$35 million mini-steel mill may locate here

Carrizozo is the first choice in New Mexico for location of a $35 million mini-steel mill, a group of citizens were told Wednesday noon at a luncheon at the Four Winds Restaurant.

Zia Steel Company President Edward Bottinelli of Dallas told local businessmen and officials that his corporation's first ingot mill will be located in either Carrizozo or Socorro. Judge Billy G. Payne, attorney for the company, said Carrizozo has the "first shot" at selling its merits to the new steel producing company.

Bottinelli met with local leaders at a luncheon hosted by Payne and Mary R. Adams, president of Chamari, Inc., a building and development company.

Zia has a contract to purchase a $35 million mini-mill now located in Arizona, which will be moved to either Carrizozo or Socorro later. These two towns are selected as sites, Bottinelli said, because of the location of the New Mexico corporation's iron deposits in the neighboring Chupadero Mountains and proximity of rail services.

While steel companies in the East are suffering a slump, mini-steel mills are in great demand, Bottinelli said. "Efficient production creates steel tonnage at about half the cost of the big steel companies," he said. The steel producer expects to retail ingots at $285 a ton, and the corporation already has an established buyer in Mexico that will take all of its estimated output of 75,000 tons the first year. South-west users of the high quality product will also be sought, Bottinelli said.

The rich source of high quality iron has been developed by Zia working with a team of geologists and mining experts headed by Dr. Clay Smith of the Institute of Mining & Technology in Socorro. Bottinelli also has the assistance of New Mexico's Department of Economic Development and the Governor's office in mapping the project development.

Zia Steel will ask the blessings of the Town of Carrizozo on a $10 million industrial bond to move the steel mill and get it into operation. The bond issue already has a private placement through a California underwriter.

The tax-exempt bonds involve no financial liability on the part of the town that authorizes their issuance, Payne explained. The federal legislation permitting the favorable tax-free status of industrial bonds was passed to assist communities in attracting new industries, Payne explained, and their use in this instance is "a perfect example of the intent of the Congress."

An immediate 66 new jobs will be created by the mill, Bottinelli said. While some top technologists will be brought in, local and area work forces will be offered employment and job training. A program to locate residents who have moved away because of lack of jobs will be offered to the Chamber of Commerce by the company.

Norman G. Bishop, former superintendent of pelletizing and direct reduction operations, will act as consultant to the Zia operation in the initial stages, and will supervise training of new employees. Bishop is presently a consultant to CF&I, one of the major steel industries in the United States.

Carrizozo had an opportunity last year to secure this mill, but did not agree to approve a bond issue for Bottinelli because of a lack of evidence that the corporation was ready and able to produce steel. Regardless of that, Bottinelli told the group, he is prepared to make his offer again.

His plans for construction of the mill are nearly complete and the financing has been arranged. His willingness to continue consideration of Carrizozo as a site is because of the property his corporation owns in the area, an association with the town since 1977, and his friendship with several business associates who have encouraged his efforts.

Bottinelli is a business man and engineer who has spent 25 years in the mini-steel mill business. He was responsible for establishment of early mini-steel mills in Ecuador, Australia and Thailand; and feasibility studies of them in Alaska, Hawaii and a number of locations in mainland US. He was a project engineer for Texaco in South America in 1965, when he became acquainted with Dr. Byron Larson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who interested him in the concept of the mini-mill.

Contractor for the proposed installation is W. L. Sherwood, a professional engineer and president of Sherwood Engineering, Ltd., of Vancouver, Canada. Sherwood has been [Continued on P. 8]

Town meeting

UDAG project advancing; airport, pool need funds

By P. E. CHAVEZ

The State Planning Division has notified the town that its offices have received the Urban Development Action Grant application for the Four Winds Motel project. The town now awaits word from Dallas, TX, headquarters of the US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which has the final word on the project.

Meanwhile, Thomas W. Merlin, officer with the State Historic Preservation Bureau, informed the town meeting

Thursday night that his department has reviewed the UDAG application and that no properties entered in or determined eligible for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places are presently known to exist in the immediate vicinity of the proposed project.

The bureau believes it is highly unlikely that any significant archeological resources will occur at or near this location and that the UDAG project will have no effect on any significant cultural resources.

He advised that alternatives to the plans for the project will require further review. He added that buried "archeological manifestations" may be uncovered by construction activities. Artifacts should be protected in place and the bureau notified immediately of the find.

UDAG applicants Albert Romero and James Silva informed the council that they are aware that the success of any business venture is dependent on professional management. In order to provide assurance of this, Romero and Silva have engaged the services of Pete Campos and Harrold H. Adams to oversee and supervise the motel operations. Romero and Silva hope that this action will assure the town and Citizens State Bank of Carrizozo of their commitment to a professional and efficient endeavor.

The Campos family has operated a successful motel and restaurant business for more than 30 years in Santa Rosa, NM. The business caters to travelers using Interstate 40 and State Highways 54 and 84. Campos' father owns Adobe Inn Restaurant and his uncle owns the Adobe Inn Best Western Motel.

Adams is an Albuquerque certified public accountant, with 30 years of governmental business and private accounting experience. His services will be used by the proposed motel to develop accounting systems for the receipts and expenditures during the construction period as well as later for day-to-day operations of the motel. Financial policies and procedures will be reviewed by Adams, who will make suggestions to strengthen internal controls.

Lorenzo Gariby, project director of Mexican American

Research Center, Inc. (MARC) of Austin, TX, has invited Mayor Harold Garcia and members of his staff to participate in a UDAG workshop on March 22-24 at Las Cruces.

This training session is part of MARC's UDAG technical assistance program funded by HUD. The workshop is designed to provide information necessary for city staff to initiate and develop UDAG projects.

The session will consist of a review of program guidelines and application procedures, an introduction to the financial analysis supporting a development project, and a review of commercial and industrial projects using a case study approach.

The US Senate Budget Committee will be having field hearings in Roswell on March 31. Sen. Pete Domenici, who has worked with Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SNMEDD) in regard to identifying some of the problems and needs of southeastern New Mexico, will be at the hearings.

Nick J. Pappas, executive director of SNMEDD, informed Mayor Garcia that he (Garcia) has been invited to testify and would be among those asked to make a presentation at the hearings.

The hearing is designed to gather information on "infrastructure" needs in southeastern New Mexico. Infrastructure is the newest buzzword in Washington and elsewhere in the network of public works and facilities.

Infrastructure is the life support system of a town or region. It includes the roads, railroads, water supply and distribution lines, sewer and waste water treatment plants and collection systems, fire stations, jails, city halls, public utility lines, airports, schools, and recreation facilities. Currently a COMMISSIONERS meeting room in the new courthouse wing is designed to provide seating for 75 persons. Theater seats are arranged on steps to provide better vision. The room has a motorized projection screen, public address system and a ramp for the handicapped. County Manager Suzanne Cox is shown giving the NEWS photographer a preview of what visitors will see when they attend the Sunday dedication of the entire courthouse complex.

DARLENE Salazar and Patsy Serna enter data for the assessor's office on two terminals located in the new administration building. This room also houses the IBM System 34 Computer recently purchased.

Carrizozo High is top-ranked Carrizozo High School is included on HIGHWIRE Magazine's list of 100 outstanding schools across the United States, it was announced last week.

It is among those cited as schools where "people who care make the difference," in the national student magazine's "HIGHWIRE 100" awards given in the Spring issue.

The awards honor schools that "have done the most with what they have available to them," according to HIGHWIRE editor Edward Miller. The listing was compiled by means of an exhaustive survey of students and professionals involved with schools throughout the country, he added.

Academic excellence was not the only criterion for selecting the schools, Miller says. "Numbers can't reveal the human qualities of dedication and resourcefulness that make great teachers and great students," he points out.

Carrizozo High School received special recognition for the high percentage of students participating in sports and extracurricular activities. "We consider ourselves a dynamo among small schools," Principal Dennis Sidebottom is quoted as saying. The 117-student school won the Western Division of the President's Energy Challenge last year. Only other New Mexico high school to make the "100" is Gallup.

IF YOU'RE lucky, you missed the first day of spring—which began Sunday, March 20. This picture was taken March 22, three days after a 3-inch snow blanketed Carrizozo. Most of the snow had melted, except for the snow-covered mountains and Water Canyon area at their base. Picture was taken from the Carrizozo Country Club, looking southeast.

popular perception exists that America's infrastructure is breaking down.

Each mayor testifying will be given five minutes for actual presentation and five minutes for answering of questions by the Budget Committee.

Clarence V. Lithgow, director of the Department of Finance and Administration has approved Carrizozo's resolution requesting that revenues and expenditures be increased in the airport fund for the fiscal year 1982-83 budget.

However, Lithgow informed the council of the following potential problems:

(1) The general fund cash reserves are rapidly depleted. The cash balance at June 30, 1982 was a healthy $36,590. The '82-83 fiscal year adjusted budget projects a June 30, 1983 cash balance of $15,633.

(2) A review of Carrizozo's gross receipts tax revenues distributed through February indicates that the revenues will be below budget. This places a further strain on general fund cash reserves.

(3) The purchase of fuel for resale is an enterprise type activity. It should be self-supporting. The Department of Finance and Administration recommend that the town council review general fund revenues and expenditures carefully for the remainder of the fiscal year. They further recommend that the council insure that close municipal control is maintained over the airport activity so that revenues and inventories are strictly accounted for. Fuel rates charged should be reviewed periodically to insure that they adequately reflect the cost of providing the services.

Carrizozo school superintendent Dr. Jim Miller says it is imperative that the town council invest in a thermal pool cover at an estimated cost of $3,000, in order to open the pool this summer. The initial request, for the purchase of the cover to retain heat in the pool overnight, was submitted to the council 12 months ago. The cover would need to be purchased and in place by late May.

The school has operated the pool since 1981 under a short-term management contract with Lincoln County Arriba, Inc. The district will be unable to operate the pool unless it gets help in reducing heating costs. Increased natural gas costs and legislative school cuts were cited as reasons for the assistance request.

The board of education is willing to continue subsidizing the pool operation, but the council's allocation of revenue sharing, lodger's tax or whatever type of funds, will be necessary to open the pool on June 1.

The town has no revenue sharing funds to purchase a pool cover. The council approved a prior request by Arriba for heaters for the Rec Center. The council will investigate other means for funding to assist the school.

The town council will conduct a special 7 p.m. session, March 24, for the purpose of discussing the roof and ceiling repairs needed at the former town hall building. Garcia accompanied trustees Roy Harmon and David LaFave, Fire Chief Albert Najer and contractor Charles Adams on a tour of the

WHEN THE EL PASO & Northeastern Railroad completed the rail line into Carrizozo in 1899 and constructed the line onward into the Coalora coal field at Capitan, there was great cause for celebration. Carrizozo was on the map, a new railroad terminal point was established that required a large number of workers, engine repair shops and facilities for repairing the cars were soon present, and new businesses were springing up. A boom was underway and many people were taking up homestead land to establish small ranches, many of them being employed on the railroad.

IN 1906 FRANCISCO JAUREGUI came to Carrizozo, still largely a tent town, to work in the railroad shops and brought his family. Apolonia Jauregui (pictured here), later to become Mrs. Sabino Vidaurri, was seven years old and she viewed with great interest the activity of a new town developing. There was no water system and no electricity, but plenty of hope for the future.

IN 1915 SHE BECAME the bride of Sabino Vidaurri, an enterprising young merchant who in 1913 had established the Vidaurri General Merchandise. This store was to continue for over 60 years, and it wasn't unusual back in those days, with many small ranchers trying to get established, that the store had to carry them on credit for a year at a time, because on a ranch there is only one payday per year, when the livestock go to market. Vidaurri General Merchandise helped many of these families to keep going during the rough times.

SABINO AND MRS. VIDAURRI were always interested and concerned with their community, taking part whenever and wherever they were needed. They were charter members of the Carrizozo Country Club, built during the depression. Mrs. Vidaurri and Bill Gallacher Sr. are the only two surviving charter members. They raised six children, all of whom graduated from the Carrizozo Public School. She has 23 grandchildren and 9 great-grandchildren. Sabino passed away in 1977. We thank this lovely lady and her family for being such an important part of our community.

IN OUR BANK WE THANK them all for being our customers. We had the Vidaurri General Merchandise account many years, receiving it from the old First National Bank, thus it was in the same building from 1913 until 1981. Mrs. Vidaurri is still one of our valued customers.

CITIZENS STATE BANK APPRECIATES all of its customers; and we invite you to come in and we will help you make an investment or buy that new car. Our main interest is YOU.

The only news this month is that the club will be holding a bake sale on Saturday, April 2, beginning at 9 a.m. Everyone please come to the sale and help raise money for the needy in Capitan.

The next meeting will be held April 21 at 10 a.m. Hostesses will be Sharon Horton and Marian Wohlgemuth. The club will begin work on a quilt that will be raffled off when completed.

The Cummins Store has remodeled the entrance by adding more glass and a glass porch for protection from the wind, one door to enter and one to check out. At this time, they are in the process of stuccoing the front of the building. They are also changing the floor tile. Work will be going in there for some time. The Dean Building next to Cummins is also being stuccoed.

dent Children; and 3,600,000 are on unemployment compensation. That's only six government programs! Add the numbers and we find that about 118,500,000 are getting direct government assistance through six programs alone. There are 225,000,000 people in the United States. If 118,500,000 are getting the goodies, that leaves only 106,500,000 to pick up the tab. Reagan is sure cuffing the poor around! It has given the poor a tax break and imposed $99 billion in new taxes on the rich and middle-classes. So far this year his administration has given $12 million in dried-milk to poor families in Florida alone, along with 290 million pounds of cheese and 50 million pounds of butter. A bridled CETA spent $640,000 to study queers in Los Angeles, $40,000 on a nude Leaping Lesbian Folies, $80,000 for an artificial rock for beginner rock climbers to practice on, and $384,000 to take a census of cats, dogs and horses. The liberals say it isn't enough.

I DON'T understand why the US is outraged that foreign nations subsidize their exports into the United States. There is strong support for enacting tariffs on imports to the US from countries whose governments subsidize their exports. Yet the US is one of the biggest subsidizers of its exports to other countries. The Import-Export Bank finances the purchase of American products by other countries. If we want to sell agricultural implements to another country, we loan that country the money through the Import-Export bank, an agency totally supported by US tax dollars. We even sell wheat to Russia and loan the Soviets the money to buy it. Is that an export subsidy or isn't it? I understand the Bank will use up about $900 million this year to facilitate export of American products to other nations. Is this a subsidy or isn't it?

I DON'T understand why anybody puts confidence in what appears in the New York Times, Washington Post, Wall Street Journal, Time, Newsweek, US News & World Report, Public Broadcasting System, CBS News, NBC News or ABC News. In 1980, the Washington Journalism Review made a study of the leading reporters and editors of these publications and electronic newsgatherers who were trained in the Columbia University School of Journalism. The study found that leading journalists were solidly on the side of minorities, consumer groups, and intellectuals—and as solidly opposed to business and labor, and opponents of both corporate chieftains and middle America. To quote from the report: "If today's media elite is one of the most liberal, anti-establishment groups in American society—politically alienated from traditional values and institutions—tomorrow's media elite is likely to be more so . . . Our findings show that these sapiring journalists are more liberal in attitude, more cosmopolitan in background and more out of step with prevailing American beliefs that those already at the top of the profession." So, what we have is advocacy journalism, slanted and dishonest reporting to advance the liberal cause. Documented cases contained in the study constitute a horror chamber of dishonest and downright lying by reporters and editors seeking to destroy traditional American values. Once caught, these perpetrators fall back on "the need for a free press" and mouth the guarantees of the First Amendment. The Founding Fathers would be surprised, no doubt, to know that the freedoms they provided to keep people free have been turned into instruments for the destruction of a free society—simply by giving citizens the right to enslave themselves.

IN 1940, I stood up in a political science class at Texas Tech University and "orated" that this democratic government could not endure because its Constitution provides the seeds of its own destruction. I argued that people, given the choice, will exchange their freedom for whatever they think will give them security and comfort. I cited, as an example, that two or more people shipwrecked on a desert island, and faced with living in total freedom, will immediately call a meeting to make rules restricting their freedom . . . that freedom is an onerous burden of which people devoutly wish to be relieved . . . that people chafe under the yoke of making decisions for their own welfare . . . that they instinctively worship royalty and are hellbent on establishing its equivalent in the US, and this was years before the nationwide drive to create a Kennedy Dynasty to reign over a compliant peasantry.

PLEASE write and tell me I was wrong in 1940; that the problems alluded to stem from sources other than man's eagerness to exchange his liberty for security. I'd be distressed to learn that I was better informed in 1940 than I am today.

I'm from the Justice Department. Why are all these Snowpersons white?

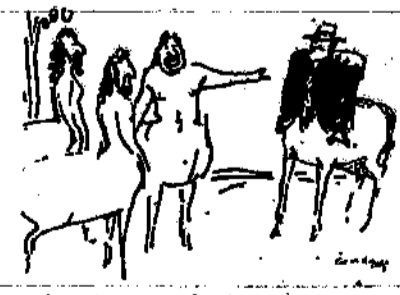

JIMMY Delgado, left, and Carlos Sanchez train in long distance running for Saturday's track meet at Texico. This will be the first track meet of the season for Carrizozo's boy and girl athletes.

Grizzlies open track season

Carrizozo tracksters will show their skills in their first track meet Saturday, March 26, in Texico. The bus will leave for Texico at 4 a.m. with seven boys and six girls. Many of the other track members will be absent from this meet because of a FHA convention in Albuquerque and state FFA competition in Las Cruces. Carrizozo sent in competitor entry forms with the following members and their events: Kevin Wilmore, 220 yd. dash, long jump, high jump; Jimmy Delgado, 880 yd. run, mile; Carlos Sanchez, 2 mile run; Clarence Beltran, shotput, javelin; Dennis Ortiz, shotput; Robin Beltran, discus; Duane Zamora, javelin. Bonnie Jo Shepperd, shotput; Debbie Strever, 100 yd. dash, 220 yd. dash; Dana Strever, 880 yd. run; Christetta Chavez, long jump, 100 yd. dash, 220 yd. dash, 75 yd. low hurdles; Karen Baroz, 100 yd. dash; Annette Hill, shotput.

A knee injury to Annette Hill may keep her sidelined for awhile. Hill is anchor for the 440 relay and also ran the 100 yd. dash and a leg of the 880 medley relay and 880 relay. A week from the Texico track meet, April 2, the girl and boy track teams will travel to T. or C. Large schools are expected to be there to test the Grizzlies.

NMSU economists see an upsurge in '83

LAS CRUCES — An upturn out of the current recession will occur this year, two New Mexico State University Extension economists foresee.

Although it won't be rapid or what economists call a hot recovery, it will be a solid improvement, say James D. Libbin and Lowell B. Catlett. Libbin is an NMSU Extension economist and assistant professor, agricultural economics and agricultural business. Catlett is an associate professor, agricultural economics and agricultural business.

In the March issue of the Cooperative Extension Service newsletter, Agri-Cents, the two tell what to expect of the economy during 1983:

— Interest rates. The prime rate will range from 10 to 12 percent and end the year averaging 10 percent. Interest rates will be more volatile than in 1982 because the Federal Reserve will be adjusting the money supply to money demand during the recovery.

— Inflation rate. The rate will be higher than in 1982. It will approach 8 percent average for the year. The inflation rate will remain low for the first half and will increase during the last half, particularly the last quarter of the year. It won't reach double digits, however.

— Unemployment. Three million more Americans will find jobs as major industries show recovery signs. Unemployment will decline to near 8 percent at year's end. While that rate is still high, it will be lower than in 1982.

— Gross National Product

(GNP). The average growth for the year should approach 2.5 to 3 percent. Retail and wholesale sales and sales of durable goods will be strong during the last half of 1983.

— Agricultural sector. Feed grain prices will improve slightly but remain very weak because domestic demand for agricultural commodities will be weak and export demand will increase only marginally.

Livestock prices will remain weak for most of 1983, especially during the last quarter. Cheaper feed will tend to strengthen feeder cattle prices during the first half of the year, but prices for feeder cattle will end the year lower than 1982.

Large supplies and weak demand will keep feed grain, livestock and cotton prices low during the year.

Meanwhile, farmers will pay 3 to 5 percent more for production items this year, compared to 1982.

The new Payment-In-Kind (PIK) program will improve the situation some, "but not enough to make 1983 much better than last year," the economists write.

They conclude 1983 will end with net farm income similar to "the dismal 1982 year."

REP. MICKEY McGuire and Alice Booky of Hondo.

REP. MAURICE Hobson and Melody Hefker of Carrizozo.

SEN. CHARLIE T. Lee and Shawn Perkins of Corona.

4-Hers are House, Senate pages

Lincoln County 4-H members served as pages for the New Mexico House of Representatives and Senate in Santa Fe, March 7-10.

They included Alice Booky, Chris Clements, Doretta Burchett, Hondo; Melody Hefker, Carrizozo; George Cordova, Shawn Perkins and Cody Lightfoot, Corona.

They were sponsored by Reps. Mickey McGuire, Richard Knowles, Maurice Hobson and Leonard Sheffield and Sen. Charlie Lee. The 4-Hers carried out several duties for the legislature, such as carrying messages and documents and working in the House and Senate during sessions, and conducting tours.

The program is designed to let 4-Hers gain knowledge and experience in the political process and to get to know their legislators.

Tino Lopez gets commendation

Roger W. Crist, Secretary of Corrections Department, has presented Tino Lopez Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Tino Lopez, Carrizozo, with an Exemplary Performance Award on March 3. The Award was in the form of a monetary award along with a Certificate of Exemplary Performance.

Tino is currently the director for all vocational-technical programming at PNM and was responsible for restoring all training programs after the riot. During the upcoming fiscal year, Tino plans to have all programs under the auspices of Luna's Technical Vocational Institute, Las Vegas, NM.

ALAMOGORDO — Planting crews moved onto the first of the Lincoln National Forest's planting sites this year on March 7. Douglas-fir seedlings are being hand-planted on 20 acres northeast of Cloudercroft in the Twin Falls area. This area burned over in a fire in the late '60s.

Other sites to be planted are the Hay Canyon area, in Myers Canyon, and an area north of Wofford Lookout where the snow cover is still three to four feet deep. A total of 430 acres on the Cloudercroft Ranger District and 80 acres on the Mayhill Ranger District are scheduled for reforestation in 1983.

Forest Service planting crews will continue hand planting for the next few weeks, moving from one area to another, following the snow-melt. Getting the seedlings into the soil just as soon as the snow melts provides the wettest possible conditions and offers the best rate of survival.

Plans for this season's planting were underway over two years ago when the Lincoln sent a sowing request to a nursery at Lucky Peak, Idaho, for 280,000 seedlings of Douglas-fir, southwestern white pine, white fir, and ponderosa pine. The seedlings were shipped to the Lincoln in February, and placed in a refrigerated building on the Mayhill District.

The planters try to select spots close to downed logs, or on north sides of stumps or rocks as protection for the seedling. These areas are more protected from the sun and wind, and will also retain moisture longer.

Tree planting is an annual effort by the Forest Service to reestablish trees on areas of the National Forest that have been burned or where Mother Nature failed to regenerate areas where early logging activity occurred before the land was national forest.

Dangers of hypertension explained

Steel . . .

"You can walk around with it and not know you have it," cautioned Winona Stolzfus, RN, to Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County at their monthly meeting Tuesday at K-Bob's in Ruidoso.

"It is high blood pressure, known medically as hypertension; and, if undiagnosed and untreated, can lead to heart disease, stroke, kidney failure, blindness and other serious complications.

Associated with Home Health Services of Lincoln County, Stolzfus explained it was better to educate the public about the dangers of hypertension than to have to treat complications later. After defining blood pressure and factors relating to hypertension, she advised the group how to maintain a low pressure. Most important, she said, were frequent checks and continuing medications, if prescribed.

During the business meeting preceding the program, members discussed fundraising projects. President Dorothy Smith announced the county GOP Central Committee meeting Monday, March 28, at 10 a.m. Purpose is to elect delegates to the April 23 state convention and to elect officers locally. All registered Republicans are urged to attend.

Program Chairman Lois Aldrich announced County Clerk Jane McSwane will speak on state election laws and procedures at the April 19 meeting.

working with Dr. Smith of New Mexico Tech in Socorro.

Bottinelli lives in Dallas with his wife Billy Marie and two sons and a daughter. Mrs. Bottinelli is active in civic and church affairs, and is past member of the board of Christ the King School.

Daughter Cathy is a flight attendant with Southwest Airlines. Donny, the youngest son, has just graduated from Lamar University and is employed by 3M Corporation. Lonnie is with the engineering department of the City of Baltimore.

Zia will ask for a place on the next city council agenda. He will come with bonding counsel and other experts who will assure Carrizozo's town fathers that the mill will meet strict EPA standards, not create a drain on the area's resources, and create a high level of employment in the town.
