UDAG loan sought for new motel

James A. "Willie" Silva, owner of the Four Winds Restaurant and Lounge, was present at Monday's town meeting to find out first hand about council decisions concerning a UDAG application.

Silva and a partner, Albert Romero, plan to build a 22-unit motel in Carrizozo with UDAG assistance.

A UDAG is an Urban Development Action Grant obtained from the US Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under an act of Congress. The HUD people have about $110 million a year to give to small towns.

The two men plan to build the motel across the highway from Jackie's Cafe. Romero, former New Mexico finance and administration director and now the state's auditor, did not accompany Silva to the town meeting.

A letter addressed to the mayor and trustees from Silva and Romero was read by Mayor Harold Garcia. The men wanted the council's decision on the interest rate the town plans to charge them. Silva and Romero ask for six (6) percent, as this figure is the rate they feel they can pay back without any difficulty. They also state that this rate is the average that other municipalities are given on loans of this type.

The UDAG money that the men seek is approximately $90,000. The total project cost is $476,843.

Based on a 10-year loan their payment would be approximately $1,000 a month, according to Silva and Romero. At the end of 10 years they will have paid back to the town approximately $119,000 to $120,000.

Hubert Quintana, of the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SNMEDD) of Roswell, told the council at Monday's meeting that the money paid back by Silva and Romero becomes "seed money for economic development in Carrizozo," creating a revolving loan plan for community growth in business and industry.

Quintana, who is assisting the town with the UDAG application, told the council the motel project will create 45 jobs during the construction phase and eight permanent jobs when the project is completed.

Work begins this week on the environmental assessment required by HUD and an historical properties assessment required by the State Historic Preservation Office. A flood hazard report for the project will be prepared by SNMEDD.

The zoning of the property has been checked and there is no problem as it is within the area zoned tourism and community commercial. The project will not require relocation of people or business," Quintana said.

The property is not served by municipal water or sanitary sewer. The developers have included in their cost the extension of a 2" water line and a 6" sanitary sewer line to the property. These costs will be paid for directly from UDAG funds and will belong to the town upon completion.

Quintana asked the council to schedule a public hearing for the motel project. "The hearing will enable us to include public comments and to do the necessary research that may arise from the hearing before a finalized application is presented to you at your next regular meeting in February."

Should the project be funded in March, construction will begin April 1 and be completed by Oct. 1, 1983. The UDAG application is due in Dallas by Feb. 28.

A public hearing date is set for Wednesday, Jan. 19, at the town hall at 7 p.m.

The Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce, which was instrumental in bringing the principals and the town together on the UDAG project, support the project.

The mayor told Silva that their decision on the interest rate charge will be made after the public hearing is conducted.

Mayor Garcia recommended to the council that David La Fave be appointed to the council seat vacated by Betty Fields. The vote was unanimous and La Fave was promptly sworn in by town attorney Don Wall.

On recommending La Fave, Garcia said that the appointment would create equal representation throughout the community and that La Fave's goal is the town's welfare.

Garcia assigned La Fave to "streets and parks" and appointed him to serve as mayor pro tem.

La Fave is employed in the county's appraisal department as a mapper. He works part time at the Lincoln County News. Born and raised in Carrizozo, he

No 'typical' day for them

State police officers adjust to Carrizozo assignment

By P. E. CHAVEZ

"Every day is different," says New Mexico State Police. Randy Rhue, who was asked to comment on a typical day in the life of a state police officer. Two such officers have recently been assigned to Carrizozo.

In addition to patrolling the highways, filling out forms is part of an officer's daily work. Their daily activity logs include an account of all accidents, miles patrolled, citations issued and other contacts.

The responsibility and duties of a state police officer is much wider in scope than most people realize. They deal with angry, frightened, desperate people, some are drunk and violent.

Rhue, a state policeman since October 1978, says training for state police officers consists of all aspects of law enforcement, from citations to murder. Although their main work is on highways, they are not merely traffic enforcement officers.

Officer Rhue's previous assignment before coming to Carrizozo was the South Valley in Albuquerque, where criminal activity is continuous. The area was his first assignment following his training and graduation from the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy at Santa Fe.

On learning that an opening existed in Carrizozo, Rhue requested a transfer. He arrived here on Dec. 4 and has been gradually adjusting to the low crime rate, in comparison to the South Valley.

He says people here are friendlier and "show more respect for the uniform." He enjoys the relaxing atmosphere and hopes to remain here a long time.

Having been born in Ruidoso 25 years ago and raised in Alamogordo, Rhue is familiar with this environment. He graduated from high school in 1975. Before becoming a state policeman, he was in charge of the garden department at Alamogordo's K-Mart. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Rhue, still reside in Alamogordo, as well as a younger sister, Cindi Hein. Rhue and his wife Cindi, also an Alamogordo native, are parents of two daughters. Terri, 6, attends kindergarten. Brandi is 2. The Rhues are members of Bethel Baptist Church of Alamogordo.

A spouse knows better than anyone the sacrifices made by police officers on a daily basis. Officers are expected to sacrifice their time, health, family, and even their life in their call of duty.

Rhue credits wife Cindi as a main force in his chosen career. "She helps keep me going." He believes that she deserves to be recognized for her support.

The late Cecil Jones, a former Lincoln County sheriff's deputy, was Rhue's grandfather. Jones, who died in 1977, served under former Sheriff S. M. Ortiz in the mid-1950s through the early 1960s. Jones later worked with the Alamogordo Police Department.

Officer Rhue and his family live in their trailer located on the school's vo-ag farm land. They keep an eye on the facility for the vo-ag department.

Rhue loves small town living. "I don't know why anybody would want to move from here."

Heriberto Flores was a member of the graduating class of '82 held at the New Mexico State Police Complex on Oct. 29. The event marked the 40th recruit school graduation ceremony for New Mexico State Police.

A NMSP graduate begins as a junior patrolman. Following a two-year probational period, he or she advances to patrolman. After five years' service as a patrolman and passing the necessary exams, the officer may be promoted to the rank of sergeant. Other ranks are lieutenant, captain, major, department chief and chief.

The state policemen serving in Lincoln County are under the command of Capt. Jim Syling Jr. of Alamogordo. Flores and Rhue are two of six officers in the county under the immediate supervision of Sgt. Jack E. Johnson of Capitan.

Richard C. DeBaca assumed the duties as chief of the NMSP on Dec. 1, 1982. Headquarters are in Santa Fe.

In February of 1982, Flores started filling out applications to become a state policeman. This was followed by interviews, which are part of the selection process. State police hopefuls must pass an extensive background investigation "To see if you are what you say you are in your application," says Flores.

Flores was among 45 applicants accepted for state police training at the academy. He was among the 35 who successfully completed the course and graduated in October. One female was among the diploma bearers.

The new recruits have the training fresh in their minds, but all state police officers are required to attend in-service training which includes new investigative methods and current crime solving techniques. Refresher courses on first aid, CPR, radar and pursuit driving are also taught.

Upon being assigned to Carrizozo last Nov. 3, Flores rode with Patrolman Jim A. Hiltzley of Corona. Following a month of out-in-the-field training, Flores was given his own unit (vehicle). He completed his plans for moving his family to Carrizozo.

In riding with a seasoned patrolman, a junior patrolman learns things not taught in classroom training. He is critiqued by the senior patrolman, who also helps him in getting familiar with the area.

Although Flores, age 28, is in the first ranks of state policing, he is no stranger to law enforcing and the New Mexico Law Academy.

A Texas native, he was born in Laredo. He attended the University of Texas in El Paso for two years. He worked as a security guard for FBA Securities Systems in El Paso.

He came to New Mexico in 1980 when he began work with the Silver City Police Department. Following a year with the department, he served for two years as a Grants County sheriff's deputy. While holding this position he was required to attend a 6-week training session at the academy. He later returned for the 3-month training to become a state policeman.

A tragedy was averted early Wednesday morning when fire broke out at the Charles and Mary Adams farm near the airport.

A barn housing valuable Polypay sheep and several Akbash puppies caught fire about 3:30 a.m. Mike Gaines, advisor for the Future Farmers of America, and Bob Hemphill, FFA officer, discovered the smoke and rushed to the barn and had the fire under control when the Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Dept. arrived, Adams said.

Apparently, heat lamps that had been plugged in to warm sheep, which are due to lamb at any time, started the blaze by coming in contact with hay on the barn floor.

There was no extensive damage to the frame structure and no injury to the animals,

Adams said.

Gaines and Hemphill were at the vo-ag building, setting up with a pig that was about to birth a litter of piglets, when they observed smoke coming from the nearby Adams barn.

The herd of 11 Polypay sheep in the barn at the time of the fire were obtained from a sheep experimental station in Dubois, Idaho. Adams is introducing the type in New Mexico because the breed is noted for its multiple births. The specie, Adams said, yield more pounds per weaned lamb than any other.

The Akbash puppies, which were locked in a kennel next to the barn, are valued at $3500. It is a Turkish breed being introduced into New Mexico by Adams as a superior means of controlling sheep predators.

Extended hospital care for elderly

Elderly people living in 26 rural communities in five states, including New Mexico, will have a better chance of finding long-term care close to home because of grants totaling $2.3 million announced today by The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation of Princeton, N.J.

The hospitals receiving funds — all less than 50 beds in size — each will make available three to 12 beds under what is called the "swing-bed" concept. Under this approach, hospitals can shift the care offered in these beds from short-term services for acutely ill people to long-term care for chronically ill elderly patients and back again depending upon patient need.

The grants range from $64,000 to $176,000 for two years and successful projects will be considered for an additional two years of support. The hospitals are located in Kansas, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, and North Dakota.

Rural hospitals in New Mexico participating in extended-care services include: Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital, Ruidoso; Dr. Dan C. Trigg Memorial Hospital, Tucumcari; Cuba Hospital, Cuba; Sierra Vista Hospital, T or C; Nor-Lea General Hospital, Lovington; and Northern Colfax County Hospital, Raton.

According to the president of the foundation, Dr. David E. Rogers, "The intent of the swing-bed concept is to increase long-term care services in rural areas where a shortage of nursing home beds is often paralleled by vacant hospital beds. By enabling hospitals to care for long-term patients, elderly persons and their families can avoid the inconvenience and dislocation that result from being forced to find care in distant communities."

"The swing-bed concept," he added, "thus also could improve the financial picture for rural hospitals which are so important to their communities economically as well as medically."

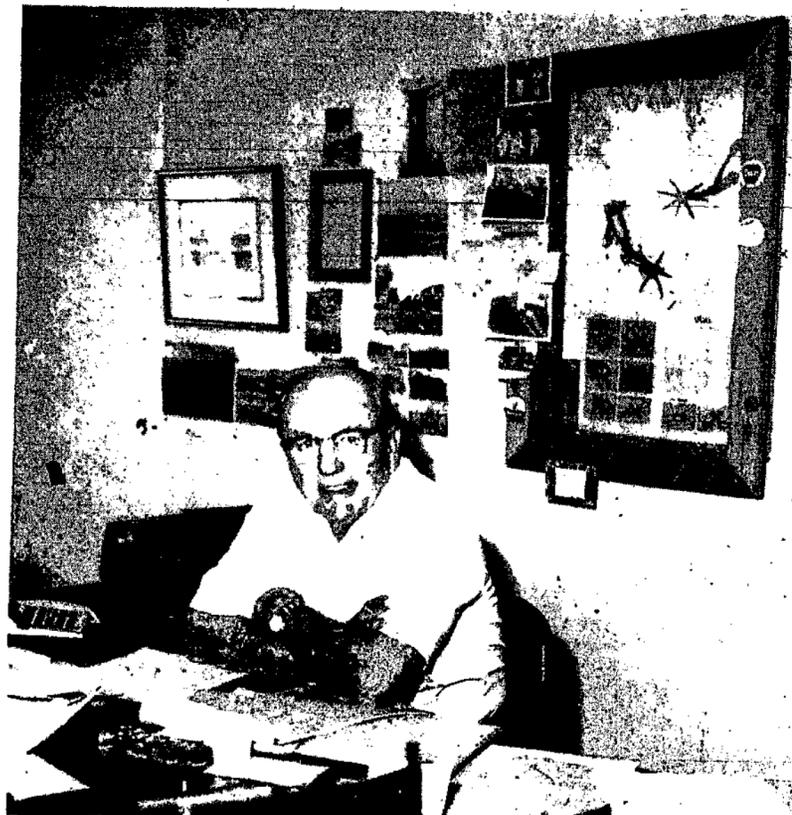

Each project varies, but generally the funds will be used by the hospitals to support a nurse who will direct the program and other such nurses and professionals as social workers, physical therapists, and occupational therapists — all with training necessary to care for the long-term patient and his or her family. Funds will also be used to retrain existing hospital staff and community volunteers.

The cost of the care provided will be met largely by Medicare and Medicaid, the two principal government programs paying for health services for the elderly. Recently approved federal regulations enable all hospitals with less than 50 beds to seek payment from these programs for providing long-term care.

The grant program, which is co-sponsored by the American Hospital Association, began a year ago when the state hospital associations in each of the five states were funded by the Foundation to help member hospitals prepare applications for support. Now that the hospitals have been funded, the state associations will continue to provide technical assistance to the funded institutions and to other hospitals in their states wanting to try the swing-bed approach to long-term care.

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Rural Hospital Program of Extended-Care Services is administered by New York University under the direction of Dr. Anthony Koyner who is also director of the University's Program in Health Policy, Planning and Administration and a senior program consultant of the Foundation. The New Jersey-based foundation is the largest health care philanthropy in the United States. In 1968 it received the bulk of the estate of the late Robert Wood Johnson and began a national grant program to improve health care in the United States. Since 1972 the Foundation has made $600 million in grants.

Recently retired as president of Citizens State Bank, he has decorated his real estate office with memorabilia of early days in the area.

"While I am encouraged by recent developments, I realize there will be no easy solution to this 40-year-old problem. However, it is clear that we are making progress and I am hoping we may finally be heading in the right direction in settling this dispute," Skeen said. "This meeting is designed to gather new information, offer a basis for a solution, and provide a forum for a mutual understanding of this conflict," he said.

The controversy over whether the ranchers who gave their ranching operations to the government for the missile range were fairly compensated has been brewing since the range was first established during the early years of World War II. The dispute was again brought to the public's attention last October when former rancher David McDonald and his niece re-occupied their property inside the missile range for several days. McDonald still holds the deed to the land. The pair left after Skeen and Senator (Jack) Schmitt went to the range and inspected the remains of the McDonald home. Skeen and Schmitt told the McDonalds they would take steps to try to end the controversy.

graduated from high school with the class of '67. He is the son of Bertha La Fave of Carrizozo.

A group of Carrizozo FFA'ers and their supporters were on hand last Monday, when the FFA told the town council about their offer to design and construct a softball park for the town under the Building Our American Communities (BOAC) program. BOAC is a national FFA chapter community development program.

FFA president Robert Hemphill told the council about other BOAC projects the chapter has participated in and has received honors for. They include the solar heating for the Rec Center, swimming pool improvements, park trash can additions, assistance in the recently completed Fred Chavez Park basketball court and the restoration of the Evergreen Cemetery sign.

The proposed softball park is to be located on Country Club land across from the Little League field at the Carrizozo Recreation Area. Preliminary discussions with the club's board of directors have been undertaken to determine the present status and future plans for the land.

Hemphill asked the council if the chapter could use the cigarette tax proceeds of 1982-83 and 1983-84. This tax is allocated for community recreation. A total of $2,000 is needed by the FFA for materials to begin construction of the softball park.

The county, Carrizozo FFA Alumni Association, all local adult softball teams and the Knights of Columbus have expressed interest in helping the FFA chapter. Labor will be provided by softball teams, the FFA and Carrizozo schools. In the summer of 1982 three men's teams were organized and played in regional leagues. All three teams placed high in the league and post-season standings, representing their Carrizozo business sponsors well.

The conflict of adult team practices including womens teams, with the four Little League teams was one of several problems that plagued the adult softball program. Another was the 40-mile trip to play all games at Ft. Stanton, where the nearest regulation size field is located.

The council was pleased with the FFA effort to construct a field and gave the group a "tentative" yes on its request for money. They were told to approach the council again when the lease or purchase options on the acreage is definite.

The council approved an appointment by Chief of Police C. A. Morales, who named Officer Guy Brown as second-in-command. Morales complimented the manner in which Brown performs his duties in dealing with the public and acknowledged Brown's law enforcement training.

Verna Rodman was denied a request for a water bill adjustment. Although the council sympathized with her predicament, Rodman will be expected to pay the water bill which totaled $216.

Rodman and her husband who were in Colorado for a holiday vacation, returned to discover that 199,100 gallons of water had been registered in their water meter. No evidence has been located that an underground pipe in their property has burst. The Rodmans at their expense, continue to look for a leakage.

I am a candidate for Position 5 on the Carrizozo School Board because I want to serve.

One of my priorities is to do a positive study of why students travel to attend schools in other districts.

I want to help:
 1.) Identify conditions that cause students living here to prefer other schools;
 2.) Make positive changes in negative conditions that cause our students to attend schools away from home; and,
 3.) Provide improved conditions to encourage our students to attend their home-community school.

The award is one of 22 Proficiency Awards presented annually at local, state, regional, and national levels to recognize FFA members for achievements in activities leading to careers in agriculture. The regional winner was Jeff Cronkhite of Okarche, OK who has received a plaque, a check for $250 and partially paid travel expenses to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City in November. At the convention Cronkhite competed against Regional Fish and Wildlife Management Proficiency Award winners selected in each of the other three FFA regions.

CONGRESS is back and so is the Equal Rights Amendment. ERA is something like herpes. There's no cure for it and it breaks out at regular intervals. I have never understood why some women want an equal rights amendment to the US Constitution when all their rights are protected under that Constitution in the first place. The 14th Amendment, Sec. 1, reads: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." If women believe this 14th Amendment does not guarantee them equal rights then they must not regard themselves as "citizens" or even as "persons." The proposed Equal Rights Amendment reads: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex." What this ERA says is precisely what the 14th Amendment says. Then why all the fuss, the emotional tirades by women of the fevered brow, the breast-beating, the threats and organized political demonstrations in behalf of an ERA?

THE ANSWER probably lies in one three-letter word. The ERA duplicates the 14th Amendment in every word except that three-letter word. The ERA would provide women nothing which the 14th does not, were it not for the three-letter word—sex. As an attorney friend points out, had the word "gender" been used in the ERA instead of "sex" there would be no earthly excuse for the ERA in the first place. "Gender" means male or female. "Sex" means something entirely different, and that difference escapes most people. Does sex mean heterosexual, homosexual, unisex, no sex or sex a-plenty? So, what the ERA is, as it is written, is a foot in the door to constitutionally prohibit any person or entity from treating lesbians, homosexuals or any pervert different from any normal persons.

NOBODY BUT an ass would deny women equality with men in all things. But what I resent about the wording of the ERA is the sneaky way it attempts to force acceptance of a lifestyle that is repugnant to most Americans; to exalt sexual perversion in a culture that rejects it; and to legitimize practices that have been held immoral and despicable. It is a clear violation of a person's choice to associate with whom he pleases, even socially. It dignifies degradation.

THAT, SIMPLY, is why people object to ERA and it is also why there is strong support for its passage. It has nothing to do with equal pay for equal work. Its passage will not take women out of low-paying jobs. It will not put more women in executive positions or increase their presence in the professions. Employers will still hire women as they hire men—for what they can do and for what they are willing to work for. It is commonly held that women make 99 cents for every dollar paid to men. The remedy doesn't lie in ERA. It lies in women refusing to work for what they consider inadequate pay, which is also men's answer to low pay. It does not take a constitutional amendment to create physicians, lawyers, scientists and industrial giants. Women are free to enter those fields now, and they are doing so.

THE BUREAU of Labor Statistics reports that, in every field in which there are 50,000 or more people, men earn more than women do. That is used as an argument for ERA, and it isn't a good one. Among those same 50,000 are men who do not earn as much as other men, or women. Must they all be paid equally regardless of experience, tenure, or ability to produce? ERA says yes, and that is dead wrong. I have been in the employment field for nearly 50 years and I have never heard of an employer who paid women less simply because they were women. Employers hire people who produce and pay according to their ability to do so. That is good solid business sense, and gender has nothing to do with it.

THE MEDIA seldom touches upon ERA as a sexist revolution. It doesn't tell subscribers and listeners that ERA is supported 100 percent by homosexual organizations—or why. It only appeals to our sense of justice and fair play in mandating equality for women in the market place, thus making it appear that those who oppose ERA do so only to keep women in economic subjugation. If ERA is adopted, as I believe it will be, only then will the public understand that ERA has little to do with equal opportunity for women.

THE CLERGY is in danger of becoming as nutty as the rest of us. The US Navy commissioned a new submarine at Groton, Conn., last week. Members of the clergy were present to protest the "blasphemy" of christening the sub The City of Corpus Christi after the city of the same name in Texas. Dancing gingerly on the point of a needle, said clergy interpreted the name to be the Latin term, "corpus christi," which means body of Christ. This is the same tortured reasoning that caused the city of Siena, Italy, to enact a law prohibiting any women named Mary from working as a prostitute.

SUFFER little children—A New York judge ruled a 13-year-old competent to stand trial on charges that he shot his mother to death because she made him go to school. In Woonsocket, RI, a teenage mother was sent to prison for abusing her two children by feeding them beer to make them sleepy so she could go out, hair-raising. Ed Hellman of St. Louis has been a department store Santa Claus for 20 years. He was forced to retire last month because children kicked his shins. The constant kicking in the shins broke veins in his legs and he is now forced to walk on crutches.

POSTAL service continues to improve. A newspaper mailed to me on Dec. 3, 1982 in California arrived in Carrizozo promptly on Jan. 8, 1983. Back in 430 B.C. Herodotus, known as the Father of History, wrote this tribute to post riders of ancient Persia: "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds." The UP Post Office thought so much of the sentiment that it is carved over the entrance to the central post office in New York. Maybe we should require each postal worker to go to the blackboard and write that sentence 100 times! Carrizozo Postmaster Nick Serna can't be listed among those who hold up newspapers even though regulations call for their being handled as first-class mail. Serna has spent countless hours at this newspaper's office instructing us in how to save time and money on mailing newspapers all over the country. He treats newspapers as first-class mail, as postal regulations require. But somewhere along the way other and less responsible people handle this mail, and our own Lincoln County News take up to two weeks to reach its destination.

Famous last words: "There isn't a single person in the Soviet Union who has lost his freedom for political reasons."—Radio Moscow, Aug. 5, 1982, in a broadcast beamed to Finland.

Inside Religion

How to stop child-murder in religious communes

By LESTER KINSOLVING

Joe Green was one month away from his second birthday when he was beaten to death in a religious commune in West Virginia.

For two hours, Joey's mother and father, Leslie and Stuart Green, allegedly beat their small son with a paddle until he died.

The State of West Virginia has charged them with involuntary manslaughter. But their religious commune believes that such extended beating of errant children (Joey had struck a playmate) is prescribed in the Bible, in such as Proverbs 13:24: "He that spareth the rod hateth his child."

So they loved Joey — to death. Mrs. Green has since given birth to another child, which the Greens reportedly interpret as a sign that God approves of what the State of West Virginia has charged is involuntary.

The terminology of this indictment suggest that the Greens had temporarily lost control of their senses, when they appear to have known exactly what they were doing. Even if the Greens are found guilty and sent to prison, how will such incarceration protect the other children who were unlucky enough to be born into this and other such lethal religious communes?

There are reports that such child-beating is also practiced by a religious commune in Northern Vermont, where three babies have died from the effects of being denied medical treatment.

Another child-beating cult, which for years used religion as a cloak to cover the most horrendous beatings and other torture of its children, was the Peoples Temple of the Rev. Jim Jones. But neither the State of California nor the FBI nor the City of San Francisco (where Jones was put in charge of the federally financed housing) would investigate and prosecute. Neither would Jones's denomination, the Christian Church Disciples of Christ, other than sending an attorney from Indianapolis for a one-day visit.

Whenever there is evidence of any such child abuse — or of ecclesiastical brainwashing — the state surely has an obligation to protect the young.

This obligation might be accomplished by state and federal legislation, whereby courts could, for just cause, appoint on-site conservators for the children — at the cult's expense.

These conservators, operating on three shifts each day and night, would, by law, have access to all ceremonies or other activities of such cults, whose desire for secrecy would have to give way to the state's compelling interest in protecting the lives and health — of the young.

If the Department of Justice can provide effective conservators for anything as scandal-ridden as the Teamster's Pension Fund, it should certainly be able to provide effective and badly needed federal watchdogs for the cults.

Congress and the state legislatures have generally proven to be very reluctant to pass any legislation that imposes restraints on religious groups, whether state supervision of pension plans for enforcing the lobbyist registration laws in Congress for religious lobbyists or requiring religious charities to make public disclosure of their financial records.

Yet parents who suffer the agony of seeing their children taken from them by brainwashing cults surely deserve as much protection by the state as the general public is provided by police action against con artists.

Children who are beaten to death, or threatened with such beatings by fanatical parents, also deserve protection from the state — which they are not getting.

New Mexico in Washington

House raises pay; Senate smarter

By LESTER KINSOLVING

WASHINGTON — Cartoonist Patrick Ollphant shows a small duck on crutches wobbling away from an enormous egg entitled: "Congressional Pay Raise." Caption: "No wonder he's lame."

New Mexico's two Republican Congressmen, Joe Skeen and Manuel Lujan, both voted against raising their own salaries by 15 percent — but they lost to a majority.

This will mean that members of the House of Representatives will be paid some $9,000 more a year than US Senators.

The Senate is showing little trauma at all at this prospect of being, officially, of so much less worth than members of the "Lower House." For on the very same day that the Democratic-controlled House voted itself this whopping pay hike, the wily Senators voted 54-38 to repeal Rule 36 of the Senate Rules.

Rule 36 limits a Senator's outside income — from such lucrative activities as the lecture circuit — to no more than $25,000.

This limitation provision might be termed "The Jim Abourezk Memorial." For this former Senator from South Dakota, who was the PLO's loudest voice on Capitol Hill, accepted such fees as $10,000 and $8,000 — for only two speeches, from Arab groups. (Abourezk, one of the Washington Post's favorite liberals — and leakers — after deciding, in the light of one disastrous poll, that he would not run for reelection, began flacking for the great humanitarian, Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini.)

New Mexico's Sen. Pete Domenici voted for repeal of this Senate Rule. His press aide, Jim Bradshaw, when asked by the Lincoln County News about this vote, replied that Domenici "has vigorously voted against pay increases for the Senate. As for his outside income, he has donated most of it to charity."

When asked how much was this outside income; and how much was given, to what charities; and whether the Chairman of the Senate Budget Committee believes that his colleagues will voluntarily show more restraint than James ("My name is Jimmy; I'll take all you'll gimme") Abourezk, Domenici spokesman Bradshaw said he would ask and phone back within the hour.

He failed to do so, and when we phoned back, he had left for the day.

By their taking the ceiling off the lucrative outside income provision, the 54 Senators like Domenici who voted for this repeal avoided the House odium of voting itself a whopping pay raise while there are 12 million Americans unemployed.

For the considerable segment of these 12 million who are not disabled and are desperately looking for a job, the arguments for a 15 percent pay increase to $89,000 must sound outrageous:

It is said that many of the House members, as lawyers, could earn much more in the private sector. Raising such a consideration begs the question of why don't they; and why it is that in American history there has never been a serious shortage of Congressional candidates for a position whose only qualifications is age and literacy.

It is said that members of the House have extraordinary expenses, such as maintaining two residences, one in the Washington area, the other in their district.

Letters to the Editor

The ritual of 'rights'

EDITOR — I have just returned from a meeting, "Commissioners Update" held in Albuquerque on Jan. 6 and 8, and put on by the New Mexico Association of Counties.

A day and a half was devoted to telling new commissioners of their responsibilities as members of the governing body of the county. In short, much of what we must do is mandated by law, not only WHAT we must do but also WHEN we must do it. Much time was spent telling us what we cannot do. It seems that everyone has rights — which we are obliged to honor — without fail. Indeed our constituents have their rights as do employees, and most definitely prisoners have their rights.

I came home wondering if there really is a way for us to function completely legally. The Open Meetings Law, the Civil Rights Law, the Prisoners Rights Law to mention a few. Some of the decisions our judges are handing down as a result of these laws are terrible. It makes one wonder "Why did I ever get into this job?" On the other hand one can not better the situation by quitting. I am more determined to stay with it and do the very best I know how.

We all need to talk to our legislators and voice our concerns about the effect some of these laws are having. I expect to continue working through the Association of Counties to try to effect some changes as they lobby the state legislators before and during the coming sessions.

JOHN A. HIGHTOWER, Lincoln County Commissioner.

Illustrious native

EDITOR — See the enclosed clip from last Saturday's Kansas City Times on Mrs. (Lucille) Belden, one of the illustrious natives of Lincoln County. An interesting woman, and she has a lot of clout in Northeast Kansas.

Thanks for the holiday greeting and the nice things you said about our mutual friend Dwight Payton. He was in Kansas a long time, as you know, and left his mark — especially in the Overbrook community, where he is a legend, and statewide in soil conservation and politics.

We enjoy Lincoln County News and can already see why you and the Paytons are mucho sympatico. I may send a few copies to Harry Bowman, editor and publisher of Washington County News in the western tip of Virginia.

HARRY COFFMAN, Vassar, KS.

(ED. NOTE — Lucille Belden, 82, recently retired as editor of the Horton (KS) Headlight, ending a 24-year newspaper career. She was born in Lincoln County in 1900 and spent two years at the University of New Mexico in 1922-23, studying journalism. Thanks, Mr. Coffman, for calling her to our attention.)

'Part of the problem'

EDITOR: In the Opinion column of the Jan. 6 edition the statement was made that "One event to which our black brothers apparently look forward is a reasonable excuse to start a riot." Then, "Blacks are not going to be 'given' full equality or respect in this society; they're going to earn it."

To imply that all black people enjoy rioting and that none has earned respect is to generalize in the same way as those who say that all policemen are "pigs." Such generalizations only encourage frustration and violence which hurt us all.

Reasonable people of all races deplore rioting and looting. By not using the phrase "some blacks" your editorial becomes part of the problem.

Coyotes and the SPCA

Regarding Kinsolving's column: "Bad News for Coyotes..." I read with more than usual interest because of a story I heard during our visit to Montana in 1982.

At the Sheepman's Convention, the principal topic was killing all the coyotes in order to save the sheep population. A group of SPCA heard of this and a group of women stormed into the meeting and protested. The female spokesperson said if they killed off all the coyotes it would upset the balance of nature, but the female added we have an alternate plan: "Catch all of the male coyotes and castrate them and that will solve the problem." "Lady," the sheepchairman said, "the coyotes are not screwing our sheep to death, they are killing them."

N. STEVENSON, Laguna Hills, CA.

'Too much, too secret, too long'

EDITOR — In your Lincoln County News dated March 23, 1982, you published my letter questioning a front page story in your March 18 Lincoln County News. That story, under a kicker "Carrizozo School Board" was headlined "Principal Dennis Sidebottom Rehired."

The story stated (referring to Mr. Sidebottom) "Among accomplishments cited was the principal's better overall discipline compared to other years and how this contributed to the learning process." The reporter went on to write that good rapport with the faculty was another plus.

About the discipline: Most of the 1980-81 faculty returned for the 1981-82 school year. It was the faculty that caused the better overall discipline. The discipline difference was that whereas the previous principal frowned on teachers who took disciplinary action, Mr. Sidebottom permitted them to do so. I know of no incidents in which Mr. Sidebottom initiated disciplinary action and am aware of incidents wherein he did not administer punishment unless he had a teacher as a buffer between himself and potential parent and student complaints. I have a canceled check, interested people may view it if they wish, which is a better measurement of Mr. Sidebottom's effectiveness as a disciplinarian.

Regarding Mr. Sidebottom's rapport with the faculty; under his unique methods of supervision and improvement of instruction, there was so much fear and suspicion that the teachers' lounge-workroom was totally devoid of holiday goodies and get-togethers during the Yuletide.

On April 25, 1982, you graciously printed my second letter. It questioned a front page story under the kicker "Board of Education" and was headlined "School Personnel Offered Contracts." In this story, you printed, "The Carrizozo Board of Education met in closed session to review employment recommendations for the 1982-83 school year."

Your reports could not have been at that closed session, hence the considerable journalistic integrity of the Lincoln County News is not diminished by the misinformation in the following paragraph.

The paragraph in question reported that observations, conferences, and written evaluations were completed on all school employees prior to the employment review. In fact, some observations, conferences and written evaluations had not been completed; others, though completed, had been done via processes that did not meet the school's written evaluation policy.

Your publishing these letters of nearly a year ago should have sufficed to bring about correction of factors concerned with misdirection and misinformation. However, only today, January owned house at 1600 Pennsylvania, he and Mrs. Bush have not complained about their large quarters at the Naval Observatory.

It is said that members of the House and Senate have a horrendous workload. And so they do — some of it due to their own making, like lawyers who compose terribly technical, and complicated laws. But the Congress also has a huge staff of people to assist members of Congress. The Senate, for example, costs the taxpayers more than the entire national budget of 47 countries.

Then there are the wide range of attractive and expensive fringe benefits, running from free medical care to handsome retirement, along with a host of subsidized services from dining room to health clubs (those Congressional gymnasiums.)

Members of Congress, when all those fringes are added up (not to mention the glorious worldwide junket opportunities — and the lobbyist job offers upon retirement or defeat) make at least 10 times the poverty level. And despite this, with the 12 million unemployed, the House of Representatives — the majority of whom are those We-really-care-for-the-poor Democrats — have voted themselves a 15 percent pay raise.

Apparently Election Day in November 1984 seems long enough away that those members of the House think that people may forget.

'Pat on the Back'

EDITOR—Volunteers and volunteer groups are becoming more and more important to the operation of many organizations in these economic times. In order to assist in the area of recognition of your volunteers for their work, Live Eyewitness News 4, with the help of the Governor's Office of Volunteer Services, has begun a segment on our 10 o'clock newscast called "Pat on the Back." "Pat on the Back" is a short segment in which we recognize volunteers by telling our viewers about their work in the community.

We here at KOB-TV need your help in locating these volunteers. If you know of a volunteer (s) or just someone who deserves a pat on the back for a job well done, please drop us a line. Give us a written description on why your nomination (s) should be given a "Pat on the Back". Please send your nominations to:

WEEKEND VISITORS
Jen Gutierrez of Albuquerque was a guest of Bertha La Fave this past weekend.

Capitan residents Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Chavez were visitors in Carrizozo Saturday.

Weekend company in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pres Pino were Las Vegas, NM, residents, their daughter, Margie Martinez; her daughter, Valerie; and Margie's friend, Norma Jean Sanchez and son Paul Anthony.

They were accompanied by Margie's boyfriend, Bob Maloof, and his friend, Mike Seward, also from Las Vegas.

Margie, former Carrizozo resident and graduate, and her friend Norma are students at the Las Vegas Psychiatric Technician School.

MORE HOLIDAY TRIPS

Christmas day, Johnson and Margaret Stearns visited in Las Cruces in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Charles Glover, and her family.

Dr. and Mrs. Dale Goad and son Briton returned to Carrizozo after spending the Christmas holiday in Oklahoma visiting with Dale's relatives.

Mrs. Goad (Cherri) and 19-month-old Briton were in Canyon, TX, on Dec. 19 to help Floyd Tomlison celebrate his 80th birthday. He is Briton's maternal great-grandfather. The celebration was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Tomlison, with Cherri attending the guest book.

ATTEND WEDDING

Charles and Mary Adams are back in the Chamari offices after enjoying a month-long vacation (Dec. 1-30). Their first stop was New York City, where they stayed approximately five days.

While in New York they attended the wedding rehearsal dinner and wedding of Mary's son, Chris Rich, and his fiancée, Nancy Frangiops. The Rainbow Room on top of the NBC Building was the site of the dinner for the two daytime television stars of "Another World."

As all avid AW fans know (like Zachary), Chris plays the part of "Sandy" and Nancy portrays "Cecile." The two were united in a real life December wedding held at Stone Ridge, NY, two hours from New York City.

VACATION ROUTE

The next stop for Charles and Mary was Easton, CT, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gabert. The Gaberts, friends of the couple, live in a colonial home built in 1710.

In New Haven, CT, the Carrizozo couple visited at Yale University. Charles is a graduate student of Yale.

They attended a business conference in Boston, MA, as guests of the Sherton Corporation.

Dec. 11 they flew to Haiti, spending one week in it's capital, Port-au-Prince, conducting business for Chamari, Inc. and Taeria Foundation.

This was followed by five days in the Haiti mountains where a children's home, funded by Taeria, is located. The Adamses spent Christmas Eve and Day with the 28 children who live here.

The area can only be reached by traveling in a jeep or by mule. Before leaving Haiti, Charles and Mary spent four days touring the south coast, stopping to visit several missions along the way.

DID YOU KNOW

Anyone can participate in the varied activities at the Zia Senior Citizens Centers in Carrizozo, Capitan and Corona. The only requirement for participation in the program is the minimum age of 60. People 55-60 can participate, but first priority is given to those who are 60 and over. If one spouse is 60 or over, the other spouse, regardless of age is eligible for services and activities of the center.

Any age group may join in the activities of each center as long as priority is given as quoted above. The center's director, Barbara Ward, invites pool players, quilters, and craft item makers to help their programs along. This is a fundraising year for all three centers, and they welcome suggestions and solicit volunteers.

Note: Carrizozo seniors join in on the center's lunch program. You will find the daily menus posted at the Family Pharmacy, the Gift Gallery and at the two banks. Take a look, call the center and let them know you are coming to lunch.

During the holiday season, Marian Spencer and Girl Scout Troop No. 14 sang carols and presented homemade jelly to the seniors in Carrizozo. And in Capitan, the Capitan School Choral Group sang carols at the opening day celebration.

MARK YOUR CALENDAR

Senior citizens and other interested people have a unique opportunity to hear a speaker on Family Relationships, right here in Lincoln County. Leo Yates, Extension Family Specialist from NMSU, will be in Carrizozo on Tuesday, Jan. 18, 12:30 p.m., at the Zia Center. Next day he will be at the Capitan center at 12:30 p.m. Yates will speak on "Intergenerational Relationships." In simple words — how the different generations deal with each other and understanding of the differences.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

James Luera and Jeanne Wintermute of Albuquerque became engaged Dec. 27. The couple was honored that day at a reception in Albuquerque given by Jeanne's parents.

James is the son of Flavia Luera and brother of Liz and Margaret, all of Carrizozo. They attended the reception, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Tino Lopez also of Carrizozo; and Tino Lopez Jr. of Espanola.

James, former Carrizozo resident, is employed at Albuquerque City Bank. His fiancée is employed as a secretary in an attorney's office.

Mountaineers win classic

The Reserve Mountaineers captured first place in the 7th Annual Smokey Bear classic by taking a 62-61 win over the Dexter Demons. This was the fourth year in a row that the Mountaineers have taken home the championship. The Reserve girls also won their division, downing Dexter 34-30. Reserve used their height advantage to take an early lead but the smaller Dexter team fought back with a late game rally that just fell short. Dexter reached the finals by upsetting host Capitan 53-46. The Tigers edged Hagerman 63-57 in overtime to grab third place. Capitan played the first two games without leading scorer Robert Parker, out with an injury. Grady Eldridge and Danny Cummins played well for the Tigers and both were named to the all tournament team. The Tigerettes defeated Magdalena 49-38 to win third place in the girls bracket, as Tracy Herd led the way with 10 points. Shelley Eldridge played her usual good floor game, and was selected to the girls all tourney team. Capitan scores were:

Boys

- Tigers 64 Mountainair 47
 - Tigers 48 Dexter 53
 - Tigers 63 Hagerman 67
- Girls
- Tigerettes 48 Mountainair 22
 - Tigerettes 33 Dexter 44
 - Tigerettes 49 Magdalena 38

The Tigers host class AAA Ruidoso Friday night and the girls meet Jal at Capitan Saturday.

Carrizozo's girl and boy A basketball teams participated in the classic. The Grizzly boys were consolation winners as they defeated Lake Arthur on the final day, 64-44. On Thursday the Grizzly boys fell to Dexter, 62-44, but on Friday they defeated Mountainair 64-45.

The Reserve Mountaineers captured first place in the both boy and girl divisions. The Reserve boys played Dexter in the championship game with Dexter losing 62-61. The Reserve girls also played Dexter and defeated the Demons 24-30.

The Carrizozo girls lost their opening game of the tournament to Dexter, 49-45. The next day they met Mountainair with Carrizozo defeating them 36-43. On the final day the Grizzly girls played Hagerman for the consolation game. Hagerman came out on top, 33-29.

Three of Carrizozo's players were named to the all-tournament team. Christetta Chavez, Alex

Serna and Timmy Vega were presented with a Smokey Bear All-Tournament trophy.

Ten players were placed on both the boy and girl All-Tournament teams. The other boy All-Tournament team members were: Kieth Cannon (Lake Arthur), James Christenson (Reserve), Danny Cummins (Capitan), Grady Eldridge (Capitan), Duayne Larsen (Reserve), Alfred Martinez (Hagerman), William Reid (Dexter), and Troy Thacker (Reserve).
