Commissioners

County purchases fire equipment

At its Sept. 28 meeting Lincoln County Commissioners accepted bids for the following fire equipment: two breathing devices, Western Fire Equipment Co., $7,030; oxygen cylinders to be used with breathing apparatus, Western, $1,970; 10 first aid kits, Artesia Fire Equipment, $137.40; two large first aid kits, Artesia, $78.50; large flashlights for emergency work, Sayso of Texas, $424.41.

No bids were received on the Hondo landfill, and all bids for a 3-yard articulated loader were rejected and will be re-bid. A bid by Trayne Co. for repairs to the heating and cooling system in the Lincoln County Courthouse was accepted in the amount of $52,479.

A contract was signed with the New Mexico State Library for continued operation of the book-mobile service in the county at a cost of $1,400.

In other business, the commission settled a dispute between the Lincoln Historical Board and Cille Dockery.

Dockery had constructed a chain link fence on her property at Lincoln which LHB found to be in violation of an ordinance because she had not received approval of the fence prior to construction. The commission compromised by passing a resolution reprimanding Dockery and stipulating that she not do construction work in the future without prior approval of the LHB, which is charged with preserving the historical heritage of Lincoln. It was also agreed that the ordinance will be amended to prevent further violations.

—Accepted the resignation of Thomas P. McKnight from the Lincoln County Historical Commission because of his lack of time to devote to the matter.

—Proclaimed the week of Oct. 23-29 as Emergency Medical Technicians Week to honor EMTs who serve Lincoln County.

—Approved an EMS Fund Act application for a 4-wheel drive ambulance for Alto.

—Agreed to study the use of county roads by oversize and overweight vehicles. —Approved Community Block Grants for a dumpster for solid waste system; repaving of Gavilan Canyon road; Nogal water system; and juvenile detention center.

—Revised and set priorities of needs for Lincoln County in applying for Community Development Block Grants which would strengthen chances of receiving such grants.

—Rescheduled the October commission's meeting to Oct. 19.

Ft. Stanton residents arrive at New Horizons Center

Three elder residents of Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School have been moved into New Horizons, local developmental disabilities community program.

"These are some of the first clients to be moved as part of the Fort Stanton transition effort," said Health and Environment Department Secretary Robert McNeill. "They were specially selected since they have all been institutionalized for a long time and now consider Lincoln County their home." He said the families were contacted before final placement occurred and that all were in full agreement.

"We won't move anyone without the families being consulted first," McNeill said.

Rather than going into a work-oriented program, their activities will be geared toward retirement. McNeill emphasized the activities will be purposeful and constructive, but not overly demanding. He said the activities will include hobbies and crafts, shopping, and trips into the community.

"It's exciting to think after all these years they will be learning how to live in a house and enjoy it to its fullest. They will have their own kitchen and laundry room and will be responsible for carrying out these tasks," McNeill said.

The clients are coming into the program funded through Medicaid dollars. McNeill said this doesn't create any additional expense for the state. He said seven more clients should be moving into the program in the near future.

McNeill said all three clients and the staff of Fort Stanton are enthusiastic about the move. He said a strong communication between the institution and New Horizons will be maintained in order to assist with the resident's adjustment.

"The staff of Fort Stanton deserves credit for their hard work in preparing clients for the move," McNeill said. "The staff of New Horizons is well-qualified and trained to work with the special needs of these individuals. In fact, two are former employees of Fort Stanton."

New Horizons Director Jenny Kelly said the elderly component of her program can accommodate 10 residents. She said the program also serves younger adult clients in a separate group home and has an activity center.

New Horizons gets federal funding

WASHINGTON, DC - The New Mexico Congressional Projects Office announced Thursday that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has awarded $1,925,900 in grants for low-income housing projects for the handicapped and elderly in New Mexico.

Chief among the projects were:

—$748,000 to Tierra Del Sol Housing Corporation for the construction of 22 housing units in Tularosa for the elderly and handicapped.

—$754,700 to Puerto Del Sol for the construction of 22 housing units in Las Cruces for the handicapped and developmentally disabled.

—$176,300 to New Horizons in Carrizozo for the construction of five housing units for the handicapped and developmentally disabled.

—$246,900 to Santa Fe Ser-VICES for seven housing units for the handicapped and developmentally disabled in Santa Fe County.

All awards are under the HUD 202 program and eligible for Section 8 rental subsidy so no tenant will pay more than 30 percent of adjusted income.

The members of the New Mexico Congressional Projects Office are: US Senator Pete V. Domenici, R-NM; US Senator Jeff Bingaman, D-NM; US Rep. Manuel Lujan, Jr., R-NM (1st District); and US Rep. Joe Skeen, R-NM (2nd District).

In a joint statement, the members said, "We are delighted to learn of these grant awards, particularly, since no non-metropolitan funds were awarded in the state last year, compounding the need for the facilities. We were especially pleased to note housing in Tularosa and Las Cruces was approved after having been denied last year."

WINE 'N CHEESE tasting was a feature of the first Carrizozo Womens Club meeting of the year, held Thursday. Officers here are, standing, from the left: Raylene Greer, secretary, Carlyn Ladd, parliamentarian, Lyn Miller, president. Seated, Sharon Hefker, treasurer, and Mary Spencer, 2nd vice-president. Four businesses hit by burglars

Four businesses hit by burglars

Four Carrizozo businesses were broken into Friday night. At Tommy's Barber Shop the glass in the back door was removed to gain entrance. The place was ransacked but nothing was reported missing. From the barber shop the burglars broke through the wall into the Food Basket Market, where nothing was reported missing except some cheese and luncheon meat. Jackie's Cafe was hit, with burglars going in through a window. The sheriff's office reported that the cigarette machine was jimmied and about $40 in cash taken. Belco Industries was also broken into, but no losses were reported, according to Chief Deputy Charles Cox.

quint night in which there were no incidents at the Carrizozo-Mountainair football game or the dance that followed. The motorcycle convention in Ruidoso was quiet and no arrests were reported. Then the burglaries began. Deputies had no suspects at presstime.

Michael Patrick McCracken, Holloman AFB, Alamogordo, was arrested Oct. 2 by sheriff's deputies and charged with DWI and reckless driving.

On Oct. 1, Julie M. Rothamer of Roswell was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana, possession of paraphernalia and disorderly conduct. Timothy Kelly, also of Roswell, was booked for DWI, reckless driving, no license in possession and license revoked. All three are free on bond.

Lawmen had just congratulated themselves for a

Motor coach convention

There are about 200 strangers in town, but don't call the police.

They're here for a convention of owners of Ultra Motor Coaches. Members of the organization are from all over the US—California, Ohio, Arizona and East Coast states. About 70 of these motor homes are parked in Spencer Park, Oct. 5-12, and their owners will be using Carrizozo Recreation Center as convention headquarters. Most of their time will be taken up with convention matters, but there will be plenty of time to visit the Malpais, Capitan, Lincoln, Ruidoso and other points of interest.

The Carrizozo Country will host a hamburger fry and dance for them Saturday night, and historian Johnson Stearns will lecture the group on history of the area.

Woody Schlegel, president, Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce, has invited the public to drop by Spencer Park this week and get acquainted with the visitors.

Grizzlies make it 4 in a row

The Grizzlies made it four wins in a row Friday night as they defeated the Mountainair Mustangs at Laabs Field, 34-0.

Despite many mental errors and sloppy play, the Grizzlies generated 428 yards in total offense.

Stevie Stearns led the Grizzly running attack, piling up 174 yards in 16 carries, scoring three touchdowns for Carrizozo. Duane Zamora completed four passes for 66 yards and rushed six times for 67 yards and scored a touchdown. Dominic Vega had a productive night for the Grizzlies. He rushed for 62 yards, scored a touchdown, intercepted a Mustang pass and kicked two extra points.

Defensively, Carrizozo was led by Senior linebacker Gilbert Zamora, who made 12 tackles, and junior defensive back, Joe Candelaria, who intercepted two Mountainair passes.

"Offensively, we played pretty well at times, then hurt ourselves with fumbles and penalties. Defensively, we played well all night. We certainly must play with more intensity next Friday. Cloudercroft is a very good football team and if we play poorly against them, they will bury us. Our brightest area at this point is the play of our offensive line. They consistently play well," commented Grizzly Head Coach Dennis Sidebottom.

The Grizzlies take on Cloudercroft Friday night at 7:30 p.m. at Cloudercroft.

White Oaks

By ROSE VINSON
A lot of memories were brought back to life Thursday and Friday night in the home of White Oaks residents Bob and Maggie Bohks with the arrival of old friends and working partners. Among those present were Wilder R. Dresser, now retired special agent and living in Silver City. Also James A. Lindsey, who is assistant district special agent in charge of US Customs Investigation in Laredo, Texas. Both men served with Bob in the Del Rio, Texas, sector of the US Border Patrol where Bob was Sector Training Officer. Mr. Dresser and Mr. Lindsey are members of the Sector Pistol Team and were on their way to a gun show in Albuquerque.

Several inches of rain fell in the White Oaks area creating muddy conditions, especially on the dirt road east of White Oaks. The mud claimed victims Eric and Steve of the ShopRite Store. They spent a pretty messy time retrieving their pickup truck the ditch.

But I'm sure the ranchers all were pleased with the rain as it was badly needed for winter pasture.

John and Betty Cammack have returned from Spicewood, Texas, with a trailer full of exotic animals. We wish them good weather to get their animals settled in.

Maggie Bohks celebrated her birthday Sunday, Oct. 2, with friends and relatives. She won't tell anyone her age.

Capitan drops one to Dexter

Speedy halfback Lupe Ponce scored three touchdowns to lead Dexter to a 28-12 non-conference win over Capitan Friday night. For the undefeated Demons, it was their fifth straight victory. Ponce scored on runs of 1 and 38 yards in the first quarter as Dexter jumped out to a 12-0 lead.

The Tigers came running back in the second quarter as Danny Cummins scored on a 1 yard run after a long drive. Tailback Tim McElhannon broke loose for an 80 yard touchdown run to knot the score at 12 at halftime.

In the second half, Dexter's big line took control of the game and effectively shut down the Tiger's offense. Halfbacks Ponce and Jimmy Natyvidad scored two short touchdowns to give the Demons the win. Dexter lost 3 fumbles and Capitan 1 on the wet field.

The Tigers open district competition at home this week against Reserve. The Mountaineers have a big veteran team and no doubt are still smarting over a close loss to Capitan in last year's championship game.

This area had 2.4 inches of rain, Sept. 27-Oct. 3. How great it is. It is much cooler, but the lawns and growth are truly responding. Much to our happiness.

There were 3,642 visitors at Smokey Bear Museum in September. There had been 40 busloads from various places. Last Wednesday there was a busload of 38, the Willow Wanderers of Sun City, AZ who had been to Carlsbad and visited here enroute home. Last weekend there was many motorcycle riders from many states.

The Capitan football team played Dexter here Friday night. The score was 28 to 12 in favor of Dexter.

The school parking lot back of the building was finished last week. The buses and everyone park there now, which is good. It is very nice with plenty of room. That has them off of the dangarpus street.

The FHA girls made a trip to Glorieta Friday and returned Sunday evening.

Capitan 4-H held its meeting at the Fair Building Monday night to work on their records.

The 4th graders took a field trip to Lincoln Wednesday. Each trip they learn so much.

We do welcome the Florian Welchak family to Capitan. They reside in the Capitan Apartments on West Second Street.

The Senior Citizens have been and still are selling fresh doughnuts holes every Saturday. They make them at the Senior Citizen Home in Capitan and you can order them by the dozen. Call them. They are delicious, and we look forward to that each weekend.

Louise Runnels, daughter Mary Reed, and daughters-in-law Debbie and Dona Runnels took a short vacation in Las Vegas, NV from Sept. 24-28. Deb's mother, Altha Parker, and her friend Connie Behringer joined the Runnels girls to have a good time. Friend Karen Hainie from El Paso met the bunch at the El Paso airport and went to Vegas with them. They were met in "Sin City" by Dona's sister, Trisha Martin of Claremore, OK, and her stepmother, Pat Whiteker of Tulsa. The entire bunch went to see the illusionists Siegfried and Roy, and got to pet the beautiful white tiger. On Monday night they attended a dinner show starring Liberace. This was really a treat to Louise, who really enjoyed his beautiful piano music and his fantastic costumes and showmanship. Needless to say, Las Vegas will never be the same. I know they all did enjoy this.

Robbie Runnels bagged a 16' buck antelope while hunting during the recent antelope hunt. There were four bucks taken during the hunt, Robbie's being the largest. Beverly Walthall of Kosse, TX also killed a large buck.

Dorothy Evans and Steve Stephens were united in marriage at the First Christian Church in Ruidoso, Sept. 16. He is employed with the New Mexico Highway Department, Dist. 2. They will make their home in Capitan.

Roy and Sharon Horton were called to the bedside of her father who is seriously ill in the hospital in Mesa, AZ last week. He recovered nicely. I wish him the best and complete recovery.

Jay Johnson of Oklahoma was a business visitor in our area last week.

More honors for Eva

WASHINGTON — Senator Pete Domenici (R-NM), along with Senator Jeff Bingaman (D-NM) late Tuesday introduced a Senate resolution expressing the view of the Senate that "the American people owe a great debt to Eva Ball of Ruidoso, New Mexico."

Eva Ball, a New Mexico author and historian, has spent much of her life among the Mescalero Apaches and her "first-hand knowledge" of their daily lives and rituals will "remain among our most valuable literary treasures."

"Eva Ball's writing has not only given the study of history a new and colorful element, but has inspired others to write as well," Domenici said on the floor of the Senate. "Many of her books have been adopted for use in high schools and universities in this country and abroad, testimony to her broad appeal as a writer."

Opinion

● THE ANNUAL visit to Trinity Site where the first atomic bomb was exploded was held Saturday on White Sands Missile Range. It resembled an anti-nuclear rally as much as an intended ceremony to mark an historic event. Among those mourning the advent of the nuclear age was the Rev. Paul Saunders, Canon to the Ordinary for the Episcopal Diocese of the Rio Grande. He had been working at Trinity Site in 1945 when the bomb was exploded, and he was asked what his thoughts were at the time. "My thoughts were black thoughts," he said. "I was thinking of man's inhumanity to man. I was thinking that we were the first to use this weapon." Fortunately for mankind and for civilization we were the first to use the bomb. What he seemed to be saying was that it would have been so much nicer and humane had Hitler, who was in a race with the US to produce the atomic bomb, succeeded and used it first on us. Then we wouldn't have been concerned with all the guilt surrounding our being first to produce the weapon. In fact, if this cleric's fond wish had come true, the bomb would have been dropped on us, then we wouldn't have to worry about our being involved—or anything else, considering we'd all be dead or helping Hitler in Spenser Park. As for man's inhumanity, the good priest doesn't seem to recall that the military estimated it would cost more than a million lives to invade Japan in World War II using conventional weapons. The bombing of Japan saved that million lives. Our use of the bomb not only ended World War II, but its very existence has kept the peace, however precarious, for almost 40 years. As for the Rev. Mr. Saunders, it is the mark of an exceptionally rational man that he can afford to, at times, be absurd. For nobody seems to appreciate that the fearful bomb also provided mankind with a vast new store of blessings. In the field of medicine alone, nuclear fission and its by products have already saved far more lives than the bombs claimed in Japan. Knowledge gained from the first atomic bomb has advanced science and technology a thousand years, created an unlimited source of energy in an energy-starved world, and has given us the know-how to turn the deserts of the world into veritable paradises. All that is stopping these good things is the public's fear and ignorance of the peaceful uses of the atom; truly a gift of God.

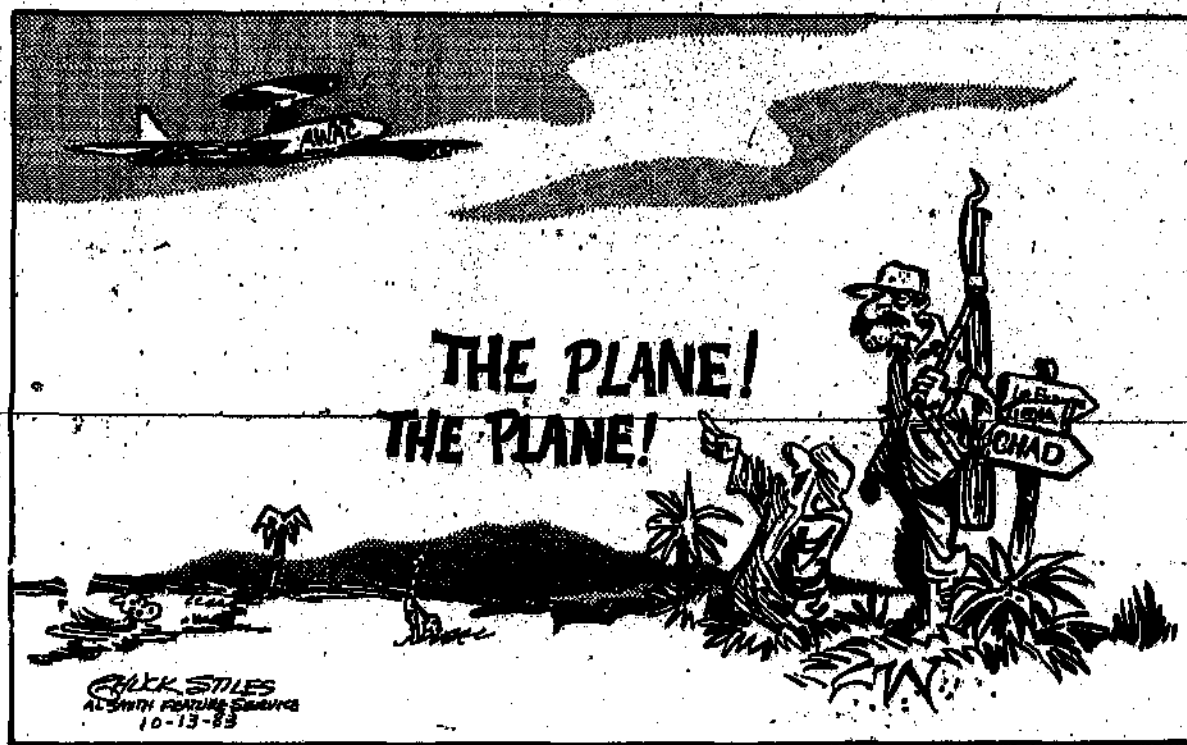

● THERE are a lot of "what ifs" advanced by opponents of anything nuclear. "What if" there's a nuclear accident, or "what if" a fanatic pushes the button. There's also an important "what if" seldom mentioned: "What if" that bomb had never been produced, dropped, and its secrets unlocked? Think on it.

● A DEAR reader in Truth or Consequences, who tries to keep me morally upright, has observed with a hint of condemnation that I have the power to judge others, implying that to judge others is not a nice business. Of course I judge others. In return, I expect to be judged—as the lady in question has so ably done in a letter on page 4. Every day, everybody judges others. Show me a person who can't (or won't) make a judgment and I'll show you a helpless, pathetic hunk of protoplasm. Life is a long series of judgments we all make, and which we all hope are the correct ones. Those who don't like to take the responsibility for judging others like to explain that judging others is God's prerogative. If so, aren't we "judgers" doing His work, which we are exhorted to do?

● IN CASE some bubble-head overlooked this column in the Sept. 22 issue, here it is again: The US Army now allows women GIs to wear stud earrings, which caused this Fort Sam Houston soldier to exultate, "It makes me feel a little more like I'm not just a she-soldier, like I'm still a person." Will someone inform that bubble-headed broad that it is possible to be a soldier and a person at the same time? End of item. Al Stubbs, who writes the Shifting Sands column in the Alamogordo Daily News, published the above item in his column. For doing so, the embattled Mr. Stubbs became a target of local bubble-heads who saw it as an insult to all women. In a subsequent column, Mr. Stubbs quelled the rebellion by writing: "We apologize to those who felt the item was derogatory to all women." By way of added pacification, he pointed out that men too are prone to being bubble-headed at times. Well, the Lincoln County News doesn't apologize to these militant feminist bubble-heads because the item referred only to the bubble-headed broad who made that stupid statement. To those who refuse to see the distinction between one particular bubble-head and millions of non-bubble-heads, I simply invite them to go to hell. Enroute, they might want to make themselves feel even more like "persons" by augmenting the charm of those earrings with a bone rammed through the lower portion of their noses.

● SPEAKING of Hell, to which bubble-heads have just been invited, I ran into a couple from Where, Michigan, the other day, which is about 100 miles north of Hell, Michigan. About 100 miles the other direction is Paradise, also in Michigan. It makes for strange conversation. "Where are you from?" "Where?" "Where?" "That's right." "Where's Where?" "About halfway between Hell and Paradise."

● A LINCOLN County physician says herpes is more a media hype than it is a vicious disease. The importance of herpes has been blown all out of proportion, he says, in what seems to be a continuing campaign to keep the American people scared to death. "Herpes," he declared, "is little more than a fever blister" that comes and goes according to the body's ability to counter it. Some people have herpes sores regularly every few weeks, or months, or years, depending upon the body's natural defenses. Some people have herpes once and it never reappears. Some people who are exposed to it never get it. Same as with fever blisters, he says. He is a bit irritated at the publicity given this disorder, and says even medical people have unwittingly joined the campaign to distort the importance of herpes. While there is no medical cure for the stuff, it is certainly refreshing to know that the human body does provide safeguards against it. The doctor didn't say so, but the implication is that a genuinely healthy body rejects the disease. I'm glad someone recognizes the role of the media in perpetuating the many scare campaigns. If headlines and newscasts concerning some crackpot's new discovery of what causes cancer were truthful, there wouldn't be anything we could drink, eat, smoke, wear or snuggle up to that wouldn't give us all cancer of the whatever.

The Rev. and his strange ecclesiastical bedfellows

By LES KINSOLVING
When he was commanding general of the US Army Ordnance Missile Command Center in Huntsville, Alabama, Maj. Gen. John Bruce Medaris was known as "The Father of the Space Age."

Since his retirement and his ordination to the priesthood, the Reverend General has become something of a Father of the Spaced Out Age. For the 81-year-old Medaris has left the Episcopal Church and become active in one of the movements which broke away from that denomination over such issues as female ordination, prayer book revision and the funding of terrorists.

His new affiliation, the Anglican Catholic Church, is a diminutive denomination whose prelates will not disclose the number of laity who belong. Currently this denomination is locked in controversy over the bishops' attempts to impose upon the local churches some of the most absurdly oppressive canon law ever written (by a specialist in medieval church law from Canada, a layman named Andrew Stahl.)

"If you don't like the canons, get out!" barked the Rev. General at a recent meeting of the denomination's canons committee. The Rev. John Cooper of Bel Air, Md., did just that, along with his entire congregation.

"If you ever want to be ordained in this diocese, you will not associate with Carroll Simcox!" said the Rev. General to deacon Laurence Wells of Orange Park, FL. Both Wells and Simcox, the denomination's leading theologian and former editor of the Episcopal Church weekly, the Living Church, subsequently walked out and affiliated with another Episcopal breakaway, the American Episcopal Church.

The Rev. General similarly blasted certain contentious delegates to the 1982 national convention (Provincial Synod) of the denomination in Kansas City. This time, the entire Diocese of the Southwest (28 parishes) walked out.

One of the denomination's clergymen whom the Rev. Gen. did not blast is the Rev. John Peter Walzer, a deacon who identified himself as an attorney from Connecticut. The denomination's bishops nominated Walzer to be chancellor, or chief legal officer, for the entire denomination.

Last month, Deacon Walzer pleaded guilty to three counts of federal bank fraud and was sent to prison. His bishop, the Rt. Rev. William Burns of West Orange, New Jersey, knew that Walzer had previously served time in such New York prisons as Fishkill and Dannemora for an extensive number of crimes, including defrauding Mobil Oil Company. Walzer is currently facing additional charges of having defrauded DuPont.

Father Medaris cuts a striking figure at church conventions. He goes about clad in the vesture of at least a monsignor; black cassock with red piping and wide crimson sash. This impressive sight, along with the even more magnificent garb

Watch over Washington

Did the mayor malign monkeys?

By LES KINSOLVING
WASHINGTON — Mayor Marlon Barry of this city sent a telegram to ABC Sports character Howard Cosell, declaring that he, Barry, was "outraged" by Cosell's reference to black Washington Redskins football player Alvin Garrett as "that little monkey."

Cosell was also denounced by Althea Simmons of the Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who called Cosell "an ignoramus" and declared that Washington's ABC affiliate, WJLA-TV, "should be censured."

Mr. Cosell, who replied that he wouldn't hesitate to use this term of endearment in addressing his own son, was also called upon to apologize by the Rev. Joseph Lowery of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference — and even by The Washington Post's usually reasonable columnist William Raspberry.

Now a new dimension of the controversy has emerged. For Mayor Barry, who suggested that the term "little monkey" is a racial slur, has been taken to task by the animal lovers.

"The Mayor may have a chip on his shoulder," observed Ingrid Newkirk, director of People For The Ethical Treatment of Animals. "The monkey is a very clean, intelligent, highly social and sensitive animal that protects his family and doesn't engage in war. We don't think this is an insult to Garrett. The Mayor's statement is unfortunate. We are just one animal species."

Pam Chapman, shelter manager and Humane officer for the Washington SPCA, said:

"I watched the telecast of that game (Washington vs Dallas). I thought of the monkey reference as a compliment."

In Clark's Summit, PA., Helen Jones of the International Society of Animal Rights declared: "I would never be insulted by being called a monkey. Animals are frequently used in an uncomplimentary way. The Mayor's reaction is a typically public human reaction that is unfortunate."

At the Humane Society of the United States, Janet Huling, who identified herself as a specialist in public relations, sounded somewhat less than humane by snarling: "I have more important things to do than to sit and try to figure out how Howard Cosell's brain works."

The friends of the National Zoo referred our inquiry to Dr. Miles Roberts, a zoologist whose supervision includes a number of little monkeys. Dr. Roberts agreed that monkeys are "clean, intelligent, agile and protect their families."

While declining to comment on the Mayor's condemnation of Cosell, Dr. Roberts added: "But as with humans, there is a dark side to monkeys. They live in troops, commanded by one adult male and a number of females, with their young. When this troop master is too old to fend off the unattached males who hover at the edge of his harem, the male who ousts him and replaces him proceeds to kill all of the babies of the former troopmaster. This puts the females in heat, since they have been deprived of their young. It's brute force."

Since no minority group of human beings is known to practice such heat-producing infanticide today, surely this cannot be considered a racial slur of anybody.

Another animal appellation has been applied to nine of the Washington Redskins — who are known, widely and affectionately, as "The Hogs."

According to Redskins spokesman Ron Levine, this identification originated during the summer of 1982. Assistant Redskins Coach Joe Bugle noted, scornfully, that some of the "Skins were overweight. In order to shame them into slimming down, he called loudly, "Come on, you hogs!"

At that point, history was made. And the Redskins who are today identified as Hogs include star running back John Riggins, Don Warren, Joe Jacoby, Russ Grimm, Jeff Bostic, Rick Walker, Mark May, George Stark and Don Laster — five of whom are white.

The majority of the nation's real hogs are white — according to Dr. Roger Gerrits of the US Department of Agriculture's Research Service — the man who for 10 years headed the Department's National Swine Program. "Two of the four largest breeds are white: the Yorkshires and the Chester Whites," noted Dr. Gerrits. "The Durocs are reddish hogs. Some TV sportscaster last year wanted me to tell him how he could get a shot of a line of Durocs — these Redskins hogs — eating. I said to just lay out the corn in a small trench, and these hogs would oblige."

Has Washington Redskins Coach Bugle been denounced by any civil rights leaders for the racial slur of referring to five white Redskins as white — since a majority of US hogs are white? SPOKESMAN LAVINE: "We have had no racial complaints whatsoever about hogs."

Letters to the Editor

In re: Sept. 29

EDITOR—I'm the "old so-and-so" you referred to in your Sept. 29 column. You're right, I'm no teeny bopper; I'll be 58 the 20th of this month. It was thoughtful of you not to write that I "acted nutty as a peach orchard boar." That would have been disrespectful.

You're an expert at putting people down; people you don't know personally. You even have the power to judge your fellowmen, and label them as "moral lepers." I have always been suspicious of people who talk about others' faults and sex habits, and have found it to be generally true that the talkers would love to try everything immoral but don't have the guts, so turn on those that do.

But you do have a good word for those you like, and I agree with many of your views.

NORMA DOUGHERTY,
T or C.

On helping our enemies

EDITOR—It is about time that our government recognize the Soviet Union for what it is, an outlaw criminal government, and we should follow up on that recognition by withdrawing diplomatic recognition from the Kremlin. There never has been any good coming from making agreements that they break at will, or from supplying them with money, technology, equipment and dignity. This support has helped the Soviet Union perpetuate many horrendous crimes against humanity, not the least is that of shooting down the Korean airliner.

The real story at this time is not the death of 269 innocent persons no matter how horrible such deaths were. The real story is US financing of Communism, a practice that has continued for decades, that has supplied them with sophisticated technology, electronics, computers, money and everything possible to enable them in a long history of criminal activity.

There is no American businessman that would make a deal with the Soviet Union or Red China or any other Communist nation if the US government wasn't backing the deal, so the answer to how to get out from under this situation is to stop financing it, stop the US government from encouraging US business to do this.

During the Carter Administration, and it is continuing during the Reagan Administration, over 60 large American companies have been supplying the Soviets with science and technology transfers. The wherewithal to engage in modern warfare was supplied and the American taxpayers have paid the bill.

MRS. MARJORIE MILLS,
Stockton, CA.

Larry McDonald's legacy

EDITOR—If anyone believes that the Soviets mistook the Korean airliner for a reconnaissance plane they will believe anything.

According to Bill Kennedy, a close friend of Congressman Larry McDonald, the Soviet secret police (KGB) were following Dr. McDonald.

Most real conservatives are convinced that Larry McDonald had to be the target because he was becoming dangerous to Communists and to Communism in general. According to Don Bell Reports newsletter, Dr. McDonald has done more than any other official to expose Communist organizations in the United States, to thwart their efforts. In addition, he headed an intelligence organization that covered the United States and much of Europe. There were plans to make it a worldwide intelligence organization, concentrating on exposing Communist activities. Also Dr. McDonald was about to expose an oil deal that would have embarrassed many of the "elite." So, the elimination of Larry McDonald must have seemed very important to America's enemies.

In his book, We Hold These Truths, which is a reverent review of the US Constitution, Larry McDonald tells how the Constitution has been vilely wounded in the House of its guardians. At the end of the book Dr. McDonald, gives his prescription for the recovery of our sick republic. I believe his words should serve as a kind of memorial to a man who was unwept, unhonored and unsung by the highest personages in the land, but was yet willing to give his life for his country, and for you and for me.

Those of us who were lucky enough to have known Congressman Larry McDonald will never forget.

HOMER BOYCE,

Stop money giveaway

EDITOR—With our federal government well over a trillion dollars in debt and running deficits of $200 billion annually can we really countenance pouring $20-45 billion down the socialist sinkholes of the IMF, the Export-Import Bank, the Inter-American Bank, Asian Development Bank and African Development Fund?

Yet that is what Congress soon may do, if you do not strenuously voice your objections now. H.R. 2957 passed the House 217-211 in August and the Senate version was passed in June, so the House-Senate conference committee will iron out differences between the two bills before final votes in Congress.

Clearly and simply this measure is a colossal rip-off of the taxpayers to bail out the Western banks which have extended billions of dollars in loans to Communist and Third World Nations. But it can be stopped. Popular outcry against the funding made a very close House vote, even many "liberals against the funding."

If enough Americans write immediately to Senators Cranston and Wilson and your Congressman, this bill can be stopped. Also, these California Congressmen with fairly conservative ratings who voted for HR 2957 could be persuaded to vote no: Alfred McCandless, Bob Badham and Bill Lowery. Address House Office Bldg., Washington, DC 20515, or Senate Office Bldg., Washington, DC 20510.

BACK HOME

Agnes Hein is back from a 10-day visit with her daughter, Mrs. Joe (June) Moore, and family who live in Los Lunas. She saw grandson Michael play two Young American Football League games for the Los Lunas Wildcats. Her busy schedule included a tour of area schools. She visited Central Elementary School and Daniel Fernandez Elementary School where grandchildren Michael, Sarah and Tony are enrolled; Los Lunas High School where son-in-law Joe teaches; University of New Mexico-Valencia Branch where daughter Dorothy is enrolled. She visited Los Lunas Post Office where June is employed.

During the trip Agnes went with the Moores to the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque. Joe, June and Dorothy attended the Beach Boys concert. Agnes stopped to visit with her son Carl and family who live in Albuquerque. She attended one of Carl's volleyball games.

ATTENDED WEDDING

Bertha LaFave and sons David, Raymond, and Albert attended the Sept. 24 wedding of nephew and cousin Martin Ruben Chavez of Fort Bayard. The nuptial mass for Martin and his bride Christine Maldonado, was held at St. Francis Newman Center in Silver City. A reception and a dance followed at Murray Hotel.

Martin is the son of former Carrizozo resident Ruben "Boycie" Chavez Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Chavez Sr. of Carrizozo. In addition to the LaFave family, others who attended from Carrizozo were Mrs. Ruben Chavez Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Max Saucedo and family. Bertha was in Fort Bayard for a week prior to the wedding. She was a visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Chavez Jr.

SMALL WORLD

John and Doreen Haynes of Hertfordshire, England, 20 miles north of London, were guests during the open installation of Comet chapter officers, Order of the Eastern Star. The event was Saturday evening.

The Haynes are on a self-conducted tour of the US and have visited points of interest in California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. While passing through Carrizozo they stopped to take photographs of the Masonic Temple. John is a Freemason in England.

Jack Forrester, worthy patron, and his wife, Vera, worthy matron, were in the building making preparations for the installation that evening when they became acquainted with the couple from England. The Forresters, Capitan residents, invited the Haynes to the open installation.

Back in England, Mr. Haynes is employed as a chauffeur for a corporation. Mrs. Haynes drives a taxi. They are parents of a son, 20, who works with computers; and one daughter, 16, an art student. The Haynes arrived by Pan Am in San Francisco. Accommodations throughout their travels have been good, and the US people very friendly. Expenses were higher in California and they commented that the residents in that state were not as friendly as those in other states.

WHAT'S COOKING

Zia Senior Citizens Center now has on-site cooking. Chef Macario "Mac" Lueras gave me a tour of the area where the latest in kitchen equipment will be installed. Meanwhile, Mac has been cooking a wide variety of dishes with the equipment on hand. Seniors contribute one dollar per meal. Luncheon reservations are made in order to prepare the amount of food needed. Phone 649-2121 for lunch details. Occasional guests other than seniors donate $2.25 per meal and must also make reservations.

The menu Friday through Friday looks like this: Friday, Oct. 7, green chile enchiladas, tossed salad, refried beans, Spanish rice, ice cream, orange juice. Monday, Oct. 10, Center closed, Columbus Day. Tuesday, Oct. 11, oven fried chicken with cream gravy, mashed potatoes, carrot and raisin salad, dinner roll, watermelon cubes, chilled tomato juice. Wednesday, Oct. 12, spaghetti with meat sauce, tossed salad, squash with cheese, tomatoes, garlic bread, cantalope, milk. Thursday, Oct. 13, country fried steak, scalloped potatoes, tomato wedges, cornbread, fruited gelatin, milk. Friday, Oct. 14, codfish with tartar sauce, parsley-boiled potatoes, green beans, dinner rolls, tossed salad orange.

MOTIVATION PLUS

The week of Oct. 2-8 has been designated National Cosmetology Week by the 50,000 member National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association (NHCA). This is the week all cosmetologists are recognized for their dedication to their profession. Rita Narvaez, who works at Patty's Beauty Salon, is an NHCA member, Lincoln-Otero affiliate No. 12, and the only member from Lincoln County.

Rita's interest in all phases of cosmetology is evident in her desire to upgrade the profession through continued education. Oct. 2 and 3 she attended the 37th annual trade show held at the Holiday Inn in Las Cruces. The event, sponsored by the New Mexico Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association and the New Mexico Coiffure Guild, included the latest in products and tools, platform artists and seminars.

Of the nine platform artists, Joseph Saavedra inspired Rita the most. His creative hair designs are known across the US. A former hairdresser at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, he is now owner of Joseph's in Albuquerque. Saavedra is the hairdresser of Penny Griego, Linda Thorne and Ann Hatchitt, Albuquerque newscasters on News 13.

of the bishops, has moved Father Simcox to a recollection of a passage in the Sermon on The Mount:

"Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these!" One of the denominations prelates, who serves as chairman of the Medaris canon committee, is the Rt. Rev. William deJarnette Rutherford of Fin-castle, Virginia.

Bishop Rutherford has mailed out repeated warnings concerning the problem of the Devil in his diocese. He has widely circulated — and informed the religion editor of The Richmond Times Dispatch — that there are a number of clergy and laity of his Diocese of the Mid-Atlantic States who are "neurotic," a diagnosis which is somewhat suspect, since he had previously circulated a letter claiming that they are "agents of Satan."

This occasioned the following questions-and answers, tape recorded at a meeting of the Diocesan Executive Committee, in which, as a member of the committee, I asked:

Q: How widespread in this diocese do you believe is this devilish outbreak of Satanism, bishop?

BISHOP RUTHERFOOD: It is hard to say, because people are misled by the things they read and hear. I think it's time we got things out on the table.

Q: Do you believe the Executive Committee should consider appropriating funds to retain the professional services of an exorcist?

BISHOP: Well, who knows? Who knows about that?

Q: Could you give us an approximate number of times since your ordination to the priesthood, bishop, that you have sensed the arrival of the Devil at church functions such as conventions?

BISHOP: I think this is kind of silly.

Q: Bishop, you brought up the Devil (which he had said earlier had traveled to Kansas City straight "from Hell!") and I'm simply wondering...

BISHOP: The Devil is here now!

Q: In your experience as an Episcopal priest, did you sense that the Devil was present at other conventions? Or is this something that is confined to our diocese or province?

BISHOP: The Devil is not confined.

Q: Do you believe that the Devil was operating at our diocesan synod in Richmond?

BISHOP: The Devil operates all the time! Everywhere!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Father Kinsolving is a priest of the Anglican Catholic denomination but calls the shots as they fall, as this report makes clear.)

Consumers will profit from furniture industry's biggest sale in Alamogordo

The furniture industry is in the midst of a sales event that will make history across the United States, according to Jerry Fambrough, owner of Sun City Furniture here which is participating in the National Furniture Sale and Sweepstakes.

From now through Oct. 9, retail stores here and throughout the country, have combined with manufacturers and everyone involved with furniture to provide the sale which Fambrough labels outstanding.

"The time is perfect for a sale of this magnitude," he said, "because the public's pentup need to revitalize individual homes has reached its zenith at exactly the time when the stores and manufacturers will be giving them the best values and the largest selections of truly trendsetting, quality furniture available in many, many years."

"As if this weren't enough," he continued, "the National Sweepstakes part of this event offers consumers a chance to win big. Tens of thousands of dollars in sweepstakes prizes are being offered nationally. Consumers need only come into a participating store and register to be eligible to win. No purchase is necessary, Fambrough reports.

He went on to point out that with the economy recovering, and with these outstanding values, the family putting off a purchase of home furnishings will find this the optimum time to buy.

"We, like furniture retailers all over the country, are expecting a flood of customers ready to take advantage of this rare opportunity.

He advised customers that not every retail store is participating in the event, but participating stores will be displaying the red and black symbol of the sale prominently in their windows.

Congress passes Runnels memorial

WASHINGTON — A bill to name the Federal Building in Las Cruces in honor of the late Harold Runnels has been passed by the House of Representatives and sent to President Reagan for signature. The bill, introduced by Congressman Joe Skeen, R-N.M., was passed earlier by the Senate.

"I look forward to seeing the name of Harold Runnels placed on this building as a lasting memorial to the service he performed for New Mexico and New Mexicans," Skeen said. "He was a good friend to all of us. He devoted his life to public service. It is only fitting that we recognize that service in this manner."

The three-and-a-half story building is located at 200 Griggs in Las Cruces. It was dedicated in 1974 while Runnels was Congressman from New Mexico's 2nd Congressional District.

Skeen said that after the bill is signed into law by the president plans will be made for a fitting ceremony to officially designate the building's name.

Parents, teachers to confer

On Monday, Oct. 10, from 6 to 9 p.m., Carrizozo Schools will hold their annual high school-mid school parent-teacher conferences.

All conferences will be held in the old gym as they were last year. The conferences will include grades 5-12. Parents will be given a copy of their student's schedule. Teachers will give the students' report cards directly to parents.

These conferences are important to the future of students. Parents will get the opportunity to discuss class content, homework assignments, grades and classroom behavior with their child's teacher.

It is critical that any problems a student might have be solved early in the year so that maximum student learning can take place.

Elementary school conferences will be held on Nov. 2.

School pictures will be taken on Monday, Oct. 10. Pre-school pictures will begin at 8 a.m. in the old gym.

EDITOR—This letter is addressed to each and everyone of you who help to make our county fair the best. The hard work and dedication of our Junior Livestock Sales Committee, with Pete Gnatkowski and Scott Shafer at the helm, has been rewarded with five years of continual growth in the total gross receipts. The Lincoln County Fair Board deserves a pat on the back for always searching for ways to improve our fair. The superintendent gets everything in order, with very little chaos.

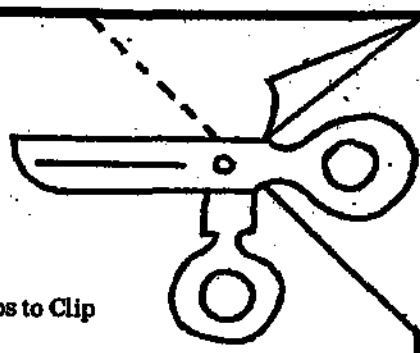

All of the volunteers pitched in to get the job done. 4-H and FFA members exhibited projects of the highest quality and with the greatest devotion. Supporters of our fair continue to help with donations. Livestock buyers purchase the finest animals in the county. 4-H leaders, 4-H agent, and FFA advisers spend many hours helping supervise their members and projects.

The Lincoln County 4-H Council believes strongly in our 4-H and FFA programs. They provide opportunities for young people that can't be found elsewhere. There are no losers in these programs, only winners.

To supporters of these programs, you not only help with the fair, but make a permanent investment in the future. Some say that all of this is taken for granted; that the fair and some good things would still happen without all of your help and support. Well, we know better. These programs could not exist without each and everyone of you. Sometimes we are slow to say so, or even forget, but we do appreciate all of the help and support and the Lincoln County 4-H Council, members, and parents would like to say thank you for making our county fair the best.

Keep feet warm

Sew a strip of muslin to one end of a short blanket. Tuck in at the foot of the bed.

Stubborn jar lids

Lining your hand with sandpaper before turning a jar lid gives you a better grip.

Weekly gift

Send a friend a year's gift subscription to the Lincoln County News. Only $11 in county and $14 out of county. Mailed weekly.

Clean piano keys

To clean piano keys, apply toothpaste to a well dampened cloth. Rub the keys well, wipe dry and buff with a dry soft cloth.

Burned food in pot

To remove burned food from an aluminum pot, fill with water, bring to boil, then remove the softened food with a wooden spoon. Finish with a steel wool polishing.

Removes clothing odors

Air just worn garments overnight before returning to the closet. It helps them get back in shape and removes possible odors.

Non-slip pliers

Fit rubber tubing over handles of pliers and they will be easier to handle. This also insulates them for safer use when making electric repairs.

Every other step

When painting steps, indoors or outdoors, paint every other one, then let them dry. Later paint the remaining ones. This way the dry steps may be walked on without ruining the paint. Just remember to label the dry steps in some way!

A peek into life here a 1,000 years ago

By DAVID E. STUART
The most remarkable period in New Mexico's prehistory spans a surprisingly brief period of time. It began as a series of experimental moves into various geographic settings. All of the western 60 percent of New Mexico was involved, so both the Anasazi people north of Route 60 and the Mogollon ones to the south participated.

Textbooks refer to this as the Pueblo II period, or to the Classic Chaco period in northern New Mexico. In southern New Mexico, it is known as Mogollon V, or Classic Mimbres.

The basics of what actually happened are clear and stunning. First, population expanded rapidly. So the number of villages and farmsteads increased dramatically. Then, economy shifted from a mix of agriculture and upland hunting to greater dependence on dry-farming large-cobbed varieties of corn. Most rainfall came in late summer and was stable from year to year during much of the period. Finally, extensive economic networks tapped the full potential of efficient agricultural practices.

There was also a frenzy of building activity, and art, politics, religion, and trade flourished. Above-ground masonry pueblos replaced the earlier pithouse style of architecture. Pueblo Bonito was built and the famous Mimbres pottery produced.

How dramatic was this frenzy of expansion and construction? Between AD 950 and 1100, the height of the Basin Classic, more than 10,000 sites were constructed in western New Mexico. While many of these are modest farmsteads, others are huge masonry strongholds, whose walls still stand.

The transition to the Basin Classic first took place about AD 850-900 among Anasazi population in the lower, drier elevations of northwestern and west central New Mexico. Early sites are characterized by small blocks of aboveground masonry rooms, metates having more grinding surface, and more refined black-on-white pottery types.

In southern New Mexico, the transition to surface architecture did not take place until roughly AD 1000. This is a major distinction between the Mimbres area and the Anasazi region. So, unlike northern New Mexico, the Basin Classic period in southwestern New Mexico includes both the last pithouse villages constructed there, and later Classic Mimbres villages.

The Basin period represents several major shifts in settlement patterns throughout western New Mexico. About AD 900 there was an upstream move into many lightly forested areas of the state, including the Navajo Reservoir, the Chuska Valley, the Sierra Blanca, and into the Upper Mimbres-Reserve districts, as well.

By about AD 950 in many areas, and AD 1000 in nearly all areas, uphill relocation ceased and there was a major downhill shift out of forested regions, followed by increasing dispersal throughout the western basins.

This expansion eventually spilled over into the eastern plains. Thus, this settlement shift was both rapid and forceful. It is no accident that nearly all the large Classic Mimbres villages are found below elevations of 6,000 feet.

It was approximately AD 1050 that the dispersal of pueblo style farming villages was near its maximum, reaching to the margins of the Eastern Plains. Complex trade networks, elaborate political structures, and impressive district trading villages were created.

By very late in the period, there had already been substantial Anasazi village expansion into the Galisteo Basin, southeast of Santa Fe, and eastward from the east slope of the Sangre de Cristos to the Las Vegas area. In the south, Mogollon population also expanded eastward across the dry, scrubby floors of the Jornada del Muerto and the Tularosa Basin at least to the valley of the Pecos.

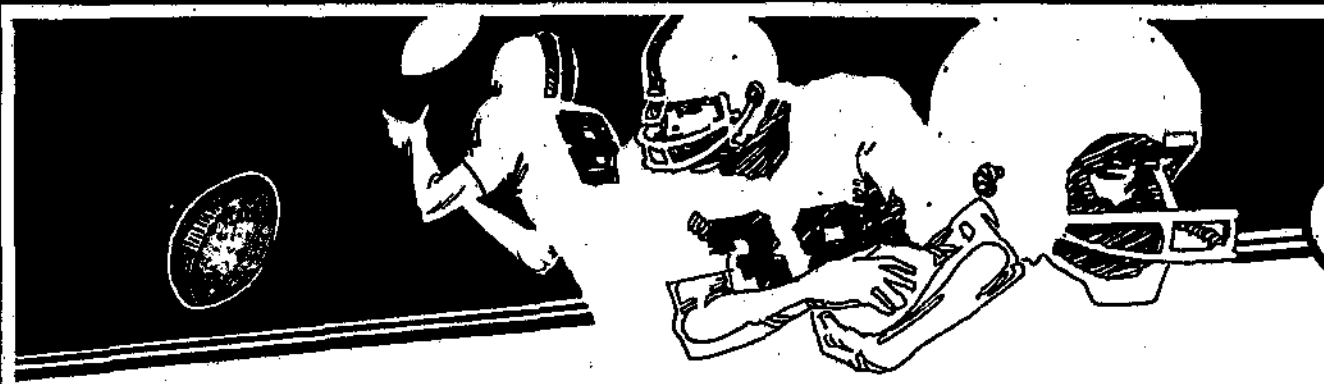

By AD 1100 the enormous, complex, and extremely fragile, regional Anasazi system assumed its final form. Though the trading network which underlay Chacoan development began to emerge between important agricultural localities in northwestern New Mexico as early as AD 900 or 950, the system assumed its ultimate complexity somewhere between AD 1080 and 1120—literally, in its final hour.

To the south, Classic Mimbres Society reached its apogee about AD 1100. The networks of Mimbres villages was neither so large nor so wealthy as the farming system of Anasazi roads and the Chacoan strongholds, but Mimbres pottery was traded over an area of nearly 40,000 square miles.

On the eastern periphery of both the Anasazi and Mogollon homelands, villages were generally smaller, jewelry and tradegoods fewer, and harvests were more modest. Settled village life only lasted several centuries in the Pecos Valley and was never re-established until recent times.

New Mexico's Heritage

The Basin Classic period ended rapidly, the Classic Mimbres area and the San Juan Basin, heartland of the Chaco-Anasazi, being largely abandoned some time in the mid AD 1100s. By AD 1150 settlement and daily economy had shifted over nearly all of western New Mexico, even though a few large Chacoan and Mimbres towns may have lingered on in a depressed state for another generation or two.

Archeologists do not agree on the causes of Chacoan and Mimbres decline. Changing patterns of rainfall, local conflict, crop failures, and environmental "burn-out" have all been proposed. But, no single factor convincingly explains the end of so grand an era.
