

Final grant hearing set

Residents can't decide how to spend the money

Carrizozo residents interested in a $350,000 grant for community development have one last chance to speak up at a special meeting this coming Tuesday, Oct. 19. The meeting will be the final hearing in preparation of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant application. The paperwork is due Nov. 8, 1982.

A hearing last Monday, held prior to the town's regular meeting, was conducted by Mayor Harold Garcia. Economic Development Specialist Hubert Quintana of Roswell was unable to lead the hearing because of illness in the family.

Garcia told the people who attended that the town is again eligible to apply for the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. He explained how the program works and how a community with the highest points is selected for grant approval.

Sixty (60) communities are in competition for grants in New Mexico. Only six municipalities were in competition for grants the year Carrizozo applied for and received housing rehabilitation and storm drainage funds used south of the railroad tracks.

Targeting a specific area for improvement helped in obtaining the last grant. This was believed to be discriminative to those who did not understand how the point system works. Out of 52 applicants seeking housing rehab money on the south side, 23 have been assisted. Many who reside in this target area, but were not helped, were at Monday's hearing to find out about the second grant.

Members of the audience who reside in the business side of the community said this section of town has as many dilapidated houses as the "other side of the tracks." Citizens spoke of antiquated plumbing and lack of winter insulation.

The council felt the crowd on hand last Monday was not sufficient to aid them in arriving on a decision on where grant money should be spent if approved a second time. The program needs more exposure and misconceptions need to be cleared.

The council hopes that word-of-mouth, churches and the news media will aid in spreading the word about the special Oct. 19 CDBG hearing.

The council is faced with the decision of determining which section of Carrizozo is in most need of housing rehab assistance or if the application should state that the need is spread throughout the community.

The mayor said residents who cared to attend the upcoming hearing, when Quintana will be present, will aid the council in coming to a decision. Those who will not be able to be at the hearing are urged to contact a trustee or the mayor and express their opinion on the matter.

The $89,984 bid proposal for the patch and chip seal street job was approved. B. C. Glasgow of Roswell was present to explain procedure for proceeding with the job. His firm will furnish plant, labor and materials for the paving project, which is a joint co-op program between the New Mexico State Highway Department and Carrizozo. Streets with extensive disrepair will be improved first.

Ernest Pittillo, representing the Lodger's Tax Committee, gave a report of a meeting held earlier that day. Ruth Armstrong was named treasurer. The committee seeks the ideas of any civic club on how the tax money should be spent.

The council accepted the volunteer help of the men's and women's golf association in keeping the pro shop open on weekends and assisting in watering the greens. The council had officially closed the golf course on Oct. 1. Representatives of the association said that cart and golfing fees will revert to the town.

Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce president W. A. Schlegel told the council he had recently attended a tourism promotion meeting in Roswell.

Eleven cities were represented, Carrizozo the smallest. Schlegel attended on behalf of the chamber's Economic Development Committee (EDC).

In order to participate in a non-profit organization which promotes tourism, the chamber requires a letter from the town of Carrizozo stating that he town officially designates the chamber as promoter of the town. Another requirement is enough funds to accomplish at least two-thirds of the proposed project. The chamber plans to advertise the golf course through newspaper and radio station. Fifty percent of the expenditures will be refunded

White Oaks Music Festival 'a big success'

Howling winds and near-freezing temperatures didn't stop a crowd of more than 1,000 country western music fans from enjoying the White Oaks Annual Country Western Music Festival last weekend.

The featured artist was Rex Allen Jr. and his 90-minute show, supported by the Flying J Wranglers and Timberline Timberline is the New Mexico champion country western band, and has been selected to participate in the "Battle of the Bands" in Nashville, TN.

According to John Elmore, who promoted the event, Fern Sawyer brought about 60 guests to the festival, then took the entertainers to her ranch for a barbecue.

John and Jane Elmore are highly pleased at the first event, as is Bobby Dan Crenshaw, a partner in the venture. Already plans are being made for the second annual festival at White Oaks next year.

"I am very high on this festival," Elmore told the News. "I already have plans for next year and hope to sign Marty Robbins for the star attraction. He's a good friend and one of the best entertainers in the business."

Marty Robbins won the Music City Award and was inducted into the "Country Western Hall of Fame" on national television Monday night.

John and Jane Elmore are no strangers to this area. He once was a "railroader" on the El Paso to Carrizozo run of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad and knows many residents of the area. Their home is in Nashville, Indiana, but spend a lot of time in Nashville, Tennessee, where he manages a couple of song writers. While here, the couple bought 12 acres of land near White Oaks where they plan to build a home and studio.

Elmore is also an artist, and some of his work may be seen at Mary Rich Real Estate office

"With the success of this first venture in White Oaks," Elmore said, "the sky is going to be the limit. Already I have plans for a permanent facility at White Oaks to be called Opera-West. There is no more unique setting for a country western festival than White Oaks. Our plans are to have the finest artists in the nation fighting for a spot on the program at White Oaks."

Entertainers themselves were skeptical of drawing a crowd in such a remote area as White Oaks. They changed their minds. "This is fantastic," is the way Rex Allen expressed himself. "I don't believe it."

Elmore said the performers for the two-day affair were captivated by the setting and the crowd, even though the weather was miserable and cold.

Next year, he said, they will advance the date of the festival perhaps to coincide with the annual Pony Express ride from White Oaks to Capitan, to avoid the possibility of unfavorable weather for the outside performance.

If the Elmores and Bobby Dan Crenshaw have their way, White Oaks will become for country western music what Santa Fe is to opera.

MARINA BACA, Carrizozo High School senior, was crowned Homecoming Queen at the Grizzly-Tatum football game Friday night. Her escort is Bryan Vigil.

'A pig is a hog's little boy'

Pigs have fine qualities; permits are still needed

The agenda at Monday's regular town meeting included a discussion of the attributes of the hog.

"People who see hogs wallowing in mud often consider them dirty and stupid. Hogs keep themselves cleaner than most other farm animals. Hogs are also intelligent animals."

S. B. Boykin, who last week was ordered to remove two hogs from his property, was present at the meeting to inform the council that he had complied with their instructions and that hogs are the "cleanest, smartest animals that exist." He also implied that James E. Freeman, who placed the complaint, has a personal vendetta against him.

Boykin said that because he is a law-abiding citizen he disposed of his hogs, despite his loss. He added that he preferred that to having his "fence cut or the hogs turned out from his land." Apparently, he feared that an irate neighbor would take the law into his own hands.

Freeman and Boykin own land in Highland Addition. According to town hall personnel, Freeman's property is located outside the town limits. Boykin is on 18th Street and inside the limits. Freeman, who lives a quarter of a mile from Boykin, filed the complaint and the council instructed the town clerk to tell Boykin to remove his swine, or be subject to a penalty.

Boykin told the council he owns a few tracts of fenced land in Highland Addition, has an irrigation system, sows alfalfa and wheat. Unconsciously, he bought two pigs to add to his little farm, under the impression that the acre size tracts are different than town lots for keeping of livestock. His comment: "These were city hogs. I just put them in the country." emitted chuckles from the audience.

What Boykin now wanted to know is what he do if he came across a good buy on an animal for his mini-farm. Mayor Harold Garcia said that a permit would settle the matter.

The mayor apologized for hastily issuing Boykin the order last week to remove his pigs. Garcia read the section regarding domestic livestock included in the New Mexico Municipal League model criminal code, which states that no person shall keep any domestic livestock, including, but not limited to, horses, cattle, mules, donkeys, burros, swine, goats, sheep or fowl within the municipality without first applying for and receiving from the Chief of Police a permit to do so.

Trustee Jim Payne questioned what is to keep him or anyone else from penning up a pig next to Citizens State Bank.

"That's a horse of a different color," the mayor stated. Two hogs running free in open land cannot be compared to in-town farming. According to the code manual, livestock should be kept in such a manner as to control offensive odors, insect breeding and any other condition affecting the public health.

In regard to the permits,

Garcia said the sole authority will rely on the council elected officials and not the police department to determine if the livestock in question could be allowed on property within the town limits. The council would decide guidelines on number of animals, type of species and living conditions.

The council set permit cost at $5 a year. The code book states that each species of domestic livestock requires a separate permit.

Man shotgunned in booby-trap

BY LINDA HENSEN
RUIDOSO—A Ruidoso man was shot in the back with a 16-gauge shotgun late Saturday afternoon, when he tampered with a booby-trapped front door at a secluded home on the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation.

According to Lieutenant Mark Chino, supervisory officer for the Bureau of Indian Affairs Police, the victim, 48-year-old Onesimo Prudencio, was blasted by the gun when he touched the front door at the home of Laverne Ybarra. When his unidentified companions heard the shot and saw Prudencio fall from the front porch, they immediately left and went to nearby Ruidoso for help.

Chino said at the time it appeared that the victim had been shot by a person. BIA officers, assisted by personnel from the Ruidoso Police Dept., the Lincoln County Sheriff's Dept., and the New Mexico Highway Patrol surrounded the small yellow house and cautiously removed Prudencio to a waiting ambulance.

Just before dark a combined force of officers entered the structure and determined that it was vacant. Evidence of a booby-trap was discovered at that time. Chino stated that the owner had apparently left for the weekend, set the gun in position, and then placed a handwritten note on the door warning that the house had been booby-trapped.

Prudencio is listed in stable condition at Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital after emergency surgery late Saturday night. "There are no charges pending at this time," Chino said.

Jackson gets 14 years for murder

Richard Eugene Jackson, 31, was sentenced to 14 years in prison last Wednesday for second degree murder in the shooting of Charles Frazier, 29, on July 14.

Judge George Zimmerman, 12th District court, pronounced sentence after Jackson was also found guilty of violation of the Firearms Enhancement Act, Habitual Offenders Act and violation of parole. On the murder charge, Jackson got nine years, four years on habitual offender and one year on the firearms charge—all to run consecutively. Jackson will serve his sentence at the Los Lunas prison.

The shooting occurred in Alamogordo at the home of Ebenezer Taylor. Jackson was arrested shortly afterward.

Chamber elects officers

Woody Schlegel was re-elected president of the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce at its Oct. 12 meeting.

Other officers named were Dennis Sidebottom, vice-president; Patsy Sanchez, secretary; Mignon Sims, treasurer; and Carolyn Cantrell, named to another term as corresponding secretary.

Among objectives endorsed for the coming year is one to advertise and promote the golf course on radio and newspapers and to encourage and provide assistance for grant applications to bring new funds into Carrizozo.

The Chamber is examining a financial report submitted by a prospective new business for Carrizozo, and will be discussing the possibility of a UDAG (Urban Development Action Grant) loan for another new business in the town.

The Chamber also embarked on its fall drive for membership renewals and solicitation of new members.

Guitarist entertains students

Scott Gerber, a guitarist with the National Schools Assembly, presented a Country Music Show Tuesday, Oct. 12, in the old gym of Carrizozo High School.

Gerber comes from an "orchard town" in California called Sebastopol. He has had experience as a ranch and field hand. He has been playing with the NHS for approximately 1 month, and has played the guitar "seriously" for eight years. He has written several of his own songs, and presented two of them at the assembly. He has even cut one record which sold a thousand copies.

"I'm not out to make a big killing on this," said Gerber, "but it's fun to play your own songs."

Besides playing guitar, Gerber does rope tricks in the style of Roy Rogers. Among the tricks he did at the assembly were the "Wedding Ring" and "Butterfly." — Geneva Maxwell

The Little Red Hen

(Editor's Note: Remember "The Little Red Hen" story of your childhood? Well, the following is an edited version to fit life as it is today.)

Once upon a time there was a little red hen who scratched about the barnyard until she uncovered some grains of wheat. She called her neighbors and said, "If we plant this wheat, we shall have bread to eat. Who will help me plant it?"

"Not I," said the pig.
"Not I," said the cow.
"Not I," said the duck.
"Not I," said the goose.
"Then I will," said the little red hen.
And she did. The wheat grew tall and ripened into golden grain.

"Who will help me reap my wheat?" asked the little red hen.
"Not I," said the duck.
"That's not my responsibility," said the pig.
"I'd lose my seniority," said the cow.
"I'd lose my unemployment compensation," said the goose.
"Then I will," said the little red hen, and she did.
At last it came time to bake the bread. She asked, "Who will help me bake my bread?"

"That would be overtime for me," said the duck.
"I'd lose my welfare benefits," said the cow.
"I'm a dropout and never learned how," said the pig.
"If I'm to be the only help, that's discrimination," said the goose.
"Then I will," said the little red hen.

She baked five loaves, and her neighbors all wanted some. In fact, they demanded a share. But the little red hen said, "No, these loaves are the result of my hard work. Each of you had the opportunity to earn a share and you turned it down."

"Excess profits," cried the goose.
"Capitalist leech," screamed the duck.
"I demand equal rights!" yelled the cow.
And the pig said, "I'll report you."

They painted picket signs and marched round and round the little red hen, shouting obscenities. When the government agent arrived he said to the little red hen,
"You must not be greedy."
"But I earned the bread," said the little red hen.
"Exactly," said the agent. "That is the wonderful free enterprise system. Anyone in the barnyard can earn as much as he wants. But under our modern government regulations, the productive workers must divide their products with the idle." And they lived happily ever after, including the little red hen, who smiled and clucked, "I am grateful. I am grateful." But her neighbors wondered why she never baked any more bread.

'Anaya doesn't listen'

EDITOR—I believe that local control of public education is in danger, under the auspices of Toney Anaya.

Anaya wants to govern through the whims of Toney Anaya in a grab for power over education by advocating an APPOINTED State Board of Education over the present system of an ELECTED state board. He would centralize the control of public education in the office of the governor, through the political pay-off process, thus destroying the electoral system. This could only result in a stranglehold on the education system with a decline in quality education for New Mexico's children.

This dangerous scheme would undermine local control and destroy the continuity and responsibility of board members, who would be replaced with each successive governor. It would take away the right to vote from the citizens of New Mexico!

In 1958, the people of New Mexico expressed their wishes and changed the State Board of Education from an appointed board to an elected board. In 1969, there was a constitutional amendment to change the board from an elected to an appointed board and the proposal was defeated. In 1976, another constitutional amendment was defeated on this same issue by a two-to-one margin, indicating that the people of this state have expressed their support for an elected board three times in twenty-five years! This is a mighty strong message from the people!

Yet, Toney Anaya would subvert the wishes of the people!

MILLIE POGNA,
Secretary, State Board of Education, Albuquerque.

EDITOR—Last Friday night some Carrizozo students or fans broke the windshield of the Tatum High School activity bus with rocks.

The Carrizozo Schools will pay for the repair of the Tatum bus. The repair bill will be costly and we will have to use money earmarked for the student activity fund to pay this bill. All of our students will suffer a little for the actions of a few conscienceless vandals.

If you have any information that will help us determine who did this damage, please contact me at 648-2401. It is very unfair for our children to have their activity program curtailed in any way by a criminal element that has no regard for people or property.

One way or another, we will repair the physical damage done last Friday. What we cannot repair is the damage done to our town's reputation for friendliness, hospitality and sportsmanship.

"I voted against the civil rights bill (of 1964) for one reason... and that was they said you have to rent your home to anyone. I don't buy that... I think the right of property is one of the most sacred rights that we have. You try to tell me I have to rent my house to a drunken Irishman or a Communist, I'm going to tell you to go to hell.—Sen. Barry Goldwater, interview, Aug. 3, 1961.

up concerning the livestock now residing within the town limits, some only blocks away from Central Street. Garcia believes that the complaint of another citizen should be followed to the "letter of the law". (Town attorney Don Wall was absent at Monday's meeting.)

The council decided that no permit was needed if no complaint was made. The council will deal with each complaint as it "shows up."

Trustee Bobby Dan Crenshaw stated that all ordinances should be enforced. He believes cars junked in yards are far more offensive than pigs. (Boykin said Crenshaw had sold him the pigs and could testify that the animals did not stink.)

efforts — in attaching these two bills as amendments to a debt ceiling amendment essential to pay federal salaries — evoked the unlikely phenomenon of liberal senators utilizing that allegedly Southern conservative weapon called the filibuster.

Not only does this defeat indicate the lack of invincibility of such New Right groups as the National Conservative Political Action Committee ("Nickpack") but this has given an enormous stimulus to the reelection chances of ultraliberal maverick Republican Lowell Weicker in Connecticut.

Senators Helms and Dominici might do well to consider the intriguing proposal of UPI's Dick West, that the issues of prayer and abortion be combined, so that in the schools everyone can pray that no student gets pregnant.

Editorial Comment

No on Amendment No. 1

In November, New Mexico voters will be asked to amend the state constitution through proposed Amendment No. 1.

This amendment would provide for the appointment of judges of the Supreme Court, Court of Appeals and District Courts by the governor rather than by election by the people.

The theory is that the governor is better qualified to appoint judges than voters are to elect them. The plain truth is, judges appointed by the governor are beholden to the governor, while judges elected by the people are beholden to the people.

Once a judge has been appointed by the governor, it is all but impossible to remove him. The Amendment No. 1 plan provides that the voters can only approve or disapprove of the governor's appointee. If they disapprove, the governor will just appoint a different judge of his choice, leaving voters without any recourse but to continually accept what appointments to the bench the governor makes. Once in place, Amendment No. 1 could probably never be repealed, and the possibility for judicial corruption is certain.

Several states have adopted systems making judges appointive by the governor. All have regretted it, and most have failed to get rid of it. Such a system prevails in California, where Gov. Jerry Brown has appointed a left-wing nut named Rose Bird to be Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court. Her outrages has resulted in an initiative on the November ballot to oust her from office.

New Mexico voters do not have the power of initiative, and their chances of ridding themselves of a bad judge would be made all but impossible by placing the appointive power in the governor's hands.

Wise voters will not fall for this ploy to make the state judicial system a political football, responsible only to the will of the governor.

New Mexico in Washington

US troops in Lebanon paid millions to do nothing

BY LESTER KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — As chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, New Mexico's Sen. Pete Domenici has been well aware of President Reagan's announced dedication to eliminating all possible waste in federal spending.

Yet Domenici, as well as the Reagan Administration, have defended the spending of $3,000,000 per month as the US share of the cost of the 7,000-man United Nations Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL).

When Domenici's office was asked about this expenditure, the senator dictated this explanation: "The UN Force is a peacekeeping force. It is not an army but an international police force. It was brought into a region with no stability so that peace could be restored. We sent our forces in when the situation got out of hand to support the police force and bring peace to the region. We should continue their support until peace is restored in Lebanon."

How has this $3 million-a-month UNIFIL force functioned so that "peace could be restored," as Domenici describes it?

Spokesmen at the State Department and at the UN admit that:

UNIFIL did nothing to stop the PLO from firing Katyusha rockets over the demilitarized zone into Galilee.

The multi-national troops, at the time of the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, were ordered to "resist wherever possible without endangering your safety." (It would be difficult to imagine this kind of order given to any soldiers. But UNIFIL has no air force, armor or artillery. This in turn begs the question as to why the UN sends soldiers instead of ushers.)

One contingent of UNIFIL, soldiers from Nepal, refused to evacuate a bridge at the arrival of Israeli tanks. The Israelis obligingly built a nearby pontoon bridge and went on their way.

Yet the US taxpayer is obliged by Congressmen like Domenici and by the White House to pay $3 million a month for this useless UN military contingent.

The Senator from New Mexico was not available for follow-up questions on this expenditure.

At the White House, Deputy News Secretary Larry Speakes, when asked about this $3 million-a-month, answered:

"They perform a very useful function."

When asked what useful function they perform, Speakes replied: "Very."

Then he called for another question.

Inside Religion

School prayer finally voted down by senate

BY LESTER KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — Two of the top priority legislative goals of the New Right — abortion prohibition and prayer in public schools — have been buried by the Republican-controlled US Senate.

Both of New Mexico's Republican senators voted against tabling the prayer bill, which they had supported through four efforts to obtain cloture (cut off debate) of a liberal Republican filibuster conducted by Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut.

Sen. Pete Domenici neither issued any statement nor was he available for comment following tabling of the prayer bill, as was the case one week previously when he voted against tabling the abortion prohibition bill.

Sen. Harrison Schmitt, however, issued statements regarding both issues. Regarding the prayer bill:

"I supported Sen. Helms' (R., NC) proposal as a temporary solution. Coming to grips with a permanent solution may require a constitutional amendment."

On the issue of prayer in public schools, Schmitt's statement noted: "I am committed to placing the decision on voluntary prayer in the hands of the individual without discriminating against any other individual. This is consistent with my general policy of reducing federal interference in the lives of American citizens."

Just how the individual can pray aloud in public school classes without disturbing anyone else who may not share his theological viewpoint was not explained in this statement, issued as the Senator was racing to the airport. But this column is looking forward to our next interview for clarification.

President Reagan dutifully (that is, in accordance with his campaign promises) supported both of these disasterous bills. But their leading sponsor, Sen. Helms, commented: "I don't know of a single vote the White House obtained for us on the school prayer or abortion issues."

Significantly, these two absolutely no-win issues (in which legislators invariably make bitter enemies no matter how they vote) were put to sleep by tabling motions introduced by conservative Republicans: Sen. S. I. Hayakawa of California on the abortion bill, and Arizona's "Mr. Conservative," Barry Goldwater, on the prayer bill.

Helms told reporters that while he had done his best, he would abandon any further efforts on these two issues, at least for the remainder of this year. His wily EDWIN POPE writes for Knight-Ridder Newspapers. A remarkable commentary written by him appeared in the Sept. 25 issue of the Albuquerque Journal. You may have missed it and its wisdom. Pope opens his report with two short paragraphs, as follows: "I assume, perhaps naively, that in our free-enterprise system a man should be worth a large part of the profit he brings into a business." While you apply truth and logic to that nonsense, proceed to the next pearl: "I further assume that any private entrepreneur who asks public support but refuses to divulge the financial details of his business has something to hide." A synonym of assume is fraud, the latter being more appropriate here. Both assumptions are incompatible with the theory and practice of the free enterprise system.

IN A free enterprise system a man is worth only what he produces. Should one man produce more than the next one, he is paid more than the other. Where all workers are paid the same wage regardless of their capacity to produce, free enterprise does not exist. The business of business is to make profit. There is no such thing as "obscene profits." Profits are not evil, but producing a loss certainly is. Profit derives from creating goods and services and selling them for what the public is willing to pay. Has anyone begrudged The Beatles their $200 million for supplying noise and obscene gyrations for which the public gladly pays? No. But United Auto Workers have demanded that Chrysler pay them every cent of the $70 million the company earned last year (the first year in 10 the company hasn't registered a loss), with nothing to go to stockholders who furnished the capital, the tools and management.

WORKERS ARE quick to point out that they, somehow, are entitled to share in a company's profits—in addition to their wages—but never have I heard of workers willing to share in the company's losses.

I HAVE this satisfying vision of Mr. Pope walking into the office of the president of Knight-Ridder Newspapers and demanding to see the corporation's books. He explains that he wishes to see how much profit the chain is making in order to determine his rightful share if it. He warns the president that if he is refused his "right" to audit the company financial records, it means the company has something to hide. Shortly after, Mr. Pope is flung out of the office on his socialist backside. He is also relieved of his $50,000 a year salary, his $10,000 travel and expense account, use of the company car, key to the executive club, paid vacation, retirement benefits, health and medical service for him and his family, his company-paid life insurance policy, the press card which permits him to badger police, caddy drinks and impress women; stock options and bonuses for such clever writing as above cited. Now Mr. Pope is beginning to understand what the free enterprise system is all about: you earn your money, permit management to earn theirs, and not begrudge that some of the profit be returned in dividends to those who provide the capital to establish and maintain the business.

AS FOR Pope's second asininity, no private entrepreneur has any obligation, morally or legally, to divulge his financial details unless the company's stock is being offered to the general public or unless it is a publicly-owned corporation. This newspaper depends on public support, but an advertiser or subscriber who barges in to demand an inspection of our books is going to be shown the door, not because there is anything to hide but because it's none of his damned business.

I JUST may be the only person who doesn't believe this country has an unemployment problem. Many of our citizens are not working from choice. Others don't work because they can't find the type of job they prefer. We have auto workers who stay unemployed because they don't want to lay bricks and air controllers who stay unemployed because selling insurance or tending a factory machine is beneath their dignity. Others will go to work as soon as their unemployment benefits expire. There is nothing wrong with the job market when daily newspapers regularly carry from 6 to 10 pages of "help wanted" ads. There is nothing wrong with the job market when 300,000 kids are out of school because teachers won't work for the wages they agreed to work for in the first place; when UAW workers at Chrysler voluntarily quit their jobs rather than work for $14 an hour, $2 less than is being paid by Ford and GM; when International Harvester, with sales of $2 billion a year, goes bankrupt because workers wanted not only their wages but management's too; when people would rather be unemployed in their hometown rather than move where the jobs are; when a million illegal aliens find work in this country doing the type of jobs US citizens don't want to do; and when the government requires every person be paid $3.35 an hour minimum wage for work that isn't worth 50 cents an hour. This law has idled almost all teenagers who are not skilled enough to perform tasks other than menial ones, and nobody is his right mind is going to pay $3.35 an hour for a two-bit lawn-mowing job. So the grass goes uncut.

THERE IS nothing wrong with the unemployment end of the economy when this newspaper must try for three months to buy a copy pencil, and finally finds one made in West Germany because nobody in this country wants to make one.

THERE IS nothing wrong with an economy in which people have enough money to permit the average major league baseball players to draw $250,000 a year for playing a kid's game. Or when the average NFL football player gets $83,000 a year, and are now striking because that's not enough—they want the owners' share too. There is nothing wrong with the economy when teenage children can tool up and down the streets of any town, day and night, in $10,000 vehicles burning $1.40 a gallon gas. There is nothing wrong with an economy which can spend $2 trillion dollars since 1946 to bring the blessings of insolvency to foreign countries. And there's nothing wrong with New Mexico economy when prisoners in the state penitentiary must be recruited at from $4 to $5.75 an hour to clean up the grounds at the New Mexico State Fair, work honest men scorn.

AMERICANS love to view with alarm, which they are joyously doing with news that unemployment has now reached 10.1 percent. I hate to take away the fun, but doesn't that figure also prove that 89.9 percent of all Americans are employed? Any way you apply it, 89.9 percent of anything is "overwhelming." So we are "overwhelmingly" employed.

California Visitor

Former Carrizozo resident Fred LaFave was in town to visit with his mother, Bertha LaFave, and three brothers, David, Raymond, and Albert, and friends, Fred, who was here for three days, is a project manager for a cable TV company in Downy, CA.

You're Invited

The Arts and Crafts Club will host a covered dish luncheon at noon Monday, Oct. 18, at the Medallion Room in the REA building. The club encourages people who are interested in exchanging ideas and making items to attend the luncheon as guests. They will display some of the arts and crafts that they have made or plan to make in the future.

Last Monday the group met to construct clothes pin rocking chairs. The miniature chairs are also pin cushions. Hostess for the afternoon was Dorothy Current, who served refreshments.

For more details about the club or luncheon call club president Dollie Ward, 648-2320 or secretary-treasurer Erlena Tubbs, 648-2294.

Keep In Mind

The bookmobile makes stops Oct. 19 and 20 in Hondo, Lincoln, Capitan, Carrizozo and Fort Stanton. In Carrizozo the traveling library parks in front of the REA building. Oct. 19 the bookmobile is there at 3:30 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. Next day it opens for business again at 8 a.m. until 10 a.m. The friendly staff will show you where to find your type of books or track them down for you.

Award Winning Recipe

Lisa Hightower, a 5th grader in Carrizozo, recently treated her classmates and teacher, Mr.

Vitany, with brownies made from a recipe which placed first in the Lincoln County Fair and selected for the New Mexico State Fair. The brownie recipe was Lisa's entry and it came in third in the state contest.

Lisa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hightower of Ancho. She has three younger sisters Cheryl, Katie and Mollie, who gobble up Lisa's brownies as fast as she makes them. Lisa shares her ribbon winning recipe with column readers:

Lisa's Brownies

Ingredients are 2 squares unsweetened chocolate (2 oz.); 1/2 cup shortening; 1 cup sugar; 3 eggs; 1 teaspoon vanilla; three-fourths cup sifted flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1 cup chopped nuts.

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Melt chocolate and shortening together in oven proof mixing bowl in oven. Cool bowl slightly. Beat in sugar. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in vanilla. Sift flour once, measure and sift again with baking power and salt. Add flour mixture to chocolate mixture in bowl. Stir in chopped nuts. Pour into greased 9 x 9 pan and bake for 30 minutes. Note: Add 3 level tablespoons flour in high altitude areas (like Carrizozo), making the total flour needed three-fourth cup plus 3 level tablespoons.

Got It Down

On Oct. 19 the town council and community development expert, Hubert Quintana of Roswell, will be at the town hall to meet with interested residents to discuss community needs in preparation of a $350,000 grant application. What does Carrizozo need? Better housing? More parks? Where? How? Who? When? These and other questions will be answered at the evening meeting which begins at 6 p.m.

Although there are some who may not be interested in getting a helping hand (money wise) when it comes to housing rehabilitation or improvements, they should still make an effort to attend another special town meeting this coming Tuesday. The improvements to the house next door or a new neighborhood facility makes the value of your property go up.

The town does not have the grant as yet, but the input of many residents instead of a few could make things happen.

Last Laugh

A man noticed the basement of his home was filled with smoke. He quickly called the fire department.

"My house is on fire!" the man cried "Please hurry!"

"How do we get there?" asked the fireman on the other end of the line.

"Don't you still have those red trucks?" the man asked. -- Boys' Life.

OOPS! A pass slips through Grizzly Tim Vega's hands in the third quarter of the Grizzly-Tatum game.

WITH THE score 16-7 in favor of the Coyotes, Joseph Candelaria grabs this pass to put the game on ice for the Coyotes, 22-7.

Coyotes 22, Grizzlies 7

'They weren't playing football they were playing Homecoming'

It rained Coyotes all over Carrizozo's Homecoming Friday night, with Tatum humbling the Carrizozo Grizzlies, 22-7.

The biggest Coyote of all was Larry Hilliard, who carried the ball 35 times for 135 yards and two touchdowns.

Tatum scored 2 points on a safety early in the first quarter. Hilliard scored from the 3 yard line in the first quarter and again from the 1 yard line in the fourth quarter. Randy Zuratt passed to Murry West and a conversion pass posted the last of Tatum's points.

The Grizzlies points came in the third quarter when Quarterback John Roueche ran 55 yards for the TD, with Clarence Beltran kicking the extra point.

Coach Jerry Koller was bitter about his team's performance, and charged they were playing their own game, "more concerned with Homecoming than playing football." He threatened to throw seniors off the team and play with freshmen, sophomores and juniors unless their attitude changed.

Statistically, the Grizzlies didn't look that bad. They had 232 yards rushing to Tatum's 188; but suffered in the air. Coyote quarterback Randy Zuratt passed for 8 of 17 for 106 yards; the Grizzlies were 2 out of 12 for 47 yards.

Brian Vigil was the leading rusher for the Grizzlies with 101 yards on 11 carries. In the penalty box, the teams broke even, each with five penalties for 40 yards. Carrizozo had three turnovers, Tatum one.

The Grizzlies go to Mountainair Friday, Oct. 15, for a night game beginning at 7:30 o'clock. "This time," Koller said, "they (his team) are going to do it the coaches' way or no way at all."

The Grizzlies defeated Mountainair last year. Koller expects to repeat

Boxing meet for area's amateurs

The Las Piedras Boxing Team of Ruidoso will host a boxing meet Saturday night, Oct. 16, 7 p.m., at Ruidoso High School.

The boxing will be sanctioned by the USA-ABF and will feature top amateur boxers in New Mexico.

There will be no entries in the meet from Carrizozo. Nat Chavez, boxing coach, has not begun training local boxers. Besides, the boxing ring has been loaned to Randall "Tex" Cobb who is using it to train in Ruidoso. He will probably use the ring until mid-November, training for his upcoming bout with heavyweight Larry Holmes.

Proceeds of the tournament go to Las Piedras Boxing Club to promote amateur boxing.

JVs lose to Tularosa

Saturday, Oct. 9, the JV Grizzlies lost to Tularosa, 25-8.

Dominic Vega scored a touchdown on a run of 17 yards for the Grizzlies. Stevie Stearns then ran into the end zone for the two point conversion. Asst. Coach Pat Ventura was pleased with quarterback Kenneth Crenshaw, stating he read the defense well and although he was under pressure, "he didn't choke."

Ventura said the Grizzlies were unprepared. "We didn't start playing till the second half," he said.

The JV team will travel to Moriarty, Saturday, Oct. 16. Game time is 2 p.m.

'Sideline Coach of The Week'

Sideline Coach honors for the Tatum-Zozo Homecoming game go to Father David Bergs.

Father Dave was not selected particularly for his play calling, but rather for the explicit manner in which he delivers the pre-game invocation. Father Dave's real athletic ability lies in Bingo; however, with a little practice his sideline coaching could be second to a nun. Father Dave was a mite confused by the Zozo offense. As the quarter-back called out B24 or B36, Father Dave stared in disbelief.

It was explained to him that these were audible calls at line of scrimmage and not Bingo calls, as neither appear on a Bingo card.

Candidates profit from newspaper endorsements

A New Mexico State University social scientist says that 65 percent of the winning candidates in next month's national election will be endorsed by their state's leading newspapers to win office.

Dr. J. Sean McCleneghan, head of the department of journalism and mass communications, backs up his prediction after recently investigating the media and New Mexico city elections from 1981-82.

His research was sponsored by a $1,000 grant from the College of Arts and Sciences Research Center.

McCleneghan's findings include the following:

—Winning candidates usually received the endorsement of their city newspaper.

—Winning candidates usually outspent their opponents in newspaper and TV advertising.

—Winning candidates were benefactors of record-breaking voter turnouts in New Mexico city elections between 1981-82.

The researcher studied the media and city elections in Albuquerque, Artesia, Carlsbad, Clovis, Farmington, Hobbs, Las Cruces, Portales, Espanola, Roswell, Ruidoso, Santa Fe, Socorro and Taos.

"Make no mistake about the power of the community press in New Mexico," McCleneghan said. "because without the local newspaper's endorsement a candidate for mayor or city council is going to have a difficult time winning office."

The educator said the "community journalism" is extremely strong in New Mexico where there are few commercial TV stations. "The small daily or weekly newspaper can have a tremendous amount of influence on a community when a local election takes place because the person who subscribes to the newspaper is usually one of the few who will take the time out to vote," McCleneghan said.

He said that candidates who have the money to mount a media blitz against less fortunate candidates also stand a better chance of winning city office. But he also pointed out that television's advertising dollar and news coverage impact was minimal in New Mexico city elections except for Albuquerque.

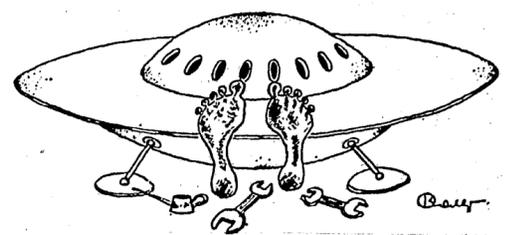

"The 1981 mayoral race between mayor-elect Harry Kinney and Gordon Sanders was a typical TV advertising dogfight in this state's largest metro area. Mr. Kinney had a larger war chest and used it almost exclusively for TV advertising despite the fact that Mr. Sanders was a former TV personality," McCleneghan explained.

Although radio was not studied in the investigation, McCleneghan thinks radio takes a tremendous bite out of the political advertising budget in New Mexico city election campaigning. In New Mexico, there are 95 commercial radio stations versus six TV commercial stations with fulltime news staff.

"What normally would be going to TV advertising is really going into radio advertising except for the Albuquerque metro area where local TV commercial advertising is more powerful in reaching a larger share of urban voters," he said.

The educator completed the same type of investigation in Texas four years ago studying TV and newspaper coverage in 23 city elections. In the Texas study, the candidate's image and campaign spending correlated positively to give the winning edge to mayoral and city council candidates.

if the chamber meets guidelines to join the promotion organization.

The council set 10 p.m. as curfew for juveniles, with the warning whistle at 9:30 p.m. Exceptions will be made for school functions.

Approval was given to Officer Dave Vermillion to attend a seminar next month at the state's academy. The 5-day course on investigation will cost $70 to $90. The mayor said that the need for qualified investigative techniques is "sorely needed" in Carrizozo. He said some local people are not impressed with the lack of the effectiveness and thoroughness of town police investigation methods.

The mayor announced the council will meet in closed session regarding a pending suit. He will schedule a time with town attorney Don Wall. A town employee was involved in an incident following a football game. The council will discuss options in dealing with the situation.

Town hall employee Albert LaFave will attend a seminar sponsored by the Motor Vehicle Division. The agenda will include presentations covering vehicle registration and titling, driver's licensing, reporting changes, re-registration and penalty assessments.

PTA member Joelyn Pafford requested that the mayor proclaim Oct. 30 as Halloween night. Oct. 31 is the official date of the holiday. The mayor approved the request. The PTA is sponsoring a carnival on Sunday, Oct. 30, at the school.

Altrusa Club organizing

The Altrusa Club of Ruidoso is organizing an Altrusa Club in the Lincoln-Capitan area, and will be holding an orientation meeting Monday evening, Oct. 18, 7 p.m., at the Lincoln Fire House.

Altrusa is an international business and professional organization for women. Anyone interested may contact Coni Foster, 257-7361 days or 336-4710 evenings; or Kathy Barnett, 257-9346 days, 257-7810 evenings.

Elders Michael McGill from Caldwell, Idaho, (right) and Steven Turner of Holladay, Utah, have recently been assigned to the Ruidoso, Capitan and Carrizozo area as missionaries for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons). The young men are part of a larger group of over 25,000 lay missionaries that interrupt their schooling or work to serve on 18-month missions for the church. The elders will work in Ruidoso and vicinity for four to six months when they will be transferred and replaced by others. Elders Turner and McGill have a Family Week Celebration, that will include activities for the entire community, planned for the near future. For further information call 257-2968.
