13 passes for minus 9 yards, and Ken Crenshaw was 0 for 2. Texico was far ahead of Carrizozo in total offensive yards, 295 to Carrizozo's 109. The Grizzlies managed only 5 first downs to Texico's 12.

Gilbert Zamora was the leading defender with 19 tackles. Duane Zamora intercepted a pass late in the first half. Robin Beltran forced a Texico fumble which was recovered by Eric Vega for the Grizzlies.

Seven Carrizozo players had 10 tackles or more: Gilbert Zamora (19), Robby Hooten (16), Clarence Beltran (14), Juan Osario (13), Dennis Ortiz (11), Brian Vigil (10), and Alex Serna (10).

Carrizozo is idle this week and will return to the grid on Friday, Sept. 17, against Estancia, in Estancia at 7:30 p.m.

Carrizozo's head varsity coach, Jerry Koller, is on his third year of coaching and teaching at Carrizozo High. Koller was the manager of the Jane Turner Memorial Pool this past summer and is now currently teaching P.E. and coaches varsity football. This fall he will coach girls' varsity basketball.

Assistant coaches are Jerry Peckinpaugh, mid-high language teacher; Hal Roueche, counselor; and Pat Ventura, a 1980 graduate of Carrizozo High who is now employed at Carrizozo High School.

Carrizozo's second game will be played at Estancia on Sept. 17. Coach Koller will be working to correct deficiencies in Friday's game. The ground game was good, but there is work to be done in the passing department, he noted.

TOUCHDOWN—Running back Danny Cummins (21) scored Capitan's first TD of the season last week against Cloudfcroft. Tigers blocking for Cummins are Gid Allen (53) and Grady Eldridge (11). Capitan plays Texico Friday. The Tigers lost to Texico in last year's playoffs, 7-6.

Tigers nip Cloudfcroft

The Capitan Tigers opened the 1982 football season with a 27-6 win over Cloudfcroft Friday night.

The Tigers built up a 20-0 lead in the first half and then held off the Bears in the second half despite numerous penalties and a power outage that delayed the game 20 minutes.

Tailback Danny Cummins had a big night for Capitan, running for touchdowns of 6 and 25 yards in the opening half. David Beavers also scored in the first half on a 50 yard scamper.

Cloudfcroft, fielding a young team this year, scored on a 2 yard run by Heath Gould in the fourth quarter to cut the margin to 20-6. However, Capitan came right back to march 50 yards for a touchdown with five minutes left. 44 yard pass from Grady Eldridge to end Tim McElhannon was the big play. Eldridge carried it in from 4 yards out.

Tim Proctor booted 3 extra points and Eddie Davis recovered two fumbles for the Tigers.

This week the Tigers meet Texico in the first home game. Capitan has never beaten Texico in four previous tries, but Coach Mel Holland's crew is hoping to turn this statistic around Friday.

Bowling leagues forming

Doyle L. Wood, manager of the Carrizozo Recreation Center, announced today the formation of the various bowling leagues and the opening of the snack bar.

The leagues and times of organizing are announced elsewhere in this edition.

The snack bar is under the management of Carol Whittaker, with Glenna Miller as "Chief Cook and Bottleswasher."

In addition, this year there will be a nursery for small children of bowling mothers (or fathers) with a full-time attendant.

Wood says he badly needs volunteers, such as retirees or parents, to assist with the Bantam League.

New hours at White Oaks bar-museum

Rose Vinson, new manager of White Oaks Casino & Museum, has announced new hours of business.

The museum is closed Mondays. It is open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 12 noon to 8 p.m.; Fridays, 3 to 8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Sundays, 12 noon to 6 p.m.

Regular dances are being planned for Friday and Saturday nights, featuring live music. A Country Music Festival will be held Oct. 9-10. Rex Allen Jr. and his band are already signed for the event.

A scrimmage for parents

A red and white inter-squad scrimmage was held Thursday by the varsity and JV volleyball teams. Coach Bill Vitany set up the scrimmage for parents of team members.

Part of a practice session was performed before the scrimmage to show parents what is done each day during practice.

The JV team and the varsity team were mixed together to form the two teams. The scrimmage lasted about an hour, followed by a small reception.

Grizzly Girls edge Mustangs

The varsity and JV volleyball squads captured dual victories at Mountainair Saturday.

The varsity took its match 2-0 on two 15-8 performances. The JV battled through three games 15-11, 10-15 and 15-11 to earn their victory.

Both teams rely on consistency in serving, ball control and passing fundamentals, a style which forced the Mustangs to commit mistakes good for Grizzly points.

This year's varsity has a balance of talent and team unity which will continue to improve throughout the season. The junior varsity has a blend of experience and eagerness which make them fun and interesting to watch.

Roxanne Gabel, Annette Hill, Judith Ortiz, Bonnie Jo Shepperd, Stacey Stephenson, Kelly Vigil.

The Grizzlies face Ruidoso here Saturday, Sept. 11 at 4 p.m.

Bill Vitany is the varsity coach. He is new in Carrizozo, coming from Michigan. He is employed with Carrizozo Schools as 5th grade teacher. Managers for the volleyball team are Donna Shepperd, a junior at Carrizozo High, and Robert Montano, a senior.

Handling two skunk problems: before spray and after spray

New Mexico's Extension county agents get about 500 skunk calls a year. This may seem like a trivial statistic, but to the person who is calling the skunk is the most pressing problem of the day. Skunks seem to enjoy moving in under mobile homes that are not carefully skirted. Sometimes the family that doesn't have a resident skunk problem finds the problem at their doorstep when the family dog comes home from an outing.

Dr. James Knight, Extension wildlife specialist at New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, said skunk problems can be divided into two kinds — before spray and after spray.

"If you have the first kind of problem, make sure you don't turn it into the second kind," Knight said.

A typical before spray skunk problem involves a visiting skunk that is unwelcome, but tolerated, by a fearful homeowner. In this case, the first step is to be nice to the skunk.

"Put out some water and food. A small dish of hamburger, rotten fruit or raw eggs will appear hospitable to the skunk," Knight said. "If the skunk is actually inside the house, or has taken up residence in farm outbuildings, this hospitality is essential to maintain a friendly, odorless relationship."

Once the skunk is dining regularly, it's time for the second step, actually trapping the skunk.

"By all means use a box or cage trap. A leghold trap will only make the skunk angry," Knight said.

"Put the trap at the location where Ms. Skunk has been going for dinner. Put the food inside the trap. With any luck at all, she will be in the trap next morning," he said.

Once the skunk is trapped, there's a new problem. What to do with a skunk in a trap?

"Move ever so quietly toward the cage trap with an old blanket or gunny sack, and slowly drape the cloth over the trap. Then carefully remove the trap from the house or outbuilding. No sudden moves, please," Knight said.

The chances of getting sprayed while moving a caged skunk aren't great, but there's no sense taking chances. Take the caged skunk a long distance from where she was trapped and release her.

"If you are one of those people with definite prejudices against skunks, you may want to drop the cage, skunk and all, into the nearest pond," Knight said.

If the skunk has taken up residence in a burrow, wait until after dark to visit the burrow. Put a piece of meat in the entrance and cover the burrow entrance with a board weighted down with a big rock.

"If the meat is gone the next morning, that means Ms. Skunk is still at home. Remove the board until after dark the next night and try again. When the meat remains uneaten for two days, it's safe to assume the skunk was blocked out. Fill the burrow with dirt and cover with a big, flat rock," Knight said.

"Skunks that are just passing through a neighborhood will be on the lookout for a skunk palace. After your old skunk is gone, make the premises uninviting. Cover any openings that lead to crawl spaces," he said.

Anybody who encounters a skunk out for a stroll should stop and let the skunk go by. It won't spray if it isn't molested.

"Never shoot a skunk," Knight said. "A shot skunk always sprays in its death throes. I know of one man who shot a skunk in his house. The dead skunk was a much bigger problem than when it was alive," Knight said.

If the worst happens and the skunk sprays in a house or a crawl space, or the dog comes home scented, don't despair. Knight recommends some industrial deodorants used by pest control operators to cover dead rat odor. These can be sprayed over the areas the skunk has sprayed.

"The best way to remove skunk odor from your dog is a thorough washing with tomato juice. Tomato juice also works on small areas around the house that have been sprayed directly," Knight said.

Letters to the Editor

Recalls 'Cannibal Coast'

EDITOR — A check is enclosed for a one-year subscription. Your Fagdad-by-the-Bay brought to mind "Cannibal Coast" the term applied to California, generally, and to San Francisco specifically, by the scalological barrack humor of Marines, 30 years ago. The town that gave us, "shanghaied," had more leeches and drones bilking the unwary than any other city in the world. It was and is still a cesspool of chicanery. Consider the damage done to the language by homosexuals. I can remember queer, gay, fairy and drag as words without a subrosa connotation. And we kids, imitating George Raft and other movie toughs, called our clandestine cigarettes "fags." Whatever happened to pedophile, sapphist, triabist and pervert? I know — this is the Age of Euphemisms.

Health is the prime reason for our wanting to leave California. There is a mile too much air on top of our heads, filled with spores and pollens. Also, we miss the majestic summer electrical storms and the sun-bright though cold winter days.

It isn't just things California. The politics may be more hysterical and immorality more blatant, but the same things are wrong with the nation. Liberty, implying responsibility, becomes license, while basic freedoms are nibbled away.

Americans infected by the Santa Claus syndrome expect a quick fix by an omnipotent individual and a benign government. Unfortunately, the quick fix is usually an adobe wall.

In my mind, a republic is a government of compromise. Not every one is pleased all the time, but overall things are more tolerable. This is why your "How We Lost Our Republic" was so poignant. Opportunities and fish must be caught and are best when fresh. I hope I made myself clear. Gaye says I think in a language other than English. If I do, it is Elvish. My mind is absolutely loyal to logic, but usually imagination and whimsy rule my expression. I get into a lot of trouble with too literally-minded people.

Friends from WWII

EDITOR — Enclosed is our remittance for continuation of our subscription for the next two years.

It has been our privilege to visit Carrizozo almost annually since WWII, with our base of operations located at the L.Z. Manires, my wife's parents. We came to know many of the folks in town; your historical sites; your scenic wonders, and all have a warm place in our hearts.

We especially enjoy reading about all that goes on in a town that has many memories for us. Your leadership at the NEWS has pumped a new vitality into the paper, and Carrizozo can't help but have a new feeling of importance with your presentation of its activities.

And your editorials hit the mark as far as we're concerned — keep U.S. healthy, our politicians honest, and our values high.

MILDRED & BOB ULLER,

Presidential contestants

EDITOR — Contests are as American as apple pie. Let's have a new one: What are the three most nauseating American sights you have seen in the past 10 years? Here are my entries:

1. President Nixon at a banquet in Peking saluting and clinking champagne glasses with the infamous Mao, leader of the Communist regime that has murdered possibly 60,000,000 Chinese people.

President Carter in Europe, embracing and kissing each cheek of the monstrous Leonid Brezhnev, leader of the Communist tyranny that has tortured and murdered countless millions in the Gulag Archipelago.

3. President Ronald Reagan, laughing and congratulating his fat, porcine, repulsive enemy, Tip O'Neill and his cohorts who helped pass the infamous Dole-Rostenkowski $100,000,000,000 tax increase which will probably destroy the Republican Party and ultimately the nation, as we have known it.

A saddened student of history.

LULUH BRAGHETTA,
Sonoma, CA.

Now we feel better!

EDITOR — Never met you face to face, but I feel you are my friend.

After reading your "Opinion" today and every week, I feel better. . .

KENNETH COOK,
Bodega Bay, CA.

Please do

EDITOR — I have missed your editorial page in the Sebastopol Times. I thought I'd grow accustomed to the loss, but apparently I'm addicted.

Please put me on your subscription list, if you're doing the same type columns.

GLADYS TENNYSON,
Petaluma, CA.

Please don't

EDITOR — Do not renew my subscription. I just wanted to see if Mr. Joiner would continue to be his crusty old self in a new place. He is — and I'm glad — so good luck — and goodbye!

C. M. HUGHES,
Sebastopol, CA.

Lust and stuff at CSB

EDITOR — I, along with Mr. Pat Ragers of Ruidoso, would like to thank you for saving me 25 cents per week. You have also possibly saved much more as I intend to withdraw my meager, hard earned savings from Citizens State Bank. I have never in my life been so humiliated by editors and their editorials and bankers.

You, Mr. Joiner, are so quick to criticize "queers," yet you allow such people as President Stearns and this A. G. Hamilton to demonstrate such "raw lust" on the front page of our newspaper. You, Stearns and Hamilton probably voted against our fine Ex-President Carter for granting an interview to "Playboy" and publicly admitting he had lust in his eyes. Poor Mrs. Carter, Stearns and Hamilton.

What ever happened to the days when bankers, editors and barkeepers were respectable persons? The pillars of the community? Suppose they have gone down the same evil road as most of our elected officials.

I'll never spend another 25 cents on your paper as long as my subscription is paid in full, in advance.

Anaya . . . Jobs for California?

John Irick, Republican candidate for governor, has charged that his Democratic opponent, Toney Anaya, has spent more than $107,000 on campaign advertising and printing with firms in Los Angeles and Sacramento, California.

Irick headquarters cites records in the office of the New Mexico Secretary of State which tend to confirm the figures.

If so, Anaya's face should be red, and so should faces down at Local 304, International Typographical Union, in Albuquerque which has contributed $750 to Mr. Anaya's campaign for governor.

Anaya has been campaigning over the state telling people how he will go about providing more jobs for New Mexicans if he is elected.

He has made a poor beginning, if Irick's figures are correct. It may be that New Mexico advertising agencies and printers are not qualified to handle such a job, in which case they shouldn't resent that $107,000 going to California printers.

On the other hand, Anaya has fulfilled his pledge to provide more jobs—even if they are in California.

Politics delay action on drug, sex investigation

BY LESTER KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — Rep. Manuel Lujan has predicted that the current investigation of reports of cocaine use and sodomy with Congressional pages by members of Congress will not be completed until after Election Day in November.

When asked during an interview if he believes that this investigation, led by former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph Califano, will not be completed until after Election Day, Lujan replied: "That's right."

Asked if he believes the Democratic leadership in the House is deliberately delaying the conclusion of the investigation, the New Mexico Congressman answered: "I wouldn't doubt it, although I don't have any information that that is the case."

Rep. Lujan went on to tell the Lincoln County News: "Committee members are very dissatisfied with him (Califano). He has already spent a lot of money in fixing up an office, has hired staff, has already spent about $14,000 — and hasn't done a thing about looking into the charges."

By contrast, Rep. Joe Skeen repeatedly declined to comment on Califano's role and his fitness to conduct the investigation.

Both of the New Mexico Congressmen said that they know of no action or statement by Califano with regard to the 1977 forged drug prescription of Dr. Peter Bourne, President Carter's White House drug adviser — who was later reported to have been seen by two Washington Post people sniffing cocaine in a hotel room. (Bourne was never prosecuted and instead went to a highly paid post at the United Nations.)

Skeen was asked if he would publicly protest if, by Oct. 1, the Democratic-controlled House Ethics Committee has still not completed this investigation.

"Oh, I think we've already beat our breasts on the House floor," replied Skeen. "And we've got several committees looking into this thing, and we've got a lot of self-styled reporters asking questions, and I think we're probably getting a great airing of this thing. I hope that we do."

Q: What are "self-styled reporters"?

SKEEN: Oh, I don't know. I — Q: Well, you used the term. And I just thought that if you used this term, you'd know what you were driving at. What is a "self-styled reporter"?

SKEEN: I think it's self-explanatory. Now let's get back to the meat of the question, You ask one question, and then you jump onto another.

Q: Well, you brought up a fascinating term.

SKEEN: Well, let's be consistent.

The 2nd District Congressman then pointed out that the New York Times had written "about four or five stories about Richmond." (Rep. Fred Richmond (D., NY), arrested in 1978 for admittedly soliciting a 16-year-old boy for sex purposes; currently being investigated by a federal grand jury for having provided a House of Representatives job and a room, and his car, to a longtime acquaintance who was a fugitive from a Massachusetts prison and who was subsequently arrested for homosexual prostitution.

Since this interview, Rep. Richmond has resigned from the House, after pleading guilty in a plea bargain, to tax evasion, possession of marijuana and having made an illegal payment to a Navy employee who had been helpful in obtaining government contracts. — Editor note.

Skeen also noted that two other homosexuals in the House of Representatives, Republicans Robert Bauman of Maryland and Jon Hinson of Mississippi, are no longer in office.

"I've been so busy doing my regular work," added Skeen, "that I haven't had time to do your reporting work!"

When asked if he believes that the House of Representatives should be kept clean, Skeen replied: "Oh, I think so. I think it's up to us."

Swedenborgians: tiniest member of the NCC

By REV. LESTER KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — An imposing and attractive Gothic church on 16th Street here has a sign advertising its availability to anyone — as a wedding chapel.

The Church of the Holy City can accommodate nearly 40 times its average Sunday congregation of 25 to 50. The church has an endowment "that is not enough," explained the Rev. Robert Kirven. "So they have this offer to help make ends meet and to meet new people."

Kirven is not the pastor. (The Rev. F.R. Tafel has an unlisted number.) He is president of the Swedenborg School of Religion in Newton, Mass.

The Swedenborgians, who have the smallest membership of all 32 member denominations in the National Council of Churches, have only 2,550 people in 56 congregations, mainly on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

They are the spiritual descendants of one of the most versatile theologians in history, Emanuel Swedenborg (1688-1772).

Swedenborg was a Swedish bishop's son who became a scientist and philosopher as well as a theologian. Among other things, he wrote an algebra textbook, designed docks for shipping, discovered how to find terrestrial longitude by the moon, designed plans for both an airplane and a submarine (which were never carried out due to lack of power), discovered cerebrospinal fluid, discovered the fact that brain motions are synchronized with the lungs rather than the heart, and served for 30 years as King Charles XII's assessor to the Royal College of Mines.

When he turned his attention to theology, Swedenborg was

● THE CITY of Albuquerque has proposed a lottery to raise money without raising taxes. State Sen. Les Houston says he will introduce a bill in the legislature to permit New Mexico cities to institute lotteries that support services to the people. Lotteries are almost as old as mankind. About 20 states already have lotteries, which have met with general approval except from religious fundamentalists and members of organized crime. Arizona, the most recent convert to statewide lottery, is perhaps the most successful in that it allows more people to win more money. In Mexico, the national lottery has supported the nation's welfare programs for many years. Nevada's experience in legalized gambling and legalized prostitution draws little criticism, inside the state or outside.

● YOU CAN bet your dentures there will be stiff opposition to the lottery type of gambling in New Mexico, as if its horseracing pari-mutuel windows have nothing to do with gambling; or that the weekly bingo games at the neighborhood church are only "charitable contributions," or that buying a fistful of "chances" on a new car or a trip to Europe comes under the heading of "investments." There's something hypocritical about a minister who exhorts his congregation on the evils of gambling while his parishioners are working the streets selling lottery tickets, proceeds of which go to the good works of the church.

● NO MATTER how thinly sliced hypocrisy, man is a gambling animal. Has been since the dawn of recorded history. The farmer bets everything he and his family possess on weather and the market, every day of every year of his life. When you cross the street you're betting you make it without getting creamed by a beer truck. Buy an insurance policy and you've bet the mortality rate table is wrong. The businessman is betting he'll stay solvent. The general in the field bets his strategy is right and that his troops won't be wiped out. Order a bowl of cereal and, in a way, you're betting there isn't a cockroach in it. When you awaken in the morning, aren't you betting you'll make it through the day?

● STRANGE, isn't it, that the folks who protest gambling in any form are firm believers in the institution of marriage? The same good folks who abhor gambling love to herd us to the polls in a gamble to decide which of our government officials are the least likely to rob us of our money and our liberty. Voters seldom know what they're going to get when they pull the voting lever. Unlike the lottery, there are few winnings to share and nothing is returned to the "gambler" other than his fair share of the shaft. In Baltimore, MD, there is a law that any service performed by a jackass must be recorded. It does not apply to elected officials.

● GAMBLING IS a way of getting nothing for something and enjoying it. There is no public outcry that taxes are "immoral." There is public outcry that gambling is. I see nothing moral about government providing services to the people with money forcibly extracted from people's pocketbooks under threat of fine or imprisonment — and I see nothing immoral in government paying for those services with money voluntarily surrendered by people through purchase of lottery tickets. No law forces a person to buy a lottery ticket; the law does force people to pay taxes. If a person doesn't want to support government he just doesn't buy a lottery ticket; if a person doesn't want to pay taxes to support government, he's cuffed and led off to Stony Silence. Paying taxes makes people angry and resentful of government; buying lottery tickets brings them pleasure and nourishes their dreams of riches. Dreams are important, especially to the poor. They allow every one of us to be quietly and safely sane every night of our lives. Nothing else does.

● I BELIEVE in legalized gambling. I believe in gambling whether it's legal or not. There is a foolish notion abroad in the land that anyone who gambles leaves his wife and family without food, shelter and television, but the Internal Revenue Service has stripped more food and shelter from wives and family than any deck of marked cards in the hands of an unscrupulous shark.

WHERE IS it written that society has an obligation to enact laws to insure that a fool and his money are never parted? A fool deserves to be shed of his money. Fools shouldn't have money in the first place. Fools are not an endangered species and thus undeserving of society's protection. If a fool cannot be separated from his money, how are the rest of us to survive? According to figures compiled by the Las Vegas (NV) Visitors Bureau, 12 million people swarm into that city each year, stay an average of 3.5 days and drop $3.3 billion at the tables. That means that the odds are 11,778,111 to 1 that a fool and his money are soon parted! A lottery is simply a tax on fools and is to be encouraged. Such gamblers pick only their own pockets, which is better than having them pick the pockets of others.

● IF YOU like to lose your shirt and assorted fixtures at such "moral" gambling spas as Ruidoso Downs, or any other racetrack moral New Mexico has sanctioned as a means of fleecing its own citizens, you are called a "sportsman" and never a gambler. But settle down for a Saturday night game of penny-ante poker with friends and you automatically become a gambler and subject to the hoosegow by the same moral people who bring you pari-mutuel betting and cock-fighting. The principle is, if the state gets a cut of the winnings, it's legal and moral. If the state doesn't get its cut, it's both illegal and immoral. Morality, then, depends on who gets the money. There's no gambling, of course, in Carrizozo, something you might want to remember the next time somebody tries to sell you a chance on a new shotgun or car. I've been here only six months and already I have enough lottery tickets to paper the office — which is located 100 yards from the sheriff's office.

● SAFEST PLACE to gamble is in Tucson, AZ, which in 1973 didn't arrest a single person for gambling. During the same year, 1,356 persons were arrested for gambling in Newark, NJ. Even in Newark, the chances are 270 to 1 against a person being arrested for gambling. If you can't make it to Tucson, try Albuquerque. In the Duke City, the chances of getting busted for gambling is 66,666 to 1 against. This suggests that nobody gambles in Albuquerque. These figures are from the Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling in America, Washington, DC, 1976. Albuquerque is fortunate in having the UNM Lobos, else citizens might be reduced to betting their lunch money on heads or tails, two pair, or who can spit closest to the crack in the sidewalk.

● WE MUST not attempt to discuss a public issue without examining its impact on the Blessed Poor (all bow down). Opponents of a New Mexico lottery are already bleating that a legal lottery would hurt the poor because they would take money they need for necessities and squander it on lottery tickets. The present system is deemed more moral and economically advantageous to the poor — they take their money now and bet it on the Lobos, Dallas Cowboys, Lovelorn across the board in the 5th at Santa Fe Downs, or bet even Cobb never fights Weaver. If this helter-skelter betting could be consolidated into a batch of lottery tickets it would distress a lot of bookies, betting parlor operators, Mafia thugs and numbers racketeers. It wouldn't be as much fun for the poor because the gambling would be legal. On the plus side, the money now going to support thuggery would be diverted to such morally high-toned projects as raises for everybody down at city hall, a statue of Toney Anaya in the park, with some left over for education.

● NOW, LET'S get out there and stop this nonsense about establishing lotteries for cities in New Mexico!

Loans for firms with peso problem

US Senator Harrison "Jack" Schmitt has announced that the Small Business Administration (SBA) has earmarked up to $200 million in loans and loan guarantees for small American businesses adversely impacted by the recent devaluation of the Mexican peso.

Entitled the "Peso Pack," the SBA plans calls for activating more than 400 volunteer counselors for the crisis management assistance program for affected small businesses, and for assigning SBA personnel from its district offices to act as "circuit riders" to take SBA services into smaller cities and communities.

"The program," Schmitt said, "is a timely and appropriate Administration response to the present Mexican monetary crisis and the impacts of that crisis on small businesses in communities near the Mexican border. I'm delighted that the SBA has taken the initiative to help small businesses through what we hope will be only a temporary crisis."

Schmitt said the SBA was able to re-allocate both direct lending and guaranteed lending resources without seeking new funding because high interest rates have held down lending during the current federal budget year.

"This re-allocation means that as much as $200 million can be freed up for use in direct and guaranteed loans for businesses suffering dramatic losses resulting from the sudden devaluation of the peso, which dramatically lowered the purchasing power of Mexican customers of US businesses along the border," Schmitt said.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT J. VENTURA

Clark-Ventura vows are exchanged in Moriarty

In a candlelight service at the Church of Christ, Moriarty, NM, on Aug. 14, at 3:30 p.m., Sherrie Clark became the bride of Robert J. "Bobby" Ventura. Parents of the bride are Charlie and Nida Clark of Moriarty. The bridegroom is the son of Joe and Neva Rae Ventura of Carrizozo. An a cappella choir consisting of friends of the bride and groom, sang a number of selections throughout the wedding ceremony, including: Sweet, Sweet Spirit, Love Story (Where Do I Begin), The Rose, If, Love Me Tender, Wedding Song and A Common Love. The bride sang a special solo, Theme from Ice Castles, to the groom as the ceremony began.

The double ring service was performed by the bride's grandfather, Mr. Elmer Adcock of Texhoma, OK.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of heritage white lace, fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline, a center inset of organza pleats, a chapel length train. Her bridal veil of nylon illusion, tufted to a bridal comb, was bordered with embroidered scalloped white lace. For something old she carried a lace fan, attached to her bridal bouquet of white rosebuds and pastel colored ribbon streamers. Something "new" were here bridal slippers, something borrowed was a pearl necklace, and for something blue, she wore the traditional blue garter.

Kim Oldfield of Grants, NM, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sue Allen of Lubbock, TX, and Mary Ann Clark of Moriarty. All wore formal length dresses of dotted swiss, fashioned with a ruffled bodice and full skirt, and were pastel colors of lavender, yellow and blue. Each carried a bouquet of pastel colored flowers.

Attending the groom as best man was Bryan Wetzel of Carrizozo. Groomsmen were Delvin Clark, brother of the bride, Moriarty, and John Paul Ventura, brother of the groom, Carrizozo. Ushers were Gordon Brown of Carrizozo and Chris Ventura, brother of the groom. The groom wore the traditional white duck-tail tuxedo, and all of his attendants wore silver blake tuxedos, with pastel colored ruffled shirts.

Serving as candlelighters were Talley Banning of Haven, KS, and Carol Clark of Fort Sumner. Both wore formal length dresses of pink dotted swiss to match the bridesmaids. Flower girls were Keri Adcock of Amarillo, TX, and Christi Brown of Carrizozo. Each carried a basket of carnations, and wore formal length dresses of peach organdy, trimmed with white lace. Ring bearers were Aaron Banning of Haven, Kansas, and Jesse Brown of Carrizozo.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length dress of lavender, with gold accessories and a white corsage, and the mother of the groom wore a two-piece, formal length dress of peach, with gold accessories and a peach and white corsage.

A reception was held in the Moriarty Community Center following the ceremony. Serving at the bride's table were Judy Toler, and Molly Harvey. Mary Lee Talley of Carrizozo served at the groom's table. Dana Clark presided at the guest book. The couple left for a honeymoon trip to Walt Disney World in Orlando, FL. Following their return, they will reside in Lubbock, TX, where they are both students at Lubbock Christian College.

A rehearsal dinner was held on Friday night, Aug. 13, at the Stanley Community Center, at which guests were entertained with a musical show by Jerry Reeves and Ty Cobb, both students at Lubbock Christian College and also both of whom are a part of the "Hardtravelers Musical Group" from LCC. Jerry and Ty are friends of Sherrie and Bobby and also sang in the choir for the wedding service.

Out of town guests attending the wedding from Carrizozo included the groom's family, Alton and Mary Lee Talley, Mannie and Mary Hernandez and girls, Max and Pat Saucedo and family, Marina Baca, Rita Narvaez, Don and Charlotte Wall and family, Grown and Charlene Brown and family, Larue Wetzel and Robert Allen, Bill and Mary Ellen Payne, Phillip and Mona Payne, Jovita Torres, Mary Chavez, Wayland and Opal Hill and sons, Eunice McBrayer, Timmy Baum, Benny Zamora, Albert and Belinda Hernandez and son Paul.

neither mystical nor psychic - although he believed that he began to have daily divine visions. He produced new, and at that time unorthodox, views of the Trinity and the doctrine of the Atonement. He also declared that the Day of Judgment took place in 1757.

This and his visions so set him apart from mainstream Christianity that in 1784, his followers originated the Church of the New Jerusalem. This denomination split apart in 1890 in a dispute about whether or not to have bishops and how literally Swedenborg's vast writings were to be taken.

In 1980, the Swedenborgian denomination which belongs to the National Council of Churches (NCC) contributed $1,550. By contrast to this from 2,250 Swedenborgians, the reported 5,500,000 members of the National Baptist Convention, USA, Inc., gave the NCC only $295.

The Swedenborgians have repeatedly refused to endorse ERA - which the NCC's General Board has strongly supported.

"Our denomination has taken positions on very, very few political issues," explains Dr. Kirven, who serves on the NCC's Faith and Order Commission. "We seldom pass position papers on political issues. And we don't believe it's fair to say 'The Church says' when the majority of members can't be present to vote."

When asked about the hundreds of far-leftwing political positions taken by the NCC's governing board (less than 500, mostly ecclesiastical bureaucrats) over the years, Kirven replied: "There are an awful lot of axe-grinders on the Governing Board."

We are proud of the dedicated teachers and other instructors in the public school system. Alma Sherrill and Margaret Lane in their early teaching careers taught in the one-room schools of New Mexico where a wood-burning heating stove and water pail with a dipper were standard equipment.

The basic necessities for getting an education haven't changed although the methods may be some different for acquiring it. In banking the same thing applies, we may be in the age of computers and the methods may have changed, but good sound conservative banking and good customer relations remains the same.

Polly E. Chavez

FORMER RESIDENT

Another former resident visits the ol' home town. Miss Virginia Spence, who resides in Washington, DC, was in Carrizozo last week visiting friends and acquaintances.

THANK YOU

Like many area people, my family also received a note of thanks from cast members of Up With People. The thoughtful young people took time from their busy schedules to jot down the messages. Betsy and Lisbeth thanked us for being good neighbors while they stayed in the Methodist parsonage. Lisbeth of Denmark and her taste buds will not soon forget Carrizozo and the slim bell peppers (chile). Another first for her was the lizard which she first believed to be a baby alligator.

VISIT FRIENDS

Joelyn Pafford and children Brea and Brent were in Las Vegas, NM, this past week. They were guests of State Police Sgt. Dale Housley and his wife, Linda, both former Zozo residents. Dale has been transferred to the Albuquerque district. The Housleys will now reside there.

CLUB NOTE

Glaucoma is an eye disease that may cause blindness. There are four main types of glaucoma. Thanks to the efforts of the Valley of Fires Lioness Club of Carrizozo, the community will soon have a glaucoma testing machine. Proceeds of the sterling silver and turquoise necklace won by Jan Decker, who works at Paul's Place, were used to purchase the equipment.

President Ruth Hawk and her fellow Lionesses are making plans for other projects to generate funds that will be used to benefit the community.

CONGRADULATIONS

The arrival of Brandon Thomson Hollis on Aug. 20 made Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hollis of Carrizozo grandparents for the first time. Brandon, born at Lea Regional Hospital in Hobbs, NM, is the first born of Rick and Jennifer Hollis. Brandon is the great-grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J.N. Hollis of Carrizozo.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thomson of Hobbs.

ATTEND WEDDING

Several Carrizozo people attended an Aug. 28 wedding in Belen. Patsy Vega, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vega of Tome, was married to Jose Jaramillo of Albuquerque. Patsy is a granddaughter of Mariana Vega of Carrizozo.

Attending the wedding from Carrizozo were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Herrera; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vega and son, Ken; Mr. Leandro Vega Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ortiz and daughters, Judi and Tami Ortiz Vega; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vega; and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Franck. A dinner reception was held after the church ceremony, followed by an evening dance.

DANG GOOD PIE

The recipe for "Dang Good Pie" which features coconut and crushed pineapple can be found in the state cowbelle cookbook, "Enchanted Eating." It is one of many dessert recipes in a section called Happy Endings. End of the day for cowboys was supper at the camp, be it where the wagon was, a line camp or the headquarters. Sweets were a part of the meal, even if it was only canned peaches.

Recipes of our local Canyon Cowbelle are included in the delightful cookbook. A member, Fran Gabel of Ancho, shares her recipe for fudge type brownies.

Crown Cowbelle member Betty Ann Bell of Corona submitted a recipe for fudgecicles.

The book has a little of everything—dips, soups, main dishes, salads and bread recipes. The book contains recipes for convenience, old time recipes that have stood the test of decades, tried and proven recipes from the kitchens of New Mexico, cat-tiewomen.

The enchanting cookbook can be found at the Family Pharmacy. I am eager to try out the Pita Bread recipe and the Beer Brisket recipe, which states, "cut meat across grain and serve with beer gravy."

NOSTALGIA

"Enchanted Eating" recipes compiled by New Mexico Cowbelles includes bits of history. Reading some recipes of ethnic groups like the Indian, Spanish and Mexican brought memories of days when my dad, the late Abe Sanchez, impressed relatives and friends with his cooking skills.

When we lived in Nogal I can remember dad's dish of quelites, a native food similar to spinach. Quelites (kay-lee'tays) is the Spanish name for the greens. It is easily recognized by the somewhat silvery cast to the green leaves. It grows wild over most of the country and can be found in orchards and fields.

The Cowbelle cookbook has the recipe for quelites: Saute onions, chile seed and garlic in bacon drippings. Add quelites which have been partly cooked in salt water. Add pinto beans. Serve with hot tortillas.

The Cowbelle cookbook also includes a biscochito recipe similar to the cookies my dad made for the opening of the brand new Lincoln County Municipal Hospital years ago. Half a cup of red wine or brandy is a must. This is for the batter, not the baker. Biscochitos are usually prepared for religious holidays such as Christmas or Easter, but are good any time.

Another of dad's favorite dishes included trepas (gut), sweetbreads, liver, and kidneys. The dish could be made soon after butchering an animal. The Cowbelles have a similar recipe which they call, "Son-of-a-gun Stew."

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

An old-fashioned ice cream social was enjoyed at the Baptist Church last Sunday evening. The event was in honor of Leon and Helen Lock. Helen is retiring this week as administrative aide with Carrizozo schools.

The ice cream social included a sing-a-long, with each family in the church group participating.

ANOTHER GRANDCHILD

O.B. and Dorothy Simmons report that their latest grandchild, born June 30, is catching up on lost time. Elizabeth Focken, who weighed only 4 pounds and 1 ounce at birth, and her mother are doing fine.

She is the daughter of Daniel and Carol Focken of Sebeka, MN. The couple have two other children, Patrick and Rebecca, ages 5 and 3. Carol is the eldest daughter of the Simmons. Carol plans to return to elementary school teaching on Sept. 20. Her husband owns and operates a dairy farm.

ANNUAL EVENT

Capitan and Carrizozo members of Trinity United Methodist Church held their annual barbecue picnic last Monday evening. The event was held at the Valley of Fires Park.

Last Friday the ladies group of the Carrizozo Methodist Church held a bake and rummage sale. Zachary and I rested our weary bodies in the church hall and munched on cupcakes. And that free coffee hit the spot!

ATTENDS ENMU

Mario Ortiz has returned to Roswell after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ortiz, over the Labor Day holiday weekend. Mario, who had been employed in the custodial department at Carrizozo schools, is now taking full courses at Eastern New Mexico University, Roswell branch.

ATTEND FIREMENS' EVENT

Beulah Moore and Ruth Hawk celebrated the Labor Day weekend by attending a dinner, auction and dance at the Red Barn at Cloud Country last Saturday. The benefit event was sponsored by the James Canyon Volunteer Fire Dept. located at Wimsatt. Proceeds of the annual fun doings are for maintaining and stocking the department.

school cafeteria, a meal that included beef patties and hot rolls.

Members enjoyed seeing pictures of the ranch tour and of the prize winning shuttle float at the Lincoln County Fair.

The Crown Cowbelle quilt netted over $267 and was won by Fred Poole of Hondo.

New cookbooks were on display and sell for $9.

Crown Cowbelles' trophy for the Grand Champion Female Beef was won by Sandra Copeland.

Mrs. Ponder reported that the ranch tour ended in the black with a small surplus to start next year. She is again general chairman for the 1983 Lincoln County Ranch Tour which is planned for the Capitan area, and will be co-sponsored by Canyon and Crown Cowbelle chapters.

Members are urged to go by the Cowbelle booth at the State Fair and help out for a couple of hours.

Mrs. Ponder reported on the mid-year meeting at T or C which she attended along with Betty Bloomingburg, Jaunita Sultemeier, Ruth Davis and Stacey Wilson.

The Crown dance is planned for October.

There will be a membership contest with prizes for new members and for bringing back former members.

Crown Cowbelles sponsored a diabetes screening at the County Fair in conjunction with the New Mexico and American Diabetes Assn.

Irma Bryan reported that Alma Proctor, Hobbs, won the $20 beef roast in the Fathers' Day contest at the Corona Trading Co., the cost shared by the Cancillas and Crown CB.

A plaque and card of appreciation has been presented to Dimmitt Bond, Crown Father of the Year.

Honest, I'm not one of those cartoon characters in last week's NEWS. I wouldn't build a fire in a restricted area!

HELEN LOCK was honored Tuesday afternoon at a party hosted by Carrizozo Municipal Schools. She is holding a silver bowl given her by school employees. She retires as administrative aide after 20 years on the job.

to be postponed until 5:30. The device could not be exploded under rainy conditions — rain would increase the danger from radioactive fallout and interfere with observation of the test.

However, the rain stopped about 4 a.m. and at 5:30 the device exploded successfully. To most observers the brilliance of the light from the explosion—watched through dark glasses—overshadowed the shock wave and sound that arrived some seconds later.

Immediately after the test, which greatly exceeded expectations of most of those present, a lead-lined tank went out to explore the site with measuring instruments and to scoop up samples of material from the ground. The tower had virtually disappeared. Only the metal stumps of the tower legs imbedded in concrete remained.

Surrounding the area where the tower had been was a crater about 400 yards in diameter and about eight feet deep. Sand in the crater had been fused by intense heat into a glasslike solid the color of green jade. It was given the name Trinity Site, and the explosion point was named Trinity Site.

Although no information on the test was released until after the atomic bomb had been used as a weapon against the Japanese, people in New Mexico were quite aware that something special had happened early that morning of July 16, 1945. The blinding flash of light, followed by the shock wave made a vivid impression over an area with a radius of at least 160 miles. Glass windows were shattered 120 miles from the site—in Silver City, NM. Residents of Albuquerque saw the flash on the southern horizon and felt the tremor of the shock waves.

The true story came to light less than a month later when the world's second man-made nuclear device was exploded over Hiroshima, Japan, on Aug. 6. President Truman made the announcement which was released by the White House that day. Three days later, Aug. 9, the third atomic bomb devastated the city of Nagasaki, and on Aug. 14 the Japanese surrendered.

Trinity Site was encircled with more than a mile of strong chain-link fencing. Signs were posted on the fence, warning of radioactivity. The site remained off-limits to military and civilian personnel of the missile range and closed to the public.

By 1953 much of the radioactivity at Trinity had subsided. In September about 600 or 700 persons attended the first Trinity Site open house. A few years later a small group from Tularosa visited the site on an anniversary of the explosion to conduct a religious service and pray for peace.

Similar visits have been made annually in recent years, sponsored by the Alamogordo Chamber of Commerce and White Sands Missile Range. But the site remains closed to the public except for these visits. It lies within the impact areas or safety zones for missiles fired into the northern part of White Sands Missile Range.

While the area is dotted with instrument and communication stations, Trinity Site lies remote and silent. Time and weather have taken their toll during the years since Trinity's day of glory, and today few signs of the historic explosion remain to be seen.

Yet, the Atomic Age, conceived in Chicago and nurtured in a new and secret installation at Los Alamos, NM, literally was born in that brief moment at Trinity Site. And the world has not been the same since.

In 1965 Army officials at White Sands Missile Range erected a modest but appropriate monument on Ground Zero. Made of the black lava stones found in the area, this monument serves as a reminder of the momentous event that occurred there. On the monument is a simple inscription: "Trinity Site, Where the World's First Nuclear Device was Exploded on July 16, 1945."

In 1976 during the annual tour a second plaque was added below the first. It designates Trinity Site a National Historic Landmark by the National Park Service of the US Department of the Interior. The plaque reads, "This site possesses national significance in commemorating the history of the USA."

During the 36 years since 1945, White Sands officials have worked to preserve and protect Trinity Site. Recognizing the significance of the Trinity test as the beginning of the Atomic Age, Army officials are pledged to maintain and protect the site for the benefit of the millions of Americans of future generations.

'Sideline Coach of The Week'

This week's Sideline Coach honors for the Texico-Carrizozo game goes to Earl "Pearl" Fenter. Because of Earl's knowledge of the game, he is a perennial choice for this prestigious position. During the football season Earl may not make every game, but his absence is truly appreciated. Earl is brought up to date on every game at the Monday morning meeting of Sideline Coaches. His classic comment, "Why'd he call that play?" will go down in the annals of Sideline Coach history. Earl's experience and knowledge of the game was gained during his early years with the Military, 1917-1967, where he played half-tight. For any information concerning any game, past or future, Earl can be reached at his office located next to the Salad Bar at the Four Winds Restaurant. CAN YOU LIVE ON $200 A DAY
That may limit you to an $80,000 to $100,000 home, 2 cars and a boat, college for the kids, a few Acapulco weekends, and time to enjoy it all. Strangely it seems few people have the appetite for this type of income. Many have the talent, but not the courage or confidence to pursue it. For the sale pro who knows how to work on a straight commission, and values his weekends and evenings, TCI now offers sales positions, selling an intangible with unlimited earning potential. We are also hiring a selling Manager for the State of New Mexico, who should earn in excess of $60,000 his first year. TCI is interviewing now for both positions. Call 1-292-8060 in Albuquerque.
